NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 23.—Work on the trolley was temporarily suspended yesterday and little progress was made in consequence. Manager Sebring, of the electric light company, however, keeps moving and is rapidly getting the new poles in position.

Rev. Mr. Skellinger, of Washington, D. C., preached two very interesting sermons last Sunday at the Presbyterian church. He is accompanied by his wife, and yesterday they were entertained by Mrs. Anne Dunham, of Church street.

Miss Jane McAllister, of Camden, who has been visiting Miss Florence Mallory, of New York, has returned to the borough to spend a few days with Mrs. Bowyer, her aunt. She will return home this week.

Rev. A. I. Martine and bride will return next Thursday from their honeymoon, and the members of the Presbyterian church will give them a reception next Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Fredericks, and Master Clarence Tucker, of Church street, spent Sunday in North Plainfield with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rugg, of Fairview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dunham, of Anniston, Ala., who are visiting borough relatives, will leave next Thursday for Asbury Park, where they will remain for a time.

Miss Ora Van Buskirk has returned to her at Bayonne, after spending several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. Edward Williams.

Only the Sunday-school session was held last Sunday at the M. E. church. There will be preaching services next Sunday.

The Misses Barins, of Washington avenue, entertained company from out of town over Sunday.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Washington avenue, has returned from a visit with out-of-town friends.

Mrs. James McElvar, of Washington avenue, has returned from a visit with Brooklyn friends.

Miss Titsworth, of Prospect avenue, has returned from a visit with Plainfield friends.

Wallie Beekman, of Centreville, is spending a few days at his home on Front street.

Fred Nelson, of Basking Ridge, was the guest of relatives and friends yesterday.

Mrs. Harry Terry, of Church street, was the guest of friends in New York yesterday.

Miss Edith Carroll, of Bayonne, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Lottie Taylor.

Miss Julia Fern, of Brooklyn, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Julia Loughlin.

Frank Bowyer, of New York, spent Sunday in town with his mother.

Postmaster Coriell was in New York on business yesterday.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 23—Fanwood Council, No. 744. B. A., meet in their rooms this evening.

Mr. George Schick, the village barber, wishes to inform his friends that there is no truth in the report, appearing in the Courier-News Saturday evening, that he has bought a business in Jersey City and will shortly move. Mr. Schick is satisfied with Scotch Plains and its people and has no intention of moving.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, and George Hunter, of Catskill, N. Y., were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Paff, Jr.

Christopher Sohl, who has been visiting relatives and friends through this section for a week, returns today to his home in Boston.

Mrs. Henry Johnston, of Tenafly, is spending a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Morey have returned from their summer outing with relatives in Syracuse and Brooklyn.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff occupied his pulpit in the Methodist church Sunday after a five weeks vacation.

Miss Mamie Merceir, of Plainfield, spent Monday and Tuesday with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rose, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Charles Ball has returned from a visit with friends in Kingston, N. Y.

Frank Gotlick, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Miss Anna Mills, of Newark, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Miss Bella Merceir visited her sister in Plainfield Sunday.

John Stillger spent Sunday with friends out of town.

Robert Snyder visited relatives in Plainfield Sunday.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, August 23.—The Lincoln school property on Ross place is being much improved by the Board of Education. Alfred Berner has the contract to enlarge the play grounds and put the grounds in good condition. This will include the trimming of all the trees on the property and the setting out of new plants.

There was a hot time on Spring street yesterday morning when Sylever Faraone attempted to move his household goods from the house owned by John Capitell where he has lived for some time. As the landlord refused to allow him to move Faroane sent for Judge Hart, who found that Capitell claimed $4 was due him for rent. He got that amount and tendered it to the landlord but he refused to accept it. Faraone then put his goods on a wagon and started off but Capitell pulled a stove off the wagon and this started a fight which was stopped by the arrival of the Judge on the scene again.

The lawn fete given by the ladies of the Cranford Branch of the Red Cross Society last week netted them $300, which will be used in caring for the sick and wounded soldiers.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Alexander Kane, of Cottage place, will leave for Steven's Point Wednesday to spend ten days' vacation.

Attorney I. L. Brady, of the First National Bank building, is spending his vacation at Greenwood Lake.

Marshal Schenck, of the borough, went on duty last evening for the first after returning from his vacation.

Mrs. Jonathan Doty, of Elmwood place, who has been enjoying a needed rest in the country, has returned home.

Fred Hargraves, of Somerset street, went to the Catskill Mountains last Sunday to bring his wife and family home.

The young daughter of Levi Bird, of Harmony street, who is ill with diphtheria, is reported as being improved.

Collector George F. Brown, of the borough, and Mrs. Brown, will return this week from the Adirondack Mountains.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of Lincoln place, have returned from a pleasant sojourn in the Adirondack Mountains.

Harold Davis, of Kensington avenue, who is staying in Roseville, spent Sunday with Thomas U. Smith, of Westervelt avenue.

J. P. Hutchison, of J. H. Leggett's pharmacy, has returned from Eastport, Me., where he has been on a two weeks' vacation.

R. E. Speer, of Elizabeth, who preached at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday, was the guest of Councilman and Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows, of West Eighth street, while he was in the city.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Ernest Hogan, "Black Patti's Troubadours" leading comedian, is credited with being responsible for more laughter than any comedian of the present time. He is the greatest comedian of his color, and if it were not for the accident of race he would by reason of his talent command as much public attention as that accorded to Nat Goodwin or Francis Wilson. As it is, Hogan is perfectly content with his condition and surroundings and sayings. As a rule star artists are supported by inferior performers, but in this instance "Black Patti" has reversed the order of things by having only the very best available talent in her company, which has doubtless contributed materially to its phenomenal success. The company appears in Music Hall Wednesday night.

Wants a Seperation.

Mrs. George Hughes, of Manning avenue, has applied to the courts for a decree of separation from her husband. Senator Reed is her counsel.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

Miss Jennie Simpson, of Craig place, is home from Asbury Park.

Miss Foley, of Brooklyn, is visiting Miss Rogers, of East Third street.

Mr. Ross, of New York, is visiting friends in this city for a few days.

Mayor Wilson, of the borough, was out of town yesterday on business.

Miss Smith, of White's dry goods store, is now enjoying her vacation.

J. M. Titsworth, of West Seventh street, is stopping at Noyes Beach, R. I.

Mrs. W. A. Wilson, of Grove street, has entirely recovered from her recent illness.

Miss Clara Woodward, of Norwood avenue, is home after a sojourn at Newport.

Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Peeke, of East Millstone, were visitors in Plainfield yesterday.

Miss Jennie Simpson, of this city, has returned from a pleasant stay at Asbury Park.

Frank Blatz, of Somersat street, has returned from an outing at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Francis Whitely, of Steiner place, seems to be improved from a severe illness.

Howard Spencer, of New York, spent yesterday with his mother, on Manning avenue.

Miss Foxgrove, of Cambridge, Mass., is visiting at the home of J. C. Peck, of Myrtle avenue.

Miss Helen Boice, of East Front street, is entertaining her cousin, Miss Young, of Trenton.

Mrs. P. C. Adams, of Sycamore avenue, is stopping with friends at Nyack-on-the-Hudson.

Will R. Mosher, of Madison avenue, has returned after spending his vacation at Andover, N. Y.

Mrs. W. H. Williams, of Madison avenue, has returned from a vacation spent at Monroe, N. Y.

D. E. Titsworth and family, of West Seventh street, are spending two weeks in Massachusetts.

Lester Glenny, of Webster place, is spending the summer with relatives near Stockbridge, Mass.

Edgar Sofield and family, of Perth Amboy, spent Sunday at the home of Morgan Stites, of Steiner place.

Benjamin Schenck, of East Fifth street, has returned after spending several months at Asbury Park.

Henry L. McGee, of Orchard avenue, Washington Park, is spending his vacation in the Adirondacks.

Among the guests registered at the Octagon, Seabright, are Mrs. William Smith and Miss Smith, of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs D E. Davis, of East Fifth street, have returned after spending their vacation at Southold, L. I.

The Misses Katherine and Adelaide Baxter, of Putnam avenue, are spending some time at Warwick, N. Y.

Francis J. Blatz and William Kitchen, are back from Asbury Park where they have been spending a few days.

John Biers, who has been summering at the Mountain Park Inn, has gone to Warwick, N. Y, for several weeks.

Ernest MacGregor, of Minneapolis, has returned home after a visit with Charles Whital, Jr., of East Second stroet.

Williard M. Miner, of East Sixth street, has returned after spending a few days in Brewster, N. Y., with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. VanDeventer, of East Fifth street, have returned after a short sojourn at New Rochelle.

J. T. MacMurray, city clerk, started on his vacation Saturday and he left for Asbury Park to join his wife, who is stopping there.

Harry McDonald, of East Front street, has returned after spending his vacation of a week amid the pleasures of Asbury Park.

Mrs. T. I. Runyon and daughter, Miss Emily, of West Fourth street, have returned from Asbury Park, where they were for two weeks.

Miss Robinson, of Wellesley College, who is spending her summer with relatives at New Brunswick, is now the guest of her room-mate, Miss Edith L. Burt, of West Sevanth street.

Miss Jennie Foster, of New York, who is spending a part of the summer at the home of her uncle, D. N. Groendyke, of Mercer avenue, has returned from Woodstock, Vt., where she has been spending a few weeks.

Society notes from Seabright give among the new arrivals at the Normandie by the-Sea, the names of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Barnaby and Miss Evans, from Plainfield avenue, with this additional comment: "They have a fine team of horses and several traps with them."

IT'S THE KODAK —One of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:36 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:40 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—Housekeepers will find excellent Jersey cantalope at Neuman Brothers.

—Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M., will hold a regular communication tonight.

—Minerva Temple, Rathbone Sisters, will hold its regular session tonight.

—One week from this evening Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting.

—Peter M. Peterson, of New Front street, has secured a position as motorman on the trolley cars.

—Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., met last night and worked the third degree on two candidates.

—Fine Jersey peaches for canning or table use are to be had at Neuman Brothers. Prices are moderate.

—A. Kane, of this city, has secured the contract to lay 560 feet of stone walk about Muhlenberg Hospital.

—Neuman Brothers are making a specialty this summer on their fruits and vegetables, all of the finest quality.

—The prayer and praise meeting at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening will be led by Deacon L. W. Randolph.

—Next Sunday afternoon, Rev. Charles L. Dunn, of Freeport, Ill., will give an address at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting.

—Clifford Braider will lead the prayer and praise meeting at the First Baptist church next Friday evening at the regular Christian Endeavor service.

—Rev. J. E Groves, of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, of West Fourth street, will preach a special sermon to the Helping Hand Society of the church Sunday evening.

—Mrs. L. Adams, the East Front street milliner, states that she is selling off the remaining summer stock at very low prices in order to make room for her new fall stock, which will arrive in a few days.

Inspected the Oregon.

John J. Kenney, of East Second street, was among the visitors who went on board the battleship Oregon in the New York bay Sunday. Mr. Kenney and his party made the acquaintance of Coxswain John Costello, a nephew of P Casey, who showed them every attention in their inspection of the vessel.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 11 30 eod 1y

Tingley Family Reunion.

Next Thursday the annual Tingley family reunion will be held on the David Blackford farm, South Plainfield.

One Bottle

of our

Vanilla, Orange, or Lemon

from your grocer will be sufficient to make you our customer.

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's.

Another large shipment of

MALT EXTRACT

has just been received. The nutritious properties of this Malt Extract has brought it forth as one of the best aids to restore vitality to the system.

20c per Bottle. $2.00 per Dozen.

REMEMBER! Randolph's Ice Cream Soda—Oh, how delicious!

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE, AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,

UNDERTAKERS,

No. 402 Park Ave. Tel. 40.

Office open night and day.

OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,

UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,

200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.

OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,

UNDERTAKER.

Residence and office 59 Somerset St.

TELEPHONE 248 B.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

TO RENT—Furnished rooms, with all improvements. 323 East Second street. 8 23 1w

FINE fresh cow for sale. D. W. Groendyke, 91 Mercer avenue. 8 23 2 t-f

TO LET—Nine room house, 705 LaGrande avenue. Inquire 705 Berckman street. 8 23 3

LOST—A lady's gold watch. Reward for its return to Press office. 8 23 2

WANTED—Respectable protestant woman to assist in general housework, small family, plain cooking, good home, right person will be treated as one of the family. Address Bess, care Press. 8 23 2

WANTED—A first-class cook, colored; for one month. Apply on Wednesday, at 151 East Seventh street. 8 23 2

WANTED—Good white girl for general housework, small family. 115 West Fourth street.

YOUNG married couple would like to secure quiet boarding place at reasonable terms. Address D. O. C., care of Press office, stating terms, accomidations, etc. 8 23 3

HORSE for sale sorrel mare, gentle and kind, suitable for lady or doctor. No reasonable offer refused; or will let for a good home and keeping. Enquire 1266 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. 8 23 2 eod

GIRL wanted, for general housework, must have city reference, no washing, but help with plain ironing, no objection to color. Address Housework, care Press.

TO LET—6 room house, 315 Richmond street. Enquire of Thomas Callahan, Cor. Richmond and Third streets. 7 28 tf eod

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, Attorney. cor. Park and North Aves. 12 11 eod tf

FLATS and stores to let in new Stillman building. 6 21 eod tf

LOST—On Saturday, August 20th, from No. 111 East Sixth street, a small male Fox terrier A suitable reward will be offered if returned. 8 22 2

ANYONE wanting a good cook and upstairs girl call at 213 West Third street. 8 22 2

FOR SALE—New house, has desirable location; ten rooms and bath; leased for the year at good rental, part cash, balance mortgage. Address P. W. T., care Press. 8 22 6

WANTED—Light two seat surrey or phæton, for cash. Belcher, 110 East Fifth street. 8 22 2

WANTED—Girl for general housework, colored. At 826 First Place. 8 20 3

FOR SALE Reasonably; Large bay horse, suitable for any work. Apply 810 Central Ave. 8 16 tf

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT, AUGUST 24, 1898.

First appearance of the world-famous and unrivaled

Black Patti Troubadours.

The greatest colored show on earth, and the biggest theatrical hit of the century. Greeted everywhere by applauding multitudes. Fifty ecstacies in Ebony who have set the entire world singing their fascinating and melodious coon ballads. A joyous blending of song, story and dance, by the merriest people under the sun. A veritable revelation! Coon comedy, coon songs, jubilee shouts, cake walks, buck dances, vaudeville, operatic reviews.

BLACK PATTI

and her fifty promoters of mirth and melody, are the features of this universally popular company. The stage performance is the quintessence of refined fun and sweet melody and is intended for the enjoyment of all.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

ANNUAL

EXCURSION

of the

Warren Chapel Sunday-school,

THURSDAY, AUGUST 25th,

To Ocean Grove.

TICKETS—Adults, $1.25. Children, 90c.

Train leaves Plainfield at 8 a. m. Returning, leaves the Grove at 5:50 p. m.

Baggage car attached for bicycles, baby carriages, etc. 8 18 6

The Only Place

to buy

Huyler's

is

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

Smalley Bros.

THE OLD RELIABLE ESTABLISHED

BUTCHERS,

144 NORTH AVE.

Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

E. S. F. RANDOLPH.

DRUGGIST,

Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.

PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

30 000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,

206 Park Avenue.

8 15 tf Plainfield.

Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., August 15, 1898.

Anderson Miss E	Millston Miss W E
Broughton Dr J G	Otto Mr C G
Carmicheal Mrs A	Paga Miss H M
Cobb Miss M	Phillip Mr W
Cook Miss M E	Read Mrs M M
Davis Mrs S	Reiley Mr J E
Downes Miss M	Robinson Miss Fannie
Dune Mrs C	Robbins Mrs J R
Fahy Miss K	Robbins Mrs
Felch Mrs G	Runyon Mrs J R
Finey Mr T	Ryder Geo W "M D"
Furry Mrs	Smith Mrs L
Hendson Mrs C	Sulio Mr Carlos
Johnson Mr J Aug	Staples Miss C
Johnson Miss M A	Tanner Mr W J
Jones Mr Thos	Terry Edward
Kelly Mr Jos	Waller Mr W
Kuhn Mrs S	Williams Mrs M E
Kuldesher Mr V	Wilson Mamie
Layton Miss C L	Winslow Mr Chas
Lasker Mr R	Odman Miss L
Leicht A P	Davis Mr Chas
Maloney Mrs

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

August Selling.

There is no month in the year to compare with it in the economy of its offerings. With makers' profits gone there is a bed rock of values struck such as would be impossible under ordinary conditions.

Shirt Waists.

The largest purchase we leave ever made, our entire stock of the best manufacturer in New York City, twenty-five hundred waists that a month ago would have sold for $1.50 and $2.00 each, will be put on sale tomorrow 49c each.

Turkish Wash Cloths 2c each, value 5c.
" " " 3c " " 7c.
Extra heavy Crochet Quilts 69c each, value $1.25.
Extra heavy Marseilles Quilts $1.75, value $3.
Extra heavy Marseilles quilts $1.98 each, value $3.50.
Fine Portiere Curtains 98c each, value $2.
Fancy Table Covers 39c each, value 75c.
Extra heavy Turkish Towels, price 13c each, value 22c.
Extra Heavy Turkish Towels, price 15c each, value 30c.
Extra Heavy Turkish Towels, price 30c each, value 50c.
Ten Quarter All Wool California Blankets, price $2 40 pair, value $5.00.
Fancy Colored Linen Table Covers, 49c each, value $1.00.
Ten Quarter Fancy Linen Table Covers, 79c each, value $1 40.
Twelve Quarter, 89c each, value $1.75.
German Turkey Red Table Covers, Ten Quarter, $1.10 each, value $2.00.
Ten Quarter all Linen Table Covers with One Dozen Napkins to match, $2 10 set, value $3.50.
Twelve Quarter all linen Table Covers with one dozen Napkins to match, $2.25 set, value $4.00.
18 in. all linen Birds Eye, 95c piece, value $1.50.
20 in. all linen Birds Eye, $1 10 piece, value $1.75.
Hemstiched linen Doylies, 5c each, value 10c.
Hemstiched linen Doylies, 10c each, value 20c.
18 in. Embroidery Linen, 9c yard, value 15c.
40 in. Embroidery Linen, 29c yard, value 60c.
22x42 extra heavy hemmed Huck Towels, 19c each, value 30c.
20x40 Huck Towels, 18c each, value 25c.
22x44 Huck Towels, 21c each, value 35c.
54 in. Pillow Case Linen, 42c yard, value 75c.
42 in. Pillow Case Linen, 37c yard, value 60c.
Extra large Marsailles Quilts that cost $4.00 to import, $2.49.
50 in. Tapestry for furniture covering, 23c yard, value 50c.
16-inch Damask Stair Crash, all linen, 11c yard, value 18c.
20-inch same, 14c, value 20c.
Ten quarter Damask Floor Crash, all linen, 39c yard, value $1.
Damask Floor Cloths, size 3 yards by 4 yards, $1.98 each, value $5.
All linen Dinner Napkins 7c each, value 10c.
All linen Dinner Napkins 10c each, value 13c.
All linen Glass Toweling 8c yard, value 12c.
All linen Twilled Crash 7c yard, value 10c.
36-inch Butchers' Linen 15c yard, value 35c.
36-inch Shirting Linen 25c yard, value 50c.
Extra heavy all linen Crash 11c yard, value 18c.

Edward White.

CONSIDER THE HOG.

AN INDUSTRY WHICH DESERVES SOME CREDIT FOR OUR PROSPERITY.

In the Last Packing Year 20,000,000 Hogs Passed Through the Western Establishments, Coming Out in 3,333,333,333 lbs. of Lard, Pork, Ribs and Hams.

It is decidedly unfair to an industry with which the name of Chicago is inseparably linked and to an animal whose rotund and bristly back bears no small share of the burden of western economy to attribute all credit for the country's financial salvation to the wheat field and the corn field, says the Chicago Daily News.

No possible grouping of figures in respect to the yield, price and exports of grain is more striking and important in accounting for the great economic advance of the agricultural classes than the statistics of the hog industry are.

It is true that the country enjoyed an unusually large yield of wheat and corn for which greatly advanced prices were received. But consider the hog!

In the packing year, which ended this spring, 20,000,000 hogs passed through western establishments and came out in 3,333,333,333 1-3 pounds of lard, pork, ribs and hams. No such figures were ever before presented as a result of a single year's hog manufacture in this country. The largest previous total was in the year 1896-97, when 17,000,000 hogs were packed in the west, yielding 2,812,000,000 pounds of product. For the hogs packed in the last year $175,000,000 was paid, an increase of $40,000,000 over the cost of the hogs packed in the preceding year. In the last calendar year 1,453,000,000 pounds of hog product were exported, against 1,183,000,000 pounds in the preceding year—last year's total being the largest ever recorded. And the exports so far in this calendar year have been ahead even of last year. The treasury department report for April shows $53,800,000 worth of hog products exported in the four months of 1898, which compares with $98,600,000 worth of breadstuffs and $87,300,000 worth of cotton. That is, the exports of hog products equaled 54 per cent. of the grain and flour exports and 60 per cent. of the cotton exports.

And this increased production and sale of hog products has gone on in conjunction with a rise in price relatively as important as that which has taken place in the wheat and corn markets. King corn and king cotton and king wheat are entitled to due praise, but do not overlook the imperial hog.

Guam, the Forbidden.

The developments of war have brought into the possession of the United States the Spanish islands of the Ladrones, just to the eastward of the Philippines, and the end has arrived for a maritime fiction long held in honor in all ports of Asia and Australia. Every year thousands of vessels clear at custom houses for Guam, yet none ever goes there—none, in fact, ever meant to go there. Guam has always seemed such a legal fiction that few have ever taken thought that there is such a place, and fewer yet have investigated the reason why it is a maritime Tom Tiddler's ground.

When a ship clears for a certain place it must go to that place by the shortest route of sailing, gale and wreck excepted, and any failure calls for an explanation. Yet there often arise cases where it is of advantage not to declare the port of destination; it may be that thus a skipper may avoid being bothered with a mail, or it may be that business rivalry seeks to conceal some point of good trade. In such cases the vessel clears for Guam, and sails away to its secret destination. Although there is a Guam upon the charts the vessels which have cleared for it never lay a course in its direction, and the law is none the less satisfied. How it is possible that Guam can be such a port is based on the old traditions of Spanish exclusiveness in the Indies, both East and West. It has only been as a result of superior force that the Spaniards have opened the Indies to trade, and this century was well advanced before the last of the old restrictions was removed. By some chance the Ladrones were not included, and in accordance with the laws of the Indies every vessel calling there without Spanish leave is forfeited. The penalty of the law has not been exacted for many years, but the existence of the law has made possible the legal fiction of clearing for Guam. As soon as the American forces took possession of this archipelago the laws of the Indies ceased to have effect, and Guam lost its peculiar distinction.

Railroad in Arctic Zone.

A railway is projected to extend entirely across Northern Sweden and Norway from the northern end of the Gulf of Finland to Ofoten on the Atlantic, about 120 miles north of the Arctic circle. A part of the route is formed by an old line built for carrying iron ore, and Sweden proposes to extend it 148 miles to the Norwegian border at a point only twenty-five miles from Ofoten. At the other end of the new line is to connect with a line in Finland, down the east coast of the gulf of Finland, from the Finish border to Ofoten; the length of the line will be just 300 miles. The Swedish line is estimated to cost about £1,200,000, and it is to be built largely for strategic reasons.

Sniff—Well, how do you like living in Chicago?

Snarle—Oh! just middlin'. The fly got in our wheat, and the dry weather is fairly raisin' Cain. There's to be a meetin' at the City Hall next week to discuss some plan to irrigate the South side.

THE FIRST WAR TROPHY.

It is the Castilian Flag Which Floated Over the Cavite Forts at Manila.

The first war trophy captured from Spain is possessed by Hon. William E. Mason, United States senator from Illinois. It is the Castilian flag which floated defiantly from the heights of the Cavite forts and arsenal at Manila on May 1, in the face of Admiral Dewey's squadron.

After the bombardment and surrender the flag was taken by a body of marines from the Olympia, and shortly thereafter the crew in a body sent the flag to Senator Mason in recognition of his manly and patriotic denunciations of Spanish intrigue and treachery in the destruction of the battleship Maine. The flag, accompanied by the following letter from the Olympia's crew, reached Senator Mason in Chicago:

"United States Flagship Olympia,)
"Cavite, Philippine Islands, May 12, '98.)
"To the Honorable W. E. Mason, Senator, Illinois, United States of America:

"Sir:—Please accept the accompanying Spanish flag in the name of the ship's company of the United States flagship Olympia.

"This flag was taken (after the destruction of the Spanish fleet) from the forts and arsenal at Cavite after the bombardment and surrender, Manila Bay, May 1, 1898.

FLAG OF CAVITE.

"This is sent as a token of our esteem for your patriotic utterances in Congress with regard to the Maine disaster, which sentiments find a ready echo in the heart of every bluejacket serving under the Star Spangled Banner.

"Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

(Signed for the ship's company).

"J. S. ECKSTROM, Chief Master of Arms.

"W. W. CREAGH, Chief Yeoman."

The flag is ten by fourteen feet in length, having in the centre the coat of arms of castile with the lion rampant and the castle tower. The bars are three feet wide, two red, the centre being of a faded yellow. The flag is rent in numerous places from pieces of bursting shells and rifle bullets, while the bunting is dimmed here and there by blotches of Spanish blood.

General Miles.

A splendid physique enables Gen. Miles still to enjoy all outdoor sports and exercises. He is a superb rider, sitting his horse with the graceful ease of a cowboy, and a lover of the chase, especially after the big game of the plains; yet he does not disdain, together with his charming wife (a niece of the late Gen. Sherman) to sit astride of the irrepressible wheel, which he has encouraged and popularized for military purposes.

It is in the field that Gen. Miles shows himself the truest soldier. Quick, alert, fearless, and untiring, he imparts much of his admirable enthusiasm to all of his subordinates, from whom he exacts and obtains the most thorough and conscientious effort. He has been fortunate, it is true, but even ill luck could never have kept down a man of his capacity, invention and indefatigable energy. The civil war gave him the needed opportunity, and the Hispano-American war no doubt will crown his eventful career with added lustre and lasting glory. His recent study upon the ground of European military systems must have admirably supplemented a long course of professional reading, thought and training. Nowhere, perhaps, has he given greater evidence of his ability for important command than in his prudent insistence upon the invasion of Cuba by a large, fully equipped, well drilled and disciplined army. In this stand so freely criticised The Criterion says his reasons have been military rather than hygienic, and they have been heartily indorsed by authorities no less eminent than Lord Wolseley and the distinguished German experts, Gens. Hoenig, Von Elpons and Boguslawski.

The World's Largest Locomotive.

Material has been ordered by the Santa Fe for the largest locomotive ever built. The engine has been designed for mountain climbing, and it is said that the big Player engines and those built for the Santa Fe by the Dickson Locomotive Works will be but playthings when compared with this giant locomotive.

The engine will be built by the locomotive department of the Santa Fe shops in this city. Among its features will be a boiler built of one-inch boiler steel and cylinders whose dimensions will be 12 by 32 inches. It will have no "pops," as they will not be required. No fireman living would be able to build a fire that would create enough steam to burst the boiler of this mogul. The engine will have ten drivers, and it is estimated that it will be able to haul a third larger load than any engine the Santa Fe now has.

It is not known just when this greatest of moguls will be completed, as the material for its construction has just been ordered, but it will not be until some time late in the summer or early in the fall.

AROUND THE WORLD

CAPTAIN SLOCUM IN A THIRTY FOOT BOAT DOES THE FEAT.

Starting From Boston in April, 1895 He Returns in July the Following Year—Had Sailed in Ships a Quarter of a Century, in All Probably 46,000 Miles.

Flying the Stars and Stripes, the Spray, Captain Joshua Slocum's thirty-foot lugger rigged craft, arrived in Newport Harbor early one July morning, 1898, after a trip around the world. She was seventeen days from Antigua, West Indies, and intended to make New York as the first home port, but off Fire Island she encountered a thunder storm which forced her into Newport.

Captain Slocum, alone in his boat, left Boston on April 24, 1895, and since he has sailed the world over. The Spray is a twelve-ton boat, thirty feet long. To secure seagoing qualities she has considerable breadth of beam. Captain Slocum says his trip has no equal in history.

On sailing from Boston the Spray touched at Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, then Horta and Fayal, reaching Gibraltar in twenty-nine days from Cape Sable. The Atlantic was then recrossed to Brazil, thence to the Pacific, touching the principal ports on the way. Crossing the Pacific, Captain Slocum went to Juan Fernandez, where he visited the cave of Robinson Crusoe, Samoa, Melbourne, New South Wales, Tasmania and thence through the Torney Straits to the East Indies was then his course, thence to Rodriguez, Martinique, and Natal and Cape Town, South Africa.

Christmas off the Cape of Good Hope was passed in a blow that nearly tore the Spray to pieces. Captain Slocum was entertained by the Cape Town Railroad Company. In Pretoria, while the guest of President Kruger, Captain Slocum learned of the blowing up of the Maine.

The Spray left Cape Town March 26 last, going to St. Helena and Ascension. He reached Grenada on June 2 last. Off the coast of Brazil, near the mouth of the Amazon, Captain Slocum sighted the Oregon going north with a rush.

Captain Slocum undertook the trip through love of adventure. He is fifty-five years old and returned in perfect health. His method was to run at night and sleep during the day, that the Spray might be seen and avoided. He never met an accident.

Captain Slocum hailed from Gloucester, Mass., and has sailed out of Boston and New York for a quarter of a century. He estimates that he has navigated 46,000 miles of seas. In the rocker keeled boat, the Liberdale, with his wife and two sons, Captain Slocum a few years ago rounded the Horn.

Load of Oil Barrels.

Oil barrels are painted, some of them red and some of them blue. In shades of color and degrees of brightness individual barrels vary according to the freshness of their paint and the wear and exposure to which they have been subjected since painting. There is nothing very remarkable about a single oil barrel, but what with their different colors and shades a great number of oil barrels together may form an object of decided attraction.

Such, for instance, was a lighter load of oil barrels seen on the East River. It was a big lighter with square ends. The great mass of barrels, thousands of them piled symmetrically, was oblong at the base, the sides sloping inward as they rose, to meet in a ridge running lengthwise of the lighter, high above its deck, and halfway up the tall mast that rose above its centre. The ends of this great oblong pile sloped back at the same angle as the sides, and at each end a shorter mast appeared through the pile. These two shorter masts were of equal length, and they stood at equal distances from the tall mast at the middle, so that this great square-ended lighter, with nothing whatever graceful in its proportions, was yet with its load and its fittings an object of perfect symmetry.

And seen thus, with three clear white masts rising above the pyramidal mound of red and blue, whose different colors and various shades formed a great mosaic, softened by the distance, the lighter load of oil barrels in tow of a tug became very easily one of the most picturesque of the many interesting things to be seen on a busy waterway.

A New Artificial Stone.

A Scotch firm is manufacturing an artificial stone which is said to stand every test and to be impervious to all vagaries of the weather. The process is a simple one, and the ingredients of the stone, chiefly lime and sand, are not expensive commodities, so that it is believed that the artificial product will be able to compete with the real. The lime and sand, having been thoroughly incorporated, are passed into molding boxes, which may be of any convenient size or shape, and these are placed within the converter. Water at high pressure and having a high temperature is then pumped into the converter to cause the necessary chemical union between the lime and sand, and the molding boxes are also submitted to a temperatupre of about 400 degrees Fahrenheit by the action of superheated steam. In about thirty hours the surplus water is run off, but the heat is continued, in order to remove moisture from the molding boxes, for another nineteen hours. The boxes are then removed from the converter and the stone within them is practically ready for use.

Experiments are now in progress from which it is hoped that other products of nature's laboratory, such as slate and marble, will presently be sucessfully imitated.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Hier wurde unter zahlreicher Betheiligung von auswärts der internationale Chemikerkongreß abgehalten.—Der sehr bekannte und geachtete praktische Arzt Dr. Wilhelm von Griendl hat Selbstmord begangen.—In dem Vorort Hernals ist der deutschnationale Turnverein wegen politischer Umtriebe aufgelöst worden.

Brünn. Ein gewisser Adalbert Jilge, der kürzlich aus den Ver. Staaten zurückkehrte, hat Selbstmord begangen.

Budapest. Die Waarenmagazine der Neupester Jutespinnerei sind vollständig niedergebrannt. Der Schaden wird auf 500,000 Gulden geschätzt, ist jedoch durch Versicherung gedeckt.—Dieser Tage wurden hier mehrere Mädchen verhaftet, die Mitglieder einer hier, in Wien, Dresden und München befindlichen und vornehmlich in Modewaaren operirenden internationalen Diebesbande sein sollen.

Graz. Unbekante Thäter durchsägten die in den Hilmteichanlagen gepflanzte Bismarck-Eiche, trotzdem dieselbe durch ein doppeltes, zwei Meter hohes Eisengitter geschützt war.

Hermannstadt. Hier tödtete der Hauptmann im Generalstabe Ritter Alexander Wasserthal den Dragoner-Oberlieutenant Garibold, den er in seinem Hause im vertrauten Gespräch mit seiner Gemahlin antraf, mit Säbelhieben.

Innsbruck. Daß die Blitzableiter auf den alpinen Schutzhäusern öfter einer Prüfung unterworfen werden sollten, beweist wiederum ein Vorfall, der sich auf dem „Helm" zugetragen hat. Bei einem furchtbaren Unwetter in den letzten Tagen schlug der Blitz in das Helmschutzhaus (2450 Meter) der Sektion Sillian des Alpenvereins. Die Pächtersleute lagen bereits im Bette, als das Gewitter losbrach. Ein Blitz traf das Haus und fuhr in das Schlafzimmer der beiden Leute. Sie wurden Beide schwer verletzt, jedoch ist Hoffnung vorhanden, sie am Leben zu erhalten.

Werschelz. Neulich Abends wüthete hier ein heftiger Sturm mit Hagel. Durch den Orkan wurde eine Wand der Honvedkaserne umgeworfen; in Folge dessen stürzte das Dach ein. Ein Hauptmann wurde schwer verletzt, zwei Honveds wurden getödtet, zwei tödtlich verletzt und mehrere schwer verwundet.

Schweiz.

Bern. Die für die nächste Zeit in Aussicht genommene Eröffnung der Strecke der Jüngfraubahn bis zum Eigergletscher mußte in Folge eines an der bereits für Materialtransport verwendeten elektrischen Lokomotive eingetretenen Defektes bis auf Weiteres verschoben werden, da eine zweite elektrische Lokomotive noch nicht am Plaz ist.—Neulich in der Frühe brannte das Hotel auf der Schynigenplatte bei Interlaken ab. Alle Bewohner konnten sich retten. Ein seltsamer Zufall wollte es, daß am gleichen Tage der Erbauer der Schynigenplattenbahn Ingenieur Pümpin im Krematorium zu Zürich bestattet wurde.

Zürich. Aus Zürich entfloh der als lyrischer Dichter bekannte Maurice Reinhold v. Stern, ein geborener Livländer, der dort eine Buchhandlung betrieb, unter Hinterlassung zahlreicher Gläubiger. Auch Weib und Kind hat Stern zurückgelassen. Man vermuthet, daß er sich nach Amerika gewandt hat, wo er sich bereits einmal mehrere Jahre aufgehalten hat.

Schwyz. Die Gattin Werner Stauffachers soll in unserem Kanton ein Denkmal erhalten. Auf Veranlassung eines Berner Damenkomites hat der Bildhauer Leu einen Denkmalsentwurf ausgearbeitet, der demnächst einer Sachverständigen-Kommission vorgelegt werden wird.

Glarus. Am 24. Juli ist der 2910 Meter hohe Glärnisch von etwa 20 Touristen erstiegen worden.

Graubünden. In Misox ist der Bergführer Johann J. Fontana im Alter von 84 Jahren gestorben; er war ein gründlicher Kenner der dortigen Gebirge und genoß großes Zutrauen bei den Touristen.—Im Camogaskerthale, das noch fünf Adlerhorste hat, wurden zwei stattliche fast flügge je vier Kilo schwere Steinadler aus ihrem über einen Meter breiten Nest gehoben, das sich in einer beinahe unzugänglichen Höhe in einer hohen Felswand befindet. Währenddem kreisten die alten Adler schreiend in der Luft. Neben den fauchenden Jungen, die sich verzweifelt wehrten, lag eine Menge frisches Gemsfleisch.

Waadt. In Lausanne fand kürzlich die feierliche Enthüllung des zum Andenken an die Soldaten der französischen Ostarmee errichteten Denkmals statt.

Genf. Das Genfer Komite des Leichenverbrennungsvereins hat nach zweijährigen Studien und zahlreichen Unterhandlungen endgiltig den Ingenieur Richard Schneider aus Dresden mit der Anfertigung der Pläne zu einem Krematorium beauftragt. Der Bau wird auf dem Friedhofe von St. Georges erstellt werden. Der Gedanke der Errichtung eines Leichenverbrennungs-Institutes fand hier lange nur geringes Interesse und es brauchte die ganze Zähigkeit des Initiativkomites, um trotz dem Widerstande der Mehrheit der katholischen Bevölkerung das Projekt zur Ausführung zu bringen.

Echoes Far and Near.

Down One Street and up Another, From Every ward in Plainfield.

Hard to hold down the enthusiasm of Plainfield people under such circumstances as those surrounding the work of the little conqueror. There is no place in the world where a good thing is better appreciated than right here at home. We are quick to see it and quick to "push it along" in the manner that it merits. From all parts of the city come the same reports, success follows in every footstep and an investigation of each new case but adds to the endorsement that has gone before and places their claims beyond the shadow of a doubt. This report comes from West Front street the residence of Mrs. Henry Bender, who says:

"My Kidneys have given me more or less trouble for the last five years. I suffered almost constantly from a dull, aching pain across the back and hips. Any hard work always increased the pain. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could get no relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as mine and got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and have gotten great relief from them. I am feeling better now than I have for five years. In my estimation and from my experience, Doan's Kidney Pills are a good, reliable kidney medicine and I have great faith in them and advise others who suffer from kidney troubles to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y, Sole agents for the U.S. Remember the name Doan,s and take no substitute.

We Insure Your Shirts.

We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods" Let us call for your work.

Hillier & Co.,
179 North Avenue.
Telephone 30 M.

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce, with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS AND DECORATORS
141 North Avenue.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

Ladies desiring KNIFE-PLEATING or PINKING done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 20tf

(8) AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED

Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

3 big buildings
—crowded with price-cut goods—
Realize how immense this stock of ours is? Stores run from Market to Campbell—from Campbell to Bank Sts—no limits to your choice—no such amazing price-drops ever listed—even in August! But Fall's lines, soon here, need more floor space than we've got.

All Chairs at bare cost
—don't need to tell you of the name we have for great, varied chair stocks.
12 different sets—no duplicates—dining chairs at half former costs.
50 reed, rattan and wicker rockers—$1.25, $2.50, $3.00.
100 sorts of odd rockers and chairs—palin woods and richly upholstered reds, greens, oak, antiques—$2.50, $3.00, $4,00 and $5.00. All porch and lawn furniture that's left below wholesale.

Cream of City's Carpet Snaps
—this week we'll take the stiffening out of every solitary carpet in this store—many of Fall's weaves have already come—they'll be included.

60c. Very Heavy Ingrains, 39c. yd. Body Brussels, 90c. 85c. All-Wool Ingrains, 65c, yd. Moquettes, 90c. 20 rolls Velvets and Tap Brussels at half. Remnants of choicest patterns—must go—bring room measures with you. Mattings 10c. yd. and up.

"Monarch"
2-hole high, $4.90
—all others that are left to go at same low rates.
"Monarch" Vapor Stoves are the best from A to Z—ask to see the "Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove"—another marvel

$10.75—beveled mirror, rich polished oak, new shape—a $15 sideboard.

Other Sideboards: We put $18 ones at $13; $25 ones at $15; $28 ones at $20; $35 ones at $25; $65 ones at $50—some that were $125 to $100.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St., Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.
LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS.
Note first name "Amos."
Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

E. E. MARSHALL & CO.,
167 NORTH AVE.
Painters and Paper Hangers.
For the next 60 days we will sell
WALL PAPERS
at cost.
Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Picture Mouldings and Glass.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.
177 NORTH AVENUE.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER,
Rapid, Simple, Durable,
IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.
The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address
THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO.,
5 20 4m 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
— DEALERS IN —
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER.
ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER.
169 NORTH AVENUE.
Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phoenix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS,
Dealers in first-class
PIANOS and ORGANS
We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.
221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD. J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.
Madison Avenue and Third Street.
Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.
MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.
SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.
DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order
BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.
FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs, Casings and Stops in stock for sale.
GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.
Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props. Turning and Scroll-sawing.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 50, 7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 22, 5 54, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 9 15, 10 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday, 3 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 9 15, 22 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St. at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturday only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 2 00, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15 a. m.; 12 m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St. at 7 10, 7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 2 25, 3 20, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 2 30, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 8 55 p. m., 12 15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 00, 8 37, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 11 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05, 8 38, 9 03, 10 05 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 32, 5 45, 6 19, 7 35, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01, [2 11 except Saturdays] 2 27, 3 35, 4 36, 5 05, 5 25, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p. m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 06, 9 55, a.m; 2 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 50, 10 18, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 33, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05, 3 20, 4 30, 5 28, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m; 12 35, 1 20, 5 15, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 8 45, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01, 2 27, 5 25, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m; 2 03 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m; 12 32, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m; 6 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For staticns to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, & c with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only] [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m; 1 15, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21, 7 03, 8 45 p. m. Sundays, 8 52 a.m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 32 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p.m Sundays 8 52 a.m

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 09, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 38* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46 a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a.m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 6 38 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
R. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday. "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 7 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02, a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 13 p. m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 6 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. BOLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

A CIRCLE IN THE SAND

BY KATE JORDAN

AUTHOR OF "THE KIES OF GOLD" AND "THE OTHER HOUSE" ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY THE AUTHOR

[CONTINUED.]

CHAPTER XIX.

When David reached home, it was after 8 o'clock. He went at once to the library and touched the bell.

"Has Mrs. Temple gone out yet?" he asked the servant.

"No, sir. Mrs. Temple's dressing. She's almost ready, sir."

"Ask her to stop here on her way out."

He sat down before the fire. The grip of his fingers upon his knees showed nervous intensity, his eyes were strained.

Overhead he heard Olga's light steps. She was busy with puff and powder box, preparing for the part she was to play at the Amateur club that night. The role was comedy. It would be altered after hearing one word from his lips.

He looked restlessly toward the door. After his self communing on the bridge above the never quiet river the stillness of the house was tormenting; it seemed waiting for the crisis; the clock in the shadow beyond the door seemed a soft tongued watcher spying upon him.

Olga would soon come, and he would tell her all. She would suffer bitterly. But he could feel no pity for her, none for himself. He had been eaten by anguish in the foggy night with the river lights around him. Now he felt like a stone.

As he heard Olga's step he rose and faced the door. She came with some light word of greeting on her lips, but it was not spoken, and she remained in an advancing pose, her eyes upon him. They presented a violent contrast, creatures of different worlds, it seemed—Frivolity looking on the face of Pain.

As Lady Teazle Olga wore the gown required for the quarrel scene. Laces and jewels were mysteriously arranged on the stiff pink brocade, her throat was like snow, and so was her high coifed hair; her dreaming eyes were made insinuating by a touch of cosmetic, a touch of carmine was on her cheeks. She was radiant, dainty, alluringly false.

The night dews clung to David. His hair was wet and roughened by his restless fingers. Each feature was sharpened from the rigors of fierce emotion. His sunken eyes, which had scarcely known sleep for a week, were as dull as if blindness had come upon them.

"What has happened?" Olga asked after that long, stupefied look, and there was fear in her eyes. She did not move toward him. Her hand upon the back of a chair seemed a carved part of it.

"I've bad news, Olga."

"Bad news? You speak coolly enough, yet look—oh, how you look! Have you seen a ghost?"

She roused herself and went nearer the fire, but her curious eyes kept watch upon him.

"I have seen a ghost," David said in the same slow tone; "one I've long feared."

"What do you mean? You are ridiculous."

"I faced the ghost of myself, Olga, for a bitter hour tonight"—and he drew her quickly to him—"the ghost of what I must be in the future. It has no likeness to my past or present self. In making its acquaintance I suffered, but I had to accept it, and so must you, dear, so must you."

She paled under her rouge and her eyes were frightened. She let him lift her passive arms and kiss her tenderly, and still by her half dazed glance he knew she was waiting for the confirmation of her fears.

"Do you mean there is nothing left? You own the paper?" she asked impatiently.

"Olga, many fortunes were lost today. Men rich yesterday are poor tonight. My dear, my dear, I'm so sorry for you, so sorry to say it—I am one of them."

"Poor?" the word drawled from her, and she drew away, her brow bent like a child's over a task. He could see the pulse going rapidly in her throat, but other than this she displayed no feeling.

"So we are poor?" she said more emphatically. "Will you tell me about it? I hardly think I realize it. It doesn't seem possible."

She seated herself at the table and took her chin into the embrace of her palm. As she did so the diamonds on her wrists and fingers flashed under her eyes. She spread both hands on her knees and thoughtfully gazed at them. Poor, while these stones made her flesh radiant, and laces holding years of the workers' lives rested under her fingers. It seemed impertinent, impossible. Yet she knew it was true and in her own way faced the inevitable.

"Tell me just what you mean," she said with composure. "What have you lost, and how?"

He went into minute particulars so that no part of the truth should be hidden from her. He told her all as gently as possible, but held out no false hopes. It was an account of irremediable failure.

"And why did you go into these ventures, risk so much?" Olga asked, a judicial light in her eyes.

"In an effort to be too rich," and folding his arms he nodded sadly at her. "You remember the day at Newport," he continued, "when you begged me to leave nothing undone in trying to get back what I'd lost? I tried to keep my promise to you, Olga, and I failed."

"Do you mean there is nothing left? You own the paper?" she asked impatiently, and added with something of desperation, "Don't you own the paper?"

"No, I hold the controlling interest, but I must sell it."

"Why?"

"To pay debts—mine, yours. There are plenty of them."

"And then?"

"Then we'll have to learn courage."

"I mean," she said distinctly, "what will you do after you let The Citizen go? You haven't any tools to sharpen; you haven't any trade to fall back on, have you?"

Instead of noticing the mockery of her voice he said simply:

"Oh, but I have! I've thought it all out. Journalism is my trade. I'll ask for the managing editor's post when I sell out, and I'll get it."

"How interesting, David! What salary goes with that work?"

"Four thousand a year."

She received the words in silence and stared into the fire. David, smarting in the grip of an unshared sorrow, stood like an alien on his own hearth. Never had he read her so successfully. How little he was to her ever—tonight nothing. She had never loved anything in the world except herself. She never would. It was torment to expect from her more than she could give. And yet she was so convincingly fair to believe her cold made nature a liar.

As he watched her his heart grew heavier with a new defeat. She was his wife. At a moment like this they should not sit apart with unspoken thoughts. He no longer dwelt upon her selfishness. He put away the philosophy which counseled him to expect nothing from her. He only knew that to make the dark future bearable they must face it hand in hand. He moved nearer to her, longing to make her meet his eyes and become one with him in soul during this hour of tempest. The impulse shrank back wounded when she looked up and laughed.

"Do you know what I've been thinking of?" she asked. "I've been keeping my first account book in fancy—just how we can live on your four thousand a year instead of fifty. I became quite familiar with the apartment we'll have, the two maids, the one wine at dinner. I've allowed myself about three really good gowns with silk linings, and I could see you in the evening clothes of last year's cut. Isn't it funny, David? Isn't it all deadly funny?" She pressed her hands upon her excited eyes and laughed again.

When David could speak, he closed his hand nervously on her shoulder and bent over her.

"Don't say such things," he said, "Oh, don't. This is an hour to bring us closer. Olga, it changes all our lives. It must change us too. Can't you see that? Can't you see how we must help each other now?"

"Of course it will change everything," she said quietly.

"But I want it to change us, Olga," he prayed. "Listen, dear, listen! We'll not have so much to crowd out love and the peace of home, without which no life is happy. Let us come nearer, dear, and be to each other now what we've never been, even in the early days of our marriage."

When David had felt himself master of his fate, a plea like this would have been impossible. But defeat had unnerved and humbled him. Olga, whatever she was, was all he had, and in broken pride he was weak enough to crave a tone, a look, rich in the felicity of a grief shared. He had not realized his loneliness until he permitted the want to take expression, but once unleashed the desire for sympathy was like the gripe of thirst.

He flung himself on his knees beside her and held her close.

"Oh, Olga, my dear, come to me—won't you? You've seemed to need me little, you've seemed cold, yet you loved me in the beginning. Our life had a promise then it hasn't kept. Can we find the best now, Olga, when other things are gone? Oh, can we find it?" he cried in bitter longing.

The words thrilled through Olga. She felt an awe of him. His soul it seemed, a stranger, looked through his miserable eyes, awaiting her reply.

"You loved me when you married me, Olga. My wife, you love me now. Tell me so, tell me so!"

"Why, yes, you foolish fellow, I love you, of course," she said, gently touching his face with her fingers.

She glanced sideways at the clock. It was half past 9. Fortunately she had dressed early, as the scene in which she was to appear would not commence until after 10. It would be necessary to go soon, yet with David in this unusual mood she feared to speak of the engagement which he evidently did not think of, despite her strange costume.

His heavy eyes looked into hers. He had flung away his unimpeachable reserve in humbly praying for her love, and Olga dimly realized how much he must have suffered before this possibility was reached. The thought even crossed her mind that it would be marvelous and might be an agreeable sensation to love a man as her husband desired to have her love him, so that, ruined, she might be his hope and exult in this, though everything else was lost. There were women in the world who loved men that way. She had often heard so.

"You shall have what you want, my dear; yes, just as much as I can give you," David whispered, his head on her shoulder, his lips on her throat. "It won't be so hard for me to do without things. I'll work too. In a few years I may make some lucky stroke—and then—life will go more easily. Just let's stand by each other and be happy in spite of all."

"In spite of all," Olga echoed, an unnoticed frown passing over her brow when the clock struck the half hour after 9.

"You didn't know the suspense I suffered from, Olga," David went on, finding it necessary to ease his reawakened pain by talking of it. "There were days when I saw doom sidling to me and knew in my soul there was nothing to be done to keep it back—nights when I walked the floor forecasting the future. Why, when the terrible truth came upon me today it should have been no stranger. I had faced it many times in fancy. But I must have hoped without knowing it, for it was a blow."

She felt him shudder. He held her more closely and closed his eyes.

"I am so dazed and sick from it all," he said, "but now the worst is over, for I've told you, dear. I hated to tell you. It seemed a cruel thing to do. You don't blame me, do you?"

"No, you couldn't help it," she said. He snatched at the words hopefully.

"I couldn't," he said. "Oh, indeed I couldn't! I did all for the best. Oh, yes, I'm glad the telling is over, Olga!

For a second she paused.

And we've made a compact, haven't we? We'll stand by each other and love each other better, won't we?"

"Yes, dear, yes."

"Oh, I am glad!"

The last words were heavy with exhaustion, and a hope animated Olga. She kissed him on the lips and said as if she were speaking to a child:

"You are worn out, dear."

"It seems a year since I have slept," said David. "I could sleep now."

"Suppose I call Robbins and tell him to get your bath and bed ready. You need a good sound sleep to set you up. Shall I tell him?"

"No, no," he said drowsily. "Don't go away from me."

"But you should get some sleep, David. You look—awful."

"Let me stay here. You're so soft and warm and sweet."

With a sigh he laid his head upon her knee and lifted her cool hand to his eyelids. She passed the other very gently across his forehead and let the fingers move lightly in his hair.

"So," he murmured. "Oh, this is peace, peace, rest"—

The room became silent. Olga looked from David's haggard profile on her knee to the hands of the clock, stealing on relentlessly. If she left at 10 sharp, she would be in time. The pupils of her eyes had grown large from excitement. A small, intensely scarlet spot burned unusually on her cheeks. She felt a desire to shriek, to get into the air at once. But with the remarkable purpose which had never failed her she kept the meaningless smile on her lips as she trailed her fingers over David's forehead.

The stillness deepened. There were no sounds save the clock's tick and David's even breathing. Sometimes a cab rattled by. A laugh, a footstep, the distant call of a newsboy shouting news of the election disturbed without dispelling the dead quiet.

It seemed a weary time to Olga before David's hold on her hand, shielding his eyes, loosened. She watched his fingers slip down his cheek, his arm fall to his side. She bent over him and listened to the deep, weighted breaths telling of an exhausted body. Her task was done. Sleep as inexorable as death conquered him for the time.

Olga gently lifted his head, and with no sound save the rustle of her crisp skirt slid from beneath the pressing shoulders. With the same caution she lowered his cheek to the leather hollow of the chair. She stood above him, holding her breath, waiting. There was nothing to fear. The face on which oblivion had set its mark stared up at her. She gave a short sigh of satisfaction, lifted gloves and cloak and, retreating backward, reached the door. For a second she paused, a bit of brilliant coloring against the curtains. They closed after her, and David was alone.

As if at that moment a meddlesome spirit had whispered the truth to him in a dream, he sighed deeply and throwing his arms upward made a pillow of them. Unconsciously his body had assumed the pose of one who had said goodby to hope.

CHAPTER XX.

After this David made no further attempts to win or soften Olga. When a servant awakened him hours afterward, he had faced not only the knowledge of her desertion, but the reiterations of his sick heart—useless, hopeless. He would never cheat himself again. Olga had been wholly consistent with his estimate of her. The folly of hoping too much had been his.

In the dark days following this accepted realization of failure he was cold and silent. He was gentle with Olga, but he lived within himself, and his heart was like a stone. He could feel a pity for her occasional outbreaks of disappointment and rage, but a capability of actively regretting what he had lost seemed dead. The changes following within two months found him complacent.

The town house was sold together with everything else, and for the time being, at Olga's request, they made their home with her father. When The Citizen passed into other hands, David retained his editorial position as an employee.

This latter sacrifice was a bitter one. Had he permitted himself to dwell upon it his hours at the familiar desk would have been tinctured with anguish. But he had a force in him, a grandeur of spirit, that made defeat imposing. Even Anne might have been deceived by his unchanged manner but for the one night of self betrayal when she had stood on the bridge, silent, within reach of his hand.

She went frequently to Dr. Ericsson's during these trying days. Life there was like a creature which had received a blinding blow between the eyes and stood dazed, miserably uncertain on which path to advance.

Mrs. Ericsson had a grievance against fate, but fate was too impersonal for attacks. It was more satisfying to pour her regrets and accusations into ears which heard. She was like a gnat, never stinging deep, never alighting on the same spot twice, yet stinging always.

Anne often wondered at David's forbearance, for her most spiteful outbursts were leveled at him. Through him, in some way, by something done or left undone, the money for which she had worked so long with Olga as a bait had been lost. Olga was the wife of a poor man. There was nothing worse to happen.

In the meantime Anne found herself studying Olga. She mystified her more completely every day. Her spasms of despair, sharp and short lived, were over now. For hours she would lie dreaming, her hands behind her head, the faintest smile sometimes fluttering around her lips. Except for a walk or drive, she seemed to enjoy letting the days brush by her. Dinner hour often found her lounging in the loose gown of the morning. She never spoke of what she thought so constantly nor what her plans were, if she had any. No one questioned her, David least of all. She showed no desire to found a home based upon their changed conditions. He was willing to wait until she had familiarized herself with her new future and had roused herself to active interest in it.

"My dear, God lets some of us live too long," Dr. Ericsson said to Anne one day as she leaned over his library chair. "I am one of these. I can't contemplate the lives which this one roof covers without a feeling of dismay for the future. Better for me if I didn't live to see that which I must see, I fear. Oh, why weren't you my child?" he said, with longing. "You have a heart, a mind; real human blood goes through your arteries. You are a woman, not a finely articulated piece of flesh. You understand me? I wish you were my child."

"Uncle, why do you say this? You make me afraid of something. Has anything happened you haven't told me about?"

"I'm afraid of Olga," he said shortly.

"Why? She seems not to care any more," replied Anne, while she knew he was about to express some of the fear she had felt without understanding.

"That's just it; she seems not to care. But she does, and I know her." He sat with his eyes fixed on his veinous hands as it thoughtfully tapped the table. "At least when I say I know Olga I go too far. But I know the signs of storm in her. She is silent, thinking—of what? She writes a lot of letters. She always goes out alone. I'm afraid of her," he said, with a sigh.

But Anne soon forgot these words, for during several weeks following life at the old house took on a more cheerful color.

Olga ceased dreaming and seemed satisfied. She was often the gayest of companions and assumed a whimsical tyranny over David vastly preferable to her settled indifference. Sometimes during these days her eyes had an almost celestial light in them, her smile was confiding.

David almost dared hope again for that which he had decided could never be his. He found himself wondering if she could be content with the little he now had after all; if in her own fashion, which never could be anticipated, she would come to help him, love him a little. He put the hope from him, yet knew he was hoping, and he waited.

In January in the busy morning hours a note was brought to Anne at the office. It was from David, and very short.

"I hate to send you this, dear Anne. You have been drawn into my misfortunes too much of late. Forgive it, but I must come to you. Olga has gone away at the head of a theatrical company. The blow has prostrated Mrs. Ericsson and she's dangerously ill. Can you go to the house when you get this?"

Anne sat with the letter in her hands, conscious only of unbelief in the words written there. The woman who had done this thing, having smiled and lied harmoniously as she made her unhurried way to the goal of her desires, became suddenly hateful. Anne could not judge of her by herself or measure her by familiar rules. Comprehension was beyond her.

"A liar!" she said aloud. "A cruel liar!"

The noisy streets might have been a desert for all heed she took of them as she hurried to Dr. Ericsson's. She was absorbed in her thoughts. She knew how the papers would seize on this departure and flourish the real and imaginary details of David's private life under big headings, how ably Olga would assist them. Soon her face would stare from every shop window and decorate tobacco signs; she would be exploited by every bombastic venture dear to the managerial heart. She was not one to succeed by the sovereignty of talent alone and retire from the limelight to privacy as exclusive as a queen's. Instinct and education made her delight in the clamor of brass. Her mother had been eager to advertise her socially; she would trumpet herself professionally.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

CURRENT COMMENT.

Europe professes to attach very little importance to the Monroe doctrine, but it never takes much to precipitate a discussion of it in the foreign press.

The walnut library and bedroom sets of furniture in Jefferson Davis' old home, in Beauvoir, Miss., have been shipped to Richmond, Va., for preservation in the Confederate museum.

Nearly all the gambling dens in Chicago are so busy that their employes are working overtime. The theory that war paralyzes industry does not go in that town.

Letter writers should not fail to obey the caution given by the postoffice department, to have their address on the outside of every letter mailed, and, in return, the department should note and respect the protests of the public against the defacing of postal cards by impressing stamp on the written side. It is a poor rule that will not work both ways, and since writers are forbidden to inscribe anything on the address side, it should be equally imperative on the postal clerks to do nothing to deface the matter on the written side.

No one is more interested in the war than the veterans at the Soldiers Home. That usually quiet place is stirred up by excitement. Men with gray beards and faces seamed with wrinkles, men maimed and ill, gather in little knots under the trees in the beautiful grounds of their peaceful home, and discuss the situation with eagerness, intelligence and patriotism. Many a tale of their prowess in bygone days is brought out and furbished up for the entertainment of their comrades, and the stories of battles long ago fought are told over again.

"We fought our brothers then," said one of them. "Oh, if I only had my leg back that I left at Winchester and could get a good chance at those cussed Spaniards, I would die happy."

"Would you really like to fight again?" he was asked

"Aye, that I would," he answered. "that I would, and there's hardly a boy here that wouldn't go in the ranks again if he could, to fight for Old Glory, God bless her!"

Against the verdict of history and the conclusion reached by official inquiry and judicial proceedings, all of which sustain the account that John Wilkes Booth was killed by his pursuers a few days after his murder of President Lincoln, we have at this late day the revival of an old woman's story that the assassin escaped and died a natural death years afterward in Europe. Since it is admitted that he is dead, the point is of little practical importance now, but the incident goes to show how such stories begin and linger in tradition, until they become, in many cases, articles of popular faith. History is full of such instances, relating to both good and bad men. For many years the early Christians had a belief that Nero was not dead, but would return some time to renew his persecutions; while the stories of the Seven Sleepers, the Wandering Jew and the heroes of the Venusburg are familiar to scholars. In an age of tradition and not of newspapers this Wilkes Booth story might easily become an accepted version of his later career.

The House has properly refused to concur in the Senate's proposal to abolish the forest reserves created under the executive proclamation of February 22, 1897. These reserves were set apart at the recommendation of the distinguished commission of experts of which Professor Charles S. Sargent was chairman, the commission itself being selected at the request of the interior department by the National Academy of Sciences. Its members gave their time and labor to the public service without pay, the reimbursement of their travelling expenses being alone provided for. A few months after the reservations were made, some complaints of persons dwelling on them or interested in encroaching upon them, caused Congress to suspend the executive order, with certain exceptions, until this year, so that a more careful examination of the grievances might be made. But the Senate, through an amendment to the sundry civil bill, now proposes to set aside these reserves altogether.

No one can question that the present reserve system, as initiated by President Harrison, is of vast importance to this country. Not only does it preserve millions of acres of valuable woods from the ravages of the axe, but it is of the greatest value to the irrigation problem. When that system was extended by the Sargent commission another great step in advance was taken. Necessarily the selection for withdrawal from settlement of many millions of acres, situated in various states and territories, had to be done roughly. With this once effected, the modification of boundaries in order to lessen individual hardship was a mere matter of detail. But to abandon the scheme because some complaints have been received is utterly unjustifiable, and the House should not consent to it.

PETER'S BRAVERY.

PROVED IT BY FACING BOTH FIRE AND DYNAMITE.

With Death Threatening the Soldier With Two Comrades Cut the Ropes Attaching a Barge of Explosives to a Burning Pier at Sandy Hook.

All our heroes are not on Cuban soil, or on the waters that wash the Cuban shores. Robert Peter, who is a private in Company A, Third regiment, New Jersey volunteers, is the hero of deeds that prove the truth of that statement. Peter longs for an opportunity to have his bravery tested in the midst of actual warfare. He has no fear of sharpnel or Spanish marksmanship.

Private Peter has come face to face with a dangerous situation, and has demonstrated that he is made of the material that gives us our heroes. During a heavy thunder storm a pier at Sandy Hook was set on fire. At the pier was moored a float loaded with high explosives. Peter realized that a destructive explosion was imminent unless the float was removed to a place of safety. On the pier were two mines, each containing 102 pounds of dynamite, which further added to the danger of the situation.

Peter discovered the fire when the tongues of flame were almost licking the barge. He ran to Lieutenant McGregor, of the Engineer Corps, and breathlessly exclaimed: "Lieutenant, the pier is on fire. The float, with explosives, is fastened there."

"Yes, I know it," the lieutenant replied, "but the fire has made such progress that nothing can be done——"

"Yes, something can be done," Peter replied, saluting. "We can cut the hawsers and set the float adrift."

"That's impossible," the lieutenant replied. "It would mean death to the man who attempted it."

"Can't I have permission, sir?" the private pleaded, "to cut the ropes and save the float?"

Lieutenant McGregor hesitated, and Peter continued: "Give the order, sir. I'll do the job."

"No, I shall give no orders to that effect," the lieutenant replied.

Peter only listened long enough to understand no order would be given and then determined to act. He got Arthur Crowell and Thomas Ortell to come to his assistance.

Peter leading the way, the three men ran onto the pier wth open knives in their hands. They threw themselves on the string-pieces and began hacking at the hawsers that held the float. One after another the severed ropes dropped into the water, and the float, released, moved silently out of danger.

Then the three men ran off for their lives. The float was at a safe distance when suddenly there was a terrific explosion. The dynamite bombs had exploded, and the heavens were lighten with a blinding flash. Peter and his two comrades were safe; so, too, was the float and its cargo. They still talk of Peter's bravery down at Sandy Hook, and Lieutenant McGregor is lavish in his praises of the heroism of Peter, Crowell and Ortell.

Peter was born in Dundee, Scotland, on November 30, 1863. He would have joined the British army when he was seventeen years old, but his parents objected and pleaded with him not to. It was his mother's entreaties that led Peter to say: "All right, mother, I won't join the army, but I would like to become a soldier." It was soon after this that Peter left home. He kept his promise to his mother, and now for the first time he is ready, as a soldier, to meet an enemy.

Peter has faced death three times. His life was nearly crushed out a few years ago when he stopped a runaway, to save from harm, perhaps death, two women who were taking an afternoon drive. Peter has a scar on one of his cheeks. It was caused by a bullet.

Peter is an expert horseman, and acted as orderly to Colonel Lee and Chaplain Glazebrook, who are now at Pompton Plains. He would like to be with the Rough Riders in Cuba. He is a modest fellow and will not believe that anything he has done thus far has exacted any great amount of heroism.

Harbor Defenses.

The American naval victories early in the war removed all fear of Spanish invasion which had been felt in the Atlantic Coast cities; but then there was never very great danger. This illustration is of the Zalinski fifteen inch pneumatic dynamite gun at Sandy Hook, at the entrance of New York Harbor, and is a sample of our coast defences.

THE ZALINSKI GUN.

On Sentry Duty.

It is related of an Irish recruit on sentry duty at Chickamauga one night that he challenged a figure in the darkness with the usual "Who goes there?" The reply, "The officer of the day," was something he was not prepared for, so he responded, "Then phat the divil are yez doin' out here at night?"

An Irish sentinel of the Fifth Missouri at Chickamauga was sharply reproved by the officer of the day for permitting persons to approach without giving the countersign. The Irishman listened patiently and was then about to walk away when the officer called sharply: "Well, you haven't asked me for that countersign yet." Quick as a flash the soldier thrust his bayonet point uncomfortably close to the officer's breast, while he grimly ejaculated: "L'ave us have that countersign, thin, and be dom q uick about it."

LIVE THE BEST LIFE

you know how, remembering at the same time that Life Insurance is an essential feature in rounding out a happy and prosperous existence. By securing a policy of Life Insurance in THE PRUDENTIAL you bestow a blessing on your family and prevent the possibility of want or distress.

WRITE

The PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA.

HOME OFFICE, NEWARK, N. J.

JOHN F. DRYDEN, President.
LESLIE D. WARD, Vice-President. EDGAR B. WARD, 2nd Vice-Pres. & Counsel.
FORREST F. DRYDEN, Secretary.
J. ELSTON WOODLAND, Superintendent..
East Front St. and Park Ave. Box 790, Plainfield. N J.

SPORTING.

GOSSIP OF THE DIAMOND.

CURRENT BASEBALL NEWS IN AND AROUND PLAINFIELD.

Bits of Information and Comment Gleaned From the Great National Game —Latest Scores of the League Teams

Games Played Yesterday

At New York:
Cleveland... 0 0 0 1 0 3 0 0 0—4
New York.. 0 0 0 3 8 0 0 0 *—11
Batteries, Connor and Cuppy; Warner and Meekin. Base hits, Cleveland 4, New York 14. Errors, Cleveland 4, New York 2.

At Philadelphia:
Louisville... 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 7—9
Philadelphia 0 0 0 2 5 5 5 1 *—18
Batteries, Magee and Kittridge; Fifield and McFarland. Base hits, Louisville 12, Philadelphia 20. Errors, Louisville 4, Philadelphia 1.

At Boston:
Cincinnati.. 0 0 2 0 0 2 3 0 0—7
Boston..... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—2
Batteries, Hawley and Peitz; Nichols and Bergen. Base hits, Cincinnati 9, Boston 8. Errors, Cincinnati 1, Boston 5.

Second game:
Cincinnati..... 0 0 2 0 1 0 2—5
Boston..... 1 0 0 2 0 2 0—5
Batteries, Dwyer and Peitz; Lewis and Bergen. Base hits, Cincinnati 10, Boston 9. Errors, Cincinnati 3, Boston 1.

Game called at the end of the seventh inning.

At Baltimore:
St. Louis.... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1
Baltimore... 1 0 1 0 1 0 3 0 *—6
Batteries, Sudhoff and Minslow; Hughes and Clarke. Base hits, St. Louis 3, Baltimore 10. Errors, St. Louis 2, Baltimore 0.

At Washington:
Pittsburg 0 0 0 2 0 0 2 0 0 2—6
W'sh'gton 0 0 0 2 1 1 0 0 0 0—4
Batteries, Gardner and Bowerman; Killen and McGuire. Base hits, Pittsburg 13, Washington 11. Errors, Pittsburg 1, Washington 2.

Second game:
Pittsburg..... 1 0 0 2 0 0—3
Washington..... 0 2 0 0 0 0—2
Batteries, Hart and Bowerman; Dineen and McGuire. Base hits, Pittsburg 9, Washington 4. Errors, Pittsburg 1, Washington 0.

How The Clubs Stand.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Boston	69	35	.663
Cincinnati	67	40	.626
Baltimore	62	38	.620
Cleveland	61	42	.532
New York	59	44	.573
Chicago	58	49	.542
Pittsburg	52	52	.500
Philadelphia	48	52	.480
Washington	39	64	.379
Brooklyn	38	63	.376
Louisville	39	66	.371
St. Louis	30	77	.280

CYCLING COMMENT.

Captain Thomas A. Cuming, of the Y. M. C. A. wheelmen, has called another run for Thursday night. For three times in succession the rain has "queered" the runs, and the cyclers are hoping for a nice night this time. The captain will take the men to Perth Amboy by way of Metuchen, returning by way of Rahway and Westfield. The roads are all good and the route chosen a pleasant one.

ROD AND GUN.

Next Saturday there will be a big shoot in the Central New Jersey Trap Shooters' Leauge at Fanwood. Four clubs will contest.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The sale of the property of the departed Dr. A. D. Warde will take place tomorrow at the Hotel Arlington. The sale is set for two o'clock in the afternoon.

—The weekly rehearsal of Queen City Band last evening attracted a very large number of people on Front steeet, and the crowd remained until the last selection was played.

—Now is the time to have your lace curtains and fall and winter clothing cleaned, and Hillier & Co., of North avenue, can do the work to the queen's taste at prices that will please you.

A FAITHLESS LOVER.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

field paper bearing the date of July 25th in which his engagement to Miss Snyder was announced.

Drake declared that he only went to see Miss Cassidy once in a while, but when pressed admitted that she used to meet him on the streets nights, and "hang around him" until he saw her home. He declared that he had never written a lettter to her, although one was produced in court signed with his name, and which read:

"Lend me $25. I want to use it. Will pay it back in a month. I have to have it this a. m. Will see you Sunday night at the depot. You can give it to my sister."

Charles Haggarty, Drake's only witness, swore that he overheard these words in a conversation between Drake and Maggie, who had met on the street: "I don't want to have anything more to do with you."

Here the defense rested. William G. DeMeza represented him.

Mr. DeMeza did all he could for his client, but the evidence against Drake was strong. Justice Mosher decided to hold his decision in the case until this morning, however, and at 10 o'clock announced that he would hold Drake in $200 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury. John Albert, his uncle, went on his bonds.

FRIDAY IS HIS LUCKY DAY.

F. H. Palmer Was Married on That Day and Chose It to Start a New Factory.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, N. J., August 23.—Friday has no terrors for F. H. Palmer, one of the principal stockholders of the Palmer Manufacturing Company, which will establish a new town to be known as Palmer, just outside the city limits of New Brunswick. Mr Palmer was married Friday, and every event in his life which has been associated with Friday has been successful.

In accordance with the belief that Friday is his lucky day Mr. Palmer had ground broken for the new factory Friday, and later on Friday will be selected for the starting of the plant. It is hoped to have the plant in full operation within three months.

THE COURTS.

JUSTICE MOFFETT.

Summons issued—In the case of Cocks against Knight, on contract, returnable August 27th.

A Young Offender.

A young colored girl, barely fifteen years of age, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning, charged by her grandmother with being disorderly and directing a flow of improper and abusive language toward the aged relative. The grandmother wanted the girl committed to the Industrial School. A new home was found for the girl by Warden Martin and she sobbingly promised to be good in the future if not sent away.

State Endeavor Convention.

The twelfth annual convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Societies will begin Wednesday, September 28th, at Asbury Park. There are sixteen societies in the Morristown local Christian Endeavor Union. They held an informal meeting Monday evening in the parlor of the South Street Presbyterian church. The Rev. E. K. Murgatroyd, of Nashville, and J. Claude Armstrong made addresses.

Police Look for New Jersey Troops.

The New Jersey military authorities have asked the police of the larger eastern cities to look out for a number of men from the Fourth New Jersey, who laft Camp Voorhees without permission after they had been paid last Tuesday.

PEOPLE COME AND GO.

PERSONAL MENTION OF INTEREST TO PRESS READERS.

Some Come to Enjoy Pleasures of Plainfield, Others Journey to Either Mountain or Shore for Recreation.

Hon. W. R. Codington and wife are at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Hall, of Fifth street, is seriously ill at her home.

Roundsman Frederickson, who has been ill, is somewhat improved.

Street Commissioner Gavett will return from his vacation Wednesday.

Reporter Elderton, of the News, has been on the sick list for a few days.

Miss Etta Raybert, of North avenue, is visiting friends in New Brunswick.

Isaac Smalley and family, of East Front street, are stopping at Ocean Grove.

Fred Adams, of Netherwood, is visiting in Orange for a few days with relatives.

Allan Laing, of Craig place, who has been quite ill, is reported as being improved.

Miss Florence Hawkins, of LaGrande avenue, is spending her vacation at her home.

Miss Nellie Greer, of Bangor, Pa., is a guest af the Misses Graves, of Liberty street.

A baby daughter has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Davis, of New street.

Detective Dougherty, of the Central Railroad, has returned from his annual vacation.

William Pangborn, of Chatham street, has about recovered from a severe illness.

John Dalley, of Somerset street, has returned from a visit with friends at Three Bridges.

Mrs. Vincent W. Nash and family, of Prospect avenue, are sojourning at Jamacia, L. I.

Miss Carrie Potter, of Rahway, is the guest of Miss Cornelia Rockfellow, of Park avenue.

Miss Mary Lynch, of Elizabeth street, is spending two weeks with Brooklyn friends.

Moses D. Brown, of East Fourth street, has returned from a visit with Brooklyn friends.

Miss L. Bertha Hoffman, of Park place, is visiting friends and relatives at Liberty Corner.

Miss Carney, of Woodhull & Martin's dry goods store, is spending her vacation in Connecticut.

The Misses Force, of West Second street, returned last evening from a stay at the seashore.

Mr. Alexander Adams, of Netherwood, left this morning for a short visit at Philadelphia.

Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, entertained his mother and sister, of High Bridge, Sunday.

Robert Radford and family, of Park avenue, are spending two weeks at Delaware Water Gap.

A. Kane, of this city, will leave the city tomorrow for Bent, Pa., where he will spend ten days.

Charles Burnett and family, of Madison avenue, have returned from a sojourn at Asbury Park.

Miss Lizzie and Miss Ada Runyon, of East Sixth street, will return Thursday from Atlantic City.

Miss Kittie Ransom is back in Putnam & De Graw's dry goods store after an extended vacation.

Roundsman Flynn, of West Front street, is on the sick list, and Patrolman Mattox is on in his place.

Mrs. George W. Ulrick, of East Fifth street, has gone to Lake Hopatcong for a three weeks' outing.

Private Frank Haurand, of Co. H, 3d N. J. Vols., is enjoying a vacation of ten days at his home in this city.

Randolph M. Stelle, wife and son of Central avenue, are spending a part of the summer at Bridgehampton, L. I.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, of Grandview avenue, will return from their vacation early in September.

Mrs. Frank Brown and children, of Brooklyn, are visiting Mr. and Mrs Moses D. Brown, of East Fourth street.

W. C. Hubbard and family, of West Seventh street, returned last evening from a pleasant outing spent near Boston.

George E. Firstbrook, of Elmwood place, will leave the city in a few days for an extended business trip through Canada.

Mr. Scriven and family, of the Babcock building, left this morning for Philadelphia and south Jersey, to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Middleditch, of Ridley Park, Philadelphia, returned this morning after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Middleditch's brother, T. S. Armstrong and family, of Craig place.

Among the guests registered at the Manhasset House, Shelter Island, L. I., are the following Plainfielders: Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Ackerman, I. C. West, T. R. VanBoskerck and O. G. Waring.

THE GOVERNOR SURPRISED.

Taken Prisoner Before He Knew That War Was Declared.

The first expedition to reinforce Admiral Dewey—the transports City of Pekin, City of Sydney and Australia, carrying troops, convoyed by the cruiser Charleston—arrived at Manila on Thursday, June 30.

The voyage was most favorable. General Anderson's soldiers suffered much from seasickness. The sailors of Dewey's squadron enthusiastically welcomed them, and the soldiers returned cheer for cheer.

On the way the expedition stopped long enough to capture Guajan, the largest of the Ladrone Islands, and to take possession, in the name of the United States, of the group of Ladrones. The Stars and Stripes now floats over San Luis Dapra, the town on the coast of Guajan, where a small part of the United States force landed.

The Spanish officers on the islands so remotely situated in the Pacific did not know that war was on between their mother country and the United States. Complications that greatly amused the Americans resulted. But Captain Henry Glass, of the Charleston, straightened things out by taking Lieutenant Colonel Marena, governor of the Ladrones, two military officers, fifty-four soldiers and several civil officers and natives to Manila.

When the flag was raised at San Luis, the native soldiers, cheering lustily, tore off the Spanish uniforms they wore and stripped them of buttons, which they gave to the men who had liberated them.

The ships left Honolulu under sealed orders, which Captain Glass opened one day out. They directed him to capture the Ladrones, so the ship's course was shaped for Guajan, and they arrived off San Luis Dupra early on June 21.

The Charleston took position in easy range of Fort Santa Cruz, which is supposed to guard the entrance to San Luis, and on which the Spanish flag was flying. The Charleston fired a dozen blank shots at the rather dilapidated fortress. The Spanish flag still flew; there was absolutely no response from the fort. So Captain Glass concluded to await developments.

In the afternoon two Spanish officers in full uniform, were towed out to the Charleston. And very polite they were.

"Governor Marina presents his compliments," they said to Captain Glass, bowing and scraping. "He thanks you for your salute. He is very sorry he could not return it, but, unfortunately, we have no powder."

A NATIVE HUT.

The situation was explained to them, and, very gently, they were made prisoners. Never before were men so astonished. Then Captain Glass sent a message to Governor Marina, ordering him to come aboard the Charleston. The governor, equally ignorant that war was going on, sent back a courteous message.

"Governor Marina presents his compliments and regrets he cannot accept the polite invitation to visit the Charleston. But the laws of Spain forbid him to set foot off the islands for an instant. He will be very glad to see Captain Glass at the governor's residence at 10 a. m. to-morrow."

Captain Glass did not accept the invitation in person. Early next morning he sent ashore Lieutenant A. M. Braunersreuther and a small force of marines. The lieutenant announced Captain Glass's ultimatum to the astonished Marina—that he must surrender in half an hour or the town would be bombarded. As soon as the governor recovered he promptly surrendered.

In the afternoon a larger force was landed, the few Spanish soldiers were disarmed and made prisoners, the United States marines and bluejackets formed around the staff from which Spain's flag had been hauled down, and formally the United States took possession of the islands.

The simple ceremony was made more impressive by the joy of the natives, who thus unexpectedly found themselves free.

Before the Big Battle.

"I wonduh," said Colonel Stillwell, "if there ahe any Kentucky gentlemen on that bo'd of strategy."

"What has that question to do with the case?"

"Well, suh, I understand they have Admiral Cervera bottled up. But there seems to be some difficulty about findin' a cawkscrew."

Force of Habit.

"Private Quickstep didn't tell the truth when he said he wasn't married," said one officer.

"Have you information to the contrary?" inquired the other.

"No. But he was walking in his sleep last night, and when we asked where he was going he said 'to put the cat out and see if the basement door was locked.'"

"Kaiser Wilhelm," remarked Rivers, "seems to be fishing for trouble." "You refer, of course," said Brooks, "to his carping about our war."

Auntie—When I was your age I never told a lie, Tommy.

Tommy—When did you begin, auntie?

The Picnic of the Smith Family.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Peapack, August 23.—The annual picnic of the Smith family of New Jersey will be held Wednesday, August 31st, at the Smith Family Picnic Grounds, near this place. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Isaiah Smith, president of the Smith Family Association, who lives in Millburn; Abram Smith, vice-president of the association, of this place, and Dayton Smith, of Far Hills.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—There will be a meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., this evening. Business of importance will be considered.

—As yet Helen Lees, the five-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan R. Lees, of Pearl street, has felt no ill effects from swallowing a buttonhook.

Fair Enough.

"Before you set me doing time," said the watch, "I only ask that you judge me by my works."

"We shall see about that," said the repairer, "after I have looked into your case."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Pieces in a Locomotive.

In the formation of a single locomotive engine there are nearly 6,000 pieces to be put together, and these require to be as accurately adjusted as the works of a watch.

GRAPES FROM CANAAN.

Character is what a man is, not what he appears to be.

A twenty-dollar coat often covers a five-cent soul.

The man who talks most about himself says the least.

A heart without love is like a violin without strings.

Hypocrisy is a cloak that is ragged in the back.

Smiling lengthens the mouth and the life in about equal proportions.

—The Ram's Horn.

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3.50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1.50, formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2. Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2. Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6.90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25. Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M. WEINBERGER, MANAGER,
214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits.....$ 90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. BUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. BUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell.
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil.
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Bushmore.
J. W. Johnson, Wm. B. Coddington.
F. S. Bunyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

NOTICE.

To whom it may concern. Take notice that my wife Catharine A. Hughes, left my bed and board on August 15th, 1898, without just cause, or provocation, and I do forbid any person trusting her on my account, as I will refuse to pay any such bills so contracted.

Dated August 23rd, 1898.

8 23 2 GEORGE L. HUGHES.

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE,

REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89

A. WILLETT & SON,

No. 107 Park Ave.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY.

127 B W. Front St.

I am ready to supply the public in general with

FRESH MILK AND CREAM.

Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149-151 East Front St.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:-

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz. Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz -	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum -	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline - -	5c	Tar Soap, large cake -	5c

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy,

309 EAST FRONT ST.

Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.

Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield.
"A word to the wise is sufficient."
J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 22 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory,

Taught by

Miss Sarah A. Palmer,

Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio —123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J.

LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate.

303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m

RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art. Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

INSTRUCTION on the VIOLIN and REED ORGAN by MRS. G. W. SAUMS.

(Pupil of Prof. K. A. Langlotz.) Residence 142 East Second street. Reference, ten years' teaching at Trenton, N. J. 4 21 tf

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY,

123 West Seventh St.
Will Re-open Thursday,
SEPTEMBER 15, 1898.
Thirty-first year.
Principals:
MISS KENYON,
MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S

School and Kindergarten,

29 Washington Avenue,
North Plainfield.

WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

M. E. STEPHENSON,

146 North Avenue,

Near the depot.

RESTAURANT AND CATERING.

TELEPHONE 624.

Positively the LAST WEEK

of the great A. M. E. Zion

CAMP MEETING

At Netherwood.

Closing Sermon at 8:30 p. m. Sunday, August 28th.

Electric Cars to the Grove. 8 22 1w

"FRESH MEAT"

Is a much abused term. Very often it means nothing at all. When we use it it means a whole lot. Young, juicy, wholesome, delicious meat of every kind is the only kind we sell. If you want to feel perfectly safe and save money at the same time, come here.

FRED ENDRESS,

131-135 W. Front St. Branch 203 Liberty St.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield, N. J., August 22, 1898.

Adams Miss Mary	Kramer Mrs E
Allen Mr A M	Kions Miss J
Baily Mr J J	Lines Mr N L
Boyce Mr H	Long Mrs Anna
Birkett Mrs J	Mason Miss M
Bradley Mrs E A	Munn Miss
Brady Phil	Nicoll Miss L 2
Beud Miss G	Phillips Miss G
Burnett Mr E	Pugh Miss J D
Cheney Miss H	Sallie
Drayton Miss S F	Smith Miss E V
Feeney Mr T	Stapleton Miss C 2
Fisher Mr A	Sellers Miss Ida
Garrett Mr G H	Stryker J P
Gaurlay M S	Sullo Mr Carlo
Green Mrs C	Titus Mr G N
Hannan Joe B	Totten Miss C
Jackson Mr A W	Vail Mr A A
Johnson Mr Aug	Herndon Miss N
Kinsman Mrs	White Miss A
Klapper Mrs L	Wilson Miss L

CITY MILLS.

P. M. FRENCH, OWNER.

24 Somerset St.

NEAR FRONT.

FEED, GRAIN AND HAY.

Not at cost, but very near it.

TELEPHONE NO. 24.

MONEY TO LOAN—Bring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,500; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ½ mile from trolley, $3,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaRue, Plainfield, N. J., Real Estate and Insurance.

Doesn't take Much Money for MEDICINES

Here. That is not nearly so much as they cost in other places. Our prices are ALWAYS LOWER than everybody else's—while quality is better than in most stores—as good as the best in all. All drugs, medicines and toilet requisites are new and fresh.

TRY POWERS' SHERBET.

POWERS' PHARMACY,

Somerset street—Craig place.

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS,

181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.

FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

OYOLISTS' CALENDAR.
Sun Rises 5:19 a. m.
Sun Sets 6:45 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be lighted at 7:45 p. m.

THE DAILY PRESS.

THE WEATHER.
Fair Today, Continued High Temperature Tonight; Thunderstorms and Cooler Thursday Afternoon or Night. Thermometer, 96.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

REPUBLICANS FIX DATE OF CONVENTION.

Delegates Will Meet In Trenton on September 22d.

FIXING REPRESENTATION.

TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN WILL BE EITHER SEWELL OR HOBART.

An Interesting Fight Ensued Over the Matter of Fixing the Representation in the Convention—One Delegate for Every 200 Votes Cast for the Last Governor—Voorhees was Not There.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, August 24.—The New Jersey State Republican Convention to nominate a candidate for Governor will be held at Taylor's Opera House, Trenton, beginning at noon Thursday, September 22d.

This was decided at a meeting of the Republican State Committee held in Room 16th, Trenton House, Trenton, yesterday.

There was considerable of a wrangle before the date was selected, some of those who are in favor of Foster Voorhees for the nomination fighting for an earlier day. They wanted the convention held on Sept. 14 or 15 at the latest. Their plea was give more time to the campaign. They argued that the greater length of time given to the canvass the more probable would be Republican success.

Chairman Murphy, Senator Sewell, John Kean and other leaders were not so sanguine that a long campaign would be beneficial to Republican interests, and the early-date men were smothered.

An interesting fight ensued when the committee took up the matter of fixing the representation in the convention. Major Anderson and others fought to have the representation upon the basis of one delegate for for every 200 Republican votes polled at the last gubernatorial election, by election districts, with one more delegate for every majority fraction of 200 in such districts. They also wanted to have every election district represented by at least one delegate.

This plan met with violent opposition and was defeated. The plan finally adopted was to apportion the delegates according to the vote for Governor in 1895 in each county without regard to election districts, on the basis of one delegate for each 200 votes and fraction thereof.

The work of apportioning the delegates in the several counties is to be left to the local county committees. The total number of delegates in the convention on this basis will be 814 divided in counties as follows:

Atlantic, 19; Bergen, 30; Burlington, 37; Camden, 64; Cape May, 8; Cumberland, 27; Essex, 147; Gloucester, 20: Hudson, 105; Hunterdon, 17; Mercer, 56; Middlesex, 36; Monmouth, 41; Morris, 30; Ocean, 13; Passaic, 58; Salem, 17; Somerset, 17; Sussex, 13; Union, 42; Warren, 17.

The temporary chairman of the convention will be either Senator Sewell or Attorney-General Griggs. This matter was left to a sub-committee composed of Franklin Murphy, Major Anderson and John Kean. It was said that Mr. Murphy favors the Attorney-General, while Senator Sewell is believed to be Mr. Kean's choice.

BAND CONCERT.

Programme to be Rendered in Front of City Hotel Tonight.

The following is the programme to be rendered at the open-air concert of the Queen City Band in front of the City Hotel tonight:

PART I.

March—Everybody's Favorite.....Karger
Medley Waltz—Sing Again That Sweet Refrain. [DeWitt
Latest Coon Medley—The Chicken Brigade. [Johnson
Mississippi Fling.
Comic—Tat-too.....Fahrbach

INTERMISSION.

PART II.

March—L. F. C. B.....Gierman
Medley Overture—In Gay New York...DeWitt
Evening Chimes in the Mountains.....Behr
A Cluster of Peaches—(by request).....Beyer
March—The Stars and Stripes Forever..Sousa

Can't Blow the Horn Anymore.

Mr. Smidle, of Somerset place, a member of the Queen City Band, has been obliged to give up playing a horn in that body of musicians, owing to severe lung trouble. Of late he has been in poor health. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, was called a few days ago to treat Mr. Smidle and he insists upon his giving up his profession as a musician,

Work on New Church.

Work has been started to erect a new church for the members of the Calvary Baptist church. The church will be located in the rear of Reform Hall, and it is expected that it will be completed in four months.

SERMON WON HIM A JOB

A PASTOR WAS ENGAGED ON THE SPUR OT THE MOMENT.

Rev. Mr. Case, of Plainfield, Pleased South River Baptists so That They Engaged Him Right on the Spot.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Aug. 24.—The calling of the Rev. Mr. Case, of Plainfield, to the pastorate of the South River Tabernacle Baptist church, was something out of the usual order of church procedures, but the call was none the less a hearty one. Mr. Case has only resided of late in Plainfield. He came from Oklahoma Territory some time ago, where he had two churches. He preached in them on alternating Sundays.

Mr. Case has a personal friend in Rev. Mr. DeWolff, of Newark, editor of The Baptist Bulletin. It was at the recommendation of Editor DeWolff that Mr. Case went to South River to preach. The first time he did so was about a month ago. He gave a fair sermon, but he made no particular impression upon the people. Last Sunday he supplied the vacated pulpit again. He then preached what one enthusiastic parishioner says was the best discourse ever given in the Tabernacle church.

The church held a meeting then and there. The result was that Rev. Mr. Case was called. It was a coincidence that the Rev. S. D. Sammis, who was pastor until a few weeks ago, was in South River on a visit the same day. He attended the church as well as the Sunday-school, and listened to the preaching of his successor.

The new preacher is about 33 years of age. His wife is visiting her sister in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He is a cousin of the Rev. T. D. Case, of Rutherford, N. J. He will take up his pastoral duties Sunday next.

HANDICAPS FOR HORSES.

FRENCH STYLE OF TROTTING MATCH TO BE TRIED.

The Plainfield Driving Club Will Inaugurate a Novel Method of Racing—Horses to Receive Distance Handicaps.

Another innovation in horse speeding is being arranged by the leading members of the Plainfield Driving Club. While the regular methods of holding the trotting contests is interesting, the members are now planning to hold a race Saturday afternoon after the fashion in vogue in France.

It has always been the custom in America that any handicapping that is done in horse races, whether trotting, pacing or running, should be done by weight, the faster horses carrying quite a little dead weight in addition to the jockeys. In France, however, the handicaps are arranged by distances, the limit horse starting at the wire and the others behind it. In this way each horse will travel at least a mile, and most of them more.

It is this French style of racing that is to be tried at the matinee races at the Gentlemen's Driving Park Saturday afternoon. Now it is by no means easy to get the horses started from their different marks and an exciting time is expected. Quite a number of the local horses are expected to enter and the contest, novel as it certainly will be, is expected to arouse a great deal of interest.

PATROLMAN TO THE RESCUE.

Officer Flanagan Made a Heroic Jump and Stopped the Horse.

What might have been a serious runaway was prevented last Monday afternoon on West Front street by Patrolman Flanagan. The horse belongs to Richard McCullough, of the borough, and the wagon was filled with building material. Louis VanNest was the driver in charge. The spirited horse got the best of Mr. VanNest and threw him out of the wagon. The animal then started on a wild run down Front street. It happened that Patrolman Flanagan was standing at the corner of Liberty street and Front street, and he made a grand effort to stop the runaway horse. At the same time a colored man living nearby ran out and grasped one of the reins. He held on until the officer could get a better hold of the horse. The animal was finally subdued and held until VanNest could recover sufficiently to take charge. He was severely shaken up and bruised in several parts of the body. Those who saw the affair say that Patrolman Flanagan displayed great courage and prevented a serious accident.

Alligators on Exhibition.

In Timbo & Neighbor's show window, North avenue, can be seen two small alligators, captured by Private Edson Day, of Company M, Second N. J. Regiment, in Florida.

Ankle Sprained by a Stone.

Miss Pauline Denton, of Hillside avenue, stepped on a stone yesterday morning and sprained her ankle.

WEDDED BY JUDGE AT MIDNIGHT HOUR.

The Bride Was a Plainfield Girl, She Said.

GROOM FROM NEW LONDON.

MISS MAMIE KIELY HINTED BEFORE OF MATRIMONY.

Her Parents Have Heard Nothing of the Marriage—She Has Been Living in New York—Is a Handsome Girl—Tall and of Dark Complexion—The Groom Hails from New London

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, August 24.—There was a hasty marriage in the office of Justice of the Peace Christian Geiger, in Gregory street, near Montgomery, Jersey City, last night a few minutes after 11 o'clock.

The groom described himself as Charles Downs, thirty years of age, of New London, Conn., and said he was a shipping clerk. He said that he was a son of Addison Downs. The bride said she was Mamie Kiely, twenty years old, of 550 West Second street, Plainfield.

This morning a Press reporter called at the home of John Kiely, who lives at 550 West Second street. Mr. Kiely was away but his wife was at home. She told the reporter that her daughter, Mamie, was in New York where she was employed as a waitress. Yes, she had heard from her recently and Miss Kiely had promised to come out this very week to visit her parents. She also told them not to be surprised if she should be married. Her mother, however, thought that she was just fooling. She had heard nothing of the marriage. She did not know the name of the young man.

Miss Kiely was formerly employed in the City Hotel as a waitress. She is a tall girl of dark complexion and very handsome. She is well known in this city.

FUNERAL OF LUTHER COMPTON.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell Paid a Deserved Tribute to Young Man's Life.

The funeral of Luther Compton took place yesterday afternoon, and was one of the largest ever held from the Washingtonville Memorial chapel. First there was a brief service held at the house on Fritts avenue, and at 2:30 o'clock the regular services were held over the remains in the chapel.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell officiated, and took as the subject of his talk Jesus raising the widow's son. A quartette composed af Miss Beeching, Miss Charlotte Messersmith, Horace Martin, Jr., and Mr. Acker, sang twice during the service, and once at the grave.

The flowers were beautiful, and were sent in large numbers. There were four large pieces, besides twelve smaller ones, wreathes, bouquets, etc. A handsome pillow came from a brother, and Mr. Fulton sent another. J. H. Leggett, the druggist, in whose store Compton was employed, sent a large wreath, and there was also a piece from the clerks in the store.

The pall bearers were Henry Kliner, James Walker, John Morbus, Charles Miles, Sames Gunn and William Acker. Interment was in the family plot in Hillside.

A BIG SHOOT.

Crack Shots Will Meet at the Climax Grounds Saturday.

The shoot of the Climax Gun Club that will be held at Thatcher's shooting grounds, Saturday, promises to be an affair of some magnitude. In addition to the contest of the clubs comprising the Central New Jersey League, the regular club shoot will be held, also sweepstake shooting in which a large number of entries are promised from the ranks of the crack shots of the country.

Election Officers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 24.—The Republican County Committee met in the Dix building, Saturday afteanoon, when officers for all the county polling places were named. Some discussion was had over the county candidates for office this fall, which include Assemblymen.

Will Open a Grocery Store.

George Kirch, of Somerset street, has purchased the property of Charles Shaffer, corner of Fourth and Liberty streets. He intends to open a first-class cash grocery October 1st.

Expects a Big Catch.

Garret Dunham, of Sandford avenue, went to Raritan today where he will try and catch some fish. He has chartered a freight car to bring the fish home.

—Press want ads bring results.

MANY FEASTED ON THE MOUNTAIN SIDE.

Business Men's Clambake a Great Success.

A TROLLEY RIDE FIRST.

CAR WAS HANDSOMELY DECORATED FOR THE OCCASION.

The Orchestra Played on the Car and at the Grove—Fifty Covers Set—The Party Photographed—Great Time at the Grove Last Night—Speeches Ended an Enjoyable Entertainment.

A highly-decorated trolley car with an orchestra inside caused quite a sensation along the line of the Plainfield Stteet Railway Company early last evening. Comfortably ensconced in the car, enjoying the cool breezes, were some two score of Plainfield's well-known citizens and business men. It was the consummation of a movement started by several local business men to give to such of their friends who could not go out of town a chance for an enjoyable outing and a pleasant evening right here at home. Further, it demonstrated that Plainfield has many summer enjoyments if they are only patronized.

The movement was originated through the united efforts of John Adelman, W. A. Westphal, James Laughlin and Harry Werner. It ended last night in a trolley party, clambake and general good time at the Mountainside Grove.

The first part of the outing was a ride all over the lines of the trolley system in a special car. The car left the North avenue station at 6:12 o'clock and began to pick up members of the party all along the route. Some sixty were invited but several could not come and the fifty covers laid were just right to accomadate the crowd. Naylor's orchestra was placed in the front seats of the car and rendered different familiar selections as the car sped along.

The car itself was all right. Inside, Japanese lanterns were hung from the ceiling while some ten extra electric lights illuminated the car. Outside, the car was hardly recognizable. Tri-colored bunting was draped about the sides, while the hand rails and posts were wound with red, white the blue roping. Evergreens, golden-rod and great beaming sunflowers were tastefully grouped about the sides and ends while the fender was converted into a bower of flowers. The decoratting of the car was done by George Conklin, William Brown, Ed Marfinz, and Phil Maguire under the direction of Superintendent John Adelman.

Car No. 19, was the special one decorated for the occasion. Henry Homan was the motorman and Phil Maguire the conductor. The car first went to Dunellen, stopping at Grant avenne where a photograph of the party was taken by G. Thorn. Then they went to Netherwood, and finally brought up at the Somerset street terminus of the line from where the party walked to Mountainside Grove.

It was 8 o'clock before they arrived there and dark. Appetizing odors floated in their direction and soon all were busy with a good old-fashioned Rhode Island clambake with all the needed accessories. Nat Astfalk, of Elizabeth, was the chef and he prepared a meal that was worthy of the occasion.

The grove was well lighted and the occasion was made one of general hilarity and fun. There were funny stories and ancedotes, and later in the evening a series of stump speeches were made that continued way into the night and were received with wildly enthusiastic applause.

Everybody had a good time and the whole affair was free from unpleasant incidents that might mar the enjoyment.

Watch Taken From a Tramp.

Chief Grant has received word from the Chief of Police of Syracuse, N. Y., that a hunting case gold watch was taken from a tramp who was sentenced August 19th to sixty days in jail. The movement is No. 5,112.883 and the case No. 710,215. On the back of the case is the word "Carrie," engraved. The police thought that, perhaps, the w atch was stolen from some one in this vicinity.

Water Tank Overflowed.

A water tank on the second floor of Woolston & Buckle's building on North avenue overflowed yesterday, badly soiling the ceiling wall paper in Maynard's handsome tonsorial room directly beneath. It doesn't interfere with your getting a first-class shave or hair-cut. however, by Mr. Maynard or one of his gentlemanly assistants.

WEREN'T READY TO BE CONGRATULATED YET.

Wedded Couple and Friends Were Both Surprised.

WERE MARRIED LAST MAY.

BUT THE YOUNG PEOPLE WANTED TO KEEP IT A SECRET.

Marriage of Miss Mamie Wilson and Theodore Martin Announced at the Meeting of Christian Endeavorers in Warren Chapel Last Night—Congratulations Were Then Offered by Friends.

It was sometime during last May that Miss Mamie Wilson, of the borough, and Theodore Martin, of East Third street, decided that they would be married. Accordingly they left Plainfield and went to Roselle, where the matrimonial knot was tied according to the prescribed statutes. They returned to Plainfield, Mrs. Martin living at her home, while Mr. Martin continued to reside at his home. The two were often seen together, but not one of their many friends had the slightest idea they were married.

The fact leaked out, however, last week among a few friends, and a great surprise was arranged. Now Mr. and Mrs. Martin are active members at Warren chapel and especially so in the Christian Endeavor Society. Mr. Martin holds the position of president of the society.

The regular meeting of the society was held last evening, and, of course, Mr. and Mrs. Martin attended. The leader of the meeting, Mrs. William A. Wilson, was previously acquainted with the fact of the marriage, and after the collection was taken at the close of the meeting, she surprised the entire congregation, as well as the bride and groom, by announcing the fact that cougratulations were in order. This announcement completely surprised the bride and groom, who had thought their marriage was not known. Of course, every one present congratulated the happy couple, and the meeting ended in a general social time in which the bride and groom received the best wishes of all.

MORE FIGHTING IN CUBA.

Lively Battle Between Spaniards and Insurgents Reported From Havana.

Madrid, August 24—At yesterday's Cabinet Council a telegram from Havana was read reporting further fighting between the Spanish troops and the Cuban insurgents, in which 500 Cuban insurgents were killed and wounded, including several chiefs.

Duke Almodovar del Rio, Foreign Minister, denied that Great Britain had complained of the strengthening of the Spanish fortifications in the neighborhood of Gibraltar.

It was decided that the Cortes meet on September 5th.

SOMERSET SATISFIED NOW.

GOULD'S ASSESSMENT LOOKED INTO.

Somerset County Freeholders Come to the Conclusion That It Is Too Large.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 24.—Members of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders who went to Toms River Monday to ascertain how much George J. Gould was assessed for his property in Lakewood, returned home satisfied that Mr. Gould was on the assessment rolls for a full amount. In fact the members of the committee think that the millionaire's property was overrated, as it is down at $300,000.

The committee of the Somerset Freeholders, who went into Ocean county, was composed of Chairman William J. Logan, E. B. Hoagland and James H. Ballentine, and they were accompanied by their counsel, John A. Frech. The committee is of the opinion that half the assessment made on the Gould property would have been sufficient. The Freeholders also found that in some places property was assessed at $50 an acre and that $5 an acre would have been a fair price, for the land is practically worthless.

The report of the committee will be made to the Freeholders in Somerville next month. Under the law the Freeholders of Somerset county had the right to inquire into assessments in Ocean county. When one county thinks the assessments in another are below the true figures the county can appeal to the State Board of Taxation and that body fixes a date for an inquiry.

Goodwin Beard, of Hillside avenue, has been detained from his duties in New York for a few days by illness.

MADE CONSTABLE WORK.

STARR WOULD NOT UNLOAD THE TRUCK, SO OFFICER HAD TO.

Starr Was Going to Move Away and His Landlady Wanted Her Rent—Store Leased for Year; Rent Paid to September.

There was plenty of excitement on West Front street, near Somerset, late yesterday afternoon, which was occasioned by Samuel H. Starr, son of Henry Starr, who is proprietor of the Starr Clothing House, attempting to load his father's goods on a truck and get it out of town.

His endeavor was nipped in the bud by Mrs. Samuel Dreier, who owns the store and who got out a writ of attachment against Starr's goods for rent claimed, in this way keeping him in town over night. The writ was quashed this morning, and Mrs. Dreier was driven to take another method to obtain the rent she claims due.

The Starr Company leased the store last April for a year, agreeing to pay the rent, $50, in advance. This they have done, and August 1st paid the rent up to the first of September.

On these grounds Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, who represented Starr, succeeded in getting the writ quashed, claiming that the proprietor owed no rent until the first of the month.

When Starr was interrupted yesterday afternoon he already had eight cases of clothing safe in the freight-house, and two more on the truck standing in front of the door.

Mrs. Dreier had noticed signs of preparation to move all yesterday morning, but didn't take any action until late in the afternoon.

When the attachment was secured Constable Rockafellow went down to serve it. The son, who was in charge, refused to unload the goods already on the truck or to order anyone else to do so, so the constable himself carried in the two cases. Henry Starr, who signed the lease is out of the State, and as he cannot be reached by civil process, it is not known what steps Mrs. Dreier will take to secure her seven months rent.

HIS TROUBLES ARE DOGS.

A WEST FRONT STREET MAN CAN SPY 15 AT SHORT RANGE.

During the Hours of the Night the Canines Make the Neighborhood Hideous With Howls—They Like Chicken.

If there is a man in Plainfield with cause to feel indignant that man is George Morton, of West Front street, but he is a peaceable citizen and does not like to make any disturbance. Morton lives in a neighborhood that harbors about fifteen dogs of all sizes and breeds.

During the late and early hours of the night these dogs make it their particular business to keep the neighbors awake. Now, this is very annoying, especially in warm weather, when it is not an easy matter to sleep. These same dogs have a trick of bothering the neighbors' chickens, and on more than one occasion several of them have been missed.

Mr. Morton says that he can stand in his yard and locate everyone of the dogs at short range. He says that he does not believe that a license fee is paid on more than one dog out of the entire lot, and as he understands it owners must pay a license fee. He thinks it is about time something is done to rid the neighborhood of such a nuisance.

RAIDED THE SWIMMERS.

Borough Officers Captured Two Boys Who Were Naked.

Yesterday afternoon there were about one hundred small boys and young men who had a delightful time swimming in Hyde's pond, and it was not until Marshals Schenck and Campbell put in their appearance that the boys felt at all uncomfortable. No one objects to the boys having a swim if they would wear tights and act in a proper manner, but these boys were entirely out of order. The neighbors have been complaining, hence the unexpected raid.

Out of the bunch two boys were caught. They were Frank Newman, of Richmond street, and Lewis Hansen, of Webster place. They were held for a while yesterday afternoon, but when it was learned that Recorder Long had gone fishing and would not return early, the boys were released to appear for a hearing this afternoon. The other boys who were swimming made their escape and have not yet been caught.

Anyone Lost a Gold Watch?

One of the police officers found a gold watch while patroling his beat last night. It is now in the possession of Chief Grant, where the owner can secure it by giving proof.

—Use Press want ads for returns.

FRED BENNETT HOME FROM SAMPSON'S FLEET

The Brave Sailor Boy Has a Forty-eight Hour Furlough.

ONE OF SAMPSON'S CREW.

HE HAS BEEN IN THE THICK OF THE FIGHTING OFF CUBA.

First Time That He Has Been Home in Almost a Year—Brought Back a Number of Interesting Relics Gathered From the Spanish Fleet That Was Destroyed—Doesn't Like Notoriety.

Fresh from scenes of strife and warfare in southern waters, and a gigantic reception in New York City, Frederick A. Bennett, a member of the crew, on board Sampson's flag ship "New York" is spending a short furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Bennett, of Lincoln place.

Bennett's leave began yesterday afternoon and will expire tomorrow afternoon, and so during the 48 hours granted to him he is making the most of his time and visiting all his relatives and friends.

Bennett entered the navy five years ago. The first three years were spent on board the Newark, but two years ago he was transferred to the New York. He is now 29 years of age. He is enthusiastic over the navy and devoted to his admiral, Sampson, against whom he will not hear a word of condemnation.

Bennett is a splendid speciman of the American sailor. Short, heavily built, with a massive pair of shoulders, deep chest and powerful limbs, he shows what training can do to develop a man, and instead of a thin, weak individual, turn him out a young giant.

Bennett was everywhere that the New York was, and saw the progress of the war from the best standpoint. He was one of the prize crew of fourteen seamen who were put on board the Christobal Colon, and brought home with him a paper box well filled with trinkets that he has picked up in his tracks. Among them is a piece of the Christobal Colon's signal flag, red, yellow and white; and a loaded shell which Bennett knocked out of a gun as soon as he boarded the vessel.

Bennett also has a rusty monkey wrench which divers brought up from the wreck of the Maine, and a rusty bolt. A long Spanish dirk and a big revolver came from the Vizcaya, and a piece of sugar cane which one of the Rough Riders picked up as they were climbing San Juan Hill to take part in the battle.

Among the things in the box a Press reporter noticed a piece of iron, singularly marked with deep grooves. He was told that this was a piece of the six-inch shell which exploded on the ship and killed a man. The grooves were made as the shell left the gun.

Bennett is a quiet fellow and does not like notoriety of any kind. So averse to praise and congratulations is he that he even keeps secret his rank on board the ship.

Bennett says that the demonstration in New York harbor Saturday was something of a bore, for like many other brave men, Bennett would rather not receive too much attention. This is the first visit that he has made to his home in nine months, and before he goes away his mother insists that he have his picture taken together with the family in a group. Bennett does not know where his vessel will go next.

A WATERMELON FEAST.

Though a Thief Stole One There Was Plenty Left for Guests.

Last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. Hand, West Seventh street, there was a social, entertainment and a watermelon feast. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental selections by B. W. Hand, and recitations by several of the young people present. An interesting feature was the address on New York slum work by Mrs. Cox, who has spent mnch time in the work. Mrs. Cox is now laboring in this city and is doing a great deal of good.

The latter part of the evening was devoted to sociability and making way with a number of choice watermelons. During the evening some miscreant managed to take a watermelon from the house, but there were plenty left and everybody had plenty to eat.

Will Hear Reports at Next Meeting.

Nothing but routine business was transacted at the meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., last evening. The post will not meet again until the last Tuesday in September, when reports of the National G. A. R. Encampment to be held at Cincinnati will be presented by delegates who will attend.

AGUINALDO HARMLESS

London Junta Thinks Friction at Manila Has Disappeared.

INSURGENTS ARE FRIENDLY

Wealthy Filipinos Anxious for the United States to Retain the Archipelago. London Filipinos Say There Will Be No Trouble from the Insurgents if We Decide to Hold the Philippines.

London, Aug. 24.—It is learned here that the Philippine junta in London received a dispatch from Manila yesterday, announcing that matters there are rapidly quieting down and that the friction between General Aguinaldo and the Americans is disappearing.

According to the junta's advices the insurgents for a time regarded General Merritt and General Anderson as martinets and feared that they would adopt harsh methods, like the Spaniards, toward the Filipinos, but the insurgents from the first have had the greatest confidence in Admiral Dewey, whom they regard as a sort of father and the most important American at Manila.

The junta is satisfied that all friction will soon disappear and that there will be no trouble from the insurgents if the Americans decide to retain the Philippines.

Accordng to a wealthy Filipino now in London, the Filipinos in Europe are all well to do people. Hitherto they have held aloof from the insurgents, but they now realize that their interests demand action and they are about to form a committee to open negotiations with the junta here. They are all in favor of having the archipelago retained by the United States. So strong is their conviction of the desirability of this course that they had contemplated approaching the British foreign office to invite Great Britain to intervene and in any event to prevent the islands being returned to the control of Spain. They decided, however, to await American action.

They Tank the President for Thanks.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The following dispatches from Admiral Dewey and General Merritt acknowledging the president's congratulations on the fall of Manila, have been made public at the White House:

To President McKinley, Washington:

On behalf of the squadron and myself I thank you most heartily for the congratulations and thanks you were pleased to express. It will always be a source of pride to us all to have received such commendation. Your cable will be published on board the ships of the squadron to-morrow.

GEORGE DEWEY,
Manila.

To the President, Washington:

For my troops and myself accept my sincerest acknowledgements for your generous praise of the success of our campaign. Americans may well be proud of the troops.

MERRITT.

Our Flag Raised in Hawaii August 12.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The state department has received the following from late Minister Sewall at Honolulu, announcing the raising of the American flag over Hawaii:

Honolulu, August 16.

Day, State Department:

Flag raised Friday, the 12th, at noon. Ceremonies of transfer produced excellent impression.

(Signed) SEWALL.

The American Cup Challenge.

New York, Aug. 24.—Charles Russell, the representative of Sir Thomas Lipton, who is challenging for the American cup, arrived in this city at 11.26 o'clock yesterday morning from Springfield, Mass. He went at once to the Fifth Avenue hotel. Mr. Russell said that he did not have the direct challenge to the New York Yacht Club with him, but that he had simply come to New York to pave the way for the challenge. He has a draft of the challenge which is to be brought to this city, and placed before the yacht club by a committee representing Sir Thomas Lipton and the Ulster Yacht Club. This committee, Mr. Russell said, is to sail from Liverpool on the Britannia to-day.

West Point Superintendency.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The selection of First Lieutenant A. L. Mills, First cavalry, as superintendent of the Military Academy, is attracting much attention among army officers. No officer of such junior rank has ever held this position, and Mills, who whilt at West Point is a colonel, will be senior to the present commandant of cadets, Lieutenant Colonel O. L. Hein, who is a captain in Mills's regiment. He himself was a candidate for the place, and was backed by what is known in the army as "Sherman influence." It is expected he will ask to be detached and returned to his troop.

Mails for Santiago and Porto Rico.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The steamer Vigilancia will sail from New York for Santiago de Cuba to-day with mail for points in eastern Cuba.

Heretofore most of the mail for Santiago has been sent from Tampa and other southern ports, and there has been more or less delay due to the irregular sailing of steamrs. Th steamer Carribee will leave New York for Porto Rico about the same time to-day and will carry all mail designed for points in that island.

Menocal Pardoned.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—A. G. Menocal, civil engineer in the navy, who was court martialed some months ago and sentenced to suspension from duty on furlough for three years for neglect of duty in connection with the construction of the Brooklyn dry dock, has been pardoned by the president, who restores him to his former status in the navy. Mr. Menocal retires from active service on September.

Changes in Italian Embassy.

Madrid, Aug. 24.—Signor De Renzis di Montanaro, Italian ambassador to Spain, has been transferred to the Italian embassy at London.

SCHLEY'S HEALTH IMPROVING.

His Indisposition Due to Nervous Exhaustion Not to Fever.

Westport, Conn., Aug. 24.—Rear Admiral W. S. Schley, who has been indisposed at the Saugatuck residence of O. R. S. Wortley, his son-in-law, is much improved. The distinguished officer could not be seen, his physician having given strict orders for his patient's closest exclusion.

Mrs. Wortley, however, announced that Admiral Schley passed a comfortable night and this morning was so far improved as to render it possible for him to leave his room and breakfast with the family. Later in the day it is proposed to take the admiral on a carriage drive.

The report that the patient is suffering from a fever contracted at Santiago is pronounced to be erroneous. Dr. J. G. Gregory, the attending physician, stated this forenoon that no symptoms of fever have been discovered. The patient's pulse is at 80 and the temperature normal and the only tangible diagnosis of his indisposition characterizes it as nervous exhaustion and the reaction necessarily incident upon a sudden relief from the exciting events of the past few months.

Admiral Schley proposes to go to Washington to-day if possible. He greatly regrets that he was unable to be present at the conference with the president yesterday.

THE OUTLOOK AT DAWSON

The Old Famine Talk Renewed.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 24.—The steamer City of Seattle has arrived from Alaska with over a hundred passengers, mostly excursionists. Among the passengers were eighteen miners from Dawson, with a small amount of gold dust. Some of the miners from the interior say that fears are now being entertained of a famine next winter. So far only sixteen steamers have arrived from St. Michael, and the river is very low.

There are 20,000 people in the Klondike, and the latest reports from Pine Creek and Atlin City say that all the territory around there is staked out. Several miners have arrived at the coast with sacks of gold dust ranging in value from $12,000 to $2,000.

Typhoid Fever at Montauk.

Camp Wikoff, Aug. 24.—There were yesterday 225 cases of typhoid fever at Montauk Point.

In the opinion of eminent physicians pure water is indispensable in the successful treatment of that disease.

In the opinion of other eminent authorities the water supply at Montauk Point is at best of doubtful purity and even if pure now cannot under conditions existing at the camp, be relied upon to remain pure.

Notwithstanding this grave situation and the warnings of eminent authorities the surgeons in charge refuse to allow the Red Cross Society to furnish at its own expense distilling plants that would assure the camp a water supply of undoubted and continued purity.

Meanwhile the list of typhoid cases increases hourly. Besides the many that have, as a result of outside influences been removed to hospitals in New York, in Brooklyn and in Connecticut, 225 cases remained at Montauk yesterday. There were but 215 Sunday.

Crushed to Death In a Tunnel

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 24.—Nine men were crushed to death and several others were injured seriously by the caving in of a tunnel on the Big Four railway yesterday morning. News of the accident did not reach the coroner in Pittsburg until this morning.

The men were part of a gang of 68 employed by Casper Paris, a contractor from Columbus, Ohio, and they were engaged in tearing out the tunnel on the Chartiers Valley branch of the Panhandle Railroad just west of the town of Carnegie. The work is being done entirely at night, in order not to interfere with traffic during the day. It had progressed for about a month without accident, and was nearing completion.

Pay for Montauk Troops.

New York, Aug. 24.—Colonel Wilson, chief paymaster in the army building, says that all the troops at Camp Wikoff will receive the pay due them by the latter part of the week.

Major C. C. Sniffen of the pay department and a number of assistants will go to Montauk Point to-day for that purpose.

Colonel Wilson said that all the men were paid off up to the time they went to Santiago.

A Convention of Bankers.

Denver, Aug. 24.—The twenty-fourth annual convention of American bankers association, was called to order in this city at 10 o'clock yesterday morning by President Joseph C. Hendrix of New York. After prayer by Chancellor McDowell of the Denver University and the usual roll call, Governor Adams, on behalf of the state, welcomed the bankers.

Our Peace Commissioners.

Washington, Aug. 24.—It is said the president will be ready to announce the personnel of the peace commission before the close of the present week and possibly within a day or two.

The members definitely decided upon are believed to be Secretary Day, Senator Davis of Minnesota, Senator Frye of Memphis and probably Mr. Justice Wante of the United States supreme court.

Ericsson Back from Cuba.

New York, Aug. 24.—The torpedo boat Ericsson, commanded by Lieutenant Usher, arrived this afternoon from the blockade of Cuban ports, via Key West and Hampton Roads.

The Ericsson stopped at quarantine, and after brief inspection proceeded to the Brooklyn navy yard.

Gold for America.

London, Aug. 24.—It is reported that gold is leaving the Bank of England for New York, but it is believed the operation is a special one.

Some surprise was expressed that the gold withdrawn was in Spanish coin. It is believed, however, that in this way a small margin of profit was secured.

CAMP M'CALLA HEROES

Three Transports Arrive at Camp Wikoff With Troops.

NO SERIOUS CASES ABOARD

The Auxiliary Cruisers Resolute and Badger Have on Board a Number of Marines, Several Artillery Regiments and Three Companies of the Thirty-fourth Michigan.

Montauk, L. I., Aug. 24.—The trim looking auxiliary cruisers Resolute and Badger, now used as transports, came yesterday. The Resolute left Santiago on August 16. She was sighted from Montauk at 8 a. m. In board are the Second, Fourth and Fifth artillery, under General Randolph, and 468 of the brave marines who so nobly distinguished themselves and their commander, Captain McCalla, by holding their ground against great odds for more than a week, when they effected the first landing on Cuban soil at Guantanamo. The marines will go to Portsmouth, N. H. The sick list on the Resolute numbers 61. None of these cases is serious.

The Badger left the south coast of Cuba on August 18 and made a quick trip. She was sighted from Montauk a few hours after the Resolute. On board are Companies F, K and L of the Thirty-fourth Michigan, under Captain Curtis. The sick number eighty-two, with no very serious cases. There was not a single death on either ship during the voyage. Another transport, probably the Mohawk, was sighted before noon, but her identity could not be positively determined at that time.

The Leona, which arrived last night, brought Companies A, D and B of the Twelfth infantry, Troops A and C of the Ninth cavalry, Company E of the Thirty-fourth Michigan, Battery E, Fourth artillery, and a Gatling battery. The men were under command of Colonel Cumba during the voyage. The sick number 104.

The City of Macon struck on a bar late last night, but was pulled off into deep water. She was brought up to the pier and landed her passengers. Freight will be discharged this afternoon. Lieutenant Hart was removed from the City of Macon in a very precarious condition.

The consignment shipped to the Eagle's supply tent by Richard Young of 7 Lincoln road, Flatbush, has been received. It came in fifty barrels, forty containing watermelons and ten containing muskmelons. There were heaps of bundles and boxes containing pipes and tobacco. Captain Fuller of General Wheeler's staff took charge of the consignment immediately on arrival. Five wagons were assigned to help distribute the supplies, and each wagon left the station loaded with melons. They went to different camps and an equable distribution of the delicacies will be made if Captain Fuller's assistants can possibly restrain the soldiers from mobbing the wagons.

There appears to be a lack of unity in the main hospital and the trouble arises from the apparent want of a single authoritative head. The peculiar manner in which the work is performed by the hospital authorities is shown in this instance: Privates Denning and Rogus died yesterday; the latter in the detention hospital. Their bodies were boxed in coffins and shipped to the main hospital with a note that read: "These are the bodies of Denning and Rous." It was necessary to open the coffins to make the identification before the bodies were buried. Similar carelessness has been displayed on many occasions and has caused considerable confusion and delay.

The general hospital contains nine hundred and fifty patients and there are 350 in the detention wards. There are 225 typhoid and eight measles patients. A sergeant of the First cavalry died yesterday morning. The arrival of six hundred cots sent by the Red Cross Society has done an inestimable amount of good to the sick men. The cots came this morning and will be accupied immediately. There is no room for them in the hospitals, but they will be set up nearby. There is a sufficient number of them to go around and every one of the men in the hospitals will have a soft place to rest his head.

Torpedo Boat Station at Boston.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Plans will be prepared at once for the $150,000 torpedo boat station at Boston. Railway and storage sheds will be constructed capable of accommodating twenty boats. It is intended to keep the ships in order for service, and this work will ultimately be done at the Boston yard. The torpedo boats which served in the war, and which are in need of extensive repairs, will be overhauled at New York and Norfolk, as there are no facilities at Boston at present for carrying on this work. Supplies for the boats will be kept in the storage shops, and everything will be in readiness for putting the boats in service at twenty-four hours' notice. Another station for torpedo boats will be established at Pensacola, Fla. The board which recommended Boston was somewhat in favor of locating the northern station at the League island navy yard, but the place will be used as a station for larger ships.

Jamaica Wants Annexation.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug 24.—Coincident with the West India sugar conference, to assemble at Barbadoes on September 3 for the purpose of protesting against a sacrifice of the colonies, Jamaica is preparing a plebiscite to the British parliament requesting permission to endeavor to arrange for annexation to the United States. The promoters of this movement are endeavoring to secure inter-colonial co-operation, but they are not depending upon it.

Reception for the Ensign.

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Ensign Joseph W. Powell of Merrimac launch fame, has arrived home on leave of absence. By resolution of the common council, Mayor Higgins will appoint a committee to arrange a suitable reception to the gallant young ensign.

New Jersey's Greatest Store.

HAHNE & CO. NEWARK, N.J.

AUGUST BARGAINS.

These great bargains are such as we can give only in August and such as no other store in or out of New Jersey can offer.

Don't wait for announcements in newspapers, but come in and enjoy countless rounds of pleasant surprises. The list includes almost everything, from a Hassock to a Parlor Suit, from a Pin to a Bonnet and a Shirt Waist to a Suit.

WE shall close our store evenings at 6 p. m. and on Saturdays at 12 noon, beginning July 8.

FREE deliveries at all New Jersey railroad stations. No extra charge for packing.

Hahne & Co., Newark, N.J.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. PLAINFIELD, New Jersey

Families accomodated for the Spring and Summer months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity, Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed

GEO. B. DE REVERE

F. A. DUNHAM,

—CIVIL ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR.—

109 Park Ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87 F

Shoes for Spring.

You'll be buying a new pair of shoes soon. Where are you going to buy them?

The shoe store you want to patronize is the store that gives you the most style, comfort, elegance and durability for the money.

If you'll "shop around" before you buy you'll find that this is the store you're looking for.

Flynn Bros.,
222 West Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

Who? Who? Who?

says the Owl.

Who sells the best Wall Paper?
Who sells the most Wall Paper?
Who has the largest stock of Wall Paper?

Says the Public:

MARSH, AYERS & Co.,

of course.

The Owl is the symbol of wisdom—a fit symbol is it, therefore, to head an advertisement that will convey to you the wisdom of buying your Wall Paper of us.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, etc. 901 Park avenue, cor. E. Second street.

RUSHTON & HANSEN,
Painters and Paper Hangers,
Office and Shop Sycamore and Fourth Streets

Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

NOTICE

to all interested in

Up-to-date Laundry Work.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular.

We also have just completed arrangements for doing family washing in a satisfactory manner by the dozen or week. Please call at office for further information.

City Steam and Hand Laundry,
Morey & LaRue, Proprietors,
19 Somerset St.,
Tel. No. 751. Plainfield, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front St.,
Plainfield, N. J

A. LUSARDI,
120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail
Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds, of Confectionery, Peanuts' Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

COLLIER,
SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN.
Established 1869.
103 Park Avenue

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 E. Fifth St.
Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER
SANITARY PLUMBING.
TELEPHONE 212 A.

AT THE
Golden Rule Bakery,
110 SOMERSET ST., COR. MANNING AVE.,
You will find a full line of Bread, Cakes, Pies and Confectionery. Telephone Call 220 F.
ICE CREAM.
Sunday orders delivered.
J. J. STAHL, Proprietor.

F. A. LONG,
No. 108 SOMERSET ST.
Near Manning Avenue.
Up-to-Date Cash Grocery Store
Orders called for and delivered in any part of City or Dunellen.

Your Valuables,
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

HARRY S. POTTER,
Dealer In
LEHIGH VALLEY COAL.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard. at Mt. Pleasant Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1y

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY and DRESSMAKING
Parlors. Imported and Domestic Millinery, styles the latest. Hats and Bonnets trimmed to order a specialty. Ladies' own material used. All work strictly first-class.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new Barber Shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
Is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Poultry, Eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park Ave. Telephone Call, 29 A.

McCullough's STEAM MILL.
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished

Our 14th Annual Clothing Sale,

for July and August has commenced, and for the next two months we will sell all of our summer stock at just ½ price. It will pay you to call and get our prices before purchasing elswhere.

Men's and Boys' Suits, Bicycle Suits, Extra Bicycle Pants, Hats and Gents' Furnishing Goods

must be closed out, as we carry nothing over. We have about 100 pairs of those English Tweed pants left, which we still sell at the low figure of 98c the pair, so if you need pants, now is the time to catch on. All goods sold as advertised.

Werner's Clothing House,
206 West Front Street.

MANTELS $4.00 AND UP.
AT THE Fire-Place Store,
CURTIS M. THORPE,
310-312 Park Avenue.

Leech, Stiles & Co.
EYE SPECIALISTS,
14 and 16 South Fifteenth street, Philadelphia. H. A. Stiles will be at
No. 107 East Front St.
Every Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4:50 p. m.
Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 1 14 tf m-t-w-s

STRAW HATS,
Fine Summer Underwear. Also Scotch Cheviot and Madras Shirts, fast colors, at
JAMES R. BLAIR'S,
126 Park Avenue.

$1.25 NOW REDUCED FROM $1.75.
Misses' Chocolate Lace Shoes with Vesting Tops. Sizes 13 to 2 only.
SHERWIN'S, 149 West Front St.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap.
is the order to lay in a heap.
is the atmosphere warmed by its glow.
is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

ORDER YOUR BREAKFAST
AT ROGER'S.
232 West Second St. First Delivery 5 a. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
VanEMBURGH & SON
OPEN A NEW DEPARTMENT.

16 qt. Galvanized Pail	15c	Bound Globe Fancy Parlor Lamps	57
10 qt. Granite Dish Pan	25c	Japanese Dust Pans	5c
33 qt. Wash Boiler	25c	Galvanized Dust Pans	10c
10 qt. Dish Pan	10c	Crumb Trays	10c
Zinc Wash Boards	10c	Long Handle Fire Shovels	5c
Painted Chamber Pails	19c	Chopping Bowls	10c
3 Brass Hoop Cedar Pails	25c	Angel Cake Pans	8c
Large Combination Dinner Pails	20c	Perforated Pie Plates	3c-4c
Knife Boxes	10c	Glass Lamps Complete	19c
Large Enameled Tea Pots	25c	Sink Drainers	12c
1 lb. Roll Toilet Paper	10c	Feather Dusters	10c

IN OUR VERY LIGHT BASEMENT.
Babcock Building. Corner Store. Plainfield, N. J.

NEUMAN BROS.,
HIGH-GRADE GROCERS
Choice Teas and Coffees.

KENT & SON, PIANOS.
$125 A HIGH GRADE PIANO DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.
30 DAYS FREE TRIAL.
GUARANTEED FOR TEN YEARS. Do not pay fancy prices for your pianos. Write us. Send for catalogue. KENT & SON, 49 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

M. POWERS
Dealer in Superior Quality Lehigh and Wyoming Coal.
MIXED COAL, $4.75.
Yard 725 to 737 South Ave. Office 171 North Ave., opposite R. R. Station.
Telephone 67 A

CHARLES L. STANLEY,
142 North Ave., headquarters for
Choice Cut Flowers and Palms and Ferns.
FLORAL DESIGNS.
Decorations for all occasions. Greenhouses at Netherwood, near depot.

J. W. VANSICKLE,
122 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.
FRESH & SALTED MEATS,
GAME IN SEASON. Philadelphia Scrapple.
Orders called for and delivered promptly.
TELEPHONE 148 b.

RUSHMORE & CO.,
WATCHUNG AVE. and FOURTH ST.
Dealers in
Lumber, Coal and Wood
Moulding & Planing Mill.
Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Elston M. French & Co.
163 NORTH AVENUE.
(Succeeding VanBuren Bros.)
Real Estate and Insurance.
Largest agency in the city. Loans negotiate

THE
Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - Proprietor.
No. 138 East Second Street.
Livery, Boarding and Sale Stables
Horses boarded by the day, week, month or year. Reasonable prices.
TELEPHONE 214 F. 17

STORAGE OF FURS.
Special attention is directed to our exceptional facilities for storing furs and fur lined garments, fur rugs, etc., in our new store, 308 West Front street, and the insuring of same against damage by moths, fire or burglary, at very low prices. Now is the time to have your furs repaired, altered and redyed. Summer prices prevail. Estimates cheerfully given.
H. KOHN, 308 West Front Street.

THE OREGONT HOTEL.,
corner Somerset and Chatham streets, North Plainfield. Regular and transient boarders.
RUDOLPH SPEIGEL, Proprietor

The Clearing Sale of Shirt Waists.

With the close of July comes the greatest price-cutting—the most attractive values ever offered. The remaining stock is divided into two lots, 49c. and 75c., former prices ranged from 75c to $1.50. There's not 200 waists in the entire assortment, so we advise an early call for the best selection.

Sailor Hats and Untrimmed Hats 49c.

This means that each and every hat, irrespective of former price, will be 49c. Of especial interest should the price be, as none have been less than 75c, and the styles offered are all of this season's production.

Men's Negligee Shirts 59c.

Sounds cheap, but the hundred or more shirts that go on sale have been selling at 75c., 85c. and $1. The patterns are all new and desirable, the kind that you would like. Clearing time is here, and the new price, 59c., will be the means of their quick disposal.

Men's Summer Underwear 20c.

Nearly 600 pieces gauze underwear to be 20c. This is ordinarily the best 25c underwear sold, but 20c will be the clearing price.

I. LEDERER.

TRY
J. F. MACDONALD'S
TEA FROM 20c. TO 35c. per lb.
COFFEES.
Our 15c. is continuing to make friends, and our 20c. in the grain has no equal.
Guaranteed to equal 50c and 60c goods or money refunded.
Send or call for samples—we are pleased to give them.
Telephone 49 B. 186 East Front Street.

-:-COFFEE-:-

FRESHER than you and I.
Best that grows.
From 10 cents up.

GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW,
PARK AVENUE GROCER.

McDonough Bros., -COAL AND ICE-

222 MADISON AVE. Telephone 225 I.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.
The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p. m.
L. B. Bromfield, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores 9 9 1 year

A. A. MARSH & SON,
PRACTICAL
Painters and Decorators.
—DON'T FORGET THE PLACE—
965 WEST FRONT ST.
All orders sent to us will receive prompt attention.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED.
Give us a call. Respectfully yours,
A. A. MARSH. E. MARSH.
MARSH & SON.

—NEW YORK—
& Elizabeth Despatch
STODDARD'S EXPRESS
have opened an express line between PLAINFIELD, NEWARK and NEW YORK. Office in Plainfield at
161 North Ave.
Goods forwarded by direct line to all parts of the world.

CHAS. EDW. BICKNELL,
wholesale and retail dealer in
California and Domestic Fruits, Confectionary, Nuts, Ice Cream, Soda, etc.
47 Somerset St.
"On the Bridge."

William Hand & Son,
STAGES
For Parties, etc. 518 Park avenue.

Summer Stoves,
burning Gasoline and Oil, have been greatly improved—we have the latest productions.
Baldwin Refrigerators are the best made.
Pratts Deodorized Gasoline.
A. M. Griffen,
119 EAST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

HENRY LIEFKE,
201-203 West Front St.
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
Try my New England and Home Made Bread. Vienna Bread a specialty. Goods delivered to all parts of the city.

TENEYCK & HARRIS,
Dealers in all the best kinds of cleaned and wel screened Lehigh Valley
COAL
Office 121 Watchung ave., near 2d st.
Telephone No. 15 F. South Plainfield. L. V. Station.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vin st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vines
All work promptly attended to.

BETTER GOODS FOR LESS MONEY THAN ANYWHERE ELSE.

Mullins

218-220 MARKET ST., NEWARK.

Homes Furnished for $1 a Week.

One Visit And you'll think same as thousands of others—The Greatest Furniture and Carpet House in the State. Come look at the goods and get our prices. That's all we ask.

$12.
Solid Oak Sideboards, French plate beveled mirror, handsomely carved, at $12.

If you don't like this there are 100 other styles to choose from—$7.50 to $75.00.

$2.50
LARGE REED ROCKERS
$2.50

$4.98.
Buys a Solid Oak Extension Table, well made, nicely carved and finely finished. A grand opportunity this week to refurnish your dining room.

100 Folding Beds at greatly reduced prices.
Folding Beds at....$10
Folding Beds at.... 16
Folding Beds at.... 22

$6.75.
This solid oak 5-drawer Chiffoniere, well made and finely finished, only $6.75. Other styles from $3.25 up.

SPECIAL—100 New Solid Oak CHAMBER SUITS from $10.00 to $250. All new designs.

Easy Terms of Credit if Desired.
Elevators to Every Floor.

MULLINS & SONS.
218-220 Market St., Newark.
Branch Houses 78-84 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J., 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

UNINTERRUPTED PASSENGER SERVICE
TO
FORT MONROE
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
WASHINGTON
which are most attractive points at this time.
EXPRESS STEAMSHIPS
OF THE
OLD DOMINION LINE
Perform Daily Service.
Through tickets returning from Washington by rail or water.
For full information apply to
Old Dominion S. S. Co.,
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILAUDEU, Vice-Pres. & Traffic Mgr. 12 31 tf

LAIRE'S
CUT PRICES FOR THIS WEEK.
Screen Doors, hard wood plain, 80
" " " " fancy, 90
Screen Windows 23, 25, 35.
Ice Shredders with cover 45.
Excelsior Fruit Press $1.50.
Hammocks 50c and upwards.
Rubber Hose.
100 Clothes Pins 5c.
" " " 9c, best.
Toilet Paper 6 rolls 25c.
Toilet package 3 for 25c.
Finest Silver Polish 5c box.
Sole Agents for Lincoln Foundry.
TELEPHONE CALL 862.
The J. P. Laire Hardware Co.

WM. D. THICKSTUN
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

LET US ARM YOU!
It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS AND DECORATORS
141 North Avenue.

NOTICE OF SETTLEMENT.
Notice is hereby given that the accounts of the subscriber as executor of Eliza Mooney, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for final settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Somerset, on Friday, the 30th day of September next.
Dated July 20, 1898.
PHILIP M. HURST, Executor.
7 27 10-w

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 12

E. E. BROWN'S
MEAT MARKET
cor. PARK AVE. and SECOND ST.
Choice Meats
of all kinds.
GAME
in seasons. Goods delivered in all parts of the city and borough.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Built

Ladies desiring
KNIFE-PLEATING or PINKING
done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 26tf

GARRISONING SANTIAGO

Immunes Being Distributed in the Province.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 24.—More of the American troops have been assigned to garrison duty in the country towns. Two companies of the Eighth Illinois were sent to Palma Soriano, in the interior, twenty-five miles northwest of Santiago.

A battalion of the Third regiment of immunes was sent to Baracoa and another battalion of the same regiment to Sagua de Tanamo. Both of these cities are on the north coast.

More assignments to garrison duty will be made to-day. The troops which have already been sent to the interior are rapidly establishing order. The shops at Guantanamo and San Luis are being reopened, and the mule train service between those places and Santiago is being revived.

Captain Starr, who was sent to San Luis to investigate reports of rioting there, reports that the stories of disorder are greatly exaggerated. The private of the eighth Illinois regiment who was shot by Cubans while on sentry duty on Friday night was not instantly killed, as was at first reported, but died on the following day.

The saloons of the town have been closed and the sale of liquor is rigorously suppressed.

Two surgeons came from Siboney yesterday to urge the immediate transportation home from the hospitals there of the convalescent patients. There are 488 convalescent patients in the Siboney hospital, 400 of whom are almost well and 350 of whom are able to be removed.

The surgeons say that the patients prostrated by yellow fever contract malaria, calentura, dysentery and other diseases, and their condition being so weak, they die. The mortality due to such causes is from ten to fifteen a week.

The general health of Santiago city is improving and the mortality is rapidly decreasing.

THE BIDS OPENED

Twenty Eight Firms Sent Estimates for Building 28 Warships.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Bids were opened at noon yesterday in the navy department for the construction of twelve torpedo boats and sixteen torpedo boat destroyers authorized by the late act of Congress. This is the largest addition to the navy, in point of numbers, ever authorized at one time, and when completed the government will have a fleet of sixty of these vessels. At present there are four of the destroyers in service which have a speed of thirty knots an hour.

There were present when the bids were opened, Acting Secretary Allen, the bureau chiefs, Judge Advocate General Lemly, and representatives of the bidders, comfortably filling the big reception room in which the event occurred.

The torpedo boats, by the act of Congress, are to be of 150 tons displacement, and the destroyers to be of 400 tons, the cost all told not to exceed $6,900,000 and to have the highest possible speed. Not more than five are to be awarded to one contractor.

Bids were received from practically all the shipbuilding plants in the country, save two or three of the larger ones, which desired to reserve their yard space for the battleships and monitors to be contracted for next month.

Twenty-eight bids in all were on the table at noon, when the board was called to order.

The bids go to Judge Advocate General Lemly for tabulation and comparison before making award.

It is too early to predict with any confidence who the successful bidders will be. It is pretty certain, however, that contracts for several boats and destroyers will be awarded to the Fall River Engine Company of Weymouth, Mass., and to the Richmond Locomotive works of Richmond, Va.

THE SHEEPSUEAD FUTURITY

Martimas Wins the Two Year Old Race by Two Lengths.

Race Track, Sheepshead Bay, Aug. 24.—Martimas, a rank outsider, won the rich Futurity yesterday.

High Degree was second and Mr. Clay was third.

The time was 1.12 2-5.

The horses were delayed at the post over an hour and a half.

Bangor was off first, with Duke of Middleburg second and the others well bunched.

At the quarter Duke of Middleburg was in the lead by a length, while High Degree held second place by a head from Dr. Eichberg.

In the stretch High Degree held first place, with Bangor second and Martimas in third place.

Martimas then moved to the front and won easily by two lengths.

The value of the stake is $50,000, and the race was established by the late James T. K. Lawrence.

Discriminating Man.

"It is capable of proof," he said in his egotistic way, "that man is much more discriminating than woman."

"I would be glad to have you prove it," she returned, coldly.

"With pleasure," he replied. "Woman will kiss men, women and babies, while man, with finer sense of discrimination, bars the men and the babies."—Chicago Post.

Not Enough.

Kind Lady—"I am sure you would learn to love my children."

Nurse—"What wages do you pay?"

Kind Lady—"Fourteen dollars a month."

Nurse—"I am afraid, ma'am, I could only be affectionate with them at that price."—Puck.

Kitchen Chat.

"Ever notice," asked the stove, "what a modest creature the clock is?"

"Referring, I presume," said the woodbox, "to her holding her hands before her face?"

"Why, no, not so much that as to her habit of running herself down."—Indianapolis Journal.

FIGHTING STILL IN CUBA

Blanco Complains that the Cubans Are Still Beligerent.

SPAIN TELLS HIM TO FIGHT

Madrid Hears Reports of Insurgent Attacks and Sends Instructions to Havana. A Change in the Peace Commission. Gen. Jaudenes Complains That the Americans Are Crowding.

Madrid, Aug. 24.—At the cabinet council held last night General Correa, minister of war, read a telegram from Captain General Blanco, in which he informs the government that the Cuban insurgents continue attacking the Spanish everywhere. In consequence of this report, the council instructed General Blanco to resume an offensive attitude toward the insurgents only.

Admiral Manterola, chief of the Spanish marine in the Antilles, was chosen to replace Admiral Pastor y Landero as one of the Spanish commissioners for Cuba.

The council agreed that the suspension of the constitutional guarantee shall not be applicable to electoral purposes. The queen regent will sign the decree promulgating this decision to-day.

General Jaudenes cables from Manila complaining that the Americans have monopolized every available housing place, and the Spanish soldiers are obliged to sleep in the churches. The necessarily great overcrowding resulting from this causes fears of an epidemic. General Jaudenes describes the men as literally lying in heaps.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Admiral Sampson and General M. C. Butler of the Cuban military commission were in conference with Assistant Secretary Moore at the state department this morning regarding the details of their trip and of their duties. It was decided that they would leave this country about September 5, but whether from New York, Miami, or Tampa, was undetermined.

Most of the time was spent in looking over the map with a view to deciding upon the best points of departure for the Spanish troops and the "lay of the land" as it will have to be occupied by the Americans.

Admiral Sampson expects to return to his home in New Jersey this afternoon or to-morrow and will remain there until he leaves for Cuba. General Butler will go to South Carolina for a brief stay prior to his departure.

The telegram from Madrid conveying the information that the minister of war had authorized General Blanco to resume offensive operations against the Cubans, who were reported to be attacking him, was given to the members of the commission as they separated. It was news to them and they were inclined to think it complicated matters, but refused to express an opinion more decided than this. If it did complicate matters, as they feared, it would be necessary to send an army in force to Cuba to maintain order and carry out the plans of the United States as laid down in the resolution declaring war to exist between the United States and Spain on account of the condition of things existing there.

Hobson Has Sailed.

New York, Aug. 24.—Lieutenant Hobson sailed for Santiago on the transport Seguranca, which left this port yesterday afternoon. The lieutenant is firmer than ever in the belief that he will be able to raise at least one of the Spanish warships, and add it to the United States navy. The recent tests he has made with his air bags have been entirely successful and he expects them to do the work laid out for them without mishap.

There has never been any doubt as to the lifting power of the air bags, but in the earlier tests a difficulty not anticipated arose. The bags are so arranged that as they near the surface after having been submerged, the air is allowed to escape through valves. This prevents the bags from bursting as the water pressure on them is relieved.

Owing to some defect in the valve apparatus the air did not escape from the bags, as was intended, in the earlier tests, and as a result they burst after their burden had been lifted to the surface. This has been overcome, and to doubly guard against failure, the bags have been made much stronger than were the first ones used.

In all about 200 bags will be used by Lieutenant Hobson, but only a few of them have been completed. The bags will be sent down to Santiago in instalments. It is expected that they will have a lifting power of over 12,000 tons.

Officers of the Merritt Wrecking Company, who have been informed of all of Lieutenant Hobson's plans, are confident that he will succeed in his undertaking.

The Seguranca will arrive in Santiago in about five days.

Banks Utilizing Gold.

New York, Aug. 24.—The scarcity of legal tender and treasury notes has resulted in the payment of gold over the counter by a number of the local banks. Gold is plentiful, and it is being utilized in financial transactions wherever possible. It is being shipped in lieu of paper currency, to country correspondents, who are drawing upon their balances here in preparation for the harvesting and crop movement season, and it is being sent to the sub-treasury against customs payments. The subtreasury's stock of paper currency is limited, and that institution is relinquishing the notes as little as possible.

The United States treasury now has net gold holdings exceeding $200,000,000 for the first time since 1888. Its gold holdings have been steadily increasing lately, through customs payments and payments against government bond subscriptions.

MUSTER OUT ORDER TO-DAY

Expected That the First Step in Retiring Volunteers Will Be Taken.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—It is expected that the order for mustering out 100,000 men of the volunteer forces will be issued to-day. The list of troops to be mustered out is nearly complete, but some changes will no doubt be made before the order is finally signed. This will reduce materially the number of troops in the different camps.

The Third Corps, which has been commanded by General Wade, has been ordered from Chickamauga to Huntsville, Ala. One regiment will be retained at Chickamauga under General Boynton. In this connection the following order has been issued by Adjutant General Corbin:

Brigadier General Henry V. Boynton U. S. volunteers, is hereby assigned to duty at the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Military Park. In all matters pertaining exclusively to the care and protection of the park and of its water sheds by camp refuse or otherwise, and in the restoration of the park as the troops may be from time to time withdrawn from any portion of it, he will represent the secretary of war and be obeyed accordingly in enforcing the regulations of the secretary of war for the government of the park.

The commanding general of the United States forces, Camp George H. Thomas, will, upon the written request of Brigadier General Boynton, and to the extent which may seem reasonable, furnish such details of teamsters and teams as may be necessary to the execution of the duties indicated in this order.

CORRESPONDENTS NOT WANTED.

Reasons for Keeping Representatives of American Papers Out of Havana.

Havana, Aug. 22, delayed in transmission.—The authorities have declined to allow the landing of a number of American correspondents who arrived off the harbor this morning from Santiago de Cuba—among them representatives of the New York Herald, the New York World, the Chicago Record, the New York Evening Post and the Philadelphia Press.

English residents have strenuously objected to the government's action; and Mr. Jerome, the British consul, accompanied by Captain Stewart Brice, son of ex-United States Senator Brice, called upon General Blanco and urged him to allow the correspondents to land.

General Blanco, however, declined to comply with the request on the ground that their presence in Havana, prior to the arrival of the military commissioners from the United States, might prejudice the work of the commissioners while discussing the peace details.

His attitude is supported by the opinion of intelligent Spaniards, for, although nothing of a disagreeable nature would be expected to follow the presence of the correspondents in the city, it would be impossible for the authorities, however earnest their wishes, to guarantee the safety of the correspondents against the act of some fanatic.

TO ENFORCE THE PROTOCOL.

War Department Not Surprised at the New Cuban Attacks.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The press reports from Madrid, ostensibly inspired by Spanish authorities, and alleging a continuance of hostilities by the Cuban insurgents, create no surprise in Washington. Adjutant General Corbin said yesterday that the war department had no recent information on the subject, but advices from Cuba have prepared the officers here for this condition.

The Madrid dispatch reports Blanco as authorized to assume an attitude of offence toward the Cubans. General Corbin says that, should the reports of Cuban hostility prove true, this government will take such steps as will preserve the terms of the protocol.

General Shafter has reported that his command will shortly be entirely withdrawn from Santiago. Transports are available for taking the First Illinois, the Ninth Massachusetts and Third, Twentieth and Twenty-fourth United States infantry, all that now remain in eastern Cuba, excepting the four immune regiments, and the Eighth Illinois, destined for garrison duty.

Commission Meets In Quebec.

Quebec, Aug. 24.—All the delegates to the international conference, with the exception of Sir James Winter of Newfoundland, are in the city and attended the first meeting yesterday, which was of an informal nature. The meeting was held in the chamber of the Quebec Legislative Assembly.

The opening of the congress had nothing of pageantry about it. The several representatives of Britain and America gathered in the council chamber, which is to be the seat of their labors for many weeks to come, exchanged their credentials, chose Lord Hershell their president, talked for a few minutes, agreed to adjourn until Thursday morning, and then moved across the hallway into the legislative assembly room, where an address of welcome was read by Mayor Paren Satisfactory Customs Returns.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The customs authorities are feeling pretty well satisfied with the outlook for returns from our conquered provinces. Santiago has turned in as high a revenue as $17,000 in a single day, and the total customs revenue up to August 18 had reached $86,000. What will come in from Manila and Porto Rico it is still too early to forecast. Our annexed province of Hawaii will not come within our tariff lines at all until Congress shall have enacted new legislation.

Cecil Rhodes Elected.

Cape Town, South Africa, Aug. 24.—In the Cape Colony assembly general elections are now in progress. Cecil Rhodes and Mr. Oates, candidates of the Progressive party, opposed to the Afrikander Bund, which is largely representative of President Kruger's interests in South Africa, have been elected by overwhelming majorities in Little Namaqua Land, a maritime district in the northwest of the colony.

The Tennis Championship.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 24.—Malcolm D. Whitman won the national lawn tennis championship here yesterday by defeating Davis.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

Two cents a copy. Ten cents a week $5 a year—in advance

No extra charge for papers mailed to points in the U. S. and Canada

Delivered by carrier or by mail.

The Press has the most complete carrier and mail service of any paper in the metropolitan district.

Any subscriber failing o receive a single issue will confer a favor by notifying the business office.

Advertising rates mailed on request

Copy for change of advertisements must be in this office by 9 a. m. to ensure change the same day.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 24, 1898

FEATURES OF TODAY'S PRESS.

PAGE 1.—Important local news.
PAGE 2.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 3.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 4.—Editorial and gossip.
PAGE 5.—Vicinity news.
PAGE 6.—German news.
PAGE 6.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 7.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 8.—Sporting and local news.

COMING EVENTS.

August 28—Rev. Charles E. Dunn will speak and Mrs. John Manley and William McKillop will render vocal and violin solos at the Y. M. C. A. meeting at 4:15 p. m. Fans and iced lemonade.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

Senatorial Situation.

Perhaps it was not a good thing for John Kean that John F. Dryden has refused to be a candidate for United States Senator. It is true that a dangerous obstacle has been removed from the path of Mr. Kean, but then it must be remembered that where there is only one recognized candidate for Senator lukewarmness in the campaign may ensue. The more candidates there are the better it is to get out the vote. And then John Kean has enemies in his own party who do not care to see him elected United States Senator.

They opposed his ambition before, and now they do not relent. These people may either stay away from the polls altogether on election day or else vote the Democratic legislative ticket. If there was a free-for-all fight for Senator then the Kean Republicans might not sulk in their tents.

The same conditions seemingly prevail on the Democratic side, where James Smith is the only candidate mentioned for Senator. A prominent politician, however, said the other day that Mr. Smith does not desire a re-election; that he was tired of Washington life, and when his term expired he would devote his time to the interests of the Newark Consolidated Gas Company, of which he will be elected president at a salary of $10,000 a year. This story has been repeated, and there may be some truth in it. Yet, if it is true, Mr. Smith does not intend to withdraw from politics. He will be just as active for the success of his party, it is said, even if he is not a candidate for Senator.

Carlism.

So much has been said about Carlism in Spain and its relations to the Spanish monarchy that a clear exposition of just what it means and its origin will be of interest to many readers. When Bourbonism was stamped on Spain by the accession of the grandson of Louis XIV of France, thus leading to what is known as the "War of the Succession," the Salic law, as understood in France, was adopted. So the course of succession remained till the reign of Ferdinand VII, who, for a long time childless, permitted his brother, Don Carlos, to look on himself as the heir. But a daughter by a fourth wife was born, and the king induced the cortes to approve a revocation of the Salic law and restore the old pragmatic law of succession, which recognized female heritage of the crown. So the infant Isabella became queen under the regency of the queen mother, the infamous Christina. Don Carlos at once took up arms, claiming title by the double right of Salic law and the ancient hereditary law of Castile, Aragon and Navarre, under which a woman could inherit only in default of a male heir. This first Carlist war was a veritable pandemonium for Spain, when the most terrible cruelties were exercised on both sides, and the scenes of debauchery at Madrid were such as rivaled those at Rome under Claudius and Nero, so strikingly depicted in "Quo Vadis." The pretender, Carlos, was finally beaten, and he slunk out of the kingdom to die in disgrace as one who had shown himself a curious compound of coward and imbecile. With the growth of Isabella to mature years and her marriage to Don Francis d'Assisi, her cousin, the licentious atmosphere of the Spanish court became even more rank than before, and high society at Madrid was the scandal of Europe.

Toward the end of Isabella's royal career came the second Carlist war. The new pretender was the son of the second son of the first, known to his adherents as Carlos VII. He secured the support of General Cabrera, who had also been the right arm of his grandfather and his uncle in their attempts to secure the throne, one of the ablest and the cruelest soldiers of his time. The war proceeded, with an apparently good chance of Carlist success, till Cabrera, who was as corrupt as he was able, sold his patron and betrayed his trust. So the accession of Alfonso XII was ultimately assured after the short lived experiments of an Italian king and a republic. As the moral influence of Europe is opposed to the present Carlos, as it was adverse to his grandfather, the first pretender, Queen Christina stands an excellent chance of keeping the monarchy safe for her son.

AMBASSADOR JOHN HAY.

All signs point to Ambassador John Hay as the successor of Secretary of State Day, when the latter becomes chairman of the peace commission. As executive officer of the ship of state Mr. Hay may be expected, like his famous creation, Jim Bludso, to "hold her nozzle agin the bank."

The work before congress cut out by recent events is more delicate and difficult than any burden laid on legislation since the reconstruction period. It has the advantage, however, of being free from that passion of exacerbated partisanship which made the debates of that time so extreme in their energy of expression. All parties can now join in discussion, however variant in their views, with a certainty of calm and impartial treatment. In view, however, of the subject in its different phases and the lack of accurate knowledge it is the growing conviction at Washington that it will be wiser to take more time and leave the new issues for an extra session. The forthcoming four months' session, it is felt by many, would better be devoted to the Nicaragua canal and ordinary business. The canal bill, indeed, may justly be regarded as an all important preliminary to an adequate settlement of the things beyond.

Mrs. Lynn Linton, the well known English authoress, not long dead, is the victim of some reminiscences in The British Weekly. In those she is said to have asserted her secret knowledge of unknown facts in the lives of Dickens and Thackeray, and that these great men could and did love deeply, passionately, madly. Both those great geniuses lived so much in the light and blaze of the world's eye that it seems hardly possible that any great romance of their lives could remain unknown.

A first decision of Commissioner Scott under the new war tax law decided that the rent payer must pay a tax stamp to be put on the landlord's receipt. This has been revoked since, and no stamp is necessary now. It is difficult to see how the most superserviceable official zeal could have come to the first opinion. It would at once discriminate between rich and poor. The rich man generally pays by check, which in itself acts as a receipt.

The most powerful personages in name and seeming are those who rarely have their own way. Monarchs are often helpless slaves of policy, of bureaucracy, of tradition. The Russian czar, for example, is an ardent lover of England and English ideas, yet circumstances make him pose as their formidable foe.

According to the veracious New York Herald, the newest Parisian fad among women is the hypodermic injection of perfumes that thin skins may reek with sweet odors. As the habit must surely be a swift road to the coffin it might save the expense of sweet smelling floral tributes.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The building of stone roads has resulted the same in Somerset as in other counties. When first talked of there was opposition everywhere, but now there are applications pending that cannot be acted upon for a long time ahead. People are as impatient now to get the roads built as they were before when the subject was even broached. There is no better way to encourage the building of stone roads than to have a few miles constructed as an illustration of their advantages over the dirt roads so long used by the farmers. Under the system now in vogue in New Jersey the expense to the property owners is so small for the benefits derived that there is seldom any objection to the roads.

In Union, Middlesex, Passaic and Essex counties the increase of suburban homes alone has much more than made up in value to the counties what they have paid for the road construction. The system of stone roads in the State is proving a most beneficial one, and will add greatly to its wealth and beauty. Only those of ample means wanted them at first, but now the farmer sees their advantage both es an actual saving in carting his produce to market and as a drawing card to wealthy investors in suburban property.—Unionist Gazette.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Ernest Hogan, who has made himself famous and immensely rich by his song, "All Coons Look Alike to Me," is the leading comedian with Black Patti's Troubadors, which is to be at Music Hall tonight. Hogan has proven a valuable acquisition to the Black Patti Company. As "Jim Jollier," the real thing in the musical skit at "Jolly Coney Island," he has made tho biggest hit of his stage career. He is truly a remarkable genius and is without equal among the colored as composer, comedian and characteristic interpreter of the modern coon songs.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholsale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Boynton Beach
Last Salt Water Day of the Season,
SATURDAY, AUGUST 27.
Special Music.
Dancing free in the Afternoon. Evenings, 25 cents.
SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERT AT 4 O CLOCK.

LIST OF SPECIALS FOR THIS WEEK.

Men's Balbriggan Shirts and Drawers, 50c grade - 35c
Men's Balbriggan Shirts and Drawers, 25c grade - 18c
Men's fine mixed ½ Hose, 15c grade - 3 prs. for 25c
Men's fine Neckties, any style, 25c grade - - 19c
Men's Initial H'dk'fs., Japonette, 10c grade - 3 for 25c
Men's Collars, any style, 10c grade - 4 for 25c
Men's Collars, any style, 15c grade - 10c each
Cosmo Buttermilk Soap 6c cake
Cuticura - 20c "
Pear's Unscented - 11c "
Packers Tar Soap 15c "
5-4 Pillow Cases, 10c grade 7c each
9-4 Sheets, 39c grade 31c "
4-4 Fruit of Loom Muslin 6c yard
4-4 Lonsdale Muslin 6c yard

Basement Specials.

Porch Rockers, $1.98 grade $1.25
" small 75c " 50c
6 ft. Solid Oak Extension Table, 42-in. square carved legs, ball bearing castors, regular $7.48, this week - $5.99

These Prices are for This Week Only.

WOODHULL & MARTIN,
234-236-238 W. Front St.
Telephone No. 774.

PECK'S
Corset Store,
316 W. Front St.

SPECIAL.

A splendid line of Scotch Suits to order - $15.00
Reduced from $20.00
Trousers to order - - - - 5.00

SEBRING'S,
202 West Front St.

The Model Town . . .
LINCOLN
OFFERS
Rare Opportunities for Home Seekers and Investors.

In has Sewers, Trolley Line, City Water, Telephones, School, Postoffice, Macadam Road, Depots of Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

HOUSES AND LOTS SOLD ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

SILAS D. DRAKE, President and Manager.

MAKES HAIR GROW. A lady in Maine writes:—"I had a bald place on the side of my head for 20 years. Have used almost everything, but found nothing like
REYNOLD'S PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC.
I now have a soft, white down all over the place." It stimulates healthy action of the scalp, relieves from dandruff, prevents falling out of hair. No disagreeable odor. An elegant hair dressing. Made only by
T. S. ARMSTRONG, THE APOTHECARY.

"Honest Values will Sell Honest Goods."

BOEHM'S.

109, 111, 113 W. Front St.

Better goods for less money than anywhere else.

A great week for almost anything you want. Closing out all our summer goods regardless of cost.

Hosiery chances.—Ladies' black hose, the regular 9c kind, for this sale 4 pairs for 25c. Misses' derby ribbed hose, full seamless, sizes 5 to 9½, for this sale at 10c pair. Men's full fashioned half hose in natural mixtures, tans and blacks, the 15c grade, for this sale 10c pair.

Special—Yard wide fancy percales, while the lot lasts, at 3½c yard.

Muslins.—The kind of bleached muslin you usually pay 6c for, for this sale at 4½c yard. Extra good quality bleached muslin, yard wide, for this sale 5c yard. Unbleached sheeting muslin, yard wide, as good as any at 6c yard, for this sale 4c yard.

Waists for warm weather.—A fortunate purchase places us in a position to offer a beautiful lot of fancy colored waists, lace trimmed, at the astonishing low price of 49c. They are bargains at 75c.

Wash fabric prices collapse.—Lawns, madras suitings, swiss effects, a collection of beautiful designs and charming colors to go at the pigmy price of 5c yard.

BOEHM'S.

SENSATION IN SHOES!!
"OFF STYLES," BUT THE BEST OF STOCK.
They will go quick. 1 lot men's Calf Bals, Good Year welt, (all sizes) narrow toes, sold for $3 and $3.50, only 98c. 1 lot Burt & Packard's narrow widths, only broken sizes, were $5 and $6, only $1.48. 1 lot J. & M. patent leather button and lace odds and ends, were $5 and $6, only 98c. 1 lot odds and ends boy's and men's, sold from $2.50 to $4, your choice now 69c.
We are selling lots of TRUNKS, Dress Suit Cases and Hand Bags cheap. These are some samples of our great summer sale. Trunks from $1.98 up. BIGGEST BARGAINS IN TOWN.
Doane & Edsall.

IF YOU SEE
Our FURNITURE
and get our prices your own good judgment will decide about the fairness of both. Please call often and look at our constantly changing assortment.
G. Q. PACKER,
301-305 West Front Street, corner Madison Avenue. Telephone 736.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 24—Mrs. George W. Day, of this place, and her sister, Mrs. Walter Hunt, of Philadelphia, were guests yesterday of New York friends.

Yesterday Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. Marlow, the Misses Marlow, of this place, and Miss Maude Benton, of New York, enjoyed themselves at Washington Rock. They took their lunch and had a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Snyder have been called to North Branch, owing to the death of Mrs. Snyder's father, Mrs. Smith, which occurred last Tuesday. The funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Rev. D. W. Skellinger and wife, of Washington, who have been stopping in town, left today to visit Mr. Skellinger's birthplace, Chester, Morris county.

Work on the trolley was resumed yesterday. To the residents of the borough who are anxious for a trolley ride, the work seems to progress very slowly.

Irving Martine, of Church street, has returned from a visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff, of Flemington.

The members of the M. E. church Sunday-school spent yesterday in Vail's grove, New Market, and had an enjoyable time.

Rev. Frank Fletcher will return this week from Asbury Park, where he has been sojourning for his health.

Dewitt Smith, of Somerville, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, of Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Taylor, of Church street, are entertaining company from out of town.

Miss Virgie Tunison, of Washington avenue, was a visitor in Plainfield yesterday.

Mrs. Wm. Baldwin, of New York, is stopping at the home of Mrs. W. H. Clark.

Tomorrow Rev. A. I. Martine and bride will return from their honeymoon.

Miss Maude Benten, of New York, is the guest of borough friends for a time.

Miss Giles has returned from a visit with relatives on Staten Island.

There will be preaching services at the M. E. church next Sunday.

Mrs. Goldson Smalley is entertaining company from New York.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 24.—While John and George Kleinser were riding over the course Monday evening for Saturday's race, they collided. Both were severely shaken up and bruised by the collision and George's wheel was wrecked. The accident was due to riding without a light. Frank is entered for Saturday's race, but it is not certain whether he will be able to ride owing to the accident.

A number of the people of this place attended the funeral of Mr. Townley in Plainfield Monday afternoon. Rev. J. H. Parks, the deceased's old pastor, preached the funeral sermon.

Miss Reignetti Marsh and several of her young friends enjoyed a wheeling trip to Morristown Monday and visited Washington's headquarters.

Mrs. Achison, of Matawan, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Lee, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Billings, for a week, returned to her home in Brooklyn Monday.

Mrs. Thomas Pall, Jr., spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Gere, in Brooklyn.

Miss Jennie Johnston led the Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church Sunday.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Washingtonville, August 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., were the guests of friends in New Durham Sunday.

The ruined dam on the Coddington property on Somerset street is being repaired and put in order. The water held by the dam will furnish power for Herrmann's new planing mill that has just been completed.

Mrs. Belle K. Smith, of Metuchen, is spending a few days at her summer home near Stony Hill.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, August 24 — Manager Downes, of the Westfield Baseball Club, has notified the public that unless the people contribute something toward the support of the team it will be disbanded. A game has been arranged for Saturday afternoon with the Clinton A. C., of Jersey City, but unless money is received before that time it will have to be cancelled, as there is no money in the treasury.

B. H. Woodruff, of the board of the Methodist church, has offered a reward of $10 for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who broke into the cellar Sunday night and stole a roll of carpet which had been purchased for the ladies' room.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A visit to the war ships in the New York bay is most interesting. They can be easily reached from here by going to New York and taking a Staten Island ferry boat from the Battery to St. George. At the latter place there are a number of steam launches plying back and forth to the boats that charge 50 cents for the trip. When the visitor is landed on a boat he is given a ticket by the launch captain that entitles him to return. It often happens that the launch does not show up, and then it will cost 50 cents to get ashore. The safest way is to pay going each way. Admiral Sampson has decided that the freedom of the ships shall be extended to every one between the hours of 10 in the morning and 5 in the evening until further notice.

* * * * *

A few days ago while Charles Sebring, of Greenbrook, was having excavations made near his water plant, he ran across an old-fashioned hammer that is supposed to be nearly one hundred years old. The head is of the very old-fashioned kind, while the handle is of a style very seldom seen. It is in a good state of preservation and is good for many years to come. It was found at a considerable depth in the ground close to the water, and no doubt the water kept the handle intact. Mr. Sebring prizes the hammer very much and intends to take good care of it.

* * * * *

Freeholder Charles R. Whitehead, of Washington Valley, has in his possession one of the oldest coins known to be preserved in the country. It is a penny marked with the date 1786. On one side are the words "E Pluribus Unum," and on the other is a horsehead and plough. The coin was found on the Bernardsville road near Glen Alpin, by a workman digging on the road.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rufus C. Larew, of West Fourth street, spent Sunday in Newark.

Charles Dunlap, of East Fifth street, is spending a week at Asbury Park.

Miss May Willett, of New York, spent yesterday with friends in town.

Miss Sadie Hibbitts, of I. H. Boehm's, is on a two weeks' vacation.

Charles Woolston, of Fairview avenue, is spending a week at Asbury Park.

Bert Hinrichs, of LaGrande avenue, is spending a few days in Asbury Park.

Herbert Moore, of Grove street, has returned from an outing in the Catskills.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rider, of Watchung avenue, have returned from the south.

Frank Hedden, of Central avenue, has returned from a fishing excursion off Barnegat.

Mrs. Horace J. Martin and family, of Jackson avenue, are back from Asbury Park.

E. B. Ryder, of Central avenue, has returned after spending his vacation at Asbury Pask.

Fred Barker, of the telephone office, has gone to Asbury Park, where his mother is very ill.

William Thorn, of East Second street, has returned after spending a week in Asbury Park.

A. A. Cannon, of Craig place, was one of the visitors aboard the battleship Indiana Sunday.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, of Sandford avenue, has gone to Asbury Park to spend two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore, of Grove street, leave this week for Mt. Pocono to spend two weeks.

Mrs. I. H. Boehm has returned from Avon, where she has spent the summer months with her mother.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

E. B. Day and family, of Central avenue, are at Dennis, Cape Cod.

Charles Woolston, of Fairview avenue, is enjoying his annual vacation.

Miss Josie Fritz, of Somerset street, has gone to visit friends at Scranton, Pa.

Dr. Thickstun, of Central avenue, has returned from a stay at the seashore.

A. D. Pope, of Lincoln place, has returned from a sojourn at Long Branch.

Mrs. A. A. Chandor and family, of East Fifth street, have gone to Mt. Pocono.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Dolliver, of Fairview avenue, spent last Sunday at New Durham.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris and daughter, Miss Cora, of West Fifth street, are at Nyack.

Miss Hyer, of East Fourt street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Winfield Coddington, of Newark.

Harry McDonald, of East Front street, has returned from a pleasant stay at Asbury Park.

Francis J. Blatz, of Somerset street, has returned after a week spent at Asbury Park.

Mrs. George Dennick, of West Third street, is visiting friends in Bronx Park, New York.

Mrs. H. T. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, will return this week after an outing at Glen Cove, L. I.

H. L. Moody and family, of Watchung avenue, leave tomorrow for a sojourn at the sea shore.

Henry Watts, of Newark, was a guest at the home of A. J. Beal, of South avenue, Monday night.

Mrs. Charles F. McCann and son, of West Third street, have gone to Washington, D. C., to spend a week.

Mrs. Charles Conover and son, Ernest Conover, of Elmwood place, are spending the week at Alton.

Freeholder Andrew Lutkins, of Somerset street, is out of town on business. He will return next week.

Mrs. Thomas Leslie and daughter, of West Front street, have returned from New York after an extended stay.

Lawyer Irving Brady will return from Greenwood Lake this week, where he has been spending his vacation.

Mrs. Joseph A. Blatz and her daughter, Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street, are stopping at Asbury Park.

Miss Lyda Pangborn, of Chatham street, is home after spending a week's vacation amid the delights of Asbury Park.

Mrs. J. A. Blatz and Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street, left yesterday to spend their vacation at Asbury Park.

Will Townley, of Alert Hose Company, is now enjoying his vacation of ten days. His place is filled by Harry Bush.

Mrs. A. D. Pope, of Lincoln place, has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Francis Clark, of High street, Newark.

Charles Clark and bride, of Providence, R. I., who have been spending their honeymoon in the borough, have returned home.

M. C. VanArsdale and family and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lutkins, of Somerset street, have gone to Lake Hopatcong for a week.

Mrs. George E. Firstbrook, of Elmwood place, accompanied by her son, Harold, will go to Harrisburg, Pa., next week to visit relatives.

Albert L. Schomp, of West Front street, left this morning on a wheeling trip to Philadelphia and Willow Grove, where he will remain for a week or so.

Miss Florence Robinson, of Paterson, has returned home after a visit at the home of her cousin, Miss Charlotte DeMeza, of West Second street.

Miss Violet Truell, of Central avenue, and Robert Johnson, of this city, will be married in the Seventh-Day Baptist church Wednesday, September 14th.

Rev. George C. Wilding, D. D., of the Hedding M. E. church, Jersey City, will preach at the First M. E. church next Sunday, morning and evening.

John Sullivan, of Co. H, Third Regiment, N. J. Vols., is detained at his home in this city suffering with a fistula. An operation will have to be performed.

Miss Grace White and Miss Lillian Dundon, of Brooklyn, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vail, of Elmwood place, have returned home.

Rev. Henry C. Applegarth, of Cleveland, O., who preached so acceptably at the First Baptist church two weeks ago, will again accupy the pulpit next Sunday, morning and evening.

THE KODAK

is one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:20 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:20 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E H BIRD, P. M.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—There's money in it! Sure! Trading at Peck's.

—Canning tomatoes are to be found at Neuman Brothers.

—Lawyer J. B. Coward has made some noticeable improvements in his office.

—A regular meeting of Unity Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will be held this evening.

—Neuman Brothers are selling fresh Jersey fruits very satisfactory in price and quality.

—The regular monthly business meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held tonight.

—The best quality of Jersey peaches, for canning or table use, are now at Neuman Brothers.

—Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men will hold its invitation picnic at Mountainside Grove tomorrow evening.

—Fred H. Martin, of West Front street, will lead the prayer meeting in Trinity Reformed church tonight at 8 o'clock.

—Real estate agents say that the renting season is about upon us, and that this week lookers for houses are plentiful.

—During Luther Compton's funeral yesterday afternoon J. H. Leggett's pharmacy was closed and the clerks attended in a body.

—A regular meeting of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., will be held tomorrow evening. There will be several candidates to initiate.

—The Sons of Veterans will hold their first meeting, after an adjournment on account of the summer season, early in September.

—Tomorrow the annual excursion of Warren chapel will occur. The destination will be Asbury Park and everybody is invited to participate.

—If your spectacle frames fit you and the glasses do not we will replace the lenses at a moderate cost and guarantee them to fit. Leech, Stiles & Co at 107 East Front street, Plainfield.

—W. G. Klein has sold out his picture frame business in the Y. M. C. A. building to a Plainfield party, and Arthur Drake, Mr. Klein's manager, will continue to act as manager for the new owner.

—Rev. Charles E. Dunn, of Freeport, Ill., will speak at the 4:15 o'clock meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Mrs. John Manley will sing, and there will be violin solos by William McKillopp.

—If you are fond of water melons L. A. Hummer, butcher, Park avenue, is selling a variety that is certainly fine. And he will put it in a large meat ice box and cool it for you free of charge before he delivers it.

Mrs. H S. Hall, of East Fifth street, is very ill and the end is expected any moment.

One Bottle

of our

Vanilla, Orange, or Lemon

from your grocer will be sufficient to make you our customer.

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's.

Another large shipment of

MALT EXTRACT

has just been received. The nutritious properties of this Malt Extract has brought it forth as one of the best aids to restore vitality to the system.

20c per Bottle. $2.00 per Dozen.

REMEMBER! Randolph's Ice Cream Soda—Oh, how delicious!

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. CORSLINE, AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N.J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,

UNDERTAKERS,

No. 402, Park Ave. Tel. 40.

Office open night and day.

OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE.

UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER.

200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.

OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,

UNDERTAKER.

Residence and office 59 Somerset St.

TELEPHONE 248 B.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

LOST—Lamp to bicycle lantern. Return to Press office.

WANTED—A girl to do general housework. Call at 825 First place. 8 24 2

WANTED—A protestant girl as cook and laundress. Good reference required; Swede or German prefered. Mrs. Francis Wood, 313 Franklin place. 8 24 2

$1,300 Wanted on Bound Brook property 5 per cent, taxes, insurance $2,300, very prompt pay. Chas. J. McNabb, Attorney, Plainfield. 8 24 6

LOST—On the 23d, a small green bag containing about four dollars. Finder will please return to 120 Crescent avenue.

FOR SALE—A fine residence. House fourteen rooms, all improvements, steam heat. Large carriage house, four stalls, other necessary buildings. On three acre lot, fine shade and fruit trees. High ground, elegant view. For easy terms address owner, L. Hollingsworth, Scotch Plains, N. J. 8 13 8 w-s

FLAT and offices to let, in Babcock Block. 8 22 tf eod

FOR SALE—Cheap, freight elevator, almost new, can be seen at Woodhull & Martin's. 8 22 tf eod

TO LET—Large room, fourth floor, Babcock Block, suitable for Lodge room. 8 22 tf eod

TO RENT—Furnished rooms, with all improvements. 323 East Second street. 8 23 1w

TO LET—Nine room house, 705 LaGrande avenue. Inquire 705 Berckman street. 8 23 3

LOST—A lady's gold watch. Reward for its return to Press office. 8 23 2

WANTED—Respectable protestant woman to assist in general housework, small family, plain cooking, good home, right person will be treated as one of the family. Address Bess, care Press. 8 23 2

WANTED—A first-class cook, colored; for one month. Apply on Wednesday, at 151 East Seventh street. 8 23 2

YOUNG married couple would like to secure quiet boarding place at reasonable terms. Address D. O. C., care of Press office, stating terms, accomidations, etc. 8 23 3

FOR SALE—New house, has desirable location; ten rooms and bath; leased for the year at good rental, part cash, balance mortgage. Address P. W. T., care Press. 8 22 6

FOR SALE Reasonably; Large bay horse, suitable for any work. Apply 810 Central Ave. 8 16 tf

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT, AUGUST 24, 1898.

First appearance of the world-famous and unrivaled

Black Patti Troubadours.

The greatest colored show on earth, and the biggest theatrical hit of the century. Greeted everywhere by applauding multitudes. Fifty ecstacies in Ebony who have set the entire world singing their fascinating and melodious coon ballads. A joyous blending of song, story and dance, by the merriest people under the sun. A veritable revelation! Coon comedy, coon songs, jubilee shouts, cake walks, buck dances, vaudeville, operatic reviews.

BLACK PATTI

and her fifty promoters of mirth and melody, are the features of this universally popular company. The stage performance is the quintessence of refined fun and sweet melody and is intended for the enjoyment of all.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

ANNUAL

EXCURSION

of the

Warren Chapel Sunday-school,

THURSDAY, AUGUST 25th,

To Ocean Grove.

TICKETS—Adults, $1.25. Children, 90c.

Train leaves Plainfield at 8 a. m. Returning, leaves the Grove at 5:50 p. m.

Baggage car attached for bicycles, baby carriages, etc. 8 18 6

The Only Place

to buy

Keyler's

is

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

Smalley Bros.

THE OLD ESTABLISHED RELIABLE

BUTCHERS,

144 NORTH AVE.

Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

E. S. F. RANDOLPH,

DRUGGIST,

Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.

PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

30 000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,

206 Park Avenue.

8 15 tf Plainfield.

Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., August 15, 1898.

Anderson Miss E	Millston Miss W E
Broughton Dr J G	Otto Mr C G
Carmicheal Mrs A	Page Miss H M
Cobb Miss M	Phillip Mr W
Cook Miss M E	Read Mrs M M
Davis Mrs S	Reiley Mr J E
Downes Miss M	Robinson Miss Fannie
Dunn Mrs C	Robbins Mrs J B
Fahy Miss K	Robbins Mrs
Felch Mrs G	Runyon Mrs J R
Finey Mr T	Ryder Geo W "M D"
Furry Mrs	Smith Mrs L
Hendeon Mrs C	Sulio Mr Carlos
Johnson Mr J Aug	Staples Miss C
Johnson Miss M A	Tanner Mr W J
Jones Mr Thos	Terry Edward
Kelly Mr Jos	Waller Mr W
Kuhn Mrs S	Williams Mrs M E
Kuldesher Mr V	Wilson Mamie
Layton Miss C L	Winslow Mr Chas
Lasker Mr R	Odman Miss L
Leicht A F	Davis Mr Chas
Maloney Mrs

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

August Selling.

There is no month in the year to compare with it in the economy of its offerings. With makers' profits gone there is a bed rock of values struck such as would be impossible under ordinary conditions.

Shirt Waists.

The largest purchase we leave ever made, our entire stock of the best manufacturer in New York City, twenty-five hundred waists that a month ago would have sold for $1.50 and $2.00 each, will be put on sale tomorrow 49c each.

Turkish Wash Cloths 2c each, value 5c.
" " " 3c " " 7c.
Extra heavy Crochet Quilts 69c each, value $1.25.
Extra heavy Marseilles Quilts $1.75, value $3.
Extra heavy Marseilles quilts $1.98 each, value $3.50.
Fine Portiere Curtains 98c each, value $2.
Fancy Table Covers 39c each, value 75c.
Extra heavy Turkish Towels, price 13c each, value 22c.
Extra Heavy Turkish Towels, price 15c each, value 30c.
Extra Heavy Turkish Towels, price 30c each, value 50c.
Ten Quarter All Wool California Blankets, price $2 40 pair, value $5.00.
Fancy Colored Linen Table Covers, 49c each, value $1.00.
Ten Quarter Fancy Linen Table Covers, 79c each, value $1 40.
Twelve Quarter, 89c each, value $1.75.
German Turkey Red Table Covers, Ten Quarter, $1.10 each, value $2.00.
Ten Quarter all Linen Table Covers with One Dozen Napkins to match, $2 10 set, value $3.50.
Twelve Quarter all linen Table Covers with one dozen Napkins to match, $2.25 set, value $4.00.
18 in. all linen Birds Eye, 95c piece, value $1.50.
20 in. all linen Birds Eye, $1 10 piece, value $1.75.
Hemstiched linen Doylies, 5c each, value 10c.
Hemstiched linen Doylies, 10c each, value 20c.
18 in. Embroidery Linen, 9c yard, value 15c.
40 in. Embroidery Linen, 29c yard, value 60c.
22x42 extra heavy hemmed Huck Towels, 19c each, value 30c.
20x40 Huck Towels, 18c each, value 25c.
22x44 Huck Towels, 21c each, value 35c.
54 in. Pillow Case Linen, 42c yard, value 75c.
42 in. Pillow Case Linen, 37c yard, value 60c.
Extra large Marsailles Quilts that cost $4.00 to import, $2.49.
50 in. Tapestry for furniture covering, 23c yard, value 50c.
16-inch Damask Stair Crash, all linen, 11c yard, value 18c.
20-inch same, 14c, value 20c.
Ten quarter Damask Floor Crash, all linen, 39c yard, value $1.
Damask Floor Cloths, size 3 yards by 4 yards, $1.98 each, value $5.
All linen Dinner Napkins 7c each, value 10c.
All linen Dinner Napkins 10c each, value 13c.
All linen Glass Toweling 8c yard, value 12c.
All linen Twilled Crash 7c yard, value 10c.
36-inch Butchers' Linen 15c yard, value 35c.
36-inch Shirting Linen 25c yard, value 50c.
Extra heavy all linen Crash 11c yard, value 18c.

Edward White.

SPAIN IS EVER CRUEL

HER PLEASURE IN INFLICTING TORTURE ON THE HELPLESS.

Atrocious Treatment of War Prisoners Has Alway Been a Natural Characteristic—Deeds as Horrible as Any Savages Ever Thought Of.

"Aside from anything that a wilful partisan or a romantically inclined historian may have written, one can say, without fear of contradiction, that of all the civilized nations on earth, none ever has waged war in a more cruel and fraudulent manner than the Spanish," says a recent writer. "It is with horror only that the Germans think of the times of Alva, who devastated their fatherland by his atrocious actions, and transformed the industrial cities and provinces of the Netherlands into a desert.

"No better than this bloody executioner of King Philip were other Spanish leaders in the war waged for the independence of the Netherlands. The city of Maastricht, for instance, was plundered for three days, after having been besieged for four months by the Spanish General, Alexander Farnese, Duke of Parma. Eight thousand inhabitants were murdered, among them 1,200 women, who, after having been subjected to unspeakable outrages and tortures, were positively butchered.

"The cruelties of the civil war between the followers of Philip V and of Carlos III can hardly be described, and they are only surpassed by the brutalities committed during the long war of the Spaniards against the French (1808-1814). When Napoleon had put his brother Joseph on the Spanish throne, and had taken possession of the country with his army the people became furious, and the fanaticism of the bigoted masses showed up in a revolting manner, as they feared for their religion from the enlightened French; the clergy, and especially the monks, preached that the French were inimical to the Catholic faith, and that Napoleon was 'anti-Christ in person.' They armed the peasants and started a bloody guerrilla war, and in this sort of warfare the diabolic character of these much-praised chivalrous Castillians revealed itself with full force. The Spaniards murdered their enemies whenever and wherever they could lay their hands on them and invariably committed horrible atrocities against the wounded and prisoners, cutting off their noses and ears, or they sawed them in pieces, or crucified or slowly burned them. The Spanish women, those noble souls, whose virtues have been sung by exalted romances, committed acts of brutality heretofore almost unknown to man. In the Sierra Morrena, for instance, the transports of prisoners were attacked by them and they dug out the eyes of these unfortunate people with pins and scissors, and to enhance the misery of those who were wounded they cut open the soles of their feet and then compelled them to march. In 1808, when the French general, Dupont, and his 25,000 men surrendered at Baylen, a great many of the prisoners were tortured and killed in the above described manner:

"In the island of Malorca, where thousands of prisoners had been forwarded, the mob stormed the barracks and killed most of them on the spot.

"An English reporter, who was with Wellington's army, tells of a peasant who followed a transport of wounded Frenchmen for hours, and begged the English escort most imploringly to give him one of the wounded enemies. When the English soldier asked him what he intended to do with the wounded man, the brute coolly replied, 'Why, torture him.' In the second volume of his memoirs, the famous French General, Marbot, tells of a dreadful ride performed by him while captain of the Chasseurs a Cheval in 1808. He started from Indela, in the Ebro Valley, with important dispatches from Marshal Lannes for Emperor Napoleon, who was stationed at Aranda, a village on the road leading from Burgos to Madrid. Marbot had to ride through a lonesome and mountainous region, where many bands of guerillas moved. He took two hussars with him as escort as soon as he reached Tazra, as he was told from there on his ride would be a most perilous one. It was moonlight when the three Frenchmen reached the mountains. Suddenly they heard the well known whizzing of bullets, but were unable to discover the enemy. As they had not been hurt they moved on and soon found scores of dead soldiers belonging to Ney's corps. They had been plundered, robbed of their clothing, and left naked by the roadside. Shortly after this they came to a lonely barn, where they met with a horrible sight. A young officer belonging to the chasseurs was nailed hands and feet to the barn door with his head downward, and, to increase the tortures of the miserable man, the barbarians had kindled a fire under his head. The poor fellow was beyond suffering, but it could not have been a long while, for the blood was still trickling from his wounds. The three riders were shocked, and when again bullets began to whistle from ambush the hussars answered with their rifles. They promptly killed two of their aggressors and then rushed at the others with sabres in hand. In an instant they jerked two of the offenders from their horses, of whom one proved to be a Capuchin monk, who had mounted the horse of the crucified officer, while the other was a peasant who carried two uniforms of murdered French musketeers. The hussars, driven to madness by the horrible sight of their tortured comrades, gave no quarter, but promptly despatched the two brutes.

It is estimated that there are 400,000 mummies in Egypt.

THEY POINT TO VICTORY.

Figureheads a Prominent Feature on the Warships.

Sad to relate, our modern mariners give very little thought to figureheads. A war ship feels any number of times securer with a few torpedoes up her sleeve than she possibly could with the most aesthetic or formidable figurehead on her stem. In fact, look about any harbor and note how few ships boast anything in the shape of this sort of a mascot. Yet, time was when a vessel would as soon have thought about starting out with a leak as without a figurehead, and the further back we go the more was this a fact. The earliest discovered model of a figurehead belonged to a pleasure boat of one of ancient Egypt's dark eyed queens, being in the form of a lotus, and so very much to her mind and heart that she had it buried with her, but warships with animals carved upon the prows are known to have existed in Egypt before the day of this queen, in fact, as early as 1000 B. C. The subject usually corresponded to the name of the ship. This was before the introduction of rams. A few figureheads, as well as anchors and rams, found in the ruins of the locks at Athens serve to give a notion of the dimensions of ancient Grecian warships. The niche occupied on the Flying Dutchman by the human skeleton was the niche that in the Middle Ages was occupied by a saint, and this in turn was an outcome of a way they had in the days of the Roman consuls of taking their lares or tutelary gods to sea in the after part of the ship.

Apparently each particular nation had a favorite emblem. The owl was as conspicuous on the Athenian ships as was the cock, that emblem of vigilance, on the prows of the Phoenicians. The shining blade of St. Theodore, the patron saint of the Venetians, was their favored figurehead, while the British lion became so universally the figurehead of English ships that other nations who followed closely the naval architecture of this "first nation on the sea" adopted also the lion, as much to conceal their identity as because they were built after English models. So common was this that in France the curve of the bow was known as the "sweep of the lion."

Of the few figureheads preserved at our Naval Academy that of the Delaware, which was launched at Norfolk in 1820, attracts most attention. This image, called by some Tecumseh, by others Powhatan, or even King Philip, is not believed to be a portrait, but rather to represent a great sachem or a powhatan, a title having among the Indians a significance quite like that of Pharaoh among the Egyptians. At any rate, here he is, with his tomahawk, his arrows and his stern brow, as much a part of the scheme as the cadets themselves.

After the civil war the figurehead of the Columbus, which Commodore Macauley burned and sunk at Norfolk in 1861 in order that the Confederates might not gain possession, was fished up and brought to the academy. The figurehead of the Macedonian, which was for four years used as a practice cruiser, is there, too. The Macedonian, originally a French ship, was captured from the French by the English. In 1812, after a short, fierce fight, she became an American ship. A wooden figurehead in the shape of a lion did duty as a mascot on her quarter deck at the time of her capture. Other of our historic figureheads are the bust of Washington, from the line-of-battle ship by that name, the figure of St. Louis on a receiving ship and the gilded eagle which once belonged to the Niagara.

Though the origin of the figurehead be lost in obscurity, let us hope and believe that the figureheads of our warships will lead them to a thrilling victory. This is surely presaged by the figurehead on the Massachusetts of Commodore Schley's fleet, which surely stands for Samothrace.

Weary's Patriotism.

Ragsen Patches—How are yer goin ter show yer patriotism, Weary?

Weary Raggles—Easy. I determined not ter use no more Castile soap.

The Winslow's Parrot.

"He was in his iron cage hanging right over on the front of the tower there," the tar went on, in answer to several questions. "He didn't seem to mind things much, either. He just kept cussing to himself quietly. But a shell went through the starboard boiler, and then I saw the lieutenant coming down from forrard with a bloody towel twisted round his leg. Still we and the bird stood those Dagos' peppering well enough, popping back at em and working along with one propeller, till all of a sudden a shell burst aft and knocked the steering gear skyhigh. 'Shut up!' yelled the bird; 'shut up; shut your mouth!' and he went on, swearing away like a good one."

ARMY SEARCHLIGHTS

THE PRACTICAL USE OF ELECTRICITY ON THE BATTLEFIELD.

Movable Searchlights That Can Be Used in Collecting the Dead or in Protecting a Reconnoissance Party, Also in Directing the Aim of Heavy Guns.

It is proposed to take into Cuba movable searchlights of great power. The War Department has detailed plans of such equipment and appended descriptionst furnished by specialists who have made a study of possibilities of electrical projectors and other applications of electricity upon the battlefield.

Electric searchlights for such purposes can be made to throw light as far as nine miles. These will be used for gathering the dead and wounded left on the battlefields at night and for many other purposes. The ground in front of a party sent out for reconnoissance can be kept well lighted by night without betraying their positions to the Spaniards. One of the men in advance of the exploring column may facilitate this and guide the manipulators of the light by carrying a lantern masked on the side of the enemy. By throwing one of these pencils of daylight upon the roads from which a Spanish advance guard is expected, the latter's movements would be seriously hampered and they would doubtless turn back if discovered before coming in range. Our troops will be always fearful of surprise attacks in the early morning, and attempts of this kind might thus be easily frustrated.

These portable searchlights will also be of great value for directing the aim of the heavy guns by night, the points to be fired upon being first pointed out by the projected flame. By such devices it will also be an easy matter to prevent the Spaniards from making repairs on their fortifications by night, when such repairs are usually attempted. As fast as the beginning of a new fortification would appear it could be destroyed as readily as in the daylight. Of course, it would be useless to build a fortification under a shower of projectiles.

To assist in the extensive electrical work to be accomplished in Cuba the War Department has mustered in companies of electricians of about sixty men each, adepts in their profession and to a great extent drawn from well known electric firms. These will cooperate to a great extent with the regular engineers and with the new brigade of 3,500 volunteer engineers.

Great numbers of incandescent lights will be necessities of the modern camp, the field offices to be occupied by clerks and stenographers accompanying each commander's staff, or draughtsmen of engineers planning new works, and spaces occupied by workmen. Portable electric plants to furnish the current will consist of compact vehicles, hauled by horses, and containing each a boiler, motor, dynamo, engine and appliances. These may be attached to illuminating wagons filled with lamps.

Civilians in Soldier Clothes.

"There is an entire absence of law protecting the army uniforms," observed an army officer to a reporter, "and, peculiar as it may seem, it is not a violation of law, military or civil, for any unauthorized person to wear the uniform of an officer or soldier. In other words, it would not violate any law if any one paraded the streets attired in the full military uniform of a general, colonel or other officer. In Europe it is entirely different, and if an unauthorized person publicly wore the uniform of an army or naval officer without authority he would be gobbled up, stripped of his military or naval fixings and would have a long stay in prison for his offence. There have been a number of efforts in this country in the State Legislatures to make it a crime to wear the uniform, without proper legal authority, of an officer of the State National Guard or militia, but somehow they were never crystallized into law. The offence does not often occur, but should it happen, and it has happened sometimes, there is no penalty. Of course, if an unauthorized person committed any offense against the law, such as false pretences, he would be liable to punishment under the general law to prevent frauds.

"There is a brass band in New York city, each member of which wears a full General's uniform, with the stars on the shoulders, and some of the National Guard of that city tried to have it abolished under existing law, but they failed to do so. The Grand Army badge and button, as also the badge of the Union Veteran Legion, and the Regular Army and Navy Union and of the Mexican Veterans' Union, are protected to some extent by law, in that the regulations of the army and navy provide that those entitled to them can wear them on certain official occasions, but even they are not as fully protected by law as they should be.

"The same absence of protection, legal protection, I mean, exists in relation to wearing the medal of honor awarded by Congress, and it is known that certain persons have medals of that kind and have worn them without the authority of Congress. The bow of the American Legion of Honor is, however, provided for by law, and it is a violation of law for any unauthorized person to have or wear it."

"Pooh," said the scoffer as the Naval Reserves marched past, "those fellows won't fight. Look at that officer there in front. Why, he'd faint at the sight of blood."

"Don't you fool yourself on that score," replied the enthusiastic citizen. "Blood and human suffering have no terrors for that man. He's a dentist and pulled a tooth for me once."

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Preußen.

Provinz Brandenburg.

Berlin. Bei sämmtlichen hiesigen Gerichtsbehörden hat dieser Tage der Unterricht der Kanzleibeamten in der Handhabung der Schreibmaschine begonnen. Es sind acht verschiedene Systeme in Aussicht genommen, deren Vertreter auch den Unterricht der betreffenden Beamten leiten. Für den Unterricht und die sich daranschließenden Uebungen sind mehrere Wochen in Aussicht genommen. Je nach dem Ergebniß wird dann die Entscheidung für eins der in Betracht genommenen Systeme, eventuell auch für mehrere erfolgen.—Zum Rektor der hiesigen Universität für 1898—99 ist Professor Wilhelm Waldeyer, Direktor des ersten anatomischen Instituts, gewählt worden.—In dem Depot der großen Berliner Straßenbahn-Gesellschaft in Tempelhof brach ein großes Feuer aus, durch welches sämmtliche Ställe, Schuppen und Futtermagazine in Asche gelegt wurden. Die 200 Pferde, die sich zur Zeit in den Ställen befanden, konnten gerettet werden.

Alt-Ruppin. Ein bedeutender Münzfund ist auf der bei Alt-Ruppin belegenen großen Insel durch Arbeiterinnen beim Rübenhacken gemacht worden. Es sind etwa 300 Stück Silbermünzen aus dem 15. und 16. Jahrhundert.

Provinz Hannover.

Hildesheim. Die Arbeiten an der neuen elektrischen Straßenbahn Hannover-Hildesheim werden tüchtig gefördert. Die Bahn soll vor dem Empfangsgebäude des Hauptbahnhofs in Hildesheim münden und erhält ein Anschlußgeleise an den Güterbahnhof. Die Bahn befördert auch Güter und ist daher für die Beförderung landwirthschaftlicher Erzeugnisse, namentlich Zuckerrüben, von großer Bedeutung.

Osnabrück. Der Sattler Spellmeyer, welcher seit 12 Jahren mit seiner Frau in glücklicher Ehe lebte, feuerte kürzlich, als er gegen Mittag nach Hause kam, einen Schuß auf seine Frau ab, welche eine schwere, wenn auch nicht gerade lebensgefährliche Verletzung am Kopfe davontrug. Dann richtete Spellmeyer die Waffe gegen sich selbst und schoß sich eine Kugel in den Mund und eine in den Kopf. Er wurde in das Krankenhaus gebracht, wo er im Laufe des Nachmittags starb. Die Veranlassung zu der schrecklichen That sollen Familienzwistigkeiten wegen einer Erbschaft gewesen sein.

Provinz Hessen-Nassau.

Eltville. Anläßlich des 60jährigen Bestehens der Firma Matheus Müller hat der Kaiser den drei ältesten Arbeitern, die auf eine 40jährige Thätigkeit im Hause zurückblicken können, das Allgemeine Ehrenzeichen verliehen. Die Dekoration wurde denselben durch den Landrath feierlich überreicht, und die Firma gab im Anschluß hieran ihren Arbeitern und Angestellten ein Fest.

Sindlingen. Hier hat sich ein 15jähriger Junge auf dem Speicher des elterlichen Hauses erhängt, angeblich deshalb, weil ihm von seinem Vater ein nach seiner Ansicht unzureichendes Taschengeld verabfolgt worden war.

Provinz Pommern.

Stettin. Auf den Baustellen an der König Albert-Straße, die einen Theil des früheren alten Militärkirchhofs bilden, wird jetzt der Boden zu Neubauten ausgehoben. Bei diesen Arbeiten sind mehrere Särge bloßgelegt worden. Außerdem hat man Schädel und eine Menge Menschenknochen, Stiefelreste, an denen noch Sporen saßen, wie Reste von Uniformstücken gefunden.

Greifenhagen. Das Tuchmacher Noe'sche Ehepaar feierte in voller Rüstigkeit im Kreise seiner Kinder und Kindeskinder das Fest der diamantenen Hochzeit.

Provinz Posen.

Posen. Der jetzige verantwortliche Redakteur der „Praca," Anton Lipinsk, wurde wegen Beleidigung des Staatsministeriums zu zwei Monaten Gefängniß verurtheilt. Den Strafantrag hatte der Reichskanzler Fürst Hohenlohe gestellt.

Wollstein. Als der Inspektor des Ritterguts Goscieszyn die Felder besichtigte, griffen ihn plötzlich zwei Rehböcke an, welche am Saume der zur Herrschaft gehörigen Waldungen ästen. Es gelang ihm nicht, die Thiere mit seinem Stocke abzuwehren, er mußte deshalb laut um Hilfe rufen. In nicht zu großer Entfernung arbeitende Leute kamen darauf herbei, verscheuchten die Thiere und befreiten so den bereits verwundeten Inspektor aus seiner gefährlichen Lage.

Provinz Ostpreußen.

Gerdauen. Unsere Stadt kann am 21. September die Feier ihres 500jährigen Bestehens begehen. Wie das königliche Staatsarchiv zu Königsberg mittheilt, ist die Handveste, welche der Hochmeister Konrad v. Jungingen den Einwohnern von „Girdawen" (Gerdauen) ertheilt hat und die als die eigentliche Urkunde der Stadt anzusehen ist, am 21. September 1398 ausgestellt.

Goldap. Der Besitzer H. aus Groß-Pillacken verlor auf dem hiesigen Viehmarkte ein Portemonnaie mit 45 Mark; nach anderer Lesart soll es ihm gestohlen worden sein. Er nahm sich diesen Verlust so zu Herzen, daß er sich auf dem Heuboden seines Wohnhauses erhängte.

MRS. LANGTRY COULDN'T REFUSE.

As a Marble Statue She Was Forced to Accept the Proposition.

Mrs. Langtry, who, because of a number of interesting recent events, is once more before the public eye, is the owner of a ranch out near Carson, Nev. It was sold to her by "Sam" Davis, of "The Appeal." The story of the sale is short and reads like fiction, but is truth. Mrs. Langtry was playing Galatea. She had had some dealings with Davis looking to the purchase of the ranch, but had been unable to make up her mind. "Sam" was consequently worried for fear the deal would not go through. So one night he went to the stage door of the theater where the play was being produced, and, owing to his editorial position, was admitted without question. He waited until Mrs. Langtry took up her position as the statue of Galatea, and then, calling three stage hands to witness, he whispered from the wings to her: "If you hear me, wink the eye which is further from the audience." Galatea winked. That established Davis's case.

"Now, if you don't want to buy the southwest quarter section 14, 15 and 13 for $8,000 shake your head," he said. Galatea, the marble statue, with the eyes of the audience, was, of course immovable. "All right," said Davis, cheerfully, "I and these witnesses understand that you want it at that figure."

The next day he gave her the deeds, and took her good money. She probably might have made a contention in court, but she decided that such diplomacy deserved recognition, and so accepted the situation. That is how she came to be a landowner in Nevada.—Chicago Record.

PAPER HORSESHOES.

Said to be Stronger and Better Than Those Made from Iron.

Paper horseshoes are now being used by some blacksmiths. The horse-shoers themselves are not responsible for the innovation, but it is due to some of the owners of fine horseflesh, who supply the paper shoes to the farriers, who fasten them to the horses' hoofs with nails in the usual manner. The horseshoes are made of paper impregnated with oil or turpentine to make them waterproof. The shoes are the invention of a German. They are now being made, however, by an Eastern firm, which is finding a ready sale for them among owners of fine horseflesh. After being saturated with oil or turpentine the paper is glued together in thin layers with a cement which does not become brittle when drying, being a mixture of Venetian turpentine, powdered chalk, linseed oil and lacquer. The holes through which the nails are driven to fasten the shoes to the hoof are stamped through the paper when moist. Then the shoe is placed under a hydraulic press and subjected to a strong pressure.

When fitting the shoe to the hoof it can be filed or planed to fit as snugly as may be necessary. The shoes made of paper are said to be stronger and better than those of iron, just as car wheels of paper are superior to those of iron. Another advantage claimed is that a horse wearing paper shoes is not likely to slip when traveling on slippery roads.

We Insure Your Shirts.

We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods" Let us call for your work.

Hillier & Co.,
179 North Avenue.
Telephone 30 M.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

(B) AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED
Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

3 big buildings
—crowded with price-cut goods—
Realize how immense this stock of ours is? Stores run from Market to Campbell—from Campbell to Bank Sts—no limits to your choice—no such amazing price-drops ever listed—even in August! But Fall's lines, soon here, need more floor space than we've got.

All Chairs at bare cost
—don't need to tell you of the name we have for great, varied chair stocks.
12 different sets—no duplicates—dining chairs at half former costs.
50 reed, rattan and wicker rockers—$1.25, $2.50, $3.00.
100 sorts of odd rockers and chairs—palin woods and richly upholstered reds, greens, oak, antiques—$2.50, $3.00, $4,00 and $5.00. All porch and lawn furniture that's left below wholesale.

Cream of City's Carpet Snaps
—this week we'll take the stiffening out of every solitary carpet in this store—many of Fall's weaves have already come—they'll be included.
60c. Very Heavy Ingrains, 39c. yd. Body Brussels, 90c. 85c. All-Wool Ingrains, 65c, yd. Moquettes, 90c. 20 rolls Velvets and Tap Brussels at half. Remnants of choicest patterns—must go—bring room measures with you. Mattings 10c. yd. and up.

"Monarch"
2-hole high, $4.90
—all others that are left to go at same low rates. "Monarch" Vapor Stoves are the best from A to Z—ask to see the "Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove"—another marvel

$10.75—beveled mirror, rich polished oak, new shape—a $15 sideboard.

Other Sideboards: We put $18 ones at $13; $25 ones at $15; $28 ones at $20; $35 ones at $25; $65 ones at $50—some that were $125 to $100.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St., Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.
LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS.
Note first name "Amos."
Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

E. E. MARSHALL & CO.,
167 NORTH AVE.
Painters and Paper Hangers.
For the next 60 days we will sell
WALL PAPERS
at cost.
Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Picture Mouldings and Glass.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.
177 NORTH AVENUE.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER,
Rapid. Simple, Durable,
IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.
The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address
THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO.,
5 20 4m 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
— DEALERS IN —
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER.
ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER.
169 NORTH AVENUE.
Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phœnix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS,
Dealers in first-class
PIANOS and ORGANS
We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.
221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD. J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.
Madison Avenue and Third Street.
Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.
MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.
SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.
DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order
BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.
FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs, Casings and Stops in stock for sale.
GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.
Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props. Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, †10.7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 4, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 9 15, 10 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 9 15, 23 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St., at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturday only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 1 30, 2 00, 3 00, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15 a. m.; 12 m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St. at † 10.7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 2 25, 3 30, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 2 30, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 55 p. m., 12 15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 00, 37, 9 55, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, †07, 2 29, 3 13, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 11†7, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05 8 38, 9 03, 10 05 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 23, 5 45, 6 19, 7 25, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01, (2 11 except Saturdays) 2 27, 3 35, 4 36, 5 03, 5 25, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p. m.; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 00, 9 55, a.m.; 3 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 30, 10 16, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 33, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 3 20, 4 30, 5 26, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m; 12 35, 1 20, 5 15, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 8 45, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01 3 27, 5 25, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m.; 2 03, 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m; 12 32, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m; 6 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, & c with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only] [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m; 1 15, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21, 7 03, 8 45 p. m. Sundays, 8 52 a.m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 32 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p. m Sundays 8 52 a.m

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 09, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*, 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46 a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a. m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 6 35 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday. "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 7 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02, a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 13 p. m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 5 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

A CIRCLE IN THE SAND

BY KATE JORDAN

AUTHOR OF "THE KISS OF GOLD" ETC. ETC. "THE OTHER HOUSE" ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY THE AUTHOR

[CONTINUED.]

When Anne entered her aunt's bedroom, a pang of remorse shot through her heart. Mrs. Ericsson's nervous vigilance and activity had often irritated her, but now her outflung arms expressed apathy, her small, shrunken face was almost hidden in the bulging pillow and her eyes stared at one spot. She was in a sort of syncope. It seemed brutal that all the physician's efforts were to bring her out of it to a realization of Olga's decisive arrow which had struck down her last hope.

It was dusk before the nurse came and Anne could leave the sickroom. She was tired and her head ached. In the hall she met a maid and asked for a cup of tea.

"Shall I fetch it to the doctor's study, Miss Garrick? Mr. Temple is there now. He's just got in. Perhaps he'd like a cup of tea too."

"Yes, and Dr. Ericsson—hasn't he come back yet?"

"Not yet, miss."

There was not a sound in the house as Anne went down the stairs, nor were the lamps yet lit in the study, but there was bright firelight coming out in a broadening track across the open doorway. When she reached the threshold, she saw David sitting on the edge of the big table, his hands in his pockets, his eyes on the fire.

She reached his side before he was aware of her presence. When he turned and saw the firelight making her dark eyes still more mysterious, sending its flickerings over her sensitive lips and the dusk masses of her hair, a look of pain changed his face. Truth and sympathy were in her full glance. It was long since a woman's eyes had looked at him so.

"You're so pale," he said gently, taking her hand. "I'm sorry I had to send for you, Anne, but Mrs. Ericsson needs a woman near her. Don't you think so? But, as I told you in my note, I feel like a brute dragging you into this wretched house."

His fingers loosened their hold and he walked into the shadows and out again. There was a look of endurance on his face. He had never seemed braver and never had his unlikeness to Donald stood out more clearly. She could always yearn over the misfortunes of the latter. For David she could feel only a sad sense of wrath against the inevitable crushing him. He was a man to dominate his sorrows and carry them unshared.

"How is Mrs. Ericsson?" he asked.

"Still unconscious. It's so strange to see her lying quiet."

"It's just as well," he said sadly. "Bitterness is waiting for her, poor woman." Then he added abruptly, "Have you seen the papers tonight?"

"No; is it"—

"Yes, it's everywhere. They all have it, except, of course, The Citizen. It hurts me so, Anne. Oh, I'm a fool to let it; I know that! I'll have to endure more sensational reading by and by no doubt."

Anne sat silent, and he turned to her again.

"Haven't you heard the story, Anne? It's a pity," he said, with a dismal smile. "You have been cheated out of a toothsome morsel of gossip. It's the dinner topic at plenty of tables tonight."

He sat down on the table edge again and leaned forward, his hands on his knees.

"Olga went away three days ago to pay a visit to one of her former intimates. She was to be gone a week. Last night I received a letter from her. It was as serene as her eyes. She was going, she said, to make a great name for herself on the stage. The company she headed would play only old comedies, was going straight to San Francisco, from there to Australia and would appear next fall in New York. If I wished, she would in this way set me on my feet again. This was her naive suggestion. If I objected, some western court would sever our bonds on the simple charge of desertion. But she must persist under any circumstances in using my name merely because of its business value, since she had already made it famous in society and on the amateur stage. Probably this was the only time she viewed the loss of my fortune complacently, since it would help give a commercial strength to the name Temple when seen in capitals on a billboard. Temple—the name of the beauty stepping from the drawing room to the footlights, the name of the man who went down under the thunderbolt of ruin. Why, there's meat for a reporter in the two syllables. Don't you think so? They may even illustrate me," he laughed, his eyes bright with contempt. "The letter ended with the politic hope that I'd be sensible and not kick up a row. Well, I haven't. I've been sensible. But I spent part of today in be coming better acquainted with my wife. I was curious to know how she developed her plans. I'll tell you what I learned."

"I'll tell you what I learned."

He stood up before Anne and struck his finger with emphasis on his open palm.

"From the hour she knew of my failure she has covertly, determinedly bent every effort toward the taking of this step. The manager would not star her without heavy security. Then Olga showed what resources lay within her. Smedley Joyce and a few others among her old followers have at her suggestion backed the undertaking as a good business venture. They knew all about it. And I, ignorant, blind, sat opposite Joyce at the Harvard alumni dinner the other night. I didn't dream I was facing my wife's angel. You don't know what that means. Neither did I until today. The man who backs a play earns that heavenly title. Smedley Joyce is at present an angel, though a stout one, I grant."

"What will you do?" asked Anne, her heart chilled. "Will you bring her back? You might, perhaps."

"I shall not try," he said clearly. "I'll do nothing but endeavor to live as if I'd never seen her. It won't be hard." A dark look crossed his face. "If circumstances could by any possibility arise in the future tending to soften me toward her, to make me a fool again, I'd only have to think of this one thing—her gentlest mood, most impulsive caress and her only promise for a happy future home together were given the night before she went away, when her railroad ticket was in her purse. This thought would make me a stone."

Anne watched him thoughtfully and understood him. Olga had practiced a cheap deception from first to last. Her unmasking had only aroused disgust and bitterness in him. To feel either grief or hate for anything as gaudily false as this woman would be like playing some of the most despairing strains in "Faust" on a penny trumpet.

The maid entered with tea, and they had it in the firelight, while the shadows played between them. Anne's heart beat painfully and hard. David began to feel a peace subdue him. This was their first talk alone since the winter night when he had told her of his love for Olga. Then all the tenor of his ecstatic confidence was, "I love her." Tonight his imbittered spirit had voiced a different truth: "She has gone, leisurely and coldly, out of my life forever. She brought nothing into it; she takes nothing away."

CHAPTER XXI.

Anne had entered Dr. Ericsson's house as a member of the family. No one had urged her to go, but she had come to see the necessity of it. After a long illness her aunt had come back to only a quiescent consciousness of life and with body partly paralyzed. The reins of government had fallen from her hands forever, and a woman was needed by her side. Anne did not renounce work to be with her, but she condensed it into as few hours as possible and spent her leisure in the Waverly place house.

She had found it hard to be unselfish and go, particularly when she knew David had insisted on remaining there and assuming the duties of a son toward the old man he loved and the woman he pitied. She had struggled with her own heart and had beaten down her pride only after a hard fight. Daily companionship with David Temple was the last thing in the world she desired, and she loved her free life as she loved the sunlight. But there was nothing else to be done. Mrs. Ericsson's apathy was a plea mingling with the voice within her which commanded in the name of duty. If only selfishly, for her own peace, she obeyed it.

More than a year had passed. It had grown to be a right and natural thing to Anne to meet David at breakfast and pour coffee for him, to watch for his coming at night. At first this had seemed unbearable, impossible, but habit is coercing and inflexible and women are adaptable. She even managed not to be discontented though she lived in a dull atmosphere, in a quiet house where three disappointed lives drifted on.

Olga's name was never heard. Mrs. Ericsson, calm, almost mindless, sat all day by the window of her room, her eyes fastened on the street. She seemed watching for some one; she always looked out. The attitude had become mechanical long after a realization of the reason had died. It was the expression of the passive desire in her maimed brain to watch for Olga's return. David worked harder than ever, apparently unchanged save that he was more reticent. Dr. Ericsson's practice was but a name, and he looked an aged man.

As was expected, the newspapers had made a sensational heroine of Olga. Soon after her departure photographs of her from San Francisco had found their way to Broadway windows and reported interviews with her had been wired to New York papers. These were highly colored and probably false. Gossip tossed her name like a shuttlecock from one to another.

As an actress she had not met with emphatic success. At first people went to see her in great crowds because she was the well known eastern belle; they went a second time because she was a beauty. Soon her vogue lessened. It is one thing to be a rich woman dabbling in a profession, another thing to enter the market and strive with practical workers. The criticism aroused was different too. Olga had found this out. She had been too ambitious. With all her natural talent she was still unformed, really fit only to interpret the rudiments of her art, and what had seemed praise compelling in fashionable New York, where gloved hands awarded the affirmation of success, was merely promising, sometimes impertinent, where people paid money at a box office to see a stranger.

Many things that must have stung David were said of her in every paper except his own. But even to Anne's eyes he was impassive. He went into the world, particularly the society of men and clubs, as much as formerly, and those who found pleasure in discussing his affairs behind his back were careful to read the hint in his attitude and offer neither sympathy nor advice.

May was almost spent. At the corners of the streets barrel organs churned antiquated love songs; sparrows built their nests in the weakly budding trees; wagons heaped with glowing plants halted at area gates; the crannies between the paving stones held spears of grass as strengthless as the down on a boy's lip.

She hesitated with it in her hand.

On a warm night Anne took a hansom to one of the big studio buildings on upper Fifth avenue to attend a dinner given by a celebrated artist just over from Paris on a visit to his native land.

A brilliant 14 sat down at the round table, and she found herself between the athletic young novelist who took her in and an Australian capitalist. As dessert came on there was a lull in the entertaining nonsense and piquant discussions between herself and her dinner companion and she listened to the scraps of conversation around her. The name "Temple," spoken in soft, amused scornful accents by the Australian, reached her. His big, bald head was turned from her, but owing to his slow, distinct utterance she could hear almost every word. He was speaking of Olga.

"They fade quickly, those very pale blonds, don't you think? Excitement and what not have spoiled a very pretty woman in Mrs. Temple. A shocking failure she is too. In Melbourne, where she tried to force Parthenia down our throats, I assure you she was laughed at. A playful little kitten style of woman in a comedy is as much as she should have attempted. These people never can measure their ability. After years and years of work and work she might have attempted parts, but, Lord, not now!"

"She was considered a great beauty here and a very good actress," came from the listener on the other side.

"Of course, of course. I fancy when she had everything her own way and didn't have to fag she was healthy and probably a beauty. But she's down on her luck. She's anæmic, too, or that dead white glassy skin of hers means arsenic"—

"Oh, I assure you, no! She was always as white as milk."

"Then she's organically unsound, bloodless, and she hasn't the stuff in her to last. They say she has hysterics like insanity, and her temper's frightful. I know for a positive fact she boxed her coachman's ears in Melbourne."

"Really! And she always seemed so amiable! I can't fancy her even disturbed."

"Disappointment, my dear lady, is like a blistering sun on the sweetest milk—sure to turn it sour, eh!"

"She appeared in London last month. The reports say she made a failure there."

"One hasn't much 'go' playing a losing game. It will be a good thing for the society woman who talks and thinks nothing but stage, stage, stage, to remember one thing—the vast difference between playing to the big, cold hearted public whose eyes are all strabismus, and playing to Tom, Dick and Harry, with whom she has dined, flirted or had 5 o'clock tea. The public is a bulldog. If it doesn't get what it wants or expects, it bites.

During her drive home the words she had heard staid with Anne, but insisted on remaining beyond her belief. Olga pitied, ridiculed, faded—she who had been so secure, so envied! And but little more than a year had gone!

She sat with wide, speculative eyes, watching the sentinellike lamps flash past, and tried to picture Olga as she had been described. Failure had come and bitterness had followed. Exhausting travel, nervous days and nights and the pains of wounded vanity had done the rest. Prosperity and confidence in herself had been the qualities forming a foundation for Olga's winning unconcern and amiability. With defeat, with struggle, the real nature had peered like an ugly face from behind a mask and left her a bitter, turbulent woman, a logical development of the peevish child who scratched.

The house was wrapped in slumber when she reached it. But she knew by the light left burning in the library that David had not yet returned. For several days she had only seen him in the mornings.

She went to her aunt's room to see if she slept or needed anything. The light burned low and made big shadows among the bed curtains, the air was sweet with the odor of lilacs, and a cool wind swept like a sigh through the place.

Anne tiptoed to the bed and looked at the small, huddled figure, the hands lying palms upward on the counterpane, the face turned sideways, resting on the shoulder in the attitude of watching, which had become habitual. She brushed a lock of hair from the wet brow, placed the big fan which had fallen within reach of her hand and crept out, Olga's face haunting her.

A few nights later a letter came to Anne by the last post. It was from London, and she recognized Olga's handwriting. It was the first she had received since her departure. She carried it up to her own room, and even after the door was closed she hesitated with it in her hand, fearing what was written within it.

When she drew it from its cover, she read these words:

MY DEAR ANNE—You've had very hard thoughts of me, I know. You never wrote to me yourself, and in the brief notes received from father there was no message from you. However, I'm going to ask you to let my humiliation brush all these thoughts from your mind, for I am humiliated, and it is bitter to say it, I can tell you. I've failed. There's no use mincing words or beating around the bush. I've failed, and I'm ill, very ill. Nobody seems to know just what's the matter with me, and I don't much care. I'm probably dying, and that doesn't matter either. But just now I've got a longing to go home. I have heart enough for that. I know mamma is all broken up, but still I keep thinking how pleasant it would be to lie in my cool, green room and have her fuss around me as she used to do when I had a cold or a headache. There's a comfort in this and in feeling that no matter what I've done I do belong to mamma and she'd never give me the cold shoulder.

But then, as I said, I hear she's not as she was, and perhaps no one else would care to see me at home. Do you think David would take me back? I don't expect his forgiveness, nor that he could the least bit regard me as he used to do. But he may forgive me enough to let me go back to my home, which is his now. I want to go home and rest, and this is all I care about. Will you ask him, Anne, and write to me? I'm so tired of myself. You never can know just how utterly sick and weary I am. My face in the glass frightens me, it is so lean and bloodless. I long so to rest, to fall asleep in a safe place and not think or care what the end may be. You won't believe it maybe, but I'm not a bit pretty any more. I've gone off horribly. At first I minded, but I don't now. Nothing seems to matter. I've had my cake and eaten it. It disappointed me, and there's no one to blame but myself. Cable me here at Langham's, and if I may return I'll go home at once. I wish now I'd never gone on the stage. But what's the use of crying when the harm's done? Do try and think kindly of me and welcome me back. OLGA.

Anne read the letter twice, and the picture her fancy conjured of Olga made a pain rise in her throat. Of course she would speak to David as soon as he came in, and of course Olga would return. The pity in David's heart would let him receive back this wasted, disappointed woman and she would scarcely remind him of the splendid beauty who had failed him when he needed her most. Soon Olga would be home, creeping like the ghost of herself through the familiar rooms. Her soft step would be heard on the stairs. She might be changed in soul and heart, and in her weakness and defeat be to David what he had longed to make her.

As Anne stood with the letter in her hand she heard the street door close softly. Without giving herself time to think what she should say she went down to the study. The full gaslight poured on David as he stood by the table, his chin lowered. His face was more than fatigued. It was pinched, and she could see a moisture on his forehead. He looked up, but did not greet her or move.

"David," she said uncertainly, "don't be angry, but I must speak to you of Olga."

He drew in his breath and closed his eyes.

"Ah, you know then, you know," he murmured.

"I've a letter from her." And she held it out to him. "She's very ill and wants to come home. She wants me to ask"—

He seized the hand that held the letter and looked suffering, forbidding.

"You'll let her come home here, won't you? I was sure you would. She seems to want nothing else, she doesn't expect or ask for forgiveness"—

"Oh, hush!" he said wildly and with difficulty, opening his other hand and showing a crushed cablegram. "I can never tell her now that I would have pitied her, yes, even forgiven her the wrong she did me, for she's dead, Anne. You can read it there. She died today."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, Aug. 4, 1898, at 2 p. m.

Roll-call showed all members present—17.

The minutes of the previous meeting were on motion approved as read

Freeholder Farrell moved, that before proceeding with the regular order of business, any proposals before the Board for the widening, etc., of Westfield or North avenue be opened and read; it was so ordered.

The following proposal from the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company, was then opened and read by the Clerk:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

The Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company hereby proposes to construct, maintain and operate a street railroad on Westfield or North avenue, from Orchard street in the city of Elizabeth to Richmond street in the city of Plainfield; also on Orchard street in the city of Elizabeth, from Westfield or North avenue to Morris avenue; also on Richmond street in the city of Plainfield, from North avenue to Third street, and thence on Third street to Watchung avenue.

If this proposition is accepted it is the intention of said company to construct a double track street railroad on North or Westfield avenue, from Orchard street in the city of Elizabeth to Richmond street in the city of Plainfield, as the same appears widened and straightened on a certain map, adopted by your honorable body and filed in the county Clerk's office July 14th last; a double track street railroad on Orchard street in the city of Elizabeth, from Westfield or North avenue to Morris avenue, and a single track street railroad on Richmond street in the city of Plainfield, from North avenue to Third street, and thence on Third street to Watchung avenue, with a siding on Third street 200 feet long, extending easterly from Watchung avenue.

The motive power to be used on said railroad is electricity.

The rates of fare to be charged on said street railroad are as follows:

Between points east of the township of Cranford on the lines of railroad above mentioned, and points in the city of Elizabeth on any line owned or controled by said company, or with which the same may be connected, five cents.

Between points in the townships of Cranford and Westfield, five cents.

Between points west of Westfield, five cents.

Between points in Cranford and Plainfield, seven cents.

Between points in Westfield and Elizabeth, eight cents.

Between other points not above mentioned and not exceeding five miles apart, five cents.

Return tickets between points in Elizabeth and Plainfield, twenty-five cents.

Thirty-three school tickets to be sold for $1, to be good between points where a 5-cent fare is charged for adults, and twenty-five school tickets to be sold for $1, to be good between points where more than 5 cents for a single trip is charged for adults; provided such school tickets are offered between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. on days when schools are in session, and when presented by a scholar going to and coming from school, such tickets to be void if detached.

The amount of money to be contributed by said company for defraying the cost of improving the said public highways, or any of them, as indicated in part on the said map adopted by your honorable body on the 14th of July last, is $250,000, and interest at 4 per cent. for ten years on whatever sum, if any, said improvement shall cost in excess of said sum of $250,000. Payment of said sum to be made by instalments as required by your honorable body as the construction of the street railroad proceeds in each municipality.

The amount to be paid annually for the franchise is $100.00.

If this proposition shall be accepted, it is the purpose of this company to connect the street railroad proposed to be built with the road now owned and operated in the city of Elizabeth by the Elizabeth Street Railroad Company, said street railroad to be constructed and equipped for operation by electricity, thus forming a direct route from the ferry at the foot of East Jersey street to the centre of the city of Plainfield; such connection to be made as far as practicable by means of street railroads already existing, and if reasonable terms for that purpose cannot be made without delay, application will be made to your honorable body and to the council of the city of Elizabeth for a franchise to construct a street railroad from the junction of Morris avenue and Union street to Broad street by way of Union street and West Grand street.

The company will also agree to sprinkle its roadbed when dusty at its own expense.

The material to be used in the construction of the street railroad shall be of standard quality, and shall be located on such parts of the said highways as may be designated by your honorable body. The cars to be used by the company shall be provided with fenders of approved design, and shall be run on an average headway of at least fifteen minutes between the hours of 6 o'clock a. m. and 10 o'clock p. m., and at other hours according to the needs of travel.

This proposition is made in the expectation that the franchise, if granted, will be for the term of 75 years.

Sealed and respectfully submitted by order of the board of directors of the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company, August fourth, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight.

The Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company.

By John Kean,
President.

SEAL

Attest:
J. W. Whelan,
Secretary.

Freeholder King moved that the proposal be received and action on same be deferred to an adjourned or subsequent meeting of the Board, which was so ordered.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Rev. W. A. Hooper, West Summit, complaining that a Mr. Perrine had stopped up with rubbish the outlet or mouth of the culvert on the Elizabeth turnpike, in front of the Presbyterian parsonage near West Summit, so that the water which drains from adjoining lands cannot flow away, but is dammed up on his (Mr. Hooper's) field. Received and placed on file.

From Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, attorneys, notice of an action by John C. Blore against the Board of Chosen Freeholders, on contract, to his damage $1,000, and commanding said Board to appear before the Supreme Court at Trenton, N. J., on September 4th next.

On motion of Freeholder King received and referred to the County Attorney.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee on Locust street bridge in Roselle:

Linden, N. J. July 22, 1898.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County:

Gentlemen — Your committee appointed to ascertain the advisability of building a bridge across Locust street, Roselle, herewith submit their report: After a thorough inspection, they believe that to insure public safety it is advisable to build a new bridge and would recommend an iron beam and brick arch bridge to be built at an angle of forty-five degrees across the said road at a cost not to exceed six hundred dollars.

F. T. Higgins,
John Farrell,
J. Martin Roll,
Committee.

Freeholder Brucklacher moved that the report be received and the recommendation contained therein be adopted, and on roll-call it was so ordered by a unanimous vote.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Burnett:

Resolved, That the Committee on Bridges in Union Township be authorized to examine and report as to the advisability of building two culverts across Grant avenue, Roselle, with power to build one at a cost not to exceed $100.

Freeholder Swain moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Burnett:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be tendered to E. M. Wood, County Collector, for neatly bound copies of the laws of 1898, presented by him to each member of this Board.

On motion of Freeholder Miller, the resolution was adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Burnett:

Resolved, That the sum of two hundred dollars be paid to James G. Moore on account of contract for bridges on Faitonte avenue when approved by the proper committee.

Freeholder Brucklacher moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll-call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Roll:

Resolved, That a committee of five (5) be appointed to investigate and report the advisability of arching the bridge on South street in New Providence.

On motion of Freeholder Swain, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Wahl, Robison, Tier, Swain and Scudder.

By Freeholder Miller:

Resolved, That the Committee on Elizabeth Drawbridge be, and is hereby empowered to have Summer street drawbridge replanked, the cost not to exceed $115.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll-call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder King:

Resolved, That the further consideration of the proposition of the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company be adjourned until the eighteenth day of August instant, and that this Board meet on said day at half-past 2 o'clock at this place for that purpose, and also for the transaction of general business.

Freeholder Brucklacher moved the adoption of the resolution, which was duly seconded

Messrs. R. V. Lindabury and F. C. Marsh then said that they appeared before the Board on behalf of property-owners, citizens and residents along the proposed new boulevard, also on behalf of the Cranford Township committee (Mr. Marsh appearing for said Committee) they objecting to the franchise now before the Board being granted. However, if they would be given an opportunity to be heard at the adjourned meeting of the Board they would not present their objections at this time.

The assurance was given that they would be granted an opportunity to be heard at said proposed adjourned meeting.

Freeholder Roll moved to amend, that adjournment be taken to Wednesday, August 10th, which amendment was adopted without dissent.

The resolution as amended, was then adopted on roll-call by an unanimous vote.

The following bills, audited and approved, were read and on roll-call unanimously ordered paid, viz:

Committee Expense—W. H. Swain $11.35, John F. Wahl $7 25, James A. Burnett $8 25, John Robison $9.25.

Salary Account—S. Rusling Ryno $25, E M. Wood $125.

Members Pay Account—Benjamin King $10, W. H. Hulskamper $44, Jas. A. Burnett $28.25, W. H. Swain $38, John Robison $32, John F. Wahl $32, Jacob Brucklacher $40, Frederick Miller $48, Joseph McCandless $62, F. T. Higgins $80.

County Road Repairs Account—J. W. Fink $60.

Jail Account—F. R. Baily $62 50, Fanny Dodd $75. Vienna Pressed Yeast Co. $3.13, J. W. Blakeley $5 23, William & Bassett $28, W. H. Neefus $64 48, James O. Brokaw $13.71, Henry J. Schmidt $6.15, Henry Sauer $22, Chas. C. Dilks $10, J. W. Hildebrandt & Co $59.10, L. F. Hirsh & Bro. $26.60, J. P. Hanifin $24 87.

Elections Account—E. C. Woodruff $20, John L. Crowell $20, S. Rusling Ryno $20 P. J. Ryan $20, Henry J. Schoppe $2 50, Daily Leader $10.50.

Stationery Account—John C. Rankin $23 70, William T. Kirk, sheriff, $11.40.

Public Buildings Account—Alexander Kerr $70 50, Williams & Bassett $53 80, $35.49, N. Y. and N. J. Telephone Co. $7 40, $56 48, $25.20, $32 15, Mulford Coal and Lo. $1 40, Elizabeth Hardware Co. $3.75, Suburban Electric Co. $24.94, Charles W. Dodd $50, Frederick W. Brucklacher $8.10, Elizabeth Ice Co $39.14 Fred. F. Tichenor $6, Jos. G. Ogden $5.50, Theo. Glaser $6, Laggren & Ball $9 50, Anthony Stein $2 50, Edwards & King $206.56, Suburban Electric Co. $18 37, Thos. B. Budd $79.42, Hansen & Heald $19.90

Publication Account — Standard Pub Co. $25, Daily Leader $25, F. W. Runyon $25, Union Democrat $25, Summit Record $25, N. J. Advocate $25, Summit Herald $25, J. H Cash $25.

Lunacy Account—N. J. State Hospital, $9.4 8 81.

Incidentals Account — Elizabeth Daily Journal $3.50, $7 20, W. J. Whelan, postmaster, $21 80, F. W. Runyon $7.20, Standard Publishing Co. $6.84, W. H. Grogan $38.80 Cranford Citizen $4.77, F. J. Hubbard, $662 51, J. L Bauer $650, R. M. Hancock $35, Wm. Howard $369.81.

Court Account—Wm. T. Kirk, sheriff, $1,225 19, Geo. R. Rockafellow $3.85, Robert Walpole $4 09, Wm. H. Sault $20, James J. Carey $2.50, Samuel Morgan $12.50, J. C. Kirkner $17.50, John Seeland $7.

Have You Seen

The Fancy Timothy Hay that we are now receiving? It is all last year's crop and far superior to most that we have seen.

BALED BY OURSELVES—which means large bales, free from dirt.

Don't Risk New Hay.

STORES: Elizabeth. Elizabethport. Red Bank. Plainfield. Somerville.

The PAUL T. NORTON CO.

Everything for Horses, Cattle and Poultry.

SPORTING.

GOSSIP OF THE DIAMOND.

CURRENT BASEBALL NEWS IN AND AROUND PLAINFIELD.

Bits of Information and Comment Gleaned From the Great National Game —Latest Scores of the League Teams

Games Played Yesterday

This was an off day in baseball, no game being scheduled. The Spiders and Pittsburgs played a postponed game in the Smoky City, with the following score:

Cleveland...	1	0	0	0	0	2	2	1	0	—6
Pittsburg...	0	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—3

To-day the Giants will open their western battles in Cleveland.

Of all the athletic clubs in the country there is none better known to the public in general than the New York Athletic Club. The club has always stood at the head of the list in the promotion of all kinds of amateur athletics. Their baseball team is far-famed. Saturday it is coming to Plainfield to meet the Riverdale Field Club, of this city. There has been lots of talk about the match, and as many of the Riverdale men are members of the N. Y. A. C, there is unusual interest shown in the game by the players themselves. Mr. Wood has often told his clubmates of the crack players he had in his team and the N. Y. A. C. contingent was very anxious to measure ther strength with the Riverdale nine. The New York team is composed of some of the best known college players in the country. The famous Dun brothers, of Brown University, will be the battery, and will have strong support.

The game will be played on the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

It is rare indeed that anyone meets a more gentlemenly lot of players than have come to Plainfield now and made it their headquarters. The Riverdale Field Club is undoubtedly strong and it possesses what many strong teams lack, very gentlemenly set throughout. The president, Robert C. Wood, has made a decidedly favorable impression among all the Plainfielders that he has met and his sportsmanlike conduct on the diamond and off have made him a general favorite with all. What he wants to do is to give Plainfield people a good clean game and that's just what he is doing. All he asks is that the good people turn out and give him support.

Reinacker, familiarly known as "Reiny," the short stop for the Riverdale Field Club, seems destined to be a great favorite with the crowd at the games at the Crescent Oval. He is a bright kind of a chap with a word for everybody and every thing. Then he has a humorous little manner of utterance that has quite capivated the rooters. He's a mighty good player for all that and one stop in particular in last Saturday's game was a remarkably good one.

There will be another meeting between the Riverdale Field Club of this city and the Orange Athletic Club soon. It's going to be in Orange, however, so the local cranks will have to wend their way in that direction if they wish to witness the meeting of these two great nines. It's for blood this time. The narrowness of the last defeat has put the Riverdales on their metles, and they're going to win if it takes twelve innings to do it. Orange fears defeat and will strengthen her team as much as possible so that the Plainfield crowd can't root over them. The game is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, September 3d. If Riverdale wins, there is a good chance that the Oranges will consent to come to this city to play off the deciding game.

GOLF.

Labor Day when the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will open its new grounds, there will be a Bogey match in the morning and general play in the afternoon with the tea and reception in the new clubhouse.

THE COURTS.

JUSTICE MOSHER.

Summons issued—In the case of Plainfield Bicycle and Sporting Goods Company against Stubell, on contract, returnable August 29th.

Judgment rendered—In the case of Kearney, Foot & Company against Finch for $148.31 and costs. H. L. Maxson, of New York, was the attorney.

JUSTICE MOFFETT.

Summons issued—In the cases of the National Cycle Manufacturing Company against Kinsey; French against Fuller; French against Bremmer; French against DeLaney; French against Laing; French against Dunavan; French against Sopanson; French against Pierson; Shaw against Lowrie; Shaw against Titsworth; all on contract and returnable August 31st. Hummer against Olsen; Hummer against Ruppert; Hummer against Day; Hummer against Smith, on contract, returnable September 1st.

Case adjourned—That of Rushmore & Co. against Brokaw, for one week.

TO GO TO SEE THE PRESIDENT

The Governor to Endeavor to Have Two Jersey Regiments Sent to Cuba.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Camp Voorhees, Sea Girt, Aug. 24. Governor Voorhees and his aide-de-camp, Colonel Alexander O. Oliphant, will leave for Washington today for the purpose of consulting with President McKinley in regard to the disposition of the four New Jersey regiments.

The Governor will ask the President to assign two of the regiments to the armies of occupation. Should the request be granted the Second and Fourth Regiments will be most likely chosen, for the reason that the members of the First and Third Regiments, disappointed at the failure of the War Department to send them to the front, are axious to be mustered out, while a majority of the members of the Second and Fourth are willing and anxious to be sent to Cuba for garrison duty.

Hotel Proprietor Missing.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 24.—John M. Moon, the keeper of Van Court Inn at Roselle, has disappeared. A Sheriff's constable went there with a writ of attachment for $1,000, and is now in possession. Moon several years ago was a clerk in the office of the Secretary of State at Albany, and afterward kept a hotel near Glen Falls.

Crop Report.

The following is John Naegle's crop report: Corn, potatoes, tomatoes, melons and garden truck in general, are growing in abundance. Rainfall, 0.96 inch.

—Minverva Temple, No. 4, held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon and elected one candidate and received one proposition.

—Mrs. L. Cox will give a Bible reading at the Christian and Missionary Alliance meeting in the rooms of the W. C. T. U. Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Gail Borden

Eagle Brand

Condensed Milk

HAS NO EQUAL AS AN INFANT FOOD.

"INFANT HEALTH" SENT FREE ON APPLICATION.

NEW YORK CONDENSED MILK CO. N.Y.

PEOPLE COME AND GO.

PERSONAL MENTION OF INTEREST TO PRESS READERS.

Some Come to Enjoy Pleasures of Plainfield, Others Journey to Either Mountain or Shore for Recreation.

Hon. W. R. Codington, who is spending a few days at Asbury Park, was in town on business yesterday.

Walter Emmons, of Jackson avenue, has returned from Asbury Park, where he has been spending a week.

F. O. Bristol, who has been assisting in the Y. M. C. A. work at Camp Alger, has been making a short visit in town.

David Snediker and George Snediker, of Grove street, have returned after a short sojourn at Atlantic Highlands.

Mrs. A. A. Chandor and Miss Alys Chandor, of East Fifth street, leave this week for Mount Pocono for an outing.

Mrs. Harry Hall, of East Fifth street, who has been quite ill, has recovered sufficiently to sit up at intervals.

Mrs. William R. Mosher, of New street, has returned from Union Hill, where she has been spending her vacation.

T. J. Ryder, of I. H. Boehm's store, left Monday night for his home in Toronto, Canada, where he will spend two weeks.

Miss Maggie Whalen, of East Fifth street, has returned to her duties at I. H. Boehm's store after a two weeks' vacation spent at Easton, Pa.

Joseph S. Dunham, of Arlington avenue, has resigned his position with French & Co., and has accepted a position in the office of the Pond Machine Tool Company.

Miss Grace White and Miss Lillian Dundon, of Brooklyn, who have been guests at the home of Edward Vail, of Elmwood place, have gone to Bridgeport to visit friends.

Mrs. Fannie T. Ketcham and the Misses Ketcham, of East Fifth street, who have been summering at Pine Bush, N. Y., have gone to Mendham to spend a short time with relatives.

FIRE IN ELIZABETH.

Much Damage Also From a Blaze Started in a Paint Store.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 23 — Yesterday Bernard Glasser, a paper hanger, and Louis Ludwig, a painter, both of Newark, bought out the paint store of Charles Bente, on Broad street, and paid $500 on account of the purchase money. At 7:30 o'clock this morning the contents of the store were burned, together with the three-story building.

Both men were in front of the store, when Ludwig saw, he says, a tank of oil or benzine, blazing in the rear. He rushed back and attempted to roll the blazing stuff out of the back door and was seriously burned about the face and head.

The building was damaged to the extent of $15,000.

—Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., held their regular meeting Monday night and elected one candidate.

—Star of Plainfield Lodge, No. 25, will hold their regular meeting tonight. Several candidates will be initiated and the by-laws will have their final reading.

BEE MOUNTAIN.

A Crevasse Filled With Honey and Occupied by Snakes.

About twenty miles from Cleburne, on the Brazos river, is Bee mountain. On one side it rises several hundred feet above the country around and the other fronts the river and rises perpendicularly for 500 feet. On the perpendicular side are several crevasses or caves, in which places are millions of bees and tons upon tons of honey.

One man, a cowboy, had the temerity to have some of his co-laborers let him down with a rope. What he saw simply struck him dumb with amazement. There, hanging from the top of the cave, which seemed to extend for a quarter of a mile back, great combs of honey twenty or thirty feet long and from four to six feet wide. They looked like a great lot of fine silk lace curtains hanging in some grand old hallway. He had a hunting knife with him and sliced off a piece of the honey and ate it, and was just about to slice off more to bring to his companions on the mountain above, and who were waiting to pull him up, when his attention was drawn to another direction. On listening closely he detected a hissing sound and one unlike that made by the bees. Presently, from the direction from whence the sound proceeded, he saw at least 100 serpents coming toward him, their little beadlike eyes shining in the glare of the torch he carried. To use a street phrase, he "tore out," leaving his hunting knife and this Klondike of honey behind. When his friends had pulled him up he had fainted from the fright. When he recovered he told them what he had seen. At first they laughed at him, but finally it became an accepted fact that in Bee mountain there are tons of money, but no one since that time has ever been reckless enough to venture in that cave, where not only millions of bees and tons of honey are to be found, but where a den of serpents greets the intruder.

CAVALRY IN WARFARE.

Firearms of To-Day Have Made Its Utility a Question.

A good man on a good horse is the superior as an attacking force of three good men on the ground. This is a matter of common knowledge in the European capitals, wherein mobs are dispersed by cavalry using the flat of the sabre only more quickly than they are scattered by the bullets of militia in America. There is something in the speed, weight, and size of a charging man and horse that shakes the nerve of the most stout-hearted pedestrian The uncontrollable instinct of the footman is to get out of the way. A cavalryman learns to love his horse with a love surpassing that of woman. He learns to depend upon him. He absorbs confidence from every swell of the giant muscles between his knees The man and the beast conjoined furnish a mutual support that is admirable, and in battle of incalculable value. Dismounted cavalry are the most difficult of troops to dislodge, for the reason that the riders, deprived of their horses, do not know when or how to run.

Military experts believe that the invasion of Cuba by the American army will furnish exceptional opportunities for the use of cavalry. It is, for the most part, a good horse country, of wide fields and level spaces. It is believed, too, that this picturesque arm of the service will demonstrate that its usefulness is not ended by modern arms and projectiles, though many theorists incline to the opinion that the days of cavalry as cavalry were ended in the times of Gravelotte and Sedan. The celebrated and fruitless charge of the French cuirassiers, where men and steeds went down in heaps and the watching Wilhelm said, "It is magnificent, but it is not war," sticks in their memories. That charge was Balaklava over again. Somebody blundered. The general efficiency of cavalry under proper conditions is not discredited by it, nor is the centuries-old record of a remarkably valuable arm to be stained by an individual failure. Men who remember what the cavalry was and what the cavalry did in the war between the states demand something more than the crumpling of one column before they surrender the beliefs of years.

The Napoleonic maxim that cavalry cannot charge unshaken infantry was due to Napoleon's experience wth rundown forces. His mounted men were badly drilled and his horseflesh was poor. The great Frederick understood the high value of this branch, and his campaigns gave many instances of the value of mounted troops in almost all kinds of warfare. The records of all great wars bristle with the achievements of the troopers. Even in the Franco-Prussian struggle the actual damage wrought by the Uhlans was far out of proportion with their numbers, and the value of the fear they produced was immeasurable. At Salamanca Le Marchand's British "heavies" were sent over bad ground against the steadiest of French infantry. Men and horses fell in swaths twenty yards from the line. The rear line did steeple chase jumping over piled corpses to get to the front. Le Marchand was instantly killed and many of his officers, but the infantry was broken and the position carried. The Peninsula campaigns furnish repeated proofs of the fact that infantry will not stand against well handled cavalry. Prince Frederick Charles, one of the greatest of modern warriors, was a steady believer in the efficiency of cavalry, and so, too, was Von Wrangel.

The opponents of the trooper arm and prophets of its utter effacement are used to instancing the failure of the brilliant Austrian cavalry at Sadowa when sent against breech-loaders. These were troopers seasoned by long service and so drilled that thirty squadrons of them were manoeuvred in mass with the ease and certainty of one. They were, however, led over ground that sloped up three degrees. It was sodden with rain. The horses were so wearied that many of them fell from exhaustion when the charge began. The infantrymen who received them had been selected by five hours of savage and continuous fighting. All faint hearts had gone to the rear. It is safe to say that there was not a Prussian on the west ridge of Chlum that day who did not wish to be there. Even under these conditions the charge came very near to success, though all Europe was shouting that cavalry was useless against breech-loading fire.

In the old days troops were safe when held in reserve 500 yards back of the fighting line. Now for 2,500 yards behind this line the ground is torn with bullets. Consequently troops are held 3,000 yards back, and even at this distance there will be occasional casualties. To take part in an engagement the reserve force must be moved entirely through this wide and dangerous zone. Infantry cannot do it in less than twenty-five minutes, and another ten minutes will be used in getting them into line. Cavalry can cover the distance in six minutes. The rapidity with which their range alters makes them a difficult target, and the moral effect of their thundering and swift advance is great. It is estimated that the cavalry loss in a charge should not exceed one-third of the infantry loss.

The Point in Doubt.

"Do you know anything about the defeat of the Spanish armada?" inquired one young man.

"Why, certainly," replied his friend, "that occurred centuries ago."

"I know that. But have the Spanish yet ceased to claim a victory on that occasion?"

THE MARSEILLAISE HYMN.

How an Audience of 6,000 French Radicals were Affected by It.

Nothing of the kind in this world can be more impressive than the way in which an audience of 6,000 French radicals receives that wonderful air (the Marseillaise), says Colonel T. W. Higginson in the Atlantic Monthly. I observed that the chorus of young men who led the singing never once looked at the notes, and few even had any, so familiar was it all. There was a perfect hush in that vast audience while the softer parts were sung; and no one joined even in the chorus at first, for everybody was listening. The instant, however, that the strain closed, the applause broke like a tropical storm, and the clapping of hands was like the taking flight of a thousand doves all over the vast arena. Behind those twinkling hands the light dresses of the ladies and the blue blouses of workingmen seemed themselves to shimmer in the air; there was no coarse noise of pounding on the floor or drumming on the seats, but there was a vast cry of "Bis! Bis!" sent up from the whole multitude, demanding a repetition. The moment the first verse was sung through for the second time several thousand voices joined in the chorus; then the applause was redoubled as if they had gathered new sympathy from one another, after which there was still one more great applauding gust, and then an absolute quiet.

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3 50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1.50, formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2. Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2. Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6.90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25 Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M. WEINBERGER, MANAGER,

214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits .....$ 90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. BUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. BUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell.
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman. Isaac W. Bushmore.
J. W. Johnson. Wm. R. Coddington.
F. S. Bunyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

M. E. STEPHENSON,

146 North Avenue,

Near the depot.

RESTAURANT AND CATERING.

TELEPHONE 624.

NOTICE.

To whom it may concern. Take notice that my wife Catharine A. Hughes, left my bed and board on August 15th, 1898, without just cause, or provocation, and I do forbid any person trusting her on my account, as I will refuse to pay any such bills so contracted.

Dated August 23rd, 1898.

8 23 2 GEORGE L. HUGHES.

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE,

REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89

A. WILLETT & SON,

No. 107 Park Ave.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY.

127 B W. Front St.

I am ready to supply the public in general with

FRESH MILK AND CREAM.

Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149-151 East Front St.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:-

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz. Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz -	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum -	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline - -	5c	Tar Soap, large cake -	5c

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy,

309 EAST FRONT ST.

Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.

Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield.
"A word to the wise is sufficient."
J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 22 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory,

Taught by

Miss Sarah A. Palmer,

Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio —123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J.

LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate.

303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m

RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art. Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

INSTRUCTION on the VIOLIN and REED ORGAN by

MRS. G. W. SAUMS.

(Pupil of Prof. K. A. Langlotz.) Residence 143 East Second street. Reference, ten years' teaching at Trenton, N. J. 4 21 tf

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY,

123 West Seventh St.

Will Re-open Thursday,

SEPTEMBER 15, 1898.

Thirty-first year.

Principals:

MISS KENYON,
MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S

School and Kindergarten,

29 Washington Avenue,
North Plainfield.

WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL (35 Nassau St., New York City) "Dwight Method" of Instruction. Students may take Day School (Nassau St.) or Evening School (9 West 13th St.) LL.B. in two years; LL.M. in three years. Special lectures in New Jersey practice. Send for catalogue.

8 1 2m-eod GEORGE CHASE, Dean.

MISS HELEN L. HALE

receives pupils for private instruction in the ENGLISH BRANCHES, FRENCH AND LATIN.

Delicate children and such as require special coaching will be given particular attention. Also classes in English literature will be formed. Applications may be made to MISS HALE, 120 Crescent avenue.

8 22 5w eod

Positively the LAST WEEK

of the great A. M. E. Zion

CAMP MEETING

At Netherwood.

Closing Sermon at 8:30 p. m. Sunday, August 28th.

Electric Cars to the Grove. 8 22 1w

"FRESH MEAT"

Is a much abused term. Very often it means nothing at all. When we use it it means a whole lot. Young, juicy, wholesome, delicious meat of every kind is the only kind we sell. If you want to feel perfectly safe and save money at the same time, come here.

FRED ENDRESS,

131-135 W. Front St. Branch 208 Liberty St.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield, N. J., August 22, 1898.

Adams Miss Mary	Kramer Mrs E
Allen Mr A M	Kions Miss J
Baily Mr J J	Lines Mr N L
Boyce Mr H	Long Mrs Anna
Birkett Mrs J	Mason Miss M
Bradley Mrs E A	Munn Miss
Brady Phil	Nicoll Miss L 2
Beud Miss G	Phillips Miss G
Burnett Mr E	Pugh Miss J D
Cheney Miss H	Sallie
Drayton Miss S F	Smith Miss E V
Feeney Mr T	Stapleton Miss C 2
Fisher Mr A	Sellers Miss Ida
Garrett Mr G H	Stryker J P
Gaurlay M S	Sullo Mr Carlo
Green Mrs C	Titus Mr G N
Hannan Jos B	Totten Miss C
Jackson Mr A W	Vail Mr A A
Johnson Mr Aug	Herndon Miss N
Kinsman Mrs	White Miss A
Klapper Mrs L	Wilson Miss L

CITY MILLS.

P. M. FRENCH, OWNER.

24 Somerset St.

NEAR FRONT.

FEED, GRAIN AND HAY.

Not at cost, but very near it.

TELEPHONE NO. 24.

MONEY TO LOAN—Bring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,500; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ¼ mile from trolley, $3,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaRue, Plainfield, N. J., Real Estate and Insurance.

Doesn't take Much Money for MEDICINES

Here. That is not nearly so much as they cost in other places. Our prices are ALWAYS LOWER than everybody else's—while quality is better than in most stores—as good as the best in all. All drugs, medicines and toilet requisites are new and fresh.

TRY POWERS' SHERBET.

POWERS' PHARMACY,

Somerset street—Craig place.

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS,

181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.

FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

CYCLISTS' CALENDAR.
Sun Rises 5:20 a. m.
Sun Sets 6:43 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be lighted at 7:43 p. m.

THE DAILY PRESS.

THE WEATHER.
Thunderstorms Tonight and Friday; Cooler Friday Morning. Thermometer, 87.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

BADGER BACK WITH A LOAD OF SICK MEN.

Her Own Crew, However, are Said To Be Well.

EXPERIENCES ON LAND.

MANY OF THE BOYS CAME BACK WITH CACTI SPIKES IN SHOES.

The Badger Brought 189 Sick Soldiers from Shafter's Army to Montauk Point—The Naval Reserves Have Been Where There was Plenty for Them to See and Do—Hope for Discharge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

On board U. S. S. Badger, off Montauk Point, N. Y., August 24.—The Badger arrived here yesterday, accompanied by the transport Resolute, which is also partially manned by New Jersey Naval Reserves. The Badger carried 189 troops of the Thirty-fourth Michigan from Companies F. K. and L. under command of Capt. Curtis. She had eighty-two sick, but there were no deaths on the trip. There is no contagion aboard.

Dr. Magruder, the Health Officer of the port, boarded the Resolute and reported that she carried 220 men of the Second, Fourth and Fifth Artillery, under command of General Randolph. She carries also 468 marines under command of Colonel Huntington, who established Camp McCalla at Guantanamo, and some of the marines who are with him are those who took part in the first battle on Spanish soil. Dr. Magruder reported that the Resolute had sixty-one sick, mainly among the artillerymen. She has no contagion and there were no deaths during the trip.

The Badger left Guantanamo at 3 p. m., August 19th. It was a pleasant day August 18th and the crew turned too with a will and painted the entire hull of the ship. Early the next morning a troopship came into the bay and went alongside of the transport Resolute. She then came alongside of us and we took on board the three companies of the Thirty-fourth Michigan. These troops were at all the Santiago engagements. There was hardly a man in the entire battalion who could stand and carry his gun. Only a few had their haversacks, as they were so weak they could not carry them. They told us that on July 2d, 3d and 4th they only had one hardtack apiece for a meal and very little water. The heat was intense and they suffered greatly. Having thrown their packs away, they only had the clothes on their backs and nothing else to cover them for nearly six weeks. It was then they caught the fever. The water was bad and they had to go three miles for it. Each man was given only one quart a day.

The soldiers were in a pitiful condition when they came aboard the Badger, but the sea air has made them better, and at present there are only twenty men who cannot help themselves, though all of them are weak. All the members of the crew are well and in good spirits, as they hope to be discharged soon after they let us out of Quarantine. It can not come too suit us.

Nearly all of the crew were given shore liberty at Guantanamo and visited the Guantanamo battleground. On August 14th the converted gunboat Potomac came alongside from the wreck of the Infanta Maria Theresa. The Potomac's men had a good many souvenirs, also the name plate of the Spanish vessel. The crew of the Badger had a battle lamp from the sunken ship given them to take home to the Portsmouth.

Every man who went ashore came back with his tale of woe. The cacti and every bush he touched seemed to be filled with sharp knives. Many of the men came on board with cacti spikes through their shoes. All day on August 15th the crew scrubbed the sides of the ship and got it ready for painting.

On August 16th at noon we transferred Commodore Watson to the U. S. S. Newark.

Echoes of the War.

Echoes of the battle at Santiago de Cuba, July 1st, when the American troops suffered their heaviest losses, are often heard these days in the offices of the big life insurance companies. The Prudential Insurance Company of America has paid all its war claims as soon as proofs of death could be made complete. Two claims paid this week were those of Louis B. Skinner, twenty-two years old, of Chester, N. J., and Charles W. Stapleford, twenty-three years old, of Baltimore, Md., both of whom were shot dead in the battle of Santiago.

—Irving D., infant son of Lee Johnson, of 300 Arlington avenue, died yesterday.

HOW HORSES WILL START

NOVEL RACE TO BE HELD AT THE DRIVING PARK SATURDAY.

The Various Steeds Will Start from the Wire to 405 Feet Behind, the Handicap Being Determined by Horse's Record.

Every preparation is being made for good racing Saturday afternoon at the Gentlemen's Driving Park. As already stated in The Daily Press, the French method of handicapping the horses will be in vogue. Two events have been planned, one for the bunch of trotters who usually make their mile in about 2:25, the others for those going in the vicinity or 2:40.

The features of these two events will be the fact that the different horses will be handicapped by distance. They will go out to their marks turn together and start in that fashion. Of course, it will be rather difficult to get all the horses off together from their respective marks.

Unlike handicap bicycle racing, the limit man with start from scratch, in this case the wire, and the others from various points behind it according to the handicaps allowed.

The entries with their handicaps have been made for the two races to races to be run in the French fashion and are as follows:

FIRST EVENT.

John G. MacLaughlin's Charles Tammany, 2:29	wire
Douglass Darby's Sunday, 2:23	35 feet
John Osborne's Woven Wind, 2:24	183 feet
Plain View Farm's Arpansa, 2:18¼	405 feet

SECOND EVENT.

W. J. B. Thiers' Minnie, 2:42	wire
N. B. Smaller's Ned Norton, 2:40	66 feet
Samuel H. Edwards' Mollie Prince, 2:38	133 feet

FARM HANDS FIGHT.

Warrenville Sees a Lively Combat With Fists.

Two farm hands employed by John C. Cooper, of Warrenville, had a lively set-to last Friday afternoon, and as a result speak no more. They have both been employed on that farm for several years and had always been good friends until last week.

The innocent cause of it all was a peddler. Now both of the workmen owed him money. One began to advise the other to pay his debts. There came a retort about it being nobody's business. High words followed and the men resorted to fists to settle the matter. One had his face cut and bruised, while the other received a severe scalp wound.

JERSEY'S REED BIRD SEASON.

Game Warden Shriner Says the Opening is Saturday.

As a warning to gunners who have construed the game laws of New Jersey to mean that the season for reed birds and mud hens opens on August 25th, Chief Game Warden Shriner has announced that the season does not legally open until Saturday, the 26th. Therefore, all persons following the precenent of the day earlier will be fined $20 for each bird bagged.

Didn't Notify Officials.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, August 25.—Some workmen who were clearing out a vault in the rear of the Union Clubhouse, on Union avenue, Cranford, one day last week, discovered the body of an infant. Giving the matter short thought, they buried the body and completed their work. Now that the finding of the body has been made public, there is to be an official investigation to determine, if possible, the facts conceaning the death of the infant.

Off for Glen Island.

About twenty members of the Calvary Baptist church, colored, accompanied by a few of their friends, went on an excursion to Glen Island today. They took the 8:37 train to New York and will go by boat from that point. Plentifully supplied with lunch baskets they will not expend anything for clambakes, but no doubt will have a good time.

How We Miss Him!

Walter Clifford Dobbins, whose genial face lends hope and cheer to the reportorial staff of The Daily Press, left this morning for Asbury Park, accompanied by his wife. They will be absent for ten days, during which time Brother Dobbins will absorb fresh vitality from the Atlantic and prepare to withstand the ravages of the winter campaign.

Looking for a Factory Site.

The agent for a New York company that manufactures heavy machinery was looking over ground at Garwood yesterday for a factory site. He declined to give the name of the concern he represented, but stated that he was well satisfied with the location offered.

Another Fruit Store.

Woolston & Buckle have rented one of their new stores, No. 135 North avenue to two Armenians from New York, who are going to open a fruit and candy store there September 1st. They have leased the store for five years.

MADDENED PUGILISTS FOUGHT LIKE FIENDS.

Disgraceful and Brutal Fight Near Bound Brook.

DIDN'T STOP AT A KNOCKOUT

ONE OF THE FIGHTERS VICIOUSLY KICKED HIS FALLEN OPPONENT.

Percy Roberts and "Jack" Sullivan Were the Fighters—Bad Blood Between the Men for a Long Time—Mill Took Place at a Roadhouse Near Bound Brook—Liable to be Arrests.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 25.—Ever since last Monday the prosaic and honest citizens residing southeast of this place have been in a state of high indignation over a prize fight which took place at a roadhouse in that vicinity the night before, and which ended in one of the pugilists losing control of his temper and after knocking his opponent to the floor brutally kicking him in the face. The county authorities have been notified of the disgraceful fight, and it is likely that the fighters and the promoters of the mill will be arrested.

The contestants were Percy Roberts and "Jack" Sullivan, both in the middle weight class. They have been aspiring for pugilistic honors for some time, but until Sunday have done most of their fighing with their mouths. As in the case of their illustrious brethren, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, et al, the men had come embittered against each other so that their enmity was only waiting for a favorable opportunity to vent itself when they faced each other in the ring. A couple of weeks ago the supporters of each man succeeded in arranging a match for a small purse. A quiet tip was given to pugilistic sports in the vicinity and Sunday afternoon saw them gathering at the roadhouse.

Late in the afternoon the crowd adjourned to the barn floor, where a ring was staked out and the audience gathered in a motley group around the spot. Roberts and Sullivan soon appeared in fighing costume, accompanied by a full retinue of backers and trainers, and donned the fighting gloves. "Dick" Eolly was the timekeeper.

The men sparred lightly for the first round and then warming up to their work they started in at a vicious pace, losing their cleverness at self-defense in their eagerness to pummel each other. Both landed frequently and soon the blood was flowing copiously from the noses of both. The crowd was crazy with excitement over the battle, which seemed to be even-up between the fighters till the fifth round. By this time Sullivan seemed to have spent his energy and he was becoming groggy. Roberts plainly had Sullivan going in the sixth round, when suddenly the latter rallied and dealt his opponent a terrific upper-cut. Roberts fell to the floor like a log. Maddened through and through, Sullivan followed up his knock-out blow by rushing at his fallen foe and brutally kicking him in the face.

In a second the backers, seconds and trainers, officials and referees were mixed up in the ring, the supporters of each ready to fight for the rights of his favorite. Sullivan was hustled out of the crowd by his friends and hurried off to the hotel where he was dressed and got out of the way of the friends of Roberts, who were vowing vengeance on Sullivan for the brutal attack upon his fallen opponent.

Roberts was carried to the hotel and after some time regained consciousness. His face was badly cut hnd bruised, and he was a sorry looking sight altogether.

No Band Concert.

There wasn't any open air band concert last evening. While the rain held off during the part of the evening set for the concert, there were only a few of the bravest of the music lovers who turned out to hear it and the members of the Queen City Band decided it was far preferable to wait a week and then play with fair skies, if possible. Then, too, there will be a full moon on that occasion that will make it pleasanter for the audience

Dished a Wheel.

The delivery wagon of McCreary's drygoods store in New York, which is stationed in this city, dished a wheel at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street this morning. The horse started to run away but the driver soon had the animal under control.

Death of L. C. Voorhees.

Luther C. Voorhees died Tuesday at his home near Somerville. He was seventy-six years old.

ROBBED AN AGED WIDOW

THE WOMAN ATTACKED AND HALF-KILLED BY THE BURGLARS.

Despite Her Injuries, Their Victim Fired on Them as They Fled, and One Left a Bloody Trail—Made Rich Haul

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Summit, N. J., August 25.—Mrs. Frederick Mines, a widow seventy years old, who lives on the road leading from Summit to Murray Hill, was attacked while in bed by two unknown men at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. She was dangerously wounded by being struck on the head with some blunt instrument. Her assailants rifled a trunk in the room and secured $308 and a bundle of papers containing deeds and other valuable documents.

While another trunk was being rifled, Jeptha Mines, a 7 year-old grandson of Mrs. Mines, who had been awakened by the noise, attempted to give the alarm and was knocked senseless with the butt of a revolver. Mrs. Mines, staggering under the terrible blow she received, got a revolver and fired at the thieves as they ran through a field adjoining her property. Traces of blood were found later, showing one of the shots had taken effect.

The trail of blood was followed for nearly half a mile and was then lost at a small creek where the robbers probably had stopped to wash the wound and stanch the flow of blood.

After Mrs. Mines fired the shot she fainted and fell back upon the floor. Her little grandson partly recovered from the blows he had received and courageously went out to find help. Neighbors came from a considerable distance and ministered to the victims of the robbers. Mrs. Mines is in a serious condition, and her wounds may prove fatal because of her advanced age.

BY THE SAD SEA WAVES.

A Big Crowd of Excursionists Go to Asbury Park Today.

Another excursion went to Asbury Park this morning, Warren chapel, and took along as good a number as though excursions to the sea shore were as much of a novelty as a trip to the moon. In spite the weather man's forecast of showers and thunderstorms, the sun shone brightly at the hour of starting, and the sky was clear and blue.

The train was made up of twelve cars, and all of them were well filled. Lunch baskets were not forgotten and many a merry party will be made up on the beach or the pavilions.

Thrown From Her Carriage.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, N. J., August 25.—Miss Julia Ungerer, a society girl of this place, was badly injured in a runaway accident in Cranford yesterday. Her horse shied at some object in the road and became unmanageable. Miss Ungerer tried to hold him in check, but she was not strong enough and the horse bolted. Miss Ungerer was thrown from her carriage and struck on her side, badly injuring her spine. She was also injured internally. She was picked up and taken to her home and is in a serious condition.

The Election Boards.

Numerous applications have been received by the Somerset County Board of Elections requesting the appointment of individuals on the election district boards. The chairman of the County Executive Committee of the respective political parties is the person who must make the nominations to the county board. Application for appointment as an election officer must be made to the chairman of the Executive Committee, of either party, respectively.

Camp Meeting Soon to Close.

Rev. Dr. Hubert delivered his talk on "The Lights Turned On" at the camp meeting in Hydes Grove Tuesnight, which was well received. Preparations for breaking camp are under way. Next Sunday night Rev. Mr. Coster will be assisted by Rev. J. S. Nichols, the English evangelist; Dr. Warner, the "Swamp Angel;" Rev. Mr. Hubert, and Rev. J. C. Turple. Martin's jubilee singers and the Newark Praying Band will be present.

Made the Wrong Kind of Music.

Vito Damian, an Italian organ grinder, chose the wrong place to be saucy to the lady of the house, and as a result spent a few hours in the lockup. Vito was impertinent to a member of Chief Marshal Wilson's household, and the Chief, who was home at the time, marched him down to the lockup. Sentence was suspended on him later in the day.

—Neuman Brothers are making a specialty at this time of year in all fresh fruits and vegetables. Telephone orders are filled quickly.

RODE TOO MUCH LIKE A CIRCUS PERFORMER.

Man on Horseback Ran Into a Two-Seated Wagon.

HOSPITAL GOT A PATIENT

MEN, HORSES AND WAGON WERE ALL MIXED UP.

Jacob Sachar Riding a Horse With Only a Halter Strap to Guide Him—A. J. Grollmisch Badly Hurt by Carriage Being Overturned—Both Claim They Were Blameless for the Accident.

Four Hebrews thrown in different directions, two horses struggling in the wreck of a two seated phæton, bits of harness scattered here and there, were the result of a collision between Jacob Sachar, of 214 Richmond street, who was on horseback, and A. J. Grollmisch and two others, of East Front street, who were in a carriage, driving along Richmond street last evening shortly after 8 o'clock.

As the result of the collision Grollmisch is lying at the hospital with sprains and bruises all down his back; Sacher's head is bound up, and George Grollmisch and Mr. Holland, who were both in the carriage with A. J. Grollmisch, have sundry bruises and cuts to nurse.

Grollmisch keeps an upholstering shop on East Front street, and yesterday afternoon took his son George and his clerk, Mr. Holland, out for a drive. They were returning at dusk, and were coming up Richmond street towards Front street. Just beyond East Third street a horse and rider loomed up before them in the darkness, and almost before they could realize it they were upset and lay in a heap underneath the remains of the carriage.

All parties claim innocense of any carelessness, and blame each other for the accident. Sacher was seen at his home this morning by a Press reporter and told his side of the story. He said he had been up to a pasture on Norwood avenue after his horse, tethered there with a rope and chain. Jumping on the animal's back he rode him to the house. As it looked so much like rain, he put the horse to a gallop, and without halter or bridle, and with the long end of the chain dangling in his hand he rode towards home.

Sacher claims that he was on the right side of the road, and Grollmisch says that he wasn't. At all events, when Sacher and Grollmisch saw the approaching collision, it was too late to turn the horses, and the result was as stated. The loose end of the chain caught in the shaft of the carriage, and the shock threw both horses. One of the shafts struck Sacher's horse on the breast, and cut it quite badly. There is also a deep gash on his hip, received in the fall. The other horse, too, received cuts and bruises.

Officer Watson, who was near at the time of the accident, rang up the ambulance and the elder Grollmisch was taken to the hospital.

Sacher, whose head was streaming with blood, got up as soon as he could extricate himself from the wreckage and ran after his horse that had walked away. Grollmisch screamed with pain all the way to the hospital, until an examination by Dr. Long showed the nature of his injuries. The other men were helped home and doctors sent for.

THE CROP REPORT.

Flourishing Conditions Reported All Over New Jersey.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, N. J., August 25.—The observers and crop correspondents report for the week ending Monday, August 22d, that in all sections the late crops are much improved, and are now in a most flourishing condition. Corn, although prostrated in some fields by the high winds and heavy rains, which accompanied the thunderstorms on the 17th, 18th and 19th, promises an abundant yield. All vine truck has a fine growth and only needs a little more sunshine to perfect its development and flavor; buckwheat is heading out well and pasture fields and meadows are improved; the second crop of clover is being harvested; early peaches are rotting and are dropping from the trees, but later varieties are more promising. Fall ploughing has been delayed, the soil being too wet. Some grain has been sown in the central and northern sections.

Plumber Hurts His Finger.

D. J. Galbraith, the North avenue plumber, suffered an injury to one of the fingers of his right hand a few days ago, and has been carrying the member in a sling ever since.

WOULDN'T TREAT HER.

WHEREUPON THE DUSKY DAMSEL CALLED HIM A STINGY FOOL.

John Lassiter Replied in Kind and Afterwards Fell Into the Hands of Patrolman Cash—Paid $3 in Court Today.

John Lassiter is a colored man. He met a dusky charmer in a saloon in the West End and she willed that he should treat her. Alas to say, Lassiter was not feeling in a truly chivalrous mood and questioned why it was that he was always asked to treat when he went in while no one ever treated him. This happened last evening.

Then the dusky charmer called Lassiter a stingy fool and declared him a fit inhabitant for a warmer land. Lassiter departed but she followed. Then Lassiter turned about and consigned her to another climate calling down upon her head sundry imprecations. Lassiter was drunk, sorrowful to say, and perhaps his language was stronger than he meant.

Patrolman Jerry Cash, of the loving heart, found him and gave him lodging at the rookery. There he spent the night talking to the creeping and the crawling ones as they paraded back and forth.

This morning he was arraigned before the City Judge and told his little tale. He pleaded guilty and the Judge let him off with a small fine, $3.

DR. WARDE'S GOOD'S SOLD.

Everything Brought Good Prices and a Total of $250 was Netted.

Yesterday the property of the erstwhile schoolmaster of the borough was sold at auction. In the morning at 11 o'clock a quantity of desks, chairs and the like were sold under an attachment made by Mrs. Julia Peck, of New York. She was the owner of the building in which Dr. Jocelyn Johnstone conducted his school for boys. She claimed that he still owed her rent and attached the goods which were then being used by Dr. Warde. Dr. Johnstone was going to sell them to his successor, but they could not come to any agreement.

Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock the property of the departed Dr. A. D. Warde was sold at the Arlington Hotel. W. H. Pangborn was the auctioneer. Everything went at good prices and a total of $250 was netted. The total amount of the claims was about $600. The piano was not sold. Just before the sale was started a notice was served by Richard Menzel, claiming that the piano belonged to him and notifying Murphy & Blatz, attorneys for the creditors, not to sell the same.

The Gathering of the Peapack Smiths.

The word has gone out from Peapack. The Smiths are to gather at the farm of the Patriarch Peter, one mile from Peapack station, at 10 o'clock Weddesday, August 31st. This is to be the twenty-third annual reunion of the Peapack Smiths. The call is signed by Isaiah Abram, James C., and J. D. Smith. Emphatic notice is given in the call to all operators in pink lemonade, gold bricks, tintypes, popcorn, the shell game, and kindred enterprises that they can't come. The Smiths own the land for miles on either side of the picnic ground and so may well be haughty.

Patrolman's Hands Poisoned.

Patrolman Nicholas Myers will probably not do duty tonight. The cause of his trouble was a vine of poison ivy which has in some way reached his hands. As a result, they are all swollen out of shape and keep him in a state of perfect agony. Last night he went on duty although he could barely hold a club and the pain from the swelling was almost unendurable. This is the first time in twenty-six years that he has suffered from ivy poisoning.

Had a Good Catch.

City Judge DeMeza, of this city, and Judge Bartine and Former Sheriff Dilts, of Somerville, were down at Barnegat fishing yesterday. They had a delightful day and captured some 119 fish between the three of them.

On a Thirty Days' Furlough.

Howard Bennett, a private in the Ninth Regiment, New York Volunteers, which is stationed at Camp Townsend, Ga., is home on a thirty days furlough. He was sick for six weeks with the typhoid fever and was sent North with a lot of other convalescent soldiers. He enlisted May 2d, and was disappointed not to get in active service.

Estate Settled Up.

The heirs of the estate of the late Harriet Molleson, of New Market met at the office of Harry C. Runyon yesterday afternoon and settled the estate with the administrator, John M. Dayton.

A. Shotwell, city treasurer of Fargo, N. D., is visiting his brother, John D. Shotwell, of Washington avenue.

PILFERING SERVANT RUN TO EARTH.

George Demler Played Detective With Success.

CAUGHT HER IN ELIZABETH.

HAD TAKEN CLOTHING AND MONEY FROM THE DEMLERS.

The Young Woman Was Working as Domestic in a Washingtonville Household—Demler Traced Her to Elizabeth—Confronted Her—She Gave Up all the Stolen Articles and Was Let Go.

George Demler, a well-known resident of Washingtonville, has been playing detective on his own account. His little game was successful. The cause of all the trouble which necessitated these unusual proceedings was a young woman employed in the home of Mr. Demler as a domestic.

Some time ago a young woman, apparently an American, came to the Demler household and assisted Mrs. Demler in the care of the place. She was a good servant and did the work fairly well. She was rather good-looking and apparently about eighteen years of age.

One day early last week she asked Mrs. Demler for permission to go to Warrenville to visit her sister who, she claimed, was working there. The permission was granted and the girl left the house at an early hour. Now after she had gone, Mrs. Demler was looking through her closets and missed several gowns.

She immediately instituted a search and found that a number of articles and a considerable amount of cash were missing. The search revealed the fact that Mrs. Demler's silk wedding gown, a new cloth gown, several pairs of gloves, a veil and several other small articles were nowhere in the house.

Five dollars had been removed from a pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Demler. There was also missing $2 belonging to her daughter Carrie, together with some change belonging to a guest at the house.

That night the young woman did not return, although the family waited for her. Next day she came not and so Mr. Demler decided to go after her. There seemed conclusive evidence that she took the articles and he decided to accuse her of the crime if he found her.

He went to Warrenville, but she was not there and had not been there. He managed to discover that she had a home in Elizabeth and traced her there. Last Friday he went to Elizabeth and found his former domestic. She was confronted with the proofs of the theft and the return of the missing articles demanded. Mr. Demler told her that he would make no attempt to prosecute her, providing they were all returned at once.

The girl finally broke down, acknowledged that she had taken the clothing and money. She returned them to Mr. Demler and made up the full amount of the cash that had disappeared. Then Mr. Demler returned home satisfied and the matter was allowed to rest.

MR. AND MRS. MARTIN GREETED.

Their Young Friends Paid Them an Unexpected Call Last Night.

As a little sendoff to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Martin, whose marriage last May was announced Tuesday, as told in last night's Press, Mrs. Wm. Wilson got up a little party for them lat evening and surprised them at their home, 37 Harmony street.

The threatening storm kept many away, but about fifteen members of Warren Mission C. E. Society, of which Mr. Martin is president, came, and a pleasant evening was spent with sociability and refreshmehts.

Conundrum Supper.

Tonight at Washington Hall will be the concert and conundrum supper and contest drilling between the companies of boys and girls of the Mt. Olive church. The pastor has been requested to speak on the subject, "Future Hope of the Colored Race." Black Hattie will not appear. Her letter of regret is in the hands of the committee, but the remainder of the programme will be carried out.

He Was Overdone.

George Frazee stayed at the clam bake Tuesday night. He says they "baked" him. Patrolman Cash found him in a state of dead drunkenness. This morning he was arraigned before City Judge De Meza and sentence was suspended.

Michael Lynch, of Minerva, Essex county, has returned to his home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. James E. Totten, of Division street.

NO MORE SPANISH RULE

The Philippine Insurgents Will Disarm if America Controls.

IT IS LIBERTY OR DEATH

If the Islands Are Not Taken by the United States or England They Will Continue to Fight. Important Conference Between Our Forces and Those of Aguinaldo.

Manila, Philippine Islands, Aug. 24.—At a conference to-day between the insurgents and the Americans, the former declared emphatically that they were willing to co-operate with the Americans and surrender their arms promptly if assured that the islands would remain either an American or a British colony, or under the protectorate of the United States or Great Britain.

Otherwise, the insurgent leaders asserted, they would not dare to disarm and must positively refuse to do so.

They threaten a fresh rebellion within a month if the American forces withdraw.

The natives assert that the religious orders are instigating opposition to American supremacy.

Many Spaniards assert that they are eager to invest their fortunes in new enterprises, but that they fear ruin if the Americans withdraw. A few monopolists, fearing competition, are secretly intriguing against the new regime.

The United States transports Rio Janeiro and Pennsylvania arrived to-day, the former bearing two battalions of South Dakota volunteer troops for the light artillery and a detachment of the Signal Corps, and the latter the First Montana volunteers and three hundred recruits for the First California volunteers.

Five Hundred Philippine Rebels Killed.

Madrid, Aug. 24.—The government has received a dispatch from General Rios, governor general of the Visayas islands and the successor of General Jaudenes in the governor generalship of the Philippines, saying that there has been bloody fighting between the Spaniards and the insurgents, with an estimated loss to the latter of five hundred men.

The Spanish losses were "unimportant."

The dispatch says a number of insurgent chiefs were captured and shot.

A sergeant of gendarmes who attempted to incite a rising against the authorities, barely escaped lynching at the hands of the populace. He was turned over to the courts and shot.

General Rios adds that he has organized six battalions of natives and Spaniards for the purpose of resisting a threatened invasion of insurgents from the island of Luzon, and also a small squadron to watch the coasts and rivers of Mindanao island and the Visayas.

The government is highly satisfied with the services of General Rios.

Merritt Assumes Duties as Governor.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—A special from Manila says: "General Merritt has assumed the governor's duty and transferred the command of the Eighth Corps to Major General Otis. Brigadier General H. G. Otis of California has been ordered to report to General Anderson and General MacArthur has been assigned to command the Second division. Colonel Ovenshine of the Third regulars will command the brigade in place of General MacArthur.

Berlin, Aug. 24.—As regards the disposition of the Philippine islands, German diplomats do not believe that America intends to keep all the islands.

British Ship for Manila.

Hong Kong, Aug. 24.—The British cruiser Hermione and the gunboat Peacock left to-day for Manila.

To Promote Manila Heroes.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The president has called upon General Merritt, commanding the military forces at Manila, for his recommendations regarding the operations that resulted in the surrender and the capitulation of the Philippines.

It is the president's purpose to promote the officers who rendered conspicuously meritorious services in the land fights at Manila just as was done in the case of the gallant officers at Santiago.

The Navy Ordnance Bids.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The ordnance officers are surprised over the lowest bids for one, three and six-pounder shell. The bid of Clarence M. Broderick of the Ideal Machine Works of Hartford, at ninety-nine cents, was "less than cost," according to rivals. A board will inspect the works to ascertain whether the plant is capable of producing the material on time. The contract will amount to $207,000. The firm has never held government contracts for shell before.

Bureau chiefs in the navy department are engaged on their annual estimates, which must be submitted by Septembtr 1. There will be a material increase in many of the usual items.

Commissioners Meet September 13.

London, Aug. 25.—The Daily News's Madrid correspondent says the Cuban and Porto Rican commissions will meet on September 13.

The correspondent also says that the Spanish sailors in the United States refused to give parole that they will not take arms against the republic.

Presidents Visit to Montauk.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—While Secretary Alger is at Montauk Point he will confer with General Wheeler concerning the visit of the president to Camp Wikoff. The visit will probably not take place until after the arrival of General Shafter.

No Orders to Resume Fighting.

Madrid, Aug. 25.—The government definitely denies that it has sent an order to General Blanco instructing him to resume hostilities against the insurgents.

General Blanco has full liberty to act as occasion may require.

TORPEDO BOATS ARRIVE.

The Ericsson and the Cushing at the Navy Yard.

New York, Aug. 25.—The torpedo boats Ericsson and Cushing are the latest arrivals from southern waters, and both are at the navy yard. The Ericsson arrived last evening in command of Lieutenant Usher. The vessel will be thoroughly renovated during her stay here. She left Guantanamo bay on August 11, in tow of the collier Lebanon, and arrived at Key West on the 15th. The following day she was taken in tow by the revenue cutter Morrell and arrived at Hampton Roads after calling at Charleston on the 19th. The Ericsson headed north under her own steam last Monday and arrived here yesterday afternoon. The entire trip from Guantanamo was uneventful.

Lieutenant A. Gleaves and his executive, Ensign D. F. Boyd, who is one of the survivors of the battleship Maine, are in charge of the Cushing, which reached the yard this morning. The Windom towed the Cushing from Key West to Hatteras, from which the torpedo boat came north under her own steam. No repairs are needed on the Cushing and she came here under orders from the navy department.

On board the battleship Iowa yesterday the officer of the deck said that Captain Evans left the vessel the night before for a brief visit, and was expected back yesterday. His sprained ankle improved considerably prior to his leaving the ship.

The work of lightening the Iowa and Oregon began yesterday, so as to get them ready for docking. No board will be appointed to survey these vessels. The constructors at the yard have already inspected them, and their report has been forwarded to Washington. As soon as this has been returned approved the vessels will be docked.

There was a rumor that the Oregon would join Admiral Dewey's fleet as soon as she is cleaned and painted, and that she would go to Manila via the Suez canal. It was stated on pretty good authority yesterday that the warship will return to the Pacific by the same route that she came east, as it is considered the better, although the more expensive way.

WILSON CONTROLS PONCE.

Saloons to Be Closed for Three Days in Order to Quiet Disorders.

Ponce, Island of Porto Rico, Aug. 25.—General James H. Wilson has assumed control of the district of Ponce and has ordered that the saloons be closed for three days, with a view to quieting the existing disorder. They will be opened subsequently under special regulations.

General Grant has established his headquarters here.

A cable message announcing that Mrs. Miles, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Colonel Rice, sailed for Ponce on the United States transport Obdam from Charleston last Saturday, will delay the departure of General Miles and his staff possibly for several days.

During the attempt Monday night to locate the fire to the east of Ponce, a platoon of Troop A of New York, under the command of Lieutenant Coudert, accompanied Lieutenant Davenport of the Signal Corps of Santa Isabel. The men had an exciting time, riding at a furious gallop after midnight and covering twenty miles in two hours. Lieutenant Davenport tapped the telegraph wires at several points without locating the fire. The party returned yesterday afternoon utterly exhausted.

FIRST MUSTER OUT.

Second New York and Troop A and C Included in the Lists.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Orders have been issued for the mustering out of the following regiments:

First Vermont, First Maine, Fifty-second Iowa, Sixth Pennsylvania, Fifth Marvland, Second New York, Second Nebraska, One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Indiana, all volunteer infantry; also a battery of Ohio light artillery, First Illinois, volunteer cavalry; Batteries A and B, Georgia light artillery, Twenty-eighth Indiana light battery, and the New York and Pennsylvania cavalry troops now in Porto Rico.

Other orders to muster out troops will be announced as soon as definite decisions are reached.

The New York cavalry troops in Porto Rico are Troops A and C.

The Pennsylvania troops are the Philadelphia City Troop, Sheridan Troop and the Governor's Troop.

Poor Russian Crops.

London, Aug. 25.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times says great uneasiness is felt over the repetition of last year's failure of the harvest. In seven districts of the Province of Kazan and largely in the provinces of Samara, Saratoff, Simbirsk, Vlatka and Perm, the crops are almost worthless. Even the landed gentry are beginning to ask the government for relief and the prospects of a famine are most grave. The ministers of the interior and of finance are sending out agents to make inquiries and to purchase corn. The Zemstove are bestirring themselves to meet the situation.

It is reported that in some districts the peasantry are breaking into the communal granaries and helping themselves.

Spanish Soldiers Reach Home.

Corunna, Spain, Aug. 25.—The Spanish steamer Alicante, with the first of Spain's repatriated soldiers, arrived from Santiago yesterday. Enormous crowds gathered upon the quays, but were not allowed to get near the vessel for fear of yellow fever contagion.

All the military and civil authorities were present. Some of the sick will be taken to the Oza lazaretto, where they will be quarantined. Others will be kept five days in hospital ships before they are dispatched to their homes. Those who are in good health will be promptly disembarked.

A Check for Sick Soldiers.

New York, Aug. 25.—A check for $1,000 was sent to C. H. Dodge, who is in charge of the Red Cross receiving depot, by the nurses' auxiliary for the maintenance of nurses, through Mrs. Winthrop Cowdin. The money was sent for the regulars at Montauk and to purchase whatever is most needed by them.

"More money will be sent if it is needed," said Mrs. Cowdin to-day, "and all of the wants and needs of the regular troops will be supplied as fast as they are made known.

DISTRESS IN HAVANA

The Food Supply Short and Many Hungry in the Streets.

WORSE CONDITIONS INLAND

Insurgents Are Also in a Pitiable Condition. Mobs Gather At the Free Kitchens Waiting for Food. Insurgents Are Still Under Arms. All Hostilities Have Been Suspended.

Key West, Aug. 24.—Distressing reports continue to reach here from Havana. Passengers arriving to-day by the steamer George W. Childs say the suffering among the poorer classes is appalling.

Organized bands of beggars roam the city in every direction seeking food. Pinched faces and half-clothed, emaciated forms are met with everywhere, mobs gather daily around the free kitchens, awaiting the distribution of cooked food, and after obtaining rations return to the public parks and boulevards, where they stretch themselves on the benches.

Thousands of unemployed gather at La Punta and other approaches opposite the Morro, at the entrance to the harbor, and wildly cheer every arriving American vessel, which they imagine brings food supplies for free distribution.

Those more fortunate, who either own or can hire small boats, surround the vessels while at anchor, beseeching to be given something to eat.

The authorities are compelled to use force to keep them from going aboard the vessels.

Distress in the interior is reported even greater than in Havana, as a number of vessels deeply loaded with supplies which have arrived at Havana during the past week have in a measure tended to relieve the situation.

The insurgent forces, which still keep under arms in Havana and Pinar del Rio provinces, are likewise suffering for food. The insurgent general, Alejandro Rodriguez, commanding those districts, has made several visits under a flag of truce to Guanabacoa and other towns in the outskirts of Havana, seeking supplies for his men.

All hostilities are suspended. Albert Brice, member of General Shafter's staff, has arrived at Havana from Cienfuegos, and is a guest of the British consul.

Garcia Sends Report.

New York, Aug. 25.—The following report from General Garcia has been received at the Cuban junta. The report was addressed to President T. Estrada Palma:

Gibara, August 3.

On the 16th of July I held the last conference with the American General Shafter. He informed me that the American troops had captured Santiago de Cuba.

Aware that my troops were no longer needed in that vicinity, while they were needed very much in other places still occupied by the enemy, I so informed General Shafter.

He asked me to delay my departure two or three days, which I did.

Starting on the 20th, toward Holquin, by way of Jiguani, I am at present with my general headquarters in the town of Gibara, where I arrived on July 30th.

On the 29th, while encamped in San Pedro Cacocun, I learned that General Luque had evacuated this town and that General Luis de Feria, with the troops under him, had occupied it. The Spanish left in the hospitals over six hundred sick and wounded, whom I have provided with beef.

There is perfect order in the town. New authorities have been elected and everything is working regularly.

The United States steamship Nashville was in the harbor when I entered. I requested its commander to ask his government to open this port to freight commerce, or with the United States at least, for there is a great scarcity of provisions.

The Spanish took away everything they could.

General Luque is in Holguin, with twelve thousand men and twenty-four cannon, and I am trying to force him out, though I can only count on four thousand men and four cannon with which to fight him.

Volunteers and guerillas are daily joining us. About fifteen hundred have already joined us, and if it continues the Spanish army will soon be dissolved.

Mayari, Fraybenito, Jururio and Jandiaga are garrisoned by our army. The first of these towns was evacuated on the 22d of July, leaving one hundred sick and wounded that we are caring for in the hospital.

When the Spaniards left Mayari we defeated them, capturing their convoy, consisting of 300 rifles, 150,200 Remington and Mauser cartridges, two cannons, with ammunition for them, and provisions and clothing.

They suffered severe losses, not many arriving at Holguin.

I have received propositions for the surrender of Maynzanilla under conditions which I have refused to accept.

Very soon all my department will be free from the dominion of Spain.

Signed) CALITO GARCIA.

HUNTIZGTON REPORTED SHOT !

A Rumor States That He Was Injured at His Camp in the Adirondacks.

New York, Aug. 25.—The Associated Press late last night sent out the following:

Our Saratoga correspondent advises us that a rumor has reached there to the effect that C. P. Huntington has betn shot at his camp, known as Pine Knot, on Raquette lake, Adirondacks. He also advises that the storms of yesterday and to-day have prostrated telegraphic communication, and that Pine Knot cannot be reached.

We are doing everything possible to verify the report. Meanwhile we pass it to you as an unconfirmed rumor for your information. We do not assume any responsibility for the truth of the rumor.

New Jersey's Greatest Store.

HAHNE & CO. NEWARK, N.J.

AUGUST BARGAINS.

These great bargains are such as we can give only in August and such as no other store in or out of New Jersey can offer.

Don't wait for announcements in newspapers, but come in and enjoy countless rounds of pleasant surprises. The list includes almost everything, from a Hassock to a Parlor Suit, from a Pin to a Bonnet and a Shirt Waist to a Suit.

WE shall close our store evenings at 6 p. m. and on Saturdays at 12 noon, beginning July 8.

FREE deliveries at all New Jersey railroad stations. No extra charge for packing.

Hahne & Co., Newark, N.J.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. PLAINFIELD, New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the Spring and Summer months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

F. A. DUNHAM.

—CIVIL ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR.—

109 Park Ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87 F.

Shoes for Spring.

You'll be buying a new pair of shoes soon. Where are you going to buy them?

The shoe store you want to patronize is the store that gives you the most style, comfort, elegance and durability for the money.

If you'll "shop around" before you buy you'll find that this is the store you're looking for.

Flynn Bros.,

222 West Front St, Plainfield, N. J.

Who? Who? Who?

says the Owl.

Who sells the best Wall Paper?

Who sells the most Wall Paper?

Who has the largest stock of Wall Paper?

Says the Public:

MARSH, AYERS & Co.,

of course.

The Owl is the symbol of wisdom—a fit symbol is it, therefore, to head an advertisement that will convey to you the wisdom of buying your Wall Paper of us.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.,

WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, etc. 201 Park avenue, cor. E. Second street.

RUSHTON & HANSEN,

Painters and Paper Hangers,

Office and Shop Sycamore and Fourth Streets

Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

NOTICE

to all interested in

Up-to-date Laundry Work.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular.

We also have just completed arrangements for doing family washing in a satisfactory manner by the dozen or week. Please call at office for further information.

City Steam and Hand Laundry,

Morey & LaRue, Proprietors,

19 Somerset St.,

Tel. No. 751. Plainfield, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

110 East Front St.,

Plainfield, N. J

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.

Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds, of Confectionery, Peanuts' Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

COLLIER,

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN.

Established 1869.

103 Park Avenue

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 E. Fifth St.

Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER SANITARY PLUMBING.

TELEPHONE 212 A.

AT THE

Golden Rule Bakery,

110 SOMERSET ST., COR. MANNING AVE.,

You will find a full line of Bread, Cakes, Pies and Confectionery. Telephone Call 220 F.

ICE CREAM.

Sunday orders delivered.

J. J STAHL, Proprietor.

F. A. LONG,

No. 108 SOMERSET ST.

Near Manning Avenue.

Up-to-Date Cash Grocery Store

Orders called for and delivered in any part of City or Dunellen.

Your Valuables,

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

HARRY S. POTTER,

Dealer In

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL.

Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard, at Mt. Pleasant Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1y

MRS. L. ADAMS,

MILLINERY and DRESSMAKING

Parlors. Imported and Domestic Millinery, styles the latest. Hats and Bonnets trimmed to order a specialty. Ladies' own material used. All work strictly first-class.

114 EAST FRONT STREET.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new Barber Shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

Is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

L. A. HUMMER'S

VARIETY MARKET.

Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Poultry, Eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.

220 Park Ave. Telephone Call, 29 A.

McCullough's STEAM MILL.

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

B. H. McCullough, Prop

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished

Our 14th Annual Clothing Sale,

for July and August has commenced, and for the next two months we will sell all of our summer stock at just ½ price. It will pay you to call and get our prices before purchasing elswhere.

Men's and Boys' Suits, Bicycle Suits, Extra Bicycle Pants, Hats and Gents' Furnishing Goods

must be closed out, as we carry nothing over. We have about 100 pairs of those English Tweed pants left, which we still sell at the low figure of 98c the pair, so if you need pants, now is the time to catch on. All goods sold as advertised.

Werner's Clothing House,

206 West Front Street.

MANTELS $4.00 AND UP.

AT THE Fire-Place Store,

CURTIS M. THORPE,

310-312 Park Avenue.

STRAW HATS,

Fine Summer Underwear. Also Scotch Cheviot and Madras Shirts, fast colors, at

JAMES R. BLAIR'S,

126 Park Avenue.

$1.25 NOW

REDUCED FROM $1.75.

Misses' Chocolate Lace Shoes with Vesting Tops. Sizes 13 to 2 only.

SHERWIN'S, 149 West Front St.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap.
COAL is the order to lay in a heap.
COAL is the atmosphere warmed by its glow.
COAL is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

ORDER YOUR BREAKFAST AT ROGER'S.

232 West Second St. First Delivery 5 a. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

VanEMBURGH & SON

OPEN A NEW DEPARTMENT.

10 qt. Galvanized Pail	15c	Round Globe Fancy Parlor Lamps	87
10 qt. Granite Dish Pan	25c	Japanese Dust Pans	5c
32 qt. Wash Boiler	25c	Galvanized Dust Pans	10c
10 qt. Dish Pan	10c	Crumb Trays	10c
Zinc Wash Boards	10c	Long Handle Fire Shovels	5c
Painted Chamber Pails	19c	Chopping Bowls	10c
3 Brass Hoop Cedar Pails	25c	Angel Cake Pans	8c
Large Combination Dinner Pails	20c	Perforated Pie Plates	3c-4c
Knife Boxes	10c	Glass Lamps Complete	19c
Large Enameled Tea Pots	25c	Sink Drainers	12c
1 lb. Roll Toilet Paper	10c	Feather Dusters	10c

IN OUR VERY LIGHT BASEMENT.

Babcock Building. Corner Store. Plainfield, N. J.

We Insure Your Shirts.

We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods" Let us call for your work.

Hillier & Co.,

179 North Avenue.

Telephone 30 M.

M. POWERS

Dealer in Superior Quality Lehigh and Wyoming Coal.

MIXED COAL, $4.75.

Yard 725 to 737 South Ave. Office 171 North Ave., opposite R. R. Station.

Telephone 67 A.

CHARLES L. STANLEY,

142 North Ave., headquarters for

Choice Cut Flowers and Palms and Ferns.

FLORAL DESIGNS.

Decorations for all occasions. Greenhouses at Netherwood, near depot.

NEUMAN BROS., HIGH-GRADE GROCERS

Choice Teas and Coffees.

RUSHMORE & CO.,

WATCHUNG AVE. and FOURTH ST.

Dealers in

Lumber, Coal AND Wood

Moulding & Planing Mill.

Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Elston M. French & Co.

163 NORTH AVENUE

(Succeeding VanBuren Bros.)

Real Estate and Insurance.

Largest agency in the city. Loans negotiate

THE Metropolitan Boarding Stables

C. V. D. COORLE, - - - - Proprietor,

No. 138 East Second Street.

Livery, Boarding and Sale Stables

Horses boarded by the day, week, month or year. Reasonable prices.

TELEPHONE 214 F. 17

STORAGE OF FURS.

Special attention is directed to our exceptional facilities for storing furs and fur lined garments, fur rugs, etc., in our new store, 308 West Front street, and the insuring of same against damage by moths, fire or burglary, at very low prices. Now is the time to have your furs repaired, altered and redyed. Summer prices prevail. Estimates cheerfully given.

H. KOHN, 308 West Front Street.

KENT & SON, PIANOS.

$125 A HIGH GRADE PIANO DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.

30 DAYS FREE TRIAL.

GUARANTEED FOR TEN YEARS. Do not pay fancy prices for your pianos. Write us. Send for catalogue. KENT & SON, 49 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Clearing Sale of Shirt Waists.

With the close of July comes the greatest price-cutting—the most attractive values ever offered. The remaining stock is divided into two lots, 49c. and 75c., former prices ranged from 75c to $1.50. There's not 200 waists in the entire assortment, so we advise an early call for the best selection.

Sailor Hats and Untrimmed Hats 49c.

This means that each and every hat, irrespective of former price, will be 49c. Of especial interest should the price be, as none have been less than 75c, and the styles offered are all of this season's production.

Men's Negligee Shirts 59c.

Sounds cheap, but the hundred or more shirts that go on sale have been selling at 75c., 85c. and $1. The patterns are all new and desirable, the kind that you would like. Clearing time is here, and the new price, 59c., will be the means of their quick disposal.

Men's Summer Underwear 20c.

Nearly 600 pieces gauze underwear to be 20c. This is ordinarily the best 25c underwear sold, but 20c will be the clearing price.

I. LEDERER.

TRY

J. F. MACDONALD'S

TEA FROM 20c. TO 35c. per lb.

COFFEES.

Our 15c. is continuing to make friends, and our 20c. in the grain has no equal.

Guaranteed to equal 50c and 60c goods or money refunded.

Send or call for samples—we are pleased to give them.

Telephone 49 B. 186 East Front Street.

-:-COFFEE-:-

FRESHER than you and I.
Best that grows.
From 10 cents up.

GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW,
PARK AVENUE GROCER.

McDonough Bros.,
-COAL AND ICE-
222 MADISON AVE. Telephone 225 I.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.
The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p. m.
L. B. Bromfield, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores 9 9 1 year

A. A. MARSH & SON,
PRACTICAL
Painters and Decorators.
—DON'T FORGET THE PLACE—
965 WEST FRONT ST.
All orders sent to us will receive prompt attention.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED.
Give us a call. Respectfully yours,
A. A. MARSH. E. MARSH.
MARSH & SON.

—NEW YORK—
& Elizabeth Despatch
STODDARD'S EXPRESS
have opened an express line between PLAINFIELD, NEWARK and NEW YORK. Office in Plainfield at
161 North Ave.
Goods forwarded by direct line to all parts of the world.

CHAS. EDW. BICKNELL,
wholesale and retail dealer in
California and Domestic Fruits, Confectionary, Nuts, Ice Cream, Soda, etc.
47 Somerset St.
"On the Bridge."

William Hand & Son,
STAGES
For Parties, etc. 518 Park avenue.

Summer Stoves,
burning Gasoline and Oil, have been greatly improved—we have the latest productions.
Baldwin Refrigerators are the best made.
Pratts Deodorized Gasoline.
A. M. Griffen,
119 EAST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

HENRY LIEFKE,
201-203 West Front St.
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
Try my New England and Home Made Bread. Vienna Bread a specialty. Goods delivered to all parts of the city.

TENEYCK & HARRIS,
Dealers in all the best kinds of cleaned and wel screened Lehigh Valley
COAL
Office 121 Watchung ave., near 2d st.
Telephone No. 15 F. South Plainfield. L. V. Station.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vin st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vines
All work promptly attended to.

FAIRY SOAP. FAIRY SOAP.

Bright Silver

"Silver can be brightened by washing in hot suds made from Fairy Soap. Rinse in boiling water and dry with soft towels."
—Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer.

FAIRY SOAP

Pure—White—Floating.

The Soap of the Century.

Sold everywhere in three convenient sizes for the toilet, bath and laundry.

FREE Send us your name, address and one Fairy Soap wrapper to nearest office below, and we will mail you free a copy of our booklet, "Fairy Tales," second series, larger and handsomer than the first, and containing new stories and illustrations.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago. St. Louis. New York. Boston. Philadelphia. Pittsburgh. Baltimore.

PUBLIC SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES OF 1896 DUE BOROUGH OF NORTH PLAINFIELD.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield, in the County of Somerset, to make the unpaid taxes assessed on lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate, in said Borough in the year 1896, the subscriber, Collector of Taxes for said Borough, to whom said warrant is directed, will on Tuesday, the twentieth day of September, 1898, between the hours of 12 M. and 5 P. M., to wit at 2 o'clock P. M., at my office, No. 43 Somerset street in said Borough, sell the lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate hereunder described at public vendue, for the shortest term, not exceeding 30 years for which any person will agree to take the same and pay such taxes with interest thereon at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from the twentieth day of December, 1896, together with all costs, fees, charges and expenses.

Allen, Est Gideon	House and Lot	11-13 Grandview Ave	$28.84
Allen, Charlotte	" " "	35 " "	28.84
Bird, Fred	" " "	70 Manning Ave	12.36
Boe, Wm	" " "	27 Pearl Street	22.66
Cole, Est Elias	Lots	Mountain Ave	12.36
Carey, T. J	House and Lot	76 Summit Ave	20.60
Cleaves, M. H. & Frank, Bal	" " "	Coddington Ave	4.36
Drake, Wm. M	" " "	100 Jackson Ave	16.48
Harris, James	" " "	92 Manning Ave	6.18
Hakes, H. N	Lot	West End ave	4 12
Jimmerson, A. V	House and Lot	74 Jackson Ave	26.78
Jobs, Thos, L	4 Lots	Prides Place	8.24
Ketchum, Morris	18 Lots	Harrison Street	24.72
Logans, Romain	2 Lots	Fairview Place	8.24
Leland, Geo. R	1 Lot	Fairview Ave	4.12
Murray, Est Alex	2 Lots	Harrison St	4.12
Marchant, W. D. L	13 Lots	" "	20 60
Runyon, Est E. W	Lot	Somerset St	16.48
Rupert, Henry	House and Lot	30 Stone Ave	23.60
Scribner, Sylvester	22 Acres	Greenbrook Road	31.90
Scribner, Est Isaac	House and Lot	" "	14.42
" "	" "	" "	24.72
" "	5 Acres	" "	2.06
Smith, Martha	House and Lot	" "	51.55
Sebring, Chas. P	" "	35 Prospect Place	30.90
Estelle	" "	37 " "	39.14
Smith, Elwood M	4 Lots	West End Ave	10.30
Vail, Annette	House and Lot	12 Duer St	28.84
Vetterlein, John	" "	106 "	25.72
Van Vechten & Co	" " Lot	Westervelt Ave	6.18
VanWinckle, Winifred	" "	Coddington Ave	35.02
" Bal	Lot	" "	3.12
Weigel, Annie
Albert Runyon, owner	House and Lot	129 Duer St	32.96

Payment must be made before the conclusion of the sale, otherwise the Property will be immediately re-sold.

Witness my hand this 18th day of August, 1898.

GEO. F. BROWN,
Collector of Taxes.

8 18 3-th

UNINTERRUPTED PASSENGER SERVICE TO

FORT MONROE
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
WASHINGTON

which are most attractive points at this time.

EXPRESS STEAMSHIPS OF THE OLD DOMINION LINE

Perform Daily Service.

Through tickets returning from Washington by rail or water.

For full information apply to

Old Dominion S. S. Co.,
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILAUDEU, Vice-Pres. & Traffic Mgr.
12 31 tf

J. W. VAN SICKLE,
122 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.
FRESH & SALTED MEATS,
GAME IN SEASON. Philadelphia Scrapple.
Orders called for and delivered promptly.
TELEPHONE 148 b.

LAIRE'S
CUT PRICES FOR THIS WEEK.

Screen Doors, hard wood plain, 80
" " " " fancy, 90
Screen Windows 23, 25, 35.
Ice Shredders with cover 45.
Excelsior Fruit Press $1.50.
Hammocks 50c and upwards.
Rubber Hose.
100 Clothes Pins 5c.
" " " 9c, best.
Toilet Paper 6 rolls 25c.
Toilet package 3 for 25c.
Finest Silver Polish 5c box.
Sole Agents for Lincoln Foundry.

TELEPHONE CALL 862.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co.

THE CRESCENT HOTEL.,
corner Somerset and Chatham streets, North Plainfield. Regular and transient boarders.
RUDOLPH SPEIGEL, Proprietor

WM. D. THICKSTUN
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS AND DECORATORS
141 North Avenue.

ESTATE of Elizabeth C. Tryon, Deceased. Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the County of Union, made on the application of the undersigned, Executor of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscriber under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the thirteenth day of June 1898, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.

WILLIAM S. BENTON,
6 23 10 oaw-th Executor.

ESTATE of LEWIS F. COMPTON, deceased. Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the County of Union, made on the application of the undersigned, administrator of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscriber under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the twenty-seventh day of July, 1898, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscriber.

ELSTON M. FRENCH,
8 4 10-th Administrator.

EXECUTOR'S Settlement. Notice is hereby given that the account of the subscriber, Executor of Joanna E. Maxson, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the twenty-first day of September next.

Dated August 11th, 1898.

8 18 5-th EUGENE H. HATCH.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset treet. 6 1?

E. E. BROWN'S MEAT MARKET
cor. PARK AVE. and SECOND ST.
Choice Meats
of all kinds.
GAME
n seasons. Goods delivered in all parts of the city and borough.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Built

Ladies desiring
KNIFE-PLEATING or PINKING
done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 26tf

THE PEACE COMMISSIONERS

Senator Frye of Maine Will Be Chosen and Probably Justice White and Tracy.

Washington, Aug 25.—It is understood that Senator William P. Frye of Maine, a member of the committee on foreign relations, has accepted the president's tender of a place on the Paris peace commission.

This will be good news to all lovers of American interests. No more enthusiastic advocate of a progressive American policy lives than Senator Frye, as his record in behalf of a revival of the shipping interests of the United States, the construction of the Nicaragua canal, the annexation of Hawaii, and the abandonment of Spanish control and sovereignty on the western continent show. He believes in flying the Stars and Stripes wherever, in the providence of God, they have been raised.

Senator Frye was ranking member of the committee on foreign relations when Senator Sherman left to enter the cabinet last year, and would have been its chairman had he not voluntarily stepped aside for Mr. Davis of Minnesota, who will be a colleague on the commission.

He preferred to retain his chairmanship of the committee on commerce because of his interest and experience in the questions coming under its jurisdiction.

Secretary Day does not agree with Senator Allison and other prominent men who have been quoted as saying that negotiations will be long drawn out; on the other hand he looks for their speedy conclusion.

In this matter the war department does not agree with the representative of the state department. In General Corbin's dispatch of instructions to General Merritt, forwarded yesterday, it was said:

"The question of returning any troops (from the Philippines) can only be decided after the ratification of the report of the peace commission, which may not be for some weeks, even months yet."

The three members of the peace commission thus definitely decided upon are Secretary Day and Senators Davis and Frye. Justice White's appointment is probable, but the fifth member is unknown.

It seems to be the general opinion that General Tracy would make an ideal commissioner, and he may receive the appointment.

In Honor of the War Heroes.

New York, Aug. 25.—Mayor Van Wyck will return to the city on Tuesday and sign the resolution of the municipal assembly providing for a reception in honor of the American soldiers, sailors and marines.

The mayor will appoint a committee of one hundred citizens to make all arrangements for a big demonstration. He will also communicate with the war and navy departments at Washington with a view to having the government represented.

The plans under consideration contemplate a parade in this city of all the soldiers of the regular and volunteer armies in this vicinity and all the sailors and marines of the navy in the harbor at the time. The parade is to be reviewed by the president, as well as the city and the state officers. The men in charge of the movement also contemplate having the warships take part in another naval parade in the North river. Following the parade there will probably be a banquet or reception in honor of the army and navy officers.

September 25 is the date for the celebration that is now under consideration, but some other day may be selected if the troops are not in condition to march at that time. It is contemplated that there will be a general suspension of business in the city on the day of the parade, and that the citizens generally will turn out to do honor to the heroes of the war with Spain.

The city will not be asked to make any appropriation for the expenses of the affair. Whatever money may be needed will be raised by the committee to be appointed by the mayor.

Tornadoes and Cloudbursts.

Syracuse, Aug. 25.—A terrific tornado struck this city shortly after noon yesterday, unroofing buildings and blowing down whole trees. The state fair buildings were nearly all wrecked. The Alhambra Rink was destroyed and many other buildings are in ruins. At Herkimer and Utica cloudbursts are reported and the damage is estimated at more than $1,000,000. There were several electric storms in many parts of the state.

New Use for the Kangaroo.

Surgeons at Oakland, on the bay opposite San Francisco, have resorted to the use of kangaroo tendons to tie up the fractured bones of a broken leg, in order that the patient may have use of his knee while the bones are knitting together, says an exchange. Kangaroo tendon is as strong as silver wire. It is taken from the tail of the kangaroo, and being animal in its nature it is absorbed, and the leg does not have to be again cut open, as is necessary when silver wire is used.

A Boat of Cement.

An Italian named Gabellini has recently made of a boat of cement. The framework is of small bars covered with a wire netting, the latter being, in turn, covered with cement. The surface is then polished. It is claimed that such a boat costs less than a wooden one, and despite its extra weight, goes more easily through the water.

The Infant Idea.

Tommy—What is the guest of honor at a dinner?

Willie—Don't you know? He's the one that gets the gizzard and liver saved for him.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ALGER AT CAMP WIKOFF

The War Secretary Inspects the Surroundings of the Troops.

PLANS FOR THEIR COMFORT

The Secretary Making a Thorough Investigation of the Camp and the Many Rumors Concerning the Suffering and Hardship Endured There, Four More Deaths in Camp.

Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, Aug. 25.—Secretary Alger arrived here yesterday on a special train, accompanied by W. H. Baldwin, president of the Long Island Railroad. The train that left Long Island City at 8.30 reached here at 11.07. The secretary of war was met at the railroad station by General Joe Wheeler and some of his staff, General Young and Colonel Forwood.

To the correspondents Secretary Alger briefly stated that he hoped to make as thorough an inspection as possible of the camp in the length of time he had at his disposal. He rode with the army officers to headquarters, and as soon as he was recognized the secretary was loudly cheered. On the way different camps were pointed out to him and the method of conducting each explained. Secretary Alger was especially interested in the condition of the sick men and how they were being cared for. He intimated that President McKinley was much concerned in the matter of properly caring for the sick soldiers.

The reports which had reached Washington that the hospitals at Montauk were overcrowded and that many of the men did not have cots and were sleeping on the floor or ground, were evidently one of the urgent reasons which induced Secretary Alger to make the flying trip to Camp Wikoff.

Later information regarding the damage done by the great storm Tuesday night showed that it was more serious than at first reported, although no one was injured. In the Red Cross supply tent in the general hospital, which blew over, were Miss Annie L. E. Wheeler, daughter of General Wheeler, and six other nurses. At midnight, when the worst blow came, the tent went over.

The tent of General Randall, on the first hill east of the railroad station, blew over and he was drenched. The tents of Lieutenants Rowell and Jones and Captain A. M. Fuller, near by, were wet through, but did not fall.

The news that an order is soon to be issued at Washington to muster out the volunteers in camp, including the Rough Riders and the Seventy-first regiment, has been received with much satisfaction by the volunteer troops. When these men are discharged it will materially relieve the overcrowding and discomfort in the camp, as many of the soldiers now on the sick list will be able to go to their homes.

Colonel Roosevelt's furlough expired yesterday and the colonel will be here to remain until his men are mustered out.

There is much complaint in the camp over the lack of fresh fruit and vegetables. The troops say their army fare is good, but it is the same thing they had in the South and they are tired of it. One-third of the Sixth cavalry were on the sick list yesterday morning, and they attribute their condition to the lack of vegetables and fruit. Many men are sick in the Second and First cavalry, also. The grumbling at present is not open, but the men talk a good deal among themselves.

In the general hospital there are between 500 and 600 patients, a considerable decrease from the previous report. In the detention hospital there are 350 sick men. The Rio Grande sailed for New York Monday afternoon, carrying 325 sick, to be quartered in Forts Hamilton, Wadsworth and Columbus. The yacht Red Cross on her daily trip to New Haven carried twenty-one typhoid cases.

Four deaths in the hospital were reported yesterday. Lieutenant W. F. Osborn of the Ninth cavalry, died of typhoid fever at eight o'clock last evening. His wife was at his bedside when he expired. He leaves no children and his body will be buried in the Arlington military cemetery in Washington. Henry Benjamin, private in the Second infantry, died of dysentery this morning. The two other deaths reported are W. W. Duggan of Company M, Second Massachusetts, from exhaustion, and James Morris of the Eighth infantry, Company C.

The cruiser Yale was in the bay yesterday morning. She arrived during the night. She has on board 1,069 troops of the Third and Tenth infantry, eighteen sick and the body of one man who died during the voyage. He was James Copeland of Company G, Twentieth infantry, and he died from exhaustion. The troops are under command of Colonel Harbach and the Yale is commanded by Captain Wise, U. S. N.

The transport Leona has been unloaded, the troops marching over the hills to the detention camp. They are in very good shape, and comprise Companies A, B and C of the Twelfth infantry, Troops A and C of the Ninth cavalry, Companies E and F of the Thirty fourth Michigan and Battery G of the Fourth artillery.

Leaving Chickamauga.

Chickamauga, Aug. 25.—The Eighth Massachusetts, Twelfth New York and Twenty-first Kansas left Camp Thomas yesterday for Lexington, Ky., where they will camp until further orders.

Other regiments were ready to move, but on account of lack of railroad facilities were unable to do so. The regiments of the Second brigade, Second division, First corps, will begin moving to Knoxville.

The First Illinois cavalry is expected to leave at an early hour to-day for Chicago, arriving at its destination Friday night.

The commissary supply depot, which has been located at Chattanooga for several months, is to be moved at once to Huntsville, Ala. Major Nye, commissary of subsistence, began yesterday preparing for the move. A large amount of supplies is now on hand.

The Third Corps will begin moving to Huntsville as soon as the remaining regiments of the First corps get to Knoxville and Lexington.

DISCHARGING NAVAL MILITIA.

The Yankee Ordered Home.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Naval officials say that within the next week all the men called from various states to man ships of the auxiliary navy will be on their way home, with the possible exception of those on the four old monitors around Boston.

The department is deluged with inquiries as to how soon these naval militiamen can return home.

The letters come not only from relatives, but from business firms, who say that as the war is over they want their clerks to return to duty. These influences have been aided by pressure from senators and congressmen, and the department feels some satisfaction in stating that all the men will be released by September 1, except those on four of the old monitors.

The Incas has discharged her men of the Boston Naval militia at Boston. The Restless, with men from the New York and Connecticut militia, has been ordered from Montauk to New York, where she will discharge her crew.

The Aileen, manned by New York men, is under similar orders. The Arctic, manned by Pennsylvania men, is discharging to-day at League island. The Eltreda and Huntress, manned by New York men, will remain at Montauk to assist in hospital work. The Cheyenne and Chickasaw, manned by North Carolina men, are discharging to-day at Port Royal. The California militiamen on the Active, Iroquois and Vigilant, are being mustered out to-day at Mares island, Cal.

The Yankee has been ordered north to Tompkinsville, where she will muster out 265 men of the New York naval militia on her arrival. The Baltimore men on the monitor Ajax have been discharged. The Rhode Island men, on the monitor Manhattan, and the men on the Nantucket also are being let off.

The four old monitors will be the last to release their men, mainly from Massachusetts and Maine, this delay being due to the necessity of sending tugs to convoy the monitors to the League island navy yard, Philadelphia.

Orders have been given for the two triple screw cruisers Columbia and Minneapolis, which rendered good service in the operations in the West Indies, to go into "reserve" at the League island navy yard. Although their force is reduced, the vessels will not go out of commission. While in reserve both vessels will be in command of Captain T. F. Jewell, now of the Minneapolis. Captain J. H. Sands, who has been in command of the Columbia throughout the Spanish war, was yesterday detached from that duty.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN SANTIAGO.

American Basis of Education Proposed.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 25.—The conference between General Wood, military governor of Santiago, and the local authorities, with reference to opening the public schools, have resulted satisfactorily and places will be ready for 4,000 children on September 15. The salaries of the school commissioners have been fixed at somewhat reduced figures, the element of sectarianism has been eliminated from the management and American basis of education have been proposed.

The San Juan has arrived from Guantanamo Bay, bringing two companies of Hood's regiment and 107 bags of mail delivered there by the Fern from Key West. It was the first mail matter received for ten days.

When the Fifth regular infantry arrives for garrison duty in the city, taking the place of Hood's regiment that will be transferred to San Juan de Porto Rico, Crane's immunes will be assigned to guard the Spanish prisoners of war. The embarkation of the latter continues. To-day 1,200 sailed by the transport Montevideo, and 1,000 by the transport Pedro de Satrustogui. Thirteen hundred will leave by the transport Leon to-morrow.

General Linares, whom General Toral succeeded in command at Santiago prior to the evacuation, left by the Pedro de Satrustogui. There was a great demonstration by the Spanish soldiers on his departure.

The United States transport Minnewaska left yesterday with ninety-five men of the Thirty-third Michigan volunteers, the Second regular cavalry, a balloon detachment of the Engineer Corps and about 250 men of the First District of Columbia volunteers.

Hayti is Suspicious.

Washington, Aug. 25.—It has just developed that the Haytien government in its recent refusal to permit the establishment of a United States weather bureau station there, based its action on a suspicion that the United States intended it as an initiative in territorial acquisition on that island.

While almost all of the governments negotiated with cheerfully co-operated in the movement for the extension of our weather service, Hayti absolutely refused. The resut was instructions of the most positive character refusing to allow any word of our weather warnings in any ships to reach that country.

Gives $25,000 to Buy Supplies.

New York, Aug. 25.—Miss Helen Gould has given $25,000 to the Woman's War Relief Association, for the work that is now being done by the association.

This large sum of money will be used in purchasing supplies for the various camps, but the larger part of it will go to the relief of Montauk Point.

Miss Gould has been a member of the association since it was formed. She has already made two visits to Montauk Point, and after each visit she has personally superintended the buying of needed supplies.

Two weeks ago she gave $300 to the fund, and at other times has made smaller contributions.

The St. Louis and St. Paul.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—The United States auxiliary cruiser St. Louis has arrived at the Cramps' ship yard. The work of dismantling her and putting her in the same condition as she was before the government impressed her for war service, will begin as soon as the necessary orders are received from Washington.

The St. Paul, the sister ship of the St. Louis, is already at Cramps, and it is thought two months will elapse before the fast ocean liners will be in condition to be returned to the International Navigation Company.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

106 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

Two cents a copy. Ten cents a week $5 a year—in advance

No extra charge for papers mailed to points in the U. S. and Canada

Delivered by carrier or by mail.

The Press has the most complete carrier and mail service of any paper in the metropolitan district.

Any subscriber failing o receive a single issue will confer a favor by notifying the business office.

Advertising rates mailed on request.

Copy for change of advertisements must be in this office by 9 a. m. to ensure change the same day.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 25, 1898.

FEATURES OF TODAY'S PRESS.

PAGE 1.—Important local news.
PAGE 2.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 3.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 4.—Editorial and gossip.
PAGE 5.—Vicinity news.
PAGE 6.—German news.
PAGE 6.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 7.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 8.—Sporting and local news.

COMING EVENTS.

August 28—Rev. Charles E. Dunn will speak and Mrs. John Manley and William McKillop will render vocal and violin solos at the Y. M. C. A. meeting at 4:15 p. m. Fans and iced lemonade.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

For Better School Buildings.

The State has undertaken the work of encouraging the construction of better school buildings in the country districts, and to that end, under a law passed by the last Legislature, State School Superintendent Baxter has sent out details concerning the idea of securing plans and specifications for buildings ranging in cost from $600 to $3,000, for which liberal prizes are to be offered to architects.

A commission consisting of Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, of Plainfield; Architects Maurice Fornachon, of Ridgewood, and George B. Post, of Bernardsvile, will determine the relative value of the plans received, and the right is reserved to reject all plans not submitted in accordance with the conditions.

The prizes offered in lieu of regular architects' commission will be as follows: One-room building, $55, $45 and $35, and special commendation; two-room building $100, $85 and $70, and special commendation.

Owing to the small appropriation made for carrying into effect the provisions of the act, it is deemed advisable to invite competition among architects whose places of business or residence is in this State, for the furnishing of plans and specifications for one-story, frame or brick, one and two-room buildings only. Each schoolroom is to have a seating capacity of fifty single desks; also to have an adjacent cloak-room and convenient closet or "built-in" case for school library and supplies. The cost of one-room buildings to range from $600 to $1,500 and of two-room buildings from $1,600 to $3,000.

Commerce and War.

It is customary to think of wars in the past as having been in large degree the fruit of lust of conquest, of greed of territory, of religious hate, of wounded pride or of the chivalric desire to match the power of one nation against that of a rival power. The modern war is associated with the more prosaic and practical origin. A little study, however, shows that the commercial spirit has been in the earlier ages of the world not less potent than in our own as the radical inducement leading up to great conflicts, some of which have shaken the world and molded succeeding civilization. Scanning remote antiquity, we find the Ninevite kings, impelled by the energy of their Assyrian subjects as active traders, to move forward in their most ferocious conquests. Athens offended the Great King by its attempts to protect the commercial interests of its kindred cities in Asia Minor, and so opened the way to the Greco-Persian wars, in which the fate of the world hung in the balance. The death grapple between Carthage and Rome was commercial in its inception. As an example, in the feudal period, the romantic and chivalrous epoch of civilization, we note the Hundred Years' war between France and England springing from a trade quarrel. This world famed struggle grew out of the monopoly of the London guilds in dealing with the woolen manufacturers of Ghent and Liege. So when we return to our contemporary period and discover England and Russia on the verge of a great war over the issue of the larger control of the Chinese trade we merely find the same old world's story in modern form. People as nations indeed never went to war for the fun of killing each other.

CANADA'S NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL.

Sir Gilbert John Murray Kynynmount, who succeeds the Earl of Aberdeen as Governor General of Canada, is the fourth Earl of Minto. He was born in 1845. After serving several years in the army, latterly as colonel of Scotland Volunteers, he retired in 1890. He is a liberal in politics.

Cuban Reconstruction.

One thing is becoming clear every day. The conditions of life and social order in Cuba are chaotic and need to be guided with a firm hand. It is vain to disguise from ourselves that our allies in the late war do not fairly represent the intelligence, the industry, the trained skill in doing things and the wealth of Cuban society. For the sake of the Cubans of every class, and the insurgents have as great a stake in the solution as their late opponents and the neutrals, we owe it to ourselves and the world to see that all the elements which make for a healthy reconstitution of affairs in the hitherto distracted island shall have full play. No one who has observed the bias of events can question for a moment that this can be accomplished in aught but one way. The United States must for the present exercise a thoroughgoing protectorate over judicial and political methods. To do otherwise would be to unleash horrors not less woeful than those which we have banished. It is natural that the better class of insurgents should suffer vexation at not being invested with the expected degree of power as builders of a new order of things. But a little reflection should teach men of this stamp that it is the part of wisdom to join hands with all those who frankly accept the new regime and forget the past as soon as possible. If Cuba is to be regenerated, it will be, too, in great measure by American money and enterprise. No thinking Cuban can blink the fact that this movement will be slow till the American has absolute confidence in the social order.

Commissioner General Peck has changed his earlier note and is greatly worried over the backwardness of American preparation for the Paris exposition of 1900. Promised awards of space will needs be revoked unless American zeal takes a fresh spurt. The American commission is in dire straits for funds, yet no fresh appropriation is possible till congress meets. What had been hoped for in virtue of the immense superiority of America in electrical invention and manufacturing—that our showing in this department would be at least among the best—is now almost a faded dream. The country has been too busy in fighting the Spaniard to think of showing off before the Frenchmen. There may be yet time, however, to save our credit.

Japan is just now on the eve of another political change which fully consummates what she began when the mikado emancipated the country from the old feudalism of the Daimios. She has instituted a directly representative system like that of England. In other words, future ministries will stand or fall with the success of important measures, and, if need be, the country will be appealed to by a dissolution of parliament.

The policy of establishing great national wheat storehouses in England is being worked out by a parliamentary committee as an item of national defense. England must have had a dream of seven fat kine and seven lean kine with a modern Joseph to interpret. Perhaps in the present case his office is that of Chamberlain.

There are two significant "trade" terms, introduced of late years, which show vividly the modern tendency in doing and seeing things. The theatrical man always refers to a stage performance, whether tragedy or farce, as a "show;" the newspaper man designates every article of news or information as a "story."

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Borough Council of North Plainfield has complimented the new assessor, Elston M. French, on the thorough and efficient manner in which he has done his work. He had just completed the assessment and the Council had been examining his books.—Somerville Messenger.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

There have been hosts of visitors on board the warships of Sampson's squadron, now at anchor off Tompkinsville, waiting for their turn to be dry-docked at the Brooklyn navy yard. Among them have been many Plainfielders of both sexes and of all ages. Now each and every one of the visitors, particularly of the fair sex, is anxious to take home some souvenir of the trip and the fleet. The other day, a young woman from this city visited the great battleship "Indiana." She was shown through the vessel and admired it. Among the "jackies" who did the honors of the ship was one who finally presented her with the ribbon from his hat bearing the name of the ship. The party of Plainfielders turned away but one of the young women overheard this same "jackey" remark to a comrade that that was the eighth ribbon he had given away that day as the very one that was about his cap during the naval engagement off Santiago when Cevera's fleet was destroyed. The young man did not undeceive the young woman and she still prizes the ribbon very highly believing that it went through the fight off Cuba when the flower of the Spanish fleet was destroyed.

* * * *

A Press reporter was called to a home in the West End the other day to make some inquiries after the daughter in the family who was reported to be married. The mother received him and invited him into the parlor. Now the reporter did not disclose his identity but went on asking various questions about the young woman who was supposed to be in New York. The mother told how the daughter had said not to be surprised if she should get married. The interview continued for a time. Suddenly a pleased smile overspread the face of the mother. She drew her chair closer and queried, "Are you the fellow that married her?" The reporter was somewhat startled and at once explained that he had no matrimonial intentions whatsoever. When the interview was over, the reporter started to depart, not having disclosed his identity.

"And what is your name?" asked the mother as he was about to descend the front steps. "Oh, I'm a reportor," was the reply. The significant "oh" that followed told that his mission was now understood.

Boynton Beach

Last Salt Water Day of the Season,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 27.

Special Music.

Dancing free in the Afternoon. Evenings, 25 cents.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERT AT 4 O CLOCK.

LIST OF SPECIALS FOR THIS WEEK.

Men's Balbriggan Shirts and Drawers, 50c grade - 35c
Men's Balbriggan Shirts and Drawers, 25c grade - 18c
Men's fine mixed ½ Hose, 15c grade - 3 prs. for 25c
Men's fine Neckties, any style, 25c grade - - 19c
Men's Initial H'dk'fs., Japonette, 10c grade - 3 for 25c
Men's Collars, any style, 10c grade - 4 for 25c
Men's Collars, any style, 15c grade - 10c each
Cosmo Buttermilk Soap 6c cake
Cuticura - 20c "
Pear's Unscented - 11c "
Packers Tar Soap 15c "
5-4 Pillow Cases, 10c grade 7c each
9-4 Sheets, 39c grade 31c "
4-4 Fruit of Loom Muslin 6c yard
4-4 Lonsdale Muslin 6c yard

Basement Specials.

Porch Rockers, $1.98 grade $1.25
" small 75c " 50c
6 ft. Solid Oak Extension Table, 42-in. square carved legs, ball bearing castors, regular $7.48, this week - $5.99

These Prices are for This Week Only.

WOODHULL & MARTIN,
234-236-238 W. Front St.
Telephone No. 774.

PECK'S Corset Store,
316 W. Front St.

SPECIAL.

A splendid line of Scotch Suits to order - $15.00
Reduced from $20.00
Trousers to order - - - - 5.00

SEBRING'S,
202 West Front St.

The Model Town . . .
LINCOLN
OFFERS
Rare Opportunities for Home Seekers and Investors.

In has Sewers, Trolley Line, City Water, Telephones, School, Postoffice, Macadam Road, Depots of Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

HOUSES AND LOTS SOLD ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

SILAS D. DRAKE, President and Manager.

MAKES HAIR GROW. A lady in Maine writes:—"I had a bald place on the side of my head for 20 years. Have used almost everything, but found nothing like

REYNOLD'S PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC.

I now have a soft, white down all over the place." It stimulates healthy action of the scalp, relieves from dandruff, prevents falling out of hair. No disagreeable odor. An elegant hair dressing. Made only by

T. S. ARMSTRONG, THE APOTHECARY.

"Honest Values will Sell Honest Goods."

BOEHM'S.

109, 111, 113 W. Front St.

Better goods for less money than anywhere else.

A great week for almost anything you want. Closing out all our summer goods regardless of cost.

Hosiery chances.—Ladies' black hose, the regular 9c kind, for this sale 4 pairs for 25c. Misses' derby ribbed hose, full seamless, sizes 5 to 9½, for this sale at 10c pair. Men's full fashioned half hose in natural mixtures, tans and blacks, the 15c grade, for this sale 10c pair.

Special—Yard wide fancy percales, while the lot lasts, at 3½c yard.

Muslins.—The kind of bleached muslin you usually pay 6c for, for this sale at 4½c yard. Extra good quality bleached muslin, yard wide, for this sale 5c yard. Unbleached sheeting muslin, yard wide, as good as any at 6c yard, for this sale 4c yard.

Waists for warm weather.—A fortunate purchase places us in a position to offer a beautiful lot of fancy colored waists, lace trimmed, at the astonishing low price of 49c. They are bargains at 75c.

Wash fabric prices collapse.—Lawns, madras suitings, swiss effects, a collection of beautiful designs and charming colors to go at the pigmy price of 5c yard.

BOEHM'S.

SENSATION IN SHOES!!

"OFF STYLES," BUT THE BEST OF STOCK.

They will go quick. 1 lot men's Calf Bals, Good Year welt, (all sizes) narrow toes, sold for $3 and $3.50, only 98c. 1 lot Burt & Packard's narrow widths, only broken sizes, were $5 and $6, only $1.48. 1 lot J. & M. patent leather button and lace odds and ends, were $5 and $6, only 98c. 1 lot odds and ends boy's and men's, sold from $2.50 to $4, your choice now 69c.

We are selling lots of TRUNKS, Dress Suit Cases and Hand Bags cheap. These are some samples of our great summer sale. Trunks from $1.98 up. BIGGEST BARGAINS IN TOWN.

Doane & Edsall.

IF YOU SEE
Our FURNITURE
and get our prices your own good judgment will decide about the fairness of both. Please call often and look at our constantly changing assortment.

G. Q. PACKER,
301-305 West Front Street, corner Madison Avenue. Telephone 736.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 25.—Mr. and Mrs. John Runyon, of Washington avenue, are entertaining relatives from Piscataway township.

Mr. and Mrs. George Day and O. A. Douglass, of this place, will leave tomorrow to spend the day at Rockaway. Mr. Douglass will go from there to Staten Island, where he will remain until next Monday.

Tomorrow evening the members of the Presbyterian church will give their pastor, Rev. A. I. Martine and his bride, a reception in the church parlors.

Master Clarence Tucker, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhammer, of Church street, has returned to his home in Massachussets.

Excellent progress is being made by Manager Sebring in erecting new electric light poles, and the prospect of having the trolley soon is apparent.

There will be a regular meeting of the Borough Council next Friday evening, when some important matters will be considered.

Mrs. C. E. Staats, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Anna Apgar, of Bloomsbury, spent Tuesday with Mrs. P. C. Staats, of North avenue.

The new five-ton horse-roller owned by Piscataway township is now being used on North avenue to roll down the macadam.

Adam Dealaman has purchased a quantity of good curbing and he will improve his property on North avenue.

Miss Maude Benton, of New York, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Herbert, of Church street.

Rev. A. I. Martine and bride returned today from a pleasant honeymoon trip in New York State.

Next Monday evening there will be an important meeting of Rockview Council, Daughters of Liberty.

Rev. Frank Fletcher will return this week from Asbury Park, where he has been enjoying a brief vacation.

The new house being erected on the Sutphen property is rapidly nearing completion.

All cases of diphtheria in the borough are reported as having entirely recovered.

Mrs. Walter Apgar, of North Plainfield, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Bowlsby.

Mrs. Smalley, of Plainfield, has been visiting relatives in the borough.

Mrs. Florence Jennings is visiting her grandmother at Warrenville.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 25.—F. K. Clark lost a horse Tuesday morning. Mr. Clark had recently purchased the animal and turned it out to pasture with several others. Monday night it was kicked by one of his mates and broke his leg. Mr. Clark concluded to kill the horse to put it out of its misery.

A number of young people enjoyed themselves among the hills at Glenside Park yesterday. They went in Frentz's big excursion wagon. It was an occasion heartily enjoyed by all. Another party will undoubtedly be arranged for the near future. The party consisted of Lizzie Nicholl, Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Grey, Miss Smith, Mrs. Lena Bruckman, Miss Jeannette Raymond, Miss Henrietta Raymond, Louise Betman, Margarie Todd, Annie Bruckman, Bulla Coles, Beatrice Todd, Victoria Brown, Harry Brown, Gussie Frentz, Henry Winters and Harvey Douglass.

The public school reopens September 12th. The corps of teachers are: John R. Morey, principal; Miss Emma Adams, Miss Harriett Squires, Miss Lulu Robison and Miss Sadie Bigger.

Henry Keuhn has the contract to paint Mrs. Ackerman's large house at the corner of Mountain avenue and Westfield road.

Lyness Walpole has sold his candy store and pool room to a party from Newark who will take immediate possession.

Charles Reick is once more able, after a lingering illness, to resume his position at Walter Scott's Press Work.

Miss Hattie Wilcox and her friend Miss Hoyt, of Brooklyn, spent Tuesday with Miss Wilcox's mother.

Frank Haurand, of Plainfield, who is stationed at Sea Girt, visited friends in town Tuesday.

Onward Council, Loyal Additional, meet in the Arcanum rooms this evening.

Frederiek Schmidt visited friends in Plainfield Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Henry Schiemer visited friends in Plainfield Tuesday.

LINCOLN.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, August 25.—The Hon. James Durand, one of Rahway's bright legal lights, was a visitor at the Mayor's office Tuesday.

The local nine played a game of ball on the home grounds Satnrday last with the New Markets, which resulted in a defeat for the visitors by 9 to 8. Inability of Apgar to hold pitcher Cushing of the Lincoln team was the cause of the visitors securing even the runs they got. The features of the game was the pitching of Frank Cushing and the chronic kicking by the visitors.

Miss Ella Wagner, one of this town's early residents, has gone to work in Bound Brook, having secured a more lucrative position.

Rev. Floyd Appleton, of Plainfield, was a guest of Mayor Drake Tuesday.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 25.—A lecture will be given in the Presbyterian church next Tuesday evening by the Rev. Edward F. Remier, of Princeton, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. The subject will be Missionaries.

At the Fresh Air Camp Sunday the Rev. Joseph Greaves will deliver the address. There are only two Sundays more on which the camp will be open this summer and all are invited to attend and help the good cause with their presence.

Manager Downs has received enough money to pull off the ball game Saturday, and the Clintons, of Jersey City will be here to cross bats with the home team.

Royal Snyder, a young lad, was struck in the eye by a base ball yesterday and had that member badly discolored.

The scholars of the Willow Grove Sunday-school held their annual picnic yesterday.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Arthur Murphy, of Washington Park, has returned from Belmar, where he has been spending his vacation.

Miss Mabel Wilson, of West Sixth street, who is stopping in Hunterdon county for her health, is much improved.

Miss Sadie Randolph and her mother, Mrs. Sylvester Randolph, of West Eighth street, are sojourning at Asbury Park.

Miss Cecelia Engel, of Elizabeth, is enjoying a visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. I. A. Connett, 203 Watchung avenue.

Silas Yerkes and daughter, Miss Margaret Yerkes, of Plainfield, are included among the arrivals at the La Pierre House, Ocean Grove.

Mrs. J. H. Carney, of Craig place, has returned from Sunset Cottage, back of the mountains, and left at once for Bayonne to visit relatives for two weeks.

F. O. Bristol, former assistant secretary at the Y. M. C. A., who has been one of the secretaries at Camp Alger, is visiting at his home in Pittsfield, Mass.

Mrs. E. B. Clark and her daughter, Miss Helen Clark, of Crescent avenue, have returned to their home after spending a few weeks at Lake Minnewaska, N. Y.

Miss Lillian Quinn, who has been spending the summer with friends in Plainfield, has returned to her home in West Port, N. Y. She was accompanied by Miss Lizzie O'Keeffe, of West Eighth street.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholsale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

H. G. Hand, of East Sixth street, is on a vacation.

Mr. Bishop, of Peberton, is visiting Dr. Buchanan, of Duer street.

Miss Annie Kelly, of New street, is visiting friends in Jersey City.

Louis Miller, of the Battleship Texas, is in town visiting relatives.

Mr. Sangston, of New York, was the guest of Plainfield friends yesterday.

Street Commisiioner Gavette has returned from an outing at Kennebunkport, Me.

Miss Maude VanDyke, of East Front street, is visiting friends at Liberty Corner.

Miss Saxton, of East Fourth street, has returned from her vacation spent at the seashore.

Miss Jennie Quick, of East Fifth street, is stopping at Liberty Corner for a short time.

Allan Laing, of Craig place, who is ill with typhoid fever, is reported as being improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guttridge, of Netherwood, are receiving congratulations. It's a girl.

Rev. Dr. Taylor and family, of Park avenue, have returned from their outing at Asbury Park.

Rev. J. P. Taylor and family, of Park avenue, have returned from their summer outing.

Miss Dora Ulrick, of East Fifth street, has returned after a month's outing at New Rochelle.

Mrs, Voorhees Laing and daughter, of East Front, have returned from a sojourn at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Florence Ross, of West Seventh street, has returned from Paxinosa Inn, Easton, Pa.

Miss Roseberry, the efficient cashier at S. Scheuer & Co.s' grocery, is off this week enjoying her vacation.

Roundsman Flynn, of Madison avenue, is improved from a severe illness. He has not yet returned to duty.

Attorney Charles L. Moffett, of Park avenue, has been visiting his former partner, Mr. Powers, of Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Tousey, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, are visiting Miss Bertha Wheeler, of Mountain avenue.

T. Frank Budlong and family, of Madison avenue, have returned from their summer outing in New York State.

Frank Marsh, of the Sixth U. S. Cavalry. Troop F, is home from Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, on a 48 hours furlough.

Miss Van De Venter, of Central avenue, is spending a month at Oceanic, N. J., and will return about Sept. 20th.

Miss McGinnis, of Somerset street, will have the next two weeks for her vacation, which will be spent along the Jersey coast.

Miss Alberti Livezey, of Park avenue, has returned from Pottsville, where she has been visiting for the past six months.

Percy VanAlstyne, of New York, will move to this city next week and occupy a house on Park avenue, below Eighth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Seeley Edsall, of Sanford avenue, have gone to Spokane, Washington, to visit their son, J. L. Edsall and family.

Miss Lilla and Miss Caroline Livezey, of Park avenue, will leave in a few days for Trenton, where they will visit for three weeks.

Miss Hughes, of Somerset street, is stopping at Asbury Park for two weeks. She is accompanied by her friend, Miss Lanning, of Jersey City.

Miss Margaret and Miss Lillie Cahill, of Elizabeth, and Miss May Murphy, of Newburg, are visiting their cousin, Mrs. J. J. Kenney, of East Second street.

Miss S. Pearl Taber, of Holyoke, Mass., is visiting Miss Helen A. Hazen, of Watchung avenue. Miss Taber is a classmate of Miss Hazen's at Holyoke College.

Edward De Vine, of West Front street, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is able to sit up now. His many friends hope that he will soon regain his former health.

Peter B. Hodge and Robt. Schriener, of Randolph's pharmacy, went to Brooklyn last Tuesday and had the privilege of going through some of the battleships in the Navy Yard.

Miss Grace White and Miss Lillian Dundon, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting Miss White's aunt, Mrs. Vail, of Elmwood place, left yesterday for a short visit with Connecticut friends.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 11 30 eod 1y

IT'S THE KODAK —one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., held a regular meeting last night.

—A meeting of Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M., will be held this evening.

—There will be several initiations at the meeting of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., this evening.

—Putnam & DeGraw have just received another case of the celebrated "Black Prince" tar soap.

—The regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will be held tomorrow evening.

—Today on the David Blackford farm, South Plainfield, the Tingley family reunion is being held.

—There will be held this evening the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H.

—Several properties on Central avenue, between Front street and the railroad bridge, are being curbed.

—There are now several cases of typhoid fever in the borough which have developed within a few days.

—Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men will hold an invitation picnic this evening at the Mountainside Grove. A very large time is expected.

—The repair gang of the street department of the city has been filling up holes and making sundry repairs to the roadway on Watchung avenue.

—The bad condition of the Rahway river at Cranford is again attracting the attention of the State Board of Health. The inspector went along the river again yesterday.

—Westfield commuters have petitioned the management of the Central Railroad to have an eastbound train stop at Westfield sometime between 8:59 and 10 o'clock in the morning, in order to accommodate the morning travel to New York.

—Sheuer & Company, the West Front street grocers, have made a special cut rate on groceries and meat for Friday and Saturday of this week. The housewife who wants to economize had better look over their new advertisement in today's Press.

Collector George F. Brown and wife, of the borough, will return from the Adirondack Mountains next week.

Rev. W. E Honeyman and wife, of Lincoln place, have gone to New Germantown, this State, for a short time.

Daniel McCarthy, of Central avenue, is spending part of his vacation at "Shady Grove," East Durham, N.Y.

James Taylor and family, of West Seventh street, leave Saturday to spend their vacation at Asbury Park

Miss "Artie" Pease, of New York, is the guest of her friend, Miss Charlotte Messersmith, of Washington avenue.

Mrs. A. T. TenEyck, of West Sixth street, has returned from a few weeks' visit at her home in Millington.

One Bottle

of our

Vanilla, Orange, or Lemon

from your grocer will be sufficient to make you our customer.

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's City Pharmacy.

143 WEST FRONT STREET. Business Established 1865.

Your Scalp may be kept free from itching and unsightly dandruff. The roots of your hair nourished by the use of RANDOLPH'S QUININE AND GLYCERINE HAIR TONIC. Ladies especially will appreciate its use in this summer weather. Delightfully perfumed, only 50 cents per bottle.

The handsomest Soda Fountain in the World is at our store. The Soda Water, famous for its Purity and delicious Fruit Flavors. When shopping have your meets at The Fountain.

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE, AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N.J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,

UNDERTAKERS,

No. 402 Park Ave. Tel. 40.

Office open night and day.

OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,

UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,

200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.

OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,

UNDERTAKER.

Residence and office 59 Somerset St.

TELEPHONE 248 B.

DIED.

JOHNSON—In this city, on Wednesday, August 24, 1898, Irving D., infant son of Lee and Lena Johnson, aged 4 months, 1 day. Funeral services at the residence of his parents, No. 300 Arlington avenue, on Friday, August 26, at 2:30 p. m.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

LOST—Eyeglasses in case. Leave at Press office; receive reward.

FIRST-CLASS colored cook wants situation. Call at 239 West Front street.

FOR SALE—Set double farm harness, one farm wagon; Adriane's mowing machine, hay rake, plough, harrow, hay rigging. Robert Clark Jr., Washingtonville. 8 25 6

WANTED—Laundress for first 4 days every week. Address with reference, Mrs. English, care Press.

WANTED—Stenographer and typewriter, lady preferred. Bard Cycle Co.

HORSE for sale. sorrel mare, gentle and kind, suitable for lady or doctor. No reasonable offer refused; or will let for a good home and keeping. Enquire 1266 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. 8 23 2 eod

TO LET—6 room house, 315 Richmond street. Enquire of Thomas Callahan, Cor. Richmond and Third streets. 7 28 tf eod

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, Attorney. cor. Park and North Aves. 12 11 eod tf

FLATS and stores to let in new Stillman building. 6 21 eod tf

WANTED—A girl to do general housework. Call at 825 First place. 8 24 2

WANTED—A protestant girl as cook and laundress. Good reference required; Swede or German prefered. Mrs. Francis Wood, 313 Franklin place. 8 24 2

$1,300 Wanted on Bound Brook property 5 per cent, taxes, insurance $2,300, very prompt pay. Chas. J. McNabb, Attorney, Plainfield. 8 24 6

TO RENT—Furnished rooms, with all improvements. 323 East Second street. 8 23 1w

TO LET—Nine room house, 705 La Grande avenue. Inquire 705 Berckman street. 8 23 3

YOUNG married couple would like to secure quiet boarding place at reasonable terms. Address D. O. C., care of Press office, stating terms, accomidations, etc. 8 23 3

FOR SALE—New house, has desirable location; ten rooms and bath; leased for the year at good rental, part cash, balance mortgage. Address P. W. T., care Press. 8 22 6

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or general housework, where good help will be appreciated. For particulars and interview, address L. K. F., Box 276, Bound Brook, N. J. 8 25 2

WANTED—A girl to do general housework, must be honest, strong and industrious. Good reference required. Mrs. Howard C. Tracy, 134 East Sixth street. 8 25 2

STRAYED from 516 West Sixth street, a black and white cow. A reward will be paid for return of cow. 8 25 2

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3.50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1.50, formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2. Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2 Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6.90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25. Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M WEINBERGER, MANAGER,

214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

Smalley Bros.

THE OLD ESTABLISHED RELIABLE

BUTCHERS,

144 NORTH AVE.

Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

30 000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,

206 Park Avenue.

9 16 tf Plainfield.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

Tuesday Night, August 30, 1898.

Second Annual Tour of

COLE AND JOHNSON

"The Clever Coons" - Dramatic Mirror.

And The Big Colored Beauty Show.

Presenting

"A TRIP TO COONTOWN."

Interpreted by a Star Cast.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

Box Office open Daily for sale of Reserved Seats.

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

August Selling.

There is no month in the year to compare with it in the economy of its offerings. With makers' profits gone there is a bed rock of values struck such as would be impossible under ordinary conditions.

Shirt Waists.

The largest purchase we leave ever made, our entire stock of the best manufacturer in New York City, twenty-five-hundred waists that a month ago would have sold for $1.50 and $2.00 each, will be put on sale tomorrow 49c each.

Turkish Wash Cloths 2c each, value 5c.
" " " 3c " " 7c.
Extra heavy Crochet Quilts 69c each, value $1.25.
Extra heavy Marseilles Quilts $1.75, value $3.
Extra heavy Marseilles quilts, $1.98 each, value $3 50.
Fine Portiere Curtains 98c each, value $2.
Fancy Table Covers 39c each, value 75c.
Extra heavy Turkish Towels, price 13c each, value 22c.
Extra Heavy Turkish Towels, price 15c each, value 30c.
Extra Heavy Turkish Towels, price 30c each, value 50c.
Ten Quarter All Wool California Blankets, price $2 40 pair, value $5.00.
Fancy Colored Linen Table Covers, 49c each, value $1.00.
Ten Quarter Fancy Linen Table Covers, 79c each, value $1 40.
Twelve Quarter, 89c each, value $1 75.
German Turkey Red Table Covers, Ten Quarter, $1.10 each, value $2.00.
Ten Quarter all Linen Table Covers with One Dozen Napkins to match, $2 10 set, value $3.50.
Twelve Quarter all linen Table Covers with one dozen Napkins to match, $2.25 set, value $4.00.
18 in. all linen Birds Eye, 95c piece, value $1.50.
20 in. all linen Birds Eye, $1 10 piece, value $1.75.
Hemstiched linen Doylies, 5c each, value 10c.
Hemstiched linen Doylies, 10c each, value 20c.
18 in. Embroidery Linen, 9c yard, value 15c.
40 in. Embroidery Linen, 29c yard, value 60c.
22x42 extra heavy hemmed Huck Towels, 19c each, value 30c.
20x40 Huck Towels, 18c each, value 25c.
22x44 Huck Towels, 21c each, value 35c.
54 in. Pillow Case Linen, 42c yard, value 75c.
42 in. Pillow Case Linen, 37c yard, value 60c.
Extra large Marsailles Quilts that cost $4.00 to import, $2.49.
50 in. Tapestry for furniture covering, 23c yard, value 50c.
16-inch Damask Stair Crash, all linen, 11c yard, value 18c.
20-inch same, 14c, value 20c.
Ten quarter Damask Floor Crash, all linen, 39c yard, value $1.
Damask Floor Cloths, size 3 yards by 4 yards, $1.98 each, value $5.
All linen Dinner Napkins 7c each, value 10c.
All linen Dinner Napkins 10c each, value 13c.
All linen Glass Toweling 8c yard, value 12c.
All linen Twilled Crash 7c yard, value 10c.
36-inch Butchers' Linen 15c yard, value 35c.
36-inch Shirting Linen 25c yard, value 50c.
Extra heavy all linen Crash 11c yard, value 18c.

Edward White.

ST. CLAIR SHIP CANAL

IMPORTANT INFLUENCE IT WOULD HAVE ON LAKE TRAFFIC.

A Cut of Fourteen Miles at an Expense of $5,500,000 Which Would Save Seventy-nine Miles—Recent Development of Commerce Throughout Lake System.

The prospects for the construction of the St. Clair and Erie ship canal in the near future have recently attracted a good deal of attention among business and shipping men. It is stated, upon what is believed to be good authority, that within a year operations will be begun. Two years' work would be required in any case before the canal could be completed and opened for traffic. The purpose of this canal is to shorten materially the sailing distance between Lake St. Clair and Lake Erie and to afford a deep, safe and direct channel in place of the present unsatisfactory, tortuous and dangerous one through the Detroit River.

Leaving the old course in Lake St. Clair at a point about five miles from the foot of the St. Mary's River, the proposed course strikes southeast directly across Lake St. Clair in a bee line for Cleveland. It cuts through the low-lying neck of land which separates Lake St. Clair from Lake Erie and debouches into the latter at a point about sixty miles easterly of the usual route through the Detroit River. This low-lying land forms the southwestern extremity of Ontario. In general conformation it resembles somewhat the Iberian peninsula, Lake St. Clair taking the place of the Bay of Biscay and Lake Erie of the Mediterranean. In this view the St. Clair Canal would be a counterpart of the long-projected Bordeaux-Mediterranean Canal.

The direct saving in distance would be seventy-nine miles. The actual cutting necessary is about fourteen miles, and the expense of constructing the canal is estimated by the engineers at about $5,500,000. The management believes that a toll of three cents a ton on the freight, which may reasonably be expected to pass through this channel upon its completion, would justify the outlay for construction and repay all expenses of interest and management. If two-thirds of the tonnage now passing Detroit should avail itself of the advantages of the canal the tolls would meet these anticipations. At the rate mentioned it is not apparent why all the through traffic now passing Detroit would not take the new route. That portion of the thousand-mile journey to the seaboard to be rendered more safe by the proposed canal is passed over by all through or long distance traffic, for the tonnage passing through the Detroit River has always served with approximate accuracy to gauge the development of commerce throughout the whole system. Thus, for example, in 1889 the cargo tonnage carried through the Detroit River in American vessels (and exclusive of that carried in Canadian vessels) was 19,717,860 tons, while the shipments from all American lake ports aggregated but 25,027,308 tons.

The proposed construction in this new link in the chain of magnificent waterways which connect Duluth, Chicago, and other western lake ports with the tide water again calls attention to the enormous growth of the lake marine in recent years, its steady and continuous advance, and the recent improvements both in the vessels themselves and in the facilities of docking, loading and unloading. The magnitude of this commerce, as demonstrated by the accurate official reports now kept for a considerable series of years, while well known to shipping men and to most residents of the lakeside cities, is a well recognized cause of surprise and astonishment to the great bulk of otherwise well informed Americans, to say nothing of foreigners whose ignorance of the trade demands of our country might more readily admit of excuse. To take the figures of this commerce for the last ten years only, and omit amounts smaller than one million tons, we find that in 1887 the registered tonnage passing through the Detroit River amounted to about 18,000,000 tons. Advancing each year in a steady growth by one or two million tons, this tonnage amounted in the year 1892 to 26,000,000, at which it now stands. The enormous extent of this business is more readily appreciated when one is reminded that these figures indicate a tonnage four times as great as that which passes through the Suez Canal, twice as great as the combined tonnage of the ports of London and Liverpool, and double the entrances and clearances at the port of New York. This, too, is for the annual shipping season of eight or nine months at most, while the Suez Canal and the English ports are open all the year around.

Not alone in regard to the amount of tonnage now employed is the record a marvellous one. The character of the tonnage has undergone within a decade a most wonderful change for the better. Steam has been substituted for canvas altogether and steel ships for wooden. It is believed that nowhere in the world can steel ships now be built more cheaply than in the lakeside shipyards. The only reasonable limit placed upon length is that established by the necessity of steering the vessel through crooked channels, and the principal existing limitation of loading depth is fixed by the shoals met with in the Detroit River and in the western end of Lake Erie. Were all obstacles to free navigation removed the vessels now building would adopt the dimensions of ocean vessels. In 1868 the average size of sailing vessels on the lakes was 158 gross tons, ten years later it had increased to 209 tons, and twenty years later to 258 tons.

LIFE OF A COUNTRY PRIEST.

His Many Duties Leave Very Little Time For Preparation of Sunday Sermons.

No one who has not had practical experience of the work can estimate the burden of the task of finding fresh subjects, Sunday after Sunday, and perhaps twice on almost every Sunday, for the sermons which a priest is supposed to deliver to his people. With the week filled with sick call duties, visitings among parishioners, financial worries, school attendances, etc., a parish priest has often very little time to give to the preparation of his Sunday discourse. And when, as often as not, he has to say two masses and preach at the second, it is no wonder that the work and the want of food tell on the brain and render the preacher unable to speak with the freshness and brightness of the orators who on grand occasions come into the pulpit carefully prepared and fortified by breakfast.

We commend these considerations to Catholics who sometimes lend themselves to criticism on the sermons which are delivered to them in church. We have no wish to depreciate the claims of admiration of the great pulpit orators who from time to time receive the admiration of enraptured listeners, but we have always considered that the greatest preachers in the church are the humblest and unreported country clergy who Sunday after Sunday mount the pulpit, fasting and at a terrible cost to health and strength break the plain bread of God's word to their simple people. And more than probably bread is as good a food as honey for the soul which hungers for the word of God and the strengthening consolation of his gospel.—Liverpool Catholic Times.

CATHOLICS IN GERMANY.

It Is Reckoned That In All the Empire There Are About 20,000,000.

Some interesting statistics regarding Catholicity in Germany have lately been officially published in connection with the law concerning parochial incomes. We learn from these figures, for instance, that Prussia contains 4,719 Catholic parishes, 135 of which are of quite recent erection, and the total number of Catholics is about 11,000,000. Of these 160,000 Catholics belong to Berlin and have only eight parishes among them. Bavaria contains 4,115,000 Catholics, divided among 2,800 parishes. The capital, Munich, contains nearly 370,000 Catholics.

The number of Catholics in the other states is as follows: Wurttemberg, 620,000; Baden, 1,050,000; Saxony, 140,000 (as against 3,000,000 Protestants); Hesse, between 280,000 and 300,000; Oldenburg, 70,000. The Reichsland—i. e., Alsace-Lorraine, contains nearly 1,400,000. It is reckoned that in all Germany there are about 20,000,000 of Catholics, and for these there are only 11,000 parishes at most, so that at least 4,000 more parishes are needed to cope with the pastoral work to be done. On consulting Whitaker and The Statesman's Year Book we observe that the census of 1890 gave 17,671,929 Catholics for the empire.—London Tablet.

Nuns In Men's Attire.

Sir Charles Gordon's "Recollections of Thirty-nine Years In the Army," which we reviewed recently, contains a quaint little anecdote which we have not so far seen quoted. In 1860 at Tien-tsin the two Gordons, when seeking for hospital sites, came across a Buddhist nunnery. Despite the warnings of one of the inmates, who appeared in boy's clothes, they entered the building and found that the inmates all wore male clothing. The Buddhist ladies were greatly shocked at the intrusion. "Our regret," says Sir Charles, "was real. Explanations were exchanged. We were informed that the community within adopted male costume as an indication that they not only renounced the world, but with it the emblems of their sex. We were received by the lady superior, tea and cakes offered to and partaken of by us. We were then permitted to visit the 'private chapel,' and finally we parted from the religieuses on the best of terms."—London Chronicle.

The Pope's Gift to the Vatican Museum.

In spite of his many occupations the holy father finds time to think of constantly increasing the treasures of the already marvelously rich galleries and museums of the Vatican. Recently, taking counsel on the matter with Professor Marucchi, he decided on purchasing the well known Falcioni collection of Etruscan antiquities. These consist of delicately finished works of art in gold, bronze and terra cotta, which have been discovered in the territory of the ancient Etruria. The collection has been placed in the Etruscan museum at the Vatican and will be exposed to the public as soon as the scientific classification of the various objects has been completed.—London Catholic Times and Opinion.

The Wealth of the Pope.

Pope Leo XIII is one of the wealthiest men in the world. In his home, the Vatican, a palace which contains 7,000 rooms, the worth of gold objects stored is estimated at 4,000,000 pounds sterling by weight alone, and each piece has been increased in value a quarter or a third by the skilled artisans through whose hands it has passed. These treasures are practically the personal estate of the pope.

Before the Resurrection.

[The soul speaks.]

Love, joy, are mine—all bliss, all happiness.
Hope I have lost, but gained the gift of sight.
Stretched in great bands, resplendent in their might,
March rows of seraphs. Awful, swift, they press
Up to the throne in dignity, but less
Than we, redeemed by the sweet Son of Light.
Here stand I in the vision on this height,
Closed in by glory of the God I bless,
And yet I know there is a little mound
Where time still moves, and there my body lies
In peace, in peace—lies for a human span.
I know not sorrow; ecstasy is found.
I gaze at Christ and long with ravished eyes—
I, free, a soul—to be, like him, a man!
—Maurice F. Egan in Father Mathew Herald.

HERO OF THE BOURGOGNE.

Father Kesseler Stood Faithful to Duty While the Vessel Was Sinking.

The best eulogy of the late Father Kesseler is the universal sorrow not only of the parish, but of the whole community of Harlem, New York—Jew and gentile, Protestant and Catholic—at the manner and fact of his death. He was an athlete, and had he desired to save his life no one on board the Bourgogne was better prepared to do so than he. But all the testimony is that he made no attempt to escape from the ship.

He stood on the deck while the water rose above it, even to his armpits, pronouncing the words of absolution. We justly admire the heroic Hobson and his gallant volunteers who blew up the Merrimac in Santiago harbor, and with equal justice we must admire the noble priest who stood faithful to duty on the deck of the sinking Bourgogne. "Only a coward is afraid of disease," he said to me when remonstrated with for holding in his arms a child stricken with scarlet fever. His attitude on the Bourgogne showed that he equally believed that only a coward is afraid of death.

For 33 years he was pastor of St. Joseph's church. He loved the parish as a mother loves her child. He attended all the sick calls at night himself that the rest of his young brother priests might not be disturbed. Every morning for 13 years he climbed the hill to conduct 6 o'clock mass at the Sacred Heart convent of Manhattanville. He never missed a mass, and he was never late. He was generous to all. Tramps infested the parish house, for he could not find it in his heart to turn one away. He loved his brother priests and was very fond of children. He was blunt, brusque and as brave as a lion. He could tolerate no shams or cant or hypocrisy. Small wonder that a posse of police was needed to keep the crowd away from St. Joseph's on the morning of the requiem mass for Father Kesseler's soul. The whole Catholic church mourns and is proud of Father Kesseler, hero.—New York Journal.

A PRIEST'S INVENTION.

Father Candeo's Machine For Disinfecting Hospitals and Other Public Places.

Don Angelo Candeo, the agricultural specialist, who was recently in Rome, has again been received in audience by the holy father. This time the object of his visit was to present to his holiness a machine invented for the purpose of serving in the disinfection of hospitals and other public places. Dr. Lapponi, the pope's physician, who was present on the occasion, was quite enthusiastic as to the value of the discovery, which was awarded a prize at the recent medical congress at Naples.

With the proceeds of former inventions Father Candeo was last year able to erect a beautiful church in the city of Mestrino, where he has the cure of souls. The holy father was pleased to offer his hearty congratulations once more to the pious priest, who while possessed with an abundant zeal for the interests of religion is at the same time endowed with mechanical and scientific gifts of a rare character.—London Catholic Times and Opinion.

Francois Coppee's Confession.

There is a touching pathos and at the same time a lesson for the indifferent in the confession which the illustrious French academician, Francois Coppee, has recently been making with regard to his conversion, as he himself calls it. He was brought up as a Catholic, but in the course of time lapsed into indifference. His case, he truly remarks, was not an uncommon one. It was the desertion of the soldier weary of discipline. He did not hate the flag under which he had served, but he fled from it and forgot it. Last year a severe illness brought him face to face with the danger of death, and he frankly avows that he was seized with alarm at the prospect of losing life. But he sent for a physician of the soul as well as for a doctor of medicine, and the priest, placing the Bible in his hands, said, "Pray and read the gospel." From that moment he received new strength and peace of soul. He was soon fully reconciled to the church and received holy communion, and now, he says, when he thinks of approaching death his mind is filled with a sense of pleasure which surprises him. "This is the victory which overcometh the world — our faith."—London Catholic Times and Opinion.

Society to Advance Religion.

The Society of the Holy Spirit, now established at various points in Louisiana, has as its first object the extension of spiritual aid to people living in country places where spiritual advantages are rare, but its programme really embraces any work which tends to advance religion. It was this society that established the winter school in New Orleans, and during the past year 12,000 Catholic books and tracts were distributed gratuitously and over $1,600 disbursed to needy schools. Since its foundation the society has distributed over 2,000,000 pamphlets or books, and the amount of money contributed to religious works exceeds $95,000.—Boston Herald.

Paulist Missionary With Merritt.

The Rev. Francis Brooks Doherty, a well known Paulist missionary, sailed on the Newport for Manila at the request of General Merritt. He speaks Spanish fluently and was selected for the mission by the superior general of the Paulists, who recognized the opportunities afforded in the Philippines for an American priest of the same faith as the majority of the islanders. Father Doherty hopes to be of service to the United States by explaining away the false impression which is said to exist among the islanders that the American soldiers will destroy their religion and loot their places of worship.—New York Tribune.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Provinz Westpreußen.

Danzig. Vor Kurzem waren 100 Jahre seit dem Tode eines großen Wohlthäters verflossen. Im Jahre 1798 starb hierselbst der Kammerherr Freiherr Karl Friedrich v. Conradi. Um den alten Namen v. Conradi, der in Danzig schon über 350 Jahre bestand, in gutem Andenken zu halten, stiftete v. Conradi 600,000 Mark zur Gründung einer Erziehungsanstalt. Im Jahre 1801 wurde auf dem Gute Jenkau das „v. Conradi'sche Provinzialschul- und Erziehungsinstitut" eröffnet. Dieses Institut soll jetzt nach dem Vororte Langfuhr verlegt werden.

Kulm. Anhier besteht eine Versicherung gegen Pferdediebstahl. Im letzten Jahre wurden sieben Pferde neu versichert, so daß die Zahl der versicherten Pferde 82 beträgt, mit einer Versicherungssumme von 42,820 Mark. Das Eintrittsgeld beträgt nur einen Prozent der Versicherungssumme, Jahresbeiträge werden fast gar nicht erhoben.

Rheinprovinz.

Boppard. Vor einer Schmiede wurden Ausbesserungen an einer bespannten Karre vorgenommen. Ehe die Arbeiten beendigt waren, ging das scheu gewordene Pferd durch und raste durch eine Schaar Kinder, die vor der Kinderbewahranstalt spielten. Mehrere Kinder wurden verletzt, eins ist den Verletzungen erlegen.

Elberfeld. Der kürzlich verstorbene Stadtverordnete Lucas hat für den Wohlthätigkeitsfonds der Stadt Elberfeld einen Betrag von 10,000 Mark hinterlassen, dessen Zinsen alljährlich zu außergewöhnlichen Unterstützungen für bedürftige Männer verwendet werden sollen.

Kirn. Der hiesige Stadtrath bewilligte 10,000 Mark als Grundstock für ein Bismarck-Denkmal, dessen Kosten im Uebrigen durch freiwillige Beiträge gedeckt werden.

Provinz Sachsen.

Bismarck. Ein schrecklicher Unglücksfall ereignete sich in der hiesigen Genossenschaftsmolkerei. Der Molkereiverwalter Heinrich Witte war an der Centrifuge beschäftigt, als mit mächtigem Getöse der Kessel zersprang und die einzelnen Theile weit umher geschleudert wurden. Ein schweres Eisenstück sauste dabei dem Molkereiverwalter direkt an den Kopf, Letzteren sofort zermalmend. Ein Molkereigehilfe kam mit unerheblichen Verletzungen davon.

Weißenfels. In einer dahier abgehaltenen Versammlung wurde für das Zustandekommen einer Zweigbahn Weißenfels-Mücheln-Schafstädt-Querfurt und einer Kleinbahn nach Renden eine Garantiesumme von 7000 Mark gezeichnet. Im Ganzen sind dazu 10,000 Mark erforderlich.

Provinz Schlesien.

Grünberg. Einen nachahmenswerthen Beschluß haben die hiesigen städtischen Behörden getroffen. Nach demselben sollen von den Ueberschüssen der Sparkasse pro 1897 Sparprämien an Personen des Gesindestandes vertheilt werden, welche fünf Jahre lang bei derselben Herrschaft gedient und während dieser Zeit Spareinlagen bei der städtischen Sparkasse gehabt haben.

Hirschberg. Auf dem Bischkowitzer Berge sind beim Eisenbahnbau eine alte heidnische Begräbnißstätte aufgedeckt und daselbst reiche Funde an Gefäßen, Haarpfeilen, Armspangen und menschlichen Skeletten gemacht worden.

Liegnitz. Am 4. August, dem Gedenktage der Schlacht bei Weißenburg, fand in Anwesenheit des Prinzen Friedrich Heinrich, des Vertreters des Kaisers, die Enthüllung des von dem Bildhauer Boese angefertigten Reiterstandbildes Kaiser Wilhelms I. statt.

Provinz Schleswig-Holstein.

Garding. Einer der besten Kämpfer für den Liberalismus und Förderer der schleswig-holsteinischen Literatur ist hierorts aus dem Leben geschieden. Der Buchdruckereibesitzer und Verleger Senator Dircks ist im Alter von 68 Jahren plötzlich gestorben. Aus kleinen Anfängen brachte er die Firma Luhr u. Dircks zu hoher Blüthe und unterstützte opferwillig junge, talentvolle Schriftsteller.

Kiel. An den schleswig-holsteinischen Küsten, auf dem Meere innerhalb 20 Seemeilen von den Küsten oder auf mit dem Meere in Verbindung stehenden, von Seeschiffen befahrenen Binnengewässern sind im verflossenen Jahre im Ganzen 245 Schiffsunfälle vorgekommen.

Provinz Westfalen.

Bommern. Der Bergmann Heimann wurde unlängst Abends auf dem Nachhausewege von feigen Messerhelden hinterlistig überfallen, niedergeschlagen, durch einen Stich in die rechte Brustseite schwer verletzt und beraubt. Es hat sich nun herausgestellt, daß der Hauptthäter derselbe 19jährige Arbeiter Führer aus Witten ist, der an demselben Abend den verheiratheten Arbeiter Reinhardt aus Witten auf freier Straße und aus reiner Mordlust durch Messerstiche tödtlich verletzt hat.

Lüdenscheid. Unter reger Theilnahme der Behörden und des Publikums wurde hier die Volksheilstätte für den Kreis Altena feierlich eröffnet. Diese Lungenheilstätte ist in Deutschland die erste, die auf Kosten eines Kreises errichtet ist und unterhalten werden soll. Die Anstalt hat für 100 Kranke Raum.

THE BONE SOLO A HOODOO.

An Old Minstrel Avers That It Has Had Its Day—Worse Than the Clarionet.

"The bone solo," remarked an old minstrel performer, "though once very popular, is regarded as a hoodoo in the burnt cork profession, and is never allowed any more under any circumstances. It is feared as much as the yellow clarionet, which, according to the superstitions of the show business, is one of the most fatal things that exist. The yellow clarionet not only induces bad—that is, poor—business, but in addition to this it causes trouble among performers, producers railroad accidents, and, inshort, it winds performers and companies up. There was a time in the minstrel business when it was just as natural to have a bone solo played by some performer during the evening as it was to have a ballad sung, and the public took as kindly to one as it did the other. There was scarcely any difference between bone solos. They all sounded about the same and the imitations were always stereotyped. Haverly first put the ban on bone solos, and one of the clauses in the contracts he made with performers was that they would not under any circumstances while they were in his employ, either in private or public, attempt a bone solo. No minstrel performer can explain where the hoodoo comes in, but they fear it worse than any of the other omens of bad luck."—Wilmington Star.

THE BATHS IN PARIS.

Our American Conveniences Not Appreciated by the French.

The bathing appliances of America are something that the foreigner does not at all comprehend. When Mme. Eames-Story built her house in Paris, she bought her bath tups in Chicago, and many Americans wondered why. They would understand better if they had ever seen a French bath.

Another American, who leased a house in Paris for a term of years, asked permission to put in bath tubs. The privilege was allowed him on condition that he put the walls in the condition in which he found them, removing tubs and pipes before he gave up the house.

When you wish to bathe in an ordinary Paris house, you send word to an establishment which is found in every street. A tub, usually of copper, and highly polished, will be rolled in on wheels twelve inches in diameter. It will hold a hogshead of hot water, for the French do not understand cold baths. By its side will appear a large double copper bucket, with a lining of hot water. This is stuffed with towels and a long, full smock. For this hot linen there is an extra charge. The hot water is brought in in great pails, and when you have finished this is all carried away again. For this you pay, pourboire and all, about seventy cents. —Puritan.

Ready to Negotiate.

She—"Ah, Count, you don't know how my love for you distresses my parents. I heard my father say this morning that he would give $50,000 if I could never see you again."

The Count—"Let you fazaire in bees ness now, you ask?"—Chicago News.

Echoes Far and Near.

Down One Street and up Another, From Every ward in Plainfield.

Hard to hold down the enthusiasm of Plainfield people under such circumstances as those surrounding the work of the little conqueror. There is no place in the world where a good thing is better appreciated than right here at home. We are quick to see it and quick to "push it along" in the manner that it merits. From all parts of the city come the same reports, success follows in every footstep and an investigation of each new case but adds to the endorsement that has gone before and places their claims beyond the shadow of a doubt. This report comes from West Front street the residence of Mrs. Henry Bender, who says:

"My Kidneys have given me more or less trouble for the last five years. I suffered almost constantly from a dull, aching pain across the back and hips. Any hard work always increased the pain. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could get no relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as m ine and got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and have gotten great relief from them. I am feeling better now than I have for five years. In my estimation and from my experience, Doan's Kidney Pills are a good, reliable kidney medicine and I have great faith in them and advise others who suffer from kidney troubles to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U.S. Remember the name Doan,s and take no substitute.

H. Eggerding,

121 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated

C. O. D. CIGAR.

The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

(B)

AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED

Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

3 big buildings

—crowded with price-cut goods—

Realize how immense this stock of ours is? Stores run from Market to Campbell—from Campbell to Bank Sts—no limits to your choice—no such amazing price-drops ever listed—even in August! But Fall's lines, soon here, need more floor space than we've got.

All Chairs at bare cost

—don't need to tell you of the name we have for great, varied chair stocks.

12 different sets—no duplicates—dining chairs at half former costs.

50 reed, rattan and wicker rockers—$1.25, $2.50, $3.00.

100 sorts of odd rockers and chairs—palin woods and richly upholstered reds, greens, oak, antiques—$2.50, $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00. All porch and lawn furniture that's left below wholesale.

Cream of City's Carpet Snaps

—this week we'll take the stiffening out of every solitary carpet in this store—many of Fall's weaves have already come—they'll be included.

60c. Very Heavy Ingrains, 39c. yd. Body Brussels, 90c. 85c. All-Wool Ingrains, 65c. yd. Moquettes, 90c. 20 rolls Velvets and Tap Brussels at half. Remnants of choicest patterns—must go—bring room measures with you. Mattings 10c. yd. and up.

"Monarch"

2-hole high, $4.90

—all others that are left to go at same low rates. "Monarch" Vapor Stoves are the best from A to Z—ask to see the "Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove"—another marvel

$10.75—beveled mirror, rich polished oak, new shape—a $15 sideboard.

Other Sideboards: We put $18 ones at $13; $25 ones at $15; $28 ones at $20; $35 ones at $25; $65 ones at $50—some that were $125 to $100.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St., Near Plane St.

LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS.

Note first name "Amos." Newark, N. J.

Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

E. E. MARSHALL & CO.,

167 NORTH AVE.

Painters and Paper Hangers.

For the next 60 days we will sell

WALL PAPERS

at cost.

Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Picture Mouldings and Glass.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER,

Rapid. Simple, Durable,

IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.

The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address

THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO.,

5 20 4m 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

— DEALERS IN —

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER.

ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER.

169 NORTH AVENUE.

Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phœnix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS,

Dealers in first-class

PIANOS and ORGANS

We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.

221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD. J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.

Madison Avenue and Third Street.

Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.

MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.

SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.

DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order

BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.

FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs, Casings and Stops in stock for sale.

GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.

Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props. [Turning and Scroll Sawing.]

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, †10.7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 18, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 08, 8 45, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 48, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 9 15, 22 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St. at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturdays only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15 a. m.; 12 m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St. at † 10.7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 2 25, 3 30, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 2 10, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 55 p. m., 12 15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 00, 37, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 18, 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 08, 8 45, 11 16, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 48, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05 8 38, 9 03, 10 08 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 38, 5 45, 6 12, 7 35, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01 [2 11 except Saturdays] 2 27, 3 35, 4 36, 5 03, 5 25, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p. m.; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 06, 9 05, a.m.; 2 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 30, 10 15, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 33, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 2 20, 4 30, 5 28, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m.; 12 35, 1 20, 5 15, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 8 45, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01 2 27, 5 25, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m.; 2 03 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m.; 12 22, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m.; 6 20 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m.; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For staticns to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, & c with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only] [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 5 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 18, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21, 7 08, 8 45 p. m. Sundays, 9 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 32 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p. m Sundays 5 52 a.m

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 09, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*, 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46 a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a. m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 6 35 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. B. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday. "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 7 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02, a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 18 p. m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 6 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

A CIRCLE IN THE SAND

BY KATE JORDAN

AUTHOR OF "THE KISS OF GOLD" AND "THE OTHER HOUSE" ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1898, BY THE AUTHOR.

[CONTINUED.]

CHAPTER XXII.

It was a wild night. An icy torrent of rain was tossed by a wind which seemed sent to wail over the world.

The study where David Temple sat was as cheery as firelight and shaded lamplight could make it. He was conscious only vaguely of the sputtering coals sending up fuchsia tinted sparks and of the torrential rain shaking the window casings, while his thoughts wandered into dreams of other places and times.

Save for the servants he now lived alone in the old Waverly place house. It was strange to sit there on this January night and hear neither voice nor footstep, to find himself listening gladly to the clock's light strokes, feeling depressed when the last vibration had whirred into the silence.

Olga had been dead six months. He thought of her grave in Greenwood, her mother's but the reach of an arm from her—the finale to a story in those two mounds—of Dr. Ericsson, gone to spend his last years in Sweden, in the house where he was born and which had come to him a few months before through the death of a brother; of Anne, but lately returned to her old rooms, her life unchanged.

David rose and paced the room, a line creeping down between his brows. The silence seemed speaking to him of Anne tonight. She had been the star of his life. He freely acknowledged it. She had drained much of the bitterness from his adversities. No man could have had a more satisfying companion, a better friend. These blessings had been his, though they were neither his right nor his reward.

He wanted to tell her this and more. She had been ill, the result of a heavy cold, and on the morrow would leave for a holiday in the south. Something urged him not to let her leave New York without expressing what she had no doubt come to realize—how much her going from under the same roof had taken from his life.

"Yes, I miss her," he said in concentrated accents as he stood still and listened with the subtler inner hearing to the vast silence wrapping the house.

He stepped into the hall. The gas was burning brightly, but the curve of the high staircase was lost in shadow. He thought of how often Anne had come down, humming a song. But a few nights before Dr. Ericsson's departure he remembered her coming back half way to say good night to him, and how her long braid of hair becoming loosened had swept his cheek like a silky lash. It had been an incident for a laugh then, but now the memory of her tress' touch, her hand, her eyes, made him resent his loneliness.

He went into the drawing room, but came out of it quickly. It was there among the teacups and in the firelight he had asked Olga to be his wife, there her coffin had stood. It was a hated room. Ghosts were its tenantry.

Going back to the study fire, he lit a cigar. The past unrolled itself before him, and he tried to approximate the years to come. The deductions from his reasoning were as clear and strong as if spoken by a bell-like voice beside him.

Loneliness was horrible. It turned a man into an intellectual machine, warped his nature, put him out of touch with his kind. Once he had been proud to stand quite alone, absolute master of every heart throb and every moment, but he had tasted the joy of a sympathetic woman's daily companionship, and was unfitted forever for a self contained life where the ego was supreme and ambition the ruling passion.

If he had learned this from the year of life under one roof with Anne, how much deeper the lesson would be if she had been his wife. If Anne had been his wife! The words filled him with passive regret as he lifted her photograph from the mantel and looked into the eyes which seemed even there to question and comfort him.

If he could have loved her, if he could but love her now, as any man, the greatest, might be proud to love her. His feeling for her was very near the richest his nature could germinate. Gentleness and sympathy were in it, pride and reverence. It but lacked passion to make it perfect. This he had known for one woman, a heady, unreasoning, intoxicating love, without substance or depth. Anne did not arouse it in him, he could not add it to the involved longings which made her necessary to him, very probably it would forever escape him.

Need this prevent him from asking her to be his wife, from making her happy should she give herself to him? What he had to offer was better far than what he lacked—the fever of passion which could thrive in the most meager natures, the most evanescent, the basest ingredient of all in love. Anne could be dear and necessary to him without this madness which could never come again to him. Without being in love with her, he loved her tenderly. Was there as much importance in the subtle difference as romantic minds supposed?

His head was cool, his heart craving sympathy. He desired urgently not so much Anne's kiss as her companionship, not to give himself into her power and lose himself in her, but to know the happiness of her dependence on him.

When his cigar was finished, he went back to the table and looked down at the letter he had commenced to her.

"My dear Anne." The stereotyped words were so wholly inadequate they irritated him. He crushed the paper in his palm and flung it into the fire. He would go to her. As he took his overcoat and hat from the stand in the hall, he muttered impatiently:

"What shall I say to her? How can I put it to her?"

In a few moments he was on the street, making his way against the wind to her rooms on Washington place, where some of the most contented hours of his life had been spent.

The flames in the street lamps danced under his feet in the drenched pavements, the crossed streets lay in stormy shadow, icicles on trees and palings clinked in the rush of the freezing rain; once the numbed face of a beggar looked at him; once a stray dog pressed lonesomely against him as he strode on. The world seemed full of mist and pain, but there was light in his soul and when he saw the firelight on Anne's windows he felt almost ashamed of the sense of well being which came to him while others in the world suffered.

"Almost better, aren't you?" he said.

Anne opened the door of the sitting room herself. She was all in white, of some thick, heavy falling material, and behind her dark head the room swam in rosy gloom. The air was heavy with the perfume of roses. He seemed entering a garden with Anne by his side, pale from her illness and with dovelike eyes.

A soul wave of mutual comprehension made him feel his coming had been half expected and that she was glad. When he had made her sit again in the low armchair and had arranged the silk pillow at a comfortable angle for her head, he sat down beside her and looked at her earnestly.

"Almost better, aren't you?" he said gladly. "Your face is getting back its rounded look, and soon you won't get a single bit of sympathy."

"Almost better," Anne echoed, an excited catch in her voice. "I assure you, reposing on this pillow in a sort of Cleopatra attitude, I feel quite a fraud. I'd like to have gone for a tramp in this wild rain. Listen to it. How it sighs and sputters, and then with what a sweep it comes on!"

While the words left her lips she was thinking that it was strange and troubling to be there alone with David, the firelight on his near face, while beyond the close curtained windows the storm called and called to them in vain. She knew why he had come.

Her intuitive mind, leaping to conclusions, told her that words having no kinship to farewell were faltering on his lips. She felt a sudden uneasiness and excitement. The beating of her heart was painful.

"You'll be gone a month?"

"At least a month," she nodded. "I'm reveling in the thought of getting back to summer and for the first time smelling a lily field in bloom. The word 'Bermuda' has an exotic sound to me. Have you ever been there?"

"No," he said absently, and, leaning nearer, said earnestly, "I'll miss you so, Anne."

His fingers touched hers, and she met his eyes. They were grave and dominant.

"And how I've missed you these last five weeks!" he went on. "I find myself listening for your step, for memory plays me cruel tricks. But you are gone, and I have to learn all over the lesson of philosophy. I've grown to hate the place. Just to look at the corner of the table where you used to pour coffee for me makes me blue."

As he spoke quietly and half confidingly Anne became aware of a disappointment in herself. He was going to say more. What had been her dearest dream was going to intensify itself into a certainty tonight, and yet she was aware that if some interruption had come and David had been forced to leave her with the words unsaid she would have been relieved.

"Yes, I've missed you, and I will miss you," he continued and lifted her hand to his lips. "Does it matter that you are very dear to me, and I want you always? Will you be my wife, Anne? Will you?"

A sense of coming triumph filled David as he spoke. He was aware he had not feared failure. During the last year Anne had so let herself be knitted with his life it seemed only a natural conclusion that he was as necessary to her as she to him. Besides, he had never failed in anything save his marriage, and without egotism he did not consider that this pale and lonely woman whose affection he had tested could disappoint him now.

But Anne drew away from him, and while his hand still held hers a wave of relief from the deeps of her soul went over her. She seemed suddenly set free from chains. David's manner, his gentle, tender words, had left her cold. He was clear eyed, sensible, happy, but temperate and master of himself. She felt no desire to respond to his touch or glance. Instead there leaped into her mind a regret that she must deny him without quite realizing why.

"Anne," he said again, his face anxious now—"Anne, can you—can you love me? Will you marry me?"

She stood up and turned her head away, still feeling strange to herself. When she spoke, she obeyed a new knowledge, imperative, yet mystifying.

"David," she said seriously, "I don't love you that way."

He remained silent until she forced herself to look fully at him.

"Ah," he said, as if it were the first breath he had taken since she had replied, "is it so? I had hoped—but no matter now."

Anne gazed shrinkingly at his serious, composed face and held out her hands. He took them and looked tenderly at her.

"We'll forget this, Anne," he said.

Her eyes looked frankly and sorrowfully into his.

"I go away tomorrow." Her fingers held his closely. "Say goodby, and say it as if you forgave me."

"For what? My dear Anne, you need no forgiveness from me."

"I've given you some pain, David. I've disappointed you. I'm sorry."

"You couldn't help it," he said. "You don't love me. How are you to blame for that?"

Her mind grasped at the words eagerly. It was true. She could not help it. She was not to blame.

"Good night, Anne. I hope your holiday will do you good, and I know it will," David said, quite in his usual tone. "Don't fail to let me know when you return."

She let him go with another handshake, and went back to the fire. For a long time she crouched over the coals, her face sheltered by her hands. Nora's entreaties about preparations for bed were unheeded.

"I want to be alone," she said, pushing the girl away. "Come back by and by."

She sat in the empty room, watching the fire sink lower. She was groping in the dark for an understanding of her own heart and the reasons which had made her refuse to be David Temple's wife. She had loved him the night he had sat in this same room and told her of Olga. She had continued to love him miserably, with passion, and had struggled to forget him through conflicts of regret. In the days when peace had come to her he had still seemed the most important and dearest in the world. She had many times thought of him so during the year spent in the same house with him.

Why, then, when he had spoken the words she had believed would hold the richest harmony in her life, had they meant none of these dear things? Why had they not been acceptable?

She had outlived her love for David Temple without having become aware of the change in herself. She had not even pitied him acutely, as women do pity what they must hurt.

Was he hurt very much? He had been very sure of her. With fine, convincing intuition she had felt the confidence underlying his caressing words, had divined it in his calm eyes. He missed her, that was true enough; needed her for the simplest and most sensible reasons. He was fond of her. She had his admiration, confidence, respect. From habit she had become necessary to him. His silent house required a mistress, his life a companion. But the love which comes to curse or bless a life and which is all of life was not there. Even the exaltation of the senses, misquoted love,

"I know—I know all now! My dear, dear, dear!"

which he had felt for Olga, was absent. There was no illusion, no pain, no romance in David's affection for her. It was quiet, well balanced, wholesome. She knew she was the passionless choice of his calm, wise moments.

Nora came in, a muddy letter in her hand.

"The fool of a postman, to save cooling his feet, put this under the mat instead of ringing the bell. It's a sorry looking letter it is now," and Nora dried it on her apron before putting it in Anne's outstretched hand.

It was from Donald. Her eyes brightened as she took it quickly and drew the rustling pages from the envelope. She read:

DEAREST ANNE—It's very quiet where I sit tonight writing to you. The short twilight has disappeared into a dark blue night, the southern cross is in the sky, and the few other stars are bigger and brighter than the many at home. How far away you are from me! Somehow I never felt so alone in the wilderness as I do tonight. A longing to see you eats at my heart. There is no voice in the world as sweet as yours. I love your eyes, the way your lips look when you laugh. Oh, Anne, Anne, if I could see you now!

These fancies are wild, you will think maybe. Oh, but I do love you so! A nigger somewhere in the darkness outside is playing a passionate tune on a tin flute, and the savage notes go through me, racking me with a miserable sort of happiness, they are so like the ache I feel to see you, to touch you!

I've worked very faithfully. The men I'm thrown with, Armitage and Morgan, are bully good fellows and, like me, are hoping and toiling for prosperity under another sky as the reward. I like them both immensely, and I think they like me pretty well.

I wish you could see your two books. You'd hardly know them, they are so thumbed. I almost know them by heart. There's a bright future for you, Anne, dear. Oh, I hope you'll have all your dreams realized, every one! But there's bitterness in the thought for me. I see more and more how much I aspire to in loving you, how mad the dream that maybe— But I can't go on. Nothing can alter the fact that I do love you, and, though you go quite out of my life and marry and are happy without one thought of me, I must still love you. Nothing can alter that.

Oh, I wonder will you ever love me? Will I ever be able to go to you and ask you that? Will I dare? What you've been to me! Only today as I stood watching the negroes among the coffee shrubs I thought of the night in the mines when we sat with our hands clasped in the blackness and I talked to you of my wretched self as I'd never spoken to any living being and the night when Joe died and I tried to tell you all that was in my heart. Do you remember it as I do? I kissed your hair that night. You didn't know it. Afterward, when you laid your cheek against my arm, your beautiful face so white, and whispered, "I'll remember, Donald," I thought my heart would burst with pain and joy. Oh, how I wish I could have my life to live over again and be at this moment the man God had meant me to be, not full of bitter memories, still half afraid after fighting the habits of years! If away back in the past when I was a little chap I could have known that one day I'd meet you, love you, need you so, how little all that was miserable would have seemed—only a time of darkness to be lived through somehow with happiness awaiting me at the end!

These are thoughts which haunt me all the time, though I've little enough time to think. There's so much to do I've grown very practical. But it's so quiet here tonight, and you are so very far away, and I do crave with physical pain for one sight of you, and the nigger's melody has fired my blood, and a queer bird outside my window utters now and then a soft good night note as sad as death.

Oh, to have you beside me in this little room just for a moment, to bless it for all the days to come with the magic of your smile! I love your dearly, Anne; need you more.

I suppose you are very much at home again in your old rooms. I can fancy the year you spent in Waverly place was deadly dull, although you wouldn't say so. You say David has bought the old mansion from the doctor and regularly settled down there. I wonder why he does this unless he intends to remain a hermit or marry again.

Do you know I feel sorry for David? Yet I don't think it would please him to think any one felt pity for him. I used to think in the dark days before you came to me it would be the sweetest moment in my life to see him in some position where I could pity him. He used to antagonize and attract me in the one hour. But that's past and done with. There's not a tinge of envy in my feeling for him now. Since his wife's death he's written to me very seldom. Do you think he loved her very much? Does he make you his confidant now as he used to do? You and he were great chums once. I hated him then. And once—shall I tell you?—I thought that maybe he might love you and win you. If he had, I think I'd have gone mad with grief. David's had everything all his life and had it before my longing eyes. But if you'd loved him, Anne, I would have suffered pangs too intolerable to think of without agony. I can lose you to another man and bear my disappointment as well as I can. But to David Temple—I can't bear to think of it. It would seem too wretchedly consistent with all that's gone before. But you're not going to marry him, so I'll stop tormenting myself this way.

How long will it be before I see you? Oh, I do want to see you! I have succeeded moderately, have paid David his loan and made some money besides. One year more of this and I'll be able to go home. Home! One year! And then? Well, you know all I dream of. You are everything to me. You seem near to me some days. I wonder if your thoughts stray to me now and then and I feel them. Oh, do think of me and as tenderly as you can! Do you understand how I love you? Do you know what you are to me? I cannot write more. Good night. DONALD.

The letter slipped from Anne's fingers and lay a small, white patch against the whiter hem of her gown. She thrust her hands out invitingly. Her eyes had the look of a child's in the dark waiting for the coming of the light. The breath came and went unevenly through her parted lips. A happy smile broke over her face.

She picked the letter up and pressed it to her lips several times before she spoke to it, as if to one who listened:

"I know—I know all now! My dear, dear, dear!"

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

SAVING LIFE BY TELEPHONE.

Part They Take in the Rescue of Shipwrecked Sailors.

The total length of life-saving telephone lines is, it is stated, nearly 1,000 miles, and there are more than 200 telephone connections at life-saving stations, half-way places, lighthouses and other points in connection with the service, covering the Atlantic coast from Maine to Hatteras Inlet, N. H. Linemen's work on the coast is not a pleasant duty, the trips being long, with dangerous inlets to be crossed, and there is but little shelter on the beaches in stormy weather. The one man who has charge of the 100 miles of the North Carolina section has to make most of his trips on muleback. At some points on the coast of Cape Cod the half-way places are connected by telephone with the main line.

The designation of "half-way" is applied to a place about midway between two life-saving stations, where the patrols meet and exchange checks during the night watches. The object in connecting the half-way places is to enable the patrols to send in an alarm of wreck or report vessels that may be in distress in the vicinity of the half-way place without having to run back through miles of loose sand, and perhaps in the face of a gale, to notify their station. Many a time when, in the old days, this had to be done, the ship and crew were under water before help arrived, that now would have been saved.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

LIKED HER HOME ON SHIPBOARD.

How a Shrewd Woman Got the Best of a Steamboat Company.

The following true tale is a most curious instance of living well on nothing a year without breaking the laws of the land. About twenty years ago a steam packet company of Liverpool wished to buy a piece of land which was owned by a "stay-at-home spinster," as her neighbors described her. She sold her land at a very low price, but insisted upon a clause being inserted in the agreement giving her the right, at any time during her life, to travel with a companion in any of the company's vessels.

When the agreement was closed she sold her furniture and went on board the first out-going ship belonging to the packet company. For years this wise spinster lived nearly all the time upon one ship or another, frequently accompanied by a companion, according to the agreement. This was always a person who otherwise would have been a regular passenger, but who purchased her ticket at reduced rates by paying the spinster instead of the packet company. The company offered her more than twice the value of the land if she would give up her privilege; but this she would not do. Her reply was: "You got the land cheap, and I like sailing; so we ought both to be satisfied."—Lippincott's Magazine.

—Use Press want ads for returns.

DO YOU SPEAK SOFTLY?

You Can Be Taught to Control Your Voice and Adapt It to the Room You Enter.

Do you speak softly? Has your voice precisely the proper pitch, and can it adapt itself on the instant to the room you suddenly enter? Have you learned that you must never whisper in a church—for whispering is always very audible there—but speak in a low, firm tone? Can you laugh properly and daintily, as an ideal girl should? Can you control your voice, using one tone for one occasion and another for another, at will? Can you talk animatedly and with enthusiasm, without throwing your arms about, your head too far back and without moving your body?

For if you cannot say yes to all these questions you are not a perfect and properly modern girl. There have been many criticisms, as well as praises, levelled at the American girl, and one of the chief of these has been for years that she talked too loud and too often did not modify her voice when occasion called. Now, American fathers and mothers say the time has come for reform, and the new cult of speaking softly has been started.

A foreign woman, continental to her finger tips, who has the softest, prettiest voice herself—Mme. Mendosez—is the apostle of this new cult, and to her "studio," on Fifth avenue, come each day troops of girls, singly or in classes of six and eight, that they may be in the fashion. It is, in fact, a rage in a mild way. Only those girls blessed by nature or by very early training with voices that are properly fashionable can afford to keep out of the procession, and all the others of the sets wend their way daily to the "studio."

It is not alone by example—though example has a great deal to do with it—that the cult of speaking softly is taught. The girls ranged about her, Mme. Mendosez asks each of them to speak in her ordinary conversational tone. Then, stepping to the piano near by, she strikes a note. If high in the treble it is meant for a girl whose tones are naturally harsh and guttural; if down in the bass, for a girl who speaks shrilly and in a half scream.

"That for you," she says, singling out a girl. "Now try and see how close you can pitch your voice to that."

No exact point of meeting is there and no similarity of tones sought after, but the deep voice and the shrill one, the nasal voice and the voice that seems to come from the bottom of the throat, are cajoled and pulled along until they commence to lose their disagreeable peculiarities and are on somewhat common ground.

Now, this is but the preface. It is not so much the object of the cult to change voices as it is to control them. And yet the two go together in a measure. Once, by this plan of nasal gymnastics, a girl can alter her tones at will, it is a simple thing for her to learn to speak softly. She comes to learn that by raising her voice hardly at all she can make her tones "carry" to a marvelous degree. She is taught the difference between rooms, how there is one tone for public assemblages, another for parlors, a third for still smaller rooms and yet another for the street.

As completely as if she were taking singing lessons does this system of the new cult of speaking softly range her voice up and down, keeping it meanwhile (if there is a tendency either way), out of her throat and her nose, until she is complete mistress of her tones, all the while holding forward as the main object soft speaking.

Women Economizing.

Chief among the tendencies of the moment as regards representative New York women is a most marked idea of economy. Economy in every way, even to the saving of the pennies, let alone the dollars, has come to be a growing enthusiasm. That this is not a theory but a genuine condition, and that women, with the biggest sort of incomes are actually practicing what they preach, can be learned from all the prominent tradesmen, as war is making many of them genuinely blue for the accounts of many of their best customers are falling decidedly off.

The idea of the day is that the country may sooner or later need money; that at all events scores of new charities and aid societies will probably spring up, and that they themselves should begin to save now in order that they may be prepared when the call for funds comes. That is the feeling among the women of the "sets," and they are showing their willingness to be ready to make all sorts of little sacrifices.

This has not been told in print for the reason that these women have, naturally, not talked about it, but it is, nevertheless, a fact. The average woman of fashion is having about a third as many new gowns as usual, and she is buying far less in the way of fripperies and novelties. A much smaller quantity of goods is being ordered daily from the butcher, the baker and the grocer, and there are some women who are actualy keeping a close watch on the sugar and butter in their pantries, to see that neither of these articles is wasted. This, on the part of women who have never done such a thing in all their lives before. Servants are being discharged and establishments quietly reduced.

Miss Louise Hortense Snowden of Philadelphia, who received the degree of Bachelor of Science in June, was the first woman to receive honors at the University of Pennsylvania for a full four years' college course. She also received the first prize for the best preparations illustrating the anatomy or embryology of any animal.

AFTER FIGHT, MERCY

RESCUE OF THE CREW OF THE VISCAYA AFTER HER DESTRUCTION.

"Fighting Bob" Evans, Tells of the Scene Off Santiago After His Iowa Defeated the Spanish Ship—Decks of the Iowa Ran With Blood of Rescued.

After "Fighting Bob" Evans, Captain of the Iowa, had described to a reporter the opening of the great naval battle off Santiago and the manner in which his ship drove the Spanish Viscaya ashore, a wreck, he spoke as follows:

"As it was apparent that the Iowa could not possibly catch the Cristobal Colon, and that the Oregon and Brooklyn undoubtedly would, and as the fast New York was also on her trail, I decided that the calls of humanity should be answered and attention given to the twelve or fifteen hundred Spanish officers and men who had struck their colors to the American squadron commanded by Admiral Sampson. I therefore headed for the wreck of the Vizcaya, now burning furiously fore and aft. When I was in as far as the depth of water would admit, I lowered all my boats and sent them at once to the assistance of the unfortunate men, who were being drowned by dozens or roasted on the decks. I soon discovered that the insurgent Cubans from the shore were shooting on men who were struggling in the water after having surrendered to us. I immediately put a stop to this; but I could not put a stop to the mutilation of many bodies by the sharks inside the reef. These creatures had become excited by the blood from the wounded mixing in the water. My boats' crews worked manfully and succeeded in saving many of the wounded from the burning ship. One man who will be recommended for promotion clambered up the side of the Vizcaya and saved three men from burning to death. The smaller magazines of the Vizcaya were exploding with magnificent cloud effects. The boats were coming alongside in a steady string, and willing hands were helping the lacerated Spanish officers and sailors onto the Iowa's quarterdeck. All the Spaniards were absolute without clothes. Some had their legs torn off by fragments of shells. Others were mutilated in every conceivable way.

"FIGHTING BOB" EVANS.

"The bottoms of the boats held two or three inches of blood. In many cases dead men were lying in the blood. Five poor chaps died on the way to the ship. They were afterward buried with military honors from the Iowa. Some examples of heroism, or more properly devotion to discipline and duty, could never be surpassed. One man on the lost Vizcaya had his left arm almost shot off just below the shoulder. The fragments were hanging by a small piece of skin. But he climbed unassisted over the side and saluted as if on a visit of ceremony. Immediately after him came a strong, hearty sailor, whose left leg had been shot off above the knee. He was hoisted on board the Iowa with a tackle, but never a whimper came from him. Gradually the mangled bodies and naked well men accumulated, until it would have been almost difficult to recognize the Iowa as a United States battleship. Blood was all over her usually white quarterdeck, and 272 naked men were being supplied with food by those who a few minutes before had been using a rapid-fire battery on them. Finally came the boats with Capt. Eulate, commander of the Vizcaya, for whom a chair was lowered over the side, as he was evidently wounded. The captain's guard of marines was drawn up on the quarterdeck to salute him, and I stood waiting to welcome him. As the chair was placed on the deck the marines presented arms. Capt. Eulate slowly raised himself in the chair, saluted me with grave dignity, unbuckled his sword belt, and holding the hilt of the sword before him, kissed it reverently, with tears in his eyes, and then surrendered it to me.

BATTLESHIP IOWA.

"Of course, I declined to receive his sword, and, as the crew of the Iowa saw this, they cheered like wild men. As I started to take Capt. Eulate into the cabin to let the doctors examine his wounds, the magazines on board the Vizcaya exploded with a tremendous burst of flame. Capt. Eulate, extending his hands, said 'Adios, Vizcaya! There goes my beautiful ship, Captain;' and so we passed on to the cabin, where the doctors dressed his three wounds. In the meantime thirty officers of the Vizcaya had been picked up, besides 272 of her crew. Our wardroom and steerage officers gave up their state-rooms and furnished food, clothing and tobacco to those naked officers from the Vizcaya.

SPORTING.

AROUND THE BASES.

Games Played Yesterday

At Cleveland:

Cleveland	3	0	1	0	0	0	0	—	4
New York	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	—	1

Base hits, Cleveland 10, New York 7. Errors, Cleveland 1, New York 0. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of the rain, with New York at the bat.

At Pittsburg:

Brooklyn	0	1	0	2	1	0	1	0	0	— 5
Pittsburg	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 1

Batteries, Grim and Yeager; Bowerman and Rhines. Base hits, Brooklyn 8, Pittsburg 5. Errors, Brooklyn 0, Pittsburg 3.

At St. Louis:

Washington	0	0	3	1	0	1	0	0	0	— 5
St. Louis	1	7	1	2	0	3	0	0	*	— 14

Batteries, Weyhing and McGuire; Taylor and Kinslow. Base hits, Washington 10, St. Louis 13. Errors, Washington 8, St. Louis 0.

At Chicago:

Boston	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	— 2
Chicago	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	3	— 5

Batteries, Klobedanz and Bergen; Griffith and Donohue. Base hits, Boston 4, Chicago 5. Errors, Boston 4, Chicago 2.

At Louisville:

Philadelphia	1	1	0	2	3	— 6
Louisville	1	4	0	1	5	— 11

Batteries, Donohue and McFarland; Cunningham and Kittridge. Game called at end of fifth inning on account of rain.

IN A MELANCHOLY MOOD.

A Man on the Way to See His Mother Fell Into the Hands of the Police.

John Brannagan had tears in his eyes and a melancholy voice when they brought him out of the cell and before the City Judge this morning. They put him off the east-bound train yesterday afternoon because he was too drunk to know anything. Then Chief Grant came along and the man, who is from Trenton, fell into his clutches.

To the Judge he dolefully said that he was bound to visit his mother near Scotch Plains. He had a wife and eight young ones. He looked innocent enough and promired to give up rum if allowed to go. The Judge suspended sentence.

—A meeting of the Board of Management of the Board of Trade will be held this evening to look after routine matters of the Board. The meeting will be in the Board rooms.

When Longfellow Came to Cambridge.

In 1836, when Lowell was a sophomore, Mr. Longfellow came to Cambridge, a young man, to begin his long and valuable life in the college. His presence there proved a benediction, and, I might say, marks an epoch in the history of Harvard. In the first place, he was fresh from Europe, and he gave the best possible stimulus to the budding interest in German literature. In the second place, he came from Bowdoin College, and in those days it was a very good thing for a Harvard undergraduate to know that there were people not bred in Cambridge quite as well read, as intelligent, as elegant, and accomplished as any Harvard graduate. In the third place. Longfellow, though he was so young, ranked already distinctly as a man of letters.

This was no broken-winded minister who had been made the professor. He was not a lawyer without clients, or a doctor without patients, for whom "a place" had to be found. He was already known as a poet by all educated people.—Edward Everett Hale in Outlook.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Some people use a jackass to draw a conveyance and others employ a lawyer.

Most people would be content with their lot if it was only a lot of money.

The funny man who falls from a high grade wheel gets off a good thing.

The road to ruin is kept in good repair at the expense of the travellers thereon.

When a telephone girl breaks her engagement it is another case of "ring off."—Chicago News.

The Whirligig of Time.

Not long ago we thought it strange to find a crowing hen, but in this funny age of change most women would be men.

The girls who took our hearts by storm and made us bow to fate, now tell us love is not good form, and marriage out of date.

So as we live where bloomers bring no blush of modest shame, they used to want a diamond ring, but now a diamond frame.

Strange but True.

Bronco Bill—See any curious sights in New York, Tom?

Tornado Tom.—Wonderful, Bill. W'y, I seen fellers smokin' cigarettes right on th' most crowded streets 'ithout gittin' shot at.—Judge.

"You don't find me taking up with any of these isms," said the large man who was rather red in tone.

"Except," ventured the slender man, with indications of a soured disposition, "perhaps, alcoholism."—Cincinnatti Enquirer.

Pat—"Pwhat's 'insomnia, Mike?"

Mike—"Whoi, ut's a disease thot won't let a felly slape whin he wants to."

Pat—"Begorrah, ut musht be a good deal loike an alar-rum clock, thin."—Puck.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Manager Maze Edwards announces for his next attraction at Music Hall, Cole and Johnson, the famous comedians, in an entirely now version of their celebrated play, "A Trip to Coontown." It will be presented Tuesday night of next week. The performance consists in the presentation of a laughable musical comedy which abounds in many situations and bright dialogue. The leading roles are in the hands of Bob Cole and Billy Johnson, who have won distinction in their parts. Bob Cole as a tramp is undoubtedly the foremost colored comedian of the day, his work has been compared with that of Dan Daly and Walter Jones. The New York Sun of April 6th said: "He has more merit than either of these great comedians, and is funnier than Ward and Vokes rolled together, while Johnson is an artist to his fingers' tips. These comedians are fortunate in having in their support the most popular and accomplished entertainers of their race.

* * * * *

Mirth and melody of the genuine darkey brand pleased a large audience in Music Hall last night. "Black Patti's Troubadours" opened their season there, after a few days rehearsal, and gave a good show all the way through. The performance opened with a comical skit entitled "At Jolly 'Coon' ey Island." It was written and arranged by Ernest Hogan, the "unbleached" comedian. It was lively all the time and mixed up a little of everything in the farcical line. The author played the principal part in the piece, and caused many a laugh by his grotesque antics. Of course, "Black Patti" was the star of the whole affair. In the olio she sang "Delight Waltz," and for an encore gave "My Old Kentucky Home" in a voice that has few equals. The performance closed with operatic selections by "Black Patti" and a number of clever soloists, together with a well-trained chorus on the part of the company.

—Don't forget Jersey cantalope for tomorrow's breakfast to be purchased at Neuman Brothers.

BALTIMORE'S BENEFACTOR.

The Founder of the Johns Hopkins University.

More than eighty-five years ago a young man from Anne Arundel County, Maryland, came to Baltimore to seek his fortune. When he arrived in the city, which sixty years later he was to endow so munificently, he had only seventy-five cents in his pocket. He was eighteen years old when he left his father's farm, on which he had worked since his twelfth year; but, hard as he had worked in the country, a still harder experience was his during the first years in the city.

Soon after his arrival in Baltimore he obtained employment in his uncle's wholesale grocery store. The work was laborious, and the salary small; early and late he was at the store. The six years that he passed in his uncle's store, while toilsome, were serviceable. They taught him methodical business habits, and thus prepared him for his future career as one of the merchant princes of Baltimore—one of that remarkable trio of benefactors (Peabody, Pratt, and Hopkins,) whose enlightened liberality has provided their adopted city with magnificent monuments in the shape of libraries, a university, and a hospital. Of these three public benefactors of Baltimore, Johns Hopkins was the wealthiest, and founded two of the most splendidly endowed institutions that the world has ever seen—the Johns Hopkins University and the Johns Hopkins Hospital.—Self Culture.

Fifty New Minerals.

Nearly fifty new minerals have been discovered in the past few years. Some of them are beautiful, but far more interesting are those containing little cells or cavities filled with fluids or gases. For instance, are shown a topaz in which is a cavity filled with gas caught up during the crystallization of the mineral; a slice of quartz from North Carolina contains a gas bubble; but most wonderful of all is a gas bubble which is constantly dashing about a little cavity in a piece of quartz. This bubble dashes from wall to wall of the cavity in restless motion, like a monad seeking to escape. This motion must have continued during the ages which have elapsed since the consolidation of the granite.

The First Oath of Office.

On Wall street, at the corner of Nassau, in New York, stands the subtreasury, in whose vaults are stored great quantities of gold and silver, which are constantly being drawn out and added to as the business of the city requires. On the steps of this plain building stands a statue of Washington, at least twice as large as life, marking the spot where our first President took the oath of office, and just inside the entrance is the large block of red sandstone on which he stood on that important occasion. The stone is framed and protected by glass, and fastened to the wall now.

"No man ebber loses 'is ambition completely," said Uncle Eben. "Ef he gits whah he can't be nuffin' but a nuisance, he takes pride in seein' how big a specimen he kin make hisse'f."—Washington Star.

PEOPLE COME AND GO.

PERSONAL MENTION OF INTEREST TO PRESS READERS.

Some Come to Enjoy Pleasures of Plainfield, Others Journey to Either Mountain or Shore for Recreation.

J. A. Oakley, Jr., of Elizabeth, has been a visitor in town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Laire, of Park avenue, are sojourning at Belvidere.

Miss Cora Laire, of Park avenue, is the guest of relatives in Annandale, N. J.

Patrolman Saunders is improved from an illness that has kept him off duty.

Miss Florence Earl, of Elizabeth, is the guest of Miss Edith Darby, of Alton.

W. F. Freeman and family, of Carlton avenue, left today on their annual vacation.

Mrs. J. H. Oliff, of Arlington avenue, is quite ill.

Miss Hattie Currie, of Arlington avenue, is entertaining a friend from New York.

Miss Carrie Totten, of Newark, is visiting her cousin, Frank Putnam, of Elm place.

H. O. Newman, of East Fifth street, has gone to New York State to visit his son.

Arthur Heath, of Central avenue, will spend Saturday and Sunday at Asbury Park.

R. F. R. Huntsman and family, of Westervelt avenue, are summering at Portland, Me.

Richard Randolph, of West Eighth street, has returned from his vacation spent at Deckertown.

Robert W. Davis, of East Fifth street, will spend Saturday and Sunday at Whitehouse.

Attorney George Ball, of the First National Bank building, was in New Brunswick yesterday.

R. W. Davis, assistant secretary at the Y. M. C. A., has returned from his summer vacation.

Mrs. L. K. Prescott, of Brooklyn, has been visiting Mrs. Jas. L. Force, of Watchung avenue.

Edward Devine, of West Front street, is greatly improved from an attack of pneumonia.

Patrolman Vanderweg is off on his vacation, and when he returns Roundsman Frederickson will go.

Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr., of Franklin place, is home after spending his vacation in Asbury Park.

B. Fosgate and family, of Park avenue, are stopping at the Ricard House, Asbury Park, for a few weeks.

Robert Davis, assistant secretary at the Y. M. C. A., has returned from his vacation spent at Liberty, N. Y.

—Fresh Jersey peaches are selling fast at Neuman Brothers.

RAILWAYS' BIGGEST CUSTOMER.

James A. Bailey Pays Them More Money Than Does Any Other Man.

The heaviest single customer of the railroads of the United States is James A. Bailey, through the three great shows in which he holds a controlling interest, the "Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth," the "Buffale Bill Wild West" and the "Sells-Forepaugh Combination."

This is not alone due to the transportation of the immense trains and people over some 38,000 miles in a single season, but also because of the elaborate system of excursions that belongs to each show, by which the great showman pours money into the lap of the railway corporations. The three shows aggregate some 1,800 people and 170 cars. There are upwards of 1,700 horses. The direct cost of handling these and the excursion business combined make Mr. Bailey the contributor of something like $1,250,000 every year to the railroads.

The railway trains of the Barnum show consist of sixty-four cars. These are divided into three trains, usually four cars being in the advance. Not infrequently, however, it is necessary to make four, five and sometimes six sections, according to grades and other conditions of the road. The contracting road furnishes the engines, cabooses and trainmen. The runs are almost invariably between the hours of 1 and 6 o'clock a. m.

The railroad contractor of a big show has a great responsibility. As soon as the route has been laid out, early in the winter, he gets to work on contracts for the following season. His first step is to study competing lines, taking into consideration the character of the roads and their sidings and other accommodations. With most of these long service has made him familiar. He takes to the route and personally visits the responsible railway representative at whatever city the general office of the railway may be situated. It may be that several points on a single system may be used, but the contracts are made separately from one point to another.

Cities sometimes compete with each other for the show by offering free lots, free license, and even a bonus for having it come their way, the railway lines joining them in the petition. For the great show not only pours money into the lap of the railway companies, but it contributes liberally, both directly and indirectly, to the town itself. Every excursionist spends money in the town.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Summoning Help by Cutting Wires.

The person who wrote that electricity was one of the "mighty agents of nature enchained by the ingenuity of man" can scarcely have contemplated in his wildest dreams the full extent of that ingenuity, says the Electrical Review. For instance, he is scarcely likely to have prophesied that a sick man, far from the habitations of civilization, would have cut a telegraph wire in order to obtain assistance. And yet such has really occurred, according to a London contemporary. The whole of the vast continent of Australia was practically cut off from European news for nearly twenty-four hours in the middle of September in consequence of an interruption on the line between Adelaide and Port Darwin. Inquiries were made, and it was learned that the wire had been cut by a cyclist who was taken ill while on a journey across the continent. It is not related how he set about it, but he had the satisfaction, at any rate, of getting what he wanted. It is not desired to establish this as a precedent of summoning help under inconvenient circumstances.

A Race of Men Turned to Stone.

Curious human forms, outlined in sandstone, were found very recently in a Minnesota quarry. With them were a number of crude copper cooking utensils, and all evidences point to the discovery of some ancient race, antecedents of the Indians, inhabitants of the continent when the world was young.

The bodies have turned to stone. Not petrified, in the general sense of the word, but form a component part of the rock. They cannot be separated from the rock that surrounds them without destroying their identity. They are simply outlines.

Four such bodies were found, each one stretched at full length, with the hands crossed on the breast. Except in a general way features could not be distinguished. It could be seen, however, that the heads were well formed and cheek bones high. The shoulders were very square, and of great breadth. In length the forms varied from four to seven feet.—New York Journal.

The Queen Kept Her Word.

A picturesque story is that which comes from Biarritz, and concerns itself with the Queen of Servia and her jewels. It seems that while staying at Biarritz the Queen one day missed a valuable portion of her jewels. A few days later an advertisement appeared in the local papers to the effect that if the jewelry were returned to the Queen she would present it to the poor of Biarritz.

Two days afterward she received her lost or stolen diamonds by post, accompanied by a sheet of coarse paper, on which was scrawled in printed characters, "I shall be curious to see if a Queen can keep her word." The Queen did keep her word, and presented the restored trinkets to the Sisters of Charity, who immediately organized a lottery, which was eagerly subscribed to by the visitors and residents of Biarritz, and the treasure was won by a poor little seamstress.

The heroism of the engine room of our war ships is no less than that of the deck. But the men down below sometimes get opportunities for showing what is in them which are not open to the rest of their shipmates. In his report on the Oregon's great voyage Capt. Clark after speaking of the excellent discipline which prevailed on the run, referred to the engineer officers who voluntarily doubled their watches when high speed was to be made, and to the attempts of the men to return to the fireroom after being carried out of insensible. That is the way it is done!

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits.....$ 90,000

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. BUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTILL, Vice " D. M. BUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter. Wm. McD. Coriell.
E. M. French. H. Mulford Estill.
Wm. M. Stillman. Isaac W. Bushmore.
J. W. Johnson. Wm. B. Coddington.
F. S. Bunyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield, N. J., August 22, 1898.

Adams Miss Mary	Kramer Mrs E
Allen Mr A M	Kione Miss J
Baily Mr J J	Lines Mr N L
Boyce Mr H	Long Mrs Anna
Birkett Mrs J	Mason Miss M
Bradley Mrs E A	Munn Miss
Brady Phil	Nicoll Miss L 2
Beud Miss G	Phillips Miss G
Burnett Mr E	Pugh Miss J D
Cheney Miss H	Sallie
Drayton Miss S F	Smith Miss E V
Feeney Mr T	Stapleton Miss C 2
Fisher Mr A	Sellers Miss Ida
Garrett Mr G H	Stryker J P
Gaurlay M S	Sullo Mr Carlo
Green Mrs C	Titus Mr G N
Hannan Jos B	Totten Miss C
Jackson Mr A W	Vail Mr A A
Johnson Mr Aug	Herndon Miss N
Kinsman Mrs	White Miss A
Klapper Mrs L	Wilson Miss L

MONEY TO LOAN—Bring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,500; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ½ mile from trolley. $3,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaRue, Plainfield, N. J., Real Estate and Insurance.

The Only Place to buy Keyler's is Leggett's Pharmacy, Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

Wear ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS. Perfect Fitting.

FOR SALE BY LEADING DEALERS.

E. S. F. RANDOLPH, DRUGGIST,

Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.

PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

THE MANHASSET SEA SIDE PARK, N. J. Newly equipped. Electric light, artesian well water, perfect sanitation. Superb sailing fishing and bathing. Absolute immunity from hay fever. Write for booklet.
6 4 3m-m-th-s M. E. WISTAR.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy,
309 EAST FRONT ST.
Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.
Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield.
"A word to the wise is sufficient."
J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 22 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory,
Taught by
Miss Sarah A. Palmer,
Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio —123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J.
LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN.
Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate.
303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m
RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.
Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art. Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

INSTRUCTION on the VIOLIN and REED ORGAN by MRS. G. W. SAUMS.
(Pupil of Prof. K. A. Langlotz.) Residence 143 East Second street. Reference, ten years' teaching at Trenton, N. J. 4 21 tf

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY,
123 West Seventh St.
Will Re-open Thursday, SEPTEMBER 15, 1898.
Thirty-first year.
Principals: MISS KENYON, MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S School and Kindergarten,
29 Washington Avenue, North Plainfield.
WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

M. E. STEPHENSON,
146 North Avenue,
Near the depot.
RESTAURANT AND CATERING.
TELEPHONE 624.

Positively the LAST WEEK
of the great A. M. E. Zion
CAMP MEETING
At Netherwood.
Closing Sermon at 8:30 p. m. Sunday, August 28th.
Electric Cars to the Grove. 8 22 1w

S. SCHEUER & CO.

SPECIAL BARGAINS FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Choice Groceries.		Choice Meats.
Condensed Milk, per can	5c	Prime Rib Roast, lb.	16c
Best Breakfast Cocoa, per can	18c	Choice Leg of Lamb, lb.	14c
Mason Jar Rubbers, doz.	3c	Choice Spring Broilers, lb.	20c
Strong Ammonia, bot.	4c	Best Sugar Cured Hams, lb.	10c
Large bottle assorted Pickles, bot	10c	Lean Breakfast Bacon, lb.	10c
Aspargus Tips, can	15c	Small Cal. Hams, lb.	7c
1 lb. can Corned Beef,	12c	Choice Salt Pork, lb.	9c
Pearl Tapioca, lb.	4c	Boiled Hams, lb.	25c
Cracker Dush, regular 10c lb	5c	Cooked Corned Beef, lb.	18c

DRINK

Scheuer's Premium Java Coffee, 27c lb.
Scheuer's Yum Yum Tea, 45c lb.

S. Scheuer & Co.

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE,
REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89
A. WILLETT & SON,
No. 107 Park Ave.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY.
127 B W. Front St.
I am ready to supply the public in general with
FRESH MILK AND CREAM.
Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES,
Dealers in
FURNITURE,
149-151 East Front St.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:-
HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz. Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz -	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum -	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline - -	5c	Tar Soap, large cake -	5c

"FRESH MEAT"

Is a much abused term. Very often it means nothing at all. When we use it it means a whole lot. Young, juicy, wholesome, delicious meat of every kind is the only kind we sell. If you want to feel perfectly safe and save money at the same time, come here.

FRED ENDRESS,
131-135 W. Front St. Branch 203 Liberty St.

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS,
181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.
FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

CITY MILLS.
P. M. FRENCH, OWNER.
24 Somerset St.
NEAR FRONT.
FEED, GRAIN AND HAY.
Not at cost, but very near it.
TELEPHONE NO. 24.

Doesn't take Much Money for MEDICINES
Here. That is not nearly so much as they cost in other places. Our prices are ALWAYS LOWER than everybody else's—while quality is better than in most stores—as good as the best in all. All drugs, medicines and toilet requisites are new and fresh.
TRY POWERS' SHERBET.
POWERS' PHARMACY,
Somerset street—Craig place.

CYCLISTS' CALENDAR.
Sun Rises 5:21 a. m.
Sun Sets 6:42 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be lighted at 7:42 p. m.

THE DAILY PRESS.

THE WEATHER.
Fair Tonight and Saturday; Cooler Saturday Morning. Thermometer, 85.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, AUGUST 26, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

DARKEY LAD STOLE JEWELS WORTH $200

A Few Squeezes on His Neck Made Him Confess.

GUARDED BY FARMHANDS.

THIEVING YOUNGSTERS WORKED ON THE HOLLY GROVE FARM.

George Washington Veta Was the Name of the Young Pilferer—He Had Been Left to Wash the Front Porch, But in the Absence of the Family He Ransacked the House.

A more delightful day could not have been asked for. Everyone this morning felt refreshed and invigorated and the world seemed brighter to them except poor little George Washington Veta. It wasn't a particularly happy day for him. There he sat in a corner of the barn, his woolly head clasped in his hands, a prisoner. His guards, six brawny farm hands, were grouped about in various positions of ease and precluded all possibility of escape.

The story of the fall of George Washington Veta is short but sufficiently exciting to please the most exacting. It began yesterday morning and this afternoon saw the opening of a new period in his career.

Two months ago there came a wandering little colored lad to Holly Grove Farm, the summer home of David M. Kellogg. Mr. Kellogg now spends much of his time at Holly Grove Farm, which is located on the Oak Tree road, near Holly's Corners.

The lad looked hungry and had such a pitiful expression that he was taken in and fed and afterwards fitted out in some old clothing. Since then the lad has been working about the barn and stables making himself useful in various ways. There was one trouble with him—he was woefully lazy. He was a stockily built lad of perhaps sixteen summers. George Washington Veta being rather long, he was called "Novel" for short and by that name he soon become known.

And now for the story of the temptation. Yesterday morning Novel was ordered to wash the front piazza of the house which stands far back from the road in a grove of trees. The family were away and Novel had it all to himself. The door was unlocked and Novel's curiosity led him inside. Then he wandered to the upper floor and prowled through the bedrooms. A pair of diamond cuff buttons caught his eye. They disappeared in his pocket. A gold watch and other little trinkets followed. Then he helped himself to various other articles that took his fancy. Their value in all amounted to about $200.

When the family returned at noon they missed some of the valuables that Novel had taken. There were signs that someone had been rummaging the place. It looked very much as if Novel was the guilty one.

David M. Kellogg, Jr., is a Yale man. He is spending his summer at home this year. When heard of Novel's raid, young Kellogg went out to the barn. Novel was working about there.

The first thing the colored boy knew was when the stalwart collegian grabbed him by the nape of the neck.

"What did you do with my cuff buttons?" demanded the young man, administering an admonitory squeeze to the neck of the dusky lad. Novel sputtered out something to the effect that he had not had time. Then the college man tightened his grip and the eyes of the light-fingered boy began to bulge out of their sockets. A little more pressure brought out a confession. Then young Kellogg demanded their present location. A few extra twists brought out the fact they were in the lad's pockets. Kellogg then went through them and found the missing articles which were immediately restored to the house.

It remained to be seen what was to be done with the prisoner and he remained under guard until this morning. He will not be prosecuted as the Kelloggs do not consider the offense worth the trouble it would make to the county and themselves. He is to be deported today, however, and will either be placed in some institution for just such characters or left somewhere where he will not not be likely to trouble Holly Grove Farm again.

After Big Game.

G. Harry Squires, of Arlington avenue, started yesterday on a fishing and hunting trip in the province of Quebec, Canada. He will be the guest of the Triton Club for two weeks, and with two Indian guides will penetrate as far as the famous Lake Moose for caribou and big trout.

—Use Press want ads for returns.

CUPID IN KIELY FAMILY.

MINNIE IS THE ONE WHOSE MARRIAGE IS NOW ANNOUNCED.

Her Husband is Elmer R. Mills of Summit Avenue—They Were Married by Rev. Mr. Anderson in Westfield.

Cupid has again been getting in his fine work in the family of John Kiely, of West Second street, whose daughter, Miss Mamie Kiely, was hurriedly married to a Charles Downs, of New London, Conn., by Justice of the Peace Christian Geiger, in Jersey City Tuesday night. This time it is another daughter, Minnie, who was won by Elmer R. Mills, of Summit avenue, and married by Rev. Mr. Anderson, of the Westfield Methodist church Aug. 10th.

The marriage has just been announced. It was the intention of the young couple to keep it secret for a short time, but in some way the fact leaked out, and they decided to announce their marriage to their friends, which was done last night.

The groom is a tinsmith, and has a large circle of friends. For the present the young couple are residing with Mr. Mills' brother on Summit avenue.

DIDN'T HAVE TO BE ARRESTED.

William Murphy Appeared Before Justice Mosher Without a Constable.

It was 9 o'clock Tuesday night, and Justice Mosher was about to ratire to rest, when there came a sharp rap on his front door. The Judge hurried to open it, and saw standing there a great burly man, dressed in the rough clothes of a railroad man.

"I hear there's a warrant out for my arrest," said the stranger, "and I've come to give myself up. My name is William Murphy."

Then the Judge remembered Tuesday night Mrs. Kate Murphy, of Stebbings place, came to the Justice with a complaint against her brother-in-law, William Murphy, who, she said, had struck her. The alleged offense occurred Saturday night. Mrs. Murphy said that she went across the street to visit her mother-in-law, and while she was there William came in and started to abuse her.

The complainant says that Murphy was in liquor, and ordered her out of the house. She refused to go, and then, Mrs. Murphy says, her relative gave her two or three hard blows on the side of the head.

Murphy pleaded not guilty when he had given himself up, and he was allowed to go on his own recognizance to appear before the court Saturday night. He is a brakeman on the Flemington branch of the Central Railroad, and says that Saturday night is the only night he can get away early enough to attend court.

DIVER STRUCK A STUMP.

While in Swimming a Dunellen Boy was Quite Badly Hurt.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 26.—John Gallagher, the young son of William Gallagher, was badly cut about the head Wednesday night while bathing in Greenbrook near the tanks. Gallagher dived into the water and struck a stump or a jagged stone, which cut two great gashes in the scalp, nearly encircling the head.

Although still conscious, Gallagher was almost beside himself with pain, but was assisted home by his comrades and physicians summoned. Dr. Nelson not being home, Dr. Brakeley came, and was obliged to take over a dozen stitches in the wounds. One wound was found to be on the top of the head, while the other was somewhat lower down. No serious results are anticipated.

Will Come to Plainfield to Trade

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, August 26.—The work on the extensions of the Brunswick Traction Company from Dunellen to Bound Brook is being pushed rapidly, and it is understood that the line will be in regular operation by September 10th. The people in this section are especially pleased to know that they will have frequent and direct trolley communication with Plainfield business houses.

To Preach on "The Holy Spirit."

Rev. W. J. Swaffield, pastor of the Summit Avenue Baptist church, Jersey City, will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. He has been secured especially for a sermon on the subject, "The Holy Spirit," and it is desired that members of all the churches attend this service.

Sale Postponed.

The sale of Dr. Ward's effects, which was to have been held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, has been postponed until Tuesday afternoon, September 6th, at the same hour.

—Go to Neuman Brothers tomorrow for fine peaches. They will have 150 baskets of them on sale.

BADGER GOES TO BOSTON.

MEMBERS OF THE CREW ARE DISAPPOINTED OVER THE ORDERS.

They Expected to be Taken to New York and be Discharged—Now That the War is Over they Want to Go Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

U. S. S. Badger, Fort Pond, Long Island, Aug. 25.—The Badger has just received orders to proceed to the Boston Navy Yard instead of the New York Navy Yard for repairs, and is to leave here as soon as the ship is discharged from quarantine. Of course, all hands are disappointed, as they expected to be taken to New York and discharged. The Badger will probably leave here today.

The Badger s run from Guantanamo was very fast and devoid of incident or storm.

The Badger sailed from the New York Navy Yard June 7th. She was assigned to patrol duty with the North Atlantic Squadron off the New England coast and patrolled the coast of Maine for nearly a month. She was then sent to Key West, then to the blockading squadron off Havana, and finally blockaded Nuevitas, where three prizes and 350 Spanish prisoners were captured. Later the Badger was sent to Guantanamo and was intended to be one of Commodore Watson's squadron for the Spanish coast. While at Guantanamo she was Watson's flagship.

GUESSED NAMES OF DISHES.

A Supper That Whetted the Brain as Well as the Palate.

Last night was a great night for the members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church in Washington Hall. It was decided to give a concert and a supper, and to have "Black Hattie," the Masons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias to sing and drill, but they didn't come. There were other attractions, however, that made up for those that were not there.

There was singing by a chorus of voices, under the direction of R. E. Randolph and Miss Alice Maynard. The conundrum supper was quite a success and required some keen guessing to learn what all the dishes were.

The committee in charge consisted of A. Venable, D. W. Brown, Charles Barbour, Oscar Green, Charles Sheldon, J. W. Reede, John Scott, S. Fields, S. J. Whindleton, W. Phillips, R. Yetman, W. Douglass, W. Jones, W. Burton, Henry Carter, W. and E. Brown, James Sanders, N. J. Poland, James Walker, Peter Gordon, R. Randolph and E. F. Maynard.

DELIGHT IN YACHTING.

Two Plainfield Boys Who Spend Most of Their Vacation on the Water.

Nathan E. Lewis, of West Eighth street, and Sydney R. Titsworth, of West Fifth street, are spending their summer at Watch Hill, R. I. Most of their time is spent on the waters of the Atlantic in their yacht. Both of the young men have become experts in the art of navigating their handsome little slope, which is known as one of the fastest of its kind in that neighborhood.

Besides sailing they have enjoyed the excellent fishing in that vicinity. Titsworth has captured the largest cod brought into that port this season and their records of various excursions to the fishing grounds are enough to make the hair of the landsman rise on end. Both of them are very darkly tanned and resemble the returning soldier boys of Shafter's army.

WAR OVER, BUSINESS PICKS UP.

Lincoln Steel Works Has Received an Order for 150,000 Bicycle Pedals.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, August 26—The Lincoln Steel Works has just received a contract for 150,000 bicycle pedals from a western firm—the result of the ending of the war. The work must be delivered by Feb. 1st. Orders have been placed for $10,000 worth of new machinery for the shops to meet the increased demands for the products. It is said that 200 new hands will soon be put to work in the shops.

In conversation with Mayor Drake yesterday he stated that two well-known New Jersey capitalists, whose names at present he was not at liberty to make public, had determined to erect twenty-five dwelling houses in Lincoln to accommodate the increased population which the industries are expected to bring here.

Chance to See the Battleships.

A good chance to see the battleships in the New York harbor will be afforded to people along the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey tomorrow and Sunday when the steamer St. Johns, of the Sandy Hook route, will leave the Jersey City station at 10:30 a. m. The steamer will run around the battleships, and also make a trip up the river as far as Grant's tomb.

WEAK HEART COULD NOT STAND THE HEAT.

Albert Darby Stricken Down While at Work in His Office.

WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY.

RESIDED ON GROVE STREET AND HAD A HOST OF FRIENDS.

Left Home Yesterday Morning in Apparently Good Health, But Succumbed to the Oppressive Air in His Office in the Afternoon—Remains Will Be Brought Home Tonight.

Among the many deaths that occurred yesterday in New York was one that deeply affects a North Plainfield home and a large circle of friends and relatives here and in Scotch Plains. Albert Darby, of 75 Grove street, was attacked with heart disease in his office at 101 Bleecker street, and before help could be summoned he had passed away. The remains will be brought home this evening, and buried Sunday.

Mr. Darby is a member of the firm of Harper, Hollingsworth & Darby, dealers in hatters' fur, with factories in Scotch Plains and Brooklyn.

Mr. Darby had been in poor health for several years past suffering with his heart, particularly so for the past year. He seemed to be as well as usual yesterday. He left home to go to business and no one thought but what he would return at the regular time at night.

One of the members of the firm, Mr. Hollingsworth, said that Mr. Darby attended to his duties all the morning. He complained of the heat a little, but didn't seem to be suffering any pain. In the afternoon he went out for a few minutes, but soon came back. Then came the first real complaint he had made during the day, and he sank into a chair, fanning himself vigorously.

In a few minutes the clerks who were in the room were startled by a faint noise. They ran to Mr. Darby, but found that death had come during those few minutes, and that he had expired. An ambulance was summoned, and the physician in attendance said that death was due to heart disease. A permit from the Coroner was obtained and the remains were moved to an undertaking establishment, where they will lie until tonight.

Mrs. Darby was not notified of the death of her husband till 9 o'clock last night. It was feared that the news would be too great a shock for her to stand to break it suddenly. The unpleasant duty was performed by Mr. Hollingsworth, a partner of the dead man. Mrs. Darby was nearly prostrated by the news.

Mr. Darby was born in Scotch Plains, and was in his sixty-fourth year. His family can be traced back to the first old settlers.

Mr. Darby was well known among the business men here. He was a member of Trinity Lodge of Masons, and although not a member, he was a constant attendant at the First Baptist church. He leaves a wife and mother, both of whom reside with him.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed. It will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, but it has not been decided where he will be buried.

HE DROVE TOO FAST.

A Colored Sport, With a Livery Rig, Paid $3 to Perth Amboy.

William Brown, a well-known colored man living on Plainfield avenue, went over to Florida Grove yesterday with a host of other colored people. He drove over in a buggy with a young woman by his side. They had one of Roberts' grey horses hitched to a red buggy.

After enjoying life at Florida Grove they drove over to Perth Amboy late in the afternoon. Brown had partaken too freely and started the horse on a gallop. He flew around corners, knocking several spokes out of a wheel, and wound up at the Perth Amboy jail. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly and with reckless driving.

He was tried before the City Judge in Perth Amboy and paid a fine of $3 for his fun.

Prizes for Bicycle Race.

The prizes for the bicycle race to be run at Boynton Beach on the occasion of the Grocers' Association on Labor Day are now on exhibition in the window of the store of C. C. Lister & Brother, North avenue. The entries for the race, which will be five miles on the road, will close with H. K. Lister next Tuesday.

—Press want ads bring results.

FOR SCIENTIFC BOOKS

THE NEW EXTENSION BUILT ON TO PUBLIC LIBRARY BUILDING.

It is Designed to Shelve as Many Books as Possible and at the Same Time Being Convenient of Access.

There has been remarkably little said about the addition to the Plainfield Public Library now in the course of erection, although it promises to be a worthy improvement and a valuable addition to the city's possessions. It will only be in the course of a comparatively few weeks before the new portion of the library will be ready, and then the books will begin their journey to their new quarters.

Every one remembers the generous offer of the late George L. Babcock to provide the volumes for a Babcock Scientific Library, if the city would build a suitable place to hold it. It was a part of his will and a suitable amount was set aside by the provisions of that will for the purpose mentioned. Now, a structure is almost completed that will be ready to hold 50,000 volumes.

While no one need be ashamed of the present library, it is not arranged after the modern ideas of library building and with an eye to use every available inch of space. The new addition, however, is drawn up on the most modern ideas and is very carefully arranged. The architect, Evarts Tracy, of this city, designed the building so as to utilize every bit of room and yet make every part easy of access.

There was not enough money to permit any elaborate decoration of the building so it was made absolutely simple, the efforts of the architect being turned to make it perfectly safe and fire-proof and as convenient as could be wished. The stacks which will hold the books will be made of metal. They will be placed in four rows on the ground floor. Above that will be two galleries where more stacks will be placed.

The Daily Press has already told of a notable test that was made of the floor in the builing. The place is fireproof in the strictest sense of the word, and Chief Doane, of the fire department, is confident that he will be able to handle any conflagration that may be started there. The door and window casings and a floor of boards laid over the cement are the only inflamatory things down stairs. The roof is built of very heavy beams which will burn for several hours before falling, which would give a chance to extinguish any flames before the roof should fail.

WANTS PLENTY OF DIMES.

Rev. Mr. Coster Anxious for a Big Silver Collection at Camp Meeting.

There was a fair attendance at the camp meeting last night. The prayer meeting was conducted by Henry Smith, of the Filmore Baptist church, and the sermon was preached by Rev. W. T. Carpenter, of Brooklyn. Rev. Henry Huff, of New Brunswick, sang a solo.

The pastor of St. Peter's church wishes to thank the kind and generous Christian public for their moral, Christian and financial aid. A silver collection will be raised Sunday at the suggestion of many prominent citizens, and if all who are expected to visit the camp ground Sunday will donate at least 10 cents, the pastor says that he will be enabled to pay all the expenses of the camp meeting and all the floating debts of his church.

Bitten By a Dog.

John Stilger, of Dunellen, an employe of Moore & Scheelein, North avenue butchers, was bitten by a dog yesterday noon while walking along Jackson avenue. He was out taking orders and was going from his wagon to a neighboring house when the dog rushed out and seized Stilger by the calf of the leg. The bite was a severe one and was dressed by a physician.

Himself the Fish.

Robert Davis, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A., met with a painful accident while on his vacation a week ago. He was at Liberty, N. Y., and was fishing for trout in one of the streams. In making a cast the hook was caught in one of his fingers and was driven so far in that a physician had to cut away the flesh to release the hook.

Good Meeting at Reform Club.

The Reform Club held one of their good meetings last night. There was a good attendance, and addresses were made by Rev. Mr. McKane, Benjamin Hand and John T. Sayers. There were no signers to the pledge

The Last Excursion.

The last chance to spend the day at Asbury Park and enjoy all its varied delights is offered by the excursion of the First Baptist church to the seashore Tuesday. The train will leave this city at 8 o'clock.

THE TINGLEYS GOOD TIME

BIG FAMILY REUNION ON BROAD ACRES OF A NEW MARKET FARM.

It was the Eighth Annual Gathering of the Family, and 250 Enjoyed the Festivities—Genial "Uncle John" There.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

New Market, August 26.—There was a veritable round-up of the Tingleys on the broad acres of David Blackford's farm yesterday, the occasion being the eighth annual reunion of the Tingley family. It was a trifle hot in the sun, but under the cooling shade of the trees the members of the family who attended were otherwise blessed with pleasant weather for the joyous occasion.

The head of the families with their various descendants commenced to gather at the Blackford farm as early as 9 o'clock in the morning, and from that time up till noon they were coming in a constant stream until 250 had assembled to enjoy the festivities of the day.

David Blackford—himself a direct descendant of the original Tingleys—had made every preparation for the pleasure of those who attended the reunion. Tables and seats had been erected for the occasion, and supplied with monster lunch baskets, filled with all kinds of holiday edibles, the Tingleys set down for dinner shortly after noon. "Uncle John," of Dunellen, was everywhere and attended to the wants of young and old, little and big, with a genial nature that added much to the happy occasion.

Guttman's band, of Plainfield, discoursed enlivening music for the occasion. There was no special exercises and not one speech was made. The time was spent on the part of the older ones in renewing friendships and indulging in reminisences of a family nature while the younger ones indulged in games and other pastimes to while away the day into pleasant memories.

When the first reunion was held eight years ago there were ten of the original Tingleys from one family, but since then five of them have passed over the great divide—two in the last year—and now the remaining ones are: "Uncle John," of Dunellen; Ebenezer, of Roycefield; Mary E. Smith, of Illinois; David, of Brooklyn; and Hester Blackford, on whose son's farm the reunion was celebrated.

WORK ON THE STREETS.

Street Commissioner Gavett, Back From His Vacation, Full of Push.

Now that Street Commissioner Gavett is home again, work will be pushed on the streets that are undergoing repairs. Another course of inch stone will be spread on Watchung avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets. As the street is now, it does not show the work that has been done on it, and Mr. Gavett does not want it to be thought that he intends to leave the street this way.

John Darling, of Prospect avenue, who owns quite a little property on that street between Park avenue and Cedar brook, has curbed and flagged his property, and he and other residents are anxious to have that part of Prospect avenue macadamized. Westervelt avenue, when the workmen get back to it, will be macadamized from curb to curb, just as Sandford avenue has been done.

An Invitation Picnic.

The picnic committee of the Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men added another success to their already long list last evening. The invitation picnic of the tribe at the Mountainside Grove proved a great success, financially and otherwise. There were over four hundred guests present and the evening passed by very pleasantly. The same committee which has been in charge of the events of the same character in the past was in command last night. The guests were thankful to Superintendent Adleman of the Street Railway Company for his kindness in running cars on that branch until all were brought home.

A Pleasant Surprise.

A delighttul affair was the surprise party given to John Butscher, a student at St. Charles College, Maryland, at 451 West Fourth street, Wednesday evening. The surprise was complete and the merry party burst in upon Mr. Butscher without the slightest warning. The evening passed pleasantly. The guests included several members of the College Glee Club, of South Orange, as well as local talent of note. The other guests were from Plainfield, Bayonne, Junction and Brooklyn.

Repudiate the Baking.

The managers of the citizens' clambake that was held at Mountainside Grove, wish to state that George Frazee was not at the clambake as guest or assistant in any capacity and they wish to repudiate the reflection thrown on the affair by the statement made by him in city court.

ROESEL'S NECK CAME NEAR BEING STRETCHED

The Convicted Murderer Was in Shadow of the Gallows.

QUESTION ABOUT THE STAY.

SHERIFF KIRK WAS ORDERED TO PROCEED WITH THE EXECUTION.

It Was Thought at First That The Stay, Granted After Sentence Had Been Imposed, Would Not Prevent the Hanging, but Roesel's Lawyers Hustled and Got a Definite Opinion.

Today was the day that was fixed for the execution of Louis Roesel for the murder of Farmer James C. Pitts, but it has been determined that the writ of error secured by his counsel following the sentence operates as a stay, and the execution of the judgment cannot take place until November.

Roesel does not know that despite the assurance given him there was a day or two this week when it seemed to the authorities that it would become the duty of the Sheriff, under direction of the court, to disregard the writ and go on with the execution today.

Prosecutor English received instructions from Judge VanSyckel to notify the clerk of the County Court not to make a return of the writ of error secured by Roesel's counsel, as it does not act as a stay to prevent the execution of the prisoner. The clerk was directed to notify the Sheriff of this order of the court.

Sheriff Kirk, acting under the assumption that the Chancellor's writ was a stay of judgment, had not proceeded with the preparations for the hanging, and this order from Judge VanSyckel came as a great surprise. His duty was to follow the Court's direction, and he at once took steps toward getting in readiness the details for Roesel's execution.

On receiving notice of Judge Van Syckel's orders to the Sheriff, the counsel for Roesel, Messrs. Frank Bergen and Edward Nugent, took measures to prevent the execution. They insisted that the writ did act as a stay, and Mr. Bergen warned the Sheriff against proceeding. To still further guard Roesel, Mr. Bergen telegraphed to Chancellor McGill, who had issued the writ of error. There was an exciting time in locating the Chancellor, and the telegraph wire was literally kept hot for a while with the exchange of messages. The Chancellor was finally communicated with at Englewood. He pronounced the writ as being operative as a stay, but arranged with Mr. Bergen, if necessary by the insistment of Judge Van Syckel, to consider an application for another writ. This application was to have been made yesterday afternoon.

In the meantime, Prosecutor English had a conference with Judge VanSyckel at Mantoloking. Governor Voorhees was also informed of the situation, and it is believed that he would have granted a reprieve for Roesel if the order of the court had been insisted upon and no further stay could have been secured from the Chancellor.

Before the application could be made to Chancellor McGill yesterday afternoon, however, a telegram was received from Judge VanSyckel, instructing Sheriff Kirk that the writ of error might be considered as a stay. This was served on Sheriff Kirk this morning and he was directed not to proceed with the execution.

The decision of Judge VanSyckel in reference to the stay is under the new crimes act. Previously it was required that such a writ should be delivered in open court, and by the Judge formally ordered returned. The new law does not require this proceeding.

Judge VanSyckel has also appointed September 26th as the date for the argument on the writ.

A SATURDAY SPECIAL.

Some Attractive Bargains Which Woodhull & Martin Offer.

Woodhull & Martin are out again with a Saturday special. Among some of the bargains they offer are a quantity of 36 inch percales, splendid cloth and choice styles. This is a chance of a lifetime. Their fall dress goods are now arriving, and they can show something handsome in brilliantines, sicilians and serges.

This firm also caters to gentlemen buyers, and their stock of gentlemen's furnishings is complete. The new neckwear is in, and if you are particular about your neckwear, visit this store. Then a look in the basement will not hurt you. You may see something there that will suit you, both in price and quality, especially if you are a housekeeper.

CAMP THOMAS SCANDAL

Patients Suffering With Typhoid Fever Die on the Bare Ground.

PROMPT ACTION IS NEEDED

Convalescents Sent Out So Weak That Several Have Died While Waiting for Trains to Take Them Home. Supplies Short. A Ghastly Story of Cruel and Inhumane Treatment.

Camp Thomas, Chickamauga Park, Aug. 26.—The condition of the hospitals at Camp Thomas is deplorable. General Breckinridge will insist upon a congressional investigation and the inquiry may result n one of the greatest scandals in the history of the army. The head officials have shown themselves grossly incompetent and ignorant of the management of the Chickamauga hospitals and scores of deaths have resulted from such incompetency. Supplies are wanting, men are cruelly and inhumanely treated and the hospitals reek in filth. The nurses are few and inexperienced and many surgeons are ignorant of their work.

It is an actual fact that hundreds of patients in the New York regiments are this morning lying on the ground suffering with typhoid. They are without cots and receive no attention. A surgeon comes around once in a great while to look at the sufferers. He may then make a requisition for some cots, ice, etc., and perhaps in three or four days the supplies will come and perhaps they will not. In the meantime some of the poor fellows succumb to the illness. If all the facts were known, the country would, indeed, be shocked.

When the First Illinois cavalry was ordered to leave the mountain there were about twenty-six men in their little hospital, where one died late Sunday afternoon. One of the twenty men, who was desperately ill, was nevertheless ordered to dress himself and be ready to move. He protested and one kindly young physician remonstrated, but those in charge were obdurate, and the sick man, too feeble to lift himself, after two unsuccessful attempts to rise from his bed, was placed again on his poor cot, where within a few hours he died. This is only one individual instance.

The bodies of the soldiers, so the undertakers say, are being operated upon in the interest of science. The skull of one body which a correspondent saw had been split, the brain removed and the head stuffed with the coarsest of hay.

Hundreds of weak and emaciated convalescents are sent to the city to take trains for home. They lie all day long on the depot floors, too weak to rise. They are without food or attention, unless some kindly passerby gives aid. Several of them have died while waiting for trains.

Not half has been told of the hospital horrors at Chickamauga. These are facts gathered from personal observation and knowledge.

Camp Thomas is fast breaking up. The park is to be placed in a better sanitary condition. The chief quartermaster was yesterday directed to expend $60,000 in ditching and draining the park properly. This work has already been commenced. General H. H. Boynton is at Chickamauga and General Breckinridge is preparing to relinquish his command to him on next Monday.

About half of the Eighth New York regiment men are sick. The officers and men are crying aloud to be released from service and sent home.

Hazleton Strike Ended.

Hazleton, Pa., Aug. 26.—The seven hundred coal miners and laborers employed in the Audenried and Honeybrook strippings of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company, who went on strike Wednesday, returned to work yesterday. All is quiet at the mines, and no further trouble is expected.

The men struck because of what they claimed to be the unjust discharge of two Hungarian laborers. It looked for a time as though the strike would be a repetition of last year's bitter struggle, which ended in the killing of a number of strikers by sheriff's deputies, but the prompt and decisive action of Superintendent Richards in posting a notice that if the men were not at work yesterday morning the mines would be shut down for the rest of the year, produced a wholesome effect on the strikers. They claim that the two discharged men will be reinstated.

Volunteer Disbandment.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Orders were issued yesterday to muster out the following:

Fourth Pennsylvania infantry, Sixth Illinois infantry, Second Wisconsin infantry, three Louisiana light batteries, two Rhode Island light batteries, two Iowa light batteries, two Oregon light batteries, First Wisconsin light battery, two troops of Kentucky cavalry, Light Battery A, Missouri artillery; Twenty-seventh light battery of Indiana artillery, and light batteries A, B and C of Pennsylvania. Where the troops mustered out are designated, they include all of that particular arm of the service from the states named.

Troops Ordered Home.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Orders have been received directing General Miles to send home from Porto Rico all troops not actually needed for service there. No point has been designated yet for their disembarkation in the United States, but an examination of several sites is in progress. It is desired to secure a healthful camp, and at the same time one where disembarkation can take place at once without any delay, such as occurred at Montauk.

It is expected that some of the troops to be sent home will sail to-day or to-morrow. The first arrivals will be landed in New York city.

Called on Admiral Cervera.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 26.—Cardinal Gibbons arrived here yesterday morning from Baltimore, and called on Admiral Cervera, with whom he remained for over an hour. He afterward went to St. Mary's church, where he dined.

ALGER INSPECTS CAMP WIKOFF.

He Makes Many Suggestions but Makes No Change in Conduct.

Montauk Point, Aug. 26.—Secretary of War Alger, accompanied by General Wheeler, continues his inspection of Camp Wikoff. He has visited most of the regimental quarters, spent much time in conversation with the men, had many suggestions to make in passing, concerning matters of detail, but apparently saw no need for a change in the policy or conduct of any department. It is expected that he will remain here for several days. He has taken up his quarters with General Wheeler and seems to have settled down.

"I am very favorably impressed with the location of the camp," he said to a reporter this morning. "It is easy enough of access, and it has a bracing atmosphere and good water. I find that its condition is growing better every day and I am persuaded that within a short time there will be no further cause for complaint. Undoubtedly there has been confusion and therefore great discomfort, but that is due to the haste with which the preparations were made. The army had to be moved from Santiago without waiting for perfection in the detail of the provisions for its reception here. There was confusion, as a matter of course, and complainings as a matter of course, too. It seems to me that the general conditions are good and that the progress has been satisfactory."

The secretary was very guarded in what he had to say about the sanitary condition of the camp. It was evident from his tone that the little things he had seen here and there had grated on his sense of cleanliness. He had suggestions to make under this head, and with reference to the improvement of the drainage system. "They are getting along pretty well" was his comment on the condition of the general hospital.

Secretary Alger, continuing, said that the volunteers would be mustered out beginning to-day, but he was not sure what regiment would be the first discharged. When this news got abroad there was great joy in the volunteer quarters.

Yesterday he gave directions that two thousand quarts of milk should be distributed through the camp daily.

The transport Mohawk arrived last night with 1,199 men of the Eighth Ohio volunteers. There were 130 sick aboard and 92 sick had been left in the hospitals at Santiago. One man, Eddy by name, died on the voyage over. The troops are being landed to-day.

There are 1,122 sick in the hospitals of whom two hundred are typhoid patients. There is room for but a few more. Dr. Brown said that 150 men were ready to leave in order to make room for others who are in greater need of good care.

The postal arrangements are in good working order. The receipts amount to nearly 20,000 letters daily, and they are called for by regimental orderlies and distributed to the men regularly. The mail that has been lying at Tampa is beginning to arrive; and the Santiago mail is coming in on the transports. The men are receiving month old letters, some of them registered. Telegrams sent to Montauk station are not delivered. There are two hundred or more, clearly addressed, on the station agent's desk, waiting to be called for. They should have been addressed to Camp Wikoff.

Lieutenant Tiffany Dead.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—Lieutenant "Willie" Tiffany of New York, son of the well known jeweler, and famous for his service throughout the Santiago campaign with Colonel Roosevelt's Rough Riders, died at the Parker house last evening at five minutes after six o'clock.

Lieutenant Tiffany was seized with fever in Cuba after Santiago's surrender. When the Rough Riders sailed for Montauk he was left in the hospital but later came north on the Olivette, accompanied by the brother of his fiancee and his own brother, Mr. Belmont Tiffany.

He landed in Boston on Tuesday. He was on the convalescent list, and was consequently allowed to choose his own lodgings while the more seriously ill and wounded were sent to the hospitals.

He became worse yesterday morning and passed quietly away shortly after six o'clock last night.

Wheat Supply is Small.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Never in the history of the country have the available supplies of wheat been reduced to such small proportions as they reached this week. To-day there are less than 6,000,000 bushels of wheat in the public elevators of the country, which, in the opinion of the trade, means that stocks are practically exhausted. Of this amount nearly one-half is located at Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago, with the rest scattered around at seaboard points and in the interior. Some of it is afloat on the lakes, "on passage," as it is called. Last year at this time the stocks available amounted to 16,750,000 bushels, and in the middle of August, 1896, they aggregated 45,000,000 bushels.

There is, however, an enormous product of 1898 wheat which will soon be on the market, about 700,000,000 bushels it is estimated.

Going to Manila.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Admiral Dewey's squadron at Manila is to be reinforced. At least three or four of the crack vessels of the North Atlantic fleet are to be sent to Manila in the near future. They will go by the way of the Suez canal and will reach Asiatic waters in the early fall.

The detail for this new eastern squadron has not yet been completed, but it is known that the battleship Oregon, the fast cruisers New York and Brooklyn and probably the battleship Indiana are to be overhauled and put in shape for the trip.

It is semi-officially admitted that the Oregon is sure to go, and that very probably the other three vessels mentioned will accompany her.

Big Meat Supply for Manila.

Brisbane Queensland, Aug. 26.—Three thousand tons of Brisbane frozen meat, valued at 61,500 pounds, has been shipped from here to Manila on board the steamships Urmston Grange and Duke of Sutherland.

GRAVE ENGLISH CRISIS

Lord Salisbury Submits an Ultimatum to the Queen

EASTERN PROBLEM VEXES

The Queens Veto on Hostilities Must Be Removed if the Prime Minister Continues in Office. Rumors Current in London. Definite Proposals Made to Russia by the Ministry.

London, Aug. 26.—Information of the gravest kind is current in circles close in touch with official life. There is no means of confirming this information in official quarters, but it is beyond all doubt that the ministers have taken advantages of their release from parliamentary heckling to make a momentous series of decisions.

The statements are of the most positive and unhesitating character. They are first, that before Lord Salisbury left for the south of France he sought an audience with her majesty the queen at sborne, and plainly told her he could not carry on the foreign affairs in the present critical state of the relations with Russia unless she withdrew her frequently expressed veto upon the prosecution of diplomacy to the point of war during her lifetime. Imperative interests of state must, so Salisbury held, prevail, however painful would be even the danger of hostilities between her majesty and members of her family abroad.

Lord Salisbury went further and declared that he must resign unless her veto was withdrawn and he was given an absolutely free hand.

The queen's answer may be judged from the complete volte face of the ministry. They immediately proceeded to change their entire attitude towards Russia. They decided to abandon the policy now so obviously futile of an open door and equal opportunities in all parts of China, as guaranteed by the treaty of Tentsin, and proceeded to adopt the policy which Mr. Curzon himself long ago advocated in his book, "Problems of the Far East," as alone feasible, namely, the policy of spheres of influence.

The ministry then proceeded to make definite proposals to Russia about ten days ago on this basis, Russia being given an absolutely free hand in Manchuria in return for her formal recognition in the same instrument of British paramountcy in the Yang-tse-Kiang valley, that recognition being accompanied by guarantees of its permanency.

What these guarantees are is not known, but it is over them that the hitch has now arisen. England refuses to accept a mere formal recognition, and has finally intimated to Mouravieff, through Sir Charles Scott, the British minister at St. Petersburg, that a satisfactory answer must be forthcoming by Saturday.

In effect this is an ultimatum to Russia, and Mr. Balfour's special visit to the queen at Osborne on Saturday is associated with this final step, he having taken over the foreign office during Salisbury's absence—an absence which it was thought would make a vital departure in the ritish policy more easy of accomplishment.

The government has, moreover, set afoot preparations for a formidable demonstration by a British fleet in Chinese waters, if Russia fails to give the required assurances by Saturday. The commander-in-chief at Hong Kong has received contingent instructions to despatch to Honkow a portion of the British fleet. Moreover, H. M. S. Powerful, which was previously ordered to Java, has been detained on the China station, and the refit of H. M. S. Barfleur has been postponed.

Associated with these naval movements in the Far East is the unostentatious formation of a new squadron in home waters and the Bristol channel, where they are now assembling ostensibly on the invitation of the British Association.

$300,000,000 Well Spent.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 26.—Senator Mark Hanna, who is staying here for a day or two, says that the United States will soon control most of the islands recently held by Spain. He said:

"It makes little difference now whether the insurgents in Cuba can maintain a stable government. In less than 20 years the United States will practically own the island. It will not require 50,000 men to hold Cuba, but we will get good returns for our investment. We have spent $300,000,000 and we spent it well. We have done ourselves a good turn while enhancing the cause of humanity. It makes little difference whether Cuba is ceded to us or not. We shall control Cuba and part of the Philippine islands, and we are now on the eve of a new era of prosperity."

Gen. Shafter Starts for Home.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 25.—General Shafter formally relinquished the command of the department of Santiago de Cuba to General Lawton this evening, and boarded the steamer Mexico with the members of his staff. He expects to sail for the United States to-morrow morning.

Gen. Toral and his staff called upon Gen. Shafter this afternoon to bid him adieu. The Spanish officer thanked the general for the courteous treatmnt accordd him since the surrender and for the kindness that had been shown to all the Spanish prisoners. He wished General Shafter a pleasant trip home.

Spanish Prisoners Discharged.

New York, Aug. 26.—Captain Emilio Ortirbo, chief of Supercargo Esteban Goitra, Chief Engineer Jose Martin and Cook Bartoleme Cabre, of the Spanish war tug Humberto Rodrigg, which was captured in the harbor of Santiago on July 21, who have been prisoners in the Ludlow street jail since the vessel was brought to this port for disposal by the prize commissioner, were discharged yesterday by Commissioner Alexander.

New Jersey's Greatest Store.

HAHNE & CO. NEWARK, N.J.

AUGUST BARGAINS.

These great bargains are such as we can give only in August and such as no other store in or out of New Jersey can offer.

Don't wait for announcements in newspapers, but come in and enjoy countless rounds of pleasant surprises. The list includes almost everything, from a Hassock to a Parlor Suit, from a Pin to a Bonnet and a Shirt Waist to a Suit.

WE shall close our store evenings at 6 p. m. and on Saturdays at 12 noon, beginning July 8.

FREE deliveries at all New Jersey railroad stations. No extra charge for packing.

Hahne & Co., Newark, N.J.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey

Families accomodated for the Spring and Summer months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.
GEO. B. DE REVERE

F. A. DUNHAM,
—CIVIL ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR.—
109 Park Ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87 F

Shoes for Spring.

You'll be buying a new pair of shoes soon. Where are you going to buy them?

The shoe store you want to patronize is the store that gives you the most style, comfort, elegance and durability for the money.

If you'll "shop around" before you buy you'll find that this is the store you're looking for.

Flynn Bros.,
222 West Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

Who? Who? Who?

says the Owl.

Who sells the best Wall Paper?
Who sells the most Wall Paper?
Who has the largest stock of Wall Paper?

Says the Public:

MARSH, AYERS & Co.,

of course.

The Owl is the symbol of wisdom—a fit symbol is it, therefore, to head an advertisement that will convey to you the wisdom of buying your Wall Paper of us.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, etc. 201 Park avenue, cor. E. Second street.

RUSHTON & HANSEN,
Painters and Paper Hangers,
Office and Shop Sycamore and Fourth Streets

Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

NOTICE
to all interested in
Up-to-date Laundry Work.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular.

We also have just completed arrangements for doing family washing in a satisfactory manner by the dozen or week. Please call at office for further information.

City Steam and Hand Laundry,
Morey & LaRue, Proprietors,
19 Somerset St.,
Tel. No. 751. Plainfield, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
110 East Front St.,
Plainfield, N. J

A. LUSARDI,
120 NORTH AVENUE.
Wholesale and Retail
Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds, of Confectionery, Peanuts' Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

COLLIER,
SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN.
Established 1869.
103 Park Avenue

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 E. Fifth St.
Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters.
STEAM and HOT WATER SANITARY PLUMBING.
TELEPHONE 212 A.

AT THE
Golden Rule Bakery,
110 SOMERSET ST., COR. MANNING AVE.,
You will find a full line of Bread, Cakes, Pies and Confectionery. Telephone Call 220 F.
ICE CREAM.
Sunday orders delivered.
J. J. STAHL, Proprietor.

F. A. LONG,
No. 108 SOMERSET ST.
Near Manning Avenue.
Up-to-Date Cash Grocery Store
Orders called for and delivered in any part of City or Dunellen.

Your Valuables,
will be safe in
Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.
Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

HARRY S. POTTER,
Dealer In
LEHIGH VALLEY COAL.
Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard, at Mt. Pleasant Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1y

MRS. L. ADAMS,
MILLINERY and DRESSMAKING
Parlors. Imported and Domestic Millinery, styles the latest. Hats and Bonnets trimmed to order a specialty. Ladies' own material used. All work strictly first-class.
114 EAST FRONT STREET.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new Barber Shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
Is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD,

L. A. HUMMER'S
VARIETY MARKET.
Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Poultry, Eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.
220 Park Ave. Telephone Call, 29 A.

McCullough's STEAM MILL.
21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.
R. H. McCullough, Prop
Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished

Our 14th Annual Clothing Sale,

for July and August has commenced, and for the next two months we will sell all of our summer stock at just ½ price. It will pay you to call and get our prices before purchasing elswhere.

Men's and Boys' Suits, Bicycle Suits, Extra Bicycle Pants, Hats and Gents' Furnishing Goods

must be closed out, as we carry nothing over. We have about 100 pairs of those English Tweed pants left, which we still sell at the low figure of 98c the pair, so if you need pants, now is the time to catch on. All goods sold as advertised.

Werner's Clothing House,
206 West Front Street.

MANTELS $4.00 AND UP.
AT THE Fire-Place Store,
CURTIS M. THORPE,
310-312 Park Avenue.

STRAW HATS,
Fine Summer Underwear. Also Scotch Cheviot and Madras Shirts, fast colors, at
JAMES R. BLAIR'S,
126 Park Avenue.

$1.25 NOW
REDUCED FROM $1.75.
Misses' Chocolate Lace Shoes with Vesting Tops. Sizes 13 to 2 only.
SHERWIN'S, 149 West Front St.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap.
is the order to lay in a heap.
is the atmosphere warmed by its glow.
is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

ORDER YOUR BREAKFAST AT ROGER'S.
232 West Second St. First Delivery 5 a. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
VanEMBURGH & SON
OPEN A NEW DEPARTMENT.

10 qt. Galvanized Pail	15c	Round Globe Fancy Parlor Lamps	57
10 qt. Granite Dish Pan	25c	Japanese Dust Pans	5c
33 qt. Wash Boiler	25c	Galvanized Dust Pans	10c
10 qt. Dish Pan	10c	Crumb Trays	10c
Zinc Wash Boards	10c	Long Handle Fire Shovels	5c
Painted Chamber Pails	19c	Chopping Bowls	10c
3 Brass Hoop Cedar Pails	25c	Angel Cake Pans	5c
Large Combination Dinner Pails	20c	Perforated Pie Plates	3c-4c
Knife Boxes	10c	Glass Lamps Complete	19c
Large Enameled Tea Pots	25c	Sink Drainers	12c
1 lb. Roll Toilet Paper	10c	Feather Dusters	10c

IN OUR VERY LIGHT BASEMENT.
Babcock Building. Corner Store. Plainfield, N. J.

We Insure Your Shirts.

We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods" Let us call for your work.

Hillier & Co.,
179 North Avenue.
Telephone 30 M.

M. POWERS
Dealer in Superior Quality Lehigh and Wyoming Coal.
MIXED COAL, $4.75.
Yard 725 to 737 South Ave. Office 171 North Ave., opposite R. R. Station.
Telephone 67 A

CHARLES L. STANLEY,
142 North Ave., headquarters for
Choice Cut Flowers and Palms and Ferns.
FLORAL DESIGNS.
Decorations for all occasions. Greenhouses at Netherwood, near depot.

NEUMAN BROS.,
HIGH-GRADE GROCERS
Choice Teas and Coffees.

RUSHMORE & CO.,
WATCHUNG AVE. and FOURTH ST.
Dealers in
Lumber, Coal and Wood
Moulding & Planing Mill.
Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Elston M. French & Co.
163 NORTH AVENUE
(Succeeding VanBuren Bros.)
Real Estate and Insurance.
Largest agency in the city. Loans negotiate

THE
Metropolitan Boarding Stables
C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - Proprietor.
No. 138 East Second Street.
Livery, Boarding and Sale Stables
Horses boarded by the day, week, month or year. Reasonable prices.
TELEPHONE 214 F. 17

STORAGE OF FURS.
Special attention is directed to our exceptional facilities for storing furs and fur lined garments, fur rugs, etc., in our new store, 308 West Front street, and the insuring of same against damage by moths, fire or burglary, at very low prices. Now is the time to have your furs repaired, altered and redyed. Summer prices prevail. Estimates cheerfully given.
H. KOHN, 308 West Front Street.

KENT & SON, PIANOS.
$125 A HIGH GRADE PIANO DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.
30 DAYS FREE TRIAL.
GUARANTEED FOR TEN YEARS. Do not pay fancy prices for your pianos. Write us. Send for catalogue. KENT & SON, 49 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Honest Values will Sell Honest Goods."

BOEHM'S.

109, 111, 113 W. Front St.

Better goods for less money than anywhere else.

A great week for almost anything you want. Closing out all our summer goods regardless of cost.

Hosiery chances.—Ladies' black hose, the regular 9c kind, for this sale 4 pairs for 25c. Misses' derby ribbed hose, full seamless, sizes 5 to 9½, for this sale at 10c pair. Men's full fashioned half hose in natural mixtures, tans and blacks, the 15c grade, for this sale 10c pair.

Special—Yard wide fancy percales, while the lot lasts, at 3½c yard.

Muslins.—The kind of bleached muslin you usually pay 6c for, for this sale at 4½c yard. Extra good quality bleached muslin, yard wide, for this sale 5c yard. Unbleached sheeting muslin, yard wide, as good as any at 6c yard, for this sale 4c yard.

Waists for warm weather.—A fortunate purchase places us in a position to offer a beautiful lot of fancy colored waists, lace trimmed, at the astonishing low price of 49c. They are bargains at 75c.

Wash fabric prices collapse.—Lawns, madras suitings, swiss effects, a collection of beautiful designs and charming colors to go at the pigmy price of 5c yard.

BOEHM'S.

TRY

J. F. MACDONALD'S

TEA FROM 20c. TO 35c. per lb.

COFFEES.—Our 15c. is continuing to make friends, and our 20c. in the grain has no equal.

Guaranteed to equal 50c and 60c goods or money refunded.

Send or call for samples—we are pleased to give them.

Telephone 49 B. 186 East Front Street.

-:-COFFEE-:-

FRESHER than you and I.
Best that grows.
From 10 cents up.

GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW,
PARK AVENUE GROCER.

McDonough Bros.,
-COAL AND ICE-
222 MADISON AVE. Telephone 225 I.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p. m.
L. B. Bromfield, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores 991 year

A. A. MARSH & SON,
PRACTICAL
Painters and Decorators.
—DON'T FORGET THE PLACE—
965 WEST FRONT ST.
All orders sent to us will receive prompt attention.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED.
Give us a call. Respectfully yours.
A. A. MARSH. E. MARSH.
MARSH & SON.

—NEW YORK—
& Elizabeth Despatch
STODDARD'S EXPRESS
have opened an express line between PLAINFIELD, NEWARK and NEW YORK. Office in Plainfield at
161 North Ave.
Goods forwarded by direct line to all parts of the world.

CHAS. EDW. BICKNELL,
wholesale and retail dealer in
California and Domestic Fruits, Confectionary, Nuts, Ice Cream, Soda, etc.
47 Somerset St.
"On the Bridge."

William Hand & Son,
STAGES
For Parties, etc. 518 Park avenue.

Summer Stoves,
burning Gasoline and Oil, have been greatly improved—we have the latest productions.
Baldwin Refrigerators are the best made.
Pratts Deodorized Gasoline.
A. M. Griffen,
119 EAST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

HENRY LIEFKE,
201-203 West Front St.
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
Try my New England and Home Made Bread. Vienna Bread a specialty. Goods delivered to all parts of the city.

TENEYCK & HARRIS,
Dealers in all the best kinds of cleaned and wel screened Lehigh Valley
COAL
Office 121 Watchung ave., near 2d st.
Telephone No. 15 F. South Plainfield, L. V. Station.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vin st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vines
All work promptly attended to.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now bear on every the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "CASTORIA" which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years.

LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought on the and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company, of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 24, 1898. Samuel Pitcher M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE SIGNATURE OF
Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

BETTER GOODS FOR LESS MONEY THAN ANYWHERE ELSE.

Mullins

218-220 MARKET ST., NEWARK.

Homes Furnished for $1 a Week.

One Visit And you'll think same as thousands of others—The Greatest Furniture and Carpet House in the State. Come look at the goods and get our prices. That's all we ask.

$12.
Solid Oak Sideboards, French plate beveled mirror, handsomely carved, at $12.

If you don't like this there are 100 other styles to choose from—$7.50 to $75.00.

$2.50
LARGE REED ROCKERS
$2.50

$4.98.
Buys a Solid Oak Extension Table, well made, nicely carved and finely finished. A grand opportunity this week to refurnish your dining room.

100 Folding Beds at greatly reduced prices.
Folding Beds at....$10
Folding Beds at.... 16
Folding Beds at.... 22

$6.75.
This solid oak 5-drawer Chiffoniere, well made and finely finished, only $6.75. Other styles from $3.25 up.

SPECIAL—100 New Solid Oak CHAMBER SUITS from $10.00 to $250. All new designs.

Easy Terms of Credit if Desired.

Elevators to Every Floor.

MULLINS & SONS.
218-220 Market St., Newark.
Branch Houses 78-84 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J., 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

FAMOUS Kranich & Bach PIANOS and other well-known reliable makes at lowest prices on easy payments at MENZEL'S, 322 West Front St.
All latest copyright SHEET MUSIC AT ½ PRICE. Get a catalogue of McKinley 10c. edition. The finest and most up-to-date edition in the world. tu-

E. E. BROWN'S MEAT MARKET
cor. PARK AVE. and SECOND ST.
Choice Meats
of all kinds.
GAME
in seasons. Goods delivered in all parts of the city and borough.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Built

HAWAIIAN BOARD ARRIVES.

Our Commission Reaches Honolulu and All the Members Qualify.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—The steamship Moana arrived here yesterday from Australian ports, via Honolulu. An Associated Press correspondent writes from Honolulu under date of August 18, as follows:

The congressional members of a committee to report on a form of government for the territory of Hawaii arrived August 17, on the Mariposa. The three commissioners met Mr. Dole and his cabinet at the executive building by appointment. The compliments of the president and his colleagues had been sent to the United States senators and the representative earlier in the day.

To-day the commission met at the home of Justice Frear to qualify as members by taking an oath. As soon as the members were regularly listed the commission proceeded to elect a secretary, a stenographer and a sergeant-at-arms. Senator Cullom is chairman. The men for the clerical positions and sergeant-at-arms have been brought from Washington. As soon as the formalities were finished the four other members of the commission adjourned to the hall of the house, the old throne room in the executive building, and there held the opening business session.

This week the commission will visit the island of Hawaii. They will be on the big island six or seven days. The commission will later make trips to Maui and Kaui and may also visit Molokai.

Senator Cullom said that the sessions will be private excepting when there are hearings. The senator gave the impression that hearings would be granted to all having any reasonable claims. The work of the commission will not be of a secret nature, but it is felt the business can be transacted more expeditiously and better in every way by having closed doors.

THE PEACE COMMISSION

Senators Davis and Frye in Conference With the President.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Senator Davis of Minnesota and Senator Frye of Maine, who have been selected for peace commissioners, arrived at the White House a little before ten o'clock yesterday and immediately began a conference with the president over the coming labors of the commission at Paris.

The conference lasted two hours and a half and then the two senators called on Secretary Day, who will be chairman of the commission. Reticence was observed respecting the conference, which went fully into details of the position to be held by the United States at the meeting of the peace commissions.

The list is completed now, it is understood, and the President is only waiting for the formal acceptance of the last member decided upon. This is according to good authority. Whitelaw Reid of New York. Justice White of the Supreme Court was added to the list last night or this mornig, and it is probable therefore that when the names are announced they will be William A. Day of Ohio, Secretary of State; Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota and Wm. P. Frye of Maine, United States senator; Edward V. White of Louisiana, Justice of the United Statse Supreme Court, and Whitelaw Reid of New York editor of the New York Tribune. It is possible that Mr. Reid's name may yet be eliminated, but it is said to be on the list now.

To Reduce Porto Rico Force.

Washington, Aug. 26.—An order has been sent to General Miles directing him to send to the United States at once such regiments of his command as can be spared from the garrison force in Porto Rico.

ALIVE ONLY TO HIS DUTY.

Faithfulness Displayed by a Journalist at Death's Doors.

One day a riot was apprehended, and Donzelot was sent to the Pantheon to report the events in that quarter. Already the stones were flying, and the lawless mob had begun to tear up the streets and barricade them.

One of Donzelot's friends saw him as he was running by, and said to him: "What are you doing here? Run and save yourself!"

Donzelot made no reply, and again his friend urged him to leave so dangerous a spot.

"I am not going to move," he said; 'but as you are going, kindly take this copy along with you to the paper; you will save me time."

An hour passed, and the disorder was at its height. The mob had already begun to clash seriously with the authorities. Suddenly the Garde Nationale fired a volley, and Donzelot fell, his breast pierced by a bullet. A surgeon rushed up to him.

"Are you hurt?" he asked.

"Yes,' replied Donzelot, "seriously, I think; I cannot use my pencil."

"Never mind your pencil," returned the surgeon, sharply. "The question is to save your life."

"Don't be in a hurry," returned Donzelot, quietly. "To each man his own duty. Mine is to get the story, and you must help me. Here, write at the foot of this page this postcripe: '3.20 p. m.—At the fire of the troops three men fell wounded, and one was killed.'"

"Why, which one is killed?" asked the doctor.

"I am," replied the reporter, and he fell back dead. —Petit Journal

As the Years Rolled on.

Miss Miffits—And what did the drummer boy do when the war was over?

Colonel—He obtained employment in a bakery and made rolls just the same.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

No sacrifice is bitter when sweetened by love.

AN INQUIRY PROBABLE

The Miles Interview May Call for Thorough Investigation.

A WAR AT HOME LIKELY

Heads of Bureaus Smarting Under the Lashing of Army Critics. Army Officers Advising Caution and Calmness. The Stir Caused by the Interviw Increasing.

Washington, Aug. 26.—There is a renewal of the talk about an official investigation of army methods, with special reference to the conduct of the Santiago campaign. The interview accredited to General Miles has stimulated the desire for a departmental inquiry into service conditions in anticipation of a less discreet and sympathetic one by Congress. The heads of bureaus are smarting under the lashing administered by some of the army critics, and if the department authorizes or directs an investigation it is likely to be brought about by those whose work would be the subject of scrutiny.

Army officers realize that publicity of many matters pertaining to the army will be harmful, that personal reputations will suffer, and that service interests will be sacrificed. The more conservative element among them, therefore, advise caution and calmness, and, most of all, an avoidance of controversy through the press. It is certain that, should should the alleged interview with General Miles prove authentic, the war department will take some notice of the incident. General Miles will be reprimanded, or those who have been guilty, as described by Miles, must be punished.

The great stir created by the interview extends to the service generally, and as an officer said this morning. "We shall have a war which will make the war with Spain seem a poor thing. It has only just begun, and the hostilities will be active enough to suit the most sensational."

The value of the Miles interview increases as the situation develops here for it now appears that there is abundant evidence to sustain some of the significant intimations made by the general. The routine work of the department during the present week, for instance, would, if made public, furnish Miles with valuable illustrations and it is known also that the records of the various bureaus contain information which will disconcert some of the harsher critics of the interview. The secretary of war has ordered that many of the decisions rendered by bureau chiefs be withheld from the public, and the opinions of the attorney general, some of which would prove interesting, if printed, are suppressed.

It would surprise none of the department officers should General Corbin, who feels General Miles's strictures keenly, ask for a court of inquiry. A prominent officer, who is not a sensationalist, said to-day: "It seems to me that either Miles or Corbin must ask for a court. Assuming the interview to be correct, Miles has been guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, or Corbin has been guilty of similar misconduct. Miles charges Corbin, among other things, with the suppression of dispatches—a serious offence—and he implies that the enmity against him in the war department had led to indignities upon his rank and personality. I am not in a position to know whether the interview is authentic, but I do know that some of the charges made by Miles can be sustained from the official records. Of course, Miles has offended regulations in his method of criticism; still, how do we know but that his efforts to secure justice through the regular channels failed?

"It now appears that the conditions at Santiago were made known to the Washington authorities through Miles and others long before the famous 'round robin,' and it took some unusual methods to get the people here to act. Perhaps Miles is pushed to the extremity he has adopted. I notice that he refers to official dispatches signed by him and addressed to him at Santiago as indicating that he was in charge of that campaign. There were few of these given out—nearly everything which came to Washington or went from here was signed 'Shafter,' or addressed to that officer. Miles must have copies of his correspondence, and they will furnish evidently a hitherto secret chapter of the war."

A Despatch from Gen. Merritt.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The war department has received the following:

Manila, Aug. 25.

Adjutant General, Washington:

Rio de Janeiro and Pennsylvania arrived 24th; all well; no casualties, excepting Private Wenks, First South Dakota, who died between San Francisco and Honolulu.

MERRITT.

Delegates to Art Congress.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The secretary of state has appointed Henry Turner Bailey of Massachusetts and Thomas W. Wood of New York delegates on the part of the United States to the international congress of public art, which is to meet at Brussels from September 24 to 28, 1898, for the purpose of examining and discussing questions concerning public art.

President McKinley's Outing.

Washington, Aug. 26.—President McKinley will leave here Saturday morning for Somerset, Pa., to spend a few days. He will stop en route at the camp of the volunteers at Middletown, remaining there about twenty minutes. The president will return here next week probably to prepare for his visit to Montauk.

Sixteen Lives Lost.

New York, Aug. 26.—The Thingvalla line steamship Norge, which arrived at this port yesterday, sank the French fishing schooner La Coquette of Bayonne, France, on Saturday last, off the Grand Banks. The captain and eight seamen were saved. Sixteen went down with the vessel.

PRESIDENT TO VISIT CAMP MEADE.

To Review 18,000 Troops on Saturday.

Camp Meade, Middletown, Pa., Aug. 26.—Major General Graham received a telegram from Secretary of War Alger yesterday, announcing that President McKinley would pay an informal visit on Saturday to Camp Meade. The general will at once arrange for a review of the troops in honor of the president.

There are upward of 12,000 men in camp, and by Saturday the number will be nearly 18,000. The Sixth Pennsylvania will arrive this evening and within forty-eight hours the entire Second division will be moved from Thoroughfare Gap. The movement of the troops from Camp Alger, where the Eghth, Twelfth, and Thirteenth Pennsylvania regiments are located, will begin today.

The president will probably come to Camp Meade by special train and go from here to Camp Wikoff, New York. Members of his cabinet and the diplomatic corps, and some personal friends will come with him. The Pennsylvania road has built a station at the entrance to the camp grounds, and hereafter all local trains will make this a stopping point. Excursions will be run to the camp by the company on Sunday from Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

Four members of the Third battalion of the Sixteenth Pennsylvania have asked Lieutenant Colonel Rickarts for their discharge, and their papers will be forwarded to Washington.

The First battalion of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania regiment will reach camp to-day from Alliance, Ohio.

There is no change in the condition of Colonel Norman M. Smith of the Eighteenth, who was overcome by the heat Tuesday evening.

A man who refused to give his name was detected yesterday selling whiskey in camp. He was arrested and handed over to the chief burgess of Middletown.

INFORMATION ABOUT THE DEAD

Many Requests for Details and Effects at the War Department.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The war department is in receipt of many letters from the relatives of dead officers and soldiers, asking for further information. In instances where the cases are borne on the hospital rolls there is no difficulty in rendering information and forwarding the effects, but little or nothing is procurable where men have died in the field.

Some of the inquiries are made that insurance may be secured, but in most cases sentiment alone actuates the requests. The surgeon general of the army has directed that full returns be made promptly from surgeons on duty in hospitals, that these inquiries may be answered satisfactorily. The chaplains in the field have done valuable service in sending messages to friends of dying officers and men, and in most cases they have secured some memento which will be treasured by the living.

DISGUST IN MADRID

They Think That Santiago Was Surrendered Too Soon.

Madrid, Aug. 26.—The newspapers and the general public display considerable disgust at the hasty surrender of Santiago de Cuba since hearing the stories with regard to the adequate defensive conditions prevailing there told by the repatriated soldiers who arrived yesterday at Corunna by the Spanish steamer Alicante.

There have been six deaths among the returned soldiery since their arrival and many others are feared.

A special commission is now meeting to decide upon the question of quarantine. The military authorities have begun the distribution of arrears of pay to the repatriated troops.

Schley Again on the Brooklyn.

New York, Aug. 26.—Admiral Schley, who has been resting for a few days at his home in Saugatuck, Conn., arrived at the Grand Central station in this city at 10.15 o'clock yesterday. He at once entered a carriage and drove to the Battery, whence he took a Staten Island ferry boat for Tompkinsville. There he boarded the Brooklyn.

On his way to Tompkinsville Admiral Schley stopped at the office of a well known Wall street firm. He met there several friends from Washington, all of whom greeted him enthusiastically. The admiral was not in his uniform, and for that reason was not generally recognized on the street.

Examining League Island Navy Yard.

Philadelphia, Aug. 26.—Commodore Farquhar of the Norfolk navy yard, and C. W. Parks of the bureau of yards and docks, arrived at the League island navy yard yesterday and made an examination of the river front with a view of fixing upon a location for the big dry dock recently authorized by Congress. After completing the inspection Commodore Farquhar expressed his belief that, on account of its facilities, League island will most likely be made the central station in naval construction.

Deer Plentiful in the Adirondacks.

Old Forge, N. Y., Aug. 26.—It is the universal testimony of hunters and visitors in the Adirondacks that the deer have never before been so plentiful in this region as during the present season, which opened August 15.

The prohibition of hunting with dogs or at night with "jacks" has had a most beneficial effect, and the still hunter is now sure of some good sport.

To Hold the Philippines.

New York, Aug. 26.—New York business men do not favor the idea of giving up the Philippines. A petition has been circulated by them to be forwarded to President McKinley, calling on him not to surrender the islands. This petition, although having been in circulation only a few days, has the signatures of a large number of prominent business men in the city.

President and Cabinet Invited.

Omaha, Aug. 26.—The board of directors of the Trans-Mississippi Exposition has passed a set of resolutions formally inviting the president, his cabinet and other dignitaries to attend the peace jubilee, October 10 to 15.

An invitation was also extended the Prince of Wales.

THE DAILY PRESS

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

105 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

Two cents a copy. Ten cents a week
$5 a year—in advance
No extra charge for papers mailed to points in the U. S. and Canada
Delivered by carrier or by mail.
The Press has the most complete carrier and mail service of any paper in the metropolitan district.
Any subscriber failing o receive a single issue will confer a favor by notifying the business office.
Advertising rates mailed on request
Copy for change of advertisements must be in this office by 9 a m. to ensure change the same day.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 26, 1898

FEATURES OF TODAY'S PRESS.

PAGE 1.—Important local news.
PAGE 2.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 3.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 4.—Editorial and gossip.
PAGE 5.—Vicinity news.
PAGE 6.—German news.
PAGE 6.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 7.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 8.—Sporting and local news.

COMING EVENTS.

August 28—Rev. Charles E. Dunn will speak and Mrs. John Manley and William McKillop will render vocal and violin solos at the Y. M. C. A. meeting at 4:15 p. m. Fans and iced lemonade.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

How Congressman Howell Feels.

A Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune has the following to say about Congressman Howell, of the Third district:

Representative Howell has not at any time been a candidate for renomination, as his private business is large. It is known that there is no candidate for the nomination, the people desiring Mr. Howell, who has made an industrious, popular and sensible member of Congress, to accept another term. A Tribune correspondent asked him before he returned to New Jersey yesterday if he would probably run again for the House. He repeated what he had stated before Congress adjourned, and intimated that if the nomination came to him by the will of the people he would probably accept it.

University Training For Women.

Woman is held in higher regard as a social power here than in any other country. She has more political and business rights than elsewhere. Her competition in nearly every line of occupation, so far as her physical power enables her to enter any race which she wishes to run, is unrestricted. Even her lack of fitness to carry a rifle in the battle front she offsets by her generous ardor in going to the front as a nurse in larger numbers even than masculine red tape can be persuaded to countenance. But proportionately to population her university advantages are even greater in several other countries than our own. The test is in the admission to university training under the same conditions as those given to men. Columbia, Harvard and the University of Michigan are the only high class universities in the United States which put her on an equal footing as to curriculum and degree. In England Oxford and Cambridge open their doors, with two colleges in each, while there are three other large university colleges of less note where she is welcomed. Several medical colleges also admit both sexes. The University of Copenhagen makes no distinction, nor do several of the German universities, though the rude burschen often make it very unpleasant for the women students with their cruel staring and impertinences. Switzerland is the great power in the higher education of women, and there are more woman students in its universities than are found elsewhere. The fact that it is the political asylum of Europe causes a constant escape to its hospitable shores of hundreds of refugees from their own lands. So among its woman students, perhaps indeed a majority of them, are to be counted many foreigners. Much of the nihilistic plotting which in times past threatened the lives of czars emanated from the Swiss universities and their women. That nihilism, fed so constantly by Russian student life among the women, has not induced the successive czars to shut the doors of their own universities to the fair sex certainly scores a credit mark to the imperial generosity. But half barbaric Muscovy is in the very van of forwardness in this respect, even in the Russian schools, while France, with its most artificial of European civilizations, frowns persistently at the whole theory of woman's higher education.

The progress made throughout the world in the fuller extension of educational chances for women is an interesting fact. Nothing in the last quarter of a century more clearly marks the advancing wave of intellectual and moral progress. Whether woman does or does not need to support herself, a larger intellectual outlook equips by that much the better for any duty or station which falls to her. In answering this need the latter half of the nineteenth century has developed one of its most striking features.

ANGELS OF MERCY AT CAMP WIKOFF.

The sufferings of the sick soldier boys in the hospital at Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, are lightened by the gentle words of cheer and the touch of tender hands on fevered brows. Prominent among the women who visit the hospital are Mrs. Ellen Hardin Walworth, of the National Relief Association, and Miss Helen Gould.

Some curious experiments have been recently made on animals raised on sewage farms. The result shows an interesting effect on the flesh and secretions as influenced by the herbage manured by the sewage. Where no more sewage goes into the soil than is fully assimilated and transformed by the tissues of the plant cattle and other animals fed on the grass show no deleterious trace in their flesh or milk. If the soil, however, is fully gorged with the sewage, then the herbage crop will be surcharged with the sewage elements and dangerously unfit for cattle to graze. Both meat and milk will be replete with the same constituents, unpleasant to taste and dangerous to the health. The susceptibility of milk to the flavor of the food eaten by cows is well known. But it seems that the effect on the flesh is even more marked and unwholesome.

The quaint old couplet about the sick devil and the well devil finds a fresh illustration in the action of the sultan of Turkey in refusing to grant compensation for American losses at the time of the Armenian massacres. When the pressure was sternly forced, he was profuse in promises and agreements. Now that the powers of the civilized world have begun to show their teeth and snarl not at him, but at each other, the shrewd Moslem laughs in the faces of applicants and repudiates all responsibility.

The persistent snubbing which the new Prince Bismarck and his family have given the kaiser, from the funeral to the present time should be wholesome discipline for the imperial young man. It is not often that he experiences such a shower bath. It is to be assumed that he forgets all thought of leze majesty as his anguished fancy dwells on a certain literary dynamite magazine in London.

There is no country in the world where such immense benefactions are given to institutions of learning, colleges and universities in especial, as are given in America. In England or Germany such a thing would instantly excite universal comment. Here it passes without a ripple.

The most enviable persons are not such as have the largest possessions. They are the happy spirits able to get the most out of the things they have who never suffer dyspepsia for lack of digestion at the banquet of life.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The plan of collecting ten cents additional fare from passengers paying cash on the Central Railroad and other roads is likely to cause the companies much trouble. It has just been decided by a learned judge that the 10 cent rebate order is subject to the two cent revenue stamp, and that to issue such an order without attaching the stamp is contrary to the war revenue laws. Some of the western roads perceived the fact that the rebate order was subject to the war revenue stamp, and have abandoned it.

* * * * *

The small boys, white and colored, who hang about town selling papers and picking up pennies here and there by doing little odd jobs, found a new amusement the other evening that proved very profitable to some of them. There were several strangers in town who were spending the evening sitting on the doorstep and on the chairs on the sidewalk near McVey's Hotel. They wanted a little fun and so one of them tossed a penny into the crowd of ragged younsters. Instantly there was a lively scramble and the small boys piled up in a heap on the sidewalk in their efforts to find and get the penny. This proved such exciting sport that other pennies were thrown and new small boys appeared to give fresh zest to the race for the coppers. Before the strangers tired of this amusement, some fifty pennies were distributed in the crowd.

* * * * *

An Italian organ-grinder happened in the grocery of Westphal & Son, on Liberty street, several days ago and asked the elder Mr. Westphal to give him a dollar bill for a hundred pennies. Mr. Westphal agreed to accommodate the Italian and began to count over the pennies that the Italian proffered. Now, many years ago Mr. Westphal was in the contracting business and was constantly brought in contact with the Italian laborers from whom he learned quite a little of their language. He also learned to count in their fashion. So, to the astonishment of the organ-grinder, Mr. Westphal began to count out the pennies in Italian. The native of sunny Italy listened closely, but it was all correct When Mr. Westphal had reached twenty-five, the Italian could no longer contain himself. "Bravo, bravo," he exclaimed, clapping his hands, and it was several moments before his expressions of delight ended.

THE COURTS.

JUSTICE MOFFETT.

Summons issued—Eldridge Bicycle Company against George C. Bedford, on contract, returnable September 1st.

JUSTICE MOSHER.

Adjourned—Case of Adair vs. Reed adjourned until Tuesday, August 30th.

BOOKS OF THE TESTAMENT.

The Great Jehovah speaks to us
In Genesis and Exodus.
Leviticus and Numbers see
Followed by Deuteronomy:
Joshua and Judges sway the land;
Ruth gleans a sheaf with trembling hand.
Samuel and numerous Kings appear
Whose Chronicles we wonderingly hear.
Ezra, Nehemiah, now
Esther makes a beautious show.
Job speaks in sighs.
David in Psalms.
The Proverbs teach to scatter alms.
Ecclesiastes then comes on.
And the sweet songs of Solomon.
Isaiah, Jeremiah then
In Lamentations take pen.
Ezekiel, Daniel, Hosea, lyres
Swell Joel, Amos, Obadiah.
Jonah, Micah, Nahum come,
And the great Habakkuk find room.
Zephaniah, Haggai calls
Rapt Zachariah builds his wall.
And Malachi with garment rent
Concludes the ancient Testament.

Wm. C. Ayers.

—City Steam and Hand Laundry 19 Somerset street, say in their advertisement in another column, "If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly well we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be disastisfied, we should like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry."

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Boynton Beach
Last Salt Water Day of the Season,
TOMORROW.
Special Music.
Dancing free in the Afternoon. Evenings, 25 cents.
SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERT AT 4 O'CLOCK.

SATURDAY SPECIAL.

A large quantity of 36-inch PERCALES. Splendid cloth and choice styles, made to sell at 10c. Our price while they last, 6c. per yard. Very desirable for Wrappers, House Dresses, etc They are a greater bargain, if possible, than the Organdies we sold in July. They are worthy the attention of all careful buyers. We are not selling them for profit, but rather to make business during the dull season.

SUNDRY NEW GOODS.

Our FALL DRESS GOODS are now arriving. We have some rare values in Brilliantines, Sicilians and Storm Serges in Navy and Black. We buy these goods direct from the mill. They are reliable and we recommend to the finest trade. Novelties will be worn but little, so we leave them out and devote our energies to securing the choicest things for tailor made suits. Venetian Cloths are the latest We have them.

Some new BLACK CREPONS at 98c. are very rich We have a new Black Henrietta, 46 inches wide, at 98c. that we believe are above the average $1.00 Henrietta. Ask to see it now in stock. We pride ourselves on making choice selections of rich materials. If you are particular about Ties ours will interest you.

-:- Our Fall Line of Gents Neckwear -:-

-:- Children's Hats and Caps for Fall. -:-

All new and the latest. More than that, they are clean. We handle no sweat shop goods.

Ladies Tailor-Made SKIRTS, Ready to Wear,

OR MADE TO ORDER.

Our own materials and workmanship the finest.

Basement Special.

OUR $3.00 PARLOR ROCKERS,

OAK OR IMP. MAHOGANY, PIANO POLISHED,

Saturday Only. $2.25.

Mason's QUART JARS, 40c. Doz.
PINTS, 36c. Doz.

WOODHULL & MARTIN,
234-236-238 W. Front St.
Telephone No. 774.

PECK'S Corset Store,
316 W. Front St.

SPECIAL.

A splendid line of Scotch Suits to order - $15.00
Reduced from $20.00
Trousers to order - - - - 5.00

SEBRING'S,
202 West Front St.

The Model Town . . .
LINCOLN
OFFERS
Rare Opportunities for Home Seekers and Investors.

In has Sewers, Trolley Line, City Water, Telephones, School, Postoffice, Macadam Road, Depots of Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

HOUSES AND LOTS SOLD ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

SILAS D. DRAKE, President and Manager.

MAKES HAIR GROW. A lady in Maine writes:—"I had a bald place on the side of my head for 20 years. Have tused almost everything, but found nothing like
REYNOLD'S PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC.
I now have a soft, white down all over the place." It stimulates healthy action of the scalp, relieves from dandruff, prevents falling out of hair. No disagreeable odor. An elegant hair dressing. Made only by
T. S. ARMSTRONG, THE APOTHECARY.

2,000 Yards of Ribbon to be 17c a yard.

Beautiful ribbons moire taffetas in every color. Delicate shades, dainty combinations, plaids, checks, are here for 17c a yard; most of these ribbons ordinarily sell at 25c, a great many at 35c; displayed for easy selection in front part of the store.

Shirt Waists are Now 25c and 50c.

These are the clearing prices, not many here and a few days selling will clear the stock. Former prices 65c. to $1.00.

Silk Sale.

500 yards of figured silks at 42c. regular 65c value. 350 yards silk,s plaids, stripes, etc. at 69c, regular $1.00 value. 100 yards remnants of silk, at 20c. a yard.

Men's Negligee Shirts.

The men's furnishing dept. offers soft front negligee shirts, neat stripes, checks, plaids, white neck bands, some with detachable cuffs, some without cuffs, at 50c. This means your selection of shirts that have been 75c. to $1.00.

A Sale of Hosiery.

About 25 dozen ladies fine black hose, 16c. a pair, worth 25c. Nearly a hundred dozen ladies black hose to be 9c. a pair, regular 12½c. Children's fine ribbed hose at 10c. regularly sold at 15c.

I. LEDERER.

SENSATION IN SHOES ! !

"OFF STYLES," BUT THE BEST OF STOCK.

They will go quick. 1 lot men's Calf Bals, Good Year welt, (all sizes) narrow toes, sold for $3 and $3.50, only 98c. 1 lot Burt & Packard's narrow widths, only broken sizes, were $5 and $6, only $1.48. 1 lot J. & M. patent leather button and lace odds and ends, were $5 and $6, only 98c. 1 lot odds and ends boy's and men's, sold from $2.50 to $4, your choice now 69c.

We are selling lots of TRUNKS, Dress Suit Cases and Hand Bags cheap. These are some samples of our great summer sale. Trunks from $1.98 up. BIGGEST BARGAINS IN TOWN.

Doane & Edsall.

IF YOU SEE
Our FURNITURE
and get our prices your own good judgment will decide about the fairness of both. Please call often and look at our constantly changing assortment.

G. Q. PACKER,
301-305 West Front Street, corner Madison Avenue. Telephone 736.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 25 — Strangers who ride on the trolley cars to Dunellen do not understand why the cars stop just outside the village instead of going on. They see that the track is continued and the poles are up, and expect to ride directly into the town until they see it otherwise.

Rev. W. S. Coeyman, of Lebanon, will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church Sunday, morning and evening. Rev. Dr. Jamison, the pastor, will return from his vacation next week.

The Christian Endeavorers of the Presbyterian church are arranging to have a picnic to Chimney Rock a week from Saturday.

New electric light poles are being erected in the village in place of the old wooden ones which are rotting away.

T. J. Todd was in New York Wednesday and laid in his fall stock of shoes and men's furnishings.

Miss Maud Benton, formerly of this village, but now of New York, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Rosie Haynes has returned from her visit with Mrs. F. W. Barker at Nyack.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sutphen and son have returned from a visit to Trenton.

Rev. Thodosius Goth, of Rutherford, is the guest of his father, John Goth.

Miss Sadie Felter, of New Brunswick, is visiting Mrs. Asa Merrell.

Miss Jessie Mack is spending her vacation at Asbury Park.

Miss Mildred Hine, of Brooklyn, is visiting Mrs. C. Schepflin.

The schools will open for the fall term September 6th.

The new Sutphen house is rapidly nearing completion.

Miss Estella Eick is visiting relatives in Annandale.

Fred Nelson, of Basking Ridge, was in town yesterday.

C. D. Taylor has a bad attack of rheumatism.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of the Daily Press.)

New Market, Aug. 26.—Miss Boyce, of Jersey City, is visiting Mrs. James Cosgrove.

Three candidates are ready for initiation into Lakeside Council at their next meeting, September 1st.

Earl Fulton, of Newark, is spending a week with his grandmother, Mrs. Rachael Fulton.

Mrs. H. G. Rand was visiting in Plainfield yesterday.

Mrs. Skillhorn, of Orange, is a guest of Mrs. L. B. Nelson.

Mrs. Squiers is spending a few days at Asbury Park.

David Tabb has returned from a trip to Canada.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 26.—Charles Frentz, the mason, is working on a contract, he has in New York city.

This place is deeply interested in the five-mile road race to be held tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock on Mountain avenue. A large crowd is expected to be present and a good race is assured. The boys have been practising on the course for a week and it is said there will be some surprises.

Rev. Mr. Trayman will lead the prayer meeting in the Baptist church this evening. He will also occupy the pulpit Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Braker, will return next week.

The Township Committee meet in the town rooms Sept. 6th, for the purpose of receiving claims for damages done by dogs in the township during the year.

Arthur Chapin and Roger Haskard have entered in the road race to be held at Boynton Beach Labor Day.

Miss Mary Westcott is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour, at Belmar.

Mrs. George Stiliger entertained her brother from Liberty Corner Wednesday.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., hold an important meeting this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson have been entertaining friends from out of town.

Mrs. William Maguin and son are spending a few days at Asbury Park.

Arthur Haskard and Charles Fields spent Wednesday at Boynton Beach.

WASHINGTONVILLE

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Washingtonville, August 26.—Miss Lizzie Milligan entertained a few friends at her home Tuesday evening.

Peter Finger and family spent yesterday at the fishing banks off Sandy Hook. They caught a goodly mess.

Mrs. Freeman and Miss Heath, of Iselin, were guests at the home of Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Wednesday.

Miss Nellie Jackson, of Brooklyn, is the guest of her friend, Miss Etta Acker.

Charles Miles has gone to Asbury Park for an outing.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 26.—A baseball team from Scotch Plains came to town yesterday and was defeated by the Juniors of this place by the score of 17 to 6. Romig, of the Riverdale team at Plainfield, played third base for the home team.

A large bulldog owned by Loyal West had a fierce fight with a black snake Sunday and killed the reptile which measured seven feet.

The Township Committee meets a week from this evening to give a further hearing to the petition of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company for a trolley franchise on Summit avenue.

The principal subject of talk in town is still about the proposed county boulevard, and the people are very indignant that the avenue is not to be widened through this town.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—Dr. M. B. Long, of Park avenue, has bought a new house.

—Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men will hold a regular meeting this evening.

—It will pay housewives to refer to Fred Endress' new advertisement in this paper.

—A dime sociable will be held under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., Tuesday evening next, at the residence of Mrs. William Thompson, Liberty street. The members and their friends are respectfully requested to be present.

—The great list of good values that Edward White tells of in his advertisement should throng the store these warm days. Every department in the store has contributed a strong leader, and no matter what your wants are it will pay you to investigate goods and prices.

—Chancellor McGill has confirmed the sale of the big glass plant of the Bodine-Thomas Glass Manufacturing Company, of Williamstown, to a number of capitalists who have been incorporated under the name of the Bodine Glass Company. The plant is already undergoing repairs which, when completed, will make it one of the finest east of Pittsburg.

—The Law and Order League, of Vineland, has inaugurated a crusade against speak-easies and beer clubs by the arrest of Frank Soncini, charged with keeping a disorderly house. All the members of the club who were found in the building when raided by the police were summoned before Mayor Lord, who held the preliminary hearing in the Opera House, on account of the public interest shown in the case. Soncini was held for Court.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

S. Clinton Crane, of East Second street, is on his vacation.

Patrolman Matthew Vanderweg is on his vacation of a week.

Charles Sebring, of Division street, is out after his recent illness.

Miss Jennie Bowden, of Cranford, has been the guest of friends in Plainfield.

Mrs. Glen and daughters, of Craig place, are back from their summer outing.

Miss Florence Burt, of West Seventh street, is the gust of friends at Bangor, Pa.

James R. Blair and family of Somerset street, have gone to Belmar for a week's sojourn.

H. G. Hand, of East Sixth street, spent yesterday in Poughkeepsie with Elizabeth friends.

Miss Ella Mullen, of Woodhull & Martin's dry goods store, starts on her vacation Monday.

Miss Emma James, of Philadelphia, is visiting her cousin, Miss Nellie Walsh, of Lee place.

Councilman John T. Baker and family, of Stelle avenue, have returned from their summer outing.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Runyon, of Madison avenue, have returned from their outing in the Catskills.

John H. VanWinkle and family, of Duer street, return tomorrow after their outing at Asbury Park.

Mrs. J. W. Fritz and daughter, of Cleveland, O., is visiting Mrs. L. Adams, of East Front street.

Miss Hackett, of Daretown, is visiting at the home of her uncle, Reuben Knox, of Washington avenue.

Mrs. Nelson Runyon and son, Carroll L. Runyon, of East Ninth street, are sojourning at Asbury Park.

R. H. Radford and family, of Park avenue, are registered at The Glenwood, Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

Senator Charles A. Reed, of Myrtle avenue, has gone to his summer cottage at Belmar to spend a week.

Miss Ella Whital, of East Second street, has gone to the Clifton House, Patchogue, L. I., to spend ten days.

L. R. Hall, of Wallingford, Conn., has returned home after visiting his son, H. S. Hall, of East Fifth street.

Theodore Glazer, of Grant avenue, has gone on a week's vacation to be spent in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Pearson and daughter are rusticating and enjoying their summer outing at Sewaren.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johns and children, of Division street, have returned after spending three months at Raritan.

Patrolman Thomas McCue, of the police force, will return to duty tomorrow after enjoying his summer vacation.

Miss M. G. Morse, of Franklin place, left today for Chester, Pa., where she will be the guest of Miss Edna M. Howell for a week.

Rev. J. P. Taylor and family, of Park avenue, have returned from Asbury Park where they have been spending a month.

Miss VanArsdale, of Grove street, is stopping at the home of her brother-in-law, Rev. Garrett Conover, of Nyack-on-the-Hudson.

Mrs. C. M. Towers, of Washington, D. C., has been called to this city by the very serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. H. S. Hall, of East Fifth street.

Mrs. E. L. Hyde, of Hyde Park, Mass., has rented her house on Madison avenue, near Seventh street, to a Hyde Park family, who will move here soon.

Miss Daisy Day, of Oswego Normal College, who is spending a part of the summer with the Misses Day, of Mercer avenue, has gone to Connecticut to visit friends.

Henry B. Drake, of Duer street, leaves tomorrow for Bay Head, N. J., where he will join the cruising party on the yacht "Teal." He will be gone for two weeks.

Miss Eleanor T. VanDeventer, of Myrtle avenue, has returned after spending several weeks on the house-boat of F. H. Ball, of Myrtle avenue, now cruising near Bridgehampton, L. I., in the Great South Bay.

—Neuman Brothers will have 150 baskets of fine Jersey peaches tomorrow.

—One hundred and fifty baskets of fine Jersey peaches at Neuman Brothers, tomorrow.

—If you want good shoes, unsurpassed for style and appearance, go to Flynn Brothers, 222 West Front street.

—The regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will be held this evening. Important business will be transacted.

IT'S THE KODAK —one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

TACTICS THAT WON.

How Old Bluntly Won the Election with a Whoop.

"I'll never forget when we had old Bluntly at the head of our Campaign Committee," said the ex-Congressman, who recently retired from politics. "All we put him there for was as a figurehead. He was honest, straightforward and universally trusted by the people. We simply wanted the benefit of his reputation, intending to make the fight without any of his help.

"But the old chap fooled us. He took the thing in deadly earnest and watched things with the care of a locomotive engineer hauling a fast passenger train. He believed in doing everything above board and was a bonanza to reporters. When a man of some prominence on the other side pretended to be converted to ours and made a dramatic demonstration at a big mass meeting of his change of heart, Bluntly gave it out that the fellow had been hired to play the part and was a rank hypocrite. When we had made terms with a lot of repeaters to come in and help us out, Bluntly exposed the scheme and called the attention of the authorities to it in a way they could not ignore. When we bought up the leaders of a certain organization promising so much for each vote delivered from that source, Bluntly called attention to the conspiracy and declared that he would prosecute bribers and bribed if it were carried out."

"Whew! Did the fellows on your ticket know they were running?"

"Did they? We swept the board. No an office got away. Bluntly's honesty was so novel and refreshing that the people were tickled beyond expression. They couldn't believe that a man of his nerve and integrity could be indorsing the wrong ticket and it went with a whoop."—Detroit Free Press.

TO PREVENT "KNOCKING DOWN."

How Street Car Fares Are Collected in Toronto.

Of the many devices employed by street railway companies to compel conductors to turn in all the fares which they collect the self-registering clock, operated by a cord, is the great favorite. One of the least known pieces of apparatus used for the same purpose is in service on the trolley cars in Toronto. The conductors there are permitted to change a bill or coin and to sell a bunch of tickets, but not to receive into their hands the fare itself. Instead they are required to extend toward the passenger an odd-looking metallic receptacle into which he or she thrusts the money or ticket.

This collection-box is shaped something like a pint pitcher or syrup cup, without a spout. The only visible opening is through a narrow chamber which surmounts the cover. A slot, just long and wide enough to admit a Canadian dime or half-dime or a ticket, pierces the top of this chamber, which serves as an ante-room to the main reservoir below. The passenger having made his deposit, the conductor inspects it through the glass sides of the small compartment in which it temporarily reposes, and then, if satisfied, he presses a button and thereby dumps the fare into the larger box underneath. A side door, unlocked only by some representative of the financial department of the company, at the close of the day's service, provides for the eventual authorized removal of the contents.

Don't let your Grocer give you

Inferior Extracts;

Insist Upon Having That Put Up By

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's City Pharmacy.

143 WEST FRONT STREET. Business Established 1865.

Your Scalp may be kept free from itching and unsightly dandruff. The roots of your hair nourished by the use of RANDOLPH'S QUININE AND GLYCERINE HAIR TONIC. Ladies especially will appreciate its use in this summer weather. Delightfully perfumed, only 50 cents per bottle.

The handsomest Soda Fountain in the World is at our store. The Soda Water, famous for its Purity and delicious Fruit Flavors. When shopping have your meets at The Fountain.

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE, AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,
UNDERTAKERS,
No. 402 Park Ave. Tel. 40.
Office open night and day.
OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,
UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,
200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.
OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,
UNDERTAKER.
Residence and office 59 Somerset St.
TELEPHONE 248 B.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—Position as housekeeper or general housework, where good help will be appreciated. For particulars and interview, address L. K. F., Box 276, Bound Brook, N. J. 8 25 2

WANTED—A girl to do general housework, must be honest, strong and industrious. Good reference required. Mrs. Howard C. Tracy, 134 East Sixth street. 8 25 2

STRAYED from 516 West Sixth street, a black and white cow. A reward will be paid for return of cow. 8 25 2

WANTED—Competant plain cook and laundress; white. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street 8 26 2

STORE with two rooms to let cheap. 218 East Front street. 8 16 2

WANTED—Competant white girl for chamber work and waiting. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street 8 26 2

FINE fresh cow for sale. D. W. Groendyke, 91 Mercer avenue. 8 23 2 t-f

FLAT and offices to let, in Babcock Block. 8 22 tf eod

FOR SALE—Cheap, freight elevator, almost new, can be seen at Woodhull & Martin's. 8 22 tf eod

TO LET—Large room, fourth floor, Babcock Block, suitable for Lodge room. 8 22 tf eod

FOR SALE—Set double farm harness, one farm wagon; Adriane's mowing machine, hay rake, plough, harrow, hay rigging. Robert Clark Jr., Washingtonville. 8 25 6

$1,300 Wanted on Bound Brook property 5 per cent, taxes, insurance $2,300, very prompt pay. Chas. J. McNabb, Attorney, Plainfield 8 24 6

TO RENT—Furnished rooms, with all improvements. 323 East Second street. 8 23 1w

FOR SALE—New house, has desirable location; ten rooms and bath; leased for the year at good rental, part cash, balance mortgage. Address P. W. T., care Press. 8 22 6

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

WANTED—Two good canvassers for industrial and ordinary life insurance. Call 130 West Second street.

WANTED—Two furnished rooms for light housekeeping in a private house. Address Rooms, care Press.

WANTED—Chambermaid, must be first-class. McVey's restaurant.

WANTED—Place as cook. Apply 428 East Third street; colored. 8 26 2

FLAT all light rooms, also hall to let. Enquire Manning's City Marble Works. 8 26 tf

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3.50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1.50, formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2. Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2. Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6.90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25. Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M WEINBERGER, MANAGER,

214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

M. E. STEPHENSON,

146 North Avenue.

Near the depot.

RESTAURANT AND CATERING.

TELEPHONE 624.

Smalley Bros.

THE OLD ESTABLISHED RELIABLE

BUTCHERS,

144 NORTH AVE.

Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

30 000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue.
8 16 tf Plainfield.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

Tuesday Night, August 30, 1898.

Second Annual Tour of

COLE AND JOHNSON

"The Clever Coons" - Dramatic Mirror.

And The Big Colored Beauty Show.

Presenting

"A TRIP TO COONTOWN,"

Interpreted by a Star Cast.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

Box Office open Daily for sale of Reserved Seats.

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

Bargains

In shirt waists, quality and low prices are essential to bargains of any kind. We don't think you ever bought such shirt waists at such prices as we name on this large lot, over two thousand, all 1898 styles and made to sell for one dollar. Our price 49c.

A Glove Bargain!

We place on sale today twelve hundred pairs of importers' sample kid gloves from the best makers in the world. Included in the lot are the celebrated Reynier glove, all sizes and shades, 79c. pair.

White

Domet flannel, it means a saving of forty per cent. to buy now, we place on sale two cases of a fine quality 4c. the yard.

A Towel

Tumble, many thrifty people replenish the towel stock just on the edge of the Fall season, such people will find these towel bargains very much to their liking.

Full size all linen huck.....10c
Extra large bath towels.....13c
Extra heavy huck towels.....19c
Turkish wash cloths, each.....3c
All linen brown crash, yard.....6c

All at the Bargain Centre.

New Fall

Outing flannels, the regular 10 cent quality, we place on sale a case of beautiful designs, at 7½c. yard.

A Brush Sale

At half regular prices. Solid back all bristle hair brushes, 29c., a 50c. brush. Solid back toilet hand brushes, 15c. each, value 25c. Fine tooth brushes 10c. each.

Belts!

We will close the balance of our stock of fine leather belts, 19c. each.

For Men's Use!

Our men folks will be on the alert to take advantage of these timely offerings.

Unlaundered white shirts 50c. article, 39c. Men's fine Madras shirts, 49c. Four-in-hand all silk ties, reversible, 25c. each. Fine black half hose, 10c. pair. A 25c suspender, 15c. pair.

Store Specials.

Fresh arrivals and marked at quick step prices.

White and grey cotton blankets, 38c. pair.
A good umbrella,.....39c each
Side combs, 7c pair,.....value 12c
A lot of pretty embroideries, 5c yard.
Boy's cambric shirt waists.....15c
10-4 all wool blankets.....$2.40 pair.
6-4 Fancy linen table covers.....49c
6-4 Fancy table covers.....39c
36 inch Butchers linen.....15c
Full size Counterpanes, a dollar quilt, 69c.
Ten quarter, all linen, figured table covers with one dozen napkins, $2.10 set.
Portierre curtains.....98c each
6-4 Scotch mixture for skirting, 39c yard.
36 inch Denim.....10c yard
50 inch Furniture covering..23c yard
Ladies fine lisle hose, 50c quality, 29c pair.

Edward White.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 28. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—"With your might."—Eccl. ix, 10; John iv, 27-35.

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might, for there is no work nor device nor knowledge nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest" (Eccl. ix, 10).

This exhortation of the wise man suggests to us what we are to do with our might and a reason why we are to do it.

1. What we are to do with our might, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do." We are to do what lies to our hands, what we have the opportunity and the ability to do. "Whatsoever" is both limited and comprehensive. It limits us to our abilities and opportunities. The impossible may be possible to God, but God does not expect impossibilities of man. But He does expect us to do what we have the opportunity to do. To dream of great impossibilities will not excuse us for neglecting or refusing to do the possible duties of life. "Whatsoever" is also comprehensive. It includes the duties of the schoolroom, the home, the business world, the work of God's kingdom and the work of developing the spiritual life of the man.

2. Why we are to do the work of life with our might. Because there is no opportunity to do it in the grave. This is the day of our opportunity. The night is coming when no man can work. If the work of life is done at all, it must be done now. This is a sad and melancholy reason for doing the work of life and for doing it well. Christ in John iv, 34, gives a much loftier reason. "My meat," He says, "is to do the will of Him that sent Me and to finish His work." It is God's will that we should do the work of life with our might. In so doing we are assisting in the work of God. Christians find another motive for doing the work of life with their might in the love of Christ, not so much their love for Christ as Christ's love for them. "The love of Christ constraineth me," says Paul, and the love of Christ should so constrain us as to make it impossible for us to do anything else than with our might, with all the power and energy of our being to perform the work and duties of life in all its relations. The work of life is worthy of the best we have to give. Success cannot be achieved under any other banner than "with our might." God expects and demands our best. Can we refuse to give it?

Bible Readings.—Deut. vi, 5; Zech. iv, 6; Math. xxv, 14-30; Luke xiii, 24; John ix, 4; x, 37, 38; I Cor. ix, 25-27; x, 31; xv, 58; Eph. iii, 14-21; vi, 10; Col. i, 9-11; iii, 17; I Pet. iv, 7-11; Rev. ii, 10.

The Test of Patriotism.

The real test of men and nations comes in quiet days. If then they are faithful, they are fit for sudden alarms and trying strain. If after the excitement has died out the soldiers are at home again, the ships put off their battle color and sail on peaceful errands up and down the highways of the sea—if then we as a people are ready to devote ourselves to the nation's highest good, these lives of brave men and these broken homes will not be too large a price to pay for the ends attained. But if patriotism dies with the excitement, if we are puffed up, not sobered, by the responsibilities that follow after victory, then our triumph will be of little avail either for ourselves or others. It is in peace that men prepare for war, and self devotion now will be of small avail unless it lives in quiet days as well as in excitement, unless the sense of duty that by the witness of the honor that we pay the dead befits the battle becomes the rule of home and mart, of social life and political activity as well. —Congregationalist.

The Vice of Unrest.

Unrest is not modern. It is as ancient as the carnal mind. Carnal unrest cannot be removed by resting from work. We cannot rest from worry till we are cleansed from carnality. Too many are too lazy now to need any exhortation to rest from work, even under the plausible guise of devoting working time to worship. We may pray too little, we may worry too much, but we can hardly work too much. Dr. Adam Clarke said that the old proverb about having too many irons in the fire was an abominable old lie. Have all in it—shovel, tongs and poker.—Christian Standard.

Church Attendance.

Is church attendance on the decline? So say some papers, and so say some preachers who happen to see the dark side of things in their own parishes. The question may be answered both ways. In some large cities it may be on the decline; in others on the increase. In some sections of our large cities it is falling off; in others it is growing. In congregations where the gospel is not preached in truth and in earnestness it declines; in congregations where the pastor delivers his gospel message as if it were sent direct from God it grows. —Lutheran.

Cheerfully Made.

A war of which no one can see the end is not to be undertaken lightly. But if war comes its sacrifices must be cheerfully made, its burdens patiently carried, and those who are responsible for its conduct be supported loyally and generously.—Christian Register.

The Best Life.

A Christian should be a striking likeness of Jesus Christ. You have read lives of Christ, beautifully and eloquently written, but the best life of Christ is His living biography, written out in the words and actions of His people.—Episcopal Recorder.

It Never Stops.

We sleep, but the loom of life never stops, and the pattern which was weaving when the sun went down is weaving when it comes up tomorrow.—Presbyterian Journal.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Aug. 28. Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, Going to Church.

SCRIPTURE READING.—Mal. iii, 16, 17, "Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another."

There is no substitute for church attendance. It is essential to the best development of Christian character. Private prayer, Bible reading and meditation are indispensable to one who wishes to be right in life, but these are not enough.

The social gathering of Christians is more than the natural seeking of congenial companionship. "Birds of a feather flock together." The followers of the Christ by meeting and speaking together learn the truth which no one person possesses, but which is found by consultation and comparison. This is also the way in which that truth is transmitted from age to age. The church of Jesus Christ is its custodian, and in public worship there is the discharge of a duty to propagate and perpetuate righteousness in the earth.

Besides this there are the preservation of ordinances or customs of worship, the cultivation of personal habits of religion and the handing down to others of the proper forms of divine service.

This is not all. Sympathy in times of trial, strengthening from relation of experience and regard of others, is most helpful and nowhere else is so free and genuine as among the people of God in their gatherings in His sanctuary.

Caution, reproof, correction of faults and warning of danger are here also given in deep kindliness of heart.

Beyond all this human aid there is to the devout soul a mystic, spiritual uplift of life in the sanctuary services, a communion with the divine presence. The songs of praise, the prayers, the reading of the Scriptures, the sermon, all reveal and teach things of God never elsewhere so fully realized. The sacraments become seals of God's grace as well as signs of His favor.

Neglect of church attendance tends to forgetfulness of our duties to God and man, loss of clear understanding of religious truth, carelessness of habits of right and disregard of customs of society. It renders us peculiarly liable to temptations of evil and leads to companionships that are not elevating. Waste of time, dissipation of energy, corruption of thought, weakness of will, loss of love for the good and true and pure, all follow. "Evil communications corrupt good manners."

Bishop Edward G. Andrews, D. D., LL. D.

Four of the eight bishops elected in 1872 are still living. Of these, Bishop Thomas Bowman and Bishop Randolph S. Foster are no longer in active work. Bishop S. M. Merrill is the senior effective member of the board, and Bishop E. G. Andrews ranks next to him. Each is notable, but in different lines. Since the death of Bishop Harris the work of secretary of the board has devolved on Bishop Andrews. He is admirably fitted for the position. His residence is New York. He is one of the very few who in later years have been elected to the episcopacy from the pastorate. He was born in 1825 in New York state and joined the church at 10 years of age. He has had experience in educational work and was unusually successful as a pastor. In 1876 he visited Europe and Asia and organized the conferences of Sweden, Norway and South India.

BISHOP EDWARD G. ANDREWS, D. D., LL. D.

The Wonder Book.

However viewed the Bible is the most wonderful book of the world. No other religion possesses anything at all corresponding to it. The more it is studied the more marvelous it appears. It is unique in contents, unrivaled as literature, singular in mode of composition and remarkable in manner of transmission. Most wonderful of all is the interest it has awakened in the last half century among the most cultivated and profound minds of the world, the startling confirmation of its accuracy by discoveries in Egypt, Babylonia and Palestine and the corroboration of its views by the highest results of scientific and philosophical research.

A Good Start.

If we would be successful in any undertaking, whether temporal or spiritual, we should be careful to get a good start. I have no sympathy with the saying that a bad beginning makes a good ending. I know that occasionally some come out all right in spite of a bad beginning, but these are exceptions and not the rule. As a rule, people who start well come out well. If we would have a good day spiritually, we should see to it that we start well.—Christian Standard.

Give and Get.

It is not so much the gift as the giver that makes a thing of value. It is not the form of presentation that will be remembered, but the spirit.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text:—The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them. Psalm xxxvii: 7.—Aug. 28, 1898.

8. "Then the king of Syria warred against Israel and took counsel with his servants, saying In such and such a place shall be my camp." From the story of Cain and Abel onward all the characters in the Bible are either for God or against him and are seen either leaning upon his wisdom or upon their own. But the borrowed ax at the bottom of the river tells the condition of all men apart from God. All are lost and helpless to recover themselves, and how can such think to do aught for or effectually against God? The stick that caused the iron to swim and be recovered is, like the tree cast into the waters of Mara, suggestive of him who is the tree of life, who only can recover lost souls or make bitter waters sweet.

9. "And the man of God sent unto the king of Israel saying, Beware that thou pass not such a place, for thither the Syrians are come down." Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants, the prophets (Amos iii, 7). As he told Samuel about Saul whom he would send to him to be anointed king, and also told him what would happen to him the day he left him, adding, "Do as occasion serve thee, for God is with thee," so he sees the end from the beginning of every day for each of us, and if we leave our way with him he will bring it to pass and order our steps to his glory and to our highest good.

10. "And the king of Israel sent to the place which the man of God told him and warned him of and saved himself there, not once nor twice." Thus illustrating II Chron. xx, 20, "believe in the Lord, your God, so shall ye be established; believe his prophets, so shall ye prosper." There is nothing on earth so sure as the word of God, for it is forever settled in heaven (Ps. cxix, 89), and, though all else may fade and fail, the word of God shall stand forever. (Isa. xl, 8.)

11. "Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was sore troubled for this thing, and he called his servants and said unto them, Will ye not show me which of us is for the king of Israel?" For unless there was a traitor among his men how else could his plans be made known to his enemy? Thus reasoned the king of Syria, for he knew naught but human wisdom, and yet he knew that the incurable disease of leprosy had been healed in Israel, and was it not possible that one who had connection with such power might also be able to reveal secrets?

12. "And one of his servants said, None, my lord, O king, but Elisha, the prophet, that is in Israel telleth the king of Israel the words that thou speaketh in thy bed chamber." Can any hide himself in secret places, that I shall not see him? saith the Lord. Do not I fill heaven and earth? said the Lord (Jer. xxiii, 24). Thou compasseth my path and my lying down and art acquainted with all my ways, for there is not a word in my tongue, but lo, O Lord, thou knowest it altogether. Yea, the darkness hideth not from thee, but the night shineth as the day; the darkness and the light are both alike to thee (Ps. cxxxix, 3, 4, 12). It was one of the servants who told the king about Elisha, and it was the servants who persuaded Naaman to wash and be clean.

13. "And he said, Go and spy where he is, that I may send and fetch him. And it was told him, saying, Behold, he is in Dothan." How blind and stupid people are who know not God. Even the devil himself seems at times to act like a perfect fool. Might not the king of Syria have said, "Well, if this man somehow knows my secret plans and tells his king, there is no use in my trying to get him, for he will know that I am coming and will hide himself from me." But he is blinded by his master, the devil, and goes heedlessly on bent on his own purposes.

14. "Therefore he sent thither horses and chariots and a great host, and they came by night and compassed the city about." He must have felt that Elisha was more than an ordinary man or he would not have thought it necessary to send such a host to take one man. So he does the best he knows how to get his man and to be more sure of taking him he does it secretly by night, so that no human eyes can see what he is doing, for he knows nothing of him to whom the darkness and the light are alike.

15. "And when the servant of the man of God was risen early and gone forth, behold, an host compassed the city both with horses and chariots. And his servant said unto him, Alas, my master, how shall we do?" In two cases we have seen servanst wiser than their masters, but this servant does not seem to have profited as he might by having such a master. Even our Lord had to say to one of his disciples, "Have I been so long time with you and yet hast thou not known me, Philip?" (John xiv, 9).

16. "And he answered, Fear not, for they that be with us are more than they that be with them." Here is faith seeing the unseen. Moses endured as seeing him who is invisible. The things seen are temporal, but the things unseen are eternal. Happy are those who have learned to see the things that are invisible to ordinary eyes, who, like Stephen, look steadfastly into heaven and see the glory of God and Jesus and find comfort in his words, "Because I live, ye shall live also" (John xiv, 19). God would have his people without fear, and a prayerful study of the "fear nots" from the first one in Genesis xv, 1, onward, would greatly tend to this happy state of mind which would be very much to God's glory.

17. "And Elisha prayed and said, Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw, and behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha." We read in Rev. v, 11, that the angels are 10,000 times 10,000 and thousands of thousands, and a few of these would be sufficient to take care of Elisha. Our Lord said that his father would give him 12 legions of them if he asked for them, and we are told that they are ministering spirits, ministering unto the heirs of salvation (Heb. i, 14).

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Die älteste Frau Dresdens, die Rentiere Abrahamson, feierte ihren 102. Geburtstag bei ziemlicher körperlicher und geistiger Frische. Die Greisin kann sich ihr Bett noch selbst bereiten und hat einen sehr ruhigen Schlaf. Zu ihrem 100. Geburtstage ließ sie sich photographiren.—Dem Brückenlootsen Grahl ist für die von ihm bewirkte Errettung eines 12jährigen Mädchens vom Tode des Ertrinkens in der Elbe die silberne Lebensrettungsmedaille verliehen worden.

Blasewitz. Ein rüstiger Fußgänger ist der emer. Schuldirektor J. F. Streubel; derselbe hat den Weg von hier nach Hamburg zum 9. Deutschen Turnfeste zu Fuß zurückgelegt.

Leipzig. Meinungsverschiedenheiten bestanden bisher darüber, in welchem Hause sich die Weinwirthschaft befunden habe, in der der Student Goethe ein zartes Verhältniß mit dem Wirthstöchterlein Käthchen Schönkopf unterhielt. Zur Richtigstellung nahm neuerlichst der Verein für die Geschichte Leipzigs die Sache in die Hand und hat auf Grund amtlicher Unterlagen den Schiedsspruch gethan, daß die Schönkopf'sche Weinwirthschaft sich neben dem Geßwein'schen Kafe befand. Eine nun dort angebrachte Gedenktafel lautet: „Hier stand bis 1842 das Haus des Weinschenken Schönkopf. Zur Erinnerung an Goethe und Käthchen Schönkopf. Der Verein für die Geschichte Leipzigs."

Meißen. Der im Alter von 81 Jahren verstorbene Dr. med. Donner hat den größten Theil seines Vermögens zur Errichtung eines Genesungsheims für bedürftige Meißener Einwohner bestimmt. Diesem Zwecke soll das schön und frei auf dem Plossen gelegene Grundstück des Verblichenen dienen, das nach oberflächlicher Schätzung mit 75,000 Mark bewerthet ist, und zur Unterhaltung stehen die Zinsen eines Kapitals von rund 160,000 Mark zur Verfügung. Neben der Erfüllung dieser bedeutendsten Bestimmung hat die Stadt als Erbin rund 138,000 Mark an Legaten an wohlthätige Anstalten, an die Dienerschaft, an Freunde u. s. w. des Verstorbenen auszuzahlen.

Zittau. Die hier gegründete höhere Webschule wird im Oktober d. J. eröffnet werden. Es werden besondere Abtheilungen für die Vorbildung von Webmeistern, Musterzeichnern, Fabrikdirektoren und Kaufleuten eingerichtet. Die Leitung der Anstalt ist dem Direktor Ehrhardt, bisherigen Direktor der höheren Webschule zu Mülheim am Rhein, anvertraut worden.

Thüringische Staaten.

Oppurg. Auf hiesiger Bahnstation wurde der Briefträger Linke von der Lokomotive erfaßt und überfahren. Die Räder gingen ihm über Beine, Leib und Kopf, so daß der Körper des Unglücklichen in mehrere Theile zerstückelt wurde. Linke hinterläßt eine Frau und vier Kinder.

Sonneberg. Mit dem Bau der Telephonleitung Koburg-Sonneberg-Saalfeld-Leipzig-Halle-Berlin ist nunmehr von Koburg aus begonnen worden und dieselbe im Rohbau bis Annawerk fertig gestellt.

Weilar. Der Senator Hermann Schulze in Gifhorn, Hannover, hat der hiesigen evangelischen Kirchgemeinde die von ihm hier selbst erbaute Villa nebst Garten und Park als Pfarrwohnung, ein größeres Ackerlandgrundstück, sowie ein Kapital von 3500 Mark geschenkt, dessen Zinzen an eine arme Pfarrwittwe vergeben werden sollen.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. In einem Schuppen des Oswald-Quais brach ein gewaltiger Brand aus. Ehe die Feuerwehr ankam, stand der 250 Meter lange und 30 Meter breite Schuppen in vollen Flammen. Die ganze Ladung des am Schuppen liegenden Packetdampfers „Bolivia," die soeben ausgeladen war, ist gänzlich verbrannt, darunter 1100 Ballen Baumwolle, 2000 Ballen Baumwollsaat, 1200 Sack Kakao, eine große Menge Kaffee, eine bedeutende Partie Farbholz, riesige Blöcke Cedernholz, Häute und viele andere Kaufmannsgüter. Auch die Bureaus mit sämmtlichen Büchern, Landungspapieren konnten nicht gerettet werden. Der Gesammtschaden dürfte 1,500,000 Mark noch übersteigen.

Bremen. Hier ist der bekannte Haidedichter und Schriftsteller August Freudenthal, der Herausgeber der Zeitschrift „Niedersachsen," gestorben. Freudenthal ist nur 27 Jahre alt geworden. Seine letzte Dichtung war „Haidekkern" (Düt un dat in nordhannöversch Platt).

Lübeck. Der hiesige Dampfer „Africa" ist an der Küste von Gothland gestrandet. Nachrichten über Rettung der Mannschaft fehlen.

Oldenburg.

Delmenhorst. Hierorts ist das im Bau begriffene große Lagerhaus der Bremer Linoleumwerke (Ankermarke) zusammengestürzt und zwar in dem Augenblick, als die zahlreichen Arbeiter bis auf drei das Gebäude gerade verlassen hatten. Das ganz aus Stein und Eisen erbaute Gebäude, das schon nahezu vollendet war, bildet einen einzigen Trümmerhaufen, unter dem die drei Arbeiter begraben lagen. Seltsamer Weise war aber nur einer erheblich verletzt, während die beiden anderen nur leichtere Abschürfungen davongetragen hatten.

GREAT REDUCTIONS

for this week only.

Lamps.

20th Century '98 pattern,	$1.50
Crescent	.75
Happy Thought	1.00
Tally-ho	1.50
Silver King of the Road	2 00

Saddles.

Brown's pattern	.75
Hunt Hygeanic	.60
P. & T. Padded	.90
Christy	1.80
Gilliam	.80

Cyclometers.

Standard watch face	.35
Standard barrel	.50
U. S. Trip	.50
Bridgeport	.25

Chains 50 and 75c. each—and everything for the bicycle at

R FRUCHT'S,

CORNER PARK AVE., AND SECOND ST. tu

UNINTERRUPTED PASSENGER SERVICE TO

FORT MONROE OLD POINT COMFORT AND WASHINGTON

which are most attractive points at this time.

EXPRESS STEAMSHIPS OF THE OLD DOMINION LINE

Perform Daily Service.

Through tickets returning from Washington by rail or water.

For full information apply to Old Dominion S. S. Co., Pier 26, North River, New York.

W. L. GUILAUDEU, Vice-Pres. & Traffic Mgr. 12 31 tf

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS AND DECORATORS 141 North Avenue.

J. W. VAN SICKLE, 122 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J. FRESH & SALTED MEATS, GAME IN SEASON. Philadelphia Scrapple. Orders called for and delivered promptly. TELEPHONE 148 b.

WM. D. THICKSTUN Real Estate and Insurance, 197 North avenue

Ladies desiring KNIFE-PLEATING or PINKING done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 26tf

H. Eggerding, 121 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated C. O. D. CIGAR. The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

THE CRESCENT HOTEL, corner Somerset and Chatham streets, North Plainfield. Regular and transient boarders. RUDOLPH SPEIGEL, Proprietor

(B) AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED

Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

3 big buildings

—crowded with price-cut goods—

Realize how immense this stock of ours is? Stores run from Market to Campbell—from Campbell to Bank Sts—no limits to your choice—no such amazing price-drops ever listed—even in August! But Fall's lines, soon here, need more floor space than we've got.

All Chairs at bare cost

—don't need to tell you of the name we have for great, varied chair stocks. 12 different sets—no duplicates—dining chairs at half former costs. 50 reed, rattan and wicker rockers —$1.25, $2.50, $3.00. 100 sorts of odd rockers and chairs —palin woods and richly upholstered reds, greens, oak, antiques—$2.50, $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00. All porch and lawn furniture that's left below wholesale.

Cream of City's Carpet Snaps

—this week we'll take the stiffening out of every solitary carpet in this store—many of Fall's weaves have already come—they'll be included.

60c. Very Heavy Ingrains, 39c. yd. Body Brussels, 90c. 85c. All-Wool Ingrains, 65c, yd. Moquettes, 90c. 20 rolls Velvets and Tap Brussels at half. Remnants of choicest patterns—must go—bring room measures with you. Mattings 10c. yd. and up.

"Monarch" 2-hole high, $4.90 —all others that are left to go at same low rates. "Monarch" Vapor Stoves are the best from A to Z—ask to see the "Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove" —another marvel

$10.75—beveled mirror, rich polished oak, new shape—a $15 sideboard.

Other Sideboards: We put $18 ones at $13; $25 ones at $15; $28 ones at $20; $35 ones at $25; $65 ones at $50—some that were $125 to $100.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St., Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS.

Note first name "Amos."

Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

E. E. MARSHALL & CO., 167 NORTH AVE. Painters and Paper Hangers. For the next 60 days we will sell WALL PAPERS at cost. Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Picture Mouldings and Glass.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance. 177 NORTH AVENUE.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER, Rapid, Simple, Durable, IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.

The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO., 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y. 5 20 4m

BOICE, RUNYON & CO., — DEALERS IN — Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited. BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER. ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER. 169 NORTH AVENUE.

Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phoenix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS, Dealers in first-class PIANOS and ORGANS

We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.

221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD. J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.

Madison Avenue and Third Street.

Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.

MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.

SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.

DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order

BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.

FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs, Casings and Stops in stock for sale.

GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.

Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props. [Turning and Scroll Sawing.]

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 50, 7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 22, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 11 28 p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a. m.; 12 55, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 9 15, 10 22 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St. at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturday only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 10 00 p. m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St., at 7 10, 7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 2 25, 3 30, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 2 30, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 8 55 p. m., 12 15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 00, 8 27, 9 38, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 3 20, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 22, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 11 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 38, 1 45, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05, 8 38, 9 03, 10 08 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 26, 6 12, 7 35, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 25, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01, [2 11 except Saturdays] 2 27, 3 35, 4 36, 5 03, 5 35, 6 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 20, p. m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 06, 9 05, a.m; 2 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 30, 10 15, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 33, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 2 20, 4 30, 5 28, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m; 12 35, 1 20, 5 15, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 8 42, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01 2 27, 5 26, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m; 2 03 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m; 12 32, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m; 6 20 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, & c with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

8 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 08 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only] [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 22, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m; 1 15, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 22, 6 21, 7 03, 8 45 p. m. Sundays, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 22 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p. m Sundays 8 52 a.m

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 09, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*, 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 38* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46, a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a.m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 6 38 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H OLHAUSEN, General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 7 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02, a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 13 p.m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 6 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent, S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE, General Passenger Agent, 26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

A CIRCLE IN THE SAND

BY KATE JORDAN

AUTHOR OF "THE KISS OF GOLD" AND "THE OTHER HOUSE" ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY THE AUTHOR

[CONTINUED.]

CHAPTER XXIII.

A man on horseback appeared at the head of the road leading from one of the cup shaped hills to the fazenda Ricardo in S. Paula de Muriahe, in the province of Rio Janeiro. He wore a short, white coat and nankeen trousers. A blue scarf, loosely knotted, showed a few inches of darkly tanned throat. A wide leafed straw hat, evidently of Brazilian manufacture, was pulled over his eyes. Even in shadow the eyes were unmistakably Donald Sefain's.

He pulled in his horse and remained lost in a study of the scene, while the sunlight of a Brazilian January bathed him in an intense flood.

On every hand as far as the eye could see the land was prostrate under the stare of a pitiless sky. There was no shadow near him save that of his horse and his own broad hatted figure. Half way down the hill one bushy headed palm and the prongs of some cacti lay patterned sharply on the bare and dazzling earth. Below, in the middle distance, he saw the fazenda, the ugly factory, the unsheltered square and cluster of outbuildings. Behind him lay the waving line of hills on which the coffee shrubs flourished and from which the soft, monotonous chant and quavering of the negroes came to him.

This scene made his life—the coffee bearing hills, the unsheltered road lying between them. Ugly, arid, lonely, were the words that rose in his mind as he paused there. The very truth and force of the artist in him made his heart rise in hot revolt. Hatred and longing were in his steady gaze.

In a few moments another rider came out of the plantation and drew up beside him. He was a big, fair haired man, his light blue eyes a strange anomaly in his senna brown face. When he spoke, his broad, musical accent conjured a vision of English fields on a spring morning instead of the hot, slothful land blazing around him.

"Waiting for me, Sefain?"

"No, I was thinking. I knew you'd follow."

The Englishman looked at him, hesitated and at length spoke:

"Sefain, you're making a hard fight here, aren't you?" He asked the question abruptly as they moved on at a crawling pace.

"Why?" and Donald's uncommunicative soul, aroused to interest, looked for a moment speculatively from his brilliant eye.

"Oh, I can see it. You hold your tongue better than any man I've ever met, and I've knocked about a bit in this contrary world. But I know you are simply sickening for a sight of home—and some woman."

The words sent a dark flush up Donald's cheek and his silence was cold.

"Fact. But don't suppose I'm trying to force your confidence, my boy." He laid his hand on Donald's wrist. "I speak this way, because—well, because I'm deuced sorry for you"—

"You're wasting your pity then. What the devil do you mean? One would think I'd been playing the part of a sentimental fool."

"Hold on, mi amigo. Let not 'the Inglez' quarrel and set a bad example to these brown beggars here," and an imperturbable smile distended Armitage's full cheeks. "I haven't finished. I'm sorry, and I'm envious at the same time. God! To be not yet 30 and in love. To know the world—only in one pair of eyes and comprehend heaven in the touch of five slim fingers. What would not I give to feel this, tell myself fondly I was a fool and be glad I was! Hug your misery, my boy. Be such a fool. Some day, maybe, when you're like me and not a living thing is really necessary to you, when you know only the sleek and deadly level of practical self content, you'll remember and wish the longings which tear you now could come again and hurt you. That man only is blest whose happiness depends upon another human being."

Donald looked at him in amazement. He had never heard words like these from Armitage. They touched him too. Over his lean, brown face a dreaminess stole, and just as they crossed the fan-like shadow of the solitary palm upon the roadway he moved his companion's hand from his wrist and gripped it.

"Armitage," he said, roused for the moment out of his self reserve, "I almost wish, then, you could love a woman as miserably, as passionately, perhaps as hopelessly, as I do. She is the desire of my life and its greatest good."

"I knew it. The signs never fail. And now I want to talk to you. We might as well here as at the fazenda. Why don't you sell out to me or to Morgan, take what you've made and go home?"

"Home?" echoed Donald, unable to repress the note of hope and yearning in his voice at sound of that sweet word. "Why?"

"Do you think this"—with a contemptuous gesture toward the group of low, tiled roof buildings and the bare land—"pays for the pain in the heart? As for the money you make, it's not much for the struggle. The days are gone when big fortunes were made in coffee planting. It doesn't matter much whether my bones eventually lie under this sun or Korea's, and it's the same with Morgan. But you—well, there's a woman you love far away from this wilderness. For God's sake, seize your happiness, sell out and go to her."

"I won't," said Donald quietly. "I've a task to accomplish."

"Other than the averaging of a profit of 8 shillings and tuppence on a bag of 60 kilograms?"

"Other than that. I am content with these medium profits. I came here not only to conquer or at least disarm fortune, but to conquer myself. I'll stay the time I intended."

They rode on silently. An old negress with a child on her hip stopped in the middle of the road, her palm outstretched, and, following a curious custom, cried in Spanish:

"Bless me!"

"God bless you!" said Armitage, and she went on.

A cart drawn by goats and filled with firewood passed them. Black vultures as motionless as if fashioned in basalt looked down from the stump of a dead tree as they neared the fazenda.

Close by the details of the place were even more unlovely than the misty whole seen from the hilltop. Cattle grazed loose under the charge of an aged negro squatting in the sun and slumbering with his almost fleshless face against his knee. The gates through which the two men passed were, like everything else about the place, constructed to do what was required of them with the least possible exertion, and having been swung back as if under protest when the horses were pushed against them they returned only half way with a screech eloquent of rusty hinges and stuck fast in a tuft of weeds. A large family of cats too attenuated to frolic strolled languidly around the paved square or sat winking their half blind eyes in the glare. From some of the white laborers' cottages came the smell of pork and frying bread. Over it all the sun flamed hard.

Donald and Armitage alighted at the factory, and from this came the low crooning, the murmur of mixed song, heard wherever the negro works.

"I'm dead for a siesta. My clothes seem weighted with stones," said Armitage, yawning. "I was up before the sun this morning—long before it. So were you," he broke off suddenly, "and, by George, you look dead beat. You'd better go a little easier. Do as I do, Sefain. After your coffee lie down."

"I'm going to," said Donald listlessly.

"Yes, but sleep. Don't lie and think. Why don't you go now and let Tomas fetch your coffee at once? It's almost 3."

"After I see Seraphine and find out what that rascal of an agent at the railway had to say in answer to my complaint. Must we keep trusting his honesty in weighing the sacks? I'd as soon trust the devil."

"Ah, what can we do? That's the leakage through which our profits drip. But because time and exertion are as valuable as money in this enervating plague spot we must trust as we go and be cheated from the moment we leave the sacks at the station to the moment they are shipped in Rio. Don't let me think of it. The helplessness of it drives me frantic. It's too hot to object even to being fleeced," and Armitage swung across to Morgan's house, where he knew pork and plantains were waiting for him.

Half an hour later Donald, with hands in trousers pockets and hat tilted lazily over eyes that seemed asleep, went down the stone square to the end farthest from the factory and paused before a small house exactly like the others save that it stood apart, a palm within a few feet throwing a top heavy shadow across its white facade.

Home—that silent, shaded little house of four small rooms where no familiar face ever welcomed him and no voice but his own or his servant's vibrated on the sleepy air. As Donald looked upon it now the quiet place seemed to feel the dissatisfaction rising from his tormented heart and to meet it with almost servile protest.

He had done what he could to make the house habitable. It was even a pretty house when compared with the bare hideousness with which Armitage and Morgan were content. The laced bamboo flaps on the windows made the place swim in gloom as restful after the sunlight as the feeling of a cool hand on the brow. There was matting on the floor, a hammock swung in a corner, some sketches of his own were upon the walls, some books on the mantelshelf. Chief among the books were Anne's and just above them hung a small, unframed pastel he had made, showing her face with the expression he loved best, the eyes glancing sideways, half questioning, tender.

He dropped the big manilla hat to the floor, sank into a cane chair and stretched his body out in a way expressive of unspeakable weariness. Now that his forehead was bared, the sun's strength was seen in the pallor of the skin just below the hair, making a division as sharp as a saber cut.

Armitage was right; he was used up and needed a rest. His hand sought some cigars upon a small table and then slipped back. It would be better not to smoke until Tomas had brought his coffee, Tomas of the many lies, the sickly sweet smile and the coral tipped pendants in objectionable ears.

All sorts of thoughts and half thoughts floated through his mind, the heaviness of the day, the knavery of the Portuguese agent on the Dom Pedro II railway, the wish to make money faster, the surprising words Armitage had spoken on the road, and always, no matter what his surface thought, the fierce and living consciousness of Anne underlying all, the ungovernable longings he had let speak in that last letter to her, the craving for her answer, the constantly recurring waves of homesickness checked by returning determinations to be strong to the end.

One more year of work, and he would have tested himself enough and made enough money to go back to New York. He saw the town plainly and with an unappeasable longing. There were The Citizen offices, the panorama of sparkling bay and clotted smoke against a copper sky seen from its western windows, the brisk crowds on Broadway, snow, furs and violets, but most of all Anne's rooms, the firelight clasping her as in a confidence, and perhaps cold, sweet rain washing a winter plant upon the window sill—cold, cold, sweet rain, not the sticky mist and windless showers falling at intervals in the hot season. He longed to feel its riot and chill against his face and hear the ring of the stone pavements under his feet as he hurry through miles of tropy streets to Anne's side—

Tomas entered with the coffee and a dish of peppered chicken. But musing across the room he paused and let his melancholy eyes rest upon his master. He was asleep, his head fallen back and exhaustion marking the features. Sleep was better for him than peppered chicken, Tomas reasoned, and remained considerately quiet, his gaze as melancholy but more watchful as he lifted a piece of the meat to his lips with his fingers and rhythmically licked their brown tips. It was indeed well for his master to slumber on, and if he took another piece there would still be enough.

Before he could materialize the thought voices outside surprised him. He hurried to the door and met the Spanish housekeeper of Senor Morgan about to enter. At a little distance behind her he saw a small group of people, two strange women, evidently "Inglez," and with them Senor Armitage. At the entrance to the court stood an ox cart in which the visitors must have come from the station. The heavy beasts were rubbing their noses together, moving the iron bells upon their collars and sending a lonely clang through the sunlight.

"Mother of God, the senor will be surprised!" Morgan's housekeeper was saying in shrill tones, swaying from hip to hip in her excitement. "He will shout and throw his hat into the air for joy when he knows. Ah, you will all see! Aye, it is wonderful. Out of the way, stupid pig!" to Tomas. "I am to tell the senor that his love has come to him over thousands of miles."

"The senor sleeps as if the sun had touched him," interposed Tomas with a glance of murder, for he hated the housekeeper, who annoyed his reveries by talking too much and knew so well how to take precise aim when she threw broken crockery at him. "I would not rouse him for the chicken even"—

"Because, beast, you wanted to eat it yourself! This is more important than food. Let me in!"

Armitage pulled her back and motioned Tomas aside.

"Go away, both of you!" he said in a whisper of command.

He turned to one of the strangers. She was young, dark eyed, a little too white and slender for his idea of beauty and with marks of travel weariness on her face.

"Let your maid wait here. You will find Sefain in this house. They say he is sleeping."

Anne's lids sank for a moment over her eyes as if a throe of insupportable longing coursed through her, which might have been apprehension, pity or love, and she entered the dim room. She stood with loosely clasped hands and looked down at Donald. Often during the travail of the long journey so impulsively undertaken she had wondered what emotions would come to her in this moment when she faced the struggler who needed and loved her, the man she loved.

Donald's lids showing blue against the broken and sunken face, the clamminess upon the strip of pale forehead, the parched lips parted, the unguarded heart crying out its distress in the fixed expression of sorrow and appeal, were like so many chords around her heart drawing her toward him. She had done right to come to him.

A wild joy filled her as she crossed the room to his side. But though she leaned above him he still slept, not knowing heaven was near. She sank on her knees and laid her cheek upon his drooping hand as she called him clearly twice. Donald started forward, dazed. The reality came in Anne's kiss as she clung to him.

THE END.

THE GRANDVIEW

Meat Market

George Egel, Manager.

Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave. and Somerset street. 8 11

Public Sale of Real Estate.

City of Plainfield.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a warrant issued by George W. DeMeza, Esq., City Judge of the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union, to make the unpaid taxes assessed on lands tenements, hereditaments and real estate in said City of Plainfield in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-six, the subscriber, the officer nominated and appointed by the Common Council for that purpose, will on the fourteenth day of September, 1898, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, at the Collector's Office, No. 109 Park Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, sell the land, tenements, hereditaments and real estate, hereunder described, at public vendue, for theshortest time for which any person or persons will agree to take the same and pay such taxes, together with the interests thereon, and costs, fees, charges, and expenses.

Name.	Block No.	No. of Feet.	Lot No. & Location.	Amount of Tax.
Armstrong, Samuel,	11	40	H. & L., 252 East Front St	$18 40
Anthony, James L.,	24	100	H. & L., 1203 Putnam Ave	115 00
Allen, Montana,	..	50	V. L., 305-307 Watson Ave	2 30
Austin, Julia B.,	10	12	H. & L., 115 Madison Ave	5 18
Andrus, A. A.,	3	60	V. L., 1088-1090 Central Ave	6 90
Allen, Est. Phebe A.,	9	50	V. L., 206-208 Plainfield Ave	9 20
Apgar, Nevius,	1	50	V. L., 42-44 Clinton Ave	2 30
Arthur, Walter S.,	13	50	H. & L., 952-954 West Fifth St	27 60
Bird, Mrs. Sarah,	12	40	H. & L., 321 East Front St	46 00
Bird, Fred. W.,	7	150	V. L., 732-742 East Front St	17 25
Bloom, Mary,	7	50	V. L., 1014 East Front St	5 75
Burdick, James W.,	15	50	H. & L., 344 East Third St	11 50
Burk, Est. John,	20	50	H. & L., East Sixth St	36 80
Bleven, Edward W & Kimball, C. W.,	4	75	V. L., 1201 Prospect Ave	6 90
Bird, Fred. W.,	20	100	H. & L., 60-66 Elm Place	23 00
Bird, Fred. W.,	20	..	H. & L., rear 60-66 Elm Place	18 40
Bird, Sarah,	12	26	H. & L., 13 Westervelt Ave	13 80
Bird, Sarah,	12	55	H. & L., 15-17 Westervelt Ave	23 00
Broub, Albert,	12	49	S. & L., 322 Richmond St	11 50
Brinkley, Albert,	7	100	H. & L., 306-312 Berckman St	4 60
Bond, Selena E.,	7	50	V. L., 131-133 Jackson Ave	2 30
Bloom, Mary,	7	50	V. L., 124-126 Jackson Ave	2 30
Brenner, Elizabeth,	..	50	V. L., 270-272 Jackson Ave	2 30
Bloom, Mary,	8	50	V. L., 112-114 Netherwood Ave	3 45
Bond, Selena E.,	8	50	V. L., 120-122 Netherwood Ave	3 45
Bond, Selena E.,	8	50	V. L., 136-138 Netherwood Ave	2 30
Bacon, P. M.,	5	..	V. L., Lake St	2 30
Bentlestetter, Fritz,	7	..	H. & L., Cushing Road	2 30
Brown, Mrs. Catharine,	2	..	Store & L., 836 South AVe., bal.	19 84
Brand, Est. James,	11	50	H. & L., 408 West Third St	23 00
Brand, Est. James,	10	50	H. & L., 414 West Third St	23 00
Brand, Est. James,	10	50	H. & L., 420 West Third St	27 00
Burk, Bridget,	9	30	H. & L., 520 West Third St	9 20
Burk, Bridget,	2	65	V. L., 706 West Third St	7 48
Brown Catherine,	13	40	H. & L., 534 West Sixth St	9 20
Brown, Catherine,	13	30	H. & L., 544 West Sixth St	9 20
Brown, Catherine,	2	375	V. L., 1000-1028 West Eighth St	8 63
Brannon, James	4	50	H. & L., 1055 Rose St	4 60
Brand, Mrs. James,	14	50	H. & L., 426 Madison Ave	46 00
Brady, Bernard,	4	100	V. L., 934-938 Madison Ave	23 00
Brand, Est. James,	10	40	H. & L., 203 New St	9 20
Burk, Mrs. Kate A.,	9	31	H. & L., 216 Plainfield Ave	4 60
Boice, Est. C.,	1	200	V. L., 1215-1325 Dunellen Ave	4 60
Brown, Edward E.,	1	200	V. L., 1415-1433 Dunellen Ave	4 60
Brown, Edward E.,	1	200	V. L., 1414-1432 Dunellen Ave	4 60
Blake, Est. A. V.,	3	166	V. L., 412-418 Elizabeth St	4 60
Bundy, Jane Ann,	3	50	H. & L., 425 Elizabeth St	9 20
Blake, Est. A. V.,	3	50	V. L., 1117-1119 Field Ave	1 15
Becker, Christopher,	..	..	Dye H. & L., Washington Ave	2 30
Cole, George W.,	8	..	V. L., 2 acres, 1201-1249 E. Front St	34 50
Cole, Est. Elias,	8	..	H., B. & F., 1230 East Front St.	207 00
Cole, Dan. S.,	..	44	H. & L., 414 East Third St	10 35
Clark, Katura,	16	20	H. & L., 422 East Third St	9 20
Cole, Est. Elias,	7	50	H. & L., 1222 South Ave	23 00
Cokefair, Mrs. Ella J.,	19	80	H. & L., 119 Crescent Ave	161 00
Case, Mrs. Lucretia,	23	70	H. & L., 117 East Ninth St	62 10
Coriell, W. W.,	12	60	H. & L., 1820 Elm Place	27 60
Carpenter, A. F.,	7	50	V. L., 111-113 Jackson Ave	2 30
Cole, Geo. W.,	7	50	B. & L., 119-121 Jackson Ave	4 60
Cuff, Lewis H.,	6	..	East of Belvidere Ave	2 30
Chase, Mrs. Jennett	7	550	V. L., North Ave	37 95
Carey, T. J.,	2	50	B. & L., 546-548 West Front St	23 00
Chase, Jr., Winfield Scott,	1	50	H. & L., 1703 West Front St	9 20
Cole, Maud B.,	10	40	B. S. & Fs, 200-206 W. Second St	138 00
Chapot & Sons,	2	800	Factory, 1508-1626 S. Sec. St	138 00
Casey, Morris,	14	100	H. & L., 415 West Third St	43 70
Conway, Mary,	13	30	H. & L., 430 West Fourth St	8 05
Crane, Mary E.,	1	50	V. L., 308-310 Lyman Place	2 30
Condee, Frank,	-17	30	H. & L., 515 West Sixth St	14 95
Claassen, Mrs. Mary,	9	50	H. & L., 133 Liberty St	20 70
Condee, Jacob F.,	2	45	H. & L., 332-334 Manson Place	10 00
DeBaud, Est. A.,	12	..	H. & L., 323 East Front St	41 40
DeBaud, Est. A.,	7	200	V. L., 769-807 East Second St	13 80
Dixon, Elizabeth,	16	50	V. L., 612-614 East Third St	2 30
Dickenson, Sarah A.,	24	100	V. L., 1019-1025 Putnam Ave	23 00
DeGray, Thomas,	..	44	V. L., 283-285 Watson Ave	1 84
DeRevere, Leonora F.,	5	250	H. & L., 250 Woodland Ave	80 50
Darby, John,	6	..	V. L., East of Belvidere Ave	2 30
DeBaud, Est. A.,	1	50	H. & L., 1715 West Front St	9 20
DeBaud, Est. A.,	1	50	H. & L., 1719 West Front St	9 20
DeBaud, Est. A.,	1	50	H. & L., 1723 West Front St	9 20
Deady, James,	9	33	H. & L., 533 West Third St	20 70
Dunham, Joseph T.,	14	50	H. & L., 514 Arlington Ave	27 60
Day, Patrick,	13	34	H. & L., 319-321 Liberty St	18 40
Darling, Est. W. S.,	1	150	V. L., 47-53 Clinton Ave	6 90
Elliott, Mary Jane,	2	300	V. L., 1¼ acres, 1033-1055 W. 8th St	6 90
Elliott, Richard O.,	2	..	¾ acre, West Eighth St	3 45
Frazee, Whitney,	..	37½	H. & L., 707 South Ave	16 10
Fisher, ——,	7	50	V. L., 208-210 Netherwood Ave	2 30
Finch, N. P. T.,	5	300	H. & L., 221-247 Belvidere Ave	103 50
Flynn, Bernard,	8	50	V. L., 344-346 Terrill Road	2 30
French, John H.,	2	36	V. L., 614 West Third St	4 03
French, K. Mable,	14	40	H. & L., 112 West Fourth St	46 00
Fish, Ferdinand,	3	..	V. L., 963 Sherman Ave	23 00
Flynn, James,	9	50	H. & L., 227 Plainfield Ave	20 70
Giles, I. R.,	16	50	H. & L., 315 East Sixth St	27 60
Griffin, Frank H.,	..	125	V. L., 615-623 Leland Ave	5 75
Graham, James,	5	150	V. L., 622-628 Woodland Ave	10 35
Gorden, Alexander,	1	50	V. L., 1645 West Front St	2 30
Guthell, Ferdinand,	2	175	H. L., West Front St	46 00
Galbert, Peter,	13	40	H. & L., 524 West Fourth St	10 35
Green, Mrs. Sarah A. B.,	17	95	H. & L., 414 West Eighth St	89 13
Garnand, Arnald,	1	150	V. L., — Jefferson Ave	3 45
Hetfield, Walter L.,	12	56	H. & L., 307 East Second St	27 60
Huff, Adelia & Josephine,	23	70	H., B. & L., 931 Park Ave	52 90
Hunter, Est. Jane,	11	60	H. & L., 432 Watchung Ave., bal.	32 20
Hart, Carroe,	7	50	V. L., 201-203 Jackson Ave	2 30
Hart, Levi E.,	7	150	V. L., 200-206 Netherwood Ave	6 90
Hart, Carrie E.,	7	100	V. L., 220-226 Netherwood Ave	4 60
Hoffmaster, Frederick,	..	50	V. L., 909-911 New Front St	1 15
Hopack, Margaret,	1	50	V. L., 1653-1655 South Second St	2 30
Hendry, J. H.,	2	50	V. L., 1041-1043 West Third St	2 30
Hunter, Caroline M.,	2	100	H. & L., 661 West Seventh St	86 25
Hall, Albert E.,	17	50	H. & L., 715 Plainfield Ave	46 00
Herbert, Frank,	2	25	H. & L., 309 Stebbins Place	9 20
Hartfelder, Geo. & Bro.,	2	44	V. L., 212-214 Stebbins Place	4 08
Irwin, Roger,	7	25	V. L., 90 North Ave	1 15
Iden, J. H.,	4	50	V. L., 1075-1077 Rose St	2 30
Jones, Emma A.,	7	250	V. L., 432-450 LaGrande Ave	23 00
Jones, Emma A.,	7	250	V. L., 638-652 LaGrande Ave	13 80
Jones, Emma A.,	24	100	V. L. to Cedar B., Putnam Ave	11 50
Jones, Emma A.,	24	100	V. L. to Richmond St	11 50
Jones, Emma A.,	20	60	V. L., 701-705 Richmond St	6 90
Jones, Emma A.,	20	..	V. L., 700-740 Richmond St	11 50
Jones, Emma A.,	7	400	H. & L., 430-464 Kensington Ave	46 00
Jones, Emma A.,	7	75	H. & L., 468 Kensington Ave	34 50
Jones, Emma A.,	7	150	V. L., —— Kensington Ave	11 50
Jones, Emma A.,	7	400	V. L., 467-493 Kensington Ave	18 40
Johnson, William,	..	220	V. L., 800-814 George St	6 90
Kenyon, James H.,	16	20	H. & L., 426 East Third St	9 20
Kenyon, James H.,	16	20	H. & L., 428 East Third St	9 20
Kenyon, James H.,	16	20	H. & L., 430 East Third St	9 20
Kenyon, James H.,	12	125	Shop & L., 429-435 East Third St.	23 00
Kenyon, James H.,	12	40	H. & L., 218-220 Richmond St

Have You Seen

The Fancy Timothy Hay that we are now receiving? It is all last year's crop and far superior to most that we have seen.

BALED BY OURSELVES—which means large bales, free from dirt.

Don't Risk New Hay.

STORES: Elizabeth. Elizabethport. Red Bank. Plainfield. Somerville.

The PAUL T. NORTON CO.

Everything for Horses, Cattle and Poultry.

SPORTING.

AROUND THE BASES.

Games Played Yesterday

At Cleveland:
New York.. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
Cleveland... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 *—1
Batteries, Warner and Rusie; Crieger and Powell. Base hits, New York 1, Cleveland 6. Errors, New York 3, Cleveland 1.

At Pittsburg:
Brooklyn.... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1
Pittsburg... 0 4 1 0 0 0 0 0 *—5
Batteries, Ryan and Dunn; Bowerman and Hastings. Base hits, Brooklyn 8, Pittsburg 10. Errors, Brooklyn 3, Pittsburg 2.

At Chicago:
Boston..... 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0—2
Chicago..... 2 0 2 4 1 1 0 1 *—9
Batteries, Willis and Bergen; Callahan and Chance. Base hits, Boston 7, Chicago 10. Errors, Boston 3, Chicago 0.

At Cincinnati:
Baltimore... 1 0 0 1 3 2 6 0 1—14
Cincinnati.. 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1
Batteries, Maul and Robinson; Breitenstein and Peitz. Base hits, Baltimore 18, Cincinnati 3. Errors, Baltimore 1, Cincinnati 3.

At Louisville:
Philadelphia 0 1 5 1 3 0 0 3 0—13
Louisville... 0 0 2 0 3 0 0 0 2—7
Batteries, Platt and McFarland; Magee and Kittridge. Base hits, Philadelphia 15, Louisville 9. Errors, Philadelphia 5, Louisville 4.

Second game:
Philadelphia..... 0 1 0 0 0 0—1
Louisville..... 4 1 0 0 1 2—8
Batteries, E. Murphy and M. Murphy; Dowling and Powers. Base hits, Philadelphia 3, Louisville 16. Errors, Philadelphia 1, Louisville 1.

At St. Louis:
Washington. 1 2 1 0 2 0 1 1 0—8
St. Louis.... 0 2 2 4 0 1 1 0 *—10
Batteries, Weyhing and McGuire; Sudhoff and Kinslow. Base hits, Washington 11, St. Louis 14. Errors, Washington 7, St. Louis 6.

How The Clubs Stand.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Boston	69	37	.651
Cincinnati	68	40	.630
Baltimore	63	38	.624
Cleveland	63	43	.594
New York	60	45	.571
Chicago	59	49	.546
Pittsburg	54	54	.500
Philadelphia	49	53	.480
Brooklyn	39	63	.382
Louisville	40	67	.374
Washington	39	67	.368
St. Louis	31	78	.284

There are a number of well known college men on the nine of the New York Athletic Club team which will meet the Riverdale Field Club here Saturday afternoon. Sankey, the second baseman, is an old Princeton man, having played on the 'varsity team from that famous institution. Affeld was captain in his team of both baseball and football teams at Cornell and make himself a great reputation. Reed comes from Yale where he played in the field. The right fielder, Ayers, is a graduate of Lafayette and played on her nine. The battery, the famous Dunne brothers, are now members of the alumni of Brown University. They did great work on the Brown team several years ago and are still playing good ball.

The Riverdale Field Club has two games arranged with the Woodbridge Browns. The Riverdales will play at Woodbridge on the morning of Labor Day. The return game will be played here Saturday afternoon, September 17th. The Browns are too well known in Plainfield to need any introduction. They have been here before and have usually managed to get away with the Plainfield team. They are now greatly strengthened and will give the Riverdales a hot fight for victory. The game of Labor Day morning will be a hot one as the Browns are considered invincible on their own grounds.

There is every prospect of a very exciting game at the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon when the Riverdale Field Club of this city will meet the team from the New York Athletic Club. The latter club is now probably the strongest of all the amateur athletic organizations in this part of the country and they support a crack nine composed chiefly of college men. There is already considerable rivalry between the Riverdale team and the N. Y. A. C. boys and both teams are very anxious to win out in this, their first meeting of the season.

The management of the Riverdale Field Club has decided to make a change in the hour of beginning the baseball games at the Crescent Oval for a time at least. Heretofore the games have been called at 3:30 o'clock. This was rather early for many of those who come out from New York, and to accommodate them the Riverdale Club will hereafter start its games at 4 o'clock The change will begin tomorrow. The game will begin promptly at the time named.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"A Trip to Coontown," to be produced at Music Hall Tuesday night next, is a production pleasing surprise to both press and public, and is the best diverson ever given by the negro on the stage. When an entertainment is announced to be given by colored performers, the general impression is that it will be a combination of minstrelsy, plantation and levee scenes, with perhaps a cake walk, but this performance is a departure from anything yet given by colored performers, and on its second tour many new and novel features will be introduced, new songs especially written by Cole & Johnson, authors of "The Chinee & Coon," "4-11-44," "The Black Four Hundred's Ball," etc., and everything will be done to excel the brilliant success of the past season. Messrs. Cole and Johnson originated and staged the production of "The Black Patti Troubadous" season of '98, and were the leading comedians. In this production they are the stars, and have been most enthusiastically received, the performance being attended by society everywhere. The company organized for their support being composed of the most refined as well as artistic colored talent in the world, including the well known comedians, Tom Brown as leading support, R. A. Kelley, J. A. Shipp, Lloyd G. Gibbs, the greatest living black tenor, Miss Julia Roane, soprano, and Miss Vincent Bradley, with an efficient chorus. In every way it is the best aggregation of colored entertainers to be seen.

—Debele's creamery, 127 B West Front street, is ready to supply the public with extra fine sweet cream, fresh sweet milk, fresh skim milk and fresh butter milk, both wholesale and retail.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Suydam leave tomorrow for a week's trip through the eastern States.

Medals for Long Service.

It is not so very uncommon a thing in Germany for a servant girl to remain in the employ of one family for forty years. In such cases, when the fortieth year is reached, the girl gets a golden cross from Empress Augusta Victoria. Last year twelve dozens of these crosses were distributed. Only one went to a Berlin domestic. It speaks as well for the mistress as for the maid, when the latter remains forty years in her employ.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

BABIES THRIVE ON IT. GAIL BORDEN EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK.

OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET ENTITLED "BABIES" SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOUSEHOLD. SENT ON APPLICATION.

NEW YORK CONDENSED MILK CO. NEW YORK.

STURGEON FISHING.

Capturing Half-Ton Fishes Is No Pinhook Recreation.

I saw a sturgeon in Victoria, on the cannery floor, says a writer in the Toronto Globe, measuring twelve feet by the tape and weighing more than six hundred pounds. Any one wishing to deceive the public by aid of a prevaricating camera should pose beside this twelve-foot fish. The men who skillfully and laboriously reduced it to sections with an axe said it was not an uncommon fish, though the biggest on the floor; that they often found them far larger and weighing as much as twelve hundred pounds.

Two men lifting a half-ton fish into their boat is the exciting feature of sturgeon fishing. The sturgeon, if not fastened in his thick hide, is apt to resent it. He shakes his head in emphatic dissent; and a head three feet long and as big as a log, when vigorously shaken by a half-ton body, is a thing to be avoided. The tail, too, is a source of danger, for it not only slaps with energy, but can cover a large surface with one application. The man new at the business is apt to get hurt the first time he helps to coax a wriggling sturgeon of standard size over a gunwale.

On the floor of the cannery the sturgeon is a great inert mass of fish. The first operation of the butcher is to chop off the head and tail with an axe, and for these free gifts of nature the Indians and Chinamen are eagerly waiting at the door. The fins are cut off with a knife, and these are not allowed to go to waste. As the refuse is shovelled along the planks to the river there is little allowed to pass the coast native and his cousin of the braided hair. Chinamen potter around the place and help to clear away the refuse for the sake of what they can glean, and have a weakness for taking parts not intended for the river. When such Mongolian tricks are discovered the Chinamen are all driven out with more noise than ceremony, but they take their expulsion with Oriental indifference, and in a few minutes are all back again.

Interesting Inventions.

Carpets, rugs, etc., are kept in place on the floor by a perforated plate which has a number of sharp points set in its surface to hold the edges of the carpet after the plate is screwed down to the floor.

A handy seam-ripping device is formed of a wire handle with the ends of the wire brought close together and rounded off, a sharp blade being set a short distance back of the points to sever the stitches as the tool is pushed along.

In an improved collar button a two-part expansible shank is fastened on the flat head, with shoulders on the shank to hold a small slotted plate, which fastens the collar in place, a loop on the plate retaining the necktie to prevent its slipping over the top of the collar.

Porcelain is to be used for monuments and tombstones, the stone being hollow and filled with concrete, after a tablet has been inserted in an open face on one side, having a flange cut around the edge to prevent removal from the outside.

Kettles, saucepans, etc., are provided with covers closed at the bottom to prevent steam gathering inside the cover and scalding the hands when the cover is lifted, the steam passing around a flanged rim at the top of the kettle and out through a curved spout.

Stovepipe sections are securely locked by a new fastener which is made by cutting a V-shaped tongue on one end of the pipe and a slit in the connecting end of the next pipe, the sections being turned around until the tongue fits in the slit.

Bootblack Supplies.

A business that has sprung up in New York in recent years is that of bootblack supplies. It owes its origin to the growth of the city, the multiplication of bootblack stands, and the introduction and extensive use of colored shoes. There are now a number of concerns, small but complete establishments, devoted to this business, that supply everything a bootblack requires, and his requirements are greater than they formerly were.

At one place there are kept on hand sixty-five varieties of shoe blacking or polish, for shoes of all kinds and colors, including blackings and polishes in boxes and bottles, and imported blackings as well as domestic, and waterproof blackings and oil. There are sold here cans for oil and for water; blacking pans, the small round pans made to hold a larger quantity of blacking than would be contained in a blacking box; brushes of all kinds, including daubers, dust brushes, and blacking brushes, whisk brooms and shoestrings of various kinds and colors.

Some of these establishments send out supply wagons, which regularly make the rounds of their customers at bootblacking stands all over the city and supply their wants, whatever they may be, on the spot.

What to Take.

"Doctor," said the man who worries about his health, "when symptoms of sluggishness assert themselves, in a season like this, what's a good thing to take?"

And the physician, who is sometimes absent-minded, but always patriotic, answered with emphasis:

"Havana!"

Tom—I must admit that I have been quite attentive to both girls, but of course I can't marry them both.

Dick (cheerfully)—Of course not. There's some consolation in that.

FURLOUGHS EXTENDED.

Volunteers Who Fought at Santiago Will Get Sixty Days' Leave

Washington, Aug. 26—A furlough for sixty days will soon be granted by the Secretary of War to practically every volunteer soldier at Montauk Point who was actively engaged in the Santiago campaign. The soldiers will be allowed to go to their homes, and at the end of sixty days will be required to report at a designated point, probably for mustering out.

The furloughs for thirty days granted yesterday to the men of the 71st New York and the 2d Massachusetts Volunteers have been extended to sixty days.

The decision to grant a general furlough to the men who fought at Santiago makes it probable that Camp Wikoff will be nearly deserted within a short time.

Those afflicted with contagious diseases will of course remain and those who are likely to be stricken with disease soon will not be allowed to pass quarantine.

FOR THE BABY SHOW

More Than 330 Have Been Registered for the Parade at Asbury Park.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 26—More than 331 children have been entered for the baby parade, so far. One of the most pathetic features of the parade will be the sight of sixty-five foundlings from the Jersey City Home for the Friendless, who are having an outing at Bradley Park, one of Asbury Park's suburbs.

All the other babies in the procession will be fondly arrayed for the event by mothers and cousins and sisters and aunts, but the matron of the summer home will divide her kindly attentions among the sixty-five small orphans. Each little one will wear red, white and blue ribbons.

The prizes given so far number between forty and fifty. The first prize, a pretty baby carriage, was given by the Saturday Half Holiday Excursion Band of the Franklin Street Epworth League, of Newark. There are also several English gocarts, baby's coats, powder boxes, mirrors, bracelets, teaspoons, doll carriages, atomizer, bottles of cologne, handkerchief boxes and jardiniere lamps.

—No better ice is sold than that furnished by the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company. Drop them a postal and they will call for your order.

LAIRE'S

CUT PRICES FOR THIS WEEK.

Screen Doors, hard wood plain, 80
" " " " fancy, 90
Screen Windows 23, 25, 35.
Ice Shredders with cover 45.
Excelsior Fruit Press $1.50.
Hammocks 50c and upwards.
Rubber Hose.
100 Clothes Pins 5c.
" " " 9c, best.
Toilet Paper 6 rolls 25c.
Toilet package 3 for 25c.
Finest Silver Polish 5c box.
Sole Agents for Lincoln Foundry.

TELEPHONE CALL 862.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield, N. J., August 22, 1898.

Adams Miss Mary	Kramer Mrs E
Allen Mr A M	Kions Miss J
Baily Mr J J	Lines Mr N L
Boyce Mr H	Long Mrs Anna
Birkett Mrs J	Mason Miss M
Bradley Mrs E A	Munn Miss
Brady Phil	Nicoll Miss L 2
Beud Miss G	Phillips Miss G
Burnett Mr E	Pugh Miss J D
Cheney Miss H	Sallie
Drayton Miss S F	Smith Miss E V
Feeney Mr T	Stapleton Miss C 2
Fisher Mr A	Sellers Miss Ida
Garrett Mr G H	Strryker J P
Gaurisy M S	Sullo Mr Carlo
Green Mrs C	Titus Mr G N
Hannan Jos B	Totten Miss C
Jackson Mr A W	Vail Mr A A
Johnson Mr Aug	Herndon Miss N
Kinsman Mrs	White Miss A
Klapper Mrs L	Wilson Miss L

THE STEAMER ST. JOHNS, of the Sandy Hook Route, will leave the Jersey City Station of the Central R. R. of New Jersey at 10:30 a. m. on SATURDAY AND SUNDAY, AUGUST 27th and 28th.

On Sunday the St. Johns will make a trip up the Hudson River opposite Grant's Tomb in addition to the trip around the Battleships.

Fare for either day—Adults 25 cents, Children 5 to 12 years, 15 cents.

E. S. F. RANDOLPH, DRUGGIST, Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.

PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

The Only Place to buy Huyler's is Leggett's Pharmacy, Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK. Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits.....$ 90,000

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. RUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. RUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter. Wm. McD. Corlell.
P. M. French. H. Mulford Estil.
Wm. M. Stillman. Isaac W. Bushmore.
J. W. Johnson. Wm. R. Coddington.
F. S. Runyon

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

MONEY TO LOAN—: ring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,500; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ½ mile from trolley, $2,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaRue, Plainfield, N. J. Real Estate and Insurance.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy, 309 EAST FRONT ST. Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.

Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield. "A word to the wise is sufficient." J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 22 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory, Taught by Miss Sarah A. Palmer, Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio—123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J. LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN. Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate. 303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE. Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

INSTRUCTION on the VIOLIN and REED ORGAN by MRS. G. W. SAUMS. (Pupil of Prof. K. A. Langlotz.) Residence 143 East Second street. Reference, ten years' teaching at Trenton, N. J. 4 21 tf

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY, 123 West Seventh St. Will Re-open Thursday, SEPTEMBER 15, 1898. Thirty-first year. Principals: MISS KENYON, MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S School and Kindergarten, 29 Washington Avenue, North Plainfield. WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL {35 Nassau St., New York City} 'Dwight Method' of Instruction. Students may take Day School (Nassau St.) or Evening School (9 West 13th St.) LL.B. in two years; LL.M. in three years. Special lectures in New Jersey practice. Send for catalogue. 8 1 2m-eod GEORGE CHASE, Dean.

MISS HELEN L. HALE receives pupils for private instruction in the ENGLISH BRANCHES, FRENCH AND LATIN. Delicate children and such as require special coaching will be given particular attention. Also classes in English literature will be formed. Applications may be made to MISS HALE, 120 Crescent avenue. 8 22 5w eod

Positively the LAST WEEK of the great A. M. E. Zion CAMP MEETING At Netherwood.

Closing Sermon at 8:30 p. m. Sunday, August 28th.

Electric Cars to the Grove. 8 22 1w

S. SCHEUER & CO.

SPECIAL BARGAINS FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Choice Groceries.		Choice Meats.
Condensed Milk, per can	5c	Prime Rib Roast, lb.	16c
Best Breakfast Cocoa, per can	18c	Choice Leg of Lamb, lb.	14c
Mason Jar Rubbers, doz.	3c	Choice Spring Broilers, lb.	20c
Strong Ammonia, bot.	4c	Best Sugar Cured Hams, lb.	10c
Large bottle assorted Pickles, bot	10c	Lean Breakfast Bacon, lb.	10c
Aspargus Tips, can	15c	Small Cal. Hams, lb.	7c
1 lb. can Corned Beef,	12c	Choice Salt Pork, lb.	9c
Pearl Tapioca, lb.	4c	Boiled Hams, lb.	25c
Cracker Dush, regular 10c lb	5c	Cooked Corned Beef, lb.	18c

DRINK Scheuer's Premium Java Coffee, 27c lb. Scheuer's Yum Yum Tea, 45c lb.

S. Scheuer & Co.

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE, REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89

A. WILLETT & SON, No. 107 Park Ave.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY. 127 B W. Front St.

I am ready to supply the public in general with FRESH MILK AND CREAM. Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES, Dealers in FURNITURE, 149-151 East Front St.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:- HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz. Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz -	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum -	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline - -	5c	Tar Soap, large cake -	5c

Hello?

Hello Partner!

How is it Fred Endress sells the BEST Broiler and Roasting CHICKEN for 20c. lb. Because he gets them right from the farm.

131-135 W. Front St. Branch 203 Liberty St.

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS, 181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.

FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

CITY MILLS. P. M. FRENCH, OWNER. 24 Somerset St. NEAR FRONT.

FEED, GRAIN AND HAY. Not at cost, but very near it. TELEPHONE NO. 24.

Doesn't take Much Money for MEDICINES Here. That is not nearly so much as they cost in other places. Our prices are ALWAYS LOWER than everybody else's—while quality is better than in most stores—as good as the best in all. All drugs, medicines and toilet requisites are new and fresh.

TRY POWERS' SHERBET.

POWERS' PHARMACY, Somerset street—Craig place.

CYCLISTS' CALENDAR.
Sun Rises 5:22 a. m.
Sun Sets 6:40 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be lighted at 7:40 p. m.

THE DAILY PRESS.

THE WEATHER.
Partly Cloudy Weather Tonight followed by Increasing Cloudiness Sunday; Cooler Sunday. Thermometer, 80.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

SOLDIERS COMPLAIN OF HARSH TREATMENT.

Officers Said to Be Too Severe in the Punishments.

WAGES GO FOR THE FINES.

MEN CONFINED FOR DAYS IN ILL-SMELLING GUARD HOUSES.

Privates Allege That the Best of Excuses Have Been Ignored by the Officers — Men Compelled to Work Overtime in Trenches Without Rations—When Rebelled Were Punished.

According to the stories that come from a good many of the privates in the Third Regiment, stationed at Pompton Lakes, where nearly all the Plainfield volunteers are, they are treated more like animals than men who have enlisted to fight for their country, and give up their life blood in its defense, if necessary. The following letter of complaint has been framed and promulgated by a number of them:

"As privates who have volunteered our services to the United States Army we desire to make public through the columns of your respective paper the unjust and unmilitary treatment we are constantly receiving at the hands of our officers.

"The prisoners are confined in the guardhouse on small offences, namely, the thirty-second article of war, which constitutes from one to twenty-four hours absent without leave. In many of these cases the best of excuses have been given, but have been received with deaf ears. Sickness, and even death at times, will not be considered as sufficient excuse to escape punishment.

"The punishment laid down by the officers as being just and legal is a fine comprising our entire month's wages, five to ten days, and even as much as twenty days, in close confinement on bread and water in a building four by ten, which had previously been used as a storage room for high explosives at the powder mills. In this foul-smelling dungeon at the present time can be found eight young men, whose conduct has always been soldierly, with the exception of the charge mentioned above, battling for sufficient air to maintain life. This is no exaggeration, but can be seen daily by those who are interested enough to make an investigation.

"With a feeling of deep regret we are compelled to go still further. On the afternoon of August 17th the men were made to work in their shirt sleeves digging ditches in a downpouring thunder storm. The work laid out by the officer of the day, namely, Lieut. Wm. T. Cobb, was more than could be finished at the regular hour of recall from fatigue. These men were informed at the late hour of 5 o'clock that not only must they finish the work, being drenched to the skin, but they must also finish the work started, even if it took all night, before they receive their supper. The men objected to this after the bugle call had sounded indicating the finish of work at this post for the day. This refusal on the part of the men was looked upon by the officers as a breach of discipline. In consequence these men were ordered to the dungeon in this drenching condition, without supper or food of any description being given them, and compelled to remain all night in their wet clothing and without blankets.

"The treatment these men received at the point of bayonets was so unjust and cruel that the sympathy of the regiment was aroused. Fearing that retribution would follow this act of barbarism, these officers called out extra guards, arming them with deadly ammunition, and gave strict orders to shoot down any man whose manner might indicate sympathy with these prisoners or caught bringing food or clothing to these men.

"At present there are confined at the guardhouse, which consists of two small tents in an extremely leaky condition, thirty men, who are obliged to find shelter within these tents. The number is rapidly increasing to the extent of five men a day. Last night fifteen men were compelled to sleep on the wet and rain-soaked ground with their ponchos as their only protection from rain and dew.

"We wish the public and sympathizers to distinctly understand that within the ranks of this Third United States New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, now stationed at Pompton Lakes, N. J., we can point with a finger of pride as being composed of some of the most intelligent, obedient and respectable class of young men in the service. Upon the grounds of this unjust treatment we hope that these charges will be thoroughly investigated, which will disclose many more charges which have not here been mentioned."

LIFE AT HUNTERSTON.

GUESTS FROM MANY PLACES FIND PLEASURE AT NETHERWOOD.

Many Improvements Have Been Made in the House Under the New Management—Music for the Dinners and Hops

The Hotel Hunterston, for many years known as the Hotel Netherwood, is now enjoying one of the most prosperous seasons in its history, under the management of Webb & Morrison.

Many improvements have been made since last season, among them a new cafe and dining room for the exclusive accommodation of wheeling parties. Many prominent and wealthy families from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Louisville and Cincinnati are at the notel. A fine orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Henry Wagner, discourses excellent music during the day and evening, especially for the Saturday evening hops, which are largely attended by the society people of Plainfield and vicity.

Among those registered at the hotel are:

A. H. Astrom, M. R. Richter, D. L. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Balch and daughters and H. D. Heissenbeutel, all of Brooklyn; Mrs. G. W. Cass and daughters, Orange; Miss Anna Olten, Brooklyn; D. H. Merritt and daughter and C. S. Campbell, New Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith, East Orange; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hartford, Marie L. Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. J. A Hartford, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Webber, Miss L. A. Webber, Miss Zoe Webber, Mrs. George A. Jones, Miss Frances Jones, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Broadbent and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bessy H. Hirche aud Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Miller, of New York; A. C. Stebbins, Plainfield; James B. King, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lindsay, New York; W. Davidson, Jr., and T. Field, Philadelphia; J. C. Meyers, New Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. M. Farmer, New York; C. C. Ramsey, Wilkesbarre, and E. C. Babcock, New York.

W. V. Smith and wife, W. E. Smith, Brooklyn; Frank Wetzler, Gustav Gerusheim, Miss Gerusheim, Mrs. M. Lewis, D. L. Mason, Mrs. Forgotston, L. George Forgotston and Miss Forgotston, New York; Miss Dawson, Newark; Miss Woddall and Rev. J. M. Woddall, Kentucky; Mr. and Mrs. E. Savage, Rahway; Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Valentine, Woodbridge; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Debbs, Cranford; Mrs. S. K. Dawson, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. James E. Spencer, New York; E. S. Savage and wife and Miss Helen Savage, Rahway; Dr. R. Hunter, Miss J. C. Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Parsons, E. H. Kedder and M. B. Wilcox, New York.

ROLLED A MAN IN FRONT OF TRAIN.

Two Hungarians Nearly Cause the Death of an Italian in a Fight.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 27.—A couple of Italians got into a row with two Hungarians at the Aldene saloon Thursday night. As the Hungarians were too much for their opponents, the Italians ran upon the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, where the Hungarians caught one of the Italians and knocked him down.

They were struggling on the track in front of an approaching train, and several men in the road below shouted to them. The Hungarians rolled the Italian between the rails in front of the train and then ran. The Italian saved himself, however, by rolling off the tracks just in time, and brought up in a barbed wire fence at the foot of the embankment.

ROBBED POOR MAN'S GARDEN.

A Piece of Despicable Thievery Committed at Warrenville.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Warrenville, August 27.—A piece of despicable thievery was committed in this community last night when the truck garden of Henry McKenzie was looted of pretty nearly all its produce, consisting of tomatoes, corn, peaches, etc. McKenzie has been sick for some time and has a large family and he has been depending to a large extent on the sale of his garden truck to secure actual necessities of life. The theft of his produce just as it was ready to market leaves him in bad shape. It is thought that the thieves are known.

To Westfield By Stage.

The Christian Endeavorers of the Park Avenue Baptist church will have charge of the prayer meeting at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp Monday night. The president, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, has suggested that the members of the society go in a stage, leaving the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street at 7:15 o'clock.

—Press want ads bring results.

LAST OF CAMP MEETING.

Elaborate Arrangements for the Closing Services Tomorrow.

Tomorrow is the last day of the camp meeting which has been in progress in Hyde's grove at Netherwood for the past three weeks, and Rev. Mr. Coster has made big arrangements for a glorious closing.

The day will open with a sunrise prayer meeting to be followed by a general class meeting at 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock Rev. W. T. Carpenter will deliver a sermon, and at 2:30 o'clock a song and praise service will be held. Martin brothers' jubilee quartette will be a feature of this service. Rev. J. S. Nichols, the English evangelist, will preach at 3:30 o'clock.

The evening services will open at 6:30 o'clock with a prayer meeting. Between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock, ten minute addresses will be delivered by Rev. P. A. Hubert, D. D., Dr. A. H. Warner, Rev. W. L. Hunter and Evangelist Bartlett. The closing sermon will be preached by Rev. W. B. G. Coster, pastor of St. Peter's A. M. Zion church, under whose auspices the meetings have been held.

The meetings will close with a torchlight procession at 9:30 o'clock, and at 10 o'clock the camp will break.

GOLF AND TENNIS.

Hillside Club Will Inaugurate Fall Sport Next Week.

The annual tennis tournament of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club for the club championship cup will be held on the Plainfield avenue courts Saturday, Sept. 3d, at 3 o'clock. Entries (active members only), may be made to Henry V. Ryder, 615 East Front street, not later than Sept. 2d.

The return match at golf with the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth, will be played on the Plainfield avenue links Saturday, Sept. 3d, commencing at 3 o'clock.

The formal opening of the new clubhouse and grounds will be held Labor Day. The Bogey handicap match will commence at 10 o'clock. Entries for the above must be made to F. W. Walz, 202 LaGrande avenue, and be received by him not later than 6 p. m., Saturday, Sept. 3d.

A cold luuch will be served to members Labor Day, from 12 to 2 o'clock. Arrangements have been made with Captain Hand for stage service Labor Day.

EAGER TO GET BACK HOME.

Third Regiment Men Disgusted With the Long Wait.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Pompton Lake, August 27 — The men of the Third Regiment now fully expect to break camp here at an early day, probably the fore part of next week. About three-fourths of the men are now anxious to go home, as the long, monotonous wait here has made them disgusted. About a week ago quite a number were willing to go anywhere, but the number has since greatly decreased. If the Third is to be mustered out, the ceremony will, no doubt, take place at Sea Girt, as the two companies yet at Fort Wadsworth have not received orders to join the rest of the regiment at Pompton Lake, and will probably be ordered direct to Sea Girt.

Getting Ready to Elect.

Thursday evening, September 1st, the monthly business meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist Christian Endeavor Society will be hele at the home of Miss Nellie Rockfellow, of Park avenue. This will be the first business meeting since early summer, and a nominating committee will be appointed to nominate the officers for the coming year.

Big Powder Works.

The DuPonts recently purchased a large tract of land adjoining their powder works at Gibbstown, and it is said they are about to enlarge their plant to three times its present size, making it by far the largest in the United States. They will manufacture smokeless powder.

To Deliver an Address.

Counselor S. S. Swackhamer, of the borough, has promised to address the young people of the Methodist church at Whitehouse, next Sunday afternoon or evening.

—They will offer in the kid glove department at White's, Monday morning, a bargain in kid gloves that will interest every lady in town. The gloves are from the best manufacturers, and are a very high-class article.

—To get delicious peaches cheap, but best quality, go to Neuman Brothers this afternoon or tonight. They received 100 baskets of A No. 1 fruit this morning which must be sold today.

—Mr. Mengers, of Philadelphia, will preach in the German Lutheran church Monday night at 8 o'clock.

YAS, SAH, 'TWILL BE A DAY FOR THE DARKIES.

The Great and Glorious Dewey Bicycle Club in Action.

AN ALL-DAY JUBILEE, SURE.

CRESCENT OVAL WILL BE A GAY PLACE NEXT SATURDAY.

To Be Known as the "Peace Carnival," and It Won't be Any One-Horse Affair, Either—Many Old Time Sports to be Indulged in—Evening to be Given Up to a Concert—Fireworks to End Affair.

The colored folk of Plainfield are to have a jubilee, a real up-to date "Peace Carnival," and for one whole day they are going to reign supreme up at the Crescent Oval.

The cause of this rather startling outburst is the Dewey Bicycle Club of New Jersey. Like many other things that have just made their appearance, this organization has taken the name of the great admiral. It was the creation of a number of well-known colored men about town who decided that the time had come for them to show just what they could do. As a result they have arranged a carnival for next Saturday that is proposed to entertain their white and colored friends in a fashion never before realized.

This "Peace Carnival" is not going to be any one horse affair. Its promoters have laid out a programme that will give the staid Plainfielders something to think about. It's going to last all day, from early morn to dewy eve. And while it does last there is to be no cessation in the fun.

Now to begin with the attractions in their order. The morning is to be chiefly devoted to contests of various kinds. First, there will be a foot race, then a contest in climbing the greased pole, after which will follow a sack race. Early in the afternoon, a lively young porker is to be turned loose and a swarm of contestants will entertain the crowd in their efforts to capture it. Bicycle races and a baseball game between two teams of color will complete the fun during the daylight.

In the evening, the "Peace Carnival" will be continued. There will be a concert with music by a brass band, together with quartette singing and banjo and guitar playing. It will be somewhat on the lines of the open air concert once given by the Martin brothers, only on a larger scale this time. And to complete the list of attractions, there will be "fireworks galore," as the poster says.

The promoters of the "Peace Carnival" of the Dewey Bicycle Club are well known to most Plainfielders. They include Edward Martin, the genial porter at the North avenue station, a reliable and good all-round kind of a fellow. He is president. Then his brother, Thomas Martin, warden of the city jail, holds the office of vice-president. R. B. Norwood is the secretary of this warm aggregation and James L. Scott, veteran polisher of shoes, presides over the treasurer's duties.

This is the situation in a nut-shell These colored men have decided to give Plainfield something new in the line of entertainment and all they ask is good support of the people of the city. If they get that, they promise that all who attend will get their money's worth.

Opening of Business College.

The Plainfield Business College, in City Bank building, opens the new year next Thursday morning and continues ten months, day and night. It is the desire and purpose of the principal and his associate teachers to make the school of the coming year a model of excellence. So far as possible, students should begin with the year, attend with punctuality, and continue till they shall have thoroughly accomplished their work. The people of Plainfield should sustain this praiseworthy institution.

Supt. Donnelly's Successor.

The Perth Amboy Chronicle says that W. O. Sprigg will be the new superintendent of the Easton and Amboy division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, to succeed James Donnelly September 1st. Mr. Sprigg is a man about 45 years of age. He is a college graduate and a civil engineer and knows the railroad business "from A to Z."

Picnicked By the Brook.

A number of small children picnicked yesterday by the brook near Front street and Grant avenue. They were in charge of Mrs. Mary Hill, of East Sixth street, and spent a pleasant day by the water under the trees playing games. They took their lunch with them and ate it in the woods.

—Use Press want ads for returns.

LOUIS ROESEL CASE.

Judge VanSyckel Gave No Order to Ignore Writ of Error.

In reference to the story printed in yesterday's Press concerning the execution of Louis Roesel at the county jail, Prosecutor English has the following to say:

"The only directions in the whole matter which the prosecutor has received from Justice VanSyckel was to notify the sheriff to safely keep the prisoner until some further deliverance was made by the Court of Errors in regard to the law affecting the case, and not to carry out the execution of the defendant on the day fixed, namely, August 26th, instant. The prosecutor was directed to notify the clerk of the court not the make return to the writ of error until he received an order relating to the same from the judge. Judge Van Syckel sent me no telegram, has not appointed Sept. 26th as the day for the argument of the writ of error, nor has he given through men to the sheriff or clerk any order or direction whatever, excepting such as I have above indicated."

Roesel was visited by his counsel, Edward Nugent, yesterday. The prisoner was cheerful and was very grateful that this was not the day of his execution. He is hopeful of further postponement and a final commutation of his sentence.

A YOUNG LIFE CUT SHORT.

Miss Florence Loomis Dies From Typhoid Fever in Her Eighteenth Year.

Very sad, indeed, is the death of Miss Florence Loomis, daughter of Mrs. Loomis, of Craig place, who passed away at an early hour this morning after several weeks' illness Typhoid fever was the fatal disease. She was a young girl of eighteen years who had a host of friends among all who knew her. She was bright pleasant spoken and of kindly nature, making those around her happier with the sunshine of her life.

She was born in the borough where she was educated at the North Plainfield Public School. About five years ago, her mother moved to Bethlehem, Pa., where her older brother attended Lehigh University and recently graduated as a mechanical engineer. It has only been a few months since Mrs. Loomis and her daughter returned to Plainfield and have been stopping at Mrs. Harned's boarding house on Craig place. There the daughter was suddenly stricken down and has been in a very critical state for a week.

CLAUDE WANTS REVENGE.

A Colored Man's Wearing Apparel Slightly Disarranged in a Dispute.

Claude Marsh, colored, had a great tale of woe to tell to Justice Mosher last night. He was found waiting around the Justice's office in the First National Bank building, after sunset. Claude did not know that His Honor was a Seventh-day Baptist Friday night, so when he was informed on these points, Claude resolved to call tonight.

Claude is a tall colored man, and had on an enormous "choker," sadly bent and wilted, which, he explained, was due to a "scrap" he and another man had a short time before.

Claude refused to give any of the circumstances of the affair, but stated that he and "another colored gemum" had a dispute over cards which ended in blows, and Claude wanted a warrant for the other's arrest.

THE BOROUGH SCHOOL.

Work on the Foundations of the Building Has Been Started.

Wm. C. Smith, the mason, has begun work on the new borough school house, located on the corner of Watchung and Mountain avenues. The first earth was taken out of the cellar Thursday morning, and now the cellar is completely dug and the workmen are at work building up the bed of crushed stone on which the foundation will be laid.

Mr. Smith has a large force of men working on the foundations, and at the rate the work is being pushed there is little doubt but what it can be nearly completed by Dec. 20th, when the contract expires.

An Old Editor's Visit.

Josephus Shann, one of the old warhorses of Union county journalism, now a resident of Rahway, was a pleasant and reminiscent caller at The Press office yesterday. It has been several years since he has visited this thriving city, and he was much surprised to see the evidence of growth and prosperity that here abound.

Glass Cut His Hand.

Lawyer Charles J. McNabb, of Rahway road, met with a painful accident several days ago. He accidentally struck his hand against the pane of glass in a door and broke it. The glass cut his hand and arm in several places.

HAS A SCORNFUL TONGUE

MRS. ANNA ROBINSON, PILLAR IN THE CHURCH, IN COURT.

Mrs. Ada Belle Mitchell Couldn't Stand the Epithets Applied to Her, and Had Her Neighbor Haled to Court.

"And she called me names. And—I'm a poor lone woman. And—and—my husband's away. And—and—and—" Then the facial flood gates gave way and the young colored woman burst into tears. Meanwhile her neighbor, the prisoner at the bar of justice, leaned against the rail with her black straw hat set rakishly over one eye and listened to the effusions of Mrs. Ada Belle Mitchell with a scornful air.

Mrs. Anna Robinson has a temper despite the fact that she was one of the "pillars" of her church. It has already been noticed in the court room when she came down on the learned Corporation Counsel "like a wolf on the fold." That was in the famous trial of Parson Gibson. It was this same temper of hers that this time entangled her in the meshes of the legal net.

Mrs. Robinson lives on West Third street. She occupies the ground floor of the house and Mrs. Mitchell and her niece lives upstairs. Life there has not been found in its most delightful phases and all was not peace and quietude between the two women.

This trouble arose over a registered letter. Mrs. Mitchell expected it but it came not. Now Mrs. Robinson says that her upstairs neighbor accussed her of taking it. Mrs. Mitchell says no. At any rate, they began to talk and choler of the elder one down stairs rose. Her claim is that Mrs. Mitchell first called her a "great big fat grey-haired jay-bird." Mrs. Mitchell's witness all agree that she did not call any names whatsoever.

But oh, the naughty names that Mrs. Robinson said according to their story. She let forth such a stream of vituperous remarks that a caterpillar crawling on the clap-boarding was singed by the blast. They repeated some of them in court this morning for the edification of the City Judge at which even the small boys peeping through the blinds jumped back aghast.

Mrs. Robinson had the courage to deny it all. She stood out against the crowd, folded her hands in resignation at the enormity of their charges and waited her turn to speak. Then the Judge signalled for her to take the stand and she opened fire without waiting to be sworn. It finally took two officers and a reporter to stop her and give Chief Grant a chance to get a word in edgewise.

After he had heard it all, the Judge pronounced her guilty. It never worried her though. She smiled coyly at the head of the city judiciary and then cast a sidelong glance at Patrolman McCue. The Judge paroled her to appear next Saturday for sentence.

HER HOME FOR AN ARMY HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Murray Offers It, and Food, Medicines Physicians and Nurses Besides.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 27.—Mrs. Evelyn Wentworth Murray has addressed a letter to Judge John D. Bartine in which she offers to convert her handsome summer place, "The Wentworth," on the Raritan river, into a hospital for sick and wounded soldiers. Mrs. Murray says she addressed Judge Bartine because she is ignorant of the proper source through which to communicate her offer. She desires the Government officials to be informed at once that she will vacate her mansion, which will accommodate 100 sick soldiers, and that she will furnish food, cots, doctors and nurses. The Wentworth is healthfully located on the south bank of the Raritan river, three miles from this place. It is built on the site formerly occupied by the mansion of the late Frederick T. Frelinghuysen. During Mr. Frelinghuysen's term as Secretary of State under President Arthur the place was the scene of many notable gatherings.

If Mrs. Murray's offer is accepted by the Government, she will live in a little cottage on the estate, and will aid in the care of the sick. Judge Bartine has forwarded Mrs. Murray's communication to Gov. Voorhees, with a request that it shall receive the consideration of the Government.

Geo. Thatcher's Rhode Island Day.

The long looked for clam bake to be held at the "Maples," Fanwood, by Host Thatcher, will take place Thursday, September 1st. George publicly extends an invitation to his many friends. The "menu" will embrace everything that belongs to a first-class "blow out", and more too, and the entertainment to be offered should ensure a "full house." Preparations are being made to feast a regiment, and there will be no reason for his army of friends to complain of the rations.

HOW THE COUNTY VIEWS THE TROLLEY.

Review of the Trolley War in Plainfield.

FREEHOLDERS SIDE OF IT.

THEY PICTURE THE RIKERS AS MAKING THE TROUBLE.

A Good Authority Says that County Officials Will Not Object to Both Lines Using Richmond Street—Why They Served Notice on the Council—Council Will Probably Pass Ordinance.

The "trolley war" between the city fathers and the county freeholders remains just where it was a week ago. The circumstances have not changed a bit, but there has been lots of talk on the subject. The impartial statement of the trouble as published in The Daily Press a week ago gave rise to any amount of discussion. It also gave the people a chance to express their opinions to their representatives in both Council and Board.

The next move is likely to be on the part of the Common Council. On the evening of Tuesday, September 6th, the regular monthly meeting of the Council will be held, Monday being Labor Day and a holiday. Then the ordinance granting the Plainfield Street Railway Company a franchise will come up for final consideration. At present there seems no possible doubt but that it will be passed by the Council.

Just exactly what such action on the part of the Council will be followed by, it is impossible to say. Even if the franchise is granted, the local trolley company will be unable to lay their tracks without permission from the County Board of Freeholders, unless the present law should be declared unconstitutional.

The motives of the Board of Freeholders and of the Plainfield Street Railway officials have been the subject of much discussion. While no one except those persons themselves knows what their motives are, there are certain facts that are suggestive.

Ever since the birth of the Bergen county trolley scheme, it has been fought tooth and nail by the capitalists in the State who control the trolley corporations in this vicinity. Riker & Riker, of Newark, are leading factors in the Newark trolley system. They also have a controlling interest in the Plainfield Street Railway Company. It was Riker & Riker who were the leading workers in the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company which proposed to run its lines from Elizabeth to Plainfield. The Rikers have made no secret of their objection to a county trolley road and the skirmishes between the two forces have been lively.

While the wish of the Plainfield Street Railway Company to run from Second street to Fifth street on Richmond street is apparently innocent enough, the advocates of the county boulevard and trolley road say that it is really an attempt to stir up trouble for the county scheme here and thus block its progress. By involving the county and city in a squabble, there would be long delay in the building of the through line by the county.

One who is thoroughly in touch with the members of the Board of Freeholders says that they are not trying to block the efforts of the Riker combination. It is just the opposite, according to his view of the situation. He stated very emphatically that the Rikers have been fighting the Bergen scheme from the start and that this was merely another plot to wreck it before it can be completed.

The Plainfield members of the Board of Freeholders are as greatly interested in the interests of the citizens of Plainfield, whom they represent, as the Councilmen. They are in favor of the county trolley line and believe it should go through.

The situation from the point of view of the Board of Freeholders, as summed up by one intimate with their views, gives the following picture. During the first of July, Richmond street and the rest of the proposed course of the county trolley was adopted as a county road at a meeting of the Board of Freeholders. Under a recent act of the Legislature, the streets so designated immediately became county property. According to the county road act, no tracks can be laid in the county roads without permission of the Board of Freeholders. This permission was not asked but the Council announced its intention of granting a trolley company the required permission. The Board then felt called upon to see that the law was obeyed and notified the Council on the subject. It was this notification

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

BETTER TIMES IN CAMP

Secretary Alger's Visit Results in Improved Conditions.

FRESH FOODS AT WIKOFF

Red Tape Has Been Abolished. The First Furlough Granted Yesterday None Receiving Furlough Expect to Return Again to Camp. $2,000 in Cash from the New York Stock Exchange for the Rough Riders.

Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, Aug. 27.—Secretary Alger's visit to Camp Wikoff has had a good effect upon the men in more than one way. While many of them have already benefitted directly by the changes which he alone was authorized to make, the moral effect of the secretary's visit has been more notable. Red tape has been abolished, and what the army men have been afraid to do heretofore they do now with the secretary's authority behind them. Those who have yet to receive what they need now have no doubt that they will get it soon, and, with positive prospects in view, they are content to wait for a while.

The first step, which may result, perhaps within a month, in the disbanding of the entire volunteer army, was taken here yesterday morning when Company I of the Second Massachusetts received a thirty days' furlough in a body and the men left camp yesterday. Officers here who are familiar with the plans of the war department, say that the order of mustering out will be: Second Massachusetts, Seventy-first New York, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Michigan, the Rough Riders, the Eighth Ohio and the First Illinois. As far as can be learned there has been no change in the plan to extend the thirty days' furlough to an indefinite furlough, and none of the men are now waiting for their leaves expects to return to Camp Wikoff as a member of the army. When General Shafter arrives he will not find all of his army corps here.

More cheerful stories will be told about Camp Wikoff henceforth by the soldiers who return to their homes. The soldiers who have had furloughs and returned to camp have brought back provisions in such quantities that the commissary's stores go begging. Private Knobloch of the Rough Riders, who is a member of the New York Stock Exchange, returned from New York yesterday with $2,000, presented to the regiment by the members of the exchange. Besides, the members of the exchange have arranged to send directly to each of the troops a hamper of fresh fruits and vegetables in addition to the good things that the men are buying with the cash in hand.

Supplies of all kinds have been coming into the camps of the regulars since Thursday morning at a rate that is making soldiering a picnic. The appeal on behalf of the regulars which General Young made to Lieutenant Governor Hale of Massachusetts only a few days ago has been productive of good effects in the form of some twenty tons of fresh foods, which have enabled some five thousand soldiers to eat a meal which they really relish. A train from New York yesterday morning brought four car loads of fresh meats and fruits, and the commissaries to whom it was consigned began the distribution at once. Yesterday, in a private conversation, General Alger gave Mr. Howard Townsend of the Red Cross Society carte blanche to order direct from Washington anything that might be needed for the sick or well.

A new difficulty was presented to Colonel Forwood and his staff of physicians and workingmen last night when word came from the quarantine station that the auxiliary cruiser Harvard, which arrived with General Chaffee, his staff and 67 men of the 33rd Michigan on board, had brought diphtheria, and one man, Private Clyde Broode, had died of the disease on the passage. By working all day yesterday Colonel Forwood had succeeded in getting two new hospital wards up, when it became necessary to immediately erect another isolation camp, as the cruiser had five cases of diphtheria on board.

Colonel Forwood had his plans for the reception of the men on the Harvard formulated within an hour after the news came ashore. The new isolation camp will consist of sixteen large tents, to contain six cots each, and is situated four hundred yards to the north of the detention camp. A section of the detention camp, which is already detached from the main camp, will be used by the men from the Harvard in good health, and they will be kept there for the regulation five days. Dr. Magruder was unable to report whether or not the disease was the malignant type, but no chance will be taken in the matter.

Rumors came ashore from the transport Mohawk yesterday that there was trouble on board, not with any disease germs, but between the men of the Eighth Ohio and their commander. Soldiers on shore who were with the 8th in Cuba, say that the grudge of the men againstt their superior officer began at Guantanamo and has continued ever since. The men say that they did not have even the miserable food that the other regiments had, and what they did get was in such small quantities that they were half starved. One trooper who camped beside the Eighth has in his diary notes which tell of the men of the Eighth having for many meals only one piece of hardtack and five spoonfuls of soup.

Lorillard's Horse Won Autumn Plate.

London, Aug. 27.—At the Hurst Park Club August meeting yesterday the Lorillard-Beresford's stable's four year old chestnut gelding Draco won the Autumn selling plate.

This race is of 300 severeigns, for three year olds and upward, the winner to be sold by auction for 300 sovereigns.

Carlists Will Not Attend.

Madrid, Aug. 27.—The Carlist and Republican members of the Cortes have decided not to attend the forthcoming session, and they will issue a manifesto to the country explaining their reasons for abstention.

PARIS FAIR COMMISSION

Ferdinand W. Peck and His Party to Sail Sept. 3 for Havre.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Ferdinand W. Peck commissioner general from the United States to the Paris exposition, accompanied by several heads of departments and their secretaries, will leave Sunday night for New York to take the steamer La Touraine September 3 for Havre.

Those in the party will be: Ferdinand W. Peck, Mrs. F. W. Peck, Miss Arline Peck, F. W. Peck, Jr., Spaulding Peck, Paul Blackmar, director of affairs; Count De Val Coust Vermont, French secretary; Robert J. Thompson, director of the press bureau; George Panglaie, French secretary to Mr. Blackmar; Fred J. V. Skiff, director of mines and metallurgy; Frank E. Drake, director of electricity and machinery.

When the tourists reach New York they will be joined by forty members of the New York section of the commission, Lieutenant A. C. Baker of the navy, and Captain Kerr of the army.

Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage has sent his endorsement of the Lafayette monument movement as follows:

"If the movement can be inaugurated and a great success made along the lines marked out it would be a noble and beautiful tribute for our young people to pay to the memory of one without whose aid we would, perhaps, never have achieved that independence and freedom which has become our glorious heritage."

THE SECOND NEW JERSEY

Poll to Be Taken to Find Out How Many Want to Go to Cuba.

Hackensack, Aug. 27.—Senator William M. Johnson and ex-Judge James M. Van Valen left for Jacksonville yesterday at the instance of Governor Voorhees. They will poll the Second regiment and find out how many of the members are in favor of going to Cuba with General Lee.

Some reports say that 75 per cent. are in favor of going, but the soldiers assert that these reports were started by officers, many of whom are receiving good pay and are anxious to remain in the service.

Dr. Currie of Englewood, who is a home on a furlough on account of illness, says the Second regiment is not in a fit condition to go to Cuba or anywhere else except home.

Three deaths have occurred in the Rutherford company and another member is dying. A letter received from a member of the Hackensack company says that outside of the officers there are not more than three in the company who want to go to Cuba.

BANK OF SPAIN THREATENED

Security for Loan of About $150,000,000 is Worthless.

London, Aug. 27.—The Financial News says that the loss of Cuba to Spain and the certainty that neither the United States nor the new Cuban government will assume the public debt of the island affects the Bank of Spain more seriously than is realized by outsiders. The Cuban debt amounts to 46,813,760 pounds. The minister of finance in Madrid borrowed 34,000,000 pounds from the Bank of Spain, giving as security 30,000,000 pounds of Cuban interior bonds. Apparently these bonds were issued without legal authority, and they are therefore mere waste paper.

With Cuba lost, the paper continues, the situation is aggravated by the fact that Spain will have to confess the manner in which she has misused her control of the Bank of Spain. The repudiation of the Cuban debt will tell severely upon the bank and the gigantic loss will perhaps compel it to close its dors.

A Sixty Days's Furlough.

Washington, Aug. 27.—A furlough for sixty days will soon be granted by the secretary of war to practically every volunteer soldier at Montauk Point who was actively engaged in the Santiago campaign. The soldiers will be allowed to go to their homes, and at the end of sixty days will be required to report at a designated point probably for mustering out.

The furloughs for thirty days granted yesterday to the men of the Seventy-first New York and the Second Massachusetts volunteers have ben extended to sixty days.

This action was taken as a result chiefly of a telegraphic message received last night from Senator Hoar of Massachusetts. The senator asked the acting secretary of war personally to request the president to allow the furlough of the Second Massachusettts to be made for sixty days.

Japan is Satisfied.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—Minister Buck at Tokio, Japan, writes that he has observed no dissatisfaction there in consequence of the annexation of the Hawaiian islands to the United States since annexation has been accomplished.

The government and people seem to be satisfied that our government will fully protect the rights and interests of Japan and Japanese subjects in those islands. On the part of the public press he has known of no unkind expressions because of the United States annexing those islands.

Fire in a Coal Mine.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 27.--A. H. Bennett's mine took fire yesterday while eighteen men were in the mine. Many of the men were badly burned. Some wil die.

The men were taken out through an air shaft. About 25,000 tons of coal ready to be hoisted was burned and also the main shaft.

A number of mules and horses were burned. The mine is practically ruined.

Scott the Pugilist Dies.

Brooklyn, Aug. 27.—Alexander Scott, the pugilist, died at tthe Norwegian hospital at 5 o'clock yesterday morning of uraemic convulsions, brought on by his exertions in his fight with Tommy Butler at tthe Greenwood Athletic Club in this city Thursday night.

It was said that an autopsy will have to be held in order to determine the actual cause of the young man's death.

INVESTIGATION ORDERS

Gen. Boynton Appointed to Report on Chickamauga Camp.

PRESIDENT'S PROMPTNESS

The President Considers the Attack on Certain Papers Upon Secretary Alger and the War Department as a Persecution. He Has Complete Confidence in Alger.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The war department has announced that the president has ordered General Henry V. Boynton of Chickamauga to make an immediate investigation of all the hospitals at that camp and to report their condition to headquarters here. Instructions were given to investigate the New York troops, and Dr. Terry's report especially, and to recommend what action should be taken.

Within the last few days the president has taken the opportunity to speak to a number of senators in regard to the criticisms now being made in various quarters of Secretary Alger and the war department. The president is quoted as saying that the criticisms are nothing short of persecution, and that there was not a more conscientious officer connected with the government, nor one in whom he had more confidence than General Alger.

The senators to whom the president made this remark have repeated it, understanding it to be an official rebuke of the criticisms.

The officials at the department still refuse to talk about the alleged interview with General Miles, but say that they do not fear an investigation, because all orders to General Miles and General Shafter were issued by the president and are in writing. Every order sent is on record with the approval of thte president.

No Complaint, Says Corbin.

Washington, Aug. 27.—General Corbin says no complaint has reached the war department from major general, brigadier general, colonel or men of the army regarding want or destitution or lack of supplies for the care of the troops.

No demand has been made for supplies, other than the regular requisitions for troops, which come in the ordinary routine way.

General Corbin declined to be interviewed on the many stories afloat regarding destitution and mismanagement of the war, saying that the facts will come out in due time, and the people will see for themselves what has been done.

The whole department is greatly stirred over the many newspaper stories, and they were the subject of discussion everywhere, but apparently each head of a bureau believes that an investigation of the subject will vindicate him and his department.

The officers in Washington say that the accounts of suffering have been exaggerated, but if there has been suffering further than what war naturally brings, the fault has not been with the officers in the department here. Each officer professes to be ready and willing that there should be an investigation.

Some officers say that it will be necessary and that they will welcome a complete congressional inquiry which will bring out all the facts.

COMMODORE PHILIP'S COMMAND

The Cruiser New York Will Be Flagship

New York, Aug. 27.—Commodore John W. Philip received telegraphic advices from Washington yesterday assigning him to the command of the North Atlantic squadron. Commodore Philip by the same order is detached from the Texas. The cruiser New York will be his flagship. He will leave the Texas and take up his quarters on the New York as soon as Admiral Sampson relinquishes command. Admiral Sampson has been assigned to duty as a member of the military commission to attend to the evacuation of Cuba by the Spaniards.

Friends of Commodore Philip in this city were much pleased yesterday afternoon when they heard of his new assignment to duty.

"I regard it," said one, "as showing the appreciation of the president for the great work Commodore Philip accomplished with the Texas in southern waters. His bravery in the battle with Cervera's squadron was an incentive for every member of his crew and inspired them throughout the fight. The Texas came out of that battle with a splendid record and Jack Philip was the man responsible."

No orders, so far as is known, have been sent from Washington in regard to the future movements of the North Atlantic squadron, but it is probable that the ships will remain in this port for some time to come.

A Fatal Encounter in Manila.

Manila, Philippine Islands, Aug. 26.—On Wednesday a corporal and two privates of Battery B of the Utah artillery, after disembarking at Cavite, were sent on an errand. While passing through the streets, Private Hudson, in fun, discharged his revolver.

The natives, who became alarmed, immediately began firing. Dismounted cavalry were sent to quell the disturbance, but the natives misunderstood the movement and the firing became general. Private Hudson was killed, Corporal Anderson mortally wounded, and Troopers Laydon, Nachbar, Connolly and Doyle of the Fourth cavalry, wounded. The native loss was four killed and several wounded.

General Aguinaldo has expressed his regret at the encounter and promises to punish the offenders. No further trouble is expected.

Spain Talks of More War.

London, Aug. 27.—A special dispatch from Madrid says:

"In consequence of inquiries as to the situation in the Philippines since the capitulation of Manila, the government has decided to resume hostilities in the event of native opposition being continued.

"If the Americans send further reinforcements to the Philippines Spain will do likewise."

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS

Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner

For Over 14 Years

these highly meritorious preparations have stood at the head of all hair restoratives. More than 3,000,000 bottles have been used by the American people, and thousands of testimonials bear witness to their excellence, while there were never any complaints when directions were followed.

Ask your druggist about it.

Wear ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS. Perfect Fitting.

FOR SALE BY LEADING DEALERS.

FRANK H. LINKE,

IS THE ONLY

Licensed Wholesale Liquor Dealer

in Plainfield.

Bottler of the Best Brands of Beers

Brewed in the Country.

Pabst Milwaukee, Anhauser & Bush St Louis, Beadleston & Wœrz Imperial, Bartholomay's Rochester beers a specialty. Bohemian, Bavarian. Export Apollo Lager, Foreign Ales and Porters. Domestic Ales and Porters, Smith Philadelphia Evans & Son's Hudson Cream.

A full line of

Brandies, Whiskies, Sherries, Ports, Clarets, Saturnes, Bitters, Cordials and Mineral Waters

can always be found at

Tel. 157. 227 W. Front St.

25 tf-m-s

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE. 7th and 8th sts. PLAINFIELD, New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the Spring and Summer months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

Shoes for Spring.

You'll be buying a new pair of shoes soon. Where are you going to buy them?

The shoe store you want to patronize is the store that gives you the most style, comfort, elegance and durability for the money.

If you'll "shop around" before you buy you'll find that this is the store you're looking for.

Flynn Bros.,

222 West Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

RUSHTON & HANSEN,

Painters and Paper Hangers,

Office and Shop Sycamore and Fourth Streets

Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto--first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

F. A. DUNHAM,

—CIVIL ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR.—

109 Park Ave. Sewers, pavements, and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87 F

NOTICE

to all interested in

Up-to-date Laundry Work.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular.

We also have just completed arrangements for doing family washing in a satisfactory manner by the dozen or week. Please call at office for further information.

City Steam and Hand Laundry,

Morey & LaRue, Proprietors,

19 Somerset St.,

Tel. No. 751. Plainfield, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

110 East Front St.,

Plainfield, N. J

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.

Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds, of Confectionery, Peanuts' Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

COLLIER,

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN.

Established 1869.

103 Park Avenue

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 E. Fifth St.

Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER

SANITARY PLUMBING.

TELEPHONE 212 A.

AT THE

Golden Rule Bakery,

110 SOMERSET ST., COR. MANNING AVE.,

You will find a full line of Bread, Cakes, Pies and Confectionery. Telephone Call 220 F. ICE CREAM.

Sunday orders delivered.

J. J STAHL, Proprietor.

F. A. LONG,

No. 108 SOMERSET ST.

Near Manning Avenue.

Up-to-Date Cash Grocery Store

Orders called for and delivered in any part of City or Dunellen.

Your Valuables,

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

HARRY S. POTTER,

Dealer In

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL.

Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard. at Mt. Pleasant Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1y

MRS. L. ADAMS,

MILLINERY and DRESSMAKING

Parlors. Imported and Domestic Millinery, styles the latest. Hats and Bonnets trimmed to order a specialty. Ladies' own material used. All work strictly first-class.

114 EAST FRONT STREET.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new Barber Shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

Is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

L. A. HUMMER'S

VARIETY MARKET.

Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Poultry, Eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.

220 Park Ave. Telephone Call, 29 A.

McCullough's STEAM MILL.

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

B. H. McCullough, Prop

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished

Our 14th Annual Clothing Sale,

for July and August has commenced, and for the next two months we will sell all of our summer stock at just ½ price. It will pay you to call and get our prices before purchasing elswhere.

Men's and Boys' Suits, Bicycle Suits, Extra Bicycle Pants, Hats and Gents' Furnishing Goods

must be closed out, as we carry nothing over. We have about 100 pairs of those English Tweed pants left, which we still sell at the low figure of 98c the pair, so if you need pants, now is the time to catch on. All goods sold as advertised.

Werner's Clothing House,

206 West Front Street.

MANTELS $4.00 AND UP.

AT THE

Fire-Place Store,

CURTISS M. THORPE,

310-312 Park Avenue.

STRAW HATS,

Fine Summer Underwear. Also Scotch Cheviot and Madras Shirts, fast colors, at

JAMES R. BLAIR'S,

126 Park Avenue.

$1.25 NOW REDUCED FROM $1.75.

Misses' Chocolate Lace Shoes with Vesting Tops. Sizes 13 to 2 only.

SHERWIN'S, 149 West Front St.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap.
is the order to lay in a heap.
is the atmosphere warmed by its glow.
is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

ORDER YOUR BREAKFAST AT ROGER'S.

232 West Second St. First Delivery 5 a. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

VanEMBURGH & SON

OPEN A NEW DEPARTMENT.

10 qt. Galvanized Pail	15c	Round Globe Fancy Parlor Lamps	57
10 qt. Granite Dish Pan	25c	Japanese Dust Pans	5c
33 qt. Wash Boiler	25c	Galvanized Dust Pans	10c
10 qt. Dish Pan	10c	Crumb Trays	10c
Zinc Wash Boards	10c	Long Handle Fire Shovels	5c
Painted Chamber Pails	19c	Chopping Bowls	10c
2 Brass Hoop Cedar Pails	25c	Angel Cake Pans	8c
Large Combination Dinner Pails	20c	Perforated Pie Plates	3c-4c
Knife Boxes	10c	Glass Lamps Complete	19c
Large Enameled Tea Pots	25c	Sink Drainers	12c
1 lb. Roll Toilet Paper	10c	Feather Dusters	10c

IN OUR VERY LIGHT BASEMENT.

Babcock Building. Corner Store. Plainfield, N. J.

We Insure Your Shirts.

We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods" Let us call for your work.

Hillier & Co.,

179 North Avenue.

Telephone 30 M.

M. POWERS

Dealer in Superior Quality Lehigh and Wyoming Coal.

MIXED COAL, $4.75.

Yard 725 to 737 South Ave. Office 171 North Ave., opposite R. R. Station.

Telephone 67 A

CHARLES L. STANLEY,

142 North Ave., headquarters for

Choice Cut Flowers and Palms and Ferns.

FLORAL DESIGNS.

Decorations for all occasions Greenhouses at Netherwood, near depot.

NEUMAN BROS., HIGH-GRADE GROCERS

Choice Teas and Coffees.

RUSHMORE & CO.,

WATCHUNG AVE. and FOURTH ST.

Dealers in

Lumber, Coal and Wood

Moulding & Planing Mill.

Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Elston M. French & Co.

163 NORTH AVENUE.

(Succeeding VanBuren Bros.)

Real Estate and Insurance.

Largest agency in the city. Loans negotiate

THE

Metropolitan Boarding Stables

C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - Proprietor.

No. 138 East Second Street.

Livery, Boarding and Sale Stables

Horses boarded by the day, week, month or year. Reasonable prices.

TELEPHONE 214 F. 17

STORAGE OF FURS.

Special attention is directed to our exceptional facilities for storing furs and fur lined garments, fur rugs, etc., in our new store, 308 West Front street, and the insuring of same against damage by moths, fire or burglary, at very low prices. Now is the time to have your furs repaired, altered and redyed. Summer prices prevail. Estimates cheerfully given.

H. KOHN, 308 West Front Street.

KENT & SON, PIANOS.

$125 A HIGH GRADE PIANO DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.

30 DAYS FREE TRIAL.

GUARANTEED FOR TEN YEARS. Do not pay fancy prices for your pianos. Write us. Send for catalogue. KENT & SON, 49 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Honest Values will Sell Honest Goods."

BOEHM'S.

109, 111, 113 W. Front St.

Better goods for less money than anywhere else.

A great week for almost anything you want. Closing out all our summer goods regardless of cost.

Hosiery chances.—Ladies' black hose, the regular 9c kind, for this sale 4 pairs for 25c. Misses' derby ribbed hose, full seamless, sizes 5 to 9½, for this sale at 10c pair. Men's full fashioned half hose in natural mixtures, tans and blacks, the 15c grade, for this sale 10c pair.

Special—Yard wide fancy percales, while the lot lasts, at 3½c yard.

Muslins.—The kind of bleached muslin you usually pay 6c. for, for this sale at 4½c yard. Extra good quality bleached muslin, yard wide, for this sale 5c yard. Unbleached sheeting muslin, yard wide, as good as any at 6c yard, for this sale 4c yard.

Waists for warm weather.—A fortunate purchase places us in a position to offer a beautiful lot of fancy colored waists, lace trimmed, at the astonishing low price of 49c. They are bargains at 75c.

Wash fabric prices collapse.—Lawns, madras suitings, swiss effects, a collection of beautiful designs and charming colors to go at the pigmy price of 5c yard.

BOEHM'S.

TRY

J. F. MACDONALD'S

TEA FROM 20c. TO 35c. per lb.

COFFEES.

Our 15c. is continuing to make friends, and our 20c. in the grain has no equal.

Guaranteed to equal 50c and 60c goods or money refunded.

Send or call for samples—we are pleased to give them.

Telephone 49 B. 186 East Front Street.

-:-COFFEE-:-

FRESHER than you and I.
Best that grows.
From 10 cents up.

GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW,
PARK AVENUE GROCER.

McDonough Bros.,
-COAL AND ICE-
232 MADISON AVE. Telephone 225 I.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.
The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p. m.
L. B. Bromfield, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

ALEX. LUSARDI.
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores 991 rear

A. A. MARSH & SON,
PRACTICAL
Painters and Decorators.
—DON'T FORGET THE PLACE—
965 WEST FRONT ST.
All orders sent to us will recei prompt attention.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED.
Give us a call. Respectfully yours.
A. A. MARSH. E. MARSH.
MARSH & SON.

—NEW YORK—
& Elizabeth Despatch
STODDARD'S EXPRESS
have opened an express line between PLAINFIELD, NEWARK and NEW YORK. Office in Plainfield at
161 North Ave.
Goods forwarded by direct line to al parts of the world.

CHAS. EDW. BICKNELL,
wholesale and retail dealer in
California and Domestic Fruits, Confectionary, Nuts, Ice Cream, Soda, etc.
47 Somerset St.
"On the Bridge."

William Hand & Son,
STAGES
For Parties, etc. 518 Park avenue.

Summer Stoves,
burning Gasoline and Oil, have been greatly improved—we have the latest productions.
Baldwin Refrigerators are the best made.
Pratts Deodorized Gasoline.
A. M. Griffen,
119 EAST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

HENRY LIEFKE,
201-203 West Front St.
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
Try my New England and Home Made Bread. Vienna Bread a specialty. Goods delivered to all parts of the city.

TENEYCK & HARRIS,
Dealers in all the best kinds of cleaned and wel screened Lehigh Valley
COAL
Office 121 Watchung ave., near 2d st.
Telephone No. 15 F. South Plainfield, L. V. Station.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vin st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vines
All work promptly attended to.

FAIRY SOAP. FAIRY SOAP.

Bright Cut Glass

"To make cut or plain glass bright and new, wash in hot suds made from Fairy Soap. Rinse thoroughly in warm water, then dry at once with fine linen."
—Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer.

FAIRY SOAP

Pure—White—Floating.

The Soap of the Century.

Sold everywhere in three convenient sizes for the toilet, bath and laundry.

FREE Send us your name, address, and five Fairy Soap wrappers, to nearest office below, and we will mail you free a copy of a beautiful painting in water colors entitled, "Fairy Tales," by the celebrated artist, Leon Moran. Size 17½x24 inches, without lettering, ready for framing.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago. St. Louis. New York. Boston. Philadelphia. Pittsburgh. Baltimore.

The Standard of Highest Merit in a Piano is reached in the Fischer. The Fischer Piano received the Highest Possible Award at the World's Fair, Chicago, 1893, for Purity of Tone with great depth and resonance, staying-in-tune power, smoothness and elasticity of Action and Perfect Workmanship. This great testimonial of the

FISCHER PIANOS

is nothing more than confirmation of the high endorsement already given it by Artists, Musicians and Musical people everywhere. This universal recognition has only been obtained by an absolute and unfailing adherence to the very highest ideals in every detail of the art of piano-making throughout the fifty-eight years in which the firm has been established. Further and more substantial proof of the popularity of the Fischer Piano is shown in the fact that during this time

Over 105,000 have been Sold.

Sold at Moderate Prices—Cash or Easy Payments.

33 UNION SQUARE—WEST, NEW YORK.

Between 16th and 17th Streets.

A large stock of second hand and slightly used Pianos taken in exchange for Fischer Pianos will be sold at very low prices.

Catalogue, Terms, etc, mailed free on application.

Leech, Stiles & Co.

EYE SPECIALISTS,

14 and 16 South Fifteenth. street. Philadelphia. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front St.

Every Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4:50 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 1 14 tf m-t-w-s

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS AND DECORATORS
141 North Avenue.

J. W. VAN SICKLE,
122 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.
FRESH & SALTED MEATS,
GAME IN SEASON. Philadelphia Scrapple.
Orders called for and delivered promptly.
TELEPHONE 148 b.

WM. D. THICKSTUN
Real Estate and Insurance,
107 North avenue

ESTATE of DAVID M. DEMAREST, deceased. Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the County of Union, made on the application of the undersigned, executors of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation, their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from the fifth day of July, 1898, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers.

ELIZABETH B. DEMAREST,
HENRY M. DEMAREST,
G. BYRON LATIMER,
Executors.

7 16 10-s

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, surviving executor of Peter Ross, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the fourteenth day of December next.

Dated August 8, 1898.

8 13 5-s JOHN ROSS.

E. E. BROWN'S
MEAT MARKET
cor. PARK AVE. and SECOND ST.
Choice Meats
of all kinds.
GAME
n seasons. Goods delivered in all parts of the city and borough.

THE CRESCENT HOTEL.,
corner Somerset and Chatham streets, North Plainfield. Regular and transient boarders.
RUDOLPH SPEIGEL, Proprietor

UNINTERRUPTED PASSENGER SERVICE
TO
FORT MONROE
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
WASHINGTON
which are most attractive points at this time.
EXPRESS STEAMSHIPS
OF THE
OLD DOMINION LINE
Perform Daily Service.
Through tickets returning from Washington by rail or water.
For full information apply to
Old Dominion S. S. Co.,
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILAUDEU, Vice-Pres. & Traffic Mgr.
12 31 tf

Who? Who? Who?
says the Owl.
Who sells the best Wall Paper?
Who sells the most Wall Paper?
Who has the largest stock of Wall Paper?
Says the Public:
MARSH, AYERS & Co.,
of course.
The Owl is the symbol of wisdom—a fit symbol is it, therefore, to head an advertisement that will convey to you the wisdom of buying your Wall Paper of us.
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS, GLASS,
etc. 201 Park avenue, cor. E. Second street.

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS.
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
Cesspools Built

Ladies desiring
KNIFE-PLEATING or PINKING
done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 26tf

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW

The Volume of Business is Unusually Large and All Conditions Favorable.

New York, Aug. 27.—The volume of business reflected in exchanges at the principal clearing houses is 20.4 per cent. larger than last year, and 26.8 per cent. larger than in 1892, heretofore the year of largest business and highest prosperity ever known. Part of this increase was due to speculation at New York, but there remains a healthy increase over the best of previous years and though in some branches business is not satisfactory in character, in nearly all it is in volume larger than ever before. No unfavorable change appears in the prospect of crops upon which the welfare of the country so largely depends, nor is there present or threatening financial disturbance. Europe has not wearied of buying American securities, although some speculators have been selling, nor is there shown any want of confidence among American investors.

Comparisons as to foreign trade are apt to mislead because imports last year were extraordinarily small after the big rush to anticipate new duties, while exports were beginning to show the phenomenal demand which made the year quite the most remarkable in our history. Hence the decrease of 13 per cent. from New York in August thus far is not alarming, but sales of products yet to be forwarded are large, and have stopped any advance in the current rates of foreign exchange. Nor is it at all disheartening that imports at New York for the month thus far exceed last year's by nearly $5,000,000, since last year they fell below those of 1896 by more than $4,000,000.

Wheat goes down, three cents for the week, as if there were no foreign demand coming, the obvious concert of farmers to keep back wheat, the crop being certainly very large, tending to encourage a conspiracy of traders against them, which thus far has entire control of the market. Atlantic exports for the week have been 2,731,594 bushels, against 3,568,369 last year, and for four weeks of August 13,101,079 bushels against 13,387,638 last year, while Pacific exports, 254,239 bushels for the week, against 770,819 last year, have been for the month 1,363,794 against 1,405,333 last year. It is wise to remember that the foreign demand on account of last year's shortage is still lapping over, while all reports show that foreign crops are about average.

The output of iron and steel no longer measures the demand, and the stipulated stoppage of furnaces in the Shenango and Mahoning valleys has raised the price of Bessemer pig at Pittsburg to $10.50, and of Grey Forge to $9.25, without any certainty whatever that such prices can be maintained when the valley furnaces resume operations, as some of them are now doing.

It is well to note that the liabilities of failures reporting for the three weeks of August have been only $4,598,212, against $6,338,273 last year, and $20,932,285 in 1896, $6,519,366 in 1895, and $8,214,470 in 1894. Manufacturing were $1,578,633, against $2,731,966, and trading were $2,910,114, against $3,201,514 last year. Failures for the week have been 179 in the United States against 223 last year, and 26 in Canada against 34 last year.

Fruit for Camp Wikoff.

New York, Aug. 27.—A car load of fruit, donated by the fruit growers in the vicinity of San Diego, Cal., through Miss Helen Gould, to the sick and wounded soldiers of General Shafter's army, arrived at Weehawken yesterday. It was transferred in bulk to the Long Island Railroad and forwarded at once to Camp Wikoff.

Lieutenant Colonel J. Morris Brown, in charge of the Medical Supply Depot in the Army building, has shipped 860 additional hospital cots to Camp Wikoff, making 1,700 in all that have been sent to the camp.

Appointed State Entomologist.

Albany, Aug. 27.—Professor Mark V. Slingerland of Cornell University has been appointed state entomologist in place of the late Dr. J. A. Lintner.

A QUESTIONABLE ADVANTAGE.

Great Writers Who Were Henpecked Husbands.

The editor of the Philistine thinks that there is some compensaion even in a shrewish wife. He says:

"For the benefit of henpecked and misunderstood husbands I'll call attention to the fact that the men who have achieved most in literature, music, painting and philosophy are men who knew from sad experience the sharpness of woman's claws: Socrates, Dante, Shakspeare, Rousseau, Milton, Wagner, Paganini, and so many more that were I to name them all the world would not be large enough to contain the books in which they are printed. Of course I'll admit that the men who have been flayed by women have usually been greatly helped by women, and this sometimes accounts for the flaying. But the point I make is that all experience is good—the law of compensation never rests and the stagnation of a dead-level 'happy married life' may not be any more to a strong man's advantage than a long course of stupid misunderstanding. Milton bewailed the fact that he could get freedom from marital woes on no less ignoble grounds than violating his marriage vows. Milton did not get his freedom. His wife sat on him, silent and insensate, and so did her whole family of seven persons. And his sharp cry made him the butt of jibes and jeers innumerable. Milton was an obscure school teacher and clerk; but if any of those great men who sought to humiliate and defeat him are mentioned nowadays in history it is only to say 'they lived in the age of Milton.' 'His life ruined by a woman'—Pish! you flatter her; she hasn't the power. And the end of the whole thing, brother, is, it doesn't much matter what your condition in life is; all things are equalized. When the prophet said, 'God is good, and his mercy endureth from everlasting to everlasting,' he understood himself."

PEACE COMMISSIONERS

The President Completes the List of Our Representatives at Paris

A CAPABLE BODY OF MEN

New York Member of the Commission is Whitelaw Reid. Secretary of State Day. Senator Davis of Minesota. Senator Frye of Maine, and Justice White of Louisiana Are the Other Members

Washington, Aug. 27.—President McKinley starts to-day upon a brief vacation with a load off his mind. The acceptance by Associate Justice White yesterday afternoon of the tender of a place upon the peace commission, completed the personnel of that body. As it stands it comprises Secretary of State William R. Day, Senator Cushman K. Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations; Senator William H. Frye of Maine, a member of that committee; Whitelaw Reid of New York and Associate Justice White of the supreme court.

Senators Davis and Frye left town yesterday, the former going to New York and the latter to Maine.

The full commission will probably meet here next week, after the president's return from Pennsylvania.

The personnel of the American commission is regarded as particularly strong among public men. The views of all the commissioners, with the exception of Justice White, are pretty well known. Secretary Day does not favor the United States holding all of the Philippines. He would be satisfied with Manila and Manila bay. Senator Frye would be satisfied with Luzon island.

Mr. Reid, judging from the editorials in his paper, considers it impossible for Spain to exercse control of any portion of the Philippines, and thinks that the interests would be better subserved by the United States maintaining control over the entire group. Senator Davis is a territorial expansionist, and it is believed, judging from some of his recent speeches would favor permanent control over the entire Philippines.

Justice White, as a member of the supreme court, never talks for publication, and his views on the Philippines question are therefore unknown.

The commissioners apparently are not going to Paris to demand the entire group of the Philippine islands, but to contend only for the occupation of Luzon island. This was strongly dtveloped at a conference at the White House between the president, Secretary Day, and Senators Davis and Frye, a majority of the members of the commission.

HON. WHITELAW REID

During the conference yesterday the whole Spanish question was fully discussed and the policy of the administration was distinctly outlined. While the fact is recognized that a large majority of the American people are inclined to favor the taking of the Philippines by the United States, participants in the conference yesterday advanced what they considered substantial reasons why this should not be done. In order to maintain absolute control over the entire group of islands the United States government would be required to provide a standing army of from thirty thousand to fifty thousand men. The members of the commission do not believe that would be advisable.

It is believed the commissioners will make a straightforward demand for Luzon island, in accordance with suggestions supposed to have been received from Admiral Dewey. Their demands will be stated briefly, but in emphatic terms. It was suggested that the contention of the United States should be drawn up in unmistakable English and presented to the Spanish commissioners, with the statement that discussion would be a waste of time, as there could be no modification of the American claim under any circumstances. Of course such a vigorous American proposition would be sustained by the great mass of American people, but it would hardly be in line with diplomacy.

Thomas F. Bayard is Better.

Boston, Aug. 27.—The condition of the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, who is ill at the residence of S. D. Warren, in Dedham, was reported this morning to be considerably improved, and no serious results are anticipated. The fact that Mr. Bayard was worse yesterday is attributed to the hot and oppressive weather, but the cool wave of to-day will put him on the road to complete recovery, it is believed.

The New Minister from Chili.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Senor Vicuna, the new minister from Chili to this country, was accompanied to the White House yesterday by Secretary Day and presented to the president. There was the usual exchange of diplomatic greetings incident to the arrival of a new minister.

Crowds See the Vesuvius.

New York, Aug. 27.—There was a great rush yesterday morning to see the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, which anchored off Tompkinsville yesterday.

The boat has been badly in need of repairs ever since she "coughed up" those "earthquakes" at the Cuban forts

GOVERNOR BLACK INTERCEDES

He Visits the President in the Interest of N. Y. State Troops.

Washington Aug. 27.—Governor Black arrived in the city last evening and called upon the president. He laid before him a proposition that the New York troops be permitted to be brought to New York. If the government did not feel disposed to pay the expense of transportation, the state of New York would gladly bear it, even to feeding the men while on the cars and in the camp.

He recommended to the president that all the invalid troops be placed on Fire island, where they could have the best of medical attention. While the governor did not recommend to the president that the well troops be camped in the Adirondack mountains, he is strongly in favor of that proposition, and will to-day, when he sees General Corbin and the secretary of war, strongly urge, for the best of sanitary reasons, that this be done.

Governor Black said that his reception by the president was of the most cordial nature, and that the president wished him to say to General Corbin when he called upon him this morning, that Mr. McKinley heartily approved the suggestion of removing the state troops to New York.

The governor will call upon General Corbin this morning and lay the suggestions that he made to the president before him.

It is Governor Black's intention to visit the New York troops at their camps in the South for the purpose of finding out their actual needs. He expects to take with him on this journey Surgeon General Terry and Dr. Doty. General Hoffman will probably also be invited to accompany the governor on his trip.

THE L... O... CHINA

Pekin Must Obey England's Wishes at Once.

London, Aug. 27.—The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"The situation has suddenly become acute. The relations between the Tsung-li-Yamen (Chinese foreign office) and Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister, are strained to the point of rupture. Sir Claude Macdonald has intimated that any failure by China to observe Great Britain's wishes will be accepted as a casus belli.

"In support of Sir Claude Macdonald the fleet has been concentrated at Wei-Hi-Wei and Hankow, and all the warships under 5,000 tons have been mobilized in the Yang-tse-Kiang river. The naval demonstration is solely directed against China, as it is semi-officially stated that the existing relations with Russia are cordial. Lord Salisbury has abandoned the policy of the open door, substituting for it a policy of spheres of influence.

"Diplomatic conferences have been of constant occurrence within the last few days. Lord Salisbury insists upon the recognition by the powers interested in China of the boundaries of Great Britain's sphere of influence. In the same instrument whereby Great Britain recognizes Russia's position in Manchuria, Russia is required to acknowledge the paramouncy of England in the Yang-tse-Kiang valley and guarantee that our territorial requirements shall be permanently respected.

GEN. SHAFTER SAILS

Three Transports Leave Santiago for Montauk Point.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 27.—The steamship Mexico, with Gen. Shafter and his staff on board; the steamship Berlin, with the First Illinois volunteers and General Bates and staff on board, and the steamship Berkshire, with 350 convalescents from the Siboney hospital, under charge of Dr. W. E. Parker, sailed for the United States yesterday afternoon.

Five hundred men of the Fifth infantry arrived here from Tampa yesterday afternoon under command of Lieutenant Colonel Freeman. The men of the Fifth infantry will relieve Colonel Hood's immunes in the city garrison. Colonel Hood's command goes to San Luis, twenty miles out, with the brigade of General Ewers.

Two thousand Spaniards sailed for Spain yestetrday and 2,000 the day before. The men were in wretched condition. Thirteen died on the wharf while the men were being embarked on Wednesday and six Thursday. The captain of one of the ships expressed his belief that one-quarter of the men embarked would die at sea.

Talk About Hay's Successor.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Whitelaw Reid's appointment as a member of the peace commission leaves the question of Colonel Hay's successor as ambassador to England still an open one. When Colonel Hay resigned it was the president's intention to make Reid his successor, and this fact was semi-officially announced in a newspaper of which a member of the cabinet is editor-in-chief.

The serious and determined opposition to Reid's appointment, however, by the Republicans of New York shook the president's determination, and when a week ago he was told by those who knew the situation that the Senate would certainly reject the nomination he changed his purpose, and after a little consideration decided to offer Reid a place on the peace commission.

This appointment does not require the approval of the Senate, and Reid is therefore safe in accepting it. The only name now known to be under serious consideration by the president as ambassador to England, is that of Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, but it is not known whether the place has been formally offered to him or whether he would accept it if it were. The question was probably discussed at the cabinet meeting.

New York Troops for Honolulu.

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—Lieutenant Colonel Stackpole, Major Emmet and the majors of Companies A, B and D, First New York regiment, are making final preparations for their final departure for Honolulu on the Scandia. The companies are due on board this afternoon, the line officers to-morrow morning. About $1,000,000 will be sent to Manila to pay the troops. The Scandia will sail at ten o'clock this morning.

THE DAILY PRESS

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

Two cents a copy. Ten cents a week
$5 a year—in advance
No extra charge for papers mailed to points in the U. S. and Canada
Delivered by carrier or by mail.
The Press has the most complete carrier and mail service of any paper in the metropolitan district.
Any subscriber failing o receive a single issue will confer a favor by notifying the business office.
Advertising rates mailed on request
Copy for change of advertisements must be in this office by 9 a m. to ensure change the same day.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 27, 1898

FEATURES OF TODAY'S PRESS.

PAGE 1.—Important local news.
PAGE 2.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 3.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 4.—Editorial and gossip.
PAGE 5.—Vicinity news.
PAGE 6.—German news.
PAGE 6.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 7.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 8.—Sporting and local news.

COMING EVENTS.

August 28—Rev. Charles E. Dunn will speak and Mrs. John Manley and William McKillop will render vocal and violin solos at the Y. M. C. A. meeting at 4:15 p. m. Fans and iced lemonade.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

The Conduct of the Third.

To control a large body of restless men such as the Third Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers makes is no easy matter, even though the officers are backed by a severe code of rules and the whole people of the United States. The army rules are framed with a view of enforcement in times of conflict when every man must be held to strict accountability, but now when slight neglect or indiscretions are likely to prevail in the ranks—the men knowing that their duties are merely perfunctory at present—a good deal of lee-way and leniency is shown in the enforcement of the regulations. Offences that receive but little punishment now would be regarded with a great deal of severity in a time of actual war. To a certain extent, therefore, the officers take a good many if the infractions of the rules as a matter of course while the privates think they are still good and obedient soldiers even if they do a few things that a strict interpretation of the rules would not countenance.

It is this condition of affairs that has lead the privates to become unruly in wholesale numbers. Considered individually, perhaps, their offenses might seem very light, but taken in the aggregate they are important to the good conduct of the regiment. In order to put a stop to the practices that promised to seriously impair the discipline of the soldiers—a vital point in the efficiency of an army—the officers have doubtless found it necessary to impose punishment on the men harder than they would have done if only the good demeanor of each separate offender was to be taken into consideration

In another column of today's Press we print a letter which some of the privates have furnished, and in which they rehearse their complaints in dramatic recital. Army life at its very best is no picnic, but we can hardly convince ourselves that the officers of the Third Regiment are imposing the severe sentences simply for the purpose of impressing the privates with the power and superiority in the camp.

A Misapprehension.

Many and grateful are the tributes paid to this country for the heroic stuff which enters into the composition of her volunteers. Among others is a glowing compliment from the London Daily Chronicle, involving, however, a slight misconception, which may be corrected. Quoth The Chronicle after enumerating the results of the war and specially emphasizing the results of the Santiago victory:

"Above all, they have improvised the army with which they did this part of the work. Not bad for the interval between rent day and rent day! The manner of this improvisation is a striking vindication in some ways of the American system. Most of the troops who swarmed up the slopes at Santiago and captured intrenched positions held by seasoned troops and swept by artillery were mere untrained butchers, bakers and candlestick makers at the beginning of the war."

All this is very nice and warms the cockles of the American heart. But it is based on a misconception. The excellence of our militia and volunteer system is that it draws into its service all classes, not merely that of the "butcher and baker and candlestick maker" alluded to by the English paper. If any feeling of caste exists in times of peace, it is completely burned away by the fierce flame of patriotism which blows across the country in time of war. The dude fought splendidly by the side of the cowboy in the ranks of the rough riders and the butcher boy by the side of college graduate in the storming of the heights of San Juan. War is almost worth making and suffering when it teaches a lesson so effectively that "a man's a man for a' that," no matter what kind of a coat he wears.

The Last Chemical Discovery.

One never knows when new and interesting discoveries will be scored by scientific research. Neither can one be sure that any such discovery, at first apparently of mere abstract or academic interest, may not soon prove to be of great practical importance. Professor Dewar in London about three years ago amused audiences by his experiments in the liquefaction of gases. It was scarcely to be prophesied that it would soon prove to be revolutionary in some practical processes of great value, a fact which now seems probable. Cooke's "New Chemistry" in 1874 specified the existence of 63 elementary substances, and five new ones have been rapidly added, the last three being helion, argon and metargon, gases which almost refuse to unite with any other substance. A few weeks ago the identification of another elementary gas was made known to the French Academy of Sciences by three Italian physicists, MM. R. Nasini, F. Anderlini and R. Salvadori. The discovery came about by the agency of spectrum analysis, that all compelling tool of chemical and physical research. For many years the green line in the solar corona, known to spectrum analysts as 1474 K, was attributed to the aurora, but it was finally believed to represent some elementary presence in the sun lighter than hydrogen, but nonexistent in the earth. The investigation, mentioned above, found the same line in the spectrum of the gases thrown off by the volcanic springs of Pozzaoli, and the inference was that it was the identical gas previously recognized in the sun. This, it is believed, will soon be isolated and prove to be the lightest substance known to man.

The real importance of an individual can only be judged by the effect his death makes. Yet great men survive the active period of their greatness, and the effect is purely sentimental and critical. Dead Bismarck and Gladstone! The world is not moved a whit except in curious contemplation. "Imperial Cæsar dead and turned to clay" becomes only good for Hamlet's moralizing over an open grave. The death of the biggest man, after all, makes a very small ripple in the ocean of life.

The retired officers of the United States army, constituting a large body of able and in many cases physically competent men, have not been encouraged in giving their services to the government in our recent needs. Hundreds of military offices have been filled by civilian appointments and the trained soldiers debarred. In the naval service this rigid exclusion has not been enforced. It is not easy to grasp the philosophy of the distinction.

There is a strong reaction against the "manual training" idea which has been introduced into the school methods of many of our large cities. The argument is that the children of the poor need more than aught else a substantial drill in the elementary English studies, for which time is too limited. The manual drill wastes time for a mere smattering without skill.

Society is composed of two great classes, those who have more appetites than dinners and those who have more dinners than appetites. The returned heroes of Santiago will have belonged to both these classes when they are free to receive social attentions.

The weakness of the average man is never shown more potently than in the fact that he will glibly excuse himself at a fault while he will blush speechlessly at a blunder.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Unionist-Gazette and the Plainfield papers have recently been using press agent methods in Senator Reed's favor by endeavoring to convince the farmers in his friendship for them, "The Farmers' Friend" who ever heard of a lawyer that wasn't?) and his law in reference to New Yorkers who come to New Jersey to escape legitimate taxation has had a complete knockout blow by the Freeholders' committee of this county which recently visited Ocean county and examined the assessor's books at Lakewood, when they found Millionaire George Gould taxed three or four times as much as he should be for scrub land that he owns there. Senator Reed has been very unfortunate in his career and unless he muzzles his newspaper friends he will find it impossible to even be seriously considered as a Senatorial candidate when the time rolls around next year. —Bound Brook State Centre.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The Wallace House at Somerville has been donated a cannon ball by Philip Van Arsdale Everett, of Frankfort, whose grandfather lugged it home from the Monmouth battle field. It weighs six pounds.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The greatest comedy event of the season is the announcement that the pretty and well-known soubrette Miss Katharine Rober, supported by the favorites, the Lillian Kennedy Company, so well-known in the larger cities, will appear at Music Hall for three nights and Saturday matinee, commencing Thursday, September 1st, in three great scenic productions that have never been done before at popular prices. These productions have made tremendous hits in all the large cities and will be produced with the same strong company of artists.

* * * * *

The famous colored comedians, Cole and Johnson, will be the attraction at the Stillman Music Hall Tuesday evening next, Aug. 30th., in their play, "A trip to Coontown." There are few more deservedly popular comedians than these co-stars of mirth and clever specialties. Their humor is of that spontaneous kind which is almost irresistable and which never fails to provoke hearty laughter. One of the secrets of their success is originality. Their work is surrounded by an atmosphere of newness and creativeness that, in these days of song, situation and play-piracy, is positively refreshing.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

Mrs. Mary Waldron, of West Fifth street, is very ill.

Mrs. S. W. VanHorn, of Summit avenue, is ill at her home.

Charles A. Haynes, of First place, is in Vermont for his health.

Edward McCarthy, of West Sixth street, is enjoying a vacation.

Arthur H. Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, has gone to Ohio on a business trip.

Miss Mary Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, has been visiting friends in Newark.

The Misses Du Bois, of Park avenue, have gone to Whitehouse to spend Sunday.

Miss Reine Aldrich, of Sherman avenue, is entertaining her cousin from Yonkers.

George A. Chapman and family, of Stelle avenue, have returned from the White Mountains.

Andrew Wilson and Allan Coddington, of the borough, were in New Vernon Thursday.

Mrs. Edward S. Mosher, who has been boarding on Central avenue, has returned to New York.

Mrs. Mina Ammerman, of Madison avenue, is visiting at the home of William Smalley, of Craig place.

Rev. Dr. C. S. Gardner, of the First Baptist church, S. C., has been visiting at the home of Rev. Dr. Yerkes.

Miss Charlotte Aldrich and Stephen Aldrich, of Sherman avenue, have returned after a sojourn in Asbury Park.

Former Assemblyman W. R. Codington and family, of Sandford avenue, are summering at Asbury Park.

William A. Spencer, of Amboy, a student in Reed & Coddington's law offices, is detained at home by illness.

Miss Annie McCabe, of Central avenue, has returned from a month's vacation at Wilkesbarre and Scranton, Pa.

Mrs. H. T, Smith, the Misses Smith and Clifford Smith, of Westervelt avenue, returned today from Glen Cove, L. I.

Privates Florence McCarthy and Jack Morecraft, of Company H, Third New Jersey Volunteers, are home from Fort Hancock on a short furlough.

Mrs. A. D. Pope, of Lincoln place, Mrs. James Pope, of West Fourth street, and Mrs. Francis Clark, of Newark, are spending two weeks at Atlantic City.

Henry B. Drake, of Duer street, left this afternoon for Bay Head, N. J., where he will join George A. Horne, Walter B. Rittenhouse and James A. Stafford, of this city, who are cruising on the yacht "Teal."

SATURDAY :-: SPECIAL. :-:

A large quantity of 36-inch PERCALES. Splendid cloth and choice styles, made to sell at 10c. Our price while they last, 6c. per yard. Very desirable for Wrappers, House Dresses, etc They are a greater bargain, if possible, than the Organdies we sold in July. They are worthy the attention of all careful buyers. We are not selling them for profit, but rather to make business during the dull season.

SUNDRY NEW GOODS.

Our FALL DRESS GOODS are now arriving. We have some rare values in Brilliantines, Sicilians and Storm Serges in Navy and Black. We buy these goods direct from the mill. They are reliable and we recommend to the finest trade. Novelties will be worn but little, so we leave them out and devote our energies to securing the choicest things for tailor made suits. Venetian Cloths are the latest We have them.

Some new BLACK CREPONS at 98c. are very rich We have a new Black Henrietta, 46 inches wide, at 98c. that we believe are above the average $1.00 Henrietta. Ask to see it now in stock. We pride ourselves on making choice selections of rich materials. If you are particular about Ties ours will interest you.

-:- Our Fall Line of Gents Neckwear -:-

-:- Children's Hats and Caps for Fall. -:-

All new and the latest. More than that, they are clean. We handle no sweat shop goods.

Ladies Tailor-Made SKIRTS, Ready to Wear,

OR MADE TO ORDER.

Our own materials and workmanship the finest.

Basement Special.

OUR $3.00 PARLOR ROCKERS,

OAK OR IMP. MAHOGANY, PIANO POLISHED,

Saturday Only. $2.25.

Mason's QUART JARS, 40c. Doz.
PINTS, 36c. Doz.

WOODHULL & MARTIN,

234-236-238 W. Front St.

Telephone No. 774.

PECK'S Corset Store,

316 W. Front St.

SPECIAL.

A splendid line of Scotch Suits to order - $15.00
Reduced from $20.00
Trousers to order - - - - 5.00

SEBRING'S,

202 West Front St.

The Model Town . . .

LINCOLN

OFFERS

Rare Opportunities for Home Seekers and Investors.

In has Sewers, Trolley Line, City Water, Telephones, School, Postoffice, Macadam Road, Depots of Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

HOUSES AND LOTS SOLD ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

SILAS D. DRAKE, President and Manager.

MAKES HAIR GROW. A lady in Maine writes:—"I had a bald place on the side of my head for 20 years. Have used almost everything, but found nothing like

REYNOLD'S PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC.

I now have a soft, white down all over the place." It stimulates healthy action of the scalp, relieves from dandruff, prevents falling out of hair. No disagreeable odor. An elegant hair dressing. Made only by

T. S. ARMSTRONG, THE APOTHECARY.

2,000 Yards of Ribbon to be 17c a yard.

Beautiful ribbons moire taffetas in every color. Delicate shades, dainty combinations, plaids, checks, are here for 17c a yard; most of these ribbons ordinarily sell at 25c, a great many at 35c; displayed for easy selection in front part of the store.

Shirt Waists are Now 25c and 50c.

These are the clearing prices, not many here and a few days selling will clear the stock. Former prices 65c. to $1.00.

Silk Sale.

500 yards of figured silks at 42c. regular 65c value. 350 yards silk,s plaids, stripes, etc. at 69c, regular $1.00 value. 100 yards remnants of silk, at 20c. a yard.

Men's Negligee Shirts.

The men's furnishing dept. offers soft front negligee shirts, neat stripes, checks, plaids, white neck bands, some with detachable cuffs, some without cuffs, at 50c. This means your selection of shirts that have been 75c. to $1.00.

A Sale of Hosiery.

About 25 dozen ladies fine black hose, 16c. a pair, worth 25c. Nearly a hundred dozen ladies black hose to be 9c. a pair, regular 12½c. Children's fine ribbed hose at 10c. regularly sold at 15c.

I. LEDERER.

SENSATION IN SHOES!!

"OFF STYLES," BUT THE BEST OF STOCK.

They will go quick. 1 lot men's Calf Bals, Good Year welt, (all sizes) narrow toes, sold for $3 and $3.50, only 98c. 1 lot Burt & Packard's narrow widths, only broken sizes, were $5 and $6, only $1.48. 1 lot J. & M. patent leather button and lace odds and ends, were $5 and $6, only 98c. 1 lot odds and ends boy's and men's, sold from $2.50 to $4, your choice now 69c.

We are selling lots of TRUNKS, Dress Suit Cases and Hand Bags cheap. These are some samples of our great summer sale. Trunks from $1.98 up. BIGGEST BARGAINS IN TOWN.

Doane & Edsall.

IF YOU SEE

Our FURNITURE

and get our prices your own good judgment will decide about the fairness of both. Please call often and look at our constantly changing assortment.

G. Q. PACKER,

301-305 West Front Street, corner Madison Avenue. Telephone 736.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, Aug. 27.—Miss Gertrude Carroll, of Bayonne, is visiting her cousin, Miss Lottie Taylor.

William H. Cole has received word of the sudden death of his brother, Benjamin Cole, at Califon, Thursday. The deceased was the oldest brother and was a prosperous miller at that village. He was nearly 70 years of age, and will be buried this afternoon.

Miss Jane McAllister, of Camden, who has charge of the correspondence department for the Ladies' Home Journal, Philadelphia, has returned home after a month's visit with her aunt, Mrs. C. M. Bowyer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Dunham, of Alabama, who are visiting Mr. Dunham's mother, Mrs. Ann Dunham, of Church street, have gone to Asbury Park for two weeks.

Miss Mary and Miss Lizzie Martine have returned from a three weeks' visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff, of Flemington.

Rev. A. I. Martine and bride have returned from their homeymoon. They spent most of the time in Pine Ride, Ulster county, N. Y.

Miss May Apgar, of Front street, has returned from a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Sherman Cooley, of Flemington.

Mrs. A. N Randolph and Miss Vergie Tunison are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Manning Randolph, of Piscataway.

Miss Marguerite Burnet, of Brooklyn is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James McElvare, of Washington avenue.

Miss Ethel Fenner has returned to Pluckamin after visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Swackhamer.

Mrs. Ann Dunham and daughter, of Church street, are visiting relatives in New Brunswick.

DeWitt Smith, wife and sons, of Somerville, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer.

Mr. Douglass and wife and George W. Day and wife spent yesterday at Rockaway Beach.

Mrs. J. F. Randolph is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Beetham, of Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Fredericks are visiting Mr. Frederick's parents at Franklin.

Miss Bertha Goodwin, of Brooklyn, is visiting her cousin, Miss Sadie Giles.

Rev. J. F. Apgar, of Stoney Point, is visiting P. R. Apgar, of Front street.

William H. Terry spent Thursday visiting his mother in Metuchen.

W. H. Cole has gone to Califon to attend the funeral of his brother.

Miss Myra Runyon, of Plainfield, visited relatives here yesterday.

Albert Apgar, of Front street, visited relatives in Westfield Thursday.

Miss Rhoda Brakeley, of Easton, is visiting Miss Louise Brakeley.

Mrs. Harry Swackhamer is visiting her parents at Pluckamin.

William H. Cole visited friends in New Brunswick Thursday.

Mrs. C. M. Bowyer spent Thursday in Plainfield.

Mrs. John DeGraff is entertaining company from Rahway.

George Morrison, of Cranford, has been a visitor in town.

Miss Jennie Smalley spent yesterday in New York.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of the Daily Press.)

New Market, August 27—Stanley Day, Jr., is spending a few days with Mrs. Fred Nelson, at Basking Ridge.

Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Offerman, of Yonkers, have been visiting Miss Sarah Cunningham.

Herbert Nelson, of South Orange, rode over on his wheel and visited his mother yesterday.

Mrs. E. H. Faulkner has returned to her home in Westfield after a pleasant visit here.

Mrs. W. VanCleve, of Brooklyn, is a guest of her brother, Edward Schenck.

Mrs. Hannah Danz has returned from a visit in Columbus.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 27.—Mrs. William Bacon, of Haverstraw, and her cousin, Miss Berry, of Brooklyn, are spending a few days with Mrs. Bacon's father, Robert Walpole.

Mrs. Henry Meyers, who has been suffering from appendicitis for several days, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital Friday afternoon to have an operation performed.

John Branagan, of Trenton, after many trials and troubles with the Plainfield police, has arrived in town and is spending a few days with relatives.

Fred Schmidt, who has been quite ill for several days, is once more able to resume his position at the Central Hotel.

Dr. J. H. Buchanan, of Plainfield, and his friend, Mr. Bishop, of Philadelphia, visited friends in town yesterday.

Mrs. Hezekiah Hand, of Plainfield, spent Thursday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Coles.

Mrs. Thomas A. Gere, of Brooklyn, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Day, of Plainfield, visited friends in town Friday evening.

Miss Harriett M. Squires, of Rahway, spent Friday with friends in town.

Mrs. Stites M. Parse entertained a few friends at a dinner party Thursday.

Horace Hand, of Plainfield, visited friends in town Friday evening.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff leads the Methodist prayer meeting tonight.

William Foster, of Madison, is on his annual visit to town.

Arthur Haskard is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 27—Privates Elliott Howe, J. H. Norris and David Curtis, members of Company B, 71st New York Volunteers, are in town today, having been granted a furlough of 60 days. The boys have plenty to tell of their experiences in Cuba and they are welcome visitors to the town. When on the streets groups of eager listeners can be seen gathered about the soldier boys, proud to know the men who went to the front at the call of their country.

A grand rally will take place at the New York Avenue Baptist church on Sunday, when the Rev. A. M. Harris, of New York, Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mt. Olive church, Plainfield, and W. D. Johnson, of Plainfield, will deliver sermons. Services will be held at 11 o'clock, 3 o'clock and 7:30. The rally is for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase new carpets for the church.

Rev. N. B. Randall, of East Orange, will preach in the Baptist church tomorrow. This is the last Sunday that the pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Francis, will be away on his vacation.

Rev. John MacLachlan, of Binghamton, N. Y., will preach morning and evening in the Presbyterian church tomorrow.

John Ledley, of this town, is a member of the Ninth New Jersey Veteran Volunteers, which meets at Bridgeton, Sept. 14th.

The Westfield schools will open for the fall term Monday, Sept. 12th.

WASHINGTONVILLE

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Washingtonville, August 27—Miss Anna Blazer, who is visiting at the home of William Demler, was picnicing in the mountains Thursday with a party of friends from Plainfield and Newark.

Miss Mabel Davidson, of New Brunswick, is visiting at the home of Mrs. William Titus.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholsale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

—Don't forget to take advantage of the last of the Sunday-school excursions to Asbury Park which goes Tuesday. Then the Sunday school of the First Baptist church and its missions will spend the day at the seashore.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—Edward Martin's double quartette will sing at the camp meeting Sunday night.

—The trial of Michael Powers in the City Court was adjourned yesterday morning.

—Mrs. J. R. Truell's addition to her house on Central avenue is nearly completed.

—W. F. Arnold has purchased a Shetland pony and a small runabout for the use of his children.

—Van Emburgh & Son place on sale today six dozen coal scuttles to be sold for 12 cents each. Don't miss the chance.

—The meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow at 4:15 p. m. will open with a fifteen-minute service of song led by Thomas A. Cuming.

—Rev. J. E. Groves, of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, will preach a special sermon to the Helping Hand Society Sunday evening.

—At a meeting of the members of the Flemington Baptist church a call was extended to Rev. L. D. Temple, of Brattleboro, Vt., to become their pastor.

—The Christian church Sunday-school will picnic at Boynton Beach Tuesday next. They will leave the church on Grove street by stages at 8 o'clock.

—Central Lodge, A. O. U. W. held a meeting Thursday evening and received three propositions. Ice cream and cake were served in the good of the order.

—Howell Divison, Sons of Temperance, will hold a public meeting Monday evening, in their lodge rooms. There will be singing, recitations and addresses.

—Tomorrow will be the last time, this summer, for you to hear Rev. Carlos Martyn, D. D., preach. He is at Trinity Reformed church morning and evening.

—E. E. Marshall & Co., painters and decorators, of 167 North avenue, have just completed the decoration of the Franklin School which reflects much credit on their work.

—Special music at the Christian church Sunday evening. Mrs. McKane will sing Millard's Ave Maria. Mrs. A. D. Pope and Mrs. F. Clark, of Newark, will also sing.

—George Kirch, of North Plainfield, has bought out Schaffer's grocery store at the corner of Liberty and Fourth streets, and will open a cash grocery there September 1st.

—An unknown disease has attacked the hogs in the vicinity of Readington, Hunterdon county, and they are dying by the hundreds. A. W. Hall has lost forty and Isaac Disborough twenty head.

—Great Junior Sagamore William Newcorn has received an invitation to be present at the field day and picnic of Piute Tribe of Red Men, of Dover, Labor Day. The entire board of great chiefs will be present.

—The Mount Minsi House and cottages at the Delaware Water Gap are situated in one of the coolest spots in this section of the country. The proprietors make special rates to parties. See their new advertisement in today's Press.

—It is reassuring to note that in spite of the greater number of people wearing glasses, the percentage of blind persons is on the decrease. This would indicate that the proper adjustment of glasses is saving many people from going blind. Don't "monkey" with your eyes. If they are bothering you call and find the trouble. Scientific examination day and night free of charge at Collier's.

A BAD TRAP FOR BURGLARS.

Horrible Devices for the Punishment of Safe Breakers.

Applications have been made to the Patent Office in Washington for the protection of three inventions to discourage burglary and more especially train robbery. They provide punishments compared with which the tortures of the Inquisition were mere pastimes.

The penalties are electrical. Those who make use of them may choose between scalding a burglar to death, filling him full of lead, or merely shocking him into unconsciousness, if it is not desired to execute him by machinery.

The best device is quite original. It provides for a kind of trap-door directly in front of a safe, placed in such a position that it will be impossible for the burglar to reach the safe unless he steps upon it. Directly he touches this trap the robber will be enveloped in hissing blistering steam.

The purely electrical protector is more interesting. It can be adjusted so that it will paralyze maim or kill, as is desired. A powerful electric battery is connected with the safe. In front of the safe is a steel mat. When the thief stands on the mat and touches the knob or any part of the safe he will receive a shock that will put an end to his energy.—New York World.

IT'S THE KODAK —one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

LOADS ELEPHANTS CARRY.

Expected to Bear a Weight of from 900 to 1,000 Pounds.

It is somewhat interesting to compare the weights carried by elephants in the tin producing districts of the Malay peninsula with those used in the long journeys and mountainous country of the Lao States. In the peninsula the distances are seldom more than at most three or four days' march, and the elephant is expected to carry as much as nine hundred or one thousand pounds, besides his mahout and howda. The latter is often a mere brace of panniers slung together so as to rest one on each side of the backbone, and covered sometimes with a light barrel roof of bark.

In the Lao States, where journeys of ten days or three weeks are frequent, the average weight hardly exceeds 300 pounds, or one-third of what is usual in the peninsula.

In the Siamese Malay states there are probably about one thousand domesticated elephants, all told, and in the Lao country probably over 2,500 animals are working at the present moment. That these animals breed in captivity in Siam is due to the fact that a large number of them spend the greater part of their time holiday making in the jungle. When there is no work for his beast, the mahout takes him out to a nice cool green bit of forest, and leaves him there to enjoy himself. There is no expense connected with his upkeep, for he looks after himself. He has a hobble of rattan around his feet to dissuade him from wandering too far, and a wooden bell round his neck, by the tone of which the mahout or his little boy can always find him, when they go out once a month to look him up and give him some bananas.—Geographical Journal.

DEBT AND THE FIRST BORN.

All Bets Declared Off and Interest Lost in the Sermon.

The little backwoods, barn-like, hornet-infested church had incurred a debt of $200, and on the night when the mothers and old maids of the parish were giving an entertainment for its relief, the minister's wife gave birth to her first child. The news was received with rejoicings, and the dimes and dollars were spent more freely in the purchase of articles made by the sewing society, so that by 10 o'clock, with raffles, auctions and premiums, the sum needed to defray the obligation was safe in the treasury. Of course it was expected that the minister would refer to the noble work of the women in his sermon on the morrow, and there were thoughtful members of the flock who hinted that he also would have a few words to say about the new baby. This caused a controversy, which led to wagers of pumpkins, calves, lambs, tobacco, day's work in the field, etc., the question at issue being which he would mention first, the debt or the baby.

Sunday found the entire countryside at the church. The situation was one of standing room only. More bets had been made before the services began, and expectation was on tip toe. The preacher, wearing a beatific smile, entered the pulpit, lifted his hands skyward, and, after extending the customary invitation, "Let us pray," proceeded thus: "We thank thee, O Lord, for the little succor thou hast vouchsafed to us." The whisper was passed around among the boys that all bets were off and interest in the sermon languished.—New York Press.

Don't let your Grocer give you

Inferior Extracts;

Insist Upon Having That Put Up By

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's City Pharmacy.

143 WEST FRONT STREET. Business Established 1865.

Your Scalp may be kept free from itching and unsightly dandruff. The roots of your hair nourished by the use of RANDOLPH'S QUININE AND GLYCERINE HAIR TONIC. Ladies especially will appreciate its use in this summer weather. Delightfully perfumed, only 50 cents per bottle.

The handsomest Soda Fountain in the World is at our store. The Soda Water, famous for its Purity and delicious Fruit Flavors. When shopping have your meets at The Fountain.

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE. AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N.J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,

UNDERTAKERS,

No. 402, Park Ave. Tel. 40.

Office open night and day.

OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,

-:-UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,-:-

200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.

OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,

UNDERTAKER.

Residence and office 59 Somerset St.

TELEPHONE 248 B.

DIED.

DARBY—Suddenly in New York, August 25, 1898, Albert B. Darby in his 64th year.

Funeral service at his late residence, 75 Grove street, Sunday afternoon, August 28, at 3 o'clock. Relatives and friends of the family; Jerusalem Lodge No. 26, F. & A. M., are respectfully invited to attend.

LOOMIS—In North Plainfield, Friday, Aug 26th, 1898, Florence, daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late Edwin Loomis, aged 17 years, 11 months, 1 day.

Funeral services at the residence of her uncle, Ezra Loomis, 39 Mountain avenue, Monday, Aug. 29th, at 4 p. m. Interment in Hillside.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

NICELY furnished rooms single or connecting; use of bath. Apply 237 East Fifth street.

FOR SALE—6 Pekin ducks, of Rankin strain. Address P. O. Box 655. 8 27 2

TO LET—6 room house, 315 Richmond street. Enquire of Thomas Callahan, Cor. Richmond and Third streets. 7 28 tf eod

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, Attorney, cor. Park and North Aves. 12 11 eod tf

FLATS and stores to let in new Stillman building. 6 21 eod tf

FOR SALE—A fine residence. House fourteen rooms, all improvements, steam heat. Large carriage house, four stalls, other necessary buildings. On three acre lot, fine shade and fruit trees. High ground, elegant view. For easy terms address owner, L. Hollingsworth, Scotch Plains, N. J. 8 13 8 w-s

WANTED—Competant plain cook and laundress; white. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street 8 26 2

STORE with two rooms to let cheap. 218 East Front street. 8 16 2

WANTED—Competant white girl for chamber work and waiting. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street 8 26 2

FOR SALE—Set double farm harness, one farm wagon; Adriane's mowing machine, hay rake, plough, harrow, hay rigging. Robert Clark Jr., Washingtonville. 8 25 6

$1,300 Wanted on Bound Brook property 5 per cent, taxes, insurance $2,300, very prompt pay. Chas. J. McNabb, Attorney, Plainfield. 8 24 6

TO RENT—Furnished rooms, with all improvements. 323 East Second street. 8 23 1w

FOR SALE—New house, has desirable location; ten rooms and bath; leased for the year at good rental, part cash, balance mortgage. Address P. W. T., care Press. 8 22 6

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

WANTED—Place as cook. Appld 428 East Third street; colorey. 8 26 2

FLAT all light rooms, also hall to let. Enquire Manning's City Marble Works. 8 26 tf

FOR SALE—Large roan carriage horse. Apply 525 Belvidere avenue. 8 27 3

TO LET—Poultry and grain farm, with all conviences for poultry business. Large brooder and chicken houses, with yards. Will sell one to four incubators. 12 room dwelling house, newly painted and papered, suitable for boarders, with between fifty and sixty acres land; with or without 8 acres corn, 5 of potatoes, 1 of tomatoes, and 2 sweet corn, also variety garden truck. Possession at once. Address P. F., care of Press. 8 27 2

TO RENT—Rooms furnished or unfurnished. 50 Lincoln place, North Plainfield. 8 27 2

GIRL wanted to assist with general housework. 184 Watchung avenue, 2nd house below Fairview avenue.

YOUNG woman wishes situation as laundress. Address S., care Press.

FOR SALE—Roan pony, cart and harness. Apply 525 Belvidere avenue. 8 27 3

SUMMER RESORTS.

THE MANHASSET SEA SIDE PARK, N. J. Newly equipped. Electric light, artesian well water, perfect sanitation, superb sailing fishing and bathing. Absolute immunity from hay fever. Write for booklet.

6 4 3m-m-th-s M. E. WISTAR.

Delaware Water Gap.

Mount Minsi House & Cottages.

At Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

Coolest spot in the Gap. Beautiful scenery, boating, bathing, fishing, cycling. Excellent table. Finest spring water. Good R. R. facilities. $7.00 to $10.00. Special rates to parties. Booklet.

MOUNT MINSI HOUSE,

8 27 6 Slateford, Pa.

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3.50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1 50 formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2 Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2 Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6.90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25 Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M. WEINBERGER, MANAGER,

214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

Tuesday Night, August 30, 1898.

Second Annual Tour of

COLE AND JOHNSON

"The Clever Coons" - Dramatic Mirror.

And The Big Colored Beauty Show.

Presenting

"A TRIP TO COONTOWN."

Interpreted by a Star Cast.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

Box Office open Daily for sale of Reserved Seats.

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

Bargains

In shirt waists, quality and low prices are essential to bargains of any kind. We don't think you ever bought such shirt waists at such prices as we name on this large lot, over two thousand, all 1898 styles and made to sell for one dollar. Our price 49c.

A Glove Bargain!

We place on sale today twelve hundred pairs of importers' sample kid gloves from the best makers in the world. Included in the lot are the celebrated Reynier glove, all sizes and shades, 79c. pair.

White

Domet flannel, it means a saving of forty per cent. to buy now, we place on sale two cases of a fine quality 4c. the yard.

A Towel

Tumble, many thrifty people replenish the towel stock just on the edge of the Fall season, such people will find these towel bargains very much to their liking,

Full size all linen huck.....10c
Extra large bath towels.....13c
Extra heavy huck towels.....19c
Turkish wash cloths, each.....2c
All linen brown crash, yard.....6c

All at the Bargain Centre.

New Fall

Outing flannels, the regular 10 cent quality, we place on sale a case of beautiful designs, at 7½c. yard.

A Brush Sale

At half regular prices. Solid back all bristle hair brushes, 29c., a 50c. brush. Solid back toilet hand brushes, 15c. each, value 25c. Fine tooth brushes 10c. each.

Belts!

We will close the balance of our stock of fine leather belts, 19c. each.

For Men's Use!

Our men folks will be on the alert to take advantage of these timely offerings.

Unlaundered white shirts 50c. article, 39c. Men's fine Madras shirts, 49c. Four-in-hand all silk ties, reversible, 25c. each. Fine black half hose, 10c. pair. A 25c. suspender, 15c. pair.

Store Specials.

Fresh arrivals and marked at quick step prices.

White and grey cotton blankets, 38c. pair.
A good umbrella.....39c each
Side combs, 7c pair.....value 12c
A lot of pretty embroideries, 5c yard.
Boy's cambric shirt waists.....15c
10-4 all wool blankets.....$2.40 pair.
6-4 Fancy linen table covers.....49c
6-4 Fancy table covers.....39c
36 inch Butchers linen.....15c
Full size Counterpanes, a dollar quilt, 69c.
Ten quarter, all linen, figured table covers with one dozen napkins, $2.10 set.
Portierre curtains.....98c each
6-4 Scotch mixture for skirting, 39c yard.
36 inch Denim.....10c yard
50 inch Furniture covering..23c yard
Ladies fine lisle hose, 50c quality, 29c pair.

Edward White.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

White in all sorts of materials stands high in popular favor this summer. It is usually combined with some dainty color, and a gown of this spotless fabric can hardly be called quiet. For the girl who may only possess one thin summer frock, white organdie is the most desirable, while a sash of red, blue, pink, or some dainty shade gives the necessary touch of color to it.

These diaphanous gowns are generally made over a drop skirt, sometimes of silk, but oftener of one of the many imitations, which are much lighter in weight and serve the purpose quite as well. Another addition to the present summer skirt is the circular flounce, a fashion which, though quite common, does not lose its popularity, but seems to gain in favor as the season advances. This is chiefly owing to the fact that they are made in so many different designs, there is very seldom a repetition of the same pattern. Some are made straight all around, others are narrow in the front and grow wider toward in the form of ripples. Many persons, however, prefer the three dainty lace trimmed ruffles just at the foot of the skirt, while others boast tiny ruffles from the waist line down one after the other.

There appears to be no end to the many lovely accessories for adorning the neck and encircling the waist of the fair summer maid. Whether intended for the severe tailor made girl or the maiden attired in all the finery necessary for an afternoon tea or an evening dance, they are all extremely stylish and up-to-date. Ascots, fore-in-hands, and string ties in every shade and material are the proper neck fixings for the shirt waist girl, although many fancy the fluffy ties of new or mull brought twice around the neck and tied in an immense bow beneath the chin. White taffeta ribbon employed in this manner is also popular, and there is no doubt that these adornments are more becoming than the stiffly starched white collar.

For dressy wear long scarfs of fine lace, accordeon pleated chiffon and stocks and collarettes of every description are worn. One of the newest neck adornments is the stock of shirred silk or chiffon, fitting closely to the neck and held in place by four handsomely jeweled slides, placed at equal distances from one another. The Medici ruff, attached to the back of the high collar and extending up under the ears, is becoming and stylish, but is also exceedingly uncomfortable and warm for hot weather.

With the exception of the princesse there are very few gowns which do not need a belt or sash of some description, and there is without doubt a goodly array to select from. For wear with the shirt waist the leather belt is probably the most appropriate. They are made of the finest materials, sometimes studded with precious stones, but the preferred style is the plain leather, clasped with a gold or silver buckle. For the patriotic girl all manner of emblems are converted into buckles, and are eagerly sought after.

Banana Sandwiches.

Banana sandwiches are sometimes served as a simple luncheon dessert, or for the children's table. The fruit is sliced and placed between brown slices of buttered bread. These are laid in a shallow glass or china dish, and just before serving a pint of boiled custard is poured over and around them. Another variation for the children's dessert is a wholesome substitute for the eclairs of which they are so fond. Buy at the baker's the long pointed finger rolls, and after one side has been cut down with a fork, dig out as much of the inside as possible. Have ready a little boiled custard made in the ordinary way, except with slight additional thickness gained either with a little gelatine or by stirring in a tablespoonful of flour wet in a little cold milk. This is the proper proportion of a pint of custard. The custard serves as a filling for the rolls. At this season it is a pleasant variation to add a little of the strawberry juice pressed from fresh strawberries, or a very little pineapple or banana pulp may also be used to flavor the filling. Plain whipped cream or that over which a little sweet chocolate has been grated is another welcome variety. It is the pastry of the eclair which is especially unwholesome for youthful stomachs.

Blouse Waists for Girls.

Although girls of twelve and fourteen wear the regulation shirt waist with standing collar and jaunty tie now, the stores devoted to garments for children's wear make a specialty of fancy waists and blouses, which are much more becoming and youthful looking.

A pretty model is the full blouse of lawn or dimity, gathered in at the waist, and trimmed with ruffles of the material. These blouses are either made with the large sailor collar or small turned-down affair, with cuffs to match. A narrow ruffle also adorns the band down the centre of the front.

Dainty Accessories.

Fancy yokes, guimpes, or collarettes are every where en evidence on new summer gowns. Some of the most dainty are formed of sheer nainsook or mull, in clusters of fine lingerie tucks, with insertions and projecting edges of Valenciennes lace. The tucked guimpe extending into a narrow vest, and showing inside the fronts of the silk or satin waist, is a very popular bodice arrangement. To this guimpe is added a collar band of nainsook in minute tucks laid over white silk or velvet ribbon, and trimmed all around the top with a standing frill of Valenciennes lace an inch or more in width. There are also sleeve cuffs or inside frills of the lace-edged and tucked nainsook.

Valances for Beds.

Valances for metal bedsteads are made with a heading and usually stretched by running a tape through the double seam. The spread that accompanies the valance is of the same material—cretonne, or for summer use, organdie—and should be just long enough to fall a little below the heading. These bedspreads not only contribute to the decorative effect of a room, but are a thoroughly useful protection. The valance keeps the dust from the under side of the mattress, and the light spread, covering bed and pillow, insures neatness to the bed linen underneath.

Tapioca Ice.

A cold tapioca pudding is called tapioca ice. It is useful for the simple summer dessert. Four heaping tablespoonfuls of tapioca should be soaked overnight in cold water. In the morning spread a layer of some fruit—cherries stoned, bananas, or peaches, using the good canned sort when fresh is not to be had—in the bottom of the pudding dish. Sweeten this to taste and cover with the tapioca, adding a quart of water, and bake slowly for an hour. When done set on ice until needed.

Holland Costumes.

Holland costumes will be very much worn for travelling, tennis and morning gowns generally. Many different grades of the linen are used, and the most dressy models have flounced skirts bordered with linen insertion, with tucked yokes, finished with alternating rows of the insertion. Instead of the linen lace, some of the gowns are trimmed with black cluny lace or colored linen embroidery.

Those fellows who recently started out to hunt up the North Pole are probably praying that the war will be over by the time they return.—Trenton (N. J.) Gazette.

Greenaway Dress.

A quaint Kate Greenaway dress for a wee girl is made of sprigged lawn. The frock has a short bodice, which fastens down the back and has a slight fullness in front, outlined with three large mother-of-pearl buttons, with a silk cord laced from side to side. A narrow ruffle edges the neck.

The full skirt is attached to the short waist and is adorned at the base with three narrow ruffles. A sash of the material encircles the waist and conceals the joining between skirt and upper portion. A hat of white straw, trimmed with white ribbon and two fluffy white tips is also worn.

A Young Girl's Bathing Suit.

The fashionable small girl's bathing suit is made with fully as much care as that intended for her debutante sister. It has just as much style, and as youth can stand any color or material, all the dainty shades are employed in these pretty suits.

White serge or fine flannel is especially suitable, and an attractive bathing dress worn by a fair miss is composed of the latter material, combined with red and blue plaid flannel, thus forming a very patriotic suit. The skirt is a simple gathered affair, with a deep band of plaid flannel at the base and worn over white bloomers. A sailor collar adorns the simple blouse, and is finished with a jaunty bow of plaid. Tiny puffs compose the sleeves.

A Fetching Blouse.

Every day brings forth new designs for the separate waist, and each one seems to outshine the other in originality and beauty. A pretty fashion, and one that is extremely popular, has the upper part of the corsage cut low in the shape of a V, and is worn over a plastron or vest. This gives a jaunty appearance to a waist, and is very fetching.

A dainty waist made in this manner is of bayadere striped gingham. The lower part of the front is made in shield fashion and opens at the top with two small revers, faced with white linen. The vest is of pink and white dotted mull. A tie of soft silk is brought under the collar and ties beneath the plastron in a careless sailor knot.

A Pretty Matinee.

A becoming and graceful looking garment is a matinee of pale blue surah, trimmed with accordeon pleated chiffon. The neck is cut decollette and the material hangs in straight folds from the neck, intersected with insertions of fine laces and bordered at the base with a deep ruffle.

The two ruffles and the sleeves are composed entirely of the chiffon, trimmed with lace insertion. The opening of the jacket is on the shoulder, and under the arm, and is invisible.

Another pretty confection is of pale pink China silk, which is made with a deep yoke of alternate strips of silk and lace. From this yoke hangs straight the surplice like tunic, which reaches well below the hips. The sleeves are of lace and insertion.

Fashion's Fancies.

hold of the skirt must be taken at each side, and the parasol be left at home.

Hats that turn abruptly off the face are just now among the very fashionable styles.

While deploring the increased length of dress skirts for the street, it is still more discouraging to hear that the very newest model—that endangers both life and limb—is a skirt which on the front and sides is cut at least an inch longer than the height of its wearer. This can hardly be credited but it is true, and to walk with any sort of ease or safety, a "finger-tip"

Chic Yachting Suits.

Many of the very chic beach and yachting costumes made this season by French tailors are formed of soft gray Holland, with handsome linen lace insertions on skirt and bodice, or of colored pique, with often a skirt of plain pink, tan, blue, or white pique, and a fitted blouse of striped pique in two colors, the waist finished with a turned-down collar and a marine tie.

Color.

Color, as a rule, is very artistically considered this year, and even from red, white and blue as key-notes in both dress and millinery, many pretty variations are made. The genuine royal red is a brilliant scarlet, but the shade which appears conspicuously in fashionable gowning is like a velvet petalled geranium blossom.

THE WEEKLY MENU

MONDAY.

Breakfast.—Raspberries. Bacon and Eggs. Toast. Coffee.

Luncheon.—Cold Roast Lamb with Mint Sauce. Watercress Salad. Wafers. Huckleberries. Iced Tea.

Dinner.—Cream of Spinach Soup. Broiled Porterhouse Steak. Mashed Potatoes. String Beans. Lettuce Salad. Watermelon. Iced Coffee.

TUESDAY.

Breakfast.—Cantaloupe. Oatmeal, Sugar and Milk. Johnny Cake. Boiled Eggs. Coffee.

Luncheon.—Meat Balls. Riced Potatoes. Olives. Plain Cake. Raspberries. Chocolate.

Dinner.—Cream of Corn Soup. Stewed Chicken. Potatoes. Shelled Beans. Tomato Salad. Huckleberry Pudding, Hard Sauce. Coffee.

WEDNESDAY.

Breakfast.—Blackberries. Wheat Biscuit, Sugar and Cream. Lamb's Liver Saute. Corn Bread. Coffee.

Luncheon—Chicken Sandwiches. Sliced Tomatoes. Bread and Butter. Cherry Pie. Iced Cocoa.

Dinner—Green Pea Soup. Breaded Veal Cutlets with Tomato Sauce. Mashed Potatoes. Green Corn. Lettuce and Cucumber Salad. Peaches and Cream. Coffee.

THURSDAY.

Breakfast.—Grapes. Broiled Chicken. Rolls. Potato Balls. Coffee.

Luncheon.—Cold Sliced Tongue. Sweet Pickles. Soda Crackers. Plums, Apricots. Tea.

Dinner.—Mock Bisque Soup. Roast Beef. Riced Potatoes. Green Peas. Cauliflower. Cress Salad. Wafers. Pineapple Layer Cake. Coffee.

FRIDAY.

Breakfast.—Cantaloupe. Broiled Bluefish. Toast. Graham Gems. Coffee.

Luncheon.—Fried Clams. Cold Roast Beef. Baked Potatoes. Pears. Cherries. Tea.

Dinner.—Green Pea Soup. Broiled Shad. Potatoes: Asparagus. Sliced Tomatoes. Cake. Frozen Peaches. Coffee.

SATURDAY.

Breakfast.—Blueberries. Bread Omelet. Potato Cakes. Toast. Coffee.

Luncheon.—Lamb Chops. Potato Salad. Sliced Tomatoes. Peaches and Cream. Tea.

Dinner.—Vegetable Soup. Braised Beef. Potatoes. Tomatoes Stuffed with Green Peas. Cress Salad. Watermelon. Coffee.

The Ever Changing Fashions.

"The eternal fitness of things," as applied to fashion in dress and adornment has but an evanescent force or meaning. No one can trace from its source, manufacture, and almost universal use, the once-popular shoe-shaped a la Arkansas Traveller, with its huge projecting sole, its sturdy heel, and crimped upper. Nor can any one write the history of the V-shaped shoe, which so quickly supplanted the broad, stubby one, the shoe which makes the foot appear as if it had been chiselled down to one single toe. And no one can tell who first brought out the insignificant little Derby hat, and persuaded men with massive heads and broad shoulders to ignore their common sense notions of fitness and consistency and wear the little top chapeau. It would be useless to attempt to discover the man who inflicted upon us the ridiculous "Ulster" reaching to the heels, which raged for many seasons and is not yet moribund, being still resorted to by short men who wish to make themselves look taller, but who only make themselves appear really inches shorter by sheer contrast. This garment and the gown which trails the muddy sidewalks; the hoop-skirt, the distended, disfiguring bustle, the grimy-looking tan glove, not long since deemed suitable for wear with an immaculate white evening toilet—these are but types and instances of the fancies and foibles, and ever-changing modes of fashion which come and go with the changing seasons of the year.

Watermelon Pink Taffeta.

A pretty blouse waist is a taffeta of watermelon pink and white striped silk. The front which is made to fasten slightly to one side, is cut low in the neck and bound with two rows of pink satin ribbon. The fine lace yoke and collar is mounted over plain silk giving a soft transparent effect which is exceedingly pretty. The sleeves are made somewhat after the shirt waist model, with small turned back cuffs and tiny epaulets.

Another dressy waist is made by sewing together one and a half inch ribbon and inch width insertion, joined either vertically or diagonally. This makes a very elaborate waist and is not as much work as one would suppose.

New Machine for Cleaning Carpets.

Carpets can be cleaned without removing them from the floor by a new machine which has metal strips set inside a casing to beat the carpet as the cleaner runs over the floor, a fan being mounted in the top of the casing to draw the dust into a water compartment, which has an air passage covered by a moistened screen to retain the dust particles.

The Costliest Crown in Europe.

This is worn by the Czar of Russia on State occasions. It is surmounted by a cross formed of five magnificent diamonds, resting upon an immense uncut but polished ruby. The ruby rests upon eleven large diamonds, which in turn are supported by a mat of pearls.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Mecklenburg.

Rostock. Eine ungewöhnlich lange Reise hat die hiesige Stahlbarke „Henry Clement," das größte hiesige Schiff, hinter sich. Die Bark ging am 2. Dezember v. J. von Kuxhaven mit einer Ladung Coaks und Schwergut nach Santa Rosalia am Golf von Kalifornien in See und ist am 30. Juli glücklich im Bestimmungshafen angekommen. Es hat also zu der Reise, die normaler Weise in höchstens 150 Tagen gemacht wird, 240 Tage gebraucht. Das Fahrzeug galt schon allgemein als verloren. Um so mehr Freude erregte es in seemännischen Kreisen, daß das prächtige Schiff, welches erst 1892 in England erbaut wurde, und mit ihm eine Besatzung von 19 Mann erhalten geblieben ist.

Braunschweig.

Braunschweig. Die Studirenden der hiesigen herzoglichen technischen Hochschule, Wilhelm Blank, Ernst Homann, Rudolf Junge und Ernst Wilke, wurden in diesem Frühjahr von Polizeibeamten überrascht, als sie in einem hiesigen Restaurant mehrere Mensuren ausfochten. Jüngst wurden sie sämmtlich zu der gesetzlich niedrigsten Strafe von drei Monaten Festungshaft verurtheilt.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Bad-Nauheim. Hier wurden 2352 Bäder gefertigt, die höchste Zahl, welche bis jetzt an einem Tage erreicht wurde.

Klein-Steinheim. Der Knecht Jakob Glaser hatte einem zum Beißen neigenden Pferde seines Dienstherrn diese üble Angewohnheit dadurch zu vertreiben gesucht, daß er ihm die Zunge beinahe bis zur Hälfte durchschnitt. Als er von seinem Herrn hierwegen zur Rede gestellt wurde, bedrohte er diesen mit dem Messer. Dem rohen Menschen wurden zwei Jahre Gefängniß zudiktirt.

Mainz. Den Tod von Weiberhand hat der Spezereiwaarenhändler Schüler gefunden. Von rasender Eifersucht gepeinigt, hat seine Geliebte den unglücklichen Kaufmann erdolcht.

Worms. Der Fischereiverein für das Großherzogthum Hessen beschloß Angesichts des Umstandes, daß sowohl die Stadt Mannheim als auch andere Städte beabsichtigen, ihre Fäkalien in den Rhein zu leiten, mit allen ihnen zu Gebote stehenden Mitteln gegen ein solches Projekt zu protestiren, da die Schwemmkanalisation den Fischen und ihrer Brut schädlich sei.

Bayern.

München. Die letzte Viehzählung in Bayern ergab folgendes Resultat: An Pferden sind vorhanden 376,757. Die meisten Pferde hat Oberbayern mit 111,013 Pferden, ihm stehen am nächsten Niederbayern mit 74,973, Schwaben mit 59,385, Pfalz mit 38,381 und Mittelfranken mit 33,762; die wenigsten Pferde, nämlich 11,205 hat Oberfranken. An Rindvieh sind in Bayern 3,419,421 Stück vorhanden. Im Jahre 1892 war der Stand 3,337,978 Stück.—In der hiesigen Kraft- und Arbeitsmaschinen-Ausstellung gelangten jüngsthin die bereits rühmlich bekannten Kinderbrut-Apparate zur Aufstellung. Der „Kinderbrutapparat" bezweckt die Erhaltung frühgeborener und schwächlicher Kinder, die in der ersten Zeit der Geburt nicht im Stande sind, den Einflüssen der äußeren Temperatur zu widerstehen. Die Apparate haben sich seit dem Jahre 1891 auf das Glänzendste bewährt und haben bis jetzt über 2000 Kinder dem Leben erhalten, das heißt etwa 72 Prozent der zur Behandlung übergebenen Säuglinge. In München allein sind laut amtlicher Statistik jährlich etwa 1500 Frühgeburten konstatirt.

Fürth. Wegen falscher Verdächtigung eines Einjährigen hatte ein erst jüngst zum Unteroffizier beförderter Musiker beim hiesigen 21. Infanterie-Regiment eine kleine Strafe zu gewärtigen. Dies regte den kaum 20jährigen Mann, einen Elsässer, so auf, daß er sich durch Erschießen den Tod gab.

Landau. Ueber die Gegend von Landau a. J. zog dieser Tage ein schweres Gewitter. Besonders wurden die Ortsfluren Ettling, Gneiding, Kolling, Herblfing schwer verhagelt. Bei einem einzigen Agenten in Eichendorf allein wurden über 80 Schäden angemeldet.

Moos. Der Gütler Bergmaier lehnte sich sorglos an das morsche Geländer der Innbrücke. Dieses brach zusammen; Bergmaier stürzte in's Wasser und ertrank.

Nürnberg. Bei der hiesigen städtischen Arbeitsnachweisstelle ist die Erfahrung gemacht worden, daß durch die Centralisirung der Arbeitsnachweisstellen in Bayern zwar mehr Aufträge von auswärts einliefen, aber auch mehr Arbeiter zugereist kamen. Während im vorigen Jahre im ersten Semester 1231 Arbeiter zugereist waren, wovon 958 oder 77.8 Prozent Stellen vermittelt wurden, war heuer die Zahl der Zugereisten 1691, wovon 1302 oder 76.5 Prozent Stellen vermittelt wurden. Der bedeutende Zuzug von Arbeitskräften, namentlich Tagelöhnern, erstreckte sich auch auf ältere Landleute im Alter von 60 bis 65 Jahren, die jedoch eine Zuweisung nicht ausgestellt erhielten. Ferner kamen auch Landleute, die einen Lohn von 30 Pfennige pro Stunde verlangten, der ihnen aber nicht bewilligt wurde.

(B) AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED

Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

3 big buildings

—crowded with price-cut goods—

Realize how immense this stock of ours is? Stores run from Market to Campbell—from Campbell to Bank Sts—no limits to your choice—no such amazing price-drops ever listed—even in August! But Fall's lines, soon here, need more floor space than we've got.

All Chairs at bare cost

—don't need to tell you of the name we have for great, varied chair stocks.

12 different sets—no duplicates—dining chairs at half former costs.

50 reed, rattan and wicker rockers—$1.25, $2.50, $3.00.

100 sorts of odd rockers and chairs—palin woods and richly upholstered reds, greens, oak, antiques—$2.50, $3.00, $4,00 and $5.00. All porch and lawn furniture that's left below wholesale.

Cream of City's Carpet Snaps

—this week we'll take the stiffening out of every solitary carpet in this store—many of Fall's weaves have already come—they'll be included.

60c. Very Heavy Ingrains, 39c. yd. Body Brussels, 90c. 85c. All-Wool Ingrains, 65c. yd. Moquettes, 90c. 20 rolls Velvets and Tap Brussels at half. Remnants of choicest patterns—must go—bring room measures with you. Mattings 10c. yd. and up.

"Monarch"

2-hole high, $4.90—all others that are left to go at same low rates. "Monarch" Vapor Stoves are the best from A to Z—ask to see the "Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove"—another marvel

$10.75—beveled mirror, rich polished oak, new shape—a $15 sideboard.

Other Sideboards: We put $18 ones at $13; $25 ones at $15; $28 ones at $20; $35 ones at $25; $65 ones at $50—some that were $125 to $100.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St.,
LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS. Near Plane St.,
Note first name "Amos." Newark, N. J.
Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY.
127 B W. Front St.

I am ready to supply the public in general with
FRESH MILK AND CREAM.
Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES,
Dealers in
FURNITURE,
149-151 East Front St.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER.
Rapid. Simple, Durable,
IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.

The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address
THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO.,
5 20 4m 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
— DEALERS IN —
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER.
ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER.
169 NORTH AVENUE.
Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phœnix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS,
Dealers in first-class
PIANOS and ORGANS
We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.
221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD. J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.
Madison Avenue and Third Street.
Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.
MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.
SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.
DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order
BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.
FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs, Casings and Stops in stock for sale.
GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.
Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props.
[Turning and Scroll Sawing.]

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, †10.7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 22, 5 54, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 9 15, 10 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 48, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 9 15, 32 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St. at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturday only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15 a. m.; 12 m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St. at † 10.7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 2 25, 3 30, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 2 30, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 55 p. m., 12 15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 00, 37, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 22, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05 8 38, 9 03, 10 05 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 25, 5 45, 6 19, 7 25, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01, [2 11 except Saturdays] 2 27, 3 35, 4 36, 5 05, 5 25, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p. m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 06, 9 55, a.m; 2 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 30, 10 15, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 38, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 3 20, 4 30, 5 28, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m; 12 35, 1 20, 5 15, 6 35, 7 55, 8 05, 8 45, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01 2 27, 5 25, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m; 2 03 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m; 12 32, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m; 6 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For staticns to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin Hanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, parlor car to Easton, buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 08 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only) [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m; 1 15, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21, 7 03, 8 45 p. m. Sun days, 8 52 a.m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 32 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p. m Sundays 8 52 a.m

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 09, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*, 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 38* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46 a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night, Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night, Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a.m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 6 38 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 7 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02, a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 13 p. m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 6 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. BOLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

JAS. T. MACMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 16th, 1898.

AN ORDINANCE

locating the tracks of the extension of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in Richmond street and East Second street and over a private right of way to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road, and authorizing and empowering the construction and operation and maintenance of the same and granting permission for said company to use electricity as the propelling power of its cars and prescribing the terms and conditions upon which the said location of the tracks and permission are granted.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Whereas, The Plainfield Street Railway Company, a street railway corporation organized under the provisions of the laws of the State of New Jersey and operating a street railway in the city of Plainfield, did present their petition or application to the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, praying the said Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield for their consent to the construction, operation and maintenance of an extension of its street railway in the city of Plainfield, from a point in its present line of railway in Watchung avenue opposite East Second street, through East Second street to the present terminus of East Second street between Netherwood avenue and Leland avenue, thence along a right of way through private property to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road and also from a point in the present line of tracks of the said railway company in East Fifth street opposite Richmond street, thence westerly through Richmond street to the line of East Second street, and

Whereas, Public notice has been duly given of such application and of the intention of the Council of the City of Plainfield to consider the same by publication and also by posting a copy of the said notice in five or more of the most public places in the said city of Plainfield, at least fourteen days prior to the date fixed for the meeting of the said Council of the City of Plainfield to consider said application, and

Whereas, Upon the day fixed by said notice for said hearing and upon the day to which the said hearing was regularly adjourned, public hearing was given to all persons desiring to be heard, in favor of or opposed to or in anywise interested in the said application for the location of the said tracks of the said street railway company and the said matter having been duly considered by the Council of the City of Plainfield, and the said Council having determined to grant permission to the construction, maintenance and operation of such street railway upon part of the streets, highways or public places designated in such petition and to refuse permission to construct, maintain and operate such street railway upon the remainder of said streets or public places, and the said company having filed with the clerk of the city of Plainfield, the consent in writing of the owners, or their duly authorized legal representatives, of at least one-half in amount of the lineal feet of property of the said Richmond street from East Fifth street to East Second street and on East Second street, from Richmond street to the present terminus of East Second street between Netherwood avenue and Leland avenue and thence along a right of way through private property to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road.

Section 1. That the tracks of the extension of the Plainfield Street Company's railway be and are hereby located in the following streets, roads and alleys of the city of Plainfield: from a point in the present line of tracks of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in East Fifth street, opposite to Richmond street; thence westerly through Richmond street to the centre line of East Second street; thence through East Second street to the present terminus of East Second street, between Netherwood avenue and Leland avenue; thence along a right of way through private property northeasterly on a curve having a radius of four hundred and seventy-one feet and eight-tenths of a foot, two hundred and one feet and seventy-four hundredths of a foot; thence north twenty-one degrees and five minutes east two hundred and eighty-three feet and twenty-three hundredths of a foot; thence easterly on a curve with a radius of one thousand and eleven feet and five-tenths of a foot, four hundred and five feet and fifteen hundredths of a foot; thence north forty-four degrees two minutes east, two thousand three hundred and four feet and twenty hundredths of a foot to the line of the city of Plainfield in Terrill road, and in those portions of said streets, roads and alleys marked out and shown on map filed in the office of the city clerk of said city, entitled "Map showing location of tracks, turnouts and poles for proposed extension of Plainfield Street Railway, No. 3" and signed by Thomas A. Newbury, President, dated Aug. 1st 8th, 1898, to which reference is made and the same hereby made a part of this ordinance, and the said company is hereby given the right to construct, maintain and operate its extension to its street railway in said portions of said streets, roads and alleys, under and subject to certain restrictions and regulations hereinafter specified or referred to, the same being such restrictions and regulations as the Common Council hereby deem requisite for the public interests as well as subject to such further reasonable regulations as may be hereafter enacted by said Council. A detailed plan of construction shall be filed with the city clerk by said company and be approved by said Common Council before any work is done on the permission herein granted.

Section 2. That said company shall construct, maintain and operate a single track railway for said extension, to be laid upon the middle line of Richmond street and East Second street to the present terminus of East Second street; thence along a right of way, through private property, to the line of the city of Plainfield in Terrill road, it shall construct, operate and maintain a double track street railway and shall construct the tracks, switches, turnouts and poles in the manner and at the point and places indicated for the same on said map; the poles shall be constructed and set and the wires strung thereon in the same manner as the poles are constructed and set in the ground and wires strung on poles on the line of street railway now operated in the city of Plainfield by the said Plainfield Street Railway Company.

Section 3. That said company shall keep in repair to the satisfaction of the committee on streets the paving or other surface material of the portion of streets, roads and bridges occupied by its tracks and in addition shall also keep in repair eighteen inches on each side of the portion of said streets, roads and bridges occupied by its tracks. In case of double track or switches or turnouts, the expression "occupied by its tracks," shall be construed to mean all space in the street between the outermost rail. In case the city shall at any time determine to pave or repave any street or section of street the said company shall forthwith repave any portion of said street or section of street which may be occupied by the company's track and for eighteen inches beyond, with same material and in same manner, and shall do so at the company's expense under the supervision of the street commissioner. If said company shall at any time fail to comply with any of the requirements of this section, the work or repairs hereinabove specified may be done or made by or under the direction of the said committee on streets, and to their satisfaction, and the expense thereof shall on demand be paid by said company to said city; provided that the said committee on streets or a majority of them shall give at least ten days notice in writing of the intention to do such work or make such repairs, said notice to be served upon any officer or employe of said company who may be found at their office or depot.

Section 4. The said company and its officers, servants, agents or employes shall not, nor shall any or either of them be allowed to shovel, throw or place any snow, ice or slush along the side of said track or tracks in any street or streets in such manner as to obstruct other public travel therein; but, when moving said snow, ice or slush from said track or tracks the said company or its officers, servants, agents or employes shall cause the same to be immediately leveled between the said track or tracks and the gutter line on each side thereof unless the fall of snow shall have been too heavy to make it practical to level the same as aforesaid; in which latter case the said company shall pay its pro rata of the expense of the removal of said snow. Upon violation of any of the provisions of this section, there shall be incurred a penalty of Ten Dollars for every city block in which any such violation shall take place, but said penalty shall not aggregate more than One Hundred Dollars in any one day; said penalty to be paid to the city by the said company or by any of its said officers, agents or employes so offending for each and every offence.

Section 5. That the rights and privileges intended to be given by this ordinance to said company are subject to all limitations, provisions, terms and conditions set forth and contained in sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 16, 17 and 18 of the ordinance of the city entitled "An ordinance locating the tracks of the Plainfield Street Railway Company and regulating the construction and operation of the same and granting permission to said company to use electric motors as the propelling power of its cars" approved April twenty-seventh, 1891, to the same extent and with the same effect as if said sections were re-enacted in full as part of this ordinance.

Section 6. That the gauge of the tracks to be laid hereunder shall be four feet eight and one-half inches. That all the cars of the said company shall be similar to those now in use by it or such as shall be approved by the Common Council of said city. They shall be lighted by electricity and properly heated in winter. Said company shall use upon its cars the Climax or other noiseless gearing and equip said cars with proper bells or gongs and said cars shall be run at a speed of not more than ten miles an hour. No salt shall be used by said company on any part of its tracks. For violation of any of the conditions of this section there shall be incurred a penalty of ten dollars for each offence and ten dollars additional for every day that such violation shall continue, not exceeding one hundred dollars on any one conviction.

Section 7. The cars to be operated or run upon the extension of the railway of the Plainfield Street Railway Company hereby authorized to be constructed shall be equipped with fenders of the pattern approved by the mayor of the city, and so attached to the cars as best to protect persons and vehicles using the streets and persons riding on the cars from injury.

Section 8. The said company shall build or construct the extension hereby authorized with turnouts and switches in the manner aforesaid and put the same into complete operation for the transportation of passengers on or before July 1st, 1899, and upon failure so to do or upon failure or neglect to operate the same as aforesaid all the rights, powers and privileges and every one of them the said company, their successors and assigns, under and by virtue of this supplemental ordinance shall thereupon cease and determine and this ordinance shall be null and void so far as the grant of any such rights, power and privileges to said company is concerned and in either of such cases the Common Council expressly reserve the right to cause the said railroad or any part or parts thereof, so constructed, to be removed from said street or streets or any of them and to sell and dispose of the material thereof by public auction, and, after paying all the expenses of such removal and sale and of repairing the said street or streets and of restoring the same, nearly as possible to its or their original condition, to pay the balance of the proceeds of such sale to the said company or its successors or assigns, provided, that no notice of such sale shall be required to be given, other than an advertisement signed by the city clerk, and published in any one or more newspapers printed and published in said city.

The time during which the said company shall be delayed in the prosecution of its work or in the operation of its road or in any section thereof by injunction or other legal proceedings in the courts of New Jersey, or the Federal Courts in New Jersey, shall not be included within the period within which the said extension are to be constructed and put into complete operation.

Section 9. All tracks of the Street Railway Company now laid or hereafter to be laid, are to be copiously watered throughout their entire length and for the space of two feet on each side thereof, twice in each day, from the 15th day of May to the 1st day of October in each year; once before 11 A. M., and once after 2 P. M., and in case of the failure of the Street Railway Company so to do, to the satisfaction of the Street Commissioner or the Street Committee, said Company shall pay to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield the sum of $20.00 per day for each and every day such failure shall continue or exist; such payment to be considered as liquidated damages for such default.

Section 10. The said company shall for each and every mile of street occupied by its tracks laid under the provisions of this ordinance, pay or cause to be paid to the collector of taxes of the city of Plainfield for the use of said city the following sums, to wit: For the year beginning January one 1899, One hundred dollars a mile; for the year beginning January first 1900, One hundred dollars a mile; for the year beginning January first 1901, One Hundred and twenty-five dollars a mile, the said payments to be made each and every year on or before the last day of each and every year.

For the years succeeding that beginning 1901 the said company shall pay at the same rate as for the year 1901, provided that when the gross receipts in any one year from the entire section within the city of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield shall equal or exceed Eighty thousand dollars, then for that year and annually thereafter the said company shall pay annually to said city collector for the use of said city five per cent of the gross earnings of said company and said gross earnings shall be construed to include all earnings of said company, and full proportion on all earnings on through traffic to be calculated according to the proportion between the entire length of the journey and the number of miles travelled within the limits of the city of Plainfield or the Borough of North Plainfield or both as the case may be. That to enable the city to ascertain from time to time the amount of gross earnings of such company the books of the company shall be open to inspection by the Finance Committee of the Common Council or such other person or persons as the Common Council for that purpose shall designate.

The payment provided for in this section shall be in lieu of all license fees for cars whether provided for in prior ordinances or not.

Section 11. That the tracks and cars of said company shall be used for the carrying of passengers only; that no freight shall be carried by said company or over its tracks and that no luggage other than hand luggage actually carried by passengers shall be carried or allowed upon the cars of said company, or any other cars passing over said tracks. Nothing herein contained, however, shall prevent the company from carrying the U. S. Mail. That cars shall not be run in trains of more than two cars over any of the tracks of said company and that all cars shall stop upon being signalled by any foot passenger at any street corner past which said tracks are or shall be laid and passengers shall be freely allowed to board said cars or alight therefrom at any street corner, and said company shall cause the cars to come to a full stop and sound the gong or bell immediately before turning any curve or crossing such street or streets as may be designated by the Common Council on road now constructed or to be constructed. Any violation of any of the provisions of this section by said company or any of its employes shall be subject to a penalty of Twenty dollars fine for each and every offence.

Section 12. That in case the said company shall lease its tracks or any section of the same, or sell, or assigns its franchise, or attempt so to do, said company shall cause to be inserted in any such lease, deed, bill of sale, assignment or other transfer a stipulation and agreement and condition that the same is made subject to the provisions of this ordinance, and that the lessee, vendee, assignee or other person to whom such lease, conveyance, assignment or transfer may be made or attempted to be made in accepting the same agrees to bound thereby and to conform thereto and will in turn insert a clause similar to that required by this section in case of any lease, conveyance, assignment or transfer thereof to be made so that no persons, or corporations shall acquire any rights in the premises except subject to the same terms and conditions herein provided.

Section 13. That said company upon the final adoption of this ordinance and before exercising any of the rights and privileges granted hereby shall as a condition precedent file with the city clerk of the city of Plainfield a contract to be executed by said company and duly approved by the corporation counsel, wherein said company covenant and agree with the inhabitants of the city of Plainfield to abide by and perform all the matters and things herein, on the part of the said company required to be observed, kept and performed; that it will at any and all times hereafter, fully indemnify and protect the city of Plainfield of and from any and all suits, actions and proceedings that may be brought and maintained by any person or corporation for, on account of, or by reason of the adoption or maintenance by said company, its successors or assigns of said electric system or anything connected therewith or any act of omission or commission by said company, its successors or assigns or any of its agents or servants at any time or times and shall whenever requested by said city fully defend any and every such action, suit or proceeding.

Section 14. That said company shall also at the same time hereinabove specified for filing said contract file a bond to the city in the sum of Twenty thousand dollars to be approved as to form by the Common Council and corporation counsel of said city, conditioned for the full and faithful keeping, observance and performance of the terms and conditions in this ordinance and in a separate contract with said city of Plainfield to be duly executed by said company's officers contained on the part of this company to be kept, observed and performed. And in case the condition or terms upon which said company is granted permission to locate its tracks and maintain and operate its road or any of the terms or conditions of the said contract are violated the city reserves the right to revoke the permission herein granted, to remove the tracks of the said company and all the constructions made in the streets of the city by said company, its successors or assigns.

Section 15. The company shall file with the city clerk within thirty days next after the passage of this ordinance their acceptance of same and contract of conditions attached under their corporate seal and signed by their president of the terms and provisions, restrictions and regulations hereof and every one of them and in default thereof it shall be understood and held that they decline to accept the same and thereupon all rights, powers and privileges to them granted thereby shall forever cease and be at an end in the same manner and with the same effects as if this ordinance had never been passed.

THE GRANDVIEW.

Meat Market

George Egel, Manager.

Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset treet. 6 12

In the American Natural Gas District.

Passing through a gas belt one will see near the roadside in a farm lot a mud bespattered, weather beaten derrick, with the apparently rickety accompaniment of crude appliances made familiar years ago in the oil regions—a small reversing engine, a rusty locomotive boiler, usually without a stack and leaking at every seam; the ponderous wooden walking beam slowly oscillating night and day, stopping only to give place to the use of the bull wheel when the drill is raised and the sand pump is lowered or a newly dressed bit is put in service. Crude as the rig and all its details may seem at first glance, every part is soon seen to have its use, and the journey of the bit from the surface to the unknown and perhaps barren depths is always accompanied by interesting and ever varying developments.

At night the measured beat and clatter of the rig in the dim light of a few flickering torches of gas, piped from some neighboring well; the trembling derrick, its lofty top lost in the darkness; the driller carefully manipulating the temper screw after each stroke, controlling the bit at the end of a rope perhaps half a mile below the surface, all form a weird sight. Accidents are frequent, and the slightest carelessness may result in dropping the tools, the recovery of which requires patience and often great ingenuity.—Cassier's Magazine.

Then She Had a Good Time.

She was a nice, unmusical little thing, with a fluffy blond pompadour and wide open blue eyes. Probably she didn't know what she was bringing upon herself when she agreed to hear "Meistersinger" with a musician who is a Wagnerian devotee. He told her all about the motives during the overture, and she made a praiseworthy effort to look interested and keep her eyes from wandering to the boxes. He hurled musical technicalities at her during the progress of the opera, and she murmured "beautiful" and "wonderful" and "marvelous" whenever he appealed to her for appreciation, but the bruised worm did turn at last. When the orchestra went mad unreservedly in the second act, the musician turned to the amiable little girl with tears of ecstasy.

"Listen, listen!" he gasped. "Did you ever hear such vertiginous contrapuntal construction?" She looked at him despairingly and spoke with emphasis:

"If you say another word longer than two syllables tonight, I will go home alone. I don't know counterpoint from hay, and I wish you would let me hear the music."

The man who sat in the seat in front of the couple longed to applaud, but waited until the end of the act.—New York Sun.

How a Fee Was Forced on Greeley.

At the conclusion of Greeley's first lecture in our village, when we were struggling to sustain the course, I was surprised, as I had not informed him of the situation, to hear him say:

"I want nothing for my services. Your town is small and your association cannot afford money for these things."

"But," said I, "Mr. Greeley, this was true enough when you came, and we expected to pay you nevertheless, but it is no longer true. Our receipts from your effort not only clear us from debt, but there is about $60 left."

"Well, you will want that," he replied, "for next year."

Only by the strongest insistence could I make him take a fair remuneration, and by telling him that when we were in debt again we would consider his generosity. One thing which I said to him, and which deepened his habitual smile, was to the effect that there was a very grave reason why he should take the money. "My friend Mr. C—— and myself," I remarked jocosely, "who are really the whole lecture association at present, are also the Democratic committee of this town, and if you leave this money in our hands I am afraid it will make deplorable havoc with the next election returns."—Joel Benton in Harper's Magazine.

In His Hand All the Time.

A short time ago a friend of mine, a manager at some works not far away, had been to the bank for cash to pay wages, the sum being about £230. On getting into the waiting room at the station he sat down and placed his cash bag by his side.

Immediately afterward a gentleman entered and shook hands with him, and they stood talking a few minutes, when the train came in. The gentleman went, and so did my friend, but on getting to the train he thought he had lost his bag and hurried back, only to find it gone. He called the porters and station master, and at last a policeman arrived with the intention of searching the train. He looked at my friend and said, "Is it anything like the one you have in your hand?" when to his amazement he found he had been carrying it the whole time.—Pearson's Weekly.

Persistent Effort.

Persistent effort reaps the golden harvest. He who battles longest and strongest gathers most into his garner.

CALENDAR OF GOOD INTENTIONS.

Said Father Tempus, I have a plan,
I'm going to swear off on the first of JAN.

But his resolution began to ebb,
He was two days shy by the end of FEB.

Then he lost his temper and went so far
As to bawl and bluster all through MAR.

He puffed and blew till he spoiled his shape,
So he took the water cure in AP.

He took a shower bath every day,
And was most disagreeable all through MAY

Then summer came and he changed his tune—
Any fool can be good in JUNE.

But the strain was so great that by and by
He was taken with fever in JULY.

He only just escaped the morgue,
His temperature was so high in AUG.

Never were resolutions kept
So well as in convalescent SEPT.

When he recovered the world was shocked
For he painted the country red in OCT.

Then he howled and raged like a fiend in love.
He was full as could be of remorse in NOV.

It's plain, said he, this thing must cease,
I'll swear off again—at the end of DEC.

—Oliver Herford.

THE ASYLUM GIRL.

BY HELEN FORREST GRAVES.

"This is Peggy, is it?" said Elder Doubleday, beaming benignantly through his huge silver spectacles.

"This is Peggy," said Mrs. Montacute.

And "Peggy" herself, a tall, slight girl, of sixteen or seventeen, in a madder-red calico dress, and a drooping head all covered with jet-black rings of curling hair, stood before the ponderous elder, as a Circassian slave might have stood before her possible purchaser, in olden time.

"Seems like a nice girl enough," said the elder.

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Montacute, a little gray-haired lady, with a black silk dress and old-fashioned garnet earrings. "Peggy's a good girl. She's been a help and comfort to me ever since I took her out of the orphan asylum three years ago come Thanksgiving Day."

"Mrs. Doubleday wants a girl, to make herself useful about the house," said the elder, dubiously. "Young woman, can you wash?"

"Oh, yes, sir,' said Peggy, in a low, soft voice, that made the elder think of the striking of the little French clock on the squire's mantel.

"And iron, and bake, and make soft soap, and clean house ,and mind little children?"

To all of these queries, Peggy inclined her head assentingly, while Mrs. Montacute made haste to declare that "Pebby was a masterhand to turn off work, for all she looks so slim.'

"I like slim gals," said the elder. "They aren't apt to be such heavy eaters, and they don't wear so hard on a stair carpet. I've a notion to take her."

"You won't regret it," said Mrs. Montacute. "I should never think of parting with her if it wasn't for my son—Clement, you know, the college graduate," with a little flush of maternal pride on her cheek, "Clement can't bear the idea of an asylum girl about the house—he is so refined in his tastes and ideas; so we're to have a regular cook and chambermaid from the city—an establishment, Clement cals it—and I must find a good home for Peggy."

"Well," said the elder, rising up like a mountain (of black broadcloth and smooth shaven chin) in motion. "I'll try her, anyhow. And I've a notion she'll suit Mrs. Doubleday, though Mrs. Doubleday ain't easy suited, neither."

So the elder trundled himself ponderously away, and Peggy turned her dark eyes, like those of a startled fawn, on her mistress' face.

"Must I go there?' she faltered.

"Now, Peggy, don't be unreasonable,' said Mrs. Montacute, briskly. "It'll be a good home for you."

"I'd rather stay here," faltered Peggy, with a quiver of the full red lower lip.

"But you know that you can't, dear, on account of Clement,' said Mrs. Montacute, patting the girl's shoulders, as one might soothe a fretful child.

"I would be very quiet," said Peggy. "And I would never come in his way."

"It's quite out of the question, my dear," said the little widow, nodding her head. "College young men have their fancies, you know, and they've got to be humored."

"But it isn't my fault that I'm an asylum girl," argued Peggy, with a strong sense of injustice swelling at her heart.

"I know that, Peggy," soothed the old lady; "but folks often have to suffer for what is'nt any fault of theirs, in this world, as you'll find out by the time you've lived to be as old as I am Now go up and cut out that new calico dress of yours, for the elder will want you at the end of the month, and you must get your wardrobe in as good order as you can."

And Peggy went slowly upstairs to her own room, a little sloping-roofed den, under the very eaves of the house, with a window that looked down into the emerald billows of the apple orchard and a shelf of rough, unpainted wood, upon which Peggy kept her small store of books and the worn portfolio of papers where she had hidden away her own ambitious little efforts to imitate her standards of perfection. For Peggy, the asylum girl, had had her dreams of future rank and greatness and sometimes, as she looked into the little square of warped looking-glass that hung close to the window, a face looked back at her that startled her—her own, and yet not her own. And still Peggy never realized the fact that she was growing to be a beauty.

But that afternoon she dressed herslef in the faded pink muslin which Mrs. Montacute had worn when a girl, and had bestowed on Peggy as a queen might bestow a coronation robe on some favored subject, and took "Monroe's Melodies" down to her favorite seat on the door step to read, while Mrs. Montacute was spending the afternoon at some neighbor's house.

"I shall not have many more reads on this nice old door step," thought Peggy, with tears in her eyes.

But as she sat there, looking exquisitely lovely in the level afternoon sunlight, with her pink dress relieving her tropical beauty in true artist fashion and the faintest possible shade of rose glowing in her cheek, a shadow fell across her book.

She started up to behold a tall, linen-suited young man, with a traveling knapsack strapped on his shoulder, and a golden beard and mustache covering the lower part of his countenance.

"I beg your pardon," he said, lifting his cap. "I fear that I have disturbed your studies. Is Mrs. Montacute at home?"

Peggy had started up with dark eyes glittering beneath their pet black lashes and cheeks burning with embarrassment.

"She is not at home. She has gone to Miss Deborah Deal's," she said, dropping "Moore's Melodies" in her consternation. "I will go for her at once."

"I cannot allow such a thing!" said the college graduate courteously. "I know where the place is—I will go myself."

But Peggy had flown like a started bird across the elm-shaded yard and had vanished before he could recall her.

"By Jove!" said Clement Montacute, "what a beauty!"

He sat down on the seat she had just vacated ,and took up the volume of poems.

"And she has brains, too, and a cultivated sense of the beautiful," he added, as he observed the penciled marks along the margins of the sweetest verses. "Visiting my mother, I suppose, I wonder where she picked up such a little gem?"

Presently Mrs. Montacute made her appearance, rosy with the combined influences of maternal gratification and her hurried walk.

Clement welcomed her with true filial warmth, and, at the same time, he looked over her shoulder, as if he expected to see some one else.

"Where is she?' he asked.

"Where is who?" demanded Mrs. Monacute, fanning herself with a turkey-feather fan and panting for breath.

"The young lady."

"What young lady."

"Why, your visitor, I suppose."

Mrs. Montacute stared.

"My dear boy," she said, "I have no visitor."

"The young lady with the dark eyes and curls," said Clement, impatiently. "The young lady that was reading this," holding up the volume of "Moore's Melodies."

"Why," cried Mrs. Montacute, "it's Peggy!"

"It's who?"

"Peggy—the asylum girl."

"Nonsence!" cried Clement very red. "Don't I know a lady when I see her?'

"But it's our Peggy all the same," stoutly insisted Mrs. Montacute.

* * * * * *

The moon, which had been only a slender silver thread when Elder Doubleday made his first visit to the Montacute farmhouse, was a globe of shining silver when his cumbrous one-horse chaise rumbled up a second time to the door stone.

"Well," said the elder, "where's the young woman? I've come to fetch her to our place."

Mrs. Montacute hurried to the door.

"Indeed, elder," faltered she, "I'm very sorry—that is, I'm very glad—or rather I really don't know whether to be glad or sorry on your account, though on my own I'm perfectly delighted. But my son Clement is engaged."

"Engaged, is he?" said the elder. "But I don't see as that need alter my plans."

"But it does," cried Mrs. Montacute, more confused than ever, "because he is engaged to our Peggy!"

"Eh?" said the elder.

"And they're to be married in six weeks," said Mrs. Montacute, radiantly; "and Clement is to settle down here on the old farm, and we're all to be happy as the day is long.'

"Humph!" grunted the elder. "I thought he didn't like asylum girls."

"You never saw a man so much in love in your life," said Mrs. Montacute; "and he's teaching Peggy Latin, and he says she is a genius, and he's going to have some of her poetry published.'

"Then on the whole," said the elder, "I may as well get home again as fast as I can, and tell Mrs. Doubleday to look out for another girl."

"Well," perhaps

CONSIDER THE COMFORTS

now enjoyed by those who have been paid the amounts called for by policies of Life Insurance in THE PRUDENTIAL. Over $31,000,000 paid to policy holders to date. Wise people provide protection for their families and estates in this way.

WRITE

Home Office Newark, N.J. THE PRUDENTIAL Insurance Co. of America.

JOHN F. DRYDEN, President.
LESLIE D. WARD, Vice-Pres. EDGAR B. WARD, 2d Vice-Pres. and Counsel.
FORREST F. DRYDEN, Secretary.

J. ELSTON WOODLAND, Superintendent,
Cor. E. Front St. and Park Ave. Box 790, Plainfield, N. J.

SPORTING.

AROUND THE BASES.

Games Played Yesterday

At Cleveland:
New York.. 0 1 0 0 3 1 0 3 0—8
Cleveland... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1
Batteries, Warner and Meekin; Crieger and Wilson. Base hits, New York 11, Cleveland 7. Errors, New York 1, Cleveland 4.

At Pittsburg:
Brooklyn.... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 1—3
Pittsburg... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0—2
Batteries, Grim and Kennedy; Bowerman and Hart. Base hits, Brooklyn 5, Pittsburg 9. Errors, Brooklyn 4, Pittsburg 0.

At Chicago:
Boston..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1—2
Chicago..... 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 *—3
Batteries, Nichols and Bergen; Donohue and Thornton. Base hits, Boston 7, Chicago 4. Errors, Boston 2, Chicago 4.

At Louisville:
Philadelphia 0 2 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—3
Louisville... 2 0 0 0 2 1 0 0 *—5
Batteries, Orth and McFarland; Cunningham and Kittridge. Base hits, Philadelphia 8, Louisville 12. Errors, Philadelphia 5, Louisville 4.

At Cincinnati:
Baltimore... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
Cincinnati.. 0 4 3 1 0 2 0 0 *—10
Batteries, McJames and Robinson; Hill and Peitz. Base hits, Baltimore 4, Cincinnati 10. Errors, Baltimore 2, Cincinnati 0.

At St. Louis:
Washington. 1 0 0 1 2 2 0 0 2—8
St. Louis.... 2 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—3
Batteries, Dineen and McGuire; Taylor and Kinslow. Base hits, Washington 11, St. Louis 10. Errors, Washington 2, St. Louis 2.

How The Clubs Stand.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Boston	69	38	.642
Baltimore	64	38	.627
Cincinnati	63	41	.624
Cleveland	64	43	.596
New York	60	46	.556
Chicago	60	49	.550
Pittsburg	55	54	.505
Philadelphia	50	54	.481
Brooklyn	39	64	.379
Louisville	41	68	.378
Washington	39	68	.364
St. Louis	32	74	.291

CYCLING COMMENT.

There is a small dog on East Fifth street that is likely to die soon. The immediate cause of his ultimate dissolution will be a wheelman. The small canine has a habit of running out and grabbing at the stockings and trousers of passing wheelmen, and some day one will feel it his duty to end the animal's career. Dogs of that nature are not needed in this neighborhood, where so many people enjoy wheeling.

Wheelmen are finding fault now with the carters who carry stone over Park avenue. They say that all the way ffom this city to Oak Tree the small sharp stones lie thick on the road and threaten to puncture the tires of the bicycles.

Mrs. Ben. Moore, of East Second street, has received a handsome new Spalding wheel, the gift of her father. It was purchased from W. H. Rogers.

The attention of the local wheelmen is called to the fact that the entries from H. K. Lister's road race of September 1st close Monday.

C. H. Lyons, of Orange, has been visiting John Vanderhoff, of East Fifth street. He rode here on his wheel.

THE COURTS.

JUSTICE MOFFETT.

Summons issued, Crane against Odam, on contract, returnable on Sept. 2d; Smalley against Johnston, on contract, returnable Sept. 6th.

—Neuman Brother received 100 baskets of fine peaches this morning which must be sold this afternoon and evening. The fruit is of the best quality and the prices are right.

Constable Van Horn, of Duer street, who has been quite ill, is better and able to be out once more.

THE COUNTY TROLLEY.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

that has caused all the trouble.

Now this same authority says very emphaticly that the Board is not going to try to keep the Plainfield Street Railway off the road in question. On the contrary, the members of the Board realize that a connecting line between Plainfield and Scotch Plains is necessary for the development of that section and for the good of the city.

The course pointed out is that the local trolley company and the Kean trolley people should confer and settle between themselves some way in which both lines could pass over the same street. The result would, in all probability, be satisfactory to both county and city officials and would thus overcome the difficulty. This course, he stated, the Riker comination was unwilling to do.

A prominent Councilman in speaking of such a course of affairs expressed his belief that such was the only way in which the affair might be settled but he doubted whether either trolley company would consent to it.

As things stand at present, however, it looks as if the first move toward an amicable settlement would have to come from the trolley corporations with a view of arranging affairs whereby both can use Richmond street without interfering with the other.

LIKE TO GET THE FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

Police are Still Looking for the Boys who Stole Halsey Compton's Apples.

The orchards of Halsey Compton, on West Front street, are still the accepted gathering grounds each night for sundry young men and boys who help themselves to the fruit without stopping to inquire of the owner his wishes in the matter. Mr. Compton is thoroughly indignant over it, and is now laying for nocturnal callers.

The police have already captured several, and the trial of Robert Scott and others was to come off this morning. The police are still on the trail of several of the youngsters, and the case was laid over for a week to give them a chance to find them.

SEQUEL TO CIRCUS ACT IN COURT.

Jacob Sachar, Who Collided With A. J. Grollmish, Charged With Recklessness.

As a result of his little circus performance on Richmond street Wednesdry evening, Jacob Sachar, of Richmond street, was araaigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning, charged with reckless driving and with colliding with the vehicle of A. J. Grollmisch and being otherwise disorderly. He was represented in court by William Newcorn who entered a plea of not guilty.

The complainant in the case was Mr. Grollmisch who was thrown out of his carriage as a result of the accident. William G. DeMeza appeared as his lawyer. The Judge set the trial down for next Friday morning at 9 o'clock in the station house.

Couldn't Drive His Horses Straight.

William Smith is the driver of a hay wagon. Last night he was piloting a load of hay for his employer, Ephriam Johnson, of New Market, through the streets of this city. That is, he attempted to pilot it. He had partaken too freely before starting and forgot where he was. The police found him in a drunken stupor from which he could not be awakened. A night's lodging in the rookery sobered him up sufficiently so that he remembered this morning where he was. He also remembered that he had been drunk and confessed the situation to the Judge. The Judge made it $3.

Miss Matie Van Horn, of Duer street, will spend next week in South Jersey and New York State.

TROUBLE OVER PEACHES

TENANT CLAIMED OWNER HAD NO RIGHT TO DISPOSE OF FRUIT.

Mrs. Smith, the Owner of the Orchard, Sold the Peaches on the Trees, But Henry Kelm Wouldn't Let Them be Picked.

Misunderstanding over a peach orchard nearly resulted in a free fight several days ago and now promises to be the cause of a legal controversy. The orchard in question is that on the old Henry Smith farm at Stony Hill.

Mrs. Belle K. Smith, of Metuchen, is now the owner of the Smith farm which she leased last spring to Henry Kelm. Now the cause of the trouble was the provisions of that lease which appear to have been misunderstood. Mrs. Smith claims that she reserved the peach orchard for her own use while Kelm, the tenant, claims that everything was included in the lease and was to be run on shares.

Mrs. Smith, going on the basis that she had the exclusive right to the fruit, sold the peaches as they were on the trees to Alexander Campbell, of Metuchen, who was to send his men to the orchard, pick the fruit and ship it away.

Last Tuesday he sent his men to Stony Hill, but there they were confronted with an obstacle. The obstacle was the tenant, who vowed that they would not enter the farm or orchard. Persuasion was useless with Kelm, and it looked like a fight until Campbell's men discreetly withdrew and left the tenant in possession.

Kelm retained Lawyer William Newcorn, who served a notification on Mrs. Smith that she must not remove the peaches. Mrs. Smith secured Robert M. Clark as her attorney, and he served a notice on Newcorn and personally told Kelm that the peaches were going to be picked and taken away by Mr. Campbell. That happened Wednesday.

Thursday morning Campbell's men again appeared at Stony Hill and went to the orchard. Kelm looked at them but did not interfere. Yesterday the rest of the peaches were picked and taken away. A law suit will undoubtedly follow it.

Miss Lewis, of Charles McNabb's law office, is on her vacation.

Charles Dunlap, of East Fifth street, has returned from his vacation.

BROUGHT DOWN THE HOUSE.

A Story Well Told Which Saved a Member's Seat.

Probably the best speech made in the last session of Congress was the speech of E. W. Cormack, a Memphis editor, whose seat was contested by the Hon. Josiah Patterson, an adorer of ex-President Cleveland. It had the old Sergeant S. Prentiss ring, and awoke the echoes of the hall of the House of Representatives as they had not been awakened in years. Withal it was a very effective speech. It captured votes and held Mr. Carmack's seat when nothing else could have held it. It was heard with breathless interest, and was widely cheered when Mr. Carmack sat down.

In reply to General Grosvenor, who had made a stirring appeal in behalf of Patterson, Mr. Cormack said:

"I always tremble at the thought of confronting so valiant a tongue-slugger and so accomplished a lip-artist as the gentleman from Ohio. His prowess in this arena entitles him to be regarded as the veritable blue-gum nigger of debate, an oratorical scorpion whose tongue is in his tail. It has been said that I had reformed, but the gentleman from Ohio had not. It will be a very sad day for reform if he ever does. I feel about him like an old colored preacher down in Tipton country, in my district, felt about a certain convert. This preacher had just concluded a powerful exhortation, and the voices of the congregation were quivering on the second line of that good old hymn, "While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return.' At this juncture a particularly tough old reprobate, with chicken feathers all over his head, got up in the back part of the audience and started toward the altar. The preacher for a moment stood speechless and aghast with horror, and then, throwing up his hands, he exclaimed at the top of his voice: 'Deacon Simmons, fo' gracious sake blow out de lamp.' If the honorable gentleman from Ohio should ever show a disposition to reform and come in our direction, I want to blow out the lamp before he gets there."

It was a ten-strike. Everybody in the House burst into a roar, and nobody laughed more heartily than Grosvenor himself.—Washington Post.

Boynton Beach

DANCING
This Afternoon.
Orchestra Music.

USE OF PAVILION 25 CENTS.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERT
TOMORROW.
AT 4 O'CLOCK.

THE PULPIT SUBJECTS.

SERVICES IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES TOMORROW.

What Plainfield Ministers Will Talk About for the Elevation of the Minds and Morals of Their Congregations.

Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest, Clinton avenue, William Winans Moore and Francis Gregory Moore, lay readers—11, morning service.

St. Mary's (R. C.) church, Rev. P. E. Smyth, pastor.—Masses at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30 a. m.; evening devotions at 8.

St. Joseph's (R. C.) church, Rev. William H. Miller, pastor.—Masses at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m.; evening devotions, 8.

Y. M. C. A.—9:30, the Sunday-school lesson for September 4th will be taught at the Bible training class; 4:15, Rev. Charles E. Dunn will address the meeting; Mrs. John Manly will sing and William Mackillop will render a violin solo; also fans and lemonade.

Church of the Redeemer, Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, rector—11:15, morning prayer and sermon.

First Presbyterian church, Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor—Morning and evening services. Rev. William Laurie, of Bellefonte, Pa., will occupy the pulpit.

Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.d., pastor—Sunday-school at 9:30; preaching service at 10:45 and 7:45 by Rev. Carlos Martyn, D. D., of New York.

Grace M. E. church, Rev. G. W. Gardner, pastor—9:45, Sunday school; 11, sermon, subject, "Freedom in Service; 7, Epworth League devotional meeting; 7:45, sermon, subject, "Joseph Made Known to His Brothers."

Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, Rev. Jas. E. Groves, pastor—11, sermon, subject, 'Citizens of God's Kingdom;" 3, Sunday-school; 8, special sermon to the Helping Hand Society of the church.

Mt. Olive Baptist church, Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor — Morning theme, "Sunrising;" 3, Sunday-school; 7:30, sermon by Rev. J. H. Travis, of South Orange.

Monroe Avenue M. E church, Rev. William C. O'Donnell, pastor—9:45, Sunday-school; 11, sermon, subject, "The Greatness of the Gospel;" 7:15, Epworth League; 8, sermon, subject, "Sermons in the Sea."

German Reformed church, Craig place—Morning, services at the usual hour in German; evening, Fred Loizeaux will speak in English.

Christian church, Grove street, Rev. H. W. McKane, pastor—Morning subject, "Be Constant;" evening subject, "Is Honesty Enough?"

Filmore Baptist church, Rev. W. D. Johnson, pastor—Morning, sermon by pastor; evening, sermon by Rev. P. H. Matthew, of Orange.

Calvary Baptist church, Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor—11, sermon, subject, "Will Meet Beyond the River;" 3, Sunday-school; 7:45, sermon by Rev. B. W. Hand, former pastor of First Church of Christ, subject, "Free Through the Word."

Funeral of the Late Mr. Darby.

The funeral of the late Albert R. Darby, whose death occurred suddenly in his office in New York Thursday, will take place tomorrow afternoon at his late home, 72 Grove street. The funeral sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Parks, of Scotch Plains, who will officiate, owing to the absence of Dr. Yerkes. Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, will attend in a body. They will meet at their lodge rooms in the Babcock building at 2 o'clock.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 11 30 eod 1y

F. W. Grant will lead the East Third street chapel meeting tomorrow night.

Mrs. Adam Blair, of East Second street, has returned home from a stay at Belmar.

Miss Alice Thompson of Codington & Swackhamer's law office, is enjoying a vacation.

Mrs. Mary E. Herr, of Whitehouse, will spend Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. S. S. Swackhamer, of the borough.

Miss Gertrude B. Holmes, of Brooklyn, is visiting her friend, Miss Mabelle Force, of 201 Watchung avenue.

JERUSALEM LODGE, NO. 26, F. AND A. M.

Members of Jerusalem Lodge are requested to meet at Masonic Hall on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of paying the last tribute of respect to their late Brother, Albert B. Darby. Brethern of other Masonic Lodges are invited to attend.

By Order of the W. M.

The Only Place

to buy

Huyler's

is

Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits.....$ 90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. BUNYON, Cashier
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. BUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell.
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil,
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Bushmore,
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Coddington,
F. S. Bunyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

MONEY TO LOAN—: ring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,500; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ½ mile from trolley, $3,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaRue, Plainfield, N. J. Real Estate and Insurance.

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS,

181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.

FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

E. S. F. RANDOLPH,
DRUGGIST,

Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.

PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

American Surety Company, furnishes bonds without expense to Administrators, Executors, Guardians, Trustees, Assignees, &c., through

REED & CODDINGTON,
tf oaw s Attorneys

H. Eggerding,

121 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated

C. O. D. CIGAR.

The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

M. E. STEPHENSON,

146 North Avenue,

Near the depot.

RESTAURANT AND CATERING.

TELEPHONE 624.

Smalley Bros.

THE OLD ESTABLISHED RELIABLE

BUTCHERS,

144 NORTH AVE.

Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

Of Course Your Going! We Are!

EXCURSION TO BOYNTON BEACH

(Jersey's noted place)

LABOR DAY,

Sept. 5, 1898. Look at the price only—50c., children 40c. 8 27 9

30 000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue.
8 15 tf Plainfield.

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE,

REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89

A. WILLETT & SON,

No. 107 Park Ave.

E. E. Marshall & Co.

167 North Ave.

Slash, Slice, Carve!

These are not the days to get or even ask fancy prices for wall paper, no matter how fancy the wall paper. But we go ourselves one better and annihilate our former extremely low prices on all of our popular wall papers. It is a story in a very few words—the figures on the wall paper, and for it tell their own tale. Now is the time to save money by calling on the above firm to do your painting and paper hanging.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:-

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz. Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz -	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum -	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline - -	5c	Tar Soap, large cake -	5c

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy,

309 EAST FRONT ST.

Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.

Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield.
"A word to the wise is sufficient."
J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 22 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory,

Taught by

Miss Sarah A. Palmer,

Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio —123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J
LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate.

303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m
RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

INSTRUCTION on the VIOLIN and REED ORGAN by
MRS. G. W. SAUMS,
(Pupil of Prof. K. A. Langlotz.) Residence 143 East Second street. Reference, ten years' teaching at Trenton, N. J. 4 21 tf

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY,

123 West Seventh St.
Will Re-open Thursday,
SEPTEMBER 15, 1898.
Thirty-first year.
Principals:
MISS KENYON,
MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S
School and Kindergarten,

29 Washington Avenue,
North Plainfield.

WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

LAIRE'S

CUT PRICES FOR THIS WEEK.

Screen Doors, hard wood plain, 80
" " " " fancy, 90
Screen Windows 23, 25, 35.
Ice Shredders with cover 45.
Excelsior Fruit Press $1.50.
Hammocks 50c and upwards.
Rubber Hose.
100 Clothes Pins 5c.
" " " 9c, best.
Toilet Paper 6 rolls 25c.
Toilet package 3 for 25c.
Finest Silver Polish 5c box.
Sole Agents for Lincoln Foundry.

TELEPHONE CALL 862.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co.

Hello?

Hello Partner!

How is it Fred Endress sells the BEST Broiler and Roasting CHICKEN for 20c. lb. Because he gets them right from the farm.

131-135 W. Front St. Branch 203 Liberty St.

Advertised Letters.

Plainfield, N. J., August 22, 1898.

Adams Miss Mary	Kramer Mrs E
Allen Mr A M	Klons Miss J
Bally Mr J J	Lines Mr N L
Boyce Mr H	Long Mrs Anna
Birkett Mrs J	Mason Miss M
Bradley Mrs E A	Munn Miss
Brady Phil	Nicoll Miss L 2
Beud Miss G	Phillips Miss G
Burnett Mr E	Pugh Miss J D
Cheney Miss H	Sallie
Drayton Miss S F	Smith Miss E V
Feeney Mr T	Stapleton Miss C 2
Fisher Mr A	Sellers Miss Ida
Garrett Mr G H	Stryker J P
Gaurlay M S	Sullo Mr Carlo
Green Mrs C	Titus Mr G N
Hannan Jos B	Totten Miss C
Jackson Mr A W	Vail Mr A A
Johnson Mr Aug	Herndon Miss N
Kinsman Mrs	White Miss A
Klapper Mrs L	Wilson Miss L

CITY MILLS.

P. M. FRENCH, OWNER.

24 Somerset St.

NEAR FRONT.

FEED, GRAIN AND HAY.

Not at cost, but very near it.

TELEPHONE No 24.

Doesn't take Much Money for MEDICINES

Here. That is not nearly so much as they cost in other places. Our prices are ALWAYS LOWER than everybody else's—while quality is better than in most stores—as good as the best in all. All drugs, medicines and toilet requisites are new and fresh.

TRY POWERS' SHERBET.

POWERS' PHARMACY,

Somerset street—Craig place.

Positively the LAST WEEK

of the great A. M. E. Zion

CAMP MEETING

At Netherwood.

Closing Sermon at 8:30 p. m. Sunday, August 28th.

Electric Cars to the Grove. 8 22 1w

CYCLISTS' CALENDAR.
Sun Rises 5:23 a. m.
Sun Sets 6:47 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be lighted at 7:47 p. m.

THE DAILY PRESS.

THE WEATHER.
Threatening Weather and Showers this Afternoon and Tonight, Partly Cloudy Tuesday; Stationary Temperature Thermometer, 80.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., MONDAY, AUGUST 29, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

WON THE GAME IN THE LAST INNING.

Riverdales Defeated the New York Athletic Club.

A FAIRLY-FOUGHT CONTEST.

THE EXCITEMENT BEGAN IN THE FIRST INNING.

The Riverdales Scored Four Runs in the First and One in the Third—Then the Visitors Crawled Up at the Last—A Very Satisfactory Game—No Unpleasant Features—The Score.

It was the closest kind of a game, but timely hitting told, and the boys of the Riverdale Field Club, of this city, retrieved their reputation by winning out from the New York Athletic Club in the last half of the last inning. It was a game greatly resembling the usual collegiate match, full of spirit and dash and abounding in all kinds of exciting features, and the crank who was not pleased with it had better give up the National game—nothing can suit him.

Exciting does not half express the situation down at the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon when the game was in progress. Many of the players were old college men and they gave an exhibition of ball playing the like of which has seldom been seen in Plainfield. The match was absolutely free from any unpleasant features. While the rivalry between the two teams was very keen, there was a friendliness and an absence of kicking shown that marked both teams in the eyes of the audience as being composed of gentlemen who were in the game for the sport and not to win the game by hook or crook.

The local enthusiasts were expecting something great in the nine from the New York Athletic Club and they were not disappointed. The crowd, while by no means as large as the game deserved, was the best since the adoption of the Riverdales by Plainfield. Then, too, the audience was running over with enthusiasm which it divided between the two teams with delightful impartiality. Anything worth yelling at, and there were plenty of such occasions, received its full measure of applause.

The visitors were as gentlemenly a lot of young men as could be found on the diamond. They were great talkers, however, and "joshed" the Riverdales and each other without cessation.

The fun began when the first man went to bat. The New York team came up first. Cowan sent a long fly, which Hardy caught after a hard run. Then Powell made a clean hit over centre field, on which he made two bases. Affeld, the great Cornell fielder, followed with a single. Buckbee, who took Easton's place in left field, handled it so quickly that Powell who attempted to take third, was put out by Romig. Then "Jimmy" Dunne sent a long fly to Will Smith who caught it.

Reinacker opened the inning for the Riverdales with a pretty single. Buckbee bunted and went out at first, advancing "Reiny" a base. Fred Smith drove a hard fly to Ayres, who made his reputation at Lafayette. Ayres didn't get it and "Reiny" went round to third. Smith stole second without delay. Then Hayes hit safely and "Reiny" and Fred Smith both scored.

Will Smith sacrificed and Hayes went to second, while Hardy was next given his base on balls. A wild pitch advanced each of the base runners. Romig sent a fast grounder to Affeld, who threw wild to first after fumbling it. Hayes scattered for home. Now Jimmy Dunne, Hayes and the ball all arrived at the home plate at the same instant. Hayes butted the New York catcher in the neck as he stood in the road and the ball went flying by. Hardy also scored and Romig went round to third.

As a result of the collision, Dunne's neck was strained and he could not turn it. He went about holding it while the crowd yelled "rubber." It troubled him so much that he finally went out to centre field, and Cowan, the ex-Brooklyn High School catcher, took his place. Wood ended the inning with an easy fly to Reed.

Nobody scored again until the third when Fred Smith went to first on a hit, took two more bases on Hayes' single and stole home while they were trying to catch Hardy at second. That made it 5 to 0 in favor of the home team.

So it continued until the sixth when Romig threw Reed's slow grounder clear over Wood's head, and Reed scampered round the bases before Hardy could find the ball.

In the eighth, Powell, the Yale

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

FEAR OF OCEAN IS GONE.

MR. AND MRS. A. C. LACASSE SAILED FOR FRANCE SATURDAY.

They Were the Heroes of the Bourgogne Disaster, and at the Time Declared They Would Not Sail Again.

As if to tempt the fates again, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian C. LaCasse, of Craig place, whose marvelous escape with their lives from the wrecking of the Bourgogne was the talk of the world for a few days while the excitement of the disaster lasted, have again sailed on the French line and on the very sister ship of the one that went to the bottom of the ocean. Despite their declarations, after they reached terra firma from their thrilling experience sixty miles off Sable Island, that they would never attempt a sea voyage again, Mr. and Mrs. LaCasse were passengers on the LaGasgogne when she sailed out of New York harbor Saturday morning with her prow pointed over practically the same route that was the death trail for the Bourgogne. In the immediate excitement of the collision of the ships, the floundering around in the sea, the hours spent on a frail raft and the final rescue by the crew of the Cromartyshire, they declared an everlasting aversion to the ocean. But as the realism of the accident gradually faded into memory in their once more mingling in the incidents of quiet home life, that fearfulness slowly disappeared, aided by thoughts of dear relatives on the other side and a desire to see them.

Mr. and Mrs. LaCasse were on their way to Paris to visit their former relatives when their trip was interrupted by the collision of the two ships at sea, and since their return the old people have been more than anxious to see them. Mr. LaCasse received an urgent letter from his folks Friday, and he immediately decided to sail for France. After a little thought Mrs. LaCasse also consented to go. The couple will return in two months to resume their business in Plainfield.

LAD ABOUT TO DROWN.

WM. SUTTON, A PAINTER, PERFORMS A DARING RESCUE.

The Little Fellow Was Playing Along the Bank of Tier's Pond When His Feet Slipped and He Fell in Deep Water.

Wm. Sutton, a painter, performed a heroic rescue of the three-year old son of Abel Solinsky, of Pearl street, late Saturday afternoon, after the little fellow had fallen into Tier's pond and was in imminent danger of being drowned.

The lad had strayed away from his home and was playing along the bank of the pond, when in some manner he lost his foothold and fell into the water. Several other boys were in the vicinity and when they saw the child's body plunge into the water and sink out of sight they gave an alarming cry. Sutton was not far off and he hurried to the rescue. Sutton started to take off his coat so it would not impede his movements in the water, when he noticed that the child was about to sink for the third time. Instead of taking off his coat he plunged into the pond and grabbed the body of the little fellow. Gaining the shore again Sutton, with great presence of mind, commenced to roll the body of the unconscious boy over his knees until he had succeeded in forcing nearly all the water from his lungs. Then he carried him to his home, where a physician was called who successfully treated the youngster.

A Highly-Prized Gift.

There is on exhibition at Findlay's saloon on East Second street a cutlass of gun crew taken from the Vizcaya at the fall of Cervera's fleet off Santiago, July 3d, at 3 p. m., by the boarding crew of the flagship New York. The cutlass was secured by Fred Bennett, of the engineer crew of the flagship, and presented to Theo. Smith by Mr. Bennett. The cutlass is prized very highly by Mr. Smith as a memento of the great victory of the Americans.

The Big Excursion.

Just a week from today the big excursion of the Grocers' Association will go to Boynton Beach, offering to the Plainfield people a chance for a day at a very pleasant resort. The cost of the excursion is remarkably cheap.

Big Painting Contract.

J. B. Mills & Company have given out the contract for the painting of five houses on Westervelt and Summit avenues to Woolston & Buckle, the North avenue painters.

Open-Air Concert.

The postponed open-air concert of the Queen City Band will be held from the balcony of the City Hotel Wednesday evening.

—Press want ads bring results.

THE CLIMAX PONIES SURPRISED THEM ALL.

Won the Team Race From the Veterans.

TWO WINS NOW FOR CLIMAX.

INTERESTING SWEEPSTAKES FOLLOWED THE TEAM CONTEST.

The Climax Club Wanted to Even Things Up and Left Its Strongest Shooters Off the Team—The Club Won Though Just the Same—The Winners in the Other Shooting Events.

The third tournament of the Central New Jersey Trap-Shooters' League, held at the Fanwood shooting grounds Saturday afternoon, was by far the most successful meeting yet held by the league. Of course, the feature and principal event of the meet was the contest for the ownership of the handsome silver loving cup, which was presented for competition by T. H. Keller, of the Peters Cartridge Company. There were a number of interesting sweepstakes held in addition, that were participated in by many crack shots who were not eligible to take part in the team race.

The team contest has aroused great interest among the shooting clubs of this vicinity. Saturday the Reservoir Gun Club, of New Brunswick, made its first appearance in the race. After winning Saturday, the Climax Gun Club of this city now has two victories to its credit, while the Dunellen Club has secured one.

It was apparent that the Climax Club was not out to win Saturday, but would have preferred to see some other club come forward and carry off the honors. This was evidenced by their leaving off the Climax team such steady shots as Capt. Money, C. Smith, Neaf Apgar, Douglass Darby and "Tee Kay" Keller. The "Pony" team put up a good score, and considering the hard conditions and difficult background that prevails at the Climax grounds, their scores, particularly that of Swoody, was remarkably good.

The day was a delightful one and resulted in bringing out an unusual number of local trap shooters and many spectators. There was some wind but not enough to seriously interfere with the flying of the targets.

The scores in the team race were as follows:

CLIMAX GUN CLUB OF PLAINFIELD.

Manning	20
Goodman	17
Swoody	22
Squires	20
Robinson	10
Total	89

DUNELLEN GUN CLUB OF DUNELLEN.

Fletcher	14
Cramer	16
Runyon	20
Barron	20
Lindzey	17
Total	87

BOUND BROOK GUN CLUB OF BOUND BROOK.

Jackson	17
Hooey	14
Tingley	19
Merrill	17
Anderson	14
Total	81

RESERVOIR GUN CLUB OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

Belloff	16
Smith	15
McDowell	16
Gillen	2
Booream	20
Total	69

There were eight sweepstakes of various kinds offering a variety of sports to such of the shots as could not take part in the team race. The first, for ten targets, went to Waters, Goodman and Hooey, each of whom broke nine out of the ten. "Dudley," Lindley and McDowell were tied for second money with eight.

The second match was for fifteen targets, some twenty contestants taking part. Banks took first money all alone with a score of thirteen, while second was divided among Money, Waters, Keller, "Dudley," Hooey and Merrill.

"Dudley" never missed a target in a race of fifteen of them. Money was second with a score of thirteen. The following sweepstakes saw twenty-five men toe the mark. It was for ten targets each. "Dudley" again won out with a clean score, with Banks, Keller, Hooey, H. Smith and Merrill second with nine.

Another shoot at fifteen targets saw Banks and "Dudley" first without a miss, and Keller second with a single loss. Banks, "Dudley" and Cramer divided first money in a match of ten targets with a score of nine each. Keller, Linzey, McDowell, Merrill and Swoody were second with eight.

In an event each contestant shooting at five pairs, the two targets being released at the same time, McDowell won with a score of seven, Money, Banks, "Dudley" and Lindzey dividing second money.

The next event of the day was a match at ten singles. Captain Money

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

FAST STEPPING HORSES.

GOOD RACING WITNESSED AT THE DRIVING PARK SATURDAY.

The Handicap Event Proved Very Exciting and Interesting—A Good Attendance—Several Exhibition Heats by "Paul."

Saturday afternoon was a big time for the horsemen at the Driving Park. They were out in full force, and witnessed some novel racing between young horses, as well as a handicap event between horses that would otherwise have been unevenly matched. There was a large attendance of local horsemen, and the ideal day put every one in the mood for racing and some good work was shown on the track.

The old favorites, "Woven Wind," "Alpansa," "Amber" and several other horses were on hand, and so was Mr. Fairbank's "Paul," with a record of 2:07. The horses were in good condition, and the races were as exciting as could be desired.

The first event was a race between young colts that had never been on the track in a race before. J. W. Johnson entered a bay mare; C. L. Wright a sorrel mare; Harry Gwynette a black horse, and Phil. Jenner, of New Market, a bay mare. No very fast time was made, the best being 3:02½. Three heats were trotted, the first being won by Jenner with Gwynette second and Wright third. The second heat was won by Wright, with Jenner second and Gwynette third. Wright also won the third heat, Jenner second and Gwynette third. The race was given to Wright.

What attracted the most attention were the handicap races. In the first race there were three entries. "Charles Tammany," with a record of 2:29, was placed at the wire. "Woven Wind" was placed back 160 feet, and "Arpansa," C. L. Wright's mare, 420 feet. The horses were placed according to their records. "Woven Wind" won both heats trotted. "Tammany" got a second and so did Wright.

In the next race, N. B. Smalley's "Amber" was placed at scratch; George Conover's "John L," given 60 feet; William Baldwin's pacing mare, 60 feet and Mr. Edwards' "Molly Prince," 100 feet. Two heats were trotted again. The first was won by Smalley in 2:43; Baldwin second, Edwards third. Baldwin got the second heat in 2:34; with Cannon second and Smalley third.

After the races were over, Mr. Fairbanks sent "Paul" around the track in two slow exhibition miles.

HE JUST ADMITTED IT.

James P. Rogers Was Very Accommodating to the Lady's Charge.

James P. Rogers, colored, is very accommading to the ladies, especially when they make an assertion that they can prove conclusively. So this morning, in the borough court room, "just to make a long story short and to please that girl," as he said, he pleaded guilty to striking Mary J. Hurling, a young damsel of dark color, and calling her names. His chivalrous conduct cost him $10 or ten days.

Miss Hurling and Maggie Belle Jackson were walking down Somerset street early Sunday morning, returning from a Saturday night "racket" Maggie and her "gentleman friend" were ahead, but not far enough to prevent them seeing Rogers throw Mary against the fence and strike her twice. Mary ran away from Rogers, and meeting Marshal Campbell had her assailant arrested. The two had quarreled, and this was Rogers' way of getting even. His friends are trying to gather together enough money to get Rogers out of jail.

Enjoying Summer Life.

Society notes from various summer resorts make mention of a number of Plainfielders who "Are spending their days

In many merry ways."

The pleasant house party of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Ackerman, at the Manhasset House, Shelter Island, is among the records. The enthusiastic sailing parties of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Barnaby and Miss Evans at the Normandie-by-the-Sea, Seabright, have happy comment. Tableaux for the benefit of the Red Cross Society, at Jefferson, in the White Mountains, are reported, with Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, one of the assistants, and at Mt. Pocono, Pa., Laurens VanBuren is given as one of the helpers in a series of tableaux.

Little Child Dead.

The infant son of J. Walter and Ella Mundy, of 43 Summit avenue, died Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock, and interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Officiated as Organist.

Albert W. Pangborn officiated very acceptably as organist at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning and evening.

MASONIC HONORS FOR THE LATE A. B. DARBY.

Jerusalem Lodge Members Attended Services in a Body.

IMPRESSIVE RITES AT GRAVE

REV. DR. J. H. PARKS OFFICIATED AT SERVICES IN THE HOUSE.

He was an Intimate Acquaintance of the Deceased, and Paid a Glowing Tribute to the Worth of His Character as Reflected in Every-Day Life—Masons Accompanied the Funeral.

A large circle of friends and relatives gathered at the bier of Albert B. Darby, at his late home on Grove street yesterday afternoon, to pay their last respects to the dead. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. James H. Parks, a former pastor of the Baptist church at Scotch Plains, where the deceased was born, and a life-long friend and advisor.

The services were held at 3 o'clock and were impressively simple. A number of selections from the scriptures were read. There were a few words from the speaker and a short prayer and then the remains were borne away to the cemetery.

Dr. Parks' remarks were comforting to the bereaved ones, as he had been well acquainted with the dead one and he spoke intimately of him. He chose these words as the subject of his remarks: "There's but a step between me and death." The Doctor said that we feel the truth of this when death comes into our own families, and breaks the ties we cherish most. Then it is we realize as never before that death may come to us next. But death is not the universal enemy we imagine him. Death itself is controlled by God. It is God's messenger, His peace angel, that comes to unlock for us the gate that shuts us out from the better, the grander, the eternal life beyond.

In speaking of the departed, Dr. Parks said, "I was well acquainted with the dear one who lies in the casket. I knew him to love and esteem. He had noble qualities, was honorable, upright, and a loving son and husband. Oh, how I loved his mother! and what a tender husband he was! He was a dear social friend, identified with the best interests of this city and the 'Plains. He was a reliable friend, a business man of standing, and of thirty years experience as a member of the firm he was connected with when he died.

"As a business man he was identified with the interests of those in business with him. I have had enough conversation with him to know that he had found the way to God and as we stand here today we can feel that the Master of the garden has plucked the rose, and is wearing it upon his bosom."

The deceased was a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, Free and Accepted Masons, and forty-one of them attended the funeral and took charge of the services at the grave. Before the services began Senior Warden Garret T. Dunham, acting in place of Master H. O. Hance, who was absent, entered the room where the casket lay and laid the emblem of the order, the white apron, upon the coffin.

The late Mr. Darby was the third oldest member of Jerusalem Lodge—his seniors being Dr. Henry R. Cannon, of Elizabeth, and E. C. Mulford, of this city.

The Masons were provided with seats on the veranda, and were given the first opportunity to look at the remains after the services were over. The casket was closed and carried by four colored porters to the hearse.

The Masons formed around the hearse and accompanied it on foot to the corner of Eighth street and Park avenue, where they took stages. In the procession the main body of the lodge marched ahead, the pall-bearers, William H. Sebring, James E. Turrill, C. H. Rugg, Henry Woodland, Dr. D. C. Adams and A. L. Force, walked beside the hearse, three on each side, while the officers, bearing their insignia of office, were behind.

At the gates of the cemetery the Masons alighted and accompanied the remains to the grave. Arrived there, Past Master C. C. Howard, of Anchor Lodge, led the members of the lodge in the Lord's prayer, which was recited in concert. This was followed by the recital of the beautiful and impressive Masonic burial service by Past Master B. F. Coriell, who had committed the forms to memory.

The white apron was cast into the open grave and the service closed by each member of the order marching around the grave and depositing the "acacia branch," a bit of evergreen on

CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.

WENT THROUGH WINDOW

THE YOUNG COLORED SCAMP AT HOLLY GROVE FARM ESCAPED.

While the Guard Was Engaged in Conversation, "Novel" Veta Jumped Out of the Window and Hasn't Been Seen Since.

George Washington Veta, the little colored lad who stole about $200 worth of jewelry from David M. Kellogg, of Holly Grove Farm, Thursday morning, as was told in Friday's Press, is at liberty again. He was locked up in the coach house on the farm and several men placed as guard over him, but Friday morning he gave them the slip and took leave through a rear window without even a good-bye.

By Friday morning, as "Novel," as he nicknamed, seem so docile, and apparently had no thoughts of escape, the watch began to be relaxed a little. Only one man was left with him at the time of the escape, Martin Ryan, an assistant foreman, and he was standing outside the door talking with Mrs. Kellogg.

When the conversation was finished Ryan opened the door and looked leisurely in the coachhouse. It was not very light inside, and at the first look Ryan did not see "Novel." He looked again, and scanned the entire room, but the boy was nowhere to be seen. By this time Ryan began to become frightened, so he went carefully over every part of the house, but no "Novel" was to be seen. An open window told the tale, and a hole in the earth directly under the window showed where Novel's little heels had struck when he dropped.

Ryan is feeling crestfallen, especially as the farm hands are teasing the life out of him because of the poor watch he kept over the colored lad.

As for "Novel," he has not been seen since. It is supposed that he took to the woods as soon as he got clear of the farm and made his way to this city, where he may have some friends. Holly Grove Farm is well clear of him, and that is all they want.

SHE IS STILL MISS KIELY

SOMETHING WRONG ABOUT THAT REPORTED ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

She Hasn't Changed Her Name and She Don't Intend to, Either—Evidently a Joke, But She Proposes to Find Out.

Miss Mamie Kiely, whose parents reside at 455 West Second street, is still of the same name, nothwithstanding that she has been reported one of the principals in a rather romantic marriage. Miss Kiely has been living in New York for some time, and last Wednesday her friends were greatly surprised to learn that she had been married at midnight by a Jersey City Justice of the Peace. The news came through the morning New York papers, and now it seems that either Miss Kiely has been made the victim of a rather unpleasant joke or else she has had the notoriety which another girl of the same name is entitled to.

At any rate, Miss Kiely called at The Press office this morning and said she wasn't married and didn't expect to be. If there is anyone that ought to know about these things, it's the young lady herself, and so we will all have to continue calling her Miss Kiely instead of Mrs. Downs.

Miss Kiely said that when she returns to New York she is going over to Jersey City to interview the Justice of the Peace who it is said performed the marriage of which she was the bride, and find out just what there is about the report that has put her in such an unpleasant position.

Small Boy and Matches, Loss $10.

The combination of small boy and matches was the immediate cause of a blaze at the home of William Neuman, of West Second street, Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The fire started in a closet on the second floor where the combination happened to meet. A lad passing by saw the smoke and yelled "fire." The neighbors rushed in and extinguished the flames while Neuman was hurriedly summoned from fire department headquarters where he happened to be at the time. The damage will amount to $10, which was covered by insurance.

For the Temperance Cause.

A public meeting will be held this evening at Washington Hall by Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, when a programme consisting of solos, songs, recitations, speaking, etc., will be rendered. Mrs. Cox, of New York, will address the meeting, and Mrs. Anderson, of Dunellen, will render a cornet solo.

Two New Sewage Disposal Beds.

The making of two new beds for the disposal of sewage at the city farm has been decided necessary and the contract for the work has been awarded to C. M. Meeker, who will commence the work immediately.

THE GOSPEL TRAIN HAS LEFT CAMP MEETING.

Close of the Three Weeks' Open-Air Services in Hyde's Grove.

ENDED WITH WIERD SCENE

A TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION THE FINAL ACT.

The Camp Grounds Crowded With a Large Number of People at the Services Yesterday—Some Sinners Have Been Touched—A Large Amount of Money Raised for the Benefit of the Church.

Out into the grove went the procession of the colored worshippers. In advances strode the tall and burly form of the colored preacher, the shepherd of the little flock, waving a lantern as if to call in all the stragglers of his band.

"Get on board," rang out from the little procession as they sang that wierd but pleasing jubilee melody, "Get on the Gospel Train." It was the closing of the greatest colored camp meeting Plainfield ever saw and the concluding ceremonies were thoroughly in keeping with the character of the services. They were strange and possessed a fascination that has attracted many thousands to the little grove that lies right at the foot of the Netherwood hill in the centre of one of Plainfield's most aristocratic neighborhoods.

For week after week the grove, situated at the corner of Woodland and LaGrande avenues, has been the scene of these camp meeting services. Every night has the grove been lighted with flaring torches nailed to the trees and old-fashioned lanterns fastened on convenient boughs. Rude board benches served as seats for the worshippers and curiosity seekers who came. The services were given by the St. Peter's A. M. E. Zion church, a new religious organization recently established here. The objects of the meetings were two-fold. While they wanted to convert as many sinners as possible, it did seem as though the collecting of funds for the new church formed an important part of the services.

They took in a goodly amount which will go to pay for their sanctuary, the one formerly occupied by the Filmore Avenue Baptist church. How much it was will be announced later.

Of late the meetings have been attracting remarkably large crowds. The trolley company has been reaping a rich harvest and extra cars were run to accommodate the throng that assembled there almost every evening.

It was on Sundays that the camp meeting saw its greatest attendance. Three services were held yesterday—morning, afternoon and evening—and there was little interval between them. Preaching, praying and singing were continued without cessation. Yesterday the jubilee singers were there and their queer minor melodies sounded plaintively on the clear, cool air. It was at night, however, that the singing was the most effective.

Rev. Dr. Coster, the big preacher of the church, was in command. His voice was husky from his continued efforts to reach the uttermost recesses of the grove, but he stuck to it and added his powerful bass voice to those of the jubilee singers.

All yesterday the crowd thronged to the camp meeting ground. In the afternoon there must have been fully 2,000 people, who filled the open-air auditorium or wandered about the outskirts of the grove. In the evening the crowd was greater if anything. There were frequent songs by the jubilee singers who began to work themselves into a frenzy in their enthusiasm. Then there were short addresses by several.

It was nearly 10 o'clock when Rev. W. B. G. Coster, the leader of the meeting, rose up and began the closing services. With a lantern in one hand and the other beating time, he led the Jubilee singers to the open space in front. Then the other people fell into line and the strange procession began. Torches were pulled from the fastenings, lanterns were gathered up and all joined in the singing of "Get on the Gospel Train." Round they went, the torches flaring, the lanterns waving and the bodies of the dusky worshippers swaying in time with their song.

The circle grew larger and larger until they reached the bounds of the camp, then they turned and came back to the centre. Down they knelt while the tall leader invoked Divine protection of them and gave thanks for the great success of the meeting. They rose again and burst into another negro melody. That ended the camp meeting and the audience slowly departed leaving the "katy-dids" in sole possession of the grove.

THE OLIVETTE'S VOYAGE

Delicacies Sent for Free Distribution Sord to Sick Soldiers.

IN WRETCHED CONDITION

A Seaman's Story of the Voyage. The Troops Were Half Starved When They Embarked at Santiago. Medicines on Board but Did Not Reach the Hospitals.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.—The death of Lieutenant Tiffany and the intimations regarding the Olivette made by Belmont Tiffany and the Boston physician, and lack of proper food and treatment who attended his brother, and who doubtless heard his story, have awakened great interest in the cruise of that ship.

Frederick Miller, a seaman on the Olivette, charges that the delicacies put on the Olivette for the sick and wounded were not given to them, but were sold in limited quantities to those who had the money to buy, and these were the officers and passengers, rather than the sick soldiers. He says:

"We left Santiago in wretched condiment on the voyage came very near being disastrous to all the sick and wounded men. Their treatment was outrageous and it is a wonder that any of them survive. Those who were able to walk got food from the sailors and firemen, but of course all could not be fed in that way.

"Ice cream, ginger ale and other delicacies were put on board for the sick and wounded. The food and drink never reached the soldiers, for they were sold to the passengers. When we got to Montauk Point what was left of the ice cream was sour and was thrown overboard."

An infantryman of the regular army in one of the hospitals here told this story to a trained nurse, who repeated it to me:

"The statement that some of the sick and wounded were left in Cuba when the Olivette sailed is true. I was told that I would not be allowed to go on board the ship, but the day before she sailed I managed to sit up almost all day, though the effort nearly killed me. When the surgeon came on his rounds I lied handsomely when he asked me how I felt. He said I might go on board in the morning. There were two infantrymen I knew who were told they must stay, and they both died that night. I believe the disappointment killed them. They seemed to be no sicker than I was, but the hope of seeing the United States once more braced me up.

"Our rations had been cut and cut, until we got five hardtacks and a very small thin piece of 'sowbelly.' It was first weakness from hunger and then fever that killed the men. We thought our troubles would be over when we got aboard ship. I heard that ten sick men had been left behind when we sailed, and no one left to care for them. They were not much worse off than we were aboard the ship.

"The rations aboard ship did not improve much. Healthy men might live on it, but for the sick and wounded it was almost useless. Those who had money fared better than those who were broke. I had a little money and it was lucky for me that I had, or I would not have been strong enough to get here. We were told that a lot of delicacies had been sent on board, but we saw none of them."

Several points of this soldier's narrative are corroborated by Dr. James S. Kennedy, first assistant surgeon of the Second division hospital, Fifth army corps, now at Montauk Point on the sick list, who has made a statement, published in Chambersburg, Pa., in which he says:

"Yesterday, August 11, a certain regiment left its encampment to go on board the Olivette to go north, and ten hours afterward a private, who had been left behind, started back to his former encampment to sleep (no private soldiers being allowed in Santiago after dark), and on reaching his camp found ten men abandoned. No medicine, no food, no nurses nor physicians—simply abandoned to starvation or suicide. As to the frequent suicides which occur, the reports go all right when the facts are not known.

"I came down on the Olivette myself and saw stacks of medicines and supplies, such as the sick and wounded crave, and I also say a favored few break open boxes of champagne and liquors and eat ice cream, packed in the cold storage department by the Red Cross people, having the Red Cross on the package. Not one particle of that lot ever reached a hospital."

Ensign Powelson Injured

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 29.—Ensign Powelson, who has been acting lieutenant on the auxiliary cruiser St. Paul, now at Cramps's shipyard, had his leg and foot badly crushed Saturday evening by falling down an elevator shaft on the vessel. He was crossing the elevator, which had been used in lifting supplies from the hold, when the bar holding it gave way and Mr. Powelson was plunged into the hold.

Two seamen who had narrowly escaped the falling elevator, carried the wounded officer to the deck, and he was subsequently sent to the Episcopal hospital.

Kite Flying Record Beaten.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.—The world's record for high kite flying was broken Saturday afternoon at Blue Hill observatory by Messrs. Clayton and Ferguson, who sent a tandem of kites into the air until the highest one reached an altitude of 12,124 feet above the sea level—277 feet higher than any kite had reached theretofore. The kites passed through clouds when about a mile above the surface of the earth, while above the clouds the instruments showed the air to be very dry.

The Prince of Wales' Condition.

London, Aug. 29.—The Prince of Wales Saturday made his first landing from the royal yacht Osborne in a month, going ashore at Mount Ellegcumbe, Devonport, after elaborate preparations amid a flurry of excitement among the villagers.

He was moved in an invalid chair.

UNIVERSAL PEACE PROPOSED

The Czar of Russia Asks for a Congress to Consider a Plan for World's Disarmament

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—By order of Emperor Nicholas, Count Muravieff, the foreign minister, on the 24th inst., handed to the foreign diplomats at St. Petersburg a note declaring that the maintenance of peace and the reduction of the excessive armaments now crushing all nations is the ideal for which all governments ought to strive.

The czar considers the present moment favorable for the inauguration of a movement looking to this end, and invites the powers to take part in an international conference as a means of thus assuring real and lasting peace and terminating the progressive increase of armaments.

ondon, Aug. 29.—The czar's proposition for an international conference for the purpose of securing real and lasting peace among the powers and the termination of the progressive increase in armaments, as conveyed in a note from Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister, to the foreign diplomats at St. Petersburg, is likely to produce a sensation throughout Europe, and coming from such a quarter and with such evident sincerity, it is likely to have important effects.

Dewey Summoned.

Manila, Aug. 28.—8.30 p. m.—Admiral Dewey said to-day that he had been advised by the navy department at Washington to hold himself in readiness to return home by the quickest route for the purpose of conferring with President McKinley on the Philippine question.

Admiral Dewey cabled in reply giving the fullest possible information and also giving his views on the subject. He suggested to Secretary Long that the importance of the situation required him to remain here, where there is much work yet to do. He thinks that his squadron should be augmented in strength and he therefore requested Secretary Long to dispatch a battleship and an armored cruiser to Manila.

When asked to express his personal opinion on the question of the Americans retaining the Philippines, Admiral Dewey looked at the Stars and Stripes flying on the Lunetta, the fashionable promenade of the Philippine capital, and said:

"I hope it will fly there forever."

General Merritt will sail on the transport China immediately to catch a steamer at Hong Kong. He is going to Paris to meet the commission.

HOME COMING OF THE TROOPS

The Seventy-First New York Comes To-day and Second Reaches Troy.

New York, Aug. 29.—The Seventy-first regiment, New York volunteers, now at Camp Wikoff, according to announcement, will arrive in this city to-day, probably between 12 and 1 o'clock. If the present arrangements are carried out, the men will come by train from Montauk to Long Island City, be transferred by ferry boat to the Battery and will then march up Broadway to Thirty-fourth street, and then to the armory at Park avenue.

Of the regiment that went to Cuba more than one thousand strong, only about four hundred will parade.

Death and sickness have reduced their numbers, many of those who are ill now being in hospitals, trying to regain their health.

Every one in the parade will be a veteran, and only those who were at Santiago will be seen.

When the regiment arrives in the city it will be met by the officers and men of the One Hundred and Seventy-first regiment in full uniform, and the regiment band, led by Professor F. Fanciulli, will also be at the Battery to lead the parade up Broadway.

The Veteran Association of the Seventy-first regiment has made preparations to receive the heroes. They have engaged carriages to be at the Battery, so that every one who is too weak to march will ride in an open vehicle so that everyone can see him.

Hot bouillon and sandwiches will be served to the men before the march begins, and everything that can be done for the comfort of the men is being done.

Members of the Women's Relief Corps will meet the men at Long Island City, and they will be served with refreshments there.

Second Regiment at Troy.

Troy, N. Y., Aug. 29.—One of the largest demonstrations witnessed in this section since the civil war took place here Saturday, when more than thirty thousand persons welcomed the Second regiment from camp at Fernandina, Fla.

Crowds from the surrounding country commenced to come into the city early in the morning and it was not long before the streets wert literally packed.

They came from places all along the Fitchburg, Central Hudson and Delaware and Hudson railroads, and the Troy suburbs were deserted. Nearly all the manufacturing concerns of the city were closed, and as it was a half holiday the throng was increased after the noon hour.

The trains carrying the troops did not arrive until nearly four o'clock, and as the nearly eleven hundred men disembarked the crowds set up a wild cheering and exploded torpedoes.

Since leaving Troy last May the Second regiment has suffered loss by death of more than twenty, while scores of other members are either confined in hospitals or at their homes with malarial troubles.

CUBAN AFFAIRS THRIVE

Rapid Adjustment of Business at Santiago and Havana.

AMERICAN METHODS RULE

The American Postal System to Be Introduced Government of the Provinces Changed. English to Be Taught in the Schools. Steamers Laden With Provisions Arrive at Havana.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 28.—The modification of the administration of the provincial civil governments by Generals awton and Wood meets with the approbation of intelligent citizens, and co-operation in the movement is increasing. The schools will open on the first of September. English will be taught in all the grades, for the purpose of its Americanizing effect.

The employes of the civil government are now paid with checks only, owing to the scarcity of small change.

Impressive funeral services were held yesterday over the remains of the Colombian consul, Senor Bravo, who died from fever. Many flags were flying at half mast.

The death rate among citizens and troops is increasing. The deaths in the city daily number about eighty. The mortality among the soldiers is small, however. Patients who are convalescent after an attack of dysentery and yellow fever, gain strength slowly owing to the enervating effect of the climate. Two hundred "immunes" are now in the hospital.

The steamer Panther left yesterday with 108 sick soldiers of all regiments. thers will embark to-day, leaving about 50 for the Olivette, which is expected on Wednesday to take all the sick save the critical cases.

Eight thousand rations have been dispatched to Guantanamo Bay for two companies of Ray's immunes. The transports San Augustin, Leonora and San Francisco will go for 6,000 Spaniards at Guantanamo Bay.

The Cheribou, a hospital ship, left yesterday with 1,000 sick Spaniards. The condition of all the Spanish soldiers who have left or are about to leave is pitiful. Physicians say that about 30 per cent. of them will die before they reach Spain.

Three thousand of them remain here.

Revival of Business in Havana.

Havana, Aug. 28.—The steamer Comal has arrived here. She carries a million rations. The steamer Macedonia, with a general cargo and twenty-two passengers, arrived here yesterday.

The exports from Havana yesterday were 894 bales of tobacco and 2,000,000 cigars.

The municipal authorities demand that cattle be allowed to be imported free of duty, but the Marquis de Montoro, the colonial financial secretary, objects. The present duty on cattle is $6 per head, and meat is selling at 40 cents a pound. The Marquis de Montoro has authorized the withdrawal of goods from the custom house.

There were exported yesterday by steamer from Matanzas 1,267 bales of tobacco, 3,28,475 cigars and $15,000 in silver for New York.

The steamer Philadelphia has arrived here, carrying a general cargo and thirty passengers.

Miss Clara Barton of the American Red Cross has returned from Matanzas. She reports great want and distress there. Miss Barton will probably leave again to-morrow for the purpose of distributing relief in Matanzas. The Clinton, the Red Cross steamer, has not yet discharged a package of her goods.

The British military attache who has been in Cuba watching the military operations, is about to leave for Santiago, whence he will proceed to New York.

Captain Stewart Brice, son of ex-United States Senator Brice, who is a member of General Shafter's staff, will sail on Monday on the steamer Lydia, as will also Venezuelan Consul H. Pinango, who has been recalled.

World's Record Beaten.

Manhattan Beach, Aug. 29.—Jimmie Michael, champion middle distance cyclist of the world, was defeated in a paced race at one mile in heats at the Manhattan Beach track Saturday afternoon by Major Taylor, the phenomenal American colored rider. Three heats were required to decide the contest, and the three thousand spectators who were attracted to the oval by the splendid card of the national circuit meet, saw a world's record demolished in each heat.

Following is the time recorded:

One mile Paced Race, best two in three heats, from standing start, Jimmie Michael vs. Major Taylor.—First heat won by Michael, time 1m. 44 1-5s.; second heat won by Taylor, time 1m. 43 2-5s.; third heat won by Taylor, time 1m. 41 2-5s. Taylor won both heats by two hundred yards, Michael sitting up.

Uncle Sam in the Heavens.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 29.—Those of Chicago whose eyes were turned towards the northwest at dusk Saturday evening, just before the storm broke, saw in the sky a figure which caused them to declare that even the heavens were glorifying the late achievements of Uncle Sam by land and sea. Inclosed and outlined by dark surrounding clouds was the well known face of Uncle Sam. There was the tall hat, the acquiline nose, and the long flowing chin whiskers—in fact all the characteristics of the great old man as he is drawn by cartoonists. The likeness was a most striking one. It appeared at an angle of about 45 degrees elevation above the horizon, and lasted for about a minute and a half.

President to Visit Jacksonville.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The president expects to be in Jacksonville, Fla., on September 15, and review the soldiers of the Seventh Corps, General Lee's command. He told Colonel Durbin of the One Hundred and Sixty-first Indiana this before he left the city. The colonel was here for the purpose of asking the president and Secretary Alger to visit Jacksonville and fix a date. It is quite likely that Secretary Alger will accompany the president.

HAHNE & CO. NEWARK.

Seven Acres of Goods.

ALL THE NEW— Ideas, Fancies, Styles, and Conceits In Women's Dress Wear, Men's and Boys' Clothing. Furniture, Carpets, upholsteries and all other fall and winter supplies for the home, are here in greater variety and at lower prices than elsewhere.

FREE deliveries at all New Jersey railroad stations No extra charge for packing.

Hahne & Co., Newark, N.J.

FRANK H. LINKE,

IS THE ONLY

Licensed Wholesale Liquor Dealer

in Plainfield.

Bottler of the Best Brands of Beers

Brewed in the Country.

Pabst Milwaukee, Anhauser & Bush St. Louis, Beadleston & Wœrz Imperial, Bartholomay's Rochester beers a specialty. Bohemian, Bavarian, Export Apollo Lager, Foreign Ales and Porters, Domestic Ales and Porters, Smith Philadelphia Evans & Son's Hudson Cream.

A full line of

Brandies, Whiskies, Sherries, Ports, Clarets, Saturnes, Bitters, Cordials and Mineral Waters

can always be found at

Tel. 157. 227 W. Front St.

25 tf-m-s

Shoes for Spring.

You'll be buying a new pair of shoes soon. Where are you going to buy them?

The shoe store you want to patronize is the store that gives you the most style, comfort, elegance and durability for the money.

If you'll "shop around" before you buy you'll find that this is the store you're looking for.

Flynn Bros.,

222 West Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

F. A. DUNHAM,

—CIVIL ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR.—

109 Park Ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87 F

NOTICE

to all interested in

Up-to-date Laundry Work.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular.

We also have just completed arrangements for doing family washing in a satisfactory manner by the dozen or week. Please call at office for further information.

City Steam and Hand Laundry,

Morey & LaRue, Proprietors,

19 Somerset St.,

Tel. No. 751. Plainfield, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS.

110 East Front St.,

Plainfield, N. J

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.

Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds, of Confectionery, Peanuts' Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

COLLIER,

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN.

Established 1869.

103 Park Avenue

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 E. Fifth St.

Sole Agent for the

Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER SANITARY PLUMBING.

TELEPHONE 212 A.

AT THE

Golden Rule Bakery,

110 SOMERSET ST., COR. MANNING AVE.,

You will find a full line of Bread, Cakes, Pies and Confectionery. Telephone Call 220 F.

ICE CREAM.

Sunday orders delivered.

J. J STAHL, Proprietor.

F. A. LONG, No. 108 SOMERSET ST.

Near Manning Avenue.

Up-to-Date Cash Grocery Store

Orders called for and delivered in any part of City or Dunellen.

Your Valuables,

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

HARRY S. POTTER,

Dealer In

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL.

Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard. at Mt. Pleasant Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1y

MRS. L. ADAMS.

MILLINERY and DRESSMAKING

Parlors. Imported and Domestic Millinery, styles the latest. Hats and Bonnets trimmed to order a specialty. Ladies' own material used. All work strictly first-class.

114 EAST FRONT STREET.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new Barber Shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

Is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

L. A. HUMMER'S

VARIETY MARKET.

Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Poultry, Eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.

220 Park Ave. Telephone Call, 29 A.

McCullough's STEAM MILL.

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing, turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished

Our 14th Annual Clothing Sale,

for July and August has commenced, and for the next two months we will sell all of our summer stock at just ½ price. It will pay you to call and get our prices before purchasing elswhere.

Men's and Boys' Suits, Bicycle Suits, Extra Bicycle Pants, Hats and Gents' Furnishing Goods

must be closed out, as we carry nothing over. We have about 100 pairs of those English Tweed pants left, which we still sell at the low figure of 98c the pair, so if you need pants, now is the time to catch on. All goods sold as advertised.

Werner's Clothing House,

206 West Front Street.

MANTELS $4.00 AND UP.

AT THE

Fire-Place Store,

CURTIS M. THORPE,

310-312 Park Avenue.

STRAW HATS,

Fine Summer Underwear. Also Scotch Cheviot and Madras Shirts, fast colors, at

JAMES R. BLAIR'S,

126 Park Avenue.

$1.25 NOW REDUCED FROM $1.75.

Misses' Chocolate Lace Shoes with Vesting Tops. Sizes 13 to 2 only.

SHERWIN'S, 149 West Front St.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap.
is the order to lay in a heap.
is the atmosphere warmed by its glow.
is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

ORDER YOUR BREAKFAST AT ROGER'S.

232 West Second St. First Delivery 5 a. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

VanEMBURGH & SON

OPEN A NEW DEPARTMENT.

10 qt. Galvanized Pail	15c	Round Globe Fancy Parlor Lamps	87
10 qt. Granite Dish Pan	25c	Japanese Dust Pans	5c
33 qt. Wash Boiler	25c	Galvanized Dust Pans	10c
10 qt. Dish Pan	10c	Crumb Trays	10c
Zinc Wash Boards	10c	Long Handle Fire Shovels	5c
Painted Chamber Pails	19c	Chopping Bowls	10c
3 Brass Hoop Cedar Pails	25c	Angel Cake Pans	5c
Large Combination Dinner Pails	20c	Perforated Pie Plates	3c-4c
Knife Boxes	10c	Glass Lamps Complete	19c
Large Enameled Tea Pots	25c	Sink Drainers	12c
1 lb. Roll Toilet Paper	10c	Feather Dusters	10c

IN OUR VERY LIGHT BASEMENT.

Babcock Building. Corner Store. Plainfield, N. J.

We Insure Your Shirts.

We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods." Let us call for your work.

Hillier & Co.,

179 North Avenue.

Telephone 30 M.

M. POWERS

Dealer in Superior Quality Lehigh and Wyoming Coal.

MIXED COAL, $4.75.

Yard 725 to 737 South Ave. Office 171 North Ave., opposite R. R. Station.

Telephone 67 A

CHARLES L. STANLEY,

142 North Ave., headquarters for

Choice Cut Flowers and Palms and Ferns.

FLORAL DESIGNS.

Decorations for all occasions Greenhouses at Netherwood, near depot.

NEUMAN BROS., HIGH-GRADE GROCERS

Choice Teas and Coffees.

RUSHMORE & CO.,

WATCHUNG AVE. and FOURTH ST.

Dealers in

Lumber, Coal and Wood

Moulding & Planing Mill.

Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Elston M. French & Co.

163 NORTH AVENUE.

(Succeeding VanBuren Bros.)

Real Estate and Insurance.

Largest agency in the city. Loans negotiate

THE

Metropolitan Boarding Stables

C. V. D. CORLE, - - - Proprietor.

No. 138 East Second Street.

Livery, Boarding and Sale Stables

Horses boarded by the day, week, month or year. Reasonable prices.

TELEPHONE 214 F. 17

STORAGE OF FURS.

Special attention is directed to our exceptional facilities for storing furs and fur lined garments, fur rugs, etc., in our new store, 308 West Front street, and the insuring of same against damage by moths, fire or burglary, at very low prices. Now is the time to have your furs repaired, altered and redyed. Summer prices prevail. Estimates cheerfully given.

H. KOHN, 308 West Front Street.

KENT & SON, PIANOS.

$125 A HIGH GRADE PIANO DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.

30 DAYS FREE TRIAL.

GUARANTEED FOR TEN YEARS. Do not pay fancy prices for your pianos. Write us. Send for catalogue. KENT & SON, 49 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Honest Values will Sell Honest Goods."

BOEHM'S.

109, 111, 113 W. Front St.

Better goods for less money than anywhere else.

A great week for almost anything you want. Closing out all our summer goods regardless of cost.

Hosiery chances.—Ladies' black hose, the regular 9c kind, for this sale 4 pairs for 25c. Misses' derby ribbed hose, full seamless, sizes 5 to 9½, for this sale at 10c pair. Men's full fashioned half hose in natural mixtures, tans and blacks, the 15c grade, for this sale 10c pair.

Special—Yard wide fancy percales, while the lot lasts, at 3½c yard.

Muslins.—The kind of bleached muslin you usually pay 6c for, for this sale at 4½c yard. Extra good quality bleached muslin, yard wide, for this sale 5c yard. Unbleached sheeting muslin, yard wide, as good as any at 6c yard, for this sale 4c yard.

Waists for warm weather.—A fortunate purchase places us in a position to offer a beautiful lot of fancy colored waists, lace trimmed, at the astonishing low price of 49c. They are bargains at 75c.

Wash fabric prices collapse.—Lawns, madras suitings, swiss effects, a collection of beautiful designs and charming colors to go at the pigmy price of 5c yard.

BOEHM'S.

TRY

J. F. MACDONALD'S

TEA FROM 20c. TO 35c. per lb.

COFFEES.

Our 15c. is continuing to make friends, and our 20c. in the grain has no equal.

Guaranteed to equal 50c and 60c goods or money refunded.

Send or call for samples—we are pleased to give them.

Telephone 49 B. 186 East Front Street.

-:-COFFEE-:-

FRESHER than you and I.
Best that grows.
From 10 cents up.

GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW,
PARK AVENUE GROCER.

McDonough Bros.,
-COAL AND ICE-
222 MADISON AVE. Telephone 225 I.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p. m.
L. B. Bromfield, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

ALEX. LUSARDI,
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores 991 year

A. A. MARSH & SON,
PRACTICAL
Painters and Decorators.
—DON'T FORGET THE PLACE—
965 WEST FRONT ST.
All orders sent to us will receive prompt attention.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED.
Give us a call. Respectfully yours,
A. A. MARSH. E. MARSH.
MARSH & SON.

—NEW YORK—
& Elizabeth Despatch
STODDARD'S EXPRESS
have opened an express line between PLAINFIELD, NEWARK and NEW YORK. Office in Plainfield at
161 North Ave.
Goods forwarded by direct line to all parts of the world.

CHAS. EDW. BICKNELL,
wholesale and retail dealer in
California and Domestic Fruits, Confectionary, Nuts, Ice Cream, Soda, etc.
47 Somerset St.
"On the Bridge."

William Hand & Son,
STAGES
For Parties, etc. 518 Park avenue.

Summer Stoves,
burning Gasoline and Oil, have been greatly improved—we have the latest productions.
Baldwin Refrigerators are the best made.
Pratts Deodorized Gasoline.
A. M. Griffen,
119 EAST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

HENRY LIEFKE,
201-203 West Front St.
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
Try my New England and Home Made Bread. Vienna Bread a specialty. Goods delivered to all parts of the city.

TENEYCK & HARRIS,
Dealers in all the best kinds of cleaned and wel screened Lehigh Valley
COAL
Office 121 Watchung ave., near 2d st.
Telephone No. 15 F. South Plainfield. L. V. Station.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vin st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vines
All work promptly attended to.

BETTER GOODS FOR LESS MONEY THAN ANYWHERE ELSE.

Mullins

218-220 MARKET ST., NEWARK.

Homes Furnished for $1 a Week.

One Visit And you'll think same as thousands of others—The Greatest Furniture and Carpet House in the State. Come look at the goods and get our prices. That's all we ask.

$12.
Solid Oak Sideboards, French plate beveled mirror, handsomely carved, at $12.

If you don't like this there are 100 other styles to choose from—$7.50 to $75.00.

$2.50
LARGE REED ROCKERS
$2.50

$4.98.
Buys a Solid Oak Extension Table, well made, nicely carved and finely finished. A grand opportunity this week to refurnish your dining room.

100 Folding Beds at greatly reduced prices. Folding Beds at.... $10 Folding Beds at.... 16 Folding Beds at.... 22 $6.75.

This solid oak 5-drawer Chiffoniere, well made and finely finished, only $6.75. Other styles from $3.25 up.

SPECIAL—100 New Solid Oak CHAMBER SUITS from $10.00 to $250. All new designs.

Easy Terms of Credit if Desired.

Elevators to Every Floor.

MULLINS & SONS.
218-220 Market St., Newark.
Branch Houses 78-84 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J., 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

Leech, Stiles & Co.
EYE SPECIALISTS,
14 and 16 South Fifteenth street, Philadelphia. H. A. Stiles will be at
No. 107 East Front St.
Every Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4:50 p. m.
Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 1 14 tf m-t-w-s

LET US ARM YOU!
It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS AND DECORATORS
141 North Avenue.

REVERE HOUSE
PARK AVENUE. 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.
Families accomodated for the Spring and Summer months at greatly reduced prices.
The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed
GEO. B. DE REVERE

E. E. BROWN'S MEAT MARKET
cor. PARK AVE. and SECOND ST.
Choice Meats
of all kinds.
GAME
in seasons. Goods delivered in all parts of the city and borough.

RUSHTON & HANSEN,
Painters and Paper Hangers,
Office and Shop Sycamore and Fourth Streets
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

UNINTERRUPTED PASSENGER SERVICE
TO
FORT MONROE
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
WASHINGTON
which are most attractive points at this time.
EXPRESS STEAMSHIPS
OF THE
OLD DOMINION LINE
Perform Daily Service.
Through tickets returning from Washington by rail or water.
For full information apply to
Old Dominion S. S. Co.,
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILAUDEU, Vice-Pres. & Traffic Mgr.
12 31 tf

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
—Cesspools Built

J. W. VANSICKLE,
122 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.
FRESH & SALTED MEATS,
GAME IN SEASON. Philadelphia Scrapple.
Orders called for and delivered promptly.
TELEPHONE 148 b.

EVACUATION OF THE ISLANDS

Commissioners for Cuba and Puerto Rico Ready to Depart.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Arrangements have been made for the speedy departure of the commissions charged with the supervision of the evacuation of the Spanish forces from Cuba and Porto Rico. The Cuban commission, consisting of General Wade, Admiral Sampson and General Butler, will sail on September 3 on the auxiliary cruiser Resolute, now on her way from Portsmouth, N. H., to Montauk Point. This vessel was assigned to the commission because she is better provided with living accommodations for the members of the commission than the cruiser New York, which was originally selected for the purpose. The Resolute will take the commission to Havana and remain there as long as needed.

The Porto Rican commission consists of General Brooke, Admiral Schley and General Gordon. General Brooke is now in Porto Rico in command of the military forces there. Admiral Schley is now in this city. General Gordon telegraphed Saturday that he would be here to-day. The army transport ship Seneca will be utilized in taking the members of the commission now in this country to Porto Rico. She is now in New York and was scheduled to sail for Porto Rico with mail and supplies to-day. Her orders were amended on Saturday, however, so as to provide that she shall sail next Wednesday. This postponement will enable Admiral Schley and General Gordon to perfect their arrangements in this country before taking their departure.

PEARY EXPLORING EXPEDITION

The Hope Arrives at St. John's.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 28.—The steamer Hope arrived here last night from her trip to Greenland with the Peary exploring expedition. After leaving Sydney, C. B., their first landing was at Cape York, where natives were expected to be found. The party was disappointed, however, all the natives having left.

Without delay the expedition then sailed for Snow Pocket bay, but here again they were disappointed. They then proceeded to Saunders island, finding the natives there in poor condition. Snow falls which lasted for weeks, had forced the natives to quit their old haunts in quest of food. The natives were delighted to see Lieutenant Peary and swarmed all over the ship.

The Hope took on board a number of Esquimeaux and sailed for Whale Sound, but owing to the heavy ice pack was unable to get in. She came out without serious injury. The party then decided to return to Saunders island, and spent a fortnight there, during which time sixty walrus and a quantity of seal were obtained.

Then the Hope proceeded to Foulkefiord. She met the Windward on the way. The latter is a poor ship for this work, being unable to steam to any advantage.

At Foulkefiord the Hope parted with Lieutenant Peary and sailed south on the 13th inst., the Windward leaving at the same time for Sheard Osborne Fiord, where Peary will make his headquarters during the winter.

Soldiers from Chickamauga.

Jersey City, Aug. 29.—The first train load of sick soldiers from the fever-infected camp at Chickamauga, arrived here Sunday afternoon and busy preparations were made at once to transfer the men from the railway station to the quarters on Fire island, where they will be given a chance to recover under the care of Dr. Doty and the state authorities.

The men on this train are made up of such patients of the Eighth and Fourteenth regiments as were able to leave Chickamauga. There were thirteen car loads of them and several of the men were in a dangerous condition. Some were convalescent.

The long hot ride on the train did not help the condition of the men, and they arrived in Jersey City weak and suffering. It was feared that the travelling might cause serious results in some cases.

However, all the men were glad to be home again within reach of their families and friends, and were overjoyed that the Empire state was to give them attention.

Such of the patients as are in too dangerous a condition to be taken to Fire island will probably be sent to the Jersey City and New York hospitals for treatment for a time.

Lipton's Generous Gift.

New York, Aug. 29.—The name of Sir Thomas Lipton will not be known in this country only as that of the challenger for the America's cup. It will be gratefully remembered by the sick American soldiers now in camp at Montauk and elsewhere, and in various hospitals.

Edward A. Sumner, a lawyer, of No. 141 Broadway, met Sir Thomas when the latter was in this country last June. The Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, of which Mr. Sumner is a member, made an appropriation of $1,000 for the sick soldiers, and Mr. Sumner cabled to Sir Thomas asking for a small contribution. The reply came last Friday.

Zangwill Arrives on the Lucania.

New York, Aug. 29.—Israel Zangwill, better known to the reading public as "I Zangwill," the well known author, arrived in New York on the ucania Saturday. Mr. Zangwill is the author of the famous Ghetto stories, and he has also written dramas and much literary criticism. He was met at the Cunard line pier by Major Pond, under whose management he will probably lecture in this country. Mr. Zangwill, with several friends, lunched at the Waldorf-Astoria. In the afternoon he travelled to Long Branch, where he will stay for a day or two as the guest of Mr. Guggenheimer of this city.

A Very Dry Sunday.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 29.—This city was exceedingly dry yesterday. The reform administration seems to have convinced the liquor dealers that any infraction of the Sunday closing act will be visited with heavy penalties, for only the well known patrons of the drinking places were allowed to enter side doors and the restaurants were in mortal terror of selling anything that in any way savored of alcohol.

PRIVATIONS IN CAMP

Gross Negligence Is Charged to Those in Authority.

THE BLAME TO BE PLACED

Investigation Has Been Ordered by the Department. An Epidemic of Typhoid at Chickamagua. Criminal Neglect Causes Terrible Suffering. Conditions at Wikoff Slowly Improving but Still Bad.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The story of the neglect of American soldiers, both while in the field and in camp, grows in horror with each day. Every new development makes the scandal greater. The president is making an heroic effort to place the responsibility and to rectify the abuses.

Surgeon General Sternberg's request for an investigation has been promptly answered by the war department. General Boynton has begun an investigation at Chickamauga, and Mr. Meikeljohn, acting secretary of war, is authority for the statement that the report will be made public when it is received.

Typhoid fever is raging in Camp Thomas, Chickamauga, and if something is not done the epidemic which is on will be far beyond the control of all the surgeons and physicians in the army. Yesterday one hundred new cases were reported to Surgeon General Hoff. Seven deaths occurred.

General Breckinridge is on the warpath and will not stop now until he has the hellish actions of the surgeons and officers at an end.

No one knows better than he how things are being carried on, and if it does not stip at once he will have every one of these neglectful, cowardly brutes out of the service. Every day new and startling incidents are reported showing the character of the men in charge of the hospitals.

Brigadier General Boynton, president of the Chickamauga park commission, was out in the park yesterday on an inspection tour. He came upon four mounds which are thought to be over where some of the many dead have been cast away to save the trouble of burying. For some time General Boynton has been hearing that bodies have been buried in the park, and he intends to search every spot to see what truth there is in the rumor.

One of the most sensational incidents that the condition of affairs in the mismanagement of hospitals and bad sanitary arrangements at Camp Thomas have developed was brought to light yesterday. The statement is vouched for by soldiers in the division hospital who witnessed the incident.

They stated to a reporter that at one of the division hospitals at Camp Thomas, where they were confined, packages of fine wines and liquors were consigned to them through the Red Cross Society and other charitable organizations. Instead of having these beverages delivered to patients it seems that the surgeons appropriated the wines and liquors and became very much intoxicated, leaving the patients to their own devices, and that some of the latter suffered a serious relapse.

Another bad thing just discovered is that all the nurses, with the exception of the good women of the Red Cross society, Sisters of Charity and trained hospital nurses, are incompetent and know nothing of the caring of sick, and this, with the surgeons' neglect, makes matters much worse.

In one regiment there was a man who had graduated as a physician and had done duty as an attendant in several hospitals. Instead of making him a nurse they set him to caring for the mules. He is the son of the commissioner of Forestry of Pennsylvania and a competent man.

Camp Wikoff to Be Abandoned.

Camp Wikoff, at Montauk Point, it is asserted, is to be abandoned as soon as the trops can be removed. Regimental camps are to be established, the Washington officials having decided it was a mistake to quarter so many debilitated troops in that camp.

While conditions have been somewhat improved, new hardships have come. Orders have been issued doubling up the infantry, four in one tent.

Surgeon General Terry of this state, who, by Governor Black's direction, started on a tour of inspection of the southern camps where New York troops are quartered, has returned to his home in Utica, threatened with fever.

At Camp Alger.

Some startling facts as to the management and conduct of the First division hospital at Camp Alger, Va., will likely be made public soon, unless the report of Dr. Vaughn, Dr. Shakespeare and Dr. Reed, who constitute the board of visiting physicians, is withheld. These physicians were instructed to make a thorough inspection of all the army camps. They began their labors at Camp Alger.

There they found that for weeks a condition existed that can only be attributed to gross mismanagement, negligence, indifference and absolute disregard of all ideas of humanity.

"Instead of placing the typhoid patients in wards by themselves those suffering with malaria and other ailments were all jumbled in together. As a result many who were free of typhoid caught the disease by using the same utensils used by the typhoid patients.

The public will be surprised to know that many sick men had to sleep on the ground, the only thing that separated them from mother earth being a blanket; and yet there were plenty of cots at hand, although the hospital was crowded at thte time. For some reason best known to those in authority, the cots were not distributed.

Water for drinking, bathing patients and washing floors and utensils was placed in barrels in the rear of the wards. The barrels were never washed and of course sediment collected in the bottoms. None of the water given the patients was filtered or boiled, although orders had been issued to that effect.

All this was the result of carelessness and indifference on the part of those in charge, and the crowning evil was the absolute incompetency based on inexperience of the men of the hospital corps. Within the last few days matters have improved.

SILENT ABOUT DESPATCHES

Miles Refused to Discuss Story of the Mutilation.

Ponce, Porto Rico, Aug. 27.—Major General Miles positively refuses to discuss the mutilation of the dispatches he sent from Santiago, which was mentioned in the alleged interview with him recently published in the American newspapers.

Concentration of the troops here preparatory to the homeward movement has begun—six light batteries, five troops of cavalry, the Fourth Pennsylvania, the Sixth Illinois and the Second Wisconsin infantry, all volunteers, about five thousand in all. This will leave about ten thousand United States troops on the island.

General Miles will leave in about three days, as will also General Wilson.

This will leave General Henry in command.

The Sixth Massachusetts, now at Utado, is to be partly mounted for patrol duty, and other troops will be so disposed as to suppress disorder. No attempt to load ships was made yesterday. An effort will be made to have the whole fleet sail together for New York, but nothing has been definitely decided upon. The men are impatient to leave for home.

GERMAN COMMENT ON PEACE

Much Speculation as to What Americans Will Do in the East.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—The German press continues to discuss the peace conditions from various points of view, a majority of the papers according to the United States high praise for the moderation the American government has displayed. Most of them seem to expect that difficulties will arise over the ultimate disposition and control of the Philippines; but, as a rule, the arguments advanced are repetitions and threadbare.

The Koelnische Zeitung's editorial may be worth quoting, as there is the best reason for believing that it was inspired. It says:

"Before a definite peace is concluded considerable time must elapse. Meanwhile the international situation in the Philippines and the far east generally may have changed materially. It is not likely that Spain and the United States will agree to a definite settlement of the Philippine question without taking the advice of the powers interested, particularly Russia and France."

The Foreign Office maintains absolute reticence as to the present attitude of the government on the subject.

The British-Chinese Situation.

London, Aug. 29.—Authoritative confirmation has been received of the dispatch from Peking to the Daily Mail asserting that the relations between the Tsung-li-Yamen and Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister to China, are strained, and that Sir Claude has intimated that Great Britain will regard as a casus belli any failure on the part of China to observe England's wishes.

It is asserted that the situation between Great Britain and China is acute Sir Claude Macdonald strenuously insisting that China shall observe her engagements to the British syndicates and demanding satisfactory explanations with regard to the Pekin-Hankow railway.

If necessary the British squadron, now assembled at Wei-Hai-Wei will support the British minister's demands.

Meanwhile, according to the foreign office, the negotiations that are being conducted by Sir Charles Scott, the British ambassador at St. Petersburg, to define the British and Russian spheres of influence are proceeding in a "perfectly friendly spirit."

The Visitors at the Navy Yard

Brooklyn, Aug. 29.—The large number of visitors at the navy yard all last week made life such a burden to the officers and guards that the gates were closed at an early hour Saturday afternoon, and visitors were hustled out with but little ceremony before four o'clock. The arrival of the cruiser New York from the anchorage at Tompkinsville furnished an additional attraction and the number of sightseers who clamored for a chance to go on board the Oregon and the Iowa surpassed the totals on Thursday and Friday. It is doubtful if visitors will be so welcome the coming week as they were last. The arrival of the several vessels from southern waters which are in immediate need of attention will make lively times at the yard for several weeks, and it is said that Captain Sumner is inclined to grant fewer and fewer passes.

Whitelaw Reid With Dr. Webb.

New York, Aug. 29.—Whitelaw Reid, who has just been appointed one of the peace commissioners, to settle all points in dispute between this country and Spain, is at present spending a few days as the guest of Dr. William Seward Webb at Nehasane, Hamilton county, N. Y. Early this week he will go back to his own camp in the Adirondacks, where he has been since the end of July, but is expected to break camp soon and return to New York to prepare for his trip to Paris a fortnight hence.

Preparing to Go to Paris.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Secretary Day has left for his home in Canton, to arrange his private affairs for his pending visit to Paris as chairman of the Spanish peace commission. He was accompanied by Mrs. Day, who has recovered from her recent severe spell of sickness. The secretary probably will be gone about ten days. During the absence of Judge Day Assistant Secretary Moore will have charge of the affairs of the state department.

America and Annexation.

London, Aug. 29.—The Madrid correspondent of the Times, referring to the rumors of a Jamaican movement for annexation to the United States, says:

"The Spanish papers predict that the American intrigue in Jamaica will ultimately extend to Canada, and result as similar intrigues in Cuba have resulted, and will prove the beginning of a nemesis to punish Great Britan for encouraging imperialism in the United States."

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

Two cents a copy. Ten cents a week
$5 a year—in advance
No extra charge for papers mailed to points in the U. S. and Canada
Delivered by carrier or by mail.
The Press has the most complete carrier and mail service of any paper in the metropolitan district.
Any subscriber failing o receive a single issue will confer a favor by notifying the business office.
Advertising rates mailed on request
Copy for change of advertisements must be in this office by 9 a m. to ensure change the same day.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 29, 1898

FEATURES OF TODAY'S PRESS.

PAGE 1.—Important local news.
PAGE 2.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 3.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 4.—Editorial and gossip.
PAGE 5.—Vicinity news.
PAGE 6.—German news.
PAGE 6.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 7.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 8.—Sporting and local news.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

Good Sense and Temperance.

Rev. Osbort Mordaunt, rector of Hampton-Lucy, Warwickshire, made a statement before the parliamentary liquor commission that for 22 years he had managed the public house in his village, but he had abolished the sale of intoxicating liquors to the public and greatly raised the moral tone of his parish thereby. This again raises the question propounded by Rev. Dr. Rainsford in New York about a year ago, Why should not the church interest itself in such things as a social factor? Why indeed should it not establish temperance saloons and clubs and do it on a business basis? If the church intends to become a living force, veritable salt in the community, it must come down to the everyday needs and wants of the world.

The poor have no clubs. The liquor saloon, with its bright lights and evening papers, offers an attractive center to the workingman who has no other place to spend his evenings aside from a sordid home perhaps. In many cases the visitor has no other motive in view than a little change of scene, a chance of chat with a friend or a game of dominos or cards. Propinquity thus may lead him to take alcoholic cheer, with no set purpose in that direction. We are convinced that many of the working classes are led to dangerous drinking habits in this way. These men, it may be, would have gone to a temperance saloon, had it been convenient, in preference. Acting on this theory, a wealthy London tea merchant about ten years ago established throughout the Whitechapel district what he called Tee-to-tums. These were regular cafes, full of chairs and tables, offering a variety of daily, weekly and monthly publications and all kinds of games to visitors, who paid a small weekly fee for the privilege of using them. Everything except intoxicating beverages was sold at a very low figure. The rapid success of these humble clubs in London led to their introduction throughout all the English cities. They have become an important social fact. An attempt was made to establish this sensible temperance agency in New York, but for some reason, perhaps because public opinion was not marshaled behind it, it did not realize its English popularity. Perhaps it was not quite suited in detail to the American environment, but in the very logic of things institutions of this sort can be made far more potent factors in temperance reform than aggressive crusading.

The pretty barmaid has been introduced in the liquor selling interest at Hoboken, N. J. One doesn't exactly like to see this new business added to the list of feminine occupations, but it is a notorious fact that there is less profane and scurrilous talk in English liquor shops where women tend bar than in the American places.

The sale of the remaining works of the painter, the late Browne-Jones, brought at Christie's auction the great sum of $150,000. This is extraordinary, as it is not likely that he could have had on hand much of his own recognized great work.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Conversation as a Fine Art.

A brilliant young Lochinvar in the shape of a woman professor of the art of conversation has come out of the west (in this instance she hails from Denver) to teach the young women of New York how to talk. She professes to have studied her art in the most polished European circles. With new world energy and originality, combined with old world culture, she has made a descent on the crude girls of Manhattan to gild their intellects with the highest of social accomplishments, while she gilds her own pocket withal in the operation. Her pluck is admirable, and it is to be hoped that she will make a financial success in her novel business, for there would seem to be ample field for its use. But we fear she proceeds on an unsound premise. The art of charming conversation is born in the individual and cannot be taught. It is a matter of tact and temperament and sympathy even more than of intellectual culture and vivacity. The most brilliant talkers are not always adepts in the art of agreeable conversation. To evoke from others their best, to put them at their ease and smooth away all sense of friction, to mingle with the stream of talk unobtrusively, as oil does with the dressing of a salad, blending and perfecting diverse elements—this it is to know conversation as a fine art. All the teaching in the world will not bestow it. A simple country girl may possess it. The most brilliant woman of society may lack its suave delightsomeness. If the equipment exists by nature, the higher the culture and intellect the more charming the art. Without the other essential gifts mere culture, wit and knowledge amount only to the beating of tomtoms, a pyrotechnic display of vanity. To converse delightfully is to be intent on making others talk well, no less than the personal achievement of display.

The Royal Geographical society has for a long time refused the persistent attempt made to have it father new schemes of antarctic exploration. But Sir George Newnes, founder of a number of successful periodicals, has taken up the rejected burden and given £50,000 to capitalize an expedition. It is proposed to exercise the tactics of Nansen in taking advantage of the drift of the polar current. And a boat the exact model of the Fram will be used for the purpose. The head of the expedition will be a Norwegian naturalized in England, Carsten Egeburg Borchgrevink, who is a member of the Geographical society, an intimate friend of Nansen and an enthusiast in polar exploration, in which he has had some experience. The party, it is believed, will be gone at least two years. What end of science not already secured by north polar adventure can be achieved except the advancement of purely geographical knowledge it is difficult to see.

The latest decision of the naval board as to what should be recommended to congress at the forthcoming session is in line with the lessons of the war. The conviction is not that we should have the biggest navy in the world, but the very best warships which can be built. The factor of speed has impressed itself on experts as a superlative need in the most effective work. The new programme proposes three battleships of between 13,000 and 14,000 tons displacement and not less than 19 knots of speed. These would greatly surpass any battleships now afloat. For armored cruisers three are to be recommended of about 12,000 tons and of 24 knots speed, if possible, but not less than 22. Besides these a number of protected cruisers superior in class to Admiral Dewey's Olympia and several 2,500 ton cruisers are deemed important. It is in the line of increased speed that naval improvement now recognizes the most need.

The establishment of game farms or private preserves by rich men is becoming more and more a fad, even by those who never fired a gun. Mr. William Rockefeller has purchased 25,000 acres in the Adirondacks with the purpose of stocking it with our finest game animals and birds. Nearby the place, which is in the vicinity of Paul Smith's, are the lands of other large game preserves and hunting clubs. Austin Corbin's experiment in New Hampshire is bearing multiplied fruit.

Senhor Mendonca, the new Brazilian minister to Portugal, on his presentation to the king indulged in an unusually flowery outbreak over the glories of the Portuguese race. "When at the end of the century about to begin, the Portuguese language will be spoken by 100,000,000 of men," said he. If other races increase in proportion, there will be standing room only.

The Snowqualmie falls in Washington bid fair to rival the marvelous resources of Niagara as a fountain of electric energy to be distributed for purposes of lighting and motor force. It is estimated that 100,000 horsepower will be easily made available when the plant is completed.

There is a hackneyed apothegm which says, "Strike while the iron is hot." The man who finally clutches fortune by the hair is he who does not wait for the iron to be hot. He makes it hot by hammering on it.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The pretty city park which now adds attractiveness to Plainfield was redeemed from a waste of land solely through the efforts of the women, says The Daily Press of that well-kept little city.—Bayonne Budget.

* * * * *

The boulevard business appears to have run up against a snag in Plainfield as well as in Cranford and Westfield. The county attorney has notified the Plainfield authorities that the county claims the power over certain streets in that city under the county road act, and hence the city cannot give a franchise for laying tracks on any such streets, except, probably, it may be to the Kean combination. The city officials are inclined to insist upon their right to control their streets, and say who shall have the right to use them—hence the likelihood of some friction.—Rahway Democrat.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"A Trip to Coontown" will be at Stillman Music Hall tomorrow evening. Cole & Johnson's supporting company will be the following: Lloyd G. Gibbs, the greatest living black tenor; Tom Browne, character delineator; Jesse Shipp, descriptive singer;

R. A. Kelly, Walter Dixon, Jim Wilson, Miss Juvia Roan, the Cuban Nightingale, Molly Dill, Marguerite Rhodes, Freeman Sisters and a chorus of twenty trained voices. "A Trip to Coontown" is the first farce comedy successfully produced by a colored company in a first-class manner.

* * * * *

The management of Stillman Music Hall has secured one of the strongest attractions on the road in Miss Katherine Rober, supported by the favorite Lillian Kennedy Company, putting on three great productions, never having been done before at popular prices. Miss Rober will commence a three nights' engagement, with a Saturday matinee, commencing Thursday, September 1st, and notwithstanding the enormous expense of this very strong and expensive attraction the prices will be popular, 10, 20 and 30 cents.

EXTENDS PARENTAL BLESSING.

Rev. Arthur Crane Says His Son's Marriage Was His Perfect Right.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—A cutting from your paper announcing the marriage of Miss May Flora Grant to my son, J. Harry Crane, has been forwarded to me, and fearing the item may reflect upon the young couple, allow me a few lines. I have known for a long time of their mutual attachment and witheld my approval solely on the ground of the youthfulness of my son. I have the greatest respect for my daughter-in-law. She is all that a young lady should be and I am sure will reflect honor on my son.

While I should have preferred for them to have waited and to have given me an opportunity to help them to a "good start," they being of legal age have thought differently and were quietly married as stated in your paper. Mrs. Crane and myself now greatly welcome our daughter-in-law into the circle of our family.

Yours sincerely,
Arthur Crane.

Townville, S. C., Aug. 25, 1898.

Boynton Beach
LAST WEEK OF THE SEASON.
BATHING, BOATING, FISHING.
Bowling and Merrry-Go-Round.
Daily Music.
Afternoon, free use of Pavilion.
DANCING
Thursday and Saturday evenings, 25 cents.
Get ready for
LABOR DAY,
Monday, September 5.

THIS WEEK.

A large quantity of 36-inch PERCALES. Splendid cloth and choice styles, made to sell at 10c. Our price while they last, 6c. per yard. Very desirable for Wrappers, House Dresses, etc. They are a greater bargain, if possible, than the Organdies we sold in July. They are worthy the attention of all careful buyers. We are not selling them for profit, but rather to make business during the dull season.

SUNDRY NEW GOODS.

Our FALL DRESS GOODS are now arriving. We have some rare values in Brilliantines, Sicilians and Storm Serges in Navy and Black. We buy these goods direct from the mill. They are reliable and we recommend to the finest trade. Novelties will be worn but little, so we leave them out and devote our energies to securing the choicest things for tailor made suits. Venetian Cloths are the latest. We have them.

Some new BLACK CREPONS at 98c. are very rich. We have a new Black Henrietta, 46 inches wide, at 98c. that we believe are above the average $1.00 Henrietta. Ask to see it.

-:- Our Fall Line of Gents Neckwear -:-

now in stock. We pride ourselves on making choice selections of rich materials. If you are particular about Ties ours will interest you.

-:- Children's Hats and Caps for Fall. -:-

All new and the latest. More than that, they are clean. We handle no sweat shop goods.

Ladies Tailor-Made SKIRTS, Ready to Wear,

OR MADE TO ORDER.

Our own materials and workmanship the finest.

A Few Trade Winners.

Just for This Week.

A Solid Oak 5-drawer Chiffonier, brass handles, 12 of them, a bargain at - - $4.98

A Solid Oak Sideboard, large French bevel glass, full size, value $12, 6 of them at - $8.99

100 large full size Dining Chairs, open Cane Seat, the regular $1 value, this lot at - - 79c

Iron Beds, Mattresses, Pillows, Bolsters and Springs. Prices about ⅔ of what you usually pay.

New Furniture arriving every day. When in need of Furniture or Housefurnishings, visit Our Basement.

Mason's QUART JARS, 40c. Doz.
PINTS, 36c. Doz.

WOODHULL & MARTIN,
234-236-238 W. Front St.
Telephone No. 774.

PECK'S
Corset Store,
316 W. Front St.

SPECIAL.

A splendid line of Scotch Suits to order - $15.00
Reduced from $20.00
Trousers to order - - - - 5.00

SEBRING'S,
202 West Front St.

The Model Town . . .
LINCOLN
OFFERS
Rare Opportunities for Home Seekers and Investors.

In has Sewers, Trolley Line, City Water, Telephones, School, Postoffice, Macadam Road, Depots of Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

HOUSES AND LOTS SOLD ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

SILAS D. DRAKE, President and Manager.

MAKES HAIR GROW. A lady in Maine writes:—"I had a bald place on the side of my head for 20 years. Have used almost everything, but found nothing like

REYNOLD'S PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC.

I now have a soft, white down all over the place." It stimulates healthy action of the scalp, relieves from dandruff, prevents falling out of hair. No disagreeable odor. An elegant hair dressing. Made only by

T. S. ARMSTRONG, THE APOTHECARY.

2,000 Yards of Ribbon to be 17c a yard.

Beautiful ribbons moire taffetas in every color. Delicate shades, dainty combinations, plaids, checks, are here for 17c a yard; most of these ribbons ordinarily sell at 25c, a great many at 35c; displayed for easy selection in front part of the store.

Shirt Waists are Now 25c and 50c.

These are the clearing prices, not many here and a few days selling will clear the stock. Former prices 65c. to $1.00.

Silk Sale.

500 yards of figured silks at 42c. regular 65c value. 350 yards silk,s plaids, stripes, etc. at 69c, regular $1.00 value. 100 yards remnants of silk, at 20c. a yard.

Men's Negligee Shirts.

The men's furnishing dept. offers soft front negligee shirts, neat stripes, checks, plaids, white neck bands, some with detachable cuffs, some without cuffs, at 50c. This means your selection of shirts that have been 75c. to $1.00.

A Sale of Hosiery.

About 25 dozen ladies fine black hose, 16c. a pair, worth 25c. Nearly a hundred dozen ladies black hose to be 9c. a pair, regular 12½c. Children's fine ribbed hose at 10c. regularly sold at 15c.

I. LEDERER.

SENSATION IN SHOES!!

"OFF STYLES," BUT THE BEST OF STOCK.

They will go quick. 1 lot men's Calf Bals, Good Year welt, (all sizes) narrow toes, sold for $3 and $3.50, only 98c. 1 lot Burt & Packard's narrow widths, only broken sizes, were $5 and $6, only $1.48. 1 lot J. & M. patent leather button and lace odds and ends, were $5 and $6, only 98c. 1 lot odds and ends boy's and men's, sold from $2.50 to $4, your choice now 69c.

We are selling lots of TRUNKS, Dress Suit Cases and Hand Bags cheap. These are some samples of our great summer sale. Trunks from $1.98 up. BIGGEST BARGAINS IN TOWN.

Doane & Edsall.

THE WELSBACH BURNER.

THE GAS SAVER.

Three times the light, one half the gas.

Buy the genuine burner.

JOS. W. GAVETT,
301 West Front St.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 29.—A picnic, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, will be held Saturday at Chimney Rock. The stages will leave the church at 3 o'clock, and all who care to go are requested to notify Miss Dunham or Irving Martine, who have the picnic in charge. A pleasant time is anticipated.

Rev. W. S. Coeymans, of Lebanon, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday, morning and evening.

All the Merrells in this vicinity attended a reunion of the family at Packer Island, Saturday.

Herman Goeltz, of Hoboken, is spending a few days with his uncle, William J. Winges.

Miss Rosie Haynes, who has been visiting in New York State, has returned home.

Dr. Charles M. Luckey has opened a dental parlor on East Front street, in Plainfield.

The Misses Markley, of Newark, have been visiting friends in town.

Mrs. S. S. Vermeule is improving from her recent illness.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of the Daily Press.)

New Market, August 29—Mrs. Skillman, of Orange, is a guest at the Nelson House.

Several of the workmen who are working on the Washington avenue bridge are stopping at the Nelson House.

Miss Katherine Coriell has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Clarence White, of Red Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Barnes, of Rahway, are guests of Mrs. George Cahoone.

Mrs. L. Frazee, of Fordham, N. Y., is a guest at the Nelson House.

No services were held in the Baptist church last evening.

Fishing in the lake is reported good.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 29.—Scotch Plains turned out in full force Saturday afternoon to attend the long-talked-of five-mile bicycle race. When the race started at 5:30 o'clock there must have been nearly one thousand people stretched along the road. Some of the riders could not stand the pace and had to drop back, so that the race dwindled down to three men, Marsh, Alberts and Day. The scratch men rode a very fast race, Magnin beating Haskard by only a few yards, but Marsh covered the tape an easy winner in 14½ minutes. Alberts was second and Day third, and Magnin's time was said to be 13½ minutes, and is considered very fast, but had the 1½ men had only 1 minute handicaps there would have been some close finishes. The boys feel so encouraged from the support given the race that they intend running another in two weeks.

A large number of friends of the late Albert Darby, who was a former old resident of the villiage, attended his funeral in Plainfield yesterday afternoon. Dr. Parks officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, were the guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., Mrs. Grant's parents.

Charles Ball, of Cumberland, Md., who has been visiting his parents for several weeks, returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hazel, of Elizabeth, spent Sunday with Mrs. Hazel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Frentz.

George Dunn and Edward Johnston spent Saturday fishing over at the Passaic river for bass.

Mr. and Mrs. August Hoppell, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with Mrs. Hoppell's mother.

Mr. Virtue, of Newark, spent Sunday with his family at Mrs. Hosingers.

Louis Brown, of Plainfield, visited friends in town Sunday.

John Haskard, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his mother.

PEOPLE COME AND GO.

PERSONAL MENTION OF INTEREST TO PRESS READERS.

Some Come to Enjoy Pleasures of Plainfield, Others Journey to Either Mountain or Shore for Recreation.

Walter Dreier, of West Front street, is enjoying his vacation.

Arthur Heath, of Central avenue, spent Sunday at Asbury Park.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park avenue Baptist church, will occupy his pulpit next Sunday.

Miss Katie Garvey has returned to New York after spending a week with her friend, Miss Fannie Kelly, of Seventh street.

Miss Laura L Runyon, who graduated from the Chicago University this summer, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Calvin Runyon, of Arlington avenue.

Mrs. F. W. Runyon, of Madison avenue, and Mrs. George Odiorne, of West Fifth street, have returned from Lebanon, where they have been spending the summer.

The Misses Sadie and Anna Searing, of Madison avenue, started yesterday on a vacation of two weeks which they will spend with friends and relatives at Westfield, Elizabeth and Brooklyn.

Rev. Dr. Applegarth, of Cleveland, O., who preached fine sermons morning and evening in the First Baptist church yesterday, was a guest at the home of Rev. Dr. Yerkes, of West Seventh street. A large number of persons drove up from New Brunswick to hear Dr. Applegarth's morning sermon, as his former pastorate was in New Brunswick.

THE LATE A. B. DARBY.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

the casket. With the pronouncing of the benediction by Dr. Parks, the services were over.

The floral offering were beautiful, and an extra carriage was required to bear them to the grave. A large pillow of yellow roses was sent by Jerusalem Lodge, and there were broken columns, a harp, wreaths and handsome bouquets sent by the members of Mr. Darby's firm, his relatives and others.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 29.—There have been many changes made to the schools by the Board of Education this year, among which are the procuring of a complete chemical laboratory for the Lincoln school. It contains the full set of apparatus and the necessary chemicals for the thorough study of chemistry. Another improvement worth mentioning is the new reference library, which contains such books as "Epochs of Ancient and Modern History," 29 volumes; "American Commonwealths," 14 volumes; "American Statesmen," 28 volumes; dictionaries of Greek and Roman antiquities, of English literature and of biography, altogether 80 volumes of reference matter. The Board has also purchased a number of paintings to be hung in the different rooms at the schools. A room has been secured on Summit avenue for the opening of a new kindergarten, and this will be presided over by a teacher who comes well recommended.

The Westfield baseball team met and defeated the team from the Clinton Field Club, of Jersey City, on the home grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 13 to 7. The game was not very well attended and Manager Downes has decided to cancell the game next Saturday but he will try and play the one with the O. N. T. team, of Newark, scheduled for the morning of Labor Day.

The reason that the recently passed bicycle ordinance is not enforced is because the Township Committee failed to provide for the paying of costs of an arrest. As it is now if a constable arrests a man and the prisoner is sent to Elizabeth the constable making the arrest would have to take him to the county jail at his own expense.

The Press is delivered by carrier to any part of Westfield for 10 cents a week. All orders left at Harry Hill's barber shop on Broad street will receive prompt attention.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholsale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

Miss Bessie Polk has gone to Poughkeepsie on a visit.

Miss Kittie Glen, of Craig place, has returned from her outing.

Roundsman John Flynn is on duty again after a short illness.

Bert Loomis, of Michigan, is visiting his mother on Craig place.

The Misses DuBois, of Park avenue, spent Sunday at Whitehouse.

Arthur Heath, of Central avenue, is spending a few days at Asbury Park.

Dr. J. T. Fritts, of Park avenue, was a visitor at Whitehouse Saturday.

Miss Viola Huff, of Somerset street, is spending her vacation at Blackwell's Mills.

Siegfried Arens, of Park avenue, left Saturday on a business trip to Toledo, O.

Miss Carrie Totten, of Newark, is visiting Miss L. Connett, of 203 Watchung avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell spent Sunday with friends and relatives at Liberty Corner.

Frank Hedden, of Central avenue, has returned from his vacation spent at Toms River.

Willard M. Miner, of East Sixth street, spent Sunday with his family at Brewster, N. Y.

Patrolman Thomas McCue was back to duty again Saturday after enjoying his vacation.

Richard Waring, of Park avenue, has returned after several weeks spent at Garden City, L. I.

George Craig, formerly of this city, has returned from Dallas, Texas, for a short visit in Plainfield.

Harry Jenkins, of Bethlehem, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Newton Jenkins, of East Sixth street.

Mrs. James Taylor and children, of West Seventh street, left today for Asbury Park for a short outing.

Mrs. Thomas Hale and Miss Steinhauser, of Jersey City, are the guests of Miss Verdon, of Somerset street.

David S. Sisk, engineer at Scott's, leaves today for a week's vacation. He will be accompanied by his wife.

Willie, the youngest son of P. A. Emmons, of Jackson avenue, is improving from an attack of appendicitis.

Former Mayor John H. Van Winkle and family, of Duer street, have returned after a sojourn at Asbury Park.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray and family, of Sandford avenue, are sojourning at Asbury Park for a week.

Miss Ella Gardner, of Arlington avenue, has returned from Asbury Park, where she has been spending two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Gohrster, of New York, have been spending a few days with Mrs. P. Powers, of 656 West Fourth street.

Miss Helen Savage, of Rahway, who has been the guest of Miss Leila Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, has returned home.

Ralph K. Miner, of East Sixth street, is now stopping at Pittsburg, Pa., on business for the American Engine Company.

Mrs. Joseph Kepler and daughter Mabel, of Hartford, Conn., are the guests of Judson Kepler and family, of Manning avenue.

Miss Grace Herman, of South Orange, returned home this morning after visiting Miss Leila Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue.

Nicholas Jansen, one of the genial clerks in Findlay's on East Second street, spent Sunday taking in the sights at Coney Island.

Robert and Herbert Schreiner, of West Sixth street, left two days ago for Cape May, where they will spend their two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Searing and daughter Ethel, of New street, returned Saturday after spending a pleasant week in the country.

William J. R. Thiers, of Watchung avenue, is preparing to build on the lot at the corner of Watchung avenue and Pine street, opposite his present residence.

Dr. Augustus Wadsworth, son of Chas. D. Wadsworth, of the New York Stock Exchange, and house surgeon at St. Luke's Hospital, is ill with typhoid fever.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Miss Maud Honeyman and E. Maxwell Honeyman, of Grove street, have returned from their vacation spent near Shelter Island.

Mrs. Loomis and her daughter, Miss Flossie Loomis, of Bethlehem, Pa., formerly of Rockview avenue, are stopping at Prospect place, North Plainfield. Their many friends will regret to learn that Miss Loomis is ill with typhoid fever.

Army of The Potomac.

Niagara Falls, August 29th, September 2nd. Reduced rates via Lehigh Valley. c-8 25 p 29-30

IT'S THE KODAK —one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,
147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m..
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the city clerk by Aug. 31st.

—The regular meeting of Queen City Lodge, I. O. O F., will be held this evening.

—A meeting of the board of governors of the Muhlenberg Hospital will be held this evening.

—Neuman Brothers will have 150 baskets of choice yellow and white canning peaches tomorrow. Prices to suit everybody.

—The handsome flat building of A. E. Lincoln, on West Fourth street, is nearly completed and will shortly be ready for occupancy.

—The Welsbach burner seems to still find a ready market. Gavett has just put in a new lot and is putting them out all the time.

—The first picnic of the Plainfield Outing Club will be held at Mountainside Grove Thursday evening. Music will be by Prof. O'Reilly.

—This is the week for canning. Neuman Brothers will have 150 baskets of fine yellow and white peaches tomorrow. The prices will be low.

—Rev. T. F. Chambers will address the 4:15 o'clock meeting at the Y. M. C. A., Sept. 4th. There will be cornet and vocal solos, fans and lemonade.

—Special music will be rendered at the Christian Endeavor meeting in Trinity Reformed church this evening. Miss Messerschimdt will lead.

—Consecration meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church tonight at 8 o'clock. Visitors are always welcome.

—The monthly business meeting of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps will be held tomorrow evening in the corps rooms on West Second street.

—The attention of the Board of Health is called to the vcant lot at the corner of New and West Third streets which is being turned into a dumping ground for the refuse from houses of people in that neighborhood.

—Now is coming the time of year when coughs and colds rage. If you have a cold try a bottle of Powers' emulsion of cod liver oil. It can be purchased at J. Powers' pharmacy, corner of Somerset street and Craig place.

—The Royal Santiago Circle, Mothers of American Protectors, will hold their prayer and praise service this evening, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Marsh, Plainfield avenue, near Fourth street. Subject, "Blessedness of God's Service," Psalms 94: 11-12. The meeting will be led by D. B. Bowden. All friends are cordially invited.

Miss Mattie Merrill, of Westervelt avenue, and Miss Sadie Randolph, of West Eighth street, are home from Asbury Park.

Don't let your Grocer give you

Inferior Extracts;

Insist Upon Having That Put Up By

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's City Pharmacy.

143 WEST FRONT STREET, Business Established 1865.

Your Scalp may be kept free from itching and unsightly dandruff. The roots of your hair nourished by the use of RANDOLPH'S QUININE AND GLYCERINE HAIR TONIC. Ladies especially will appreciate its use in this summer weather. Delightfully perfumed, only 50 cents per bottle.

The handsomest Soda Fountain in the World is at our store. The Soda Water, famous for its Purity and delicious Fruit Flavors. When shopping have your meets at The Fountain.

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE, AGENTS.
144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N.J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,
UNDERTAKERS,
No. 402 Park Ave. Tel. 40.
Office open night and day.
OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,
UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,
200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.
OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,
UNDERTAKER.
Residence and office 59 Somerset St.
TELEPHONE 248 B.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

FOR SALE—Closed carriage, pony phæton and sleigh; all in good condition; a bargain. Call or address No. 148 East Fifth street. 8 29 2

WANTED—Competent white girl for chamber work and waiting. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street. 8 29 2

WANTED—Competent plain cook and laundress; white. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street. 8 29 2

$10.00 Will buy ladies' Crescent wheel, perfect condition. Call tonight, 314 East Fifth street.

GIRL wants place as waitress and chambermaid. Call at 80 Myrtle avenue. 8 29 2

LOST—Pocketbook, Saturday, on Fourth street, between Plainfield and Dunellen. Finder may keep money returning pocketbook to L. W. Randolph.

WANTED—White coachman and gardener, with good reference. 830 Central avenue. 8 29 2

FLAT and offices to let, in Babcock Block. 8 22 tf eod

FOR SALE—Cheap, freight elevator, almost new, can be seen at Woodhull & Martin's. 8 22 tf eod

TO LET—Large room, fourth floor, Babcock Block, suitable for Lodge room. 8 22 tf eod

FOR SALE—6 Pekin ducks, of Rankin strain. Address P. O. Box 655. 8 27 2

FOR SALE—Set double farm harness, one farm wagon; Adriane's mowing machine, hay rake, plough, harrow, hay rigging. Robert Clark Jr., Washingtonville. 8 25 6

$1,300 Wanted on Bound Brook property 5 per cent, taxes, insurance $2,300, very prompt pay. Chas. J. McNabb, Attorney, Plainfield. 8 24 6

TO RENT—Furnished rooms, with all improvements. 323 East Second street. 8 23 1w

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

FLAT all light rooms, also hall to let. Enquire Manning's City Marble Works. 8 26 tf

TO LET—Poultry and grain farm, with all conviences for poultry business. Large brooder and chicken houses, with yards. Will sell one to four incubators. 12 room dwelling house, newly painted and papered, suitable for boarders, with between fifty and sixty acres land; with or without 8 acres corn, 5 of potatoes, 1 of tomatoes, and 2 sweet corn, also variety garden truck. Possession at once. Address P. F., care of Press. 8 27 2

TO RENT—Rooms furnished or unfurnished. 50 Lincoln place, North Plainfield. 8 27 2

FOR SALE—Roan pony, cart and harness. Apply 525 Belvidere avenue. 8 27 3

FOR SALE—Large roan carriage horse. Apply 525 Belvidere avenue. 8 27 3

LOST—Gold watch with pin attached; name on case. Reward if returned to this office.

WOMAN wants situation as infant's nurse and plain sewing. Call 158 Manning avenue.

WANTED—An owner for a gold watch. Apply to Chief of Police Grant. 8 29 2

Of Course Your Going! We Are!

EXCURSION TO BOYNTON BEACH

(Jersey's noted place)

LABOR DAY,

Sept. 5, 1898. Look at the price only—50c., children 40c. 8 27 9

SUMMER RESORTS.

THE MANHASSET SEA SIDE PARK, N. J. Newly equipped. Electric light, artesian well water, perfect sanitation. Superb sailing fishing and bathing. Absolute immunity from hay fever. Write for booklet.
6 4 3m-m-th-s M. E. WISTAR.

Delaware Water Gap.

Mount Minsi House & Cottages.

At Delaware Water Gap, Pa.
Coolest spot in the Gap. Beautiful scenery, boating, bathing, fishing, cycling. Excellent table. Finest spring water. Good R. R. facilities. $7.00 to $10.00. Special rates to parties. Booklet.
MOUNT MINSI HOUSE,
8 27 6 Slateford, Pa.

The Only Place to buy Huyler's is Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

PALMISTRY. Consult Prof. Brown, the scientific Palmist. He reveals your whole life, tells everything true. Can be consulted private on all affairs, business, love or marriage. Satisfaction guaranteed. Price 50c. Hours from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. 612 West Third street.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

Tuesday Night, August 30, 1898.

Second Annual Tour of

COLE AND JOHNSON

"The Clever Coons" - Dramatic Mirror.

And The Big Colored Beauty Show.

Presenting

"A TRIP TO COONTOWN,"

Interpreted by a Star Cast.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

Box Office open Daily for sale of Reserved Seats.

3 NIGHTS. Commencing

THURSDAY, SEPT. 1, 1898.

The pretty and popular Soubrette,

Miss Katherine Rober,

Supported by the

LILLIAN KENNEDY CO.

in three great scenic productions.

The Great Military Comedy Drama.

"SPAIN'S SURRENDER,"

Annie Pixley's Great Farce Comedy,

"THE DEACON'S DAUGHTER"

and the Great Sensational Comedy Drama.

"SHE COULDN'T MARRY THREE."

PRICES 10-20-30c.

MATINEE SATURDAY—Prices 10 and 20c.

Reserved Seat Tickets now ready.

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

Bargains

In shirt waists, quality and low prices are essential to bargains of any kind. We don't think you ever bought such shirt waists at such prices as we name on this large lot, over two thousand, all 1898 styles and made to sell for one dollar. Our price 49c.

A Glove Bargain!

We place on sale today twelve hundred pairs of importers' sample kid gloves from the best makers in the world. Included in the lot are the celebrated Reynier glove, all sizes and shades, 79c. pair.

White

Domet flannel, it means a saving of forty per cent. to buy now, we place on sale two cases of a fine quality 4c. the yard.

A Towel

Tumble, many thrifty people replenish the towel stock just on the edge of the Fall season, such people will find these towel bargains very much to their liking,

Full size all linen huck.....10c
Extra large bath towels.....13c
Extra heavy huck towels.....19c
Turkish wash cloths, each.....2c
All linen brown crash, yard.....6c

All at the Bargain Centre.

New Fall

Outing flannels, the regular 10 cent quality, we place on sale a case of beautiful designs, at 7½c. yard.

A Brush Sale

At half regular prices. Solid back all bristle hair brushes, 29c., a 50c. brush. Solid back toilet hand brushes, 15c. each, value 25c. Fine tooth brushes 10c. each.

Belts!

We will close the balance of our stock of fine leather belts, 19c. each.

For Men's Use!

Our men folks will be on the alert to take advantage of these timely offerings.

Unlaundered white shirts 50c. article, 39c. Men's fine Madras shirts, 49c. Four-in-hand all silk ties, reversible, 25c. each. Fine black half hose, 10c. pair. A 25c. suspender, 15c. pair.

Store Specials.

Fresh arrivals and marked at quick step prices.

White and grey cotton blankets, 38c. pair.
A good umbrella,.....39c each
Side combs, 7c pair,.....value 12c
A lot of pretty embroideries, 5c yard.
Boy's cambric shirt waists.....15c
10-4 all wool blankets.....$2.40 pair.
6-4 Fancy linen table covers.....49c
6-4 Fancy table covers.....39c
36 inch Butchers linen.....15c
Full size Counterpanes, a dollar quilt, 69c.
Ten quarter, all linen, figured table covers with one dozen napkins, $2.10 set.
Portierre curtains.....98c each
6-4 Scotch mixture for skirting, 39c yard.
36 inch Denim.....10c yard
50 inch Furniture covering..23c yard
Ladies fine lisle hose, 50c quality, 29c pair.

Edward White.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

What a blessing it would be to mankind in general if a greater proportion of the gentler sex understood the art of artistic dressing or had the gift of seeing themselves as others see them. That all femininity is not lacking in this respect is proved by the number of immaculately gowned, well groomed women who daily cross our paths. But the generality of the sex follows blindly in each other's footsteps, utterly regardless of the fact that the prevailing fashion is not suited to their face or figure.

Rare indeed is the woman to whom every style and color is becoming, and for that very reason, individuality should be studied until the art of proper dressing is brought down to a science and the charming personality of the wearer shines forth in the gown or hat which not only suits her personal style but also shows a lack of mimicry which is a soothing sight to all beholders.

The transgressions in this respect are especially noticeable this summer when skirts ruched, flounced, tucked, ruffled and with overskirt effects, are worn by everybody, the tall, the short, the thin and the stout.

Gowns designed solely for the tall, slim maiden, which tend to add plumpness to her figure and reduce her height, are adopted by her short dumpy sister, with, as one may suppose decidedly ludicrous results. Bayadere striped effects should be avoided by short women together with overskirts, flounces and ruffles. Panels introduced on either side of the front of a skirt is a becoming trimming and also adds a little to the appearance of height.

But the short woman is not by any means the only offender, for many tall, angular females cling with stubborn tenacity to perpendicular stripes of every description, to bodices made on long lines and stiff plastron effects. There is less excuse for this latter type for she has many becoming styles to select from this summer.

In hats and bonnets this mad rush after extraordinary combinations of colors and startling effects is everywhere apparent. The French have a knack for making these daring creations which if attempted by the amateur or ordinary milliner will undoubtedly result in a dowdy or vulgarly flashy head covering. For the woman with a slender purse who may only possess one or two new hats every five or six months, black is the most reliable and the only color which should be purchased. With a hat of this color in a becoming, not too conspicuous shape, one is prepared for any emergency, and appears well dressed at all times. A novel idea this summer and one which appears quite practical is to have the hat trimmed entirely in black, and to have on hand a number of combs adorned with different flowers to place beneath the hat in the back. These combs are now sold in some millinery shops all ready for use and bid fair to prove decidedly popular, inasmuch as one may have three or four changes with one hat.

There are certainly some delightful toilets seen this season at the swell summer resorts. For instance, a decidedly French and exceedingly pretty costume donned by a fair maid for an afternoon stroll at one of the fashionable watering places is made in the following manner: The material is cream colored pineapple fibre, mounted over rose colored taffeta. The skirt is cut with a deep fitted flounce, trimmed with fine lace appliqued on in a bow knot pattern, which, by the way is one of the daintiest and most novel modes of ornamentation this summer, and certainly a very attractive one.

The waist is a simple blouse, fastening under the arm and cut square in the neck, forming a point directly in the centre. This is edged with three tiny ruches of white mousselaine de soie, while the finely tucked yoke and collar are of rose colored taffeta. The bow knot pattern in lace is also carried out on the bodice. The sleeves are long with the pineapple fibre slightly shirred over the taffeta undersleeves.

Scientific Tid Bits.

A person walking at the rate of four miles an hour consumes 2,300 cubic inches of air per minute.

A process has been recently perfected by which thin sheets of absolutely transparent celluloid are silvered by a similar process to that formerly used on glass.

The beautiful colors seen in the soap bubble arise from the fact that the bubble, being very thin, reflects light from both the outer and inner surfaces of the film.

A burglar-proof glass has been invented by a smart manufacturer. It is made by pouring molten glass over a network of steel wire. It is specially adapted for skylights and jewellers' windows.

General Vennkoff, a Russian, has discovered a magnetic pole of the earth, or something like it, at Kotchetowka, in the government of Koursk. The magnetic needle freely suspended becomes vertical there; but at 60ft. from the centre it inclines 1 deg. from the vertical. Perhaps the phenomenon is due to magnetic ore beneath the surface of the ground.

The Persians in 516 B. C. invented a transparent glass varnish, which they laid over sculptured rocks to prevent them from weathering. This coating has lasted to our day, while the rocks beneath are honey-combed.

"Hunger stones" have been seen in the Rhine this winter. They appear only when the water is very low, and the date of their appearance is then cut into them. They are believed to forbode a year of bad crops.

In Summer Array.

Dame Fashion has sunk into her usual midsummer lethargy. Stagnapresses this condition of affairs and the causes are manifold. In the first place the fashionable woman has laid in a store of gowns of every description necessary for a summer campaign at mountain or seaside, and in the second place the swell courturieres are busily planning and concocting novel and original designs to startle the eyes of the fall shoppers.

Still the large establishments show many toilets and dainty accessories to the toilet, which, if not new, are certainly worthy of mention. The summer months have brought forth a bewildering array of gowns, hats and parasols, which are glorious in their rich colorings and convey the impression when a bevy of summer girls are gathered together of a large garden of gayly colored flowers. Very few severe gowns are seen, and when they are they are made conspicuous by their very simplicity.

Flounces for Skirts.

Flounces put on straight all around are equally as fashionable as those arranged to curve upwards as they are carried towards the back of the skirt. The latter style is less familiar and on many forms more graceful. On a great number of the gowns for general wear this season the gored skirt with one deep Spanish flounce is extremely popular. The gored breadths may reach under the flounce, or may end where the top of the flounce begins. This style is much used for light silks, for sheer wools, and every sort of wash material, and trimmings are employed which best harmonize with the sort of fabric selected. Ruches, folds and rows of narrow velvet ribbon are used for silk, and shirring and tucking in various widths for light wools.

A Good Idea.

A woman who is the owner of a rarely handsome mahogany table finds it at once her pride and her despair to keep it up to the high standard of condition which she insists upon achieving. It was her suggestion recently that she intended to make inquiries of her cabinet maker to see if it were not possible to have a glass top fitted over it as is done on trays. It would be easy, as she explains, to keep the glass polished and flawless, and through its transparency the beauty of the table would be apparent, while perfectly protected. Some other housekeeper may like to similarly pursue the suggestion, although its possibility is uncertain.

When Planting a Fernery.

Some one suggests that to watch auction sales for a store show case is a good idea when planting a fernery. A wooden frame may be painted a dark green, and the glass box is just what is needed for the warm, moist air on which ferns, mosses and certain other plants of this nature thrive.

Bonnet Bags.

In travelling, and particularly for summer journeys, when dust is most plentiful bonnet-bags will be found very useful. Even on short journeys to keep a hat protected from cinders and dust for a few hours adds much to its appearance upon arrival. For a long overland journey such are almost indispensable. Some women buy very large-sized sponge bags, their rubber linings having special excellence. For very large hats, however, it is impossible to get one of sufficient size, and a bag of any closely woven fabric is equally useful. Occasionally careful wives provide these coverings for their husband's hats as well, though this seems almost unnecessary, as men's head coverings can be readily rid of dust. A traveller was seen recently slipping the jacket of her travelling suit into a long, light bag provided for the purpose, which when drawn together at its mouth by the shirr string and hung in a sleeping car section, kept the jacket as perfectly as if it were lying at home on a closet shelf. This same woman had ove her expensive seal and gold mounted hand bag a handsome cover of black cloth. It fitted neatly with flaps conveniently arranged for the opening of the bag. When the latter was closed, the cover strapped down so as to cover it completely with the exception of the handle. A large monogram was embroidered on the side of the cover in gold floss.

Red Tape in Russia.

Every time a Russian Minister leaves town his colleagues are notified of the journey, besides the Council of the Empire, the Cabinet of the Emperor, the Empire's Controleur and Secretary, the Sacred Synod, the Emperor's Military Secretary, the Empress, the Governors of Moscow, Varsovie, Kieff, etc., and infinitum, to all appearance. When he returns the same minute notification performance is gone through. So each Ministerial departure from and return to St. Petersburg involves an issue of some 200 notices. There are eighteen Ministers, and taking three journeys as the average for each, we have at the end of the year a grand total of some 10,800 official papers.

The Trimmed Skirt.

The trimmed skirt appears to advance more rapidly and more generally in favor than the draped or overskirted styles. There are more overskirt effects, simulated by various modes of adjusting frills, pipings, flounces, ruches, and other fashionable garnitures, than there are genuine double skirts. Panels of silk or of another fabric introduced on either side of the front of a skirt or princesse dress make a very effective and becoming trimming for short women, a far better arrangement than any frill or flounce going round and round the skirt, as the panels at each side add not a little to the appearance of height.

In Dotted Swiss.

Dotted swisses and sprigged muslins are extremely popular this summer. In the latter material a charming gown had a white ground, on which were scattered tiny pink rose buds with here and there a knot of pale blue ribbon tying them.

A dainty dotted swiss has the corsage arranged to wear with a jabot or front of different material. The material is laid in tiny tucks from the shoulder down to about five inches, and is gathered snugly in at the waist line. The jabot, of fine white muslin, is bordered with ruches of dainty lace. A crush collar of white taffeta encircles the neck.

New Cloths for Outdoor Costumes.

The newest vicuna cloths for travelling, yachting, and cycling are wide diagonals of very fine, soft wool, roughly woven, in a single color such as gray, blue, or fawn, and notably in navy blue, or else in two shades of a color. More novel than these are the pretty diagonals in contrasting colors, green with brown or violet, gray with rose or silver, blue with white or almond. Raised silk cords form stripes on black or dark brown on sheer lightweight wools of delicate summer coloring.

Lovely Summer Gowns.

Laces and embroideries, in white and colors, are prodigally used in the making up of "wash" gowns for next season, the majority of which, however, are not intended to ever pass through the crucible of the laundry. They are many new and very attractive styles in batiste, India mull, nainsook, and bishop's lawn embroideries, while the Irish point and guipure patterns have lost none of their popularity.

Blue Peppermints.

To the pink, green, chocolate, and white cream peppermints is now added a bright-blue variety. The shade is as striking as the fashionable blue of ribbons and silk, and is obtained by the use of a harmless vegetable coloring. The fashionable cream peppermint lozenge is very large, at present being about the size of a silver dollar.

A Lemon Bath.

In the West Indies a lemon bath is almost a daily luxury. Three or four limes or lemons are sliced into the water and allowed to lie for half an hour, in order that the juice may be extracted. A remarkable sense of freshness and cleanliness is given to the skin.

A New Silk Waist.

A silk waist that can be compressed into very small compass, taking up about the space of a baseball, and which emerges unrumpled and in excellent condition, is one of the novelties of the season that is specially useful to travellers.

A TRUSTED MESSENGER.

Employed by the Government for Twenty-Seven Years.

"One of the most interesting characters in the government service," said an official of the State Department, "is Eddie Savoy, the colored messenger of the Assistant Secretary of State. He has been employed in that department for the past twenty-seven years, and is thoroughly imbued with all its customs and traditions. A perfect diplomat in his way, he never sees anything he should not see nor knows anything it is not intended he should know. At least, that is how he impresses the people who do business with him—his superiors, as well as those desiring to communicate with them. His position is a strictly confidential one, and frequently puts him in possession of highly important state secrets, the premature disclosure of which, in several recent instances, would have seriously embarrassed the government. But never since he first entered the foreign office, back in the administration of Secretary Fish, when the State Department was located in the building at the corner of Fourteenth and S streets, now used as an orphan asylum, has he been known to betray a trust or to tell anything whatever about the affairs of the State Department that he was not personally authorized to tell. I am reminded of this by the important part he played in the events attending the recall of Sackville West, the British Minister, during Cleveland's first administration, as well as those in the more recent case of Senor Polo, the Spanish Minister. He acted as the trusted messenger between the Secretary of State and the foreign minister in both cases. Secretary Bayard selected him to personally hand Mr. Sackville West his passports, and Secretary Day confided to him the important duty of handing to Senor Polo, first, President McKinley's ultimatum to the Spanish Government for the evacuation of Cuba, and next the official papers insuring him safe conduct out of the territory of the United States. 'Eddie,' as he is familiarly called, was fully impressed with the importance of these missions, and adopted a simple but shrewd method to satisfy the head of the department of their successful execution. When he handed Minister West the package containing his passports he asked him as a favor to show that they had been properly delivered that he write his autograph on the official envelope and give it to him. Mr. West did as requested, and Eddie took the envelope with its autographic indorsement and broken seal back to the department and showed it to Mr. Bayard. He followed exactly the same course with equal success in delivering the ultimatum to Minister Polo. The two envelopes are now 'Eddie's' private property, having been presented to him by Secretaries Bayard and Day, and are treasured by him as relics of important events in the diplomatic history of the United States."—Washington Star.

AUTOMATIC WOOL DRYER.

Accomplishes the Work Without Leaving Any Harshness.

One of the drawbacks of rapid wool drying is the necessity of maintaining a low temperature to avoid harshness in the fiber. Harshness is due to two causes, the existence of a high temperature while the dry stock is being manipulated, and the lack of air circulation. The result of these conditions is that the stock becomes what is known in the wool trade as "baked." A high temperature on a wet fiber will not render it harsh. Ordinary wool dryers maintain either a uniformly low temperature throughout the drying, and thus avoid harshness at a sacrifice of capacity, or they secure capacity by maintaining a uniformly high temperature, but produce harshness. In a new automatic wool dryer both these difficulties have been overcome, the stock being subjected to a high temperature, say 180 degrees, at the wet end, and then carried on into successive compartments of gradually reduced heat to about 110 degrees at the finish. The drying is accomplished by circulating heated air alternately through the stock and steam coils placed in a compartment at the side of the machine. A constant supply of air saturated to grade is maintained at the top of the machine, and each chamber receives its specially heated supply of fresh air. This grading of heat in the successive chambers produces a soft fiber, free from harshness when dry. In fact, the wool has the advantage of being subjected at every stage of the process to a scientifically adjusted combination of heat and moisture. The machine is built in sizes ranging from 2,000 pounds to 12,000 pounds' daily capacity.—St. Louis Democrat.

Etiquette of Golf.

Here are some things which you will do well to remember when you go on to the golf links, either as a player or as an onlooker: Standing so that a shadow falls upon your partner's ball is not only impolite, but detrimental to the success of his "drive." Standing on the putting green after you have "holed out," whether it is to gaze at the scenery or write down your score, will exasperate your best frind on earth if he or she happens to be playing behind you. To play first and to shout "Fore!" afterward is apt to add insult to actual injury. "Fore" is called as a warning that a "drive" is about to be made. It is not an expression of consolation after one has been hit. If you choose as a partner a woman who keeps you back by slow play, don't quarrel with her on this account. Abide by your choice and do what you can to help her enjoy the game.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Speyer. Der Betrag des ortsüblichen Tagelohnes gewöhnlicher Tagearbeiter für erwachsene (über 16 Jahre alte) männliche Personen wurde mit Wirkung vom 1. April 1899 ab für den Bezirk der Stadt Ludwigshafen auf 2 Mark 40 Pfennige und für den Bezirk der Stadt Oggersheim auf 2 Mark 30 Pfennige festgesetzt.

Germersheim. Der bei Metz stattfindenden Gefechtsübung mit schwerer Artillerie werden vom hiesigen Fußartilleriebataillon Oberst-Lieutenant Pfülf sowie die Hauptleute Randebrock und Hüther beiwohnen. Hauptmann und Kompagniechef Simmerer wird für diese Zeit die dienstlichen Geschäfte des hiesigen Fußartilleriebataillons übernehmen.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Unter sehr großer Betheiligung wurde das von zahlreichen Verehrern dem Dichter der „Palmblätter", Karl Gerok, errichtete Denkmal eingeweiht. Das Denkmal, ein Werk des Professors Donndorf, ist auf's Beste gelungen. Nach der vom Konsistorialpräsidenten v. Gemmlingen gehaltenen Gedächtnißrede übernahm Oberbaurath Bauer das Denkmal in den Schutz der Bau- und Gartendirektion. Stadtpfarrer Gerok, ein Sohn des gefeierten Dichters, sprach Namens der Familie seinen Dank aus. Eine Nachfeier in der Liederhalle beendigte die Festlichkeiten.

Eßlingen. Die bürgerlichen Kollegien werden sich demnächst mit dem Plane einer Kanalisation der Stadt zu befassen haben. Ueber die Wichtigkeit einer systematischen Entwässerung, mit welcher es hier bis jetzt nicht besonders gut bestellt ist, dürfte keine Meinungsverschiedenheit herrschen; schwieriger aber gestaltete sich die Frage durch die bedeutenden Kosten, welche für das Kanalnetz auf etwa 2,000,000 Mark veranschlagt werden.

Rottweil. In der Wohnhas'schen Dampfbäckerei in Ebingen wurde der Tagelöhner Lindner von dort todt aufgefunden; demselben war gekündigt worden, und er hat seinen Aeußerungen zufolge beabsichtigt, dem Wohnhas einen Streich zu spielen. Damit man anderen Tags nicht arbeiten könne, öffnete er den Dampfhahn; der ausströmende Dampf verbrühte aber den Lindner derart, daß er den erhaltenen Brandwunden erlag.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Das fürstlich Löwenstein'sche Haus in der Lintenheimer Straße, welches in den Besitz der Familie von Grünau übergegangen war, ist für 200,000 Mark von der Großherzoglichen Civilliste erworben worden und Präsident Nicolai wird am 1. Oktober d. J. Dienstwohnung daselbst beziehen.

Baden-Baden. In der Nähe der Villa Hohenstein hat sich der Eisenbahnbeamte Jakob Manpel, welcher in Oos stationirt ist, zwei Revolverschüsse durch den Kopf gejagt. Die Verletzungen sollen lebensgefährlich sein. Als Motiv der That werden unglückliche Liebesverhältnisse angegeben.

Herbolzheim. Eine Schreckenskunde ist der Bahnmeisterfamilie Sommer zugegangen. Von New York wurde ihr von einer Verwandten brieflich mitgetheilt, daß ihre 15 Jahre alte Tochter Therese sich am 2. Juli auf der „Bourgogne" eingeschifft hatte, um in ihre Heimath zurückzukehren. Am verflossenen Palmsonntag wurde sie in New York konfirmirt. Ihre Heimath sollte sie mit so vielen Anderen nicht wieder sehen!

Rastatt. In der Zeit vom 24. bis 26. September d. J. wird der landwirthschaftliche Bezirksverein in Rastatt eine reichhaltige landwirthschaftliche Gauausstellung daselbst abhalten, zu welcher der Kreisausschuß einen Zuschuß von 500 Mark zugesagt hat.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Metz. Der beim Zollamte am Bahnhof beschäftigte Grenzaufseher Eckert wurde, als er das Geleise überschreiten wollte, von einer Lokomotive erfaßt und gräßlich verstümmelt. Der Getödtete war ein alter, verdienter Beamte.—In der Sitzung des evangelischen Konsistoriums für Lothringen wurde auch über den bekannten Fall der Alberschweiler Frohnleichnams-Prozession verhandelt. Zunächst wurde festgestellt, daß in den letzten Jahren, den gesetzlichen Bestimmungen entgegen, auch in Ortschaften mit konfessionell gemischter Bevölkerung solche Prozessionen aufgeführt, und daß dabei häufig die unmittelbare Nähe der evangelischen Kirchen, Schulen, Pfarrhäuser u. s. w. demonstrativ zur Anlage von Altären und Stationen benutzt wurde. Ferner wurde hervorgehoben, daß in dieser Beziehung erhobene Beschwerden, ja selbst amtliche Strafanzeigen—wie in dem Alberschweiler Prozesse durch den Ortsgendarmen — bei den Verwaltungsbehörden selten Erfolg haben. Es wurde nun vom Konsistorium beschlossen, das Bezirkspräsidium um den Erlaß einer Polizeiverordnung anzugehen, in der die Parität der einzelnen Ortschaften festgestellt und die Achtung derselben in Bezug auf öffentliche religiöse Umzüge auf Grund der bestehenden Gesetze eingeschärft werde.

—Use Press want ads for returns.

(B) AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED

Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

3 big buildings

—crowded with price-cut goods—

Realize how immense this stock of ours is? Stores run from Market to Campbell—from Campbell to Bank Sts—no limits to your choice—no such amazing price-drops ever listed—even in August! But Fall's lines, soon here, need more floor space than we've got.

All Chairs at bare cost

—don't need to tell you of the name we have for great, varied chair stocks.

12 different sets—no duplicates—dining chairs at half former costs.

50 reed, rattan and wicker rockers —$1.25, $2.50, $3.00.

100 sorts of odd rockers and chairs —palin woods and richly upholstered reds, greens, oak, antiques—$2.50, $3.00, $4,00 and $5.00. All porch and lawn furniture that's left below wholesale.

Cream of City's Carpet Snaps

—this week we'll take the stiffening out of every solitary carpet in this store—many of Fall's weaves have already come—they'll be included.

60c. Very Heavy Ingrains, 39c. yd. Body Brussels, 90c. 85c. All-Wool Ingrains, 65c. yd. Moquettes, 90c. 20 rolls Velvets and Tap Brussels at half. Remnants of choicest patterns—must go—bring room measures with you. Mattings 10c. yd. and up.

"Monarch" 2-hole high, $4.90 —all others that are left to go at same low rates. "Monarch" Vapor Stoves are the best from A to Z—ask to see the "Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove"—another marvel

$10.75—beveled mirror, rich polished oak, new shape—a $15 sideboard.

Other Sideboards: We put $18 ones at $13; $25 ones at $15; $28 ones at $20; $35 ones at $25; $65 ones at $50—some that were $125 to $100.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St., Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS.

Note first name "Amos."

Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY.

127 B W. Front St.

I am ready to supply the public in general with

FRESH MILK AND CREAM.

Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES,

Dealers in

FURNITURE,

149-151 East Front St.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER.

Rapid. Simple, Durable,

IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.

The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address

THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO.,

5 20 4m 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

— DEALERS IN —

Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c

Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER.

ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER.

169 NORTH AVENUE.

Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phœnix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS,

Dealers in first-class

PIANOS and ORGANS

We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.

221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD, J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.

Madison Avenue and Third Street.

Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.

MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.

SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.

DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order

BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.

FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs, Casings and Stops in stock for sale.

GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.

Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props.

[Turning and Scroll Sawing.]

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, †30, 7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 25, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 3 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 9 15, 10 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 9 15, 22 p. m.

Leave New York foot Liberty St. at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturday only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15 a. m.; 12 m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St. at 7 10, 7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 2 25, 3 30, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 3 30, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 95 p. m., 12 15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 0[illegible] 37, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 9 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05 8 38, 9 03, 10 05 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 23, 5 45, 6 19, 7 35, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01, [2 11 except Saturdays] 2 27, 3 35, 4 36, 5 05, 5 25, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p. m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 06, 9 55, a.m; 2 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 30, 10 15, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 33, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 3 20, 4 30, 5 28, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m; 12 35, 1 20, 5 15, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 8 45, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01 2 27, 5 25, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m; 2 03 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m; 12 32, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m; 6 20 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, & c with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

6 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only] [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21, 7 03, 8 45 p. m. Sundays, 8 52 a.m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 32 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p. m Sundays 8 52 a.m

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 09, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*, 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46 a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a.m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 4 36 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H OLDHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesbarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 7 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02; a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 13 p. m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 6 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Deebrosses and West 23d streets.

Who? Who? Who?

says the Owl.

Who sells the best Wall Paper?
Who sells the most Wall Paper?
Who has the largest stock of Wall Paper?

Says the Public:

MARSH, AYERS & CO.,

of course.

The Owl is the symbol of wisdom—a fit symbol is it, therefore, to head an advertisement that will convey to you the wisdom of buying your Wall Paper of us.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS, GLASS,
etc. 201 Park avenue, cor. E. Second street.

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market

George Egel, Manager.

Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset treet. 6 1r

Ladies desiring
KNIFE-PLEATING or PINKING
done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 2eff

THE CRESCENT HOTEL.,
corner Somerset and Chatham streets, North Plainfield. Regular and transient boarders.
RUDOLPH SPEIGEL, Proprietor

WM. D. THICKSTUN
Real Estate and Insurance.
[illegible] North avenue

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Walter J. Moore, complainant, and Edward P. Thorn et. al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises. By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-FIRST DAY OF SEPTEMBER, A. D. 1898.

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, the fee of the entire undivided two-thirds in that tract of parcel of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the middle of Cherry street and corner of lands owned by James M. C. Smith; thence running along his line in a northeasterly course one hundred and thirty-eight feet to a stake and a corner of said James M. C. Smith's land in line of William Moore; thence running along his line in a southeasterly course forty-nine feet and five-tenths to a stake and corner in said Moore's line; thence running in a southwesterly course along his line sixty-nine feet and seven-tenth of a foot to a point; thence running in a southeasterly course one foot; thence running in a southwesterly course still along the line of said Moore's land, being the hotel building sixty-eight feet and eight-tenths of a foot to a point and his corner in the middle of Cherry street; thence running along the middle of Cherry street in a northwesterly course forty-nine feet more or less to the place of beginning. Being a portion of the premises of which Jacob Thorn died seized.

WILLIAM T. KIRK, Sheriff.
H. C. SUYDAM, Sol'r.
8 22 5 EDJ&DP Fees, $8.10.

LAIRE'S

CUT PRICES FOR THIS WEEK.

Screen Doors, hard wood plain, 80
" " " " fancy, 90
Screen Windows 23, 25, 35.
Ice Shredders with cover 45.
Excelsior Fruit Press $1.50.
Hammocks 50c and upwards.
Rubber Hose.
100 Clothes Pins 5c.
" " " 9c, best.
Toilet Paper 6 rolls 25c.
Toilet package 3 for 25c.
Finest Silver Polish 5c box.
Sole Agents for Lincoln Foundry.

TELEPHONE CALL 862.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co.

M. E. STEPHENSON,
146 North Avenue,
Near the depot.

RESTAURANT AND CATERING.
TELEPHONE 6?4.

Smalley Bros.
THE OLD ESTABLISHED RELIABLE
BUTCHERS,
144 NORTH AVE.

Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

E. S. F. RANDOLPH,
DRUGGIST,
Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.
PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

H. Eggerding,
121 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

JOE AND SUSIE.

There were rumors to the effect that Joe Beardsley was in love with Susie Moore, but they passed as rumors until a spelling-school was held in the little school-house at the cross-roads. Then it so happened that Joe and Susie were appointed to "choose sides," and it so happened again that they were the last two on their feet. Everybody else had gone down on the hard words and of the two Joe was accounted the better speller. The chances were seven to three that he would spell Susie down and take the prize, but he sadly disappointed his friends. When the teacher gave out the word "tre men-dous," Joe hesitated, colored up and glanced at Susie. Then his adherents saw resolve in his face. No young man would lose the prize at a spelling-school to a young woman unless he loved her. His resolve was to lose it. All knew it before he spelled the word "tre-men-dious" and then sat down and left her victorious. That settled it with everybody. Susie was Joe's best girl, and it was certain to be a match.

Joe Beardsley was a young farmer twenty-two years old, and Susie Moore was two years younger and the daughter of a farmer. Their families lived a mile apart, and both were only children. When there is a case of love in the country it is a case for gossip. The Beardsleys had no objections to a marriage, and the Moores came to the conclusion that Susie couldn't have done better. For four or five months the course of true love ran smooth. On each Sunday and Wednesday evening the parlor at Moore's was given up to Joe and Susie, and the three or four other young farmers who had been spooking about for a year or more gradually hauled off and left the field to Joe. There was an engagement, and Joe's father had begun to talk about dividing the farm and giving the boy a start, and Susie's mother had decided on the feather bed and the quantity of dishes and carpet rags she could spare, when the patent-churn man put in an appearance. From time immemorial the Beardsleys and the Moores had used a crock with a wooden dasher in it, and the women folks had handled the dasher. The very idea of change had been looked upon as sacrilege. This patent-churn man would have been as coldly greeted as the score before him had he not been a student of human nature. Before he could be rebuffed he said.—

"I ain't trying to sell patent churns this week; I'm just riding around on a vacation. Seems to me them Moores are putting on a heap of style for these hard times. I heard they'd bought a twenty-five dollar music-box."

"You don't say!" gasped Mrs Beardsley. "Why, they ain't no richer'n we be, and we can't afford no sich jimcracks."

"Some folks are bound to fling on style whether they can pay for it or not," said the agent, and it wasn't half an hour before he had sold one of his patent churns.

"If they kin buy a music-box we kin buy a churn," said Mrs. Beardsley with a toss of her head. "I ain't a person as cares fur style, but nobody in this nayburhood is goin' to crow over me!"

That was the beginning. As a matter-of-fact, the music-box had only been left on trial, but as soon as Mrs Moore heard what Mrs. Beardsley had said she set her jaw and replied,—

"We don't need a music-box any more'n a dog needs two tails, but if some folks kin buy patent churns and hold their heads in the air, other folks can buy music-boxes and hold their heads still higher!"

It wasn't a week before the Moores and Beardsleys were passing each other's farms with their eyes looking straight ahead and their faces set, and the farmers up and down the road for five miles were taking sides. The news of the rupture spread rapidly, and it wasn't long before the windmill man, the sewing-machine agent, and various agents for various other things were taking advantage of it. The Beardsleys bought a windmill, and the Moores bought a sewing-machine as an offset. The Beardsleys bought a mile of wire fencing, and the Moores painted their horse-barn a bright red. Mrs. Beardsley got a new ingrain carpet for her parlor, and Mrs. Moore bought four cane-seat chairs and two china vases for hers. The Beardsleys had a lightning-rod put on their barn, and the Moores bought a sky-blue pump for the family well.

Both Joe and Susie protested against the rivalry when it started, and both solemnly vowed they would not be drawn into it, and it should make no difference with their feelings; but it wasn't a month before the break came. They felt they had to quarrel, and yet both regretted it. When Joe's mother heard of the break she said.—

"I'm jest glad of it! I've knowed Susie Moore ever since she could squall, and she ain't no catch fur anybody. She's that shiftless that she leaves grease on the dishes when she washes 'em, and she couldn't dye a lot of carpet rags if it was to save her neck!"

Joe didn't rejoice at the words, but he felt he must be loyal to his family. Susie's mother also had something to say. When Joe ceased his visits and Susit went about looking troubled the mother exclaimed,—

"And who is Joe Beardsley, I'd like to know! Why, there's more'n forty different young men around here who'd crawl on their hands and knees to git you! Don't you go an' be silly, Susan Moore! Jest hold your head up, same as pa and I do, and let them Beardsleys know that we ain't goin' to take any of their sass. They started this hull thing, and I hope they'll git 'nuff of it before it's ended."

The quarrel had lasted the summer through and autumn had come. If the Moores and the Beardsleys had been willing to make up, the friends of each family would have prevented it. It was the only event that had happened for years to create talk, and every one was anxious to make the most of it. The farmers' wives of one faction called on Mrs. Moore and advised her to keep her chin in the air and "show them Beardsleys what was what," and the wives of the other faction called on Mrs. Beardsley and advised her to "stick it out and let them Moores see they didn't own the earth."

The quarrel would have continued and the enmity might have entered into church and politics, as well as social life, but for a spotted hog. It was a spotted hog belonging to the Beardsleys. He had been penned up with other hogs to be fattened for the pork market, but one October day, as Joe was digging potatoes in the field with his father away to town, he heard his mother blowing the dinner horn. It was mid-afternoon, and was a signal of distress. When he reached the house it was to find that the spotted hog had leaped out of the pen and gone trotting down the road. It was Joe's duty to follow on and turn him back. There was the hog forty rods ahead of him, and as soon as the animal knew he was pursued the started off to make a race of it.

It wasn't at all probable that the spotted hog knew of the quarrel between the Beardsleys and the Moores or had any plans as to an armistice and reconciliation; but when he left the pen he headed for the Moore homestead. Joe pursued him without a thought of where the race might end. The hog covered the mile between the two farms without losing much ground, but the open gate of the Moores was a temptation he could not resist. He swerved and entered, and then dodged about the house and was lost to view among the cabbages. The pursuer halted at the gate, and hung there undecided. It wasn't likely that the Moores would come out and forbid him from reclaiming his runaway hog, but if he went nearer the house he might come face to face with Susie.

He hadn't settled the point when he heard the sound of singing. It was a rough, coarse voice, and a rough coarse song, and Joe was puzzled. When three other voices joined in the chorus he advanced up the path and walked around the side of the house 'till he came to the kitchen door. Then all was made plain. A gang of tramps had taken possession and were having a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore had gone to town that day, leaving Susie alone. An hour after their departure four tramps had come along and boldly entered the house. When the girl ordered them out they refused to go; when she would have fled they menaced and detained her, and ordered her to prepare a meal of the best in the house. They guarded the doors so that escape was impossible, and as she cooked at the stove the fellows sang songs, drank from the jug of currant wine one of them had brought from the cellar, and boasted of what fortune had in store for them.

Joe stood on the door-step for five minutes before he fully realized the situation inside. It was not until one of the rascals vowed that he was going to bestow a kiss on the cheek of the frightened girl that his presence among them was known. Then the music-box, the patent churn, the windmill, the wire-fencing, the spotted hog—all were forgotten in an instant, and Joe lifted the latch and walked in. There was business to be transacted. The odds were four to one, but Susie had just time to cry out, "Oh, Joe, I'm so glad!" when the tramps began to tumble. It is due the profession in general to say that none of the four ran away, but they fought a losing fight. Those words from Susie gave the young farmer the strength of a lion, and inside of ten minutes three of the tramps were lying on the ground outside with their hands and feet lashed, and the fourth was limping across the fields and wondering at the sudden change of program.

When Joe's work had been finished and Susie had wiped his bleeding nose with a wet towel and bandaged his skinned knuckles with a soft cloth he looked up at her and said,—

"I—I came after our spotted hog."

"Well, you can have him," she replied as her nose went up.

False pride makes fools of men and women. Joe might have moved away had not one of the tramps, who seemed to divine the situation intuitively, called out,—

"Say you! 'Tain't none of my business, but you two had better kiss and make up!"

"I guess we had," said Joe to Susie as he looked into her laughing eyes.

"Why, of course," she replied.

That evening, as Joe and Susie had the parlor again for the first time for months, Farmer Moore came in from locking up the barn and said to his wife,—

"Ma, I'll be gosh-darned if I ain't glad on it!"

"So'm I, but you musn't swear," she replied.

"Say, he continued, "ain't there sunthin' in the Bible which reads that a little child shall lead 'em?"

"I guess there is, but that hain't nuthin' to do with this case."

"Why hain't it?"

"Because nobody but Joe Beardsley was led, and it was a spotted hog instead of a little child which led him."

"That's so, ma—that's so, and though I expect the plaguey critter has rooted up everything in the garden by this time I won't even yell 'sho' at him. And the lion shall lie down with the lamb and a spotted hog shall lead 'em!"

THE FEVER IN CUBA.

HOW AMERICANS WILL ROOT OUT THE DISEASE.

Don Weyler's Calculation That the "Yellow Jack" Would Fight Wholly on the Side of Spain is Not Without Points of Interest.

When the Spanish butcher, General Weyler heard that the United States were concentrating troops for the invasion of Cuba, he cooly remarked—"The yellow fever will kill half of them and we shall dispose of the other half." Weyler in threatening our armies with this scourge seems to forget that he really furnishes this government with an excellent and most cogent reason for ridding ourselves once for all of the proximity of a pest house on our borders, and the bringing of Cuba under the same sanitary conditions that have practically extirpated the yellow fever from the Southern ports. Had the United States no higher grounds for interference in the affairs of an adjacent island, the filthy and unhealthy conditions under which the Weylers have perpetuated themselves in Cuba would have been alone amply sufficient. For until the Spaniard is driven out the yellow fever will remain to be a menace to the health and happiness of the people of this nation despite every effort of Congress to bar it out.

The United States will not neglect cleanliness, vaccination, and the procuring of wholesome drinking water for the Cubans, and least of all need there be any apprehensions that our people will encourage the Spanish idea, that epidemics are specially sent by God, and that only in his own good time will they disappear. The benevolent butcher-general need not rely too much either on the decimation of our troops by yellow fever which will eventually be driven out with the pious despotism of Spain at the point of the lancet. For meantime we shall burn enough of sulphur to not only kill all those murderous microbes through which Weyler with characteristic cowardice hopes to overcome the valor of our army, but to keep the name and prowess of the great republic ringing around the ears of the dying dynasty of Spain for the balance of Mr. Weyler's natural life.

Don Weyler's calculation was that the "Yellow Jack" would fight wholly on the side of Spain. This is not without interest. Upon what is this hope based? Is it upon the belief that the microbes love the Spaniards and hate the Yankees? It is difficult to see how Americans would be more amenable to the disease than have been these soldiers which Spain has already sent to Cuba. That the Spanish, however, rely as much on yellow fever as upon the boasted tenacity of their aims to play havoc with the troops of the United States seems plain enough; and the dread of the epidemic may have some influence in causing the country to give such attention to yellow fever as it never previously considered necessary.

About ten years ago a movement was before Congress to establish a commission to check the ravages of yellow fever by inoculation. The proposed bill which was backed by the Louisiana State Board of Health was reported favorably to the Senate but no proper action was taken on the subject then, though the investigations had the effect of increasing information on the nature of this disease that is far ahead of any in the possession of Spanish doctors.

Yellow fever is a heritage of the era of slavery. Had we never imported Africans we might never have known what yellow fever was. The virus of yellow fever comes originally in the last resort from the discharge of the sick negro and from the scourings of slave ships that had been thrown out at the ports of debarkation and which carried back and forward with the flow and ebb of the tide fermented under the heat of a tropical sun and so tainted the shores of the surrounding atmosphere.

The poison first generated in quarters where the negro lived from which it spread along the shores of the Gulf of Mexico and fructified particularly in the mangrove swamps of Cuba and the West Indies. For twenty years after the termination of the Civil War—slavery being continued in Cuba—it raged in Memphis, Mobile and other Southern cities. With us, however, it has long since yielded to science and sanitation though occasionally the taint has periodically reached us from Havana,—where the virus has fermented and multiplied; being carried into harbors in trading ships through various vapors on infected crews. When extirpated from Havana it will be finally eradicated from its favorite habitat in the breeding nest provided for it by Spain and from which repeated quarantines, fumigations and disinfections have been powerless to abate its virulence, principally on account of the difficulty of divorcing the Spaniard from his filthy environments.

Yellow fever like typhoid requires certain conditions for its development. It arises from noxious exhalations or miasmata, and flourishes in stagnant water or under a hot sun. Badly aired vessels, impregnated with a fetid humidity, generate it, and these conditions can be mitigated if it takes an entire regiment of doctors to accompany our sailors. With competent medical officers, good nursing, proper ventilation of ships and of tents while on bivouac, with the atmospheric disturbance due to the discharge of cannon and the consequent burning of gun powder, the American troops will suffer much less from yellow fever than is generally supposed while engaged in reducing Havana. It is the universal testimony of all sanitarians that yellow fever has its starting point in the lowest and filthiest quarters of seaport towns, and that when proper conditions are observed it has ceased to be the devastating pestilence which it used to be in other years. It is also allowed that the worst possible condition in which to meet the disease is one of "funk" and it is probably either in order to inspire our troops with fear or to make voluntary enlistment difficult, that Spain's ex-Captain-General dwells on the terrors of this much talked of disease.

A good deal, too, depends on the habits and condition of health as in typhoid fever at the time of attack; and as the disease is rapid much depends upon prompt treatment and accurate diagnosis. The symptoms are usually an instantaneous shock at the base of the brain, followed by unconsciousness and a state of fever. In most cases the stomach is effected and in some cases the gums and nostrils bleed. The immediate cause as stated by a specialist is that termed the bacillus icteroides which collect in great force in the spleen from which after six or seven days they pass into the circulation. Here they begin to reproduce and kill by poisoning the blood causing rapid fatty degeneration with other anatomical injuries which give rise to the ictus or yellow color from which the disease takes its name. This special fever has many other points in common with typhoid fever. The liver loses all functional activity and the patient during the most dangerous period kidneys are inflamed. Unlike typhoid fever, however, temperance is no safeguard against attack nor is intemperance except in so far as it lowers the system, necessarily fatal. Indeed the chances of recovery are sometimes in favor of the bibulist rather than the prohibitionist

An officer who has served in the West Indies relates that in one case the fever following the first stage of the fever, violated every prescription and order of the attending physician, but was cured. One peculiarity of this disease to which the old saw "prevention is better than cure applies" is that it never attacks a pure-blooded negro. If the yellow fever should ravage our troops to the extent hoped for by Spain the United States have fortunately still in its 8,000,000 citizens of Afro-American origin, enough of fighting valor to subdue the dons in Cuba.

To Cure Human Diseases.

The French have a system of curing human diseases by encasing the body in a freshly-slaughtered bullock's skin. The system—known as zootherapeutics—has been in use in France for many years with great success, and is gradually spreading throughout Europe. Your own doctor may even order you such a bath one of these days. This is how the operation is performed.

The patient is put into a freshly-killed bullock-skin, and the hide is quickly sewn up, so as not to allow the heat of the blood to escape. The head of the patient is the only part of the body which is not encased in the skin. After remaining a variable length of time in this unique bath, according to the state of health of each individual, the patient is taken out and plunged into hot water.

These baths are most expensive luxuries, for a skin can be used but once, as artificial heating of the blood does not suffice for the natural life-giving warmth of the freshly-killed animal. Only the rich can afford to indulge in them, and the Paris physician numbers among his patients some of the wealthiest and most distinguished persons in France.

Very Hard to Kill.

To shoot a human being in the head causes instant death; but this is not the case with animals. A headless fowl will run about for some twenty minutes, and a bear with a bullet in his brain has still life enough to kill its murderer if it can reach him within a few minutes. The only vulnerable point in many reptiles is the spine, and a snake with half an ounce of lead in its cranium will live for many years. The star-fish, jelly-fish and other creatures of the protoplasmic genus, if chopped into many small pieces, do not die, but each separate particle becomes a living star-fish, etc.

But the most peculiar instance is that of the common English "death-moth," as it is called. If you cut its head, legs and wings off it still lays its eggs before dying. If you throw it into scalding water, crush it under a hammer until it is a mere pulp, it does not breathe its last before it has produced some twenty eggs, which are invariably fertile.

A Critical Moment.

"Miss Laura," began the youth, with a flushed face and a tremor in his voice, "I came this evening to ask you——"

"One moment, please, Mr. Hankison. Willie, you are making too much noise with those toys. You'd better take them into the other room."

"To ask you," resumed the young man, mopping his brow with a trembling hand, "if you——"

"Willie, take those toys instantly and go."

"If you have tried that new headache remedy you said the other evening you were going to take, and if it did you any good. I am nearly wild with a headache to-night."

"I have forgotten the circumstance to which you allude, Mr. Hankison," said Miss Kajones, coldly. "Willie, you may remain if you wish."

It is said that in London there are no fewer than 10,000 professional musicians of various grades, and that more than half of them are women.

AN IRISH LOVE SONG.

In the years about twenty
(When kisses are plenty)
The love of an Irish lass fell to my fate—
So winsome and sightly,
So saucy and sprightly
The priest was a prophet that christened her Kate.

Soft gray of the dawning,
Bright blue of the morning,
The sweet of her eye there was nothing to mate;
A nose like a fairy's,
A cheek like a cherry's,
And a smile—well, her smile was like—nothing but Kate.

To see her was passion,
To love her, the fashion;
What wonder my heart was unwilling to wait!
And, darling to love her,
I soon did discover
A Katharine masking in mischievous Kate.

No Katy unruly,
But Katharine, truly—
Fond, serious, patient, and even sedate;
With a glow in her gladness
That banishes sadness
Yet stay! Should I credit the sunshine to Kate!

Love cannot outlive it,
Wealth cannot o'ergive it—
That saucy surrender she made at the gate,
O Time, be but human,
Spare the girl in the woman!
You gave me my Katharine—leave me my Kate?

—Johnson, Century.

A HINT WELL TAKEN.

Everybody knew that George Honeysuckle was in love with May Rosebud. They had grown up together, gone to the same school and the same church together, and belonged to the same social set ever since they were children. They were always together whenever the opportunity offered, and their presents to each other were counted by the score. It had been understood by all the people of their set that George and May were as good as engaged, and yet it was also understood that they were not.

Things had gone on thus in a sweet and aimless way until May had become a radiant maiden of twenty-three summers, and her friends were beginning to tease and chaff her on the subject.

"When it is going to be?" they would ask her, but May could only smile and say, with a sigh, "I'm sure I don't know."

By and by it began to be said that it would never be. Yet there was no doubt that George was deeply in love with May and that May had lost her heart to George. The trouble was that poor George knew he was in love, and knew that May knew it, and yet was afraid to tell her. It is probable that he never would have told her if the bicycle had never been invented.

As it was George and May caught the wheeling fever, and a very handsome pair they were, as they went spinning along the smooth and well-kept roads of the Oranges. No, they did not ride a "bicycle built for two." George would never have had the pluck to propose that. George had no pluck as a proposer of anything. As it was Leap Year some of May's girl friends, who were eager to figure as bridesmaids, suggested that she should go to George's rescue and "pop" the question herself. But May was a modest maiden and shook her shapely head emphatically at the suggestion.

So matters went on till the Autumn days came and the leaves were falling, and though they had registered hundreds of miles on their cyclometers George had never dared to whisper, even in the most secluded corners of the longest lanes, that he would like to keep spinning for life with May. But one lovely day, when a tender haze mantled the Orange mountains and draped the valley below in a blue mist, Cupid took them both by the hand and rounded off their little romance. And this is how it happened.

They had come to the top of a hill and May, resting her dainty feet on the coasters, spun away from George at a merry pace. George hesitated a moment to follow the example, and almost before he knew it May was a couple of hundred yards ahead of him. Seized by the spirit of fun May decided to increase the distance and provoke him to a chase. She was quite a third of a mile in the lead when she heard George's bell ringing for all it was worth. She understood it was a signal for her to slow up. But she kept on. Muscle will tell, however, and presently George gained upon her and came alongside.

"I'm tired," he said "What do you say to a rest?"

"Certainly, if it will oblige you," she said, and with that they dismounted and soon they were leaning together on a convenient farmer's gate.

"Didn't you hear my ring?" he asked.

"Your ring, George? Did I hear your ring?" she said—and as she said it she glanced archly down at her left hand, and elevated the third finger just the least little bit.

"You don't mean it, do you May?" he exclaimed, with a sudden rush of courage that set his heart fluttering as badly as if he had been climbing a long and very steep hill.

There was a long silence, and George became aware that all the birds in New Jersey were singing so loudly that it seemed impossible that he should hear May if she spoke again.

They rode home after lingering at the farmer's gate a while, and the next evening May both heard and saw George's ring.

J. W. C.

A woman's ideal of a wife is one who gives up everything to her husband; a man's ideal of a wife is one who gives up everything to him.—New York Press.

Have You Seen

The Fancy Timothy Hay that we are now receiving? It is all last year's crop and far superior to most that we have seen.

BALED BY OURSELVES—which means large bales, free from dirt

Don't Risk New Hay.

STORES: Elizabeth. Elizabethport. Red Bank. Plainfield. Somerville.

The PAUL T. NORTON CO.

Everything for Horses, Cattle and Poultry.

SPORTING.

AROUND THE BASES.

Arthur W. Lederer, the second crack baseman of the erstwhile Crescents, played his last game Saturday. Art has been playing there for some time when baseball ended here, but now that the Riverdales have come, he is going to return. While it is not a certainty as yet, it seems very probable that he will don the red and black of the Riverdales and play on the local diamond once more.

The Riverdale Field Club, of this city, will not play at the Crescent Oval next Saturday. Instead they will go to Orange and give up the Oval to the great "Peace Festival" of the colored folk. The game over at Orange is going to be one of the best that Orange has seen for many weeks. The last time the Riverdales, weakened by the loss of two of their best men, went over and were just defeated by a score of 3 to 2. Next time, the Riverdales are going over all prepared and the game will be hard fought from start to finish. It takes a mighty strong combination to lay out the Orange A. C, but Mr. Wood thinks that he has it right in the ranks of the Riverdales.

CYCLING COMMENT.

There is a general feeling of regret among wheeling circles here that both Richter and Sims are ruled out of the coming contests among the local men. While there was some talk of trying to have them start in the coming road races, the habit of the L. A. W. Racing Board to carry the case further will probably deter the men from taking any part in the races. While the L. A. W. does not pretend to have any supervision over road races, it does object to having any of the riders suspended under its laws, compete with other men who come under its supervision. In such cases it is either further suspension or perhaps expulsion for the already suspended rider or suspension for the other contestants, depending on circumstances.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Stonewall Jackson, of Warrenville, who has a taste for good horses, was down at the track Friday exercising a fast bay mare he has recently purchased. The mare went one mile in 2:21 and another in 2:36, without any pushing. She can do better that this, however.

ROD AND GUN.

In the New York notes from Patchogue, L. I., the following record is made of a Plainfield fisherman: "Colonel Metler, of Plainfield, N. J., was one of the lucky fishermen Thursday. He caught twenty-six big bluefish."

Mrs. Jennings and daughter, Miss Anna Jennings, have returned to their home on Rockview avenue after spending several weeks with friends in Illinois.

A Perfect Infant Food

Gail Borden Eagle Brand Condensed Milk

A PERFECT SUBSTITUTE FOR MOTHERS MILK. FOR 40 YEARS THE LEADING BRAND.

"INFANT HEALTH" SENT FREE.

N.Y. CONDENSED MILK CO. NEW YORK.

WON IN LAST INNING.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

'varsity man, reached third safely on an error by Wood and a sacrifice by Affeld. He was thrown out at the plate by Westervelt on Dunne's easy grounder. Dunne stole second and scored on a fumble by Wood.

The ninth inning was positively hair raising in the excitement it furnished. Ayres made a hit, stole second. Then Murphy went out to Fred Smith. Cowan hit safely and Ayres scored, he stole second and Powell took first on another wild throw by Romig over Fred Smith's head at second. Before they could get it, Ayres was home and Powell at second. Powell stole third and then came home, tying the score, on a poor throw to first by Westervelt. Affeld, who was safe thanks to "West's" error, attempted to steal second and was thrown out just as Jimmy Dunne struck out.

With the score 5 to 5, the Riverdales came up for their half of the ninth inning. Hardy reached second on a dropped third strike and started for third on Romig's grounder to be caught there. Wood made a lovely hit over first base that advanced Romig to third. Westervelt was up and the crowd was wild. He sent a hot grounder to Powell. Powell held it an instant, dropped it, picked it up and dropped it again and then lost himself. Romig made an awful leap for the home plate and crossed it safely, scoring the winning run. That ended the game.

Steinmetz, the crack shortstop of the Plainfield Crescents, was in left field for the visitors and did some good batting.

The individual scores were as follows:

RIVERDALE F. C.

	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Reinacker, ss	5	1	1	2	2	0
Buckbee, lf	3	0	1	0	1	0
F. Smith, 2b	3	2	1	2	5	0
Hays, c	4	1	2	4	2	0
W. Smith, cf	3	0	0	3	0	0
Hardy, rf	3	1	0	1	0	0
Romig, 3b	4	1	0	1	0	2
Wood, 1b	3	0	1	13	0	2
Westervelt, p	4	0	0	1	6	1
	32	6	6	27	16	5

NEW YORK ATHLETIC CLUB.

	AB.	R.	BH.	PO.	A.	E.
Cowan, cf., c	5	1	1	5	1	0
Powell, ss	5	1	2	0	5	2
Affeld, 3b	4	0	1	1	1	1
J. Dunne, c., cf	5	1	0	0	2	1
Reed, 2b	4	1	1	4	0	0
T. Dunne, p	3	0	1	0	3	0
Steinmetz, lf	2	0	0	0	0	0
Ayres, rf	3	1	1	0	0	1
Murphy, 1b	4	0	1	15	0	0
	35	5	8	25*	12	5

*One out when winning run was made.

BY INNINGS.

Riverdale	4	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	—6
N. Y. A. C.	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	1	3	—5

Earned runs—Riverdales, 1; N. Y. A. C., 1. Two-base hit—Powell. Sacrifice hits—Buckbee, W. Smith, Affeld, T. Dunne and Steinmetz. Stolen bases—F. Smith, (2), Hays, Cowan, Powell, (3), Affeld, (3), J. Dunne, T. Dunne, Ayres, (2). Bases on balls—Off Dunne, 3; off Westervelt, 2. Struck out—By Dunne, 2; by Westervelt, 2. Wild pitch—Dunne. Double plays—Affeld, Reed and Murphy; Cowan and Murphy; Hayes and F. Smith. Left on bases—Riverdales, 6; N. Y. A. C., 6. Time of game—One hour, thirty minutes. Umpire—E. Herbert Timpson, of New York.

SURPRISED THEM ALL.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

made 9½, Waters and "Dudley" each scoring 7.

The last event on the programme was not finished until darkness had set in, and it was a fitting finish to the day's sport as it caused lots of fun, and reminded old duck hunters of sport they had had shooting wild fowl at nightfall. In this race the use of both barrels was allowed, but a target broken by the second scored but half a point; in their desire to make sure many of the shooters used the second when unnecessary and penalized themselves by doing so. The next shoot of the league will be held at New Brunswick, Saturday, September 17th, under the auspices of the Reservoir Gun Club.

Verdict Against the Estate.

Justice Mosher handed down his decision this morning in the case of Kane against Ettinger and Coyne as executors of Mrs. Ettinger's estate. Kane, who was Mrs. Ettinger's brother, sued the widower and the executors, one of which was Ettinger for a $100 loan he made Mrs. Ettinger. The Justice gave as his verdict that there was no cause for action againt Ettinger, but gave a verdict for $100 against the estate.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A new postoffice was established in a small village away out west and a native of the soil was appointed postmaster. After awhile complaints were made that no mail was sent out from the new office and an inspector was sent to inquire into the matter. He called upon the postmaster and asked why no mail had been sent out. The postmaster pointed to a big and nearly empty mail bag hanging up in corner and said: "Well I ain't sent it out 'cause the bag ain't nowhere nigh full yet."

* * * * *

Some of the neighbors on West Second street, not a great ways from Park avenue, complain about a certain man who comes home at night frequently under the influence of liquor. Last night they say he was in his usual condition and made such a noise and confusion that the policeman on the beat had to knock on the front door and order him to keep quiet or threatened him with arrest.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smalley, of Somerset street, are stopping at Asbury Park.

Miss Annie Kelly, of New street, has returned after a pleasant visit in Jersey City.

Mrs. Robert Dod, of Newark, is visiting at the home of her sisters, the Misses Rockwell, of East Second street.

Miss Anna Burr, daughter of Stephen H. Burr, formerly of Plainfield, is visiting at the home of Charles Smith, of Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson F. Randolph, of New York, spent Sunday at the home of their son-in-law, Judson Bonnell, of East Front street.

FARMHAND HEIR TO A FORTUNE.

He Will Continue to Work for Farmer Musk, Though he Has $2,000 a Year.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Orange, N. J., Aug. 29.—Charles Zelenski, a farmhand employed by Charles Musk, of West Orange, has been notified that he is the heir to a fortune in Austria which will net him an income of $2,000 a year. Zelenski has received $1,000 on account, and during the past few days has been enjoying himself hugely by giving dinners to his friends in West Orange. He has also purchased a horse and and wagon, which he uses when his day's work isdone.

Zelenski is now known among his friends as "The Baron." He says he will not give up his farm work, but will continue to labor for Farmer Musk for $10 a month and board.

STABBED MAN WHO REFUSED HIM $2.

Joseph Curtis Suffering From Many Stab Wounds Inflicted by Louis Rich.

Joseph Curtis is in a critical condition at his home in Bound Brook, suffering from stab wounds, inflicted by Louis Rich, of that place.

Rich had been drinking, and tried to borrow $2 from Curtis Saturday night, but was refused. Two hours later Rich, who had been lying in wait for Curtis, attacked him with a knife. He stabbed Curtis under the right arm and many times in the thigh. Rich escaped.

Still Another Picnic.

A meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men was held Friday night. The picnic committee reported that its last venture was a financial success and announced that it had arranged another picnic at Mountainside Grove for September 15th. A committee of three, composed of Brothers Holdstein, Fulmer and Dreier, was appointed to formulate plans for the ninth anniversary of the organization of the tribe which occurs October 9th.

Held for Grand Jury.

William Murphy, the railroad man, who was charged by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Kate Murphy, with assaulting her, as told in last week's Press, had an examination Saturday night before Justice Mosher, and was held in $100 bail to appear before the Grand Jury.

Relics From the Navy.

Louis Miller, of this city, who is a member of the crew of the battleship Texas, has presented The Daily Press with a piece of the cable that was cut at Santiago, as well as a piece of shell that burst on the ship, and scrap of a broken hammer used on the vessel.

Killed a Blacksnake.

Edward Murphy, of Arlington avenue, killed a blacksnake Saturday afternoon that measured four feet in length. The snake was crawling around in a neighbor's yard when Mr. Murphy saw it and dispatched it with a club.

—The Mount Minsi House and cottages at the Delaware Water Gap are situated in one of the coolest spots in this section of the country. The proprietors make special rates to parties. See their new advertisement in today's Press.

HE LIVES IN A LOG HOUSE.

A Rich Banker Who Will Not Desert His Old Home and Its Associations.

Pendleton, Ind., is noted for many historic incidents and landmarks, and also claims the distinction of having the only banker in the country who lives in a log house. His name is Morris Hardy, and he is known all over this section of the State among men of wealth and banking. He is the cashier in the Pendleton bank. He is one of the principle stockholders also, and is wealthy. He has never acquired any particular "swell head" since becoming rich and successful in banking, and every evening after his work at the bank is completed he retires to a common log house. It is by no means a shackle or broken-down affair. The furniture is up to date, and everythig about the place bears evidence that the occupant is by no means a miser or even close-fisted.

The old place has memories hanging around it which are dear to the banker, and he is content to let his patrons live in swell residences while he occupies the one made of logs. It was occupied by his father, Neal Hardy, and it was to this house that the late Frederick Douglass was smuggled when mobbed at Pendleton, when he first came into the north to plead for the liberty of his race. Within walls the noted man, then poor and an outcast, was nursed back to life, and when, in later years, his name was known the world around, he would come back to this little home and spend his time with the quaint old people.—Chicago Chronicle.

A CALIFORNIA LAD'S ELASTIC TALE.

Not to Be Outdone in Stories by His Washington Cousins.

A little boy from California, who has been about a good deal, is spending the holidays with his Washington cousins. He has enjoyed the sights of the capital, but he hasn't permitted himself to be in the slightest degree overawed by anything he has seen. His cousins took him to the National Museum one day, and called his attention to a great log of petrified wood lying just outside the door. The little Californian had been a little depressed, but he brightened up at the sight.

"I've seen a whole tree like that," he said.

The Washington cousins maintained their composure.

"We've got a whole forest of trees like that out West," went on the young Westerner. Still the Washingtonians were not at all impressed. The California boy drew a long breath.

"We've got a whole woods of putrefied trees," he said; "yes, and they's putrefied birds sitting on 'em, and—and," with one last effort to disturb the calm, self-satisfaction of his companions, "they're singing putrefied songs, too."—Washington Post.

AN AFRICAN PRAIRIE DOG.

Much Like the Species Found on Our Western Prairies.

The meekrat of South Africa bears a resemblance to the American prairie-dog, but is more easily domesticated. It is a tiny little creature about as big as a rat, very intelligent and affectionate as a dog when tamed.

It barks and chatters and purrs, is an inveterate thief and spends much of its time standing upright. Its fur is gray, marked somewhat like a tabby cat, and it is wholly without fear. The dog is its favorite animal, and, when tamed, the meekrat invariably attaches itself to the most good-natured dog in the house.

When wild, these little animals live in colonies as the prairie dogs, burrowing their homes underground, living on roots. They express supreme satisfaction by lying flat down and stretching themselves out so that they seem like a flat skin without any bones inside it.

The little creatures have black circles around their eyes, a stripe running underneath their bodies for its entire length and long, curving black claws on their little fore paws.—Golden Days.

Horseshoe Nail Rings for Luck.

What do you think the girls are wearing now? Finger rings made of horseshoe nails. They are certainly not pretty or graceful, but they are said to bring good luck to the wearer on certain conditions. To be a genuine charm the ring must be made from a nail taken from a horseshoe found by the owner herself, and nobody else. This is taken to the jeweler, who bends it to fit her little finger and cuts off the superfluous length. The ring is not welded together, and the head of the nail stands for the setting. There's no way of proving it, but those who have adopted these ornaments say that they bring just as much luck as a horseshoe itself hung up or over the door with ends up.—New York Sun.

Victims of Water Drinking.

There are two interesting instances of the effect of water upon the human system. In the Alps and the Pyrenees there is a race of people who are old men at 15 years of age, and who die at 30; this being entirely due to their drinking lime-water. The Chinese, on the other hand, drink nothing but rainwater, and, as a nation, their longevity is proverbial.—Philadelphia Record.

Daguerreotypes.

A Boston man is still taking daguerreotypes, and has been doing so over half a century He insists that in spite of all modern processes in photography they remain the most corect likenesses ever produced.—Philadelphia Press.

Here's the Longest Beard.

For thirty years the beard and mustache of Mr. James Brown, of Benlington, W. Va., have been untrimmed. With his arms extended he stretches full six feet from tip to tip of his fingers, yet the ends of his mustache, when held horizontally, extend beyond his fingers. He braids his wonderful beard and mustache, and tucks them under his vest.

Matrimonial Requirements.

Matrimony has ten commandments. These were studied out by Theodore Parker shortly before the day of his wedding. They took the form of ten beautiful resolutions, which he inscribed in his journal. They were as follows:

Never, except for the best reasons, to oppose his wife's will. To discharge all duties for her sake freely. Never to scold. Never to look cross at her. Never to worry her with commandments. To promote her piety. To bear her burdens. To overlook her foibles. To save, cherish and forever defend her. To remember her always in my prayers. Thus, God willing, we shall be blessed.—New York Journal.

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3 50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1.50, formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2. Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2 Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6 90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25 Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M. WEINBERGER, MANAGER,

214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

O'Neill's.

Sixth Ave., 20th to 21st St. New York.

OUR PLAINFIELD FRIENDS.

Perhaps you've no idea of the enormous business we transact with the thousands of homes in and around Plainfield through the mails. Of course many homes send daily representatives in person to the city, but in the last year we've proved to hundreds of families that they can save themselves a day's journey coming to the city and the trouble of tramping around for blocks by ordering through the mails. We've a perfectly organized department with a corps of trained assistants whose business it is to shop for the customer. At any rate just send us your name and address and we'll mail you one of our beautiful catalogues so that you can see for yourself the kind of goods we sell.

We deliver all purchases, excepting bicycles and sewing machines, free at any railroad station within 100 miles of New York.

H. O'NEILL & CO.

Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., August 29, 1898.

Arden Mr E J	Nichols Mr De L F
Barrett Miss M	Reed Mr B
Boag Mrs W	Southand Mrs J
Dunn Mr J J	Sporborg Mr H
Gorden Mrs S	Stenge Panline
Howan Mrs E	Stewart Miss C E
Huff Mrs H	Tetterberg Mr C A
McClere Dr F W	Wall Mr James
Mental Mr A	Whimpenny Miss Maud

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE,

REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89

A. WILLETT & SON,

No. 107 Park Ave.

E. E. Marshall & Co.

167 North Ave.

Slash, Slice, Carve!

These are not the days to get or even ask fancy prices for wall paper, no matter how fancy the wall paper. But we go ourselves one better and annihilate our former extremely low prices on all of our popular wall papers. It is a story in a very few words—the figures on the wall paper, and for it tell their own tale. Now is the time to save money by calling on the above firm to do your painting and paper hanging.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:-

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz -	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum -	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline - -	5c	Tar Soap, large cake -	5c

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy,

309 EAST FRONT ST.

Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.

Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield. "A word to the wise is sufficient." J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 22 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory,

Taught by

Miss Sarah A. Palmer,

Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio—123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J

LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate.

303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m

RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

INSTRUCTION on the VIOLIN and REED ORGAN by MRS. G. W. SAUMS, (Pupil of Prof. K. A. Langlotz.) Residence 143 East Second street. Reference, ten years' teaching at Trenton, N. J. 4 21 tf

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY,

123 West Seventh St.

Will Re-open Thursday, SEPTEMBER 15, 1898.

Thirty-first year.

Principals: MISS KENYON, MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S

School and Kindergarten,

29 Washington Avenue, North Plainfield.

WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL (35 Nassau St., New York City) 'Dwight Method' of Instruction. Students may take Day School (Nassau St.) or Evening School (9 West 13th St.) LL.B. in two years; LL.M. in three years. Special lectures in New Jersey practice. Send for catalogue. 8 1 2m-eod GEORGE CHASE, Dean.

MISS HELEN L. HALE

receives pupils for private instruction in the ENGLISH BRANCHES, FRENCH AND LATIN.

Delicate children and such as require special coaching will be given particular attention. Also classes in English literature will be formed. Applications may be made to MISS HALE, 120 Crescent avenue. 8 22 5w eod

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS,

181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.

FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

30 000 CIGARS

of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to limit stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS, 206 Park Avenue, Plainfield.

8 15 tf

Hello?

Hello Partner!

How is it Fred Endress sells the BEST Broiler and Roasting CHICKEN for 20c. lb. Because he gets them right from the farm.

131-135 W. Front St. Branch 208 Liberty St.

CITY MILLS.

P. M. FRENCH, OWNER.

24 Somerset St.

NEAR FRONT.

FEED, GRAIN AND HAY.

Not at cost, but very near it.

TELEPHONE No 24.

MONDAY MORNING

or any other morning when you come down town you will find our pharmacy a convenient place to purchase drug and toilet supplies.

We have many things in stock that are desirable and not commonly kept. Those things you may especially want, if not already at hand, we will order for you.

POWERS' PHARMACY.

Somerset St. & Craig Pl.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits .....$ 90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. DUNYON, Cashier.
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. DUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell, P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil, Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Bushmore, J. W. Johnson, Wm. B. Coddington, F. S. Dunyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

MONEY TO LOAN—Bring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,800; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ½ mile from trolley, $3,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaBue, Plainfield, N. J., Real Estate and Insurance.

CYCLISTS' CALENDAR.
Sun Rises 5:24 a. m.
Sun Sets 6:46 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be lighted at 7:46 p. m.

THE DAILY PRESS.

THE WEATHER.
Threatening Weather and Showers on the Coast Tonight, Clearing Wednesday; Stationary Temperature Thermometer, 90.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., TUESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

PLAYING ON THE CARS HE WAS GULLIOTINED.

A Terrible Fate of a Seven-Year-Old Boy Last Night.

HIS HEAD WAS CUT OFF.

TRIED TO JUMP FROM ONE TRAIN TO ANOTHER.

Joseph Greer, Motherless, Met His Death While Enjoying His Favorite Pastime—Freight Car Gave a Lurch and He Was Thrown to the Ground and His Body Horribly Mangled by the Cars.

A terrible accident happened to Joseph Greer, the eleven-year-old son of Alexander Greer, of 529 South Second street, yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, by which he lost his life. In jumping from the top of a box car into a moving coal car he was thrown to the track and ground beneath the wheels, being killed instantly. The remains were taken to the freight-house and left there until viewed by County Physician F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood, who gave a permit for removal.

Young Greer is a motherless boy, and lives with his father and several brothers in that portion of the city in which he met death. The father is a shoemaker by trade, but lately has had nothing to do. Last week he secured a position as laborer in the Central Railroad yards at Jersey City and went to work yesterday for the first time, leaving his children to take care of themselves.

Young Joseph, together with other boys of his own age, has been in the habit of playing around the cars on the railroad. Yesterday afternoon a freight train was pulling slowly along back of Potter's Press Works to take a siding. Young Joseph climbed up on one of the freight cars and took a position on the roof. It was great fun, was this free ride, and the lad walked back and forth on the roof of the car in great glee.

In a few moments another engine came puffing up alongside of the freight train, and behind the engine was a long train of coal cars. Both trains were going slowly, and suddenly Joseph conceived the idea of jumping from his elevated perch on top of the box car into one of the gondolas below.

He walked as near to the edge of the car as possible. Both trains were moving in the same direction, and still going slowly. While Joseph was poising for the leap, the car on which he was standing entered the siding. The lurch occasioned by its turning into the switch jostled Joseph, and he pitched headlong to the ground and rolled directly under the wheels of the car on which he had been standing.

No one saw the fall, and the entire train passed over the body. A trainman on one of the rear cars noticed the corpse as he came up to it, and began frantically to wave his hands and arms as a signal to the engineer to stop.

When the train had come to a standstill the remains were lifted up. A stretcher was secured and on that the remains were conveyed to the freighthouse at the other end of the city. It was found that the head was completely severed from the body and that one arm was cut off. Death must have been instantaneous.

The news spread rapidly, and soon Joseph's older brother was on the scene. A telegram was sent to the father in Jersey City, and Chief of Police Grant notified.

The county physician arrived during the evening and gave a permit for removal. The remains were taken to Casey's morgue, where they will await some word from the father, in Jersey City.

Alexander Joseph's fifteen-year-old brother felt very bad over the accident. He thought a great deal of his brother, and the two were inseperable. When the news was spread, Alex was one of the first to hear it and ran up to the spot crying and sobbing as if his heart would break. A report was spread this morning that Alex had committed suicide by hanging himself with a rope, but a Press reporter saw the lad, who seemed to be very much alive. The neighbors also denied any knowledge of an attempt at suicide, but some of them say that the boy is of such a nervous disposition that an action like that on his part would not surprise them.

Detective Doughtery, of the Central Railroad, who has charge of the case, has not been able to locate the father of the dead boy. It seems that Greer only came home Saturday nights, and the two young sons were left to take care of themselves through the week. The oldest boy told Detective Doughterty that his father worked in a round-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

TO AWAKEN INTEREST.

A Public Meeting of Temperance Adherents to be Held Regularly.

Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, held a public meeting last night, in their lodge rooms, to which there was a good attendance. It is the intention of the members of the order to hold these public meetings once each month hereafter, and in this way try and awaken a temperance spirit in this city.

The exercises opened last night with devotional exercises led by B. W. Hand, and an address of welcome from Michael Armstrong, Worthy Patriarch of the order.

Mrs. Cox, of New York, a slum worker, related some of her experiences, which were very interesting. She followed her address by a vocal solo.

Miss Anderson then gave a cornet solo accompanied on the organ by Miss Thompson. Mr. Hand sang a song about Dewey, which brought down the house, and William C. Smith, president of the Reform Club, and a member of Howell Division, sang a temperance song accompanied by his daughter. Recitations were delivered by Miss Try Mattox and Robert Mattox, and Professor Stevens sang two temperance solos.

When Mr. Armstrong asked for signers to the pledge and applications for membership, there was quite a response, among them being Mrs. Cox.

THIRD'S CAMP IN GOOD SHAPE.

Men on Parade Looked for Vice-President Hobart.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Pompton Lake, N. J., August 30.—Colonel Murphy, Colonel Lee and Lieutenant-Colonel Holmes, with the remainder of the regimental officers, inspected the quarters of the men yesterday. Everything was found to be satisfactory, and Colonel Murphy expressed himself as being highly pleased over the clean and healthy condition of the men and their tents.

The men are still patiently waiting to learn the disposition of the regiment. Many are willing to do future service, provided the majority of the men in the regiment stay in it. But very few are desirous of serving in any other regiment.

Bids for food supplies were sent out yesterday for the month of September. Three new guard-houses have been built for the mountain scouts.

Judge-Advocate Conder yesterday afternoon polled the men on their preference for remaining in service or being mustered out. It was stated afterward that about 87 per cent of the men voted in favor of going home.

WANT MUSTER OUT NEAR HOME.

Jersey Naval Reserves Object to Being Discharged from Service in Boston.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Boston, August 30.—The New Jersey Naval Reserves on the auxiliary cruiser Badger are indignant over the announced intention of the Navy Department to muster them out of service here Wednesday and send them home unceremoniously. They want to be mustered out in a home port, and from the Badger.

They think the department is treating them shabbily after their three months' hard cruise in Cuban waters, in which they won the distinction of having sent the first and only prize to New York, flying the Spanish flag below the Stars and Stripes. They have appealed to their representatives in Washington to have the Badger ordered to New York at once in order that they may quit the service in an appropriate manner.

TO REBUILD THE SHOPS.

The Central Railroad to Erect a Large Plant Near the Burned One.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 30.—The machine and repair shops of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which were burned several weeks ago, it is said, will be rebuilt, and the excavations for the foundations will be begun next month.

It is said that the plant will be built on the north side of the Central Railroad tracks at Elizabethport, where the railroad company owns a tract of seventy acres, extending from the Newark bay bridge to the branch railroad line between Elizabethport and Newark. The plans for the buildings were drawn nearly two years ago.

Extending the Storm Sewer.

Street Commissioner Gavett has his men at work on the storm sewer leading from the corner of Front and Washington streets and is extending it to the brook. The sewer formerly terminated in a brick arch in the race under the Watchung avenue bridge, but the race has been filled up and the two sides of the arch acted as a cesspool. The new extension is being made of twelve-inch pipes.

—Use Press want ads for returns.

BADGER HEROES COMING

THEY WILL RETURN HOME THURSDAY NIGHT OR FRIDAY MORNING.

To Be Mustered Out at Boston—Their Cruise Has Been an Eventful One—An Impromptu Reception May be Given.

It's now the matter of only a few days before the Plainfield boys, bronzed with their exposure to the tropical sun on the decks of the U. S. S. Badger, will return to their home heroes indeed. The boys, once members of the New Jersey Naval Reserve, and now full-fledged seamen of the United States navy, are now in the vicinity of Boston where they expect to be mustered out tomorrow or Thursday. After that, it will not be long before they will see this city again.

Their cruise has been an eventful one even through the first of it was devoted to coast patrol duty. The Badger boys went to Cuban waters at last, captured prizes and saw several little fights. They are now through with their warlike duties and will return to peaceful pursuits.

While the time of their return is not exactly known, several have written home that they expect to reach this place Thursday night or Friday morning. They said that it was expected that the crew of the Badger would be mustered out right there in Boston and that the boys would come down by train or on one of the coast line steamers.

Plainfield has more of her young men on board the Badger than on any other ship in the navy and more than in any regiment except the Third New Jersey Volunteers. There has been some talk about giving them a reception of some kind on their arrival here but the uncertainty of the time when they will reach this city may prevent any public demonstration.

OFF FOR THE SHORE.

After a Long Delay the Baptist Excursionists Left This Morning.

The First Baptist Sunday-school excursion, which was to have gone to Asbury Park early in the season, but was postponed on account of rain, finally got off this morning. The weather looked a little uncertain today, but this was the last chance, and the excursion committee were bound to go anyway. The weather, clearing as it did, will no doubt tend to make it pleasant along the shore.

There were twelve cars in the train, seven of which were given up to the colored members of the Mt. Olive mission, who anticipated a fine time today. Colored people were very much in evidence this morning at the depot, as usual a great many more being at the station than intended to go on the excursion.

PROFITS OF CAMP MEETING.

Total Receipts Were $183.26—$94.36 Applied to Debts of Church.

Rev. W. B. G. Coster, pastor of St. Peter's A. M. E. Zion church, who has been conducting the series of camp meetings in Hyde's grove at Netherwood for the past three weeks, reports that the total receipts were $183.26. The expenses were $88.90, leaving a balance of $94.36, which has been applied to the floating indebtedness of the society. After his tireless efforts to make the meetings a success, Rev. Mr. Coster has left town to enjoy a week's vacation.

Seventh-Day Baptist Centre.

Under the caption "Home of Saturday Observers," a writer in The New York Herald of Sunday tells how the Seventh-Day Baptists flourish in and around Plainfield, with the establishment of the sect in New Market. An account is given of the conversion of Rev. Edmund Dunham, who preached the doctrine of Saturday observance. Randolph Dunham, of Plainfield, is a great grandson of this Seventh-Day preacher.

At the Old Reliable.

Newburgh, N. Y., has loaned Plainfield one of her rising young men in the person of William J. Barrett, who has associated himself with T. S. Armstrong, the druggist, as one of his prescription clerks. He graduated from the New York College of Pharmacy last winter, and is licensed as a pharmacist in both the States of New York and New Jersey.

Open-Air Band Concert.

The open-air concert of the Queen City Band will be held tomorrow evening on the balcony of the City Hotel. The concert is the one postponed a week ago tomorrow on account of the rain. The programme will be the same as was announced for last week.

Her Solos Appreciated.

At the prayer meeting last night of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, Miss L. Messersmith favored the young people by singing two solos, both of which were very much appreciated.

ASSESSMENTS APPROVED

COMMON COUNCIL PASS ON THE WORK OF THE ASSESSORS.

After an Hour and a Half of Conference, During Which Several Changes Were Made, Voted to Endorse Valuations.

The adjourned meeting of the Council last night was rather a long one, although the actual public session did not consume more than forty-five minutes, thirty of which were devoted to the reading of the minutes of three preceding meetings. The purpose of the meeting was to go over and pass upon the assessors' books, which was done after the Council had taken a recess in which to inspect them.

The meeting came to order at 8:10 o'clock, with President Baker in the chair. All answered to the roll-call except Councilman Andrews and Newman. Clerk MacMurray being absent, George B. Wean, the official stenographer, was made clerk pro tem.

Councilman Barrows moved that the order of business be suspended and that a recess of half an hour be taken in which to examine the books. The half hour lengthened into an hour and a half before the regular order was resumed, then Mr. Barrows moved that the books of the assessor be confirmed subject to such alterations as had been previously made. Mr. Hetfield objected to this motion, saying that the assessors had made the changes according to suggestions, so the wording was changed, and a motion that the books of the assessors be confirmed was passed, all voting aye.

The ordinance concerning dogs was moved to be adopted at its third reading, Mr. Hetfield alone voting no. Mr. Hetfield asked if this were not the proper time to bring up the trolley ordinance, but Mr. Barrows explained that they could not pass to its third reading an ordinance passed to its second at an adjourned meeting, so the matter was dropped. Council then adjourned.

All the assessors, H. C. Runyon, Charles H. Hand, J. A. Hubbard and H. C. VanEmburgh, were present, and all except Mr. Hand were closeted with the councilmen during the recess. It is said that several changes were made at the suggestion of different members. The books have been in the hands of the Council for the past two weeks, and are now open to the public.

AN AGED FRIEND DEAD.

Mrs. Hannah C. Adams, Formerly of Plainfield, Lived to be Four Score and Two.

The death of Mrs. Hannah C. Adams, who will be remembered as a resident of this city twenty-five years ago by some of the older Plainfielders, died at her home in Indianapolis, Ind., August 26th, at the age of eighty-two years. She was the mother of Harry G. Adams, of 222 West Front street. In 1873 Mrs. Adams resided in the house then standing at what is now the head of Sandford avenue. The house faced Front street. She was the last child of a family of twelve and reached the oldest age of all. She leaves three children, as follows: Mrs. John D. Sherman, of Indianapolis; Harry G. Adams, of Plainfield; James C. Adams, of Newark. She was a most exemplary Christian and a life-long member of the Society of Friends. Her funeral was held at Indianapolis last Sunday.

It's Generally So.

A night or two ago W. S. Benton lost his bicycle lamp. Like a sensible man he inserted an advertisement in the cent-a-word column of The Daily Press, which cost him ten cents; John Keely, the hackman, found the lamp, read the advertisement and restored the lamp to the owner. The same day Constable George Rockafellow brought a pair of eyeglasses to The Press office in answer to an advertisement announcing the fact that they were lost.

The Grocers' Excursion.

Boynton Beach is too well known to the public of Plainfield to need any introduction. Every summer sees many of them there for the day on various excursions. The trouble has always been how to reach there. Now the Grocers' Association will make it the easiest thing in the world Labor Day to enjoy the day at the beach. A special train will start from here that morning and convey at a very reasonable rate, fifty cents, all who care to go.

A Successful Evangelist.

A paper in Walhalla, S.C., where Rev. Arthur Crane has been conducting a series of revival meetings, has the following to say of his methods:

Mr. Crane has gained the confidence and esteem of all Christian people during his stay. He is a cultivated Christian gentleman, with none of the mannerisms of many professional evangelists. Not a word of slang or vulgarity that might offend the most delicate does he use. Everything has been done in a calm and dignified way and there could be no reaction, for there was no high-pressure methods.

—Press want ads bring results.

A SEVENTY-FIRST HERO.

ABRAM ALBERTSON RETURNS ONCE MORE TO DOMESTIC LIFE.

Non-Commissioned Officer in Company F, Was in the Terrific Onslaught at San Juan Hill—Bullets Whizzed Close by.

A hero from the Seventy-first Regt., New York Volunteers, made his appearance in this city last night in the person of Abram Albertson, a nephew of C. C. Cokefair, of Crescent avenue. Mr. Albertson is a non-commissioned officer in Captain Rafferty's famous Company F, the members of which will always be remembered in connection with the battle of San Juan Hill.

Young Albertson is an athletic young college man and is one of the sons of Mrs. Cokefair's brother, whose home is in Bangor, Pa. He has a sixty-days' furlough, and after a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Cokefair will go to his home and spend the remainder in rest and quiet.

He had two narrow escapes in the charge up the hill. A bullet went through the leg of his trousers, just missing the flesh, and while lying down behind a barbed wire fence in front of a post a Mauser bullet nipped off a twig just in front of his face, glanced and shot off in another direction, missing Mr. Albertson entirely.

Mr. Albertson has made his home with his uncle and aunt for some years, and is looked upon as a member of the family. When he arrived he wore his full regimentals and attracted quite a little attention.

VOORHEES' WAY NOT ALL CLEAR.

Several Candidates May Enter Race for Nomination for Governor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, August 30—Until recently it was supposed that Acting-Governor Voorhees had a clear path to the nomination for Governor. Now it appears that the big party leaders are not all for him by any means. The State convention for the nomination of a candidate is to be held in Trenton Thursday, September 22d.

Senator Sewell is understood to be strong for Voorhees. Vice-President Hobart, whose influence in Jersey politics is not the less because he is so far away, does not show a disposition to put himself on record, but when asked his choice of a candidate replies that Franklin Murphy has done a great deal for the party and is a man of superior ability. Attorney-General Griggs, who is still a power in the politics of this State, is usually of the same mind as Mr. Hobart.

Should Judge J. Franklin Fort, of this city, enter actively the canvass for the nomination, both Hobart and Griggs unquestionably would support him, as he nominated Hobart at the National Republican convention, and for years has been a most intimate friend of the Vice-President and Attorney-General.

Congressman Mahlon Pitney, of Morristown, has declared himself a candidate and has begun on an active canvass. Should an agreement on any other aspirant seem difficult, it would not be hard for the leaders to unite on Pitney. He is a man of practical ability and is strong with the voters.

WILL SETTLE TROUBLES.

The Excitement of the Strike Will Pass Away Amicably.

It looks as if there would be a peaceful settlement of the trouble between Macaroni, who runs the brickyard at Berkley Heights, and his Italian laborers. The Daily Press has already told the story of the strike and the subsequent suits brought by the men in Justice Newcorn's court. The cases were to come up last Friday, but the employer appeared and explained to his former employes that he would settle in full if they would only give him time. The case was then laid over for two weeks to wait for results.

Work at the Hospital.

There was little done last evening at the monthly meeting of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital aside from receiving the report of Dr. M. B. Long, the medical director for the month. The report showed the total number of patients admitted to be 23; discharged, cured, 19; discharged, improved, 5; died, 3; total treated, 42. In the dispensary there were 52 cases and 134 visits reported.

Horse Ran Away.

A horse belonging to Harry Potter, of Rahway road, ran away on Belvidere avenue last evening. After giving the two young men in the buggy a lively ride, the horse was finally pulled up by the driver without any damage being done. The runaway ended on East Fifth street near Washington street.

During Chief Marshal Wilson's absence today, Marshal Schenck is taking his place.

A GIRL'S THRILLING TALE.

Bella VanNess Says a Bad Man Accosted Her on a Dark Street.

Miss Bella VanNess, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George VanNess, of Monroe avenue, tells of an attempt to hold her up on Elmwood place last night. The girl had been down town, and was returning home just after dark. She noticed a strange man, whom she describes as being tall and with a black moustache, following her, but just before she reached Elmwood place he passed her.

When in a dark part of the street, she says the man jumped out from behind a tree at her and with the words, "Now I've got you," tried to seize her. The girl turned and ran back towards town, and fortunately the first person she met was her uncle, David VanBuskirk, of Evona, who took her home.

BOARDED THE COLON.

Boatswain of Oregon Visited His Uncle in Plainfield Yesterday.

Fresh from the scenes of conflict, John F. Costello, boatswain of the famous battleship "Oregon," was the guest of his uncle, Patrick Casey, of West Third street, yesterday. While his ship was in dry dock, Boatswain Costello obtained a short leave of absence and ran over to Plainfield yesterday where he was made the honored guests.

Of course, he had innumerable yarns to spin about his experience on the great war-ship. He was a member of the crew that boarded the Spanish cruiser "Christopher Colon" after her partial destruction by the united fire from the American ships. He had many souvenirs of the battles with Cervera's fleet.

BROKEN STONES CAUSE TROUBLE.

Was Johnson's Property in the Way or Did Day Destroy it Maliciously?

There is trouble between two residents of Cottage place over a few flagging stones which were broken. Frank Johnson keeps a stone yard and John Day is his neighbor. A week ago Johnson says Day walked by his place one night and deliberately threw over several fine "flags," breaking them.

Day admits breaking a few stones, but says they were standing in the way and he pushed them over to clear the sidewalk. The case comes up before Justice Mosher Thursday for trial. As Day admits breaking a few stones the question to decide will be, "How many did he break?"

BAND CONCERT.

Programme To Be Rendered in Front of City Hotel Tomorrow Night.

The following programme will be rendered at the open-air concert of the Queen City Band in front of the City Hotel tomorrow night:

PART I.

March—Everybody's Favorite..... Karger
Medley Waltz—Sing Again That Sweet Refrain. [DeWitt
Latest Coon Medley—The Chicken Brigade. [Johnson
Mississippi Fling.
Comic—Tat-too.....Fahrbach

INTERMISSION.

PART II.

March—L. F. C. B.....Gierman
Medley Overture—In Gay New York...DeWitt
Evening Chimes in the Mountains.....Behr
A Cluster of Peaches—(by request).....Beyer
March—The Stars and Stripes Forever..Sousa

FUNERAL OF MISS LOOMIS.

Services Were Held at the House and at the Grave.

The funeral of the late Miss Florence Loomis was held from her mother's present home on Craig place. The simple funeral service was conducted by Rev. William C. O'Donnell. The floral tributes were unusually beautiful and were numerous. The pallbearers were Charles Dupee, Henry B. Wells, William Knight, Raymond A. McGee, Arthur Peck and Orville T. Waring.

The interment was in Hillside Cemetery where services were conducted by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell and Rev. H. K. Carroll.

Building Miles of Roadway.

Several miles of macadamized road are being built through Somerset county. One stretch reaches from Somerville to Harlingen, about twelve miles. The contractors are putting in eight inches of large stone and covering it with eight inches of crushed stone. The width of the road is twelve feet.

Pastor Schenck to Return Soon.

A postal card from Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., says that he is much improved in health and that he and his family will be home the latter part of this week.

Another Clam Bake.

Nat Astfalk will give a clam bake at Elizabeth this evening. A number of local business men will attend. It will be a subscription affair.

PLAINFIELD G. O. P. HUNGRY FOR OFFICES

Already Well Supplied With Plums They Want More.

COUNTY AND STATE HONORS

MAYOR FISK AND ERNEST ACKERMAN MENTIONED FOR SENATOR.

It is Not Certain That Roger Murray Wants to Go Back to the Assembly—If Judge DeMeza Will Keep Out of Canvass for City Cadi He Might Receive a Boost for the Legislature.

While by no means certain of the future course of events in municipal affairs, the Republicans of Plainfield are fairly certain of presenting a united front on all State issues and in the fight for recognition at the next county convention this fall. There was a time when Plainfield was given little or no patronage by the Union county G. O. P. organization, but that time is past. It may be, however, that the choice morsels already granted to the Plainfield Republicans have but whetted their appetites and made them anxious for more. However it is, there are already a number of local aspirants for county and State honors to be conferred by the coming G. O. P. convention at Elizabeth.

Plainfield now has one assemblyman, the sheriff, the warden of the county jail, the deputy county clerk, the county attorney and several minor offices. The county seat has the senator, now acting-Governor, and two assemblymen with a batch of minor "plums." Rahway has the clerk and intended to have the coroner, but for a hitch at the convention last year that gave that coveted office to one of the smaller townships. While there are some Republicans in Union county who believe that Plainfield has all she deserves for a while, there is every prospect that Plainfield is going to make an attempt to get more.

If Roger Murray wants a renomination for the Assembly, he will in all probability get it by the courtesy rule at the convention. If, as it is rumored, one term is all that Roger cares for, then there are a number of local Republicans who will be after it. Now down in Westfield, there is a feeling that that township deserves recognition in the lower house of the State Legislature, and it seems likely that Westfield will make a bid for one of her candidates. Elizabeth seems to think that she is fairly entitled to two assemblymen, and so Westfield may try to win over the rest of the county to allot the other now held by Plainfield to her.

City Judge DeMeza is prominently spoken of as a candidate for renomination for his present municipal office. It is hinted, however, that other local workers who are looking after the city judgeship will give Judge DeMeza a strong boost for the assembly nomination if he will only go gunning for that and leave the city office alone. Harry C. Runyon has also been mentioned as being willing to take a hand in the race. The race is too young yet, however, to be able to even pick the prominent candidates.

There has been lots of gossip about the State senatorship now that it seems very likely that Acting-Governor Voorhees will resign his office in the senate and make a run for governor. Elizabeth does not look with friendly eyes on the reports that Plainfield is going to have the senatorial nomination. In fact, the workers in the county seat are likely to fight bitterly for the coveted nomination.

Whatever the chances are, there has been plenty of talk about Mayor Charles J. Fisk being after the office. Fisk's term as Mayor of Plainfield expires this year and it is a settled thing that he does not want the nomination again even if it was tendered to him. There are some who say that he does not want the State senatorship either but what his sentiments in that direction are remain to be seen. Another Plainfielder whose name has been whispered as candidate is Ernest R. Ackerman. Mr. Ackerman has not made any apparent effort as yet to appear in the contest. It is too early to expect that, even if he intended to start a boom. He has always taken a more active part in National politics and was considered a candidate against Mr. Fowler in the race for the congressional nomination.

That recalls to mind the fact that this congressional district elects another representative to the Capital at Washington. The Republicans are strong here and their candidate will, unless there is some new phase to the situation, capture the election. Fowler has stood for two terms and is be-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.

GEN. WHEELER ACTIVE

Commanding Officer Stirs Up the Medical Men.

CAMP WIKOFF IMPROVING

Relations Between Gen. Wheeler and Col. Forwood Are a Trifle Strained. Forwood's Dispatch to Alger and the Reply it Provoked from Wheeler. Two Hundred Arrive from Tampa.

Montauk, L. I., Aug. 30.—General Wheeler called together the various hospital, regimental and division surgeons in two conferences yesterday morning. He requested them to make out very liberal requisitions for medical supplies, and proposes to see to it personally that the supplies are received. The general's action may cause considerable friction in certain quarters.

It is necessary to know what passed between Colonel Forwood and General Wheeler to understand the situation. Sunday morning General Wheeler asked Colonel Forwood, chief medical officer, how the medical supplies were coming in and how much of a supply he had on hand. The colonel replied that he had an over abundance of supplies. Several hours later General Wheeler summoned the surgeons, including Colonel Forwood, for his first conference. He asked each one individually how his medicine chest was fixed. Everyone of them replied that he needed medicines badly and needed them at once. The general looked at Colonel Forwood, then wrote two peremptory orders to Colonel Brown of the Army building, Manhattan, to send the supplies he requested. He then dismissed the surgeons after thoroughly satisfying himself on the needs of the hospitals.

The supplies came with a rush and were distributed immediately.

Since yesterday General Wheeler has sent four telegraphic orders to Manhattan for medical supplies and he supplemented his last one with the query:

"Are my orders going to be obeyed?"

A strained feeling in the relations between Colonel Forwood and General Wheeler was brought on by the following occurrence: Two or three days ago Colonel Forwood wired Secretary Alger that within the last four days only three loads of lumber for the erection of the annex hospital had been brought out from the station to the camp and he said that only one load reached him up to five o'clock Saturday. The secretary replied by telegraph to General Wheeler, demanding an explanation and openly criticising the "lamentable condition in the hospitals." General Wheeler made a thorough investigation of Colonel Forwood's complaint and wired the following:

"This is the report from the engineers' department: Forty loads of lumber were transported to the hospital on Thursday, 45 on Friday, 45 on Saturday and 100 Sunday; total, 230 loads of 1,000 feet each."

Two hundred soldiers arrived from Tampa by rail Monday morning. The Yosemite will tow the monitor Jason to Tompkinsville. General Wheeler has ordered prompt telephone service in the various departments of the camp. He instructed the officers in those departments to engage telephone operators to be at their post at all times.

The Seventy-first marched to the station 278 strong. Others who were too weak to walk had to be transported in carriages and on wagons.

This is the hospital report up to noon Monday:

Main hospital and annex, 1,600; detention hospital, 530; total typhoid cases, 115. This is a total of 2,130 in the camp hospitals, beside the 1,500 sick soldiers being cared for in the regimental and divisional hospitals. There are about four thousand men on the sick list here, and 75 more will be accommodated in a couple of days when the new annex is completed.

Distress in Russia.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—Owing to the failure of the harvests in seven districts of the government of Kazan, and in the province of Samara, Saratof, Simbirik, Viatka and Perm, where the crops are almost worthless and even the landed gentry are beginning to ask the government for relief, the government is adopting measures to relieve the sufferers. But the distress is becoming more acute every day. The peasants are denuding their cattages of the thatches in order to feed their stock. In spite of thos cattle and horses are dying in great numbers. The government officials are very slow in putting the relief measures into effect, and the only relief thus far has been the granting of permission to the peasants to gather fagots in the woods for fuel and to collect dried leaves for fodder. The peasants are exhausted from lack of food, and unless the promised supplies are speedily sent, the suffering among the peasantry will be terrible.

The Seventy-First Welcomed Home.

The Seventy-first regiment, with a little over four hundred men in line, reached the Battery Monday afternoon. The regiment left Camp Wikoff at 7.45 in the morning. They came through Long Island City and were taken to Manhattan by boat. A tremendous crowd were on hand to greet the soldiers. The regiment had a triumphal procession to its armory.

Admiral Schley in New York.

New York, Aug. 30.—Rear Admiral Schley, who has been at the Albemarle hotel, left there yestetrday morning at half past eight o'clock with his wife, who is going to visit a friend on the Hudson. The admiral said he is going to get back to harness at once, and will sail for Porto Rico as one of the commission, on Wednesday.

Welsh Miners' Strike Ended.

London, Aug. 30.—At a joint meeting of the Welsh miners yesterday it was decided to accept the employers' terms, offered at the Cardiff conference on Saturday, by which the miners get an increase of five per cent. in their wages. This ends the disastrous six months' strike.

SITUATION IN PORTO RICO

San Juan Not Surrendered While Our Troops Are Coming Home.

Washington, Aug. 30.—There seems to be some doubt in the popular mind as to the status of affairs in Porto Rico. San Juan has not surrendered nor has the Spanish garrison made any movement toward evacuating it. It is held as any other Spanish stronghold might be, although we are ordering our troops back from the island. From inquiries which have reached Washington it appears that this situation wears an air of incongruity in the eyes of many observers.

The fact is that under the protocol there is merely, from a technical point of view, an armistice now existing. Both nations maintain their hostile camps practically within gun shot of each other. Nevertheless, from our point of view, the island of Porto Rico is ours to-day, and the Spanish government has bound itself in honor to take its troops away. The only delay in carrying out this plan is due to the protocol does not say that commissioners from the two nations shall meet to decide whether the evacuation shall take place, but that Porto Rico and the other Spanish islands shall be immediately evacuated. This is, in effect, a condition precedented to the other and longer negotiations which are to take place at Paris this fall.

The transport Seneca is to sail on Wednesday, August 31, from New York directly for San Juan, bearing the military commission for Porto Rico, Generals Broke and Gordon and Rear Admiral Schley. With them will go the necessary staff of subordinate officers and clerks, and also a small group of postal experts, whose duty will be to report to the post office department upon postal conditions thereabouts, with a view to putting our domestic mail system into local operation at once. Meanwhile, we shall go on with our arrangements for bringing back all the troops who are not needed in Porto Rico for garrison duty.

General Gordon of the Porto Rico commission, the only member who had not already obtained his instructions at first hand, was at the department of state yesterday closeted with Assistant Secretary Moore.

The New Jersey Volunteers.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 30.—Governor Voorhees, before leaving for Elizabeth yesterday stated that he expected to have the result of the polling of the four New Jersey regiments of volunteers in his possession by to-day, and that he would go to Washington the following day and make his recommendation as to the two regiments which are to be continued in the service.

The Fourth regiment has been polled by Colonel Oliphant. The officers of the command say that more than 50 per cent. of the men voted to continue in service.

Many of the volunteers voted to disband the regiment merely to please relatives and friends, and it is asserted that the vote against mustering out will be much larger when the final vote is taken.

Wealth of the Yukon.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Major J. M. Walsh, ex-commissioner of the Yukon district, who has arrived here from Dawson, en route to Ottawa, Canada, to make his official report, estimates this season's gold output at $11,000,000, while the clean up for next year will undoubtedly aggregate $20,000,000. He predicts that further developments in the Yukon will go beyond the expectations of everybody. Concerning the situation at Dawson Major Walsh said:

"The district in the vicinity of Dawson is over-populated by about 10,000 people, and they must either move out and prospect new territory or leave the district."

Four Mountain Climbers Killed.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 30.—Dr. John Hopkinson, an English electrical engineer ,and his son and two daughters have been killed while ascending the Dents de Veisivi in the Canton of Valais, the mountains of which are among the highest in Europe, and which are exposed to furious torrents and destructive avalanches. The party had gone on their perilous trip without the assistance of a guide.

Dr. Hopkinson had intended starting for New York on September 28, the trip to be made in connection with a syndicate which he was forming for the purpose of developing his inventions.

Lieut. Tiffany's Funeral.

Newport, Aug. 29.—The funeral of Lieutenant William Tiffany of the Rough Riders, who died in oston last week, was held here to-day. Under an imposing military escort the body was borne through streets along which were massed citizens of every station in life.

Business was suspended, flags were at half mast and many other manifestations of mourning were shown. The services were held in Trinity church, and the interment was at Island cemetery. Lieutenant Tiffany's camrades from among the Rough Riders fired the final volley over his grave.

Bombay Plague Spreading.

Simla, Aug. 30.—It is officially announced that there were 2,300 deaths from the plague last week in the Bombay presidency. The epidemic is spreading and there has been a fresh outbreak in the state of Hyderabad.

Professor Knowall.

"Miss Vernon, what would you say if I were to tell you that vanity is but the looking-class that reflects imaginary virtues and conceals real faults?"

Miss Vernon (simply)—"I should say you ought to know."—Brooklyn Life.

On the face of it, the system is a good one. There are people in Toronto who enthusiastically declare that it is absolutely perfect. All the same, a visitor to Toronto saw the railroad company defrauded twice in one evening. One conductor, who was engaged in closing the car windows, took the fare into his hands, ostensibly because he was too busy at the moment to go for his pitcher. Another, after a ticket had been deposited in the proper place, tilted the receiver upside down, and let the coin slip out of the slot, instead of pressing the button for it to drop.

INTERNATIOAL AFFAIRS

Delegates Begin the Second Week of Conference at Quebec.

WEIGHTY MATTERS AWAIT

Delegations Expected This Week and What They Will Advocate. A Recess Next Friday. It is Thought That No Conclusions Will Be Reached This Week.

Quebec, Aug. 30.—After brief adjournment the members of the joint commission to adjust the differences between Canada and the United States resumed their labors Monday. The United States commissioners met at ten o'clock to consider some of the many petitions and memorials received from those sections and trade organizations of the United States affected by negotiations.

Many delegations are expected in Quebec this week, among others one from the Boston chamber of commerce and another from western lumbermen. The former will advocate modifications of trade arrangements, the latter that the duty on sawed lumber from Canada be maintained. The Ontario government, which imposed an export duty on logs sent to the states in retaliation for the United States duty against the importation of Canadian lumber, will probably defend its case before the Canadian commissioners during the week. The Nova Scotia memorial to the Canadian commissioners, asking Sir Louis Davies, minister of marine and fisheries in Canada, to offer the United States on behalf of that maritime province free access to inshore fisheries and all the privileges enjoyed by Canadian fishermen in return for entrance to Porto Rico and Cuban ports, under the customs tariff imposed on American imports, will also be considered by the British representatives.

The joint meetings of the commissioners were resumed yesterday afternoon to continue until next Friday, when an adjournment will take place until September 20. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr Pope, who were attending the funeral of the late Mr. Laurier at Athabaska, were expected back in time for the premier to be present. Sir James Winter, premier of Newfoundland, also returned to Quebec from the west.

The Garrison club of Quebec will give a reception to thte commissioners and their families on Thursday, but nearly all the festivities prepared for the visiting delegates will be given on their reassembling after September 20.

The civic ball, the unveiling of the Champlain monument, and the governor general's reception are on the programme for the returning commissioners. Great preparations are under way for the vice regal function in the citadel, when ord and Lady Aberdeen take up residence in the fortress quarters.

It is understood that the proceedings of the conference so far have consisted of a preparation and comprehensive review of the contentions of each side, and that the two programmes will this week be presented for comparison, agreement and compromise. Conclusions may be reached on the minor disputes, but there is little likelihood of the trades question, with its allied lumber and building interests, receiving final treatment before the adjournment. Sir James Winter is pressing for the settlement of the Atlantic fisheries dispute at once, as the presence of the imperial commission on the French shore dispute will necessitate his almost immediate return to Newfoundland. Other topics, including the Behring Sea dispute, the Atlantic fisheries, alien labor laws, and mining rights, will probably be discussed this week.

The Accident to the Sixty-Ninth.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 30.—The total death list from Sunday night's accident on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in which a train bearing six companies of the Sixty-ninth New York regiment was wrecked, remains at two, Private Potter Farley and Quartermaster Sergeant Frank Glennan, both of Company M. Sergeant J. J. Manning of Company E, reported yesterday morning as having died, is suffering from a compoand fracture of the spine, and, though still alive, is expected to die.

None of the others is thought to be seriously hurt, although about twenty-five privates are at the hospital suffering from bruises, shocks and other minor injuries.

A number of the regiment left here for Huntsville at four o'clock yesterday morning.

Help for the Soldiers.

New York, Aug. 30.—The sight of many incoming soldiers, utter strangers to New York, arriving without money and bewildered at the Long Island railroad depot from Montauk Point and then waiting for hours around the Army building for their pay, has incited a number of men to form a committee to look after the immediate wants of the incoming soldiers.

The committee will have men stationed at the Long Island depot and the Army building who will care for the men. Food, medicine and money will be supplied the soldiers.

Twelve Prisoners Escape.

Goshen, Aug. 30.—Twelve prisoners escaped from jail here early yesterday morning. Two men, James W. Crum of Scranton and Lewis A. Blackman of Port Jervis, sawed their way out of their cell during the night and then hid in the toilet room.

HAHNE & CO.

Seven Acres of Goods.

ALL THE NEW

Ideas, Fancies, Styles, and Conceits In Women's Dress Wear, Men'sand Boys' Clothing. Furniture, Carpets, upholsteries and all other fall and winter supplies for the home, are here in greater variety and at lower prices than elsewhere.

FREE deliveries at all New Jersey railroad stations. No extra charge for packing.

Hahne & Co., Newark, N.J.

Wear ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS. Perfect Fitting.

FOR SALE BY LEADING DEALERS.

GREAT REDUCTIONS

for this week only.

Lamps.

20th Century '98 pattern,	$1.50
Crescent - -	.75
Happy Thought -	1.00
Tally-ho - -	1.50
Silver King of the Road	2.00

Saddles.

Brown's pattern -	.75
Hunt Hygeanic -	.60
P. & T. Padded - -	.90
Christy - -	1.80
Gilliam - - -	.80

Cyclometers.

Standard watch face -	.35
Standard barrel -	.50
U. S. Trip - -	.50
Bridgeport -	.25

Chains 50 and 75c. each—and everything for the bicycle at

R. FRUCHT'S,

CORNER PARK AVE., AND SECOND ST. tuf

J. W. VAN SICKLE,

122 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

FRESH & SALTED MEATS,

GAME IN SEASON. Philadelphia Scrapple.

Orders called for and delivered promptly.

TELEPHONE 168 b.

F. A. DUNHAM,

—CIVIL ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR.—

109 Park Ave. Sewers, pavements and road improvements. Publisher of city map and atlas. Telephone 87 F

NOTICE

to all interested in

Up-to-date Laundry Work.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular.

We also have just completed arrangements for doing family washing in a satisfactory manner by the dozen or week. Please call at office for further information.

City Steam and Hand Laundry,

Morey & LaRue, Proprietors,

19 Somerset St.,

Tel. No. 751. Plainfield, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS.

110 East Front St.,

Plainfield, N. J

A. LUSARDI,

120 NORTH AVENUE.

Wholesale and Retail

Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds, of Confectionery, Peanuts' Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

COLLIER,

SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN.

Established 1869.

103 Park Avenue

E. D. BARRETT,

No. 148 E. Fifth St.

Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters.

STEAM and HOT WATER SANITARY PLUMBING.

TELEPHONE 212 A.

AT THE

Golden Rule Bakery,

110 SOMERSET ST., COR. MANNING AVE.,

You will find a full line of Bread, Cakes, Pies and Confectionery. Telephone Call 220 F.

ICE CREAM.

Sunday orders delivered.

J. J. STAHL, Proprietor.

F. A. LONG,

No. 108 SOMERSET ST.

Near Manning Avenue.

Up-to-Date Cash Grocery Store.

Orders called for and delivered in any part of City or Dunellen.

Your Valuables,

will be safe in

Doane's Safe Deposit Vault.

Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

HARRY S. POTTER,

Dealer In

LEHIGH VALLEY COAL.

Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard at Mt. Pleasant Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1y

MRS. L. ADAMS,

MILLINERY and DRESSMAKING

Parlors. Imported and Domestic Millinery, styles the latest. Hats and Bonnets trimmed to order a specialty. Ladies' own material used. All work strictly first-class.

114 EAST FRONT STREET.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new Barber Shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

Is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

L. A. HUMMER'S

VARIETY MARKET.

Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Poultry, Eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge.

220 Park Ave. Telephone Call, 20 A.

McCullough's STEAM MILL.

21 Steiner place, North Plainfield.

R. H. McCullough, Prop

Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished

Our 14th Annual Clothing Sale,

for July and August has commenced, and for the next two months we will sell all of our summer stock at just ½ price. It will pay you to call and get our prices before purchasing elswhere.

Men's and Boys' Suits, Bicycle Suits, Extra Bicycle Pants, Hats and Gents' Furnishing Goods

must be closed out, as we carry nothing over. We have about 100 pairs of those English Tweed pants left, which we still sell at the low figure of 98c the pair, so if you need pants, now is the time to catch on. All goods sold as advertised.

Werner's Clothing House,

206 West Front Street.

MANTELS $4.00 AND UP.

AT THE Fire-Place Store,

CURTIS M. THORPE,

310-312 Park Avenue.

STRAW HATS,

Fine Summer Underwear. Also Scotch Cheviot and Madras Shirts, fast colors, at

JAMES R. BLAIR'S,

126 Park Avenue.

$1.25 NOW

REDUCED FROM $1.75.

Misses' Chocolate Lace Shoes with Vesting Tops. Sizes 13 to 2 only.

SHERWIN'S, 149 West Front St.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance.

177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap.
is the order to lay in a heap.
is the atmosphere warmed by its glow.
is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

ORDER YOUR BREAKFAST AT ROGER'S.

232 West Second St. First Delivery 5 a. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

VanEMBURGH & SON

OPEN A NEW DEPARTMENT.

10 qt. Galvanized Pail	15c	Bound Globe Fancy Parlor Lamps	67
10 qt. Granite Dish Pan	25c	Japanese Dust Pans	5c
33 qt. Wash Boiler	25c	Galvanized Dust Pans	10c
10 qt. Dish Pan	10c	Crumb Trays	10c
Zinc Wash Boards	10c	Long Handle Fire Shovels	5c
Painted Chamber Pails	19c	Chopping Bowls	10c
3 Brass Hoop Cedar Pails	25c	Angel Cake Pans	8c
Large Combination Dinner Pails	20c	Perforated Pie Plates	3c-4c
Knife Boxes	10c	Glass Lamps Complete	19c
Large Enameled Tea Pots	25c	Sink Drainers	12c
1 lb. Roll Toilet Paper	10c	Feather Dusters	10c

IN OUR VERY LIGHT BASEMENT.

Babcock Building. Corner Store. Plainfield, N. J.

We Insure Your Shirts.

We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods" Let us call for your work.

Hillier & Co.,

179 North Avenue.

Telephone 30 M.

M. POWERS,

Dealer in Superior Quality Lehigh and Wyoming Coal.

MIXED COAL, $4.75.

Yard 725 to 737 South Ave. Office 171 North Ave., opposite R. R. Station.

Telephone 67 A.

CHARLES L. STANLEY,

142 North Ave., headquarters for

Choice Cut Flowers and Palms and Ferns.

FLORAL DESIGNS.

Decorations for all occasions Greenhouses at Netherwood, near depot.

NEUMAN BROS., HIGH-GRADE GROCERS

Choice Teas and Coffees.

RUSHMORE & CO.,

WATCHUNG AVE. and FOURTH ST.

Dealers in

Lumber, Coal and Wood

Moulding & Planing Mill.

Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Elston M. French & Co.

163 NORTH AVENUE.

(Succeeding VanBuren Bros.)

Real Estate and Insurance.

Largest agency in the city. Loans negotiate

THE Metropolitan Boarding Stables

C. V. D. CORLE, - - - - Proprietor,

No. 138 East Second Street.

Livery, Boarding and Sale Stables

Horses boarded by the day, week, month or year. Reasonable prices.

TELEPHONE 214 F. 17

STORAGE OF FURS.

Special attention is directed to our exceptional facilities for storing furs and fur lined garments, fur rugs, etc., in our new store, 308 West Front street, and the insuring of same against damage by moths, fire or burglary, at very low prices. Now is the time to have your furs repaired, altered and redyed. Summer prices prevail. Estimates cheerfully given.

H. KOHN, 308 West Front Street.

KENT & SON, PIANOS.

$125 A HIGH GRADE PIANO DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.

30 DAYS FREE TRIAL.

GUARANTEED FOR TEN YEARS. Do not pay fancy prices for your pianos. Write us. Send for catalogue. KENT & SON, 49 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

2,000 Yards of Ribbon to be 17c a yard.

Beautiful ribbons moire taffetas in every color. Delicate shades, dainty combinations, plaids, checks, are here for 17c a yard; most of these ribbons ordinarily sell at 25c, a great many at 35c; displayed for easy selection in front part of the store.

Shirt Waists are Now 25c and 50c.

These are the clearing prices, not many here and a few days selling will clear the stock. Former prices 65c. to $1.00.

Silk Sale.

500 yards of figured silks at 42c. regular 65c value. 350 yards silk,s plaids, stripes, etc. at 69c, regular $1.00 value. 100 yards remnants of silk, at 20c. a yard.

Men's Negligee Shirts.

The men's furnishing dept. offers soft front negligee shirts, neat stripes, checks, plaids, white neck bands, some with detachable cuffs, some without cuffs, at 50c. This means your selection of shirts that have been 75c. to $1.00.

A Sale of Hosiery.

About 25 dozen ladies fine black hose, 16c. a pair, worth 25c. Nearly a hundred dozen ladies black hose to be 9c. a pair, regular 12½c. Children's fine ribbed hose at 10c. regularly sold at 15c.

I. LEDERER.

TRY
J. F. MACDONALD'S
TEAS FROM 20c. TO 35c. per lb.
COFFEES.

Our 15c. is continuing to make friends, and our 20c. in the grain has no equal.

Guaranteed to equal 50c and 60c goods or money refunded.

Send or call for samples—we are pleased to give them.
Telephone 49 B. 186 East Front Street.

-:-COFFEE-:-

FRESHER than you and I.
Best that grows.
From 10 cents up.

GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW,
PARK AVENUE GROCER.

McDonough Bros.,
-COAL AND ICE-
222 MADISON AVE. Telephone 225 I.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.
No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p. m.
L. B. Bromfield, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

ALEX. LUSARDI.
211 West Front Street,
Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores 9 9 1 rear

A. A. MARSH & SON,
PRACTICAL
Painters and Decorators.
—DON'T FORGET THE PLACE—
965 WEST FRONT ST.
All orders sent to us will receive prompt attention.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED.
Give us a call. Respectfully yours,
A. A. MARSH. E. MARSH.
MARSH & SON.

—NEW YORK—
& Elizabeth Despatch
STODDARD'S EXPRESS
have opened an express line between PLAINFIELD, NEWARK and NEW YORK. Office in Plainfield at
161 North Ave.
Goods forwarded by direct line to all parts of the world.

CHAS. EDW. BICKNELL,
wholesale and retail dealer in
California and Domestic Fruits, Confectionary, Nuts, Ice Cream, Soda, etc.
47 Somerset St.
"On the Bridge."

William Hand & Son,
STAGES
For Parties, etc. 518 Park avenue.

Summer Stoves,
burning Gasoline and Oil, have been greatly improved—we have the latest productions.
Baldwin Refrigerators are the best made.
Pratts Deodorized Gasoline.
A. M. Griffen,
119 EAST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning & Son,
STEAM
GRANITE WORKS,
Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church.
Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,
Sanitary Plumbing,
Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.
Contractor for sewer connections.
210 PARK AVE.

HENRY LIEFKE,
201-203 West Front St.
BAKER AND CONFECTIONER
Try my New England and Home Made Bread. Vienna Bread a specialty. Goods delivered to all parts of the city.

TENEYCK & HARRIS,
Dealers in all the best kinds of cleaned and wel screened Lehigh Valley
COAL
Office 121 Watchung ave., near 2d st.
Telephone No. 15 F. South Plainfield, L. V. Station.

PEARSON & GAYLE,
Carpenters and Builders.
Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vin st.
H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vines
All work promptly attended to.

FAIRY SOAP. FAIRY SOAP.

Dandruff Removed
"Dandruff can be removed by shampooing the head frequently with Fairy Soap."—Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer.
FAIRY SOAP
Pure—White—Floating.
The Soap of the Century.
Sold everywhere in three convenient sizes for the toilet, bath and laundry.
FREE Send us your name, address and one Fairy Soap wrapper to nearest office below, and we will mail you free a copy of our booklet, "Fairy Tales," second series, larger and handsomer than the first, and containing new stories and illustrations.
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
Chicago. St. Louis. New York. Boston. Philadelphia. Pittsburgh. Baltimore.

Leech, Stiles & Co.
EYE SPECIALISTS,
14 and 16 South Fifteenth, street, Philadelphia. H. A. Stiles will be at
No. 107 East Front St.
Every Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4:50 p. m.
Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 1 14 tf m-t-w-s

FAMOUS
Kranich & Bach PIANOS
and other well-known reliable makes at lowest prices on easy payments at MENZEL'S, 322 West Front St.
All latest copyright SHEET MUSIC AT ½ PRICE. Get a catalogue of McKinley 100c. edition. The finest and most up-to-date edition in the world. tu-

Shoes for Spring.
You'll be buying a new pair of shoes soon. Where are you going to buy them?
The shoe store you want to patronize is the store that gives you the most style, comfort, elegance and durability for the money.
If you'll "shop around" before you buy you'll find that this is the store you're looking for.
Flynn Bros.,
222 West Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

LET US ARM YOU!
It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS AND DECORATORS
141 North Avenue.

REVERE HOUSE
PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey
Families accomodated for the Spring and Summer months at greatly reduced prices.
The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed
GEO. B. DE REVERE

Jones & Co.,
EXCAVATORS
Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.
—Cesspools Built

E. E. BROWN'S
MEAT MARKET
cor. PARK AVE. and SECOND ST.
Choice Meats
of all kinds.
GAME
in seasons. Goods delivered in all parts of the city and borough.

RUSHTON & HANSEN,
Painters and Paper Hangers,
Office and Shop Sycamore and Fourth Streets
Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

UNINTERRUPTED PASSENGER SERVICE
TO
FORT MONROE
OLD POINT COMFORT
AND
WASHINGTON
which are most attractive points at this time.
EXPRESS STEAMSHIPS
OF THE
OLD DOMINION LINE
Perform Daily Service.
Through tickets returning from Washington by rail or water.
For full information apply to
Old Dominion S. S. Co.,
Pier 26, North River, New York.
W. L. GUILAUDEU, Vice-Pres. & Traffic Mgr.
12 31 tf

Who? Who? Who?
says the Owl.
Who sells the best Wall Paper?
Who sells the most Wall Paper?
Who has the largest stock of Wall Paper?
Says the Public:
MARSH, AYERS & CO.,
of course.
The Owl is the symbol of wisdom—a fit symbol is it, therefore, to head an advertisement that will convey to you the wisdom of buying your Wall Paper of us.
Marsh, Ayers & Co.,
WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, etc. 201 Park avenue, cor. E. Second street.

M. E. STEPHENSON,
146 North Avenue,
Near the depot.
RESTAURANT
AND CATERING.
TELEPHONE 624.

Smalley Bros.
THE OLD ESTABLISHED RELIABLE
BUTCHERS,
144 NORTH AVE.
Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

THE CRESCENT HOTEL.,
corner Somerset and Chatham streets, North Plainfield. Regular and transient boarders.
RUDOLPH SPEIGEL, Proprietor.

SESSION OF THE CORTES

Attitude That Will Probably be Taken by the Various Parties.

Madrid, Aug. 30.—The Conservative members of the Cortes will meet on Saturday next in order to arrange their course of action during the coming session. It is understood that they will not support a radical campaign against the government, but will maintain the attitude which they assumed during the last session.

Senor Robledo, however, as leader of the Dissident Conservatives, proposes to employ every legitimate means to insure a debate upon all questions of war or peace. The attitude of the Carlists and Republicans is not announced, but they can be depended upon to violently oppose the administration.

If the French ambassador at Washington, M. Cambon, forwards in time the list of the American peace commissioners, the cabinet ministers at the meeting to be held here will deal with the Spanish commission.

The ministers declare that the only instructions sent to the Cuban and Porto Rican commissioners were to obtain the best and most advantageous terms possible for Spain.

THE PEACE COMMISSION

Senator Lodge May Be Named Instead of Judge White or Senator Frye.

Washington, Aug. 30.—A flutter was created in the environs of the department of state yesterday by the story that Senator Lodge has been called to Washington on business connected with the peace commission. As stated in these dispatches ten days ago, Mr. Lodge was one of the first senators under consideration for membership of the commission. The rumor, therefore has spread abroad that Judge White has declined and that Mr. Lodge has been named in his place. This seems improbable, however, in view of the president's well known fondness for geographical distribution in such matters, as that would tend to give New England a double weight on the commission and leave the South unrepresented.

It was deemed more likely that Senator Frye might have reconsidered his acceptance and Mr. Lodge been substituted as the representative New Englander in the Senate familiar with our foreign relations.

Sickness in Porto Rico.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Representative Wadsworth of New York, who has just returned from a trip to Porto Rico, visited the war department and had a conference with Secretary Alger. He said sickness among the troops in Porto Rico was becoming as great as at Santiago. Ten per cent. of the men, he said, were suffering from typhoid and malarial fevers. Tropical rains occurred almost daily and men were forced to sleep on the damp ground.

These reports of increasing sickness among the Porto Rico troops have alarmed officials and General Miles was yesterday cabled orders directing him to embark for the United States with all possible dispatch all troops he can spare.

The New York cavalry will be sent north without its horses. Gen. Miles is instructed to notify the department the date of the departure of the troops and the ships on which they sail.

Plentiful Supply of Provisions.

New York, Aug. 30.—Colonel Woodruff, chief purchasing commissary of the New York depot, said yesterday that he had just received a telegram from Camp Wikoff requesting him not to ship any more ice to the camp at present, as commissaries there had a larger supply on hand than they could use.

"That doesn't look as if the men at Montauk Point were being starved, does it?" said he.

"There should be a superabundance of all sorts of supplies there. This department has certainly sent a sufficient quantity of rations to make the camp a land of plenty. I can't understand why any reports of men being starved at the Long Island camp are sent out, when I know it to be a fact that there is now in the commissary storehouses there a plentiful supply of provisions."

Ambassador Hay's Return.

London, Aug. 30.—Colonel John Hay, the retiring United States ambassador t othe court of St. James, who has accepted the portfolio of secretary of state in Washington, in succession to Judge William R. Day, who has been appointed one of the United States peace commissioners, went to Osborne, Isle of Wight, yesterday, in order to dine and sleep there, and bid farewell to Queen Victoria, who starts for Scotland on Wednesday.

Colonel Hay's letter of recall has not yet arrived here, and will probably be presented by his successor. Mrs. Hay was also invited to Osborne, but is absent on the continent. The royal yacht met Colonel Hay at Portsmouth and conveyed him to Cowes.

The President's Vacation.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 30.—The presidential party are expected in this city to-morrow for a few days' rest at the home of Colonel Myron T. Herrick. It is understood the president will be a guest at Senator Hanna's home before his departure from the city.

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 30.—The presidential party, consisting of the president and Mrs. McKinley, Assistant Secretary Cortelyou and Major Webb Hays, left here Monday on a special train at 11 o'clock for Johnstown, from where they will continue their trip westward.

On Saturday the president is expected at Montauk to visit the camp.

Governor's Island Hospital Full.

New York, Aug. 30.—The sick soldiers in the post and field hospitals on Governor's island were all doing nicely this morning. Both hospitals are crowded to their utmost capacity. Major Kimball, the surgeon in charge, has received assurances from Colonel Forwood, the chief surgeon at Camp Wikoff, that no more patients will be sent to him.

Cambon in Montreal.

Montreal, Quebec, Aug. 30.—M. Jules Cambon, the French ambassador at Washington, arrived in Montreal Sunday night on a visit. He is expected to remain here several days.

ALGER SPEAKS PLAINLY

An Answer to Some of the Fierce Criticisms Recently Made.

NOT TO RETIRE UNDER FIRE

The Secretary of War is Willing to Stand on His Record. Is Ready to Have His Department Submitted to the Closest Scrutiny. Many Complaints Have Been Made Which Were Unfounded.

Washington, Aug. 30.—"I do not intend to order an investigation of the wholesale charges of mismanagement of the war, but I propose to stand on my record," said Secretary Alger, when asked concerning the matter.

"If the president or Congress desires these charges investigated, I would be delighted to have the administration of the war department made the subject of the most searching inquiry. If any one can be found who can perform the duties better than I have I am willing to give way to them, but not until the unjust, brutal and untrue criticisms have ceased. I will not retire under fire.

"War found the country totally unprepared, with an army of only 27,000 men. In four months an army of 275,000 men was called into the field, equipped, fought a campaign on two continents, which was a succession of victories, and brought about peace.

"Complaints of all sorts from private individuals have been made which were investigated and proved to be unfounded. There have been charges made against the surgeon general, commissary and quartermaster general departments, which are equally untrue. Three harder worked or more competent officers cannot be found in the service than these men. They have worked long and faithfully, and have done their full duty, and are not responsible for any neglectt which may have occurred.

"Five hundred tons of quartermaster's stores and 400 tons of commissary stores are being transported each day. If anyone is to blame for not supplying the soldiers with rations and taking proper sanitary precautions, it is the commanding officers in the field. Supplies were always on hand, and if they were not distributed the fault does not lie with the bureau chiefs. Regular army officers were in charge of all the camps, except in the case of General Lee, and he is a graduate of West Point.

"No one could imagine that out of the men placed in the various camps thousands of them would suddenly be stricken down with typhoid fever. General Miles selected the camps at Chickamauga, Falls Church, Dunn Loring, Va., and Miami, Fla. He is an officer of experience, and officers under his direction went to these localities and carefully inspected them. They were accordingly chosen.

"Everything went well at first, but all at once, practically in one day, thousands of men were stricken down with typhoid fever. It became an epidemic everywhere and the officers in charge were called upon to deal with the thousands of cases where they had expected ten. Even in a large city it is har dto deal with an epidemic of this kind, where there are hospital facilities and all the surgeons necessary. Out of the 250,000 men in camp in different localities in the United States and elsewhere there have been possibly 1,200 deaths from sickness. This is hardly more than a city of the same number of inhabitants would have in the same period, and perhaps not as many if the city was subject to an epidemic of typhoid or yellow fever.

"I deeply regret the Concho and Seneca affairs and great suffering was endured by the men on board these transports. There was a lack of medicines and surgeons and some overcrowding, but this was partly caused by the anxiety of the men to get away from Cuba. General Shafter is not responsible for the miserable conditions existing on these two transports, because he ordered an inspection to be made, and they were undoubtedly reported to be suitable for the purpose for which they were used.

"The water on the Seneca was undoubtedly old, but a chemical analysis showed that while not particularly palatable, it was wholesome and fit to drink. The navy often carries water for a year, and this was but six weeks old at the most. The fault here undoubtedly lies with the captain of the Seneca. If he had been an officer I could reach I would have court martialled him immediately. He made no request at Santiago for either food or water or medicine. If he had, there were supplies in abundance, and he could have had all he wanted."

More Troops Mustered Out

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—The following troops have been ordered mustered out:

Ninth Massachusetts, from Montauk to South Framington, Mass., where they will be mustered out; Seventh Illinois from Middletown to Springfield; First Illinois from Montauk to Springfield; Fifth Illinois, Lexington to Springfield; Sixty-fifth New York from Camp Alger to Buffalo; Fifth Ohio infantry from Fernandina, Fla., to Columbus, Ohio; First Wisconsin from Jacksonville to Camp Douglass, Wis.; Third United States volunteer cavalry (Griggsby's) at Chickamauga; Fourth Texas at Austin, Tex.

Governor Black Goes to Chickamauga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 30.—Governor Black of New York arrived in this city last evening from Washington. He will see the condition of Camp Thomas at Chickamauga Park for himself. Colonel Wilder of the Fourteenth regiment met Governor Black in this city and accompanied him to the park.

Governor Black is trying to have all the New York regiments at Chickamauga, including the Fourteenth, mustered out of service or sent home. He wired word to this effect to Colonel Cecil of General Breckinridge's staff yesterday.

Gold from Australia.

Sydney, New South Wales, Aug. 30.—The American steamer Alameda, Captain Von Ottendorp, sailed yesterday for San Francisco, having on board $3,000,000 in gold.

FULL CONTROL OF THE ISLANDS

Instructions to the Military Commissions About Government.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The instructions to the Cuban and Porto Rico military commissions were drawn up and approved by the president before he left Washington, and are now ready to be delivered to the president of each commission before he leaves. The instructions will not be made public, but their general terms are known to be the same as the instructions sent to General Shafter regarding the government of Santiago and to Gen. Merritt regarding the Philippines.

This will mean that the military commission will take control of Cuba and Porto Rico in the same manner as the military governor now controls that part of Cuba surrendered to the United States after the Santiago campaign. The many minor details relative to the evacuation of the islands are left to the commission, who will report any difficulty or disputed points to Washington.

There never has been doubt that the United States would take full control of Porto Rico, but the instructions to the Cuban military commission settles any question regarding that island, and means that for the present the United States will assume the government and control of the remainder of the island as has been the case in Santiago.

THE CZAR'S PEACE PROPOSAL

Our Government Not Likely to Take Part in a Conference.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The extraordinary circular note directed by the Russian foreign minister to the members of the diplomatic body at St. Petersburg has attracted the earnest attention of the officials here. It is supposed from the terms of the note as published that a copy was directed to Mr. Hitchcock, the United States ambassador at the Russian capital, but so far nothing has been heard by cable from him to that effect.

It is believed here that the victory achieved by the United States in the late war was a contributing factor in the preparation of the note. It is surmised that that victory made it clear at once to the European statesmen that to maintain the balance of power they would be obliged to redouble their expenditures on account of army and navy else they might be outstripped by the United States.

The official mind here looks upon the Russian project for a general disarmament as Utopian at this time, and while any statement as to the attitude of the United States towards such a conference as that proposed is purely conjectural in advance of the receipt of the invitation, the impression prevails that our government would not care to take any active part in its deliberations.

Black Talks of Camp Alger.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Before leaving Washington Governor Black said regarding his investigation of the New York troops in camp here:

"This is real war. It is no pleasure trip. Neither does it in the least resemble a state camp for instruction. The privations complained of by the troops in camp I consider merely the necessary privations of war. Understand that this applies only to Camp Alger as far as I saw it. If we are able to come through the war without further hardships to our men, then the United States has cause for congratulation.

"I admit that the men have undergone hardships. They may undergo even worse ones in the future, though that is unlikely in the case of New York men, for the state will probably take care of them as soon as possible. But the present condition of affairs at Camp Alger, while hard, is in no sense an intolerable situation."

Soldiers from Camp Thomas.

New York, Aug. 30.—A hospital train of two Pullman cars arrived in Jersey City Monday morning over the Pennsylvania railroad, at 7.20 o'clock, with forty sick men, all members of the Fourteenth (Brooklyn) New York volunteers on furlough, from Camp Thomas, to recuperate. There were only twenty men in each car.

Relatives and friends of the sick soldiers were waiting to receive them. Those who were not able to walk were carried from the car to the ferry boat by their stronger companions. Some of the boys were so weak and emaciated that they were scarcely recognized by their relatives.

There were some tearful reunions. Those who were well enough to walk complained bitterly of the treatment at Camp Thomas. None blamed their officers, but those higher in authority.

Important Naval Orders.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Among the naval orders issued Monday were the following:

Captain C. E. Clark, formerly commanding officer of thte Oregon, now at naval hospital, New York, is granted three months' leave on discharge from that institution.

Lieutenants B. W. Wells, Jr., and J. H. Sears and Ensign Edward McAuley, Jr., are detailed on the staff of Rear Admiral Schley, commissioner to Porto Rico.

Rear Admiral Schley is detached as commanding officer of the second squadron, North Atlantic fleet, ordered to Porto Rico as commissioner, and to hoist his flag on board thte New Orleans.

The officers of the Dale have been detached and ordered home.

Over Thirty Persons Poisoned.

Hillsboro, Mo., Aug. 30.—Over thirty persons were poisoned at a barbecue given at Morse Hill, and, but for the prompt attendance of physicians, it is probable several deaths would have occurred.

Over a score are in a very serious condition, but on a fair way to recovery. It is supposed some one placed Paris green in the meat.

The Solace at Boston.

Boston, Aug. 30.—The United States hospital ship Solace, having on board seventy-four sick soldiers and marines, arrived off the navy yard at about 11 o'clock yesterday morning from Santiago. She was several days overdue.

THE DAILY PRESS

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

Two cents a copy. Ten cents a week
$5 a year—in advance
No extra charge for papers mailed to points in the U. S. and Canada
Delivered by carrier or by mail.
The Press has the most complete carrier and mail service of any paper in the metropolitan district.
Any subscriber failing o receive a single issue will confer a favor by notifying the business office.
Advertising rates mailed on request
Copy for change of advertisements must be in this office by 9 a m. to ensure change the same day.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 30, 1898.

FEATURES OF TODAY'S PRESS.

PAGE 1.—Important local news.
PAGE 2.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 3.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 4.—Editorial and gossip.
PAGE 5.—Vicinity news.
PAGE 6.—German news.
PAGE 6.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 6.—Woman's department.
PAGE 7.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 8.—Sporting and local news.

Reflection of the Summer.

It dosen't seem as if summer was almost over and that soon the activity of the fall and winter was about to begin. But it's so nevertheless. The days are growing appreciatably shorter and the summer tourists are preparing to return to their labors after the vacation season. Another week will see the opening of the schools here and the students of the various colleges and other higher institutions of learning will be gathering at the scenes of their coming labors. Then, too, the evenings are getting cool and the season of piazza sitting, particularly at night, is drawing to a close. There is always something pathetic about the autumn when the leaves turn to their varied hues, droop and die. The cool air is bracing and condusive to harder labors but still the ending of the summer brings solemn thoughts to he or she who has a chance to view it all and ruminate on it. It means to Plainfield, however, a general awakening from the lethargy of the summer time in business and the various organizations that have been almost dormant during the hot weather. The national situation promises a revival in business the like of which has not been seen for years and Plainfield will come in for her share of it. There will be plenty for those who are of a mind to get up early in the morning and get after it.

Mixing the Gay With the Grave.

The three New Jersey commissioners sent by Governor Voorhees to Jacksonville to ascertain the preference of the men of the Second New Jersey as to whether they want to stay in the army or be mustered out, have met with some funny experiences. If unmarried he would be asked if he had anybody dependent upon him, what his prospects were, had he left a good place to enlist, was that place still open, and similar questions. Married men were doomed, it would seem, according to what the men said afterward. As soon as one answered that he was married and that his family was dependent upon him, a short "That will do, sir," from the General, and a hasty jotting down of the report opposite his name on the roll showed that he would probably go home.

One man in Company B being asked if he was married, replied:

"Sure, sir, I don't know; the jury is still out."

A smothered laugh followed, in which even General Spencer had to join. Another man of Company A was asked if he wanted to go to Cuba and said:

"I didn't know I had command of the regiment, sir; if I had, I never would have ordered it here. We would have been at the front long before this."

Return of the Naval Reserve.

The boys who graduated from the New Jersey Naval Reserve to become full-fledged Jackies under Uncle Sam's wing are really the only ones who have had a chance to bring glory to New Jersey. The fates of the war took them to the vicinity of conflict and now they bear a record to be proud of. With her nine representatives on board the Badger, Plainfield has had a share in the glory of their acts, and now it seems a pity that the uncertainty of the time that the sailors are to arrive home precludes an earnest attempt to make a public demonstration and reception in their honor. It would be a clever thing to do to give these boys a rousing welcome back to their firesides. They deserve it.

The Medico-Military Quarrel.

The controversy between General Shafter, who commanded in the Santiago campaign, and General Sternberg, the chief of the medical department of the army, as to the responsibility for the neglect of requirements due to the sick and wounded and for the condition of the transports Seneca and Concho, which brought the wounded north, has naturally aroused widespread interest. The eagerness to fix a shameful responsibility somewhere has been general. General Shafter indignantly repudiates the assertions made by the general medical staff that it lay within his power to have obviated any of the evils of an ineffective medical service. The fact that he has no direct control, under military practice in this country, where the whole staff departmental service is not unified under the single head of the commanding general in the exigencies of a campaign, was held to be a good justification of his innocence of responsibility. General Sternberg's accusation is that the quartermaster's department, which is under the control of the commander absolutely, failed to put at the disposition of the medical department boats and pack mules for the landing and carriage of supplies to the front. It is stated that a great part of his reserve medical equipment, including the ambulance corps, was left at Tampa, on account of insufficient transportation, when the expedition started. At Siboney the soldiers, in light marching order, with their rations, were landed first and hurried to the front, for it seemed imperative to force a short, quick campaign, without waiting for a full equipment of all the paraphernalia of service. The Relief, with a complete outfit of all medical supplies, did not arrive at Siboney till four days after the fight at El Caney. She was not able then to land her needed complement for medical and surgical work promptly, because proper transportation was not supplied by the chief quartermaster, all the launches and mules being diverted for purely military service; hence delay in dispatching medical supplies where they were so urgently needed.

In the matter of the hospital ships Seneca and Concho, which were overcrowded and poorly supplied with water and food, aside from the comforts needed by the wounded, General Sternberg does not present so good an argument. Their overcrowding may have been unavoidable, but it certainly was imperative on the medical department to insure their adequate supply of everything needed, even if in some respects such care would trench on the technical duties of the commissary department.

The truth seems to be that there was fault on both sides, the errors and slips which always come from divided responsibility. The American army's radical fault is the lack of a perfectly organized general staff department. In European armies this important feature is the medium through which all details are harmonized and administered under the direct control of the commanding general. Every factor in military service is thus under the management of one man. The troubles of the Santiago campaign might easily have been averted under a better system. This defect was the evildoer in the deeds of omission and commission complained of rather than any individual. Perhaps, too, the evils themselves have been overstated.

Professor Mommsen, the great historian, is a bitter hater of England in common with most of his countrymen. He does not think that England will ever bend her proud knees to beg a German alliance, for she knows Germany would not do her dirty work, for that, in the professor's mind, is what alliance with Great Britain means. Neither does he think that there will be an Anglo-American alliance. He has too exalted an opinion, too, of the United States to credit such a degradation. This learned doctrinaire is sure that it will not be many years before the detested Englisher will suffer the colonial fate of Spain at the hands of Russia, France and Germany. Russia will swallow India, France will capture Egypt, and Germany will share the spoil by ruling over Cape Colony and South Africa. Professor Mommsen is a most brilliant master of the art of hind sight, but there is serious question as to his foresight.

Dr. Domingos Freyre of Rio Janeiro has conducted some very timely experiments with soil taken from a cemetery near Rio which had been removed from the graves of victims of the yellow fever. His series of cultures with the resultant fluids produced conditions in animal bodies exact counterparts of those created by yellow fever. From the same cultures he also produced a fluid, to be used as vaccine is, with the effect of propagating, a perfectly safe form of the dreadful disease. The statement that the soil in tropical cemeteries is so apt to be germ laden suggests interesting hints for sanitary measures to be used in dealing with tropical pests.

The Egyptian sirdar, General Herbert Kitchener, is only a practical soldier without political pull. His great genius, however, as shown in the Egyptian campaigns, makes it probable that he will yet be in command at the Horse guards. He and Lord Roberts are without doubt the most gifted soldiers in the British service.

HUNGRY FOR OFFICES.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

ginning to make a name for himself in the legislative halls at Washington. All through the State it will be noticed that there is a general tendency to put back the same men in Congress that have already been representing Jersey there. The apparent reason for this is that a man thoroughly accustomed to the methods of Congress can look after his constituents far better than a man of equal ability who has not had the experience. Thus Maine has secured for herself the Speakership by continually returning Mr. Reed to the House.

The Republicans of this district are not essentially different from those of the other districts in the county and it seems likely that they will prefer to see Mr. Fowler back in his old place with the chance of winning new laurels for the State and for himself.

Meanwhile, between the war and the hot weather, politics have not yet taken a very active turn in this section. Any attempt to point out the probable course of affairs, as yet, is sure to be premature. It seems quite likely, however, that Plainfield will be up to the front this year and will look for still further recognition of her claims.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"A Trip to Coontown" is entirely different from anything that has hitherto been seen on the stage, and with its attendant features, as interpreted by Cole & Johnson's organization, is especially strong in its appeal to the more cultivated classes of the community, nor are the masses less pleased by it, for in no form of entertainment now before the public is there so much wholesome, infectious humor as is now to be found in the merry pranks and gambols of this band of joyous colored entertainers. They appear at Music Hall tonight.

* * * * *

The greatest theatrical event of the season will be the engagement of the Katherine Rober Company, supported by the Lillian Kennedy Company, in three great productions, commencing Thursday night. This very clever company of comediens has the entire praise of the press and no man or woman or child should miss this opportunity of seeing these productions. Notwithstanding the enormous expence of this attraction the prices will be popular, 10, 20 and 30 cents. Secure your seats at once.

SOMERSET COUNTY FAIR.

Attractions That Have Been Arranged—A Politicians' Day.

It will be one of the old-fashioned kind, and that is the kind that takes in this community. The time is September 13th, 14th and 15th—just two weeks off.

The first day will be devoted solely to entering and arranging the exhibits. The second day the school children of the county will all be admitted free, and the third day is designated as politicians' day. It must not be taken for granted that these human exhibits will be the only attractions, as they will cut a very little figure in the programme. Assurances are already received that the exhibits in the ladies' and farmers' departments will outstrip anything seen on the grounds in years.

The races are filling beyond the fondest expectations of the management, and who doesn't like to see a good horse race?

The admission prices are graded to meet the present state of prosperity—25 cents each for adults and carriages, and 15 cents for children.

If you can't come all three days, come one or two and bring all the family with you. You are the only ones who will make anything out of the exhibition, as the stockholders never expect to do better than break even. But you and others will get those $5,000 offered in premiums.

One Fare—G. A. R.—Cincinnati.

Via Lehigh Valley. September 3rd and 4th. c 8 25 9 1 p 8 30 9 1-2

—The picnic of the Sunday-school of the German Lutheran church will be held tomorrow at 10 o'clock a. m. at the Mountainside Grove.

Boynton Beach

LAST WEEK OF THE SEASON.

BATHING, BOATING, FISHING.

Bowling and Merrry-Go-Round.

Daily Music.

Afternoon, free use of Pavilion.

DANCING

Thursday and Saturday evenings, 25 cents.

Get ready for

LABOR DAY,

Monday, September 5.

THIS WEEK.

A large quantity of 36-inch PERCALES. Splendid cloth and choice styles, made to sell at 10c. Our price while they last, 6c. per yard. Very desirable for Wrappers, House Dresses, etc. They are a greater bargain, if possible, than the Organdies we sold in July. They are worthy the attention of all careful buyers. We are not selling them for profit, but rather to make business during the dull season.

SUNDRY NEW GOODS.

Our FALL DRESS GOODS are now arriving. We have some rare values in Brilliantines, Sicilians and Storm Serges in Navy and Black. We buy these goods direct from the mill. They are reliable and we recommend to the finest trade. Novelties will be worn but little, so we leave them out and devote our energies to securing the choicest things for tailor made suits. Venetian Cloths are the latest. We have them.

Some new BLACK CREPONS at 98c. are very rich. We have a new Black Henrietta, 46 inches wide, at 98c. that we believe are above the average $1.00 Henrietta. Ask to see it.

-:- Our Fall Line of Gents Neckwear -:-

now in stock. We pride ourselves on making choice selections of rich materials. If you are particular about Ties ours will interest you.

-:- Children's Hats and Caps for Fall. -:-

All new and the latest. More than that, they are clean. We handle no sweat shop goods.

Ladies Tailor-Made SKIRTS, Ready to Wear,

OR MADE TO ORDER.

Our own materials and workmanship the finest.

A Few Trade Winners.

Just for This Week.

A Solid Oak 5-drawer Chiffonier, brass handles, 12 of them, a bargain at - - $4.98

A Solid Oak Sideboard, large French bevel glass, full size, value $12, 6 of them at - $8.99

100 large full size Dining Chairs, open Cane Seat, the regular $1 value, this lot at - - 79c

Iron Beds, Mattresses, Pillows, Bolsters and Springs. Prices about ⅔ of what you usually pay.

New Furniture arriving every day. When in need of Furniture or Housefurnishings, visit Our Basement.

Mason's QUART JARS, 40c. Doz.

PINTS, 36c. Doz.

WOODHULL & MARTIN,

234-236-238 W. Front St.

Telephone No. 774.

PECK'S Corset Store,

316 W. Front St.

SPECIAL.

A splendid line of Scotch Suits to order - $15.00
Reduced from $20.00.
Trousers to order - - - - 5.00

SEBRING'S,

202 West Front St.

The Model Town . . .

LINCOLN

OFFERS

Rare Opportunities for Home Seekers and Investors.

In has Sewers, Trolley Line, City Water, Telephones, School, Postoffice, Macadam Road, Depots of Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

HOUSES AND LOTS SOLD ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

SILAS D. DRAKE, President and Manager.

MAKES HAIR GROW. A lady in Maine writes:—"I had a bald place on the side of my head for 20 years. Have used almost everything, but found nothing like [illegible]

REYNOLD'S PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC.

I now have a soft, white down all over the place." It stimulates healthy action of the scalp, relieves from dandruff, prevents falling out of hair. No disagreeable odor. An elegant hair dressing. Made only by

T. S. ARMSTRONG, THE APOTHECARY.

BOEHM'S.

Nothing we can say will convince you like our goods and prices themselves. Come in and let us show you that beyond a shadow of a doubt it pays you every time to trade with us.

French Percales.

5,000 yards of new Fall patterns of yard wide French Percales, worth 10c., at 5c.

Serges.

40-inch all wool Camel hair Serges in navy, brown and garnet, a bargain at 45c., special 29c. a yard.

Pillow Cases.

Full size hemstitched Pillow Cases, extra heavy muslin, at 10c.

Boys' Knee Pants.

Good, strong, serviceable Knee Pants, in sizes from 4 to 14, at 25c.

Men's Laundried Percale Shirts.

A few odd sizes, to close them out at 25c., were 45c.

Torchon Laces.

50 pieces of Torchon Laces, 2 and 3 inches wide, worth 10c. a yard, at 4c. yard.

Ask to see our 25c. Men's Unlaundried Shirts, sizes 14 to 17½, worth 39c.

Men's Merino Underwear.

Suitable for Fall wear, in white and grey, the 50c. quality at 39c. each.

Hermsdorf's Fast Black Hose.

Silk finished, double heel and toes, elastic tops, the 25c grade at 20c a pair.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

Friendship Cups from 10c. upwards.
Glass Lamps, all complete, at 10c.
Jelly Tumblers at 19c. dozen.
Large size galvanized Water Pails, at 25c.
Preserving Kettles, 16 quarts, at 49c.
Mason's Pint and Quart Jars at lowest market prices.
A good, serviceable broom at 10c.
100 piece decorated Dinner Set, a decided bargain, at $5.75.
White China Cups and Saucers at 3c.

BOEHM'S.

SENSATION IN SHOES ! !

"OFF STYLES," BUT THE BEST OF STOCK.

They will go quick. 1 lot men's Calf Bals, Good Year welt, (all sizes) narrow toes, sold for $3 and $3.50, only 98c. 1 lot Burt & Packard's narrow widths, only broken sizes, were $5 and $6, only $1.48. 1 lot J. & M. patent leather button and lace odds and ends, were $5 and $6, only 98c. 1 lot odds and ends boy's and men's, sold from $2.50 to $4, your choice now 69c.

We are selling lots of TRUNKS, Dress Suit Cases and Hand Bags cheap. These are some samples of our great summer sale. Trunks from $1.98 up. BIGGEST BARGAINS IN TOWN.

Doane & Edsall.

THE WELSBACH BURNER.

THE GAS SAVER,

Three times the light, one half the gas.

Buy the genuine burner.

JOS. W. GAVETT,

301 West Front St.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 30.—Mr. and Mrs. James McElvare entertained Mr. and Mrs. McEleer, of Brooklyn, over Sunday.

Workmen are busy today changing the cross walks across North avenue. Sometime ago they were relaid, so as to form a continuous walk from sidewalk to sidewalk. They are being relaid with a six-inch gutter separating the crosswalk from the sidewalk.

Rev. W. S Coeyman, of Lebanon, who occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church Sunday, preached two good sermons. The evening sermon was followed by a evangelistic service at which two arose for prayers.

Master Percy Abbott is spending three weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Abbott, of Somerville.

Corporal John Fisher, of the Third Regiment, N. J. Volunteers, visited friends here Friday and Saturday.

Charles Carpenter and wife, of Washington avenue, spent Saturday and Sunday at Asbury Park.

Miss May Apgar, of Front street, returned Saturday from a visit with her sister at Flemington.

Mrs. William E. Terry and Mrs. Annie Abbott visited relatives in Metuchen Saturday.

William Milliken, of New York, spent Sunday with his parents on West Front street.

Miss Maud Wilcox has returned from Plainfield where she has been visiting.

Miss Helen Foster, of Poughkeepsie, is visiting her cousin, Miss Emma Craig.

Mrs. Charles Winter, of Jersey City, is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. Schepflin.

Jacob Henry, of Joliet, Ill., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer.

O. A. Douglass, editor of The Call, spent Sunday on Staten Island.

George Schenck is rejoicing over the arrival of a young daughter.

John Fenner spent Sunday at Pluckamin with his parents.

R. J. Swackhamer is entertaining his sister from Whitehouse.

Mrs. Charles Starkee and son are visiting relatives at Milford.

Mrs. Winfield Hetfield visited relatives in Califon Saturday.

Mrs. A. I. Martine visited in Somerville Saturday.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of the Daily Press.)

New Market, August 30.—Workmen are busy repairing the Lehigh Valley Railroad bridge spanning the brook just below here.

The road from here to South Plainfield is becoming a popular one for wheelmen. The road has been macadamized and repaired, and is in good condition. It makes a nice ride to start from Plainfield, ride to Dunellen, to this village and home by way of New Brooklyn.

New floor timbers are being placed on the white bridge; the "back road," as it is called, is closed.

Several houses are being built here, and much repairing is being done.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 30.—Mrs. Edward Wade is entertaining her cousins from Jersey City.

A large congregation greeted Rev. Mr. Trayman Sunday morning. This was Mr. Trayman's last Sunday, as Mr. Braker returns from his vacation this week. Mr. Trayman during his short pastorate has made many warm friends in town.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff of the Methodist church was taken suddenly ill Saturday evening and was unable to occupy his pulpit Sunday. Consequently no services were held.

John E. Flannery, of Plainfield and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flannery, of New York, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George H. Johnston.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff and sister, of Dover, were the guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Ira G. Walker.

Henry Keuhn has finished his contract of painting Peter Frazer's cottage on Park avenue.

Mrs. Charles W. Brown is entertaining her sister from Tremont, N.Y., for a few days.

Mrs. Meyers, of Brooklyn, is visiting Henry C. Meyers and family.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 30.—Albert Norris, one of the Seventy-first New York Regiment boys, is confined to the home of his wife's parents on Cumberland street and is in a precarious condition. Two doctors have been at his bedside today and the hopes of his recovery are very slim. Elliott Howe and David Curtis, of the same regiment, say that it is a shame the way the volunteers are being treated and that on the way north they had not enough to eat and nothing that a sick man could hold on his stomach.

Arthur M. Messiter, nephew of A. A. Gaddis, of this town, a member of the Seventy-first New York Regiment, died at Boston Friday last from a fever contracted at Santiago. Mr. Gaddis is in New York today attending the funeral.

Charles Embleton will take part in the 15-mile road race to be held at Plainfield Thursday. Young Embleton is a fast one and the Plainfielders will have to hustle to lose him.

The annual meeting of the Willard W. C. T. U. will be held Tuesday, September 6, when officers for the ensuing year will be selected. A full attendance is requested.

W. H. Grogan and several friends are enjoying a trip to Point View Grove, Long Island Sound, today as the guest of the Elizabeth Lodge of Elks.

Lieut. Washington, of the battleship Indiana, will spend Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gomes, of Park street.

—Amateur photographers can have their plates or films developed at the art gallery in the Y. M. C. A. building at reasonable rates.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholsale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

One Fare—G. A. R.—Cincinnati.

Via Lehigh Valley. September 3rd and 4th. c 8 25 9 1 p 8 30 9 1-2

PEOPLE COME AND GO.

PERSONAL MENTION OF INTEREST TO PRESS READERS.

Some Come to Enjoy Pleasures of Plainfield, Others Journey to Either Mountain or Shore for Recreation.

Mrs. J. Elston Woodland, of Grove street, is at Belmar.

J. Elston Woodland returned from Belmar this morning.

Bert Richardson, of Prospect avenue, has returned from his summer outing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, are spending a few days at Asbury Park.

Mrs. J. M. Dryden, of Watchung avenue, is visiting her daughter in St. Michaels, Maryland.

Miss Irene Stout, of Irvington, is visiting her cousin, Miss Helen F. Wagner, of West Fourth street.

Miss Ada Woodruff, of New York, is the guest of her friend, Miss Amy Gertrude Burt, of West Seventh street.

Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, of West Eighth street, are expected home today from their European trip.

Miss Annie Loyd and Miss Bessie Reynolds, of Washington avenue, are registered at the Colonial Hotel, Asbury Park.

Among the guests registered at Lake Miniwaska, New York, are Miss Embury and Mr. Embury, of Washington avenue.

J. T. Baker and family, of Stelle avenue, have returned from their summer outing, which was extended as far west as the Yellowstone Park.

Wm. A. MacClymont and family, of Washington avenue, returned last evening after spending six weeks at Kidders, N. Y., on the shores of Cayuga Lake. Sunday Mr. MacClymont will begin his duties as organist of the Holy Trinity church, New York.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way.

Miss Cora Laire, of Park avenue, has returned from Annandale, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. William Demarest, of Stone street, are back from Asbury Park.

Allan Laing, of Craig place, who has been seriously ill, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Smith, of Somerville, spent Saturday with Mrs. C. H. Rugg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bettman, of Willow avenue, spent Sunday at Asbury Park.

Roger Erickson, of West Eighth street, started on his two weeks' vacation Saturday.

Aleck Milne, of Sycamore avenue, spent Sunday with friends at East Moriches, L. I.

Herbert Moore, of Grove street, returned yesterday after a week's stay at Asbury Park.

Amos Giddis, of Bound Brook, spent Sunday with Henry DeMott, of Somerset street.

William Runyon, of South Orange, is visiting his brother, I. P. Runyon, of North avenue.

Miss Constance Patton, of West Fifth street, has returned from her summer vacation.

The family of L. M. French, of Craig place, are enjoying life in the Thousand Islands.

Charles Howard, of Putnam avenue, has returned after a short sojourn at Midland Beach.

Robert Whitehouse, of Brooklyn, has been a guest at the home of Mr. Ayres, of LaGrande avenue.

Miss Marjorie Sterling, of East Sixth street, has returned from her vacation spent on Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Travell, of College place, have been spending their vacation in Johnsonville, N. Y.

M. C. VanArsdale and family, of Somerset street, have returned after a driving trip to Lake Hopatcong.

William K. Dwight, of Rockview avenue, is home from his vacation, spent by the sea on Long Island.

George F. Brown and family, of Grove street, have returned from Lake Pleasant, Hamilton county, N. Y.

Henry Ostermoor, of Belvidere avenue, has returned after spending his vacation on the shore of Long Island.

Miss Bertha Johnson, of West Third street, is very ill, and the physicians have given up all hope of her recovery.

A. S. Patterson and family, of Central avenue, have returned from their summer outing at Jamestown, Rhode Island.

Everett J. Peck and Arthur Peck, of Myrtle avenue, returned yesterday after spending several weeks on the Long Island shore.

Miss Edith L. Pruden and Miss Jessie Pruden, of East Second street, have returned from their vacation spent at Asbury Park.

Clarence Swalm, of West Front street, left yesterday for Brooklyn, where he will visit his uncle, Dr. W. F. Swalm, for a week.

George P. Dupee and sons, Charles and George, of Rockview avenue, have returned after a several weeks' sojourn in Nova Scotia.

Raymond A. McGee, of Orchard avenue, Washington Park, has returned after spending several weeks at Paul Smith's in the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Benson and daughter, of Passaic, were the guests of friends in Plainfield Sunday while driving from Allenhurst to their home.

William J. Roome, Jr., of Sycamore avenue, is home from Pt. Breeze Camp, Wolfboro, N. H., where he has been spending several weeks of his vacation.

There is another sturdy little citizen arrived to give the local politicians a chance at. Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. McNabb, of Rahway road, are the happy parents.

Clifford M. Crane, of West Eighth street, has returned after two weeks spent near Delaware Water Gap. He will return to his duties in New York Thursday after a month's vacation.

A. B. Cornish, formerly of this city and now a prominent young lawyer in Newark, is spending a week's vacation at Gillette and has been visiting Plainfield friends when occasion offers.

Rev. Emmett Case, of Oklahoma, who has been visiting in North Plainfield, and who has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church at South River, preached the first sermon there Sunday. His wife is on from the west, and is visiting for a few days before joining her husband in his new field.

Army of The Potomac.

Niagara Falls, August 29th, September 2nd. Reduced rates via Lehigh Valley. c-8 25 p 29-30

IT'S THE KODAK —one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—E. L. Suffern has kindly consented to lead the prayer meeting in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow evening.

—If you want to purchase good, nice, fresh potcheese you can find the same at Debele's creamery, 127 B. West Front street.

—The bicycle races at the peace carnival, to be held at the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, are open to all riders regardless of color.

—Edwin H. Beekman, Max Moraller and Clifford Braider met last night and talked over their work as instructors in the commercial courses at the Y. M. C. A.

—A business meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society will be held at the residence of Mrs. John King, West Second street, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—The many friends of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Noe, now of 302 East Sixth street, will be pleased to learn that she has taken a lease of the desirable large double dwelling house on LaGrande avenue, near Watchung avenue, and will move there in a few days.

—Charles D. Deehler, chairman of the Maine memorial committee, of New Brunswick, states that it will be six weeks or two months yet before the monument will be ready for shipment. On this account the committee has made no preparations for its unveiling. The memorial will be placed in the courthouse enclosure at New Brunswick.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

SUMMER RESORTS.

Delaware Water Gap.

Mount Minsi House & Cottages.

At Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

Coolest spot in the Gap. Beautiful scenery, boating, bathing, fishing, cycling. Excellent table. Finest spring water. Good R. R facilities. $7.00 to $10.00. Special rates to parties. Booklet.

MOUNT MINSI HOUSE, Slateford, Pa.

8 27 6

LABOR DAY OUTING!

—TO—

MAUCH CHUNK, GLEN ONOKO and the Switchback Gravity R. R. over the scenic line of the CENTRAL R. R. of NEW JERSEY.

Monday, Sept. 5.

A special express train, with lunch car attached, will leave Plainfield at 9:28 a. m. Fare for the round trip:

Adults.....$1.50 | Children.....$1.00

Switchback tickets at half rates if purchased on the excursion train. 8 30 5

Don't let your Grocer give you

Inferior Extracts;

Insist Upon Having That Put Up By

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's City Pharmacy.

143 WEST FRONT STREET. Business Established 1865.

Your Scalp may be kept free from itching and unsightly dandruff. The roots of your hair nourished by the use of RANDOLPH'S QUININE AND GLYCERINE HAIR TONIC. Ladies especially will appreciate its use in this summer weather. Delightfully perfumed, only 50 cents per bottle.

The handsomest Soda Fountain in the World is at our store. The Soda Water, famous for its Purity and delicious Fruit Flavors. When shopping have your meets at The Fountain.

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE, AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,

UNDERTAKERS,

No. 402 Park Ave. Tel. 40.

Office open night and day.

OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,

UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,

200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.

OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,

UNDERTAKER.

Residence and office 59 Somerset St.

TELEPHONE 248 B.

DIED.

WATSON—In this city, August 30, 1898, John H. Watson, age 1 year, 3 months and 13 days. Funeral from the residence of his parents, Michael Watson, 211 Grant avenue, Wednesday afternoon, August 31, at 2:30 p. m. Friends and relatives are respectfully invited to attend. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—Young white protestant girl to take care of two children. 407 East Second street.

FOR SALE—Closed carriage, pony phæton and sleigh; all in good condition; a bargain. Call or address No. 148 East Fifth street. 8 29 2

WANTED—Competent white girl for chamber work and waiting. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street. 8 29 2

WANTED—Competent plain cook and laundress; white. Apply with reference, 418 East Front street. 8 29 2

GIRL wants place as waitress and chambermaid. Call at 80 Myrtle avenue. 8 29 2

WANTED—White coachman and gardener, with good reference. 830 Central avenue. 8 29 2

FOR SALE—Set double farm harness, one farm wagon; Adriane's mowing machine, hay rake, plough, harrow, hay rigging. Robert Clark Jr., Washingtonville. 8 25 6

$1,300 Wanted on Bound Brook property 5 per cent, taxes, insurance $2,300, very prompt pay. Chas. J. McNabb, Attorney, Plainfield. 8 24 6

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

FLAT all light rooms, also hall to let. Enquire Manning's City Marble Works. 8 26 tf

FOR SALE—Roan pony, cart and harness. Apply 525 Belvidere avenue. 8 27 3

TO LET—6 room house, 315 Richmond street. Enquire of Thomas Callahan, Cor. Richmond and Third streets. 7 28 tf eod

FLATS and stores to let in new Stillman building. 6 21 eod tf

MONEY to loan on bond and mortgage. Chas. L. Moffett, Attorney, cor. Park and North Aves. 12 11 eod tf

TO LET—Rooms furnished or unfurnished, at 235 East Sixth street. 8 30 2

GIRL wanted to assist with general housework. 184 Watchung avenue, 2nd house below Fairview avenue.

FLATS to let in new Stillman Building. 8 30 tf eod

TWO nice large sunny rooms on second floor, to rent, with board, near Crescent Church. Address H. L. F., care Press. 8 30 3 eod

LOST—Gold watch with pin attached; name on case. Reward if returned to this office. 8 29 tf

FOR SALE—Large roan carriage horse. Apply 525 Belvidere avenue. 8 27 3

WOMAN wants situation as infant's nurse and plain sewing. Call 158 Manning avenue.

MRS. DAY'S intellegence office removed to 216 West Second street, half block off Park avenue. 8 30 3

TO LET—6 room house 57 Brook avenue. Apply on premises.

WANTED—An owner for a gold watch. Apply to Chief of Police Grant. 8 29 2

Of Course Your Going! We Are!

EXCURSION TO BOYNTON BEACH

(Jersey's noted place)

LABOR DAY,

Sept. 5, 1898. Look at the price only—50c., children 40c. 8 27 9

GROCERY STORE FOR SALE!

No competition, in a live town. A great opportunity to right party.

3 30 2 S. D. DRAKE, Lincoln.

WANTED!

Ten Thousand Amateur Photographers

to bring their plates or films to the Plainfield Art Gallery, Y. M. C. A. Building.

8 30 tf A. L. DRAKE, Mgr.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

Tuesday Night, August 30, 1898.

Second Annual Tour of

COLE AND JOHNSON

"The Clever Coons" - Dramatic Mirror.

And The Big Colored Beauty Show.

Presenting

"A TRIP TO COONTOWN,"

Interpreted by a Star Cast.

Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

Box Office open Daily for sale of Reserved Seats.

3 NIGHTS, Commencing

THURSDAY, SEPT. 1, 1898.

The pretty and popular Soubrette,

Miss Katherine Rober,

Supported by the

LILLIAN KENNEDY CO.

in three great scenic productions.

The Great Military Comedy Drama,

"SPAIN'S SURRENDER,"

Annie Pixley's Great Farce Comedy,

"THE DEACON'S DAUGHTER"

and the Great Sensational Comedy Drama,

"SHE COULDN'T MARRY THREE."

PRICES 10-20-30c.

MATINEE SATURDAY—Prices 10 and 20c.

Reserved Seat Tickets now ready.

Peace -:- Carnival

SATURDAY, SEPT. 3, 1898.

BICYCLE RACES

are open to all riders, regardless of color. Entry blanks furnished to all who desire them. These races are sanctioned by L. A. W. Racing Board.

Secretary Wanted!

Salary position to a man of energy and push, who commands $1,000 to $2,000, position as director and secretary with good salary in an established and reliable construction company. Address Eckard, care Press.

8 30 2

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

Bargains

In shirt waists, quality and low prices are essential to bargains of any kind. We don't think you ever bought such shirt waists at such prices as we name on this large lot, over two thousand, all 1898 styles and made to sell for one dollar. Our price 49c.

A Glove Bargain!

We place on sale today twelve hundred pairs of importers' sample kid gloves from the best makers in the world. Included in the lot are the celebrated Reynier glove, all sizes and shades, 79c. pair.

White

Domet flannel, it means a saving of forty per cent. to buy now, we place on sale two cases of a fine quality 4c. the yard.

A Towel

Tumble, many thrifty people replenish the towel stock just on the edge of the Fall season, such people will find these towel bargains very much to their liking,

Full size all linen huck.....10c
Extra large bath towels.....13c
Extra heavy huck towels.....19c
Turkish wash cloths, each.....2c
All linen brown crash, yard.....6c

All at the Bargain Centre.

New Fall

Outing flannels, the regular 10 cent quality, we place on sale a case of beautiful designs, at 7½c. yard.

A Brush Sale

At half regular prices. Solid back all bristle hair brushes, 29c., a 50c. brush. Solid back toilet hand brushes, 15c. each, value 25c. Fine tooth brushes 10c. each.

Belts!

We will close the balance of our stock of fine leather belts, 19c. each.

For Men's Use!

Our men folks will be on the alert to take advantage of these timely offerings.

Unlaundered white shirts 50c. article, 39c. Men's fine Madras shirts, 49c. Four-in-hand all silk ties, reversible, 25c. each. Fine black half hose, 10c. pair. A 25c. suspender, 15c. pair.

Store Specials.

Fresh arrivals and marked at quick step prices.

White and grey cotton blankets, 38c. pair.
A good umbrella.....39c each
Side combs, 7c pair.....value 12c
A lot of pretty embroideries, 5c yard.
Boy's cambric shirt waists.....15c
10-4 all wool blankets.....$2.40 pair.
6-4 Fancy linen table covers.....49c
6-4 Fancy table covers.....39c
36 inch Butchers linen.....15c
Full size Counterpanes, a dollar quilt, 69c.
Ten quarter, all linen, figured table covers with one dozen napkins, $2.10 set.
Portierre curtains.....98c each
6-4 Scotch mixture for skirting, 39c yard.
36 inch Denim.....10c yard
50 inch Furniture covering..23c yard
Ladies fine lisle hose, 50c quality, 29c pair.

Edward White.

Organdie Gowns.

Some of the expensive organdie gowns made by Doucet, Hentenaar, Weille and other French couturiers have the skirts formed with deep hip yokes of white or cream colored embroidery. The wide flounce of organdie is shirred to this yoke, and has only a broad hem and a few tucks at the bottom. The waist has long, close sleeves and a guimpe of elegant embroidery, or sometimes the guimpe is omitted, and a Marie Antoinette fichu is the only decoration on the plain bodice—this of the organdie trimmed with frills of the embroidery. The folds of the fichu cross the front in surplice form, and are tied at the back with long ends that fall nearly to the skirt hem. These ends give a pretty finish to the back of the gown, and do not hide the pretty yoke effect of the dress skirt in front.

For Sleeping Car Wear.

For summer sleeping car wear nothing is better than a gown of black India silk. These are made on the model of the Empire night dresses, fuller, of course, and are finished at the bottom with a deep hem. A loose graduated ruffle slopes over the shoulder; the sleeves are loose and full. The same garment is converted into a good appearing room gown by a double ruche of colored chiffon set around the low throat, short tabs of lace falling at each side of the chemisette front. If the journey is to be across the continent, it will be wise to have a similar gown of flannel, as the trip over the plains is apt to be very warm, while the mountain rides will be many degrees colder.

White Grenadines.

Very handsome were some cream and snow-white grenadine gowns at a recent fashionable gathering, that were made upon colored silk foundations—pink and green looking particularly well as sheath slips. The narrow foot trimming, set on very full and edged with narrow lace, was finished at the top with tiny knots of ribbon matching the foundation skirt in color, these being "spaced." On another gown was a gathered two-inch ribbon placed between the frill and the overdress, emphasizing the color at the hem. The wide ribbon ruche is too heavy for most of the diaphanous gowns, upon which it appears.

Little Wood Necessary

It is possible in these days to fit out a bedroom with the use of very little wood. To the brass bedsteads are now added brass dressing-tables and cheval glasses mounted in brass. Clothes trees of brass or nickel are also seen, and towel racks of either metal may be had. The dressing-tables are mounted in brass and have a glass top, the drawers being of wood with brass trimmings. Wicker sofas piled with cushions, a wicker table, and a low chair continue the elimination of the heretofore indispensable woods.

Net Toilets.

The lace and net toilets prepared for the gay vacation season before us are extremely fascinating in their dainty beauty. Sometimes the gown is all lace or all net; again, there is an elaborate melange of lace, net, ribbon ruches and bands of insertion. For example, a Doucet gown of satin striped net has both skirt and bodice trimmed with bands of lace entre-deux. The sleeves are usually of the lace laid over chiffon before it is put upon the silk lining—to give a very delicate effect—and very often the silk is omitted altogether.

To Prevent Dryness of the Scalp.

A little warm glycerine rubbed into the scalp with the fingers after the hair is shaken out counteracts the tendency to dryness which is common to some heads. After such treatment there should be persistent brushing. This dryness of the scalp is one of the most prolific sources of dandruff, and any treatment that secures some oil to the hair will have a tendency to mitigate the other evil as well. An excellent wash for the hair is made of rosemary tea, to which may be added a little whiskey.

Dainty Lawn Blouses.

Sheer white lawn blouses will be very fashionable this summer. They may be in serpentine form, with long ends, or follow the conventional lines of the blouse, with a fitted back and deep yoke, formed of alternate rows of fine linen lace insertion and strips of embroidered lawn. Other waists for morning wear are made of the French zephyrs woven on Scotch looms. They come this year in exceedingly pretty patterns and colors, and the corded and tufted zephyrs are first choice.

For Anaemic People.

A physician prescribing for an anaemic person insisted that thin bread and butter should be eaten freely. This, it was explained, was to secure the use of a large amount of butter, as more slices would necessarily be consumed. It is a dietetic fact that good sweet butter spread upon bread is more digestible than the plain cream taken clear. Just as bread seems to assist milk in its digestion, so it does butter.

A Pretty Centre Piece.

A pretty centre-piece recently seen was made of coarse Brussels net edged with a very deep scallop done in green silk. Above the scallop was a wreath pattern of fine green leaves. To work the pattern, coarse Swiss muslin was first basted on under the lace, being cut away after it was finished. This is particularly effective for use on a polished table.

Among the chic and pretty gowns displayed in one of the big stores is one of black taffeta, slashed at the side, with here and there a bit of burnt orange.

Graceful Summer Gowns.

The large, very much frilled berthas or fichus of muslin and lace are already, and will continue to be, conspicuous features of summer fashions. The model so familiarly known as the Marie Antoinette is the chief favorite, and on many dressy toilets, when genuine hot weather comes, the pretty frilly elbow sleeves—also associated with the French queen—will again bear this pretty fichu company. And further, the long silk gloves of white or tinted silk will be substituted for those of kid, and the wide-brimmed chip or leghorn hat, heaped with clusters of roses and foliage, a la Watteau, will be en suite. Properly carried out, this combination will prove very poetic and picturesque. The Marie Antoinette sleeve is tight-fitting to the elbow; it is then furnished with falling frills of handsome lace in a double row. When the sultry days of summer come upon us, we shall be glad to discard the very long sleeves we have been wearing on gowns, and the cool silk gloves will likewise be an agreeable change for kid gants, either of the glace or undressed variety.

Glossy Materials Now Fashionable.

The silky Henriettas and French and India cashmeres in white and colors are regaining the place in fashionable favor which they lost when dull-surfaced, rough materials first became so popular. Cashmere, one of the best wearing fabrics we have, was banished because of its glossiness, which was then a fault, but now, by a turn of fashion's wheel, has developed into a virtue. There is even an extra lustre upon the face of some of the new wools, for the weaves are finer and silkier than ever. The embroidered patterns in dress lengths are very elegant and tempting. These decorated fabrics are not in the strict sense new. It is only the lapse of time that allows them the distinction of novelty. The robe patterns, as they are called, are a combination of plain and embroidered material, and this allows for variety and an exercise of artistic taste in making up the fabric.

The Polonaise.

There is no doubt that fashion favors height and slenderness of figure, real or apparent. The princess robe, and also a modified form of that severe style of dress in the shape of the polonaise, are before us. The latter is more convenient to follow for women of small means. The princesse robe, cut on its familiar, strict lines, and not elaborated with handsome laces, draperies, berthas, and other decorative modifying additions, is not suited to out-of-door wear, however graceful and correct it may be for the house. The princesse dress does not lend itself gracefully to any sort of wrap, which again unfits it for the promenade. A cape worn with it looks very odd, and a jacket contradicts the long, unbroken lines of the gown. The polonaise is more amenable, and this garment bids fair to be quite a favorite among gowns for certain uses this season, and still more popular in the preparation of tailor gowns for the early autumn.

Strange Grouping of Colors.

The most extraordinary combinations of colors are still a prominent characteristic of all smart French and American millinery. In most cases it requires all the skill of the trimmer to make the result other than either flashy or dowdy, the claim for admiration resting upon that very doubtful quality now so frequently put forth as a plea for toleration if not for admiration—that its beauty consists in its unique ugliness. "Uncommon," certainly, very many of the "smart" hats look, and whether it be that what is fashionable needs no further recommendation in woman's eyes, or that the modern milliner has attained much perfection in the study of crude, impossible melanges, it is certain that colors once absolutely hostile to each other are now artistically reconciled.

Devilled Tomatoes.

Devilled tomatoes make an excellent summer breakfast dish, now that the difficulty of broiling over a gas fire is solved. Fresh, firm tomatoes are cut into thick slices and broiled quickly. Arrange neatly on a chop platter, and pour over them a sauce made from two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, a good pinch of white sugar, a saltspoonful of made mustard, a pinch of cayenne pepper, and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Let this boil up quickly in the saucepan, and it is ready for use. These tomatoes may be served from the chafing dish, roasted in the blazer with a little melted butter rather than broiled.

Mayonnaise Dressing.

There are still persons to be found here and there who object to the taste of pureñ, sweet olive oil, and for such a mayonnaise dressing as ordinarily made has no relish. It will be found to be valuable, however, if after the dressing is made, a good teacupful of whipped cream—that is, a teacupful of cream after it is whipped—is beaten in. The cream kills the taste of the oil to a considerable degree, yet the sauce has the richness which it can get from no substitute. Pains should be taken to cultivate a liking for olive oil. It is one of the best of foods.

Sponge Cake Baskets.

Sponge cake baskets, which are useful for children's parties, are baked in deep round muffin pans, and when cold the centres are cut out. A nice filling is to crumb the centres and mix lightly with whipped cream. Fruit, too, may be piled in these little baskets.

An ingenious machine for making sandwiches is used by many of the ocean line steamships. It cuts and butters the bread, and the machine can be arranged so that the bread need not be buttered if the operator does not want it to be so.

THE CORONATION CHAIR.

Claimed as the Most Precious Relic in All England.

The most precious relic in all England, and to the English in all Europe, is an old Gothic chair which stands in the Chapel of St. Edward in Westminster Abbey beside the sword and shield of Edward III. It is made of black oak in the Gothic style, and the back is covered with carved inscriptions, including the initials of many famous men. The feet are four lions, that look like poodle dogs with their tails curled up over their backs. The seat is a large stone about 30 inches long by 18 inches wide and 12 inches thick, and all the sovereigns of England for the last 800 years have sat upon it when they were crowned. The chair is known as the coronation chair, and the stone is claimed to be the same which Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Abraham, used as a pillow when he lay down to sleep on the starlit plains of Judah that memorable night as he was on his way from Beersheba to Haran in search of a wife. It was then he had his dream, and saw angels and archangels ascending and descending a ladder that reached to Heaven, and Jehovah came to him and made the great promise which is being fulfilled to the Jews this very day. And Jacob took the stone and set it up for a pillow and poured oil upon it, and vowed a vow and called the name of the place Bethel.

The Kings of Israel were crowned upon this stone from the time that they ruled a nation—David and Saul and Solomon, and all the rest.

The story goes that 580 years before Christ, at the time of the Babylonian captivity, Circa, daughter of Zedekiah, the last King of Judea, arrived in Ireland, and was married at Tara to Heremon, a Prince of the Tuatha de Danan—which is said to be the Celtic name of the tribe of Dan. The traditions relate that this Princess went originally to Egypt in charge of the Prophet Jeremiah, her guardian, and the Palace Taphanes, in which they resided there, was discovered in 1886 by Dr. Petrie, the archaeologist. After some years they went hence to Ireland, and from Circa and Heremon Queen Victoria traces her descent through James I, who placed the lion of the tribe of Judah upon the British standard.

Jeremiah is said to have concealed this sacred stone at the time of the destruction of Jerusalem and the captivity of the Jews, and to have brought it, "the stone of the testimony," Bethel, the only witness of the compact between Jehovah and Israel, to Ireland, where it was known as the lia phail (stone wonderful). It was carried to Scotland by Fergus I, and thence to London in the year 1200, and has been used at the coronation of every King and Queen of England from Edward I down to Victoria. It is thus the most priceless historical object in the British empire, as it was the Palladium of Israel. It is a curious fact that the altars of Ireland were called Bothel, houses of God.

In the same chapel surrounding the coronation chair in Westminster Abbey are the graves of six Kings, five queens, four princesses, a duke and a bishop.—W. E. Curtis in the Chicago Record.

WIFE-CAPTURING IN INDIA.

A Unique Custom Still Retained in That Country.

The native states of Central India still abound with Khonds, and it is interesting to see that "wife-capturing" is still in vogue among those who represent the first inhabitants of this land. The father in quest of wife to his son, or the young man himself, hunts a deer or some game and starts with a pot of toddy to the other party, and in the course of the day he manages to settle for a wife, and then there is feasting and drinking, in the course of which terms are settled. The young man is to serve the girl's father for a fixed number of months, assist him in clearing the jungle and in cultivation, hunting game for food and in gathering honey. After this period, on a certain day, the young man has to try to carry off his bride, and then follows a hunt after the man and a sound thrashing. If the man is able to withstand the blows and survive the ordeal then his prize is given to him, or if the man is able to escape uncaught to the precincts of his village custom forbids further pursuit, and the triumphant man has the prize.—Madras Times.

Mr. Moody's Advice to Christians.

Mr. Moody advises Christians to starve rather than work on Sunday. The great evangelist is both sincere and courageous and would doubtless follow his own advice if occasion should ever arise. But his hosts of friends all over the world will hope that the occasion will never arise. In the meantime the men who run the cars that haul people to church on Sunday show no disposition to give up their jobs.—New York Tribune.

Just Before the Explosion.

"Bridget, did you bring up that jar of blackberries I asked you to bring?"

"I did, mem."

"You are sure they are blackberries, are you?"

"Yis, mem, but I had to open a dozen ja-ars befure I found them."—Chicago Tribune.

French railroad rules are strict. A bad accident in which several lives were lost took place on the line from Paris to Marseilles recently. When a lady, who escaped uninjured from the wreck, applied for her baggage the day after her arrival in Paris, she was charged 10 centimes for her delay.

SNORED ON A PULLMAN.

How a Man "Didn't Cuss but Used Mos' Pow'ful Langwige."

Leaving Cincinnati one evening for Chicago with a fellow drummer, I walked into the sleeping car with a lighted cigar in my hand, intending to locate my berth and finish my cigar on the platform. I passed the only passenger in the car, in appearance the typical John Bull—very stout, a short neck, red face, and the whole surmounted with a gray Tam O'Shanter cap. You couldn't mistake him; he was the real thing from the "right little, tight little isle." All at once J. Bull yelled to the porter: "I don't want any smoking in this car."

"You mus'n smoke in heah, suh," said the porter to me.

"I am aware of that, my friend; that is the reason I am not smoking. My compliments to the English gentleman, and tell him I am carrying my cigar in my hand and am leaving the car immediately."

I wished to impress the "Englisher" that we knew how to do things over here, but, strange as it may seem, he was not impressed, and would not subside. "I detest the vile weed, and don't want it within a mile of me," said he. I rejoined my friend on the platform, related the occurrence to him and suggested that we ought to do something to entertain the gentleman from England. We returned to the car, and sitting in my berth (the next to John Bull's), I remarked that I had been very much annoyed by sleepers who snored, and, calling the porter, I exchanged the courtesies of "P. P. C. etiquette" with him, largely composed of cash on my part, and requested that if any one in our car snored, he would wake him up and tell him to turn over.

Shortly after we had all gone to bed the "Englisher" began to snore. I knew he would, from the size of his neck and the width of his vest. The porter woke him, much to his surprise. Again and again it was necessary to call his attention to the fact that he was in danger of strangulation. Oh, how beautifully and vigorously he did kick. At last the porter stuck his head into my berth and said: "Say, boss, if you heah him snore any mo' to-night, you can wake him up, youssef. He didn't cuss none, but he used de mos' pow'ful langwige I ever heard." As I thought the British lion's tail had been properly twisted, I went to sleep. The next morning my friend and I separated, he going to the same hotel as the Englishman. Meeting the former later in the day and inviting him to "take something" at the expense of the Union Jack, he stopped me with a pained look and said: "Do you know that that was Rev. Joseph Cook, the famous pulpit orator and lecturer of Boston, you vented your Anglophobia on last night? No wonder he used 'langwige;' he knew how."—Leslie's Weekly.

QUAINT OLD CURACAO.

Scene of Many a Bloody Battle of the Olden Times.

Curacao is a Dutch colony, and the quaintest little island in the world. It is not bigger than the District of Columbia, but has about 40,000 inhabitants and has played an important part in the history of America. It has belonged at different times to England, Spain and Holland, and its cozy harbor has been the scene of many a bloody battle between the navies of the old world, as well as between the pirates and buccaneers that infested the Caribbean sea for two centuries. It has been for 100 years and still is an asylum for political fugitives, and many of the revolutions that rack and wreck the republics on the Spanish main are hatched under the shelter of the pretentious but harmless fortresses that guard this port. Bolivar, Santa Anna and many other famous men in Spanish-American history have lived there in exile, and until recently there was an imposing castle upon one of the hills called Bolivar's tower. There the founder of five republics lived in banishment for several years and waited for rescue.

The houses are built in the Dutch style, exactly like those in Holland; the streets are so narrow that the people can almost shake hands through their windows with the neighbors across the way, and the walls are as thick as would be needed for a fortress. The Dutch governor lives in the solemn looking old mansion fronting the Skattegat, or lagoon, that forms the harbor, guarded by a company of stupid looking soldiers with a few old-fashioned cannons. The commerce of the island is of phosphates, and the government receives a revenue of $500,000 from companies that ship them away.

There is not a spring or well, or any fresh water, and the inhabitants are entirely dependent upon rain water for existence, or upon supplies brought in barrels by schooners from the Venezuelan coast, ninety miles away, or upon distilled sea water. As sometimes it doesn't rain for a year or two, the natural supply is often exhausted and a glass of imported is worth as much as the same amount of wine or beer.—Chicago Record.

A Sailor's School of Manners.

On one occasion years ago the President visited one of the ships informally, dispensing with the usual salute and ceremony, when one of the men rather indignantly asked another who that lubber was on the quarterdeck that didn't "douse his peak" to the Commodore.

"Choke your luff, will you," was the reply, "that's the president of the United States."

"Well, ain't he got manners enough to salute the quarterdeck if he is?"

"Manners! what does he know about manners? I don't suppose he was ever out of sight of land in his life."—Ca a Man-of-war.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Der internationale Chemikerkongreß beschloß, den nächsten Kongreß im Jahre 1900 in Paris abzuhalten. Zum Vorsitzenden des ständigen internationalen Ausschusses für die Vorbereitung des nächsten Kongresses wurde Moissan-Paris gewählt und sodann der Kongreß geschlossen.—Vor Kurzem starb in dem Schloß Schilteru der Gräfin Aichelburg die älteste Frau von Niederösterreich, Frau Elisabeth Neuberger, im Alter von 104 Jahren. Die Greisin war die Wittwe eines Schaffners, der in gräflichen Diensten gestanden hatte. Die Hundertjährige war bis zu ihrem Tode körperlich und geistig vollkommen frisch und war nie in ihrem Leben krank. Einer ihrer Söhne ist vor kurzer Zeit im Alter von 70 Jahren gestorben.

Landeck. Von der Pariser Spitze ist der Tourist Karl Lesehn aus Biberach in Württemberg abgestürzt. Derselbe war sofort todt.

Innsbruck. Die Sektion Innsbruck des Deutschen und Oesterreichischen Alpenvereins theilt mit, daß bei der letzten Inspektion der ihr gehörigen Bettelwurfhütte festgestellt wurde, daß der Bodenraum gewaltsam erbrochen worden ist. Das Schloß war ruinirt. Außerdem fanden sich verschiedene Beschädigungen vor. Im Schlüsselloch fand sich ein kleiner Zettel mit folgender Inschrift: „Mußten leider die Hütte erbrechen, da wir kein Gefäß zum Mitnehmen von Wasser hatten. Wir nehmen uns nur eine leere Flasche. Bitten vielmals um Entschuldigung. O. und H. v. L." Die Herren hatten bisher noch die Gewogenheit, der Sektion einen Schadenersatz zu leisten für die—einer leeren Flasche wegen in der Hütte angerichtete Zerstörung.

Hermannstadt. Zu den Ländern Europas, in denen die Bärenjagd noch ergiebig ist, gehört in erster Reihe das Hochland Siebenbürgen. Hier in den endlosen Urwäldern, die sich über die mächtigen Karpathen hinziehen, haust Meister Petz und wird in seinem Räuberleben nur wenig gestört. Am 17. Juli fand der auf Schwarzwild pürschende junge Kaufmann Hamrodi aus Hermannstadt etwa 2½ Stunden von dieser Stadt entfernt, am Fuße der alten Touristen Siebenbürgens wohlbekannten Presbe, einen gewaltigen Ringelbären und war so glücklich, das 2½ Meter lange und 1 Meter 45 Centimeter hohe Thier zu erlegen. Das Alter dieses schwarzen Bären wird auf 22 bis 25 Jahre geschätzt.

Schweiz.

Bern. Nach einer gründlich verregneten Vorsaison fangen nun die Berghotels an, sich zu bevölkern. Aus dem Berner Oberland, aus Graubünden, aus Appenzell, vom Rigi und dem Vierwaldstättersee kommen günstigere Berichte. Besonders in den Fremdencentren wie Thun, Interlaken, Grindelwald, Lauterbrunnen u. s. w. ist die Zahl der dort verkehrenden Fremden jetzt schon recht beträchtlich. Die Wergenalpbahn und die Mürrenbahn, ebenso die Oberländer Thalbahnen haben bereits einen starken Fremdenandrang zu bewältigen.—Die bekannte Gletscherhöhle im Eigergletscher wurde dieses Frühjahr neu erstellt, so daß sie nun schöner und größer ist als je. Die Klubhütte am Guggigletscher ist letzter Tage eröffnet worden und bereits haben in derselben einige Hochtouristen Unterkunft gefunden.—Die elektrische Zahnradbahn von der Scheidegg nach dem Eigergletscher, sechs Kilometer lang, ist nahezu vollendet und soll im Laufe des August als erste Sektion der „Jungfraubahn" dem Betrieb übergeben werden.

Graubünden. Unter der Firma Sanatorium Schatzalp gründete sich in Davos eine Aktiengesellschaft, welche ein Sanatorium auf der Schatzalp, sowie nöthigenfalls weitere Dependenzen zu bauen und zu betreiben beabsichtigt. Das Gesellschaftskapital beträgt 500,000 Francs, in auf den Inhaber lautenden Aktien.—Während eines Gewitters schlug der Blitz in eine Pulvermühle, die explodirte; es ist jedoch kein Unfall vorgekommen.

Lausanne. Der Staatsrath hat den außerordentlichen Professor in der juristischen Fakultät der hiesigen Hochschule Simon de Felice zum ordentlichen Professor der neu errichteten Lehrkanzel für Bundesrecht und kantonales Recht ernannt.

Tessin. Zu dem Absturz des Revisors Kall aus Mannheim wird berichtet: Kall ist bei nebligem Wetter, als er in Begleitung seines 17jährigen Sohnes auf dem Wege vom Gotthardhospiz über den Orsirorapaß nach Realp sich befand, über eine steil durch Regen schlüpfrig gewordene Grashalde abgestürzt. Nachdem sofort Hilfe herbeigerufen war, wurde er mit gebrochenem Bein, mehreren Wunden am Kopfe und einer Verletzung des Rückens nach Realp gebracht, wo er bald darauf verschied, wahrscheinlich wegen Bruches der Wirbelsäule. Obwohl die Absturzstelle höchst ungefährlich ist, war die Tour bei Nebel ohne Führer doch gewagt.

E. S. F. RANDOLPH,
DRUGGIST,
Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.
PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

(A)
AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED
Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

Don't "chance it"
—'tis costly work. Be on SAFE SIDE and get your furniture, carpets and the like FROM US, the house that's been going near 40 years—that owns and DESERVES a name for fair, square, yes, GENEROUS dealing—that's so SAFE to deal with, your child might trade with it and not be hoodwinked.

About a dozen suits left at $16.50—inlaid, mahogany finished frame—brocatelle covered—a $25 suit—and little priced at that! There must be 50 other suits will clear out before the 1st.

"Odd" Dining Furniture--
—immense lines—even if they're odd sets they're '98 build and may be yours at and below maker's costs.

A dozen sets of 6 cane seat chairs each set—just half former costs. All china closets to go at cost.

Carpets--Ingrains, 39c. yd.--Body Brussels, 90c.
Moquettes and Velvets also at price marks that don't pay for their cartage! But Fall's styles can't mix with them—they must go before one week. Mattings, in 40 varied effects—10c. a yard up.

Enameled Beds
--now $1.95
—that were $2.50 and $3.50—a whole floor given up to Brass and Enameled Beds—there's no such enameled bed sale in all Newark. Dressers and Chiffoniers are grouped in the sale.

30 to 40 Refrigerators left--prices cut in two!

Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stoves—a great, powerful flame—burns oil, but has no wick! All sizes—now on hand to go at wholesale rates.

"Monarch" and "Insurance" Vapor Stoves being cleared away at less than first cost to us! Hundreds use these labor-saving stoves all the year 'round!

$3.50 Baby Carriages—Far too many carriages on our hands—'tis $3.50 instead of $5.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St., Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.
LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS.
Note first name "Amos."
Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY.
127 B W. Front St.
I am ready to supply the public in general with
FRESH MILK AND CREAM.
Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES,
Dealers in
FURNITURE,
149-151 East Front St.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER,
Rapid, Simple, Durable,
IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.
The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address
THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO.,
5 20 4m 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
— DEALERS IN —
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER.
ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER.
169 NORTH AVENUE.
Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phoenix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS,
Dealers in first-class
PIANOS and ORGANS
We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.
221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD. J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.
Madison Avenue and Third Street.
Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.
MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.
SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.
DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order
BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.
FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs. Casings and Stops in stock for sale.
GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.
Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props
Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 50, 7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 4, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 9 15, 10 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 8 32, 9 15, 22 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St. at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturday only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 20, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15 a. m.; 12 m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St. at 7 10, 7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 2 25, 3 30, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 2 30, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 55 p. m., 12-15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 00, 37, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05 8 38, 9 03, 10 05 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 23, 5 45, 6 19, 7 35, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01, (2 11 except Saturdays) 2 27, 3 35, 4 26, 5 03, 5 25, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 34, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p. m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 06, 9 55, a.m: 2 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 30, 10 18, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 33, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 2 20, 4 30, 5 28, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m; 12 35, 1 26, 5 15, 6 35, 7 53, 8 05, 8 45, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01 2 27, 5 25, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m; 2 03 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m; 12 32, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m; 6 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, & c with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.- For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 03 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 8 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only] [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m; 1 15, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21, 7 03, 8 45 p. m. Sundays, 8 52 a.m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 32 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p. m Sundays 8 52 a.m

BOYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 03, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37* 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 6 09*, 6 38* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46 a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a.m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 6 35 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H.P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 7 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02, a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 13 p. m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 6 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. BOLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.
CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

Happy Lives.

Are Lives of Happy Living, and Thus 'Tis Well That You Should Know How This Can Be.

In Plainfield there is many a happy home. Perhaps you know of some, or better still, it may be that you rest your head at night in one yourself. Then again, there is many an unhappy fellow creature in your midst. 'Tis not surprising that this should be the case, when one thinks of the burdens some backs are forced to bear. If yours is not the back that bears the burden, still we think you would be glad to lend a helping hand to lighten another. Let us show you how it can be done, and at the same time tell a story of Plainfield life that will prove this aid can easily be given.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of No. 75 Grandview avenue, says:—"I suffered from kidney complaint for the last 6 years. I doctored and used various kinds of medicines with little or no result. I had almost a constant, sharp, darting pain across my back and if I over-exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and I was induced to try them. My son brought me home a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I started to use them at once, following directions closely. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble. I have recommended them to a number of my friends and will continue to do so."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U.S. Remember the name Doan,s and take no substitute.

GENERAL GRANT AT THE OPERA.

He Was Not Disturbed by Parepa Rosa's Singing.

Time flies like a champion scorcher on a '98 wheel. It seems only the other day that Nellie Grant was a sunbeam of a lassie, in short frocks, with her hair tumbling about her shoulders in a brown fluffy heap—and now to think of her being the mother of grown up girls! Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear! And thinking of her as the little maid of the White House recalls a funny story about herself and General Grant. They had gone to the opera, Nellie sitting sedately erect in a maroon velvet suit, and her father lounging comfortably in the background, talking to a correspondingly lounging friend.

The house was crowded, but as Parepa Rosa, with portly figure and a voice as grand and deep as the ocean—almost—appeared on the stage, the prima donna was conscious of but one presence—the warrior whose deeds were so renowned that for very awe she trembled—she who had hobnobbed with kings.

She might have spared herself her emotions, however, for the general was mightily interested in his statesman friend beside him, and the great English singer might have been promenading on the cliffs of her native Albion for all the general knew or cared.

Then the little girl whispered: "Papa, Parepa is singing."

Whereupon the hero of Shiloh interrupted his conversation long enough to say, indulgently—he adored his small daughter—"All right, Nellie; she's not disturbing us. Let her sing." And the best part of the story, next to it being true, was that Parepa heard of it through the statesman, and, being as humorous as she was portly, she had a good hearty laugh at her own expense and admired Grant more than ever.—Washington Times.

The Spanish Soldier.

"There are many things to admire about the Spanish Tommy," says Richard Harding Davis in "Pageants and Campaigns of 1897." "In the seven fortified cities which I visited there were thousands of him. I never saw one drunk or offensive, which is much more than can be said for his officers. He trudges from fifteen to thirty miles a day over the worst roads ever constructed by man, in canvas shoes with rope soles, carrying 150 cartridges, 50 across his stomach and 100 on his back, weighing in all fifty pounds. With these he has his Mauser, his blanket and an extra pair of shoes, and as many tin plates and bottles and bananas and potatoes and loaves of white bread as he can stow away in his blouse and knapsack. And this under a sun which makes even a walking stick seem a burden. In spite of his officers, and not on account of them, he maintains good discipline, and no matter how tired he may be, or how much he may wish to rest on his plank bed, he will always struggle to his feet when the officers pass and stand at salute. He gets very little in return for his efforts."

The Toad's Favorite Flower.

A correspondent of the Popular Science News had a pet toad, which was kept in a small greenhouse, where it was particularly useful in devouring noxious insects. It made its home in the earth among the roots of a calla lily. Though moved continually to other quarters quite as comfortable, it would vacate and be always found in its favorite lily home.—Meehan's Monthly.

A FAITHFUL LOVE.

When pretty Hester Warren married Ezra Banks, who was twenty years older than she, and a shy, silent man out of touch with village life, everybody said that she made a mistake that she would soon regret. Yet, though village eyes kept keenest watch upon them, village prophecy was for once at fault. Hester's girlish beauty changed into comfortable middle-aged comeliness, and Ezra grew stiff and rheumatic, yet their devotion to each other was unchanged; indeed, after Nannie, their only child, married and left home, it seemed as if the pages of life had blown back for them and they were once more lovers, and the world was for them alone.

That was before Ezra had typhoid fever. Through his long illness his wife nursed him tenderly, but he came from it a broken-down old man, with his ears forever sealed to all the common sounds to which his life had been set. He was slow in realizing this, but one day as he lay watching his wife and doctor, the knowledge broke harshly upon him. He could see his wife's lips move as she smoothed the bed with her soft, wrinkled hand, but he could hear no word. Then he turned his dull eyes, with a pitiful look of pain darkening them, toward the doctor. He, too, was speaking, but the deaf ears could catch no sound. His weak, peevish voice jarred suddenly upon their talk.

"Why don't ye speak so's I can hear ye, stid o' mumbling so?"

His wife started and then cast a quick, imploring look at the doctor. She leaned down over the bed; her face was in the shadow and her husband could not see her eyes.

"Do you hear me now, dear?"

The words reached him faintly, and from a distance. He struggled with the sounds a minute or two before they resolved themselves into words.

"Of course I hear ye," he said fretfully, "only why don't ye speak up? I ain't so sick, be I?"

The words were a little clearer now, though still far off.

"You have been very sick, but are getting better fast. It has to be quiet for you, you know, dear, but you will soon be up, now."

The old man shut his eyes wearily; the effort had been a heavy one for him. His wife turned to the doctor, her eyes shining through her tears.

"I can make him hear," she cried. "I knew I could. I didn't believe Ezra could get where he couldn't hear me. And he needn't ever know now."

The doctor looked at her and said nothing. He was a young man, and it seemed very pitiful to him.

But he had not understood the old man's strong constitution. In a few weeks he was about again, as well as ever, apparently, save for the sealed ears. His wife chattered to him in her old fashion, and kept out of sight the medicines she took for her strained voice; she cautioned the neighbors who came to see him, and thought that he did not know. But she was mistaken; there were other sounds—many of them—that had been woven into a life of nearly seventy years, and in place of these there was a great vacant stillness; and he knew all.

One afternoon she found him sitting in the big wooden chair in the kitchen studying his old twisted hands. He gave her a tremulous smile as she came in.

"I'm most broken up, Hester," he said.

"Don't!" she cried, "don't Ezra!—I can't bear it! We're both getting older, but that's all 'tis."

He shook his head sadly.

"No, 'tain't, Hester—I've been a-seeing it for a long time. You're young yet—you can see and hear just as you uster, but—I'm an old man, Hester. You've been a good girl, and we've had a happy life together, but I didn't calculate for you to be tied up to an old man. I've got to thinking about it lately, and sometimes I think folks was right and it hadn't orter been."

The woman listened and a great pain seemed to beat up in her throat and choke her voice. She leaned over and put her trembling hands on his.

"Ezra," she cried, and the appeal in her voice carried it with clear distinctness to him, "Ezra, have I ever said or done a thing to make you feel so?"

He looked up, startled.

"Goo knows you haven't, Hester," he said, earnestly.

"And, Ezra, if anything should happen to me—if I should be sick or helpless, would you love me less? Would you?"

A change came over the old man; it seemed for an instant that the face of his youth looked back at her.

"If it wasn't for your suffering, Hester, I wish you could see," he said almost passionately.

It was a few weeks after this that Hester caught a severe cold. She was in bed for several days, and Nannie had her husband and child to care for, and her mother would not let her stay long.

"They'll be needing you—I can get along now," she said.

"I guess they can get along without me a little while longer," answered Nannie.

"What say?"

Nannie looked alarmed; she raised her voice and spoke with careful emphasis,—

"I guess—they can get along—without me a little while," she repeated

Her mother nodded.

"I said it had been quite a while," she said. "I'm glad you're going Nannie, though we shall miss you so."

Nannie's face filled with a pitiful tenderness. Her mother looked up suddenly and noticed, and a strange expression came into her eyes. She spoke with curious eagerness.

"Nannie," she said, "tell me true—don't I hear as I used to?"

Nannie's face flushed. With a sudden impulsive gesture she threw her arms about her mother, sobbing bitterly. But in her mother's eyes the strange expression grew into a glad light.

"Don't feel so, Nannie," she said. "I—I guess I'm almost glad. I'm going to tell your father."

Nannie went home the next day sorely against her will. She told her husband that it almost broke her heart to think of them so; if it wasn't for little Nannie she would go back there and stay, but she couldn't take the child—it might hurt her throat seriously to have to shout to them. She was troubled, too, for the child had a delicate throat and she dared not take her often to see the old folks—and they would miss her so!

But it was not so hard; her mother spoke of it herself and said that she and father had talked it over, and they knew it would be best not to have the child there often. And Nannie mustn't worry—they could get along all right as long as they could hear each other. Indeed, it seemed as if the bond of suffering drew them closer together. It was beautiful to see the old man's care for his wife and his tenderness in speaking to her. The neighbors who had pitied at first talked often of it; they said they never saw two deaf people take such comfort in each other. Often on summer days the two high-pitched voices would be heard and the people passing would smile at each other and sometimes linger a little.

"'Tis kind o' social to hear them," they said.

So the winter passed and the summer, and then quite suddenly, one night when the earth was lying hushed and silent under a soft fall of snow, the old man passed from the silence of his life into the greater silence that is beyond the reach of human voice.

The neighbors for miles around came to the funeral, and the house was full of grave, decorous whispers, broken strangely when any one spoke to the wife. She was pale and silent; only once did she speak of anything that she wanted done, and then she called Nannie hesitatingly.

"Tell him I don't want him to speak so's I can hear. It—it wouldn't seem proper, somehow. It won't make any difference to Ezra now, and I"—she faltered a moment, and tender light came into the faded blue eyes—"I guess he can't say anything about my husband that I don't know a hundred times better than him."

"I'll tell him, mother," said Nannie gently.

That was a strange funeral—the neighbors spoke of it afterwards. The still figure that sat dead to the words of tender healing spoken by the minister seemed to lend an element of mystery to the scene, and the contrast between the darkened room and the brilliant, sparkling world outside, flashed upon their eyes like a miracle.

They spoke of it on the way home and said that Ezra had been a good husband to her, and no one would fill his place.

"Nannie means all right," Mrs. Tarbox said, smoothing her black dress, "but she hasn't time to set down and make a work of entertaining her mother."

"'Tis so," answered Mrs. Slocum, "and Hester'll miss entertaining Ezra too. 'Tain't as though she wasn't afflicted, either way. She's young and spry enough yet, put it seems most as if it's no use."

And Mrs. Banks, all unconscious of the talk, was being driven over to Nannie's. She was so quiet that her daughter did not disturb her.

"I don't feel as if I knew what to say to her, though she is my mother," she whispered to her husband.

They helped her tenderly into the house and Nannie put her into the easiest chair. From the next room a baby voice broke in upon them.

"Mamma, can I see dran'ma? Nannie wants to see dran'ma!"

Nannie was hurrying to the door when a voice stopped her.

"Let me have Nannie, please—it's so long since I have!"

Nannie stopped at the door, a great wonder in her eyes.

"Why mother!" she exclaimed.

Her mother looked up at her with a tremulous smile.

"Yes, I know. I meant to tell you before, but I couldn't, someways. I've heard all the time; I was only deaf a day or two from cold. I thought I really was at first, and then I kept it up, because it comforted—him—somehow. He'd felt he was old and broken down, you know, but when I did, too, he felt better and cheered right up. There was only one thing—I did want the baby so! And it seemed as if 'twould break my heart when she did come not to answer her, and to have her strain her little voice to make me hear!"

"And you kept it up all these months?" said Nannie, in a hushed tone.

Her mother looked up; she was holding little Nannie with her eager trembling hands, and it almost seemed as if the golden baby head reflected a wonderful light upon her tired face.

"I guess when you've loved a man more than thirty years, that isn't much to do," she said.—Pacific Rural Press.

For a short distance a lion or a tiger can outrun a man, and can equal the speed of a fast horse, but they lose their wind at the end of half a mile at the most. They have little endurance and are remarkably weak in lung power. Their strength is the kind which is capable of a terrific effort for a short time only.

A GREAT NAVIGATOR.

HOW DE GAMA, OF PORTUGAL DISCOVERED INDIA.

He Ranks Next to Columbus Among the Great Discoverers of History — More Worthy of Commemoration Than the Heroes of Great and Decisive Battles.

The world would be poor without the records of its great soldiers, scientists and navigators. And the latter though they are seldom emblazoned with those national glories which are the rewards of war are frequently more worthy of commemoration than the heroes of great and decisive battles. Among navigators the name of Vasco De Gama holds a prominent place. He ranks next to Columbus among the great discoverers of history. To sail forth now-a-days aided by chart and compass is not considered a feat of enduring renown because the extension of knowledge has made us familiar with nearly all parts of the universe save perhaps those immediately around both poles. But in the days when the Mediterranean sea was believed to be the center of the world, and when the science of navigation was less understood than at present, a man seized by the inspiration that there existed such places as India or America was a more sublime being than he who to-day discovers the North Pole.

Such a pioneer was De Gama. It was he who first sailed from Europe to the East Indies and thus opened the way for that lucrative commerce which has followed in the wake of his discoveries. Such a feat required more intelligence, resolution and courage than any man had ever previously manifested, and certainly more than Columbus could fairly lay claim to. In short Vasco De Gama deserves to be regarded among the first of great navigators. He was not a Spaniard; he was a Portuguese and came to be celebrated in this way:

Manual, King of Portugal, was sitting one day in the window of his palace, overlooking the courtyard and thinking who among all his subjects was best equipped to lead an expedition to explore distant lands. The king had built four strong vessels for this purpose, the largest of which, however, was only the size of a modern fishing smack, being only about 120 tons. But such a vessel was in that early age considered a triumph of nautical science, and King Manuel was and was sorely perplexed in an endeavor to discover the best man in his very proud of his exploring flotilla; kingdom to take charge of the expedition. While the King was thus turning over events in his mind it chanced that Vasco De Gama passed across the courtyard in the presence of King Manuel.

"That is the man who will stop at nothing; who sailed with the last expedition to Africa, and to whom I will entrust this one. Call De Gama," said the King to one of the courtiers, "and let him be conducted before me without delay."

The King of Portugal knew his character well enough to entrust to De Gama the expedition upon which he had set his heart, and having conveyed his instructions to the great navigator, De Gama set sail from Lisbon, July 8, 1497. After three months and twenty-six days they sailed into the Bay of St. Helena near the Cape of Good Hope. There they went on shore and found a race of men very ignorant and savage and who welcomed them at first, but later hurled upon them a shower of stones and javelins. The quarrel was precipitated, it is said, through one of De Gama's sailors evincing a disposition to go away fith the newly-found savages, the Portuguese sailor being particularly attracted to one of the colored Venuses who was in the party. De Gama insisted upon the amorous sailor rejoicing his expedition, and so a battle began in which De Gama and four of his crew were wounded before they succeeded in rescuing the impudent sailors. Nine days later they landed in the Bay of St. Braz after rounding the Cape and suppressing a mutiny on board which latter incident tried the patience of Vasco De Gama and the disciplinc of the crew. Here they first learned of the existence of the elephant. Later they went ashore on the island of Natal. Here again the sailors who were always bent on exploring the shore fell in with two richly dressed merchants of India and who turned out later to be Mahomedan merchants who traded the rich fabrics of India to the Kaffirs, and with their assistance he reached the Island of Madagascar. India, these merchants told him, lay beyond the islands of Madagascar some two thousand miles, thus giving to the drooping heart of the navigator the first real assurance that the object of the expedition would be accomplished.

Continuing his journey for fourteen days of pleasant sailing De Gama and his crew approached Mozambique. When they saw on shore the tall spires and minarets of a city they at once concluded that they had reached a country of as high a civilization as that which they had left. And the Mahomedans of Mozambique also regarded the light-complexioned Portuguese in an equally friendly and appreciative light. They offered De Gama a pilot who knew the local seas and who would point out the way to India. There was great rejoicing between the representatives of both civilizations, but ah! there was one awful barrier to their permanent friendly intercourse. The Portuguese were Catholics, who were infused with a spirit of hostility to all religions but their own. The Mahomedans upon their part were no less fanatical, believing that through unbelievers' blood lay the surest way to Heaven. Thus at the very start these two parties each friendly disposed towards the other, were made mutually distrustful and antagonistic; and as soon as this petty religious rivalry was discovered the Mahomedans lay in ambush for De Gama's sailors or sent false pilots to steer their ships into dangerous places.

Accordingly they sailed away, and on May 17, 1498, Vasco De Gama pursuing the course that had been indicated to him and which for ever two centuries all subsequent navigators have followed, cast his anchors in view of the south coast of India of the city of Calicut. The rajahs of India were, however, so rich and powerful and so highly civilized at that time that they regarded De Gama and his Portuguese caravels in much the same light as the Chief of Police of a Western city would now regard an invasion of Eastern tramps. They would not allow any one to approach their courts who could not bring presents proportioned in value to the rank and importance of the personage to whom they were offered. De Gama possessed nothing; was unable to speak the language, to enter into the religious spirit or to understand the customs of India.

So after for endeavoring for five months in vain to gain a footing in India he set sail for Portugal and informed the King that he had solemnly taken possession of India in the name of the King of Portugal.

Titles, money, power, the homage of the Portuguese and the admiration of Europe and of the world have rewarded Vasco De Gama for the fatigues and the adventures of his historic voyage, the quadri-centennial of which will be celebrated on May 17. Thus a world was won first for the Portuguese, who later were driven out by the French and who in turn gave way to the English, and who since Clive's time have held a tight grip upon India and confined to a single nation the immense wealth and advantages which mankind would otherwise derive from the enterprise and adventures of De Gama.

One Way of Catching Them.

An enterprising photographer has lately completed a system by which his pictures of babies have become famous. He has discarded all the familiar expedients of his profession to persuade very young children to submit to the camera, and his scheme has been completely successful. One part of his gallery has been fitted up like a nursery. Around the room at convenient points are situated cameras, and these are in charge of his assistants.

The photographer devotes his attention to the baby. He tries all the toys in turn, gets on as intimate terms as possible with the baby after such short acquaintance, and gradually lures the unsuspecting infant into looking his best. When pose and expression are satisfactory he gives a signal to one of his assistants at the cameras, and the trick is done. Mothers bring their babies from all quarters to this tactful photographer. It would be a difficult matter to find any child who would not, after ten minutes' session with toys, exhibit some expression that his parents would be proud of. The artist catches that expression, and as many other agreeable ones as possible.

The final delight comes to the mother when she receives the proofs, not sent as proofs usually are, but mounted on a large piece of cardboard, which makes it possible for her to compare them simultaneously. This wise man has left nothing undone which could strengthen his hold on the babies and their photographs.

Ameri Arms.

The success of th Colt experiments, and which John Quincy Adams described as "impracticable and even if practicable no fair or honest warfare," was now complete. The idea upon which they were based was later developed by the A ians in the war with Venice and h since become one of general application with other nations.

But to America and particularly to Colonel Colt are due the credit of first conceiving and carrying out through State appropriation the project of igniting deposits of powder placed in harbors for submarine defence. The cable used by Colt for this purpose was the first submarine cable ever invented for conducting the electric fluid, and also accurately determining the position of a vessel upon water so as to be able to touch off the apparatus at the precise time when the moving boat entered within the destructive orbit of the submerged torpedo. With certain trifling alterations it is Colonel Colt's system and inventions that are still used in American Coast and Harbor defenses.

A Tombstone Problem.

A man who went away from home some time ago to attend a convention of church people was struck with the beauty of the little town in which the gathering was held. He had plenty of time, and while wandering about walked into the village cemetery. It was a beautiful place, and the delegate walked around among the graves. He saw a monument, one of the largest in the cemetery, and read with surprise the inscription on it:

"A Lawyer and an Honest Man."

The delegate scratched his head and looked at the monument again. He read the inscription over and over. Then he walked all around the monument and examined the grave closely. Another man in the cemetery approached and asked him:

"Have you found the grave of an old friend?"

"No," said the delegate, "but I was wondering how they came to bury those two fellows in one grave."

Father: "You must live within your income, sir."

Son: "That's all right, governor. I was afraid you were going to ask me to live without it."

GIVEN AWAY.

SHE:

"I dont' think anybody dreams
That I'm a bride.
You mustn't try to hold my hand—
Be dignified.
And try to look at ease and calm,
The way I do,
As if our going off alone
Were nothing new;
And when I ask you things, just growl!
'Oh, I don't know!'
Why does that horrid man back there
Grin at me so?
Could he have guessed?—or does he just Think I look like?"

HE:

"Of course, he does—but dear, your hat
Is white with rice."

THE WILD STALLION.

"About as bad as I was ever scared," said the Montana cattle man, who was one of the number seated in the smoking room of a sleeper on a westbound train out of Chicago the other night, "was a year ago, up in the Musselshell river country, in Montana. But then the story is rather tame, and you wouldn't probably care to hear it."

"Go ahead!" came almost simultaneously from the balance of the group.

"I have been on the range for several years," he began, "and have more than once boasted that it was useless for a man to hang a six shooter at his side and lug it around with him, as most of the cowboys do when either riding the range or driving across country in a buckboard; but I want to register myself right here as being in favor of a six-pistol for a companion, when on the range, from this time on."

"On account of the Indians and wild animals, I presume," interrupted the youngest man in the compartment.

"No, sir, not on account of the Indians, as the only Indians in that part of the country are the Crows, who get off their reservation occasionally, and a few straggling Crees, who have come across the Canadian line to dispose of some of their ornamental work in buffalo or cow horns, and these are harmless. But as to the wild animals, yes.

"It was necessary for me to make a buckboard trip up into the Judith Basin at the time of which I speak, and I started from Miles City with a tough span of cayuses that could take us sixty days just like a tap—I say 'us,' 'cause I had a big Irishman with me that I was taking out to the 'H X' ranch, as cook for the outfit.

"We made the team hit the trail from the start, and along toward the afternoon we passed Musselshell Crossing.

"Between Musselshell Crossing and Round Up considerable distance can be saved by taking a cut through the Bull Mountains, though the road is a good deal rougher than it is by following the river, so we concluded we'd take the mountain road.

"We'd got over the worst of the road and up on the bench land, where we could spin along at a lively clip, when we noticed a bunch of horses in the road ahead of us. We didn't pay any attention to this, as it is quite a common thing to see a band of horses in that locality in the winter, when there is no snow, as the feed is good there.

"As we drove up, the animals moved away from the trail on either side. We had just got past the band when I heard the most horrible shriek that it has been my lot to hear, and on looking around a sight met my eyes that gave me a case of the 'buck ague' and caused the sweat to start from every pore. Coming straight for us, on the dead run, was a fine looking, jet black stallion, with his ears back, and his nostrils extended in a fierce rage.

"I urged on the cayuses, but the stallion gained on us at every jump. We had no gun to defend ourselves with, and I am free to confess that the thought running through my mind was that my accident policy had been made good for another quarter the day before, and my family were sure of at least five thousand dollars as the case then stood.

"The stallion was almost within reach of us when I threw the lines to my companion. It was useless to try to urge the cayuses to greater speed. I grasped the whip by the small end, laid the loaded butt on the dash-board and when the stallion got within reach I stood up, laid my whole strength on the effort, and brought the but end around with full force and caught Mr. Stallion across the nose. The blow staggered him for a second or so, but recovering himself he gave another yell of rage and came at us again.

"I braced myself for another trial. When he again got so close that we could feel the wind from his nostrils on our backs, I repeated the blow, and this time caught him between the eyes with such force that I broke the whip; but the blow, thank God! must have blinded him, for he stood still for a few minutes, with his front teeth wide apart, then began to aimlessly wander around as a blind horse would.

"We got out of there as soon as we could, and I borrowed a rifle at the next ranch. I ain't taking any chances from this time on, and I'm none too good to lug a pistol with me now when on the range."

"What would the stallion have done if he had overhauled you?" queried the young fellow.

"We wouldn't have lasted as long as a snowball in Hades if he could have once got his teeth on us. I saw one man bit and stamped to death by a stallion, and you can excuse me from a fate of that kind. Well, it's about time to roll in."

A Salaried Man

Whether his income be large or small, should invest a portion of his salary each year in Life Insurance. Prudential policies afford security and profitable investment.

WRITE

The PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA.

HOME OFFICE, NEWARK, N. J.

JOHN F. DRYDEN, President.
LESLIE D. WARD, Vice-President. EDGAR B. WARD, 2nd Vice-Pres. & Counsel.
FORREST F. DRYDEN, Secretary.
J. ELSTON WOODLAND, Superintendent..
East Front St. and Park Ave. Box 790, Plainfield, N J.

SPORTING.

GOSSIP OF THE DIAMOND.

CURRENT BASEBALL NEWS IN AND AROUND PLAINFIELD.

Bits of Information and Comment Gleaned From the Great National Game —Latest Scores of the League Teams

Games Played Yesterday

New York 2, Chicago 1.
Brooklyn 13, Cleveland 7.
Boston 8, Pittsburg 2.
Philadelphia 8, Cincinnati 7.
Washington 1, Louisville 8.
Baltimore and St. Louis did not play.

How The Clubs Stand.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Cincinnati	72	41	.637
Boston	69	40	.633
Baltimore	67	39	.632
Cleveland	65	45	.591
Chicago	63	49	.563
New York	61	48	.560
Pittsburg	56	57	.496
Philadelphia	50	56	.472
Louisville	44	68	.393
Brooklyn	41	65	.387
Washington	40	70	.364
St. Louis	32	82	.281

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The new football rules, which are published exclusively in "Spalding's Football Guide," have been subjected to a thorough revision by the rules committee, which has made a number of important changes, which were only decided upon after a long and careful review of last season, backed by the opinions of the leading football experts of the country. Typographically the rules are presented in an attractive form, being set in large type, with copious side notes and an index. Besides the rules adopted by the committees of the eastern colleges, those of the western colleges, revised by a committee composed of H. H. Everett, of the University of Illinois, and A. A. Stagg, of the University of Chicago, are also included in the book.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Martin Lunger, of Watchung avenue, has returned to his duties at Dunn's grocery after a five weeks' illness.

J. W. Yates and family, of East Seventh street, are back from Lake Minnewaska, where they have been spending the summer.

The Misses May and Jennie Lunger, of Watchung avenue, are sojourning at Washington, N. J., after which they will visit in Westerley, Pa.

William C. Smith and family and Chief Marshal Wilson, of the borough, went to Somerville today to be present at the court when burglar Doney, will receive the court's sentence.

THE COURTS.

JUSTICE MOSHER.

Summons issued—In the case of Conway against Wolf, on contract, returnable September 7th.

JUSTICE MOFFETT.

Summons issued — Frank Linke against Patrick Keeland, on contract, returnable September 7th.

PLAYING ON THE CARS.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

house in Jersey City, but he has been unable to get any trace of him on either the Central, Lehigh, Pennsylvania or Lackawanna roads. He is working hard this afternoon to find the father to tell him the news of the boy's death. The remains of the boy are at Casey's undertaking establishment.

—Frank W. Ebert, the six-months-old son of Frank Ebert, died at his fathers home, 414 East Fourth street yesterday.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

In the yard on the corner of Central avenue and West Sixth street, formerly occupied by Willam Thompson, is the stump of a horsechestnut tree which has sprouted out and is sending up a cluster of green shoots. It was supposed that the stump was dead, but it is very much alive, and will in time develope into a fine tree again.

* * * * *

In the course of conversation the other evening Ernest Hogan, the negro comedian, who appeared in Music Hall a week ago, told the circumstances which suggested his famous song, "All Coons Look Alike to Me." Hogan stood in a crowd one day an interested spectator of a lively fight between two stalwart negroes. A determined-looking "cop" suddenly appeared and proceeded to arrest everybody in sight, including Hogan. When brought into court Hogan explained how he came to be drawn into the street brawl, whereupon the Judge, much amused by the incident, turned to the officer and said: "Don't you know who this man is whom you have arrested? He is Ernest Hogan, the song writer, and a respectable citizen." "Well, Your Honor, how was I to know? All coons look alike to me," replied the policeman. Hogan declares he had the song written before the following morning.

* * * * *

An evidently honest person sends us a communication signed "Ignoramus," who relates an interesting episode between himself and a patrolman in the Netherwood district a few nights ago. The supreme interest in the episode centers around the fact that the correspondent, together with his best girl, sat on the bank at the side of the road waiting for a trolley car when a patrolman rode by on his bicycle. As the vigilant cop wheeled by the couple the correspondent admits that he said something about "rubber-neck" This remark, it seems, acted like a brake to the policeman's bicycle, and the officer promptly dismounted and came back and demanded to know what was said, and then, without waiting for an answer, added, "I want no remarks from a young feller like you when I pass by."

To make the matter still worse for the couple of young people the officer stood vigil in front of them till the car came up. But whatever the patrolman said or did is immaterial to the point at issue. The correspondent wants to know if there is anything wrong in saying "rubber-neck" when the policeman went by.

Not being sufficiently acquainted in the ethics of the police force we are unable to express an expert opinion from their point of view, but confidentially we would advise our correspondent that the use of the expression "rubber-neck" merits having the mouth roundly slapped. We think the policeman was very easy on our young friend, considering the enormity of the crime. A night spent in the rookery, where thousand-legged worms and other species of vermin hold forth, is the fate that a person using "rubber-neck" deserves.

* * * * *

Plainfield has a unique character in George Packer, now commonly known as "No-Leg Packer," owing to the fact that he has lost both feet and a portion of both legs. The loss of his pedal extremities does not seem to disturb "No-Leg" in the slightest. It is a frequent boast of his that he needs no legs and that he can now do just as much as he could when he possessed those usually considered useful members.

Packer used to be a great man for "jumping" coal trains and enjoyed many a wild ride from the bunkers of passing coal trains on the Jersey Central. One day, he fell and the wheels passed over his limb at the knee, severing it from the body. After the wound healed, Packer equipped himself with a wooden stump of the right length and went hobbling about the city cheery as ever.

His livelihood was chiefly gained in doing odd jobs in painting and whitewashing or most anything that he could pick up. Strange to say, his loss did not deter his visit to the coalers and he often said that he was going to lose the other leg. "Didn't need none no how." One day, he met with another accident and fell. This time the wheels ground off the other leg half way to the knee.

Packer was as cheery as ever when he came out after recovering from this accident. He joked about it and found great enjoyment in the subject until he was given the epithet. "No-Leg" which has clung to him ever since.

Now he hobbled about, working as before when anything comes his way and letting life pass without vain imprecations at his hard fate. He splashes through pools of water and bravely points out to his companions how much better he is equipped for such adventures than they.

REFERRED TO ELIZABETH.

Trouble Over Fixtures of Butcher Shop Taken to Court.

The trouble over the ownership of the fixtures in the butcher shop of John F. Murphy, on South Second street, has culminated in a suit in the Union County District Court. It will be remembered that John F. Jackson, the dealer in fixtures in New York, attempted to take the fixtures back claiming them for a debt. Then the Plainfield Beef Company jumped in and secured judgment for the same fixtures on account of a bill that Murphy owed them. Jackson claims that the goods haven't been paid for and are, therefore, still his.

To get them back, if possible, he secured a writ of replevin from Judge Atwater which was served on August 19th by the deputy-sheriff. The matter will come up in court Thursday at Elizabeth when Judge Atwater will decide whose rights are being violated.

ANOTHER WARM WAVE DUE.

Forecaster Dunn Promises it for Tonight or Tomorrow—Getting Warm Now.

Another warm wave, one of those damp, sticky, warm waves, of which there have been so many during the last summer, is due.

Forecaster Dunn predicts it as to arrive tonight or tomorrow.

The thermometer took a jump last night. At midnight it was 74 degrees. An hour later it began rising steadily. At 2 o'clock it was 78 degrees, where it stayed until 5. A degree an hour was the advance from that time until 9 o'clock.

The humidity is also steadily rising. The indications point strongly towards another spell of uncomfortable weather.

HOBSON AT SANTIAGO.

Beginning the Work of Trying to Raise the Colon With Air Bags.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 30.—Lieut. Richmond Pearson Hobson began this morning placing his air pontoons around the hull of the sunken Colon in his efforts to raise her.

If successful with the Colon, Hobson will try to raise the Maria Teresa, but he does not have much hope of success in the second case.

Took Yellow Jack to Santiago.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 30.—Five cases of fever have developed in the Fifth Infantry, which arrived on Sunday from Tampa. It is thought to be yellow fever. The transport load of soldiers is now in quarantine.

—Newton Smalley's fancy pet dog "Vic" found itself in the dog pound yesterday, but was redeemed by its owner, who had to pay a small fee to get the dog out again.

Watts—There is no such thing as selling the quality of whiskey by the taste these days, is there?

Lushforth—No. The only test is the feel.

"The feel?"

"Yes. And you have to wait till next morning for that."—Indianapolis Journal.

Fuddy—No, Jim Parley isn't much to brag of; but there's one thing I will say of him—he's a true philosopher.

Duddy—and for what reason?

Fuddy—When he lost his hand in a hay-cutter he merely remarked, "Well, here's one hand the less to keep clean, anyhow."—Boston Transcript.

There Is!—Hicks—Did you ever live in a university town?

Wicks—Yes.

Hicks—Then you realize what a difference there is between a full professor and a full student.—Somerville Journal.

A boy, being asked to describe a kitten, said: "A kitten is remarkable for rushing like mad at nothing whatever, and stopping before it gets here."

It must have been the same boy who has defined scandal: "It is when nobody ain't done nothing and somebody does and tells."

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL]

Adjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held Wednesday, Aug. 10th, 1898, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Higgins.

The minutes of the previous meetings were, on motion, approved as read.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee on South street bridge, New Providence:

The committee appointed at the last meeting of this board to examine into and report as to the advisability of arching the roadway of the iron beam bridge across South street, in New Providence, would report that in their opinion it is advisable to construct such arches, and recommend that the work be done at a cost not to exceed four hundred dollars. Signed, John F. Wahl, J. Robison, M. M. Scudder, John H. Tier, Committee.

Freeholder Roll moved the adoption of the report, and after some discussion it was adopted by the following vote, viz:

Ayes—Freeholders Adams, Brucklacher, Burnett, Ehrlich, Farrell, Hulskamper, King, McCandless, Miller, Robison, Roll, Scudder, Tier and Wahl—14.

Nays—Freeholder Swain—1.

Not voting—Director Hubbard—1.

Absent—Freeholder Higgins—1.

NEW BUSINESS.

The director stated that the board was prepared to further consider the proposal of the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Co., relative to the widening, etc., of Westfield or North avenue, and to hear all parties who might desire to favor or object to the granting of such franchise.

Mr. Oliver, counsel for the township of Westfield, and representing said township, addressed the board in opposition to the granting of the franchise; the people of Westfield desired that the franchise should provide for widening of the road to 100 feet through the said township.

Mr. Depue, as attorney for certain interested parties, spoke in opposition to the franchise, or the granting of same, and served a notice on the Board, the title of which was as follows:

New Jersey Supreme Court.

The State, Hannah E. Randolph, Carrie E. Bigelow, David D. Irving and William M. Deutsch Prosecutors, vs. The Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union and the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company, Defendants.	On Certiorari Notice.

A prolonged discussion ensued, during which Messrs. James MacMaster, H. H. Isham, John F. Brown, Alexander Kerr, A. D. Mulford, L. F. Hersh and J. J. Yates, of Elizabeth, and Mr. Rollinson, of Rahway, addressed the board, urging the granting of the franchise.

Mr. Squire, of Springfield, spoke in opposition.

Messrs. Pierson and Welsh, of Westfield, desired a continuous road, and 100 feet wide through Westfield.

Mr. Bergen closed the discussion in a speech favoring the franchise.

Mr. Roll moved that the board go into executive session, which was so ordered.

Pending the further consideration of the granting of the franchise, the board resumed open session, and was called to order by the director.

On motion of Freeholder Robison it was ordered that when the board adjourns it stands adjourned to meet on Monday, August 15th, at 2:30 p. m.

Freeholder Robison moved to adjourn, which was carried.

The Director declared the board adjourned until Monday, August 15th, 1898, at 2:30 p. m.

S. RUSLING RYNO, Clerk.

CURRENT HUMOR.

"Pete," said Meandering Mike, "I've held out agin advocatin' an active labor market ez long ez I kin. Dere's no use o' talkin', we wants prosperity, an' we wants it quick."

"Wot's de matter wid ye?" inquired Plodding Pete. "Is de scarcity of work worryin' you?"

"Yep. I'm afraid dat if it increases some o' de people we depends on fur hand-outs, I'll be out of a job."—Washington Star.

Boston—Conductor—Fare, please.

Passenger—What is the fare?

Conductor—It is the tariff or tax levied by the corporation owning and controlling the charter and franchise of this street car line on those persons who avail themselves of the opportunity to secure more rapid and agreeable transportation than pedal locomotion.

Passenger—How much is the fare?

Conductor—Five cents, please.—Detroit Free Press.

Lady—I am going to give a ball, and I want you to polish this floor. Do you thoroughly understand your business?

Polisher—Well, madame, you inquire at the Major's, up the street. On his ballroom floor, the last party he gave, six people broke their legs before 12 o'clock, and an old gentleman broke his neck down the stairs. It was I, madame, who polished that floor and staircase!—New York Press.

"These here city folks may be purty smart in some ways," said Uncle Reuben, "but they're away behind us Pokesbury County people in one respect."

"What's that?" asked his nephew.

"Why, these here guideposts you have on your crossroads tell which directions the streets is in all right, but I notice it never says how far it is to em."—Chicago News.

Boarding House Keeper—How sorry I feel for those poor Klondyke miners this cold weather!

Boarder—Madam, there's no need of going so far to place your sympathy. You seem to have forgotten that I occupy one of your hall rooms—Judge.

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3.50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1.50, formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2. Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2 Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6.90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25 Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M. WEINBERGER, MANAGER,
214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

The Only Place to buy Keyser's is Leggett's Pharmacy,

Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

LAIRE'S

SPECIAL
THIS WEEK.

High grade Clothes Wringer, very low.
Wash Benches.
Wash Boards.
Wash Tubs.
Clothes Baskets.
Clothes Pins.
Tomato Cans, 45c. dozen.
Preserving Kettles.
Mason's Jar Rubbers.
Lightning Jar Rubbers.
The famous "Black Jack" Stove Polish, 10c.

TELEPHONE CALL 682.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co.

Ladies desiring KNIFE-PLEATING or FINKING done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 26tf

WM. D. THICKSTUN
Real Estate and Insurance,
197 North avenue

Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., August 29, 1898.

Arden Mr E J	Nichols Mr De L F
Barrett Miss M	Reed Mr B
Boag Mrs W	Southand Mrs J
Dunn Mr J J	Sporborg Mr H
Gorden Mrs S	Stenge Pauline
Howan Mrs E	Stewart Miss C E
Huff Mrs H	Tetterberg Mr C A
McClere Dr F W	Wall Mr James
Mental Mr A	Whimpenny Miss Maud

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 11 30 eod 1y

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE,
REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89

A. WILLETT & SON,
No. 107 Park Ave.

E. E. Marshall & Co.
167 North Ave.

Slash, Slice, Carve!

These are not the days to get or even ask fancy prices for wall paper, no matter how fancy the wall paper. But we go ourselves one better and annihilate our former extremely low prices on all of our popular wall papers. It is a story in a very few words—the figures on the wall paper, and for it tell their own tale. Now is the time to save money by calling on the above firm to do your painting and paper hanging.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:-

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz. Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline	5c	Tar Soap, large cake	5c

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy,
309 EAST FRONT ST.
Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.
Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield.
"A word to the wise is sufficient."
J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 23 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory,
Taught by
Miss Sarah A. Palmer,
Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio —123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J
LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN.
Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate.
303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m
RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.
Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

INSTRUCTION on the VIOLIN and REED ORGAN by
MRS. G. W. SAUMS.
(Pupil of Prof. K. A. Langlotz.) Residence 143 East Second street. Reference, ten years' teaching at Trenton, N. J. 4 21 tf

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY,
123 West Seventh St.
Will Re-open Thursday,
SEPTEMBER 15, 1898.
Thirty-first year.
Principals:
MISS KENYON,
MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S
School and Kindergarten,
29 Washington Avenue,
North Plainfield.
WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS,
181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.
FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

80 000 CIGARS
of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.
M. C. DOBBINS,
206 Park Avenue,
8 15 tf Plainfield.

H. Eggerding,
191 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

THE GRANDVIEW
Meat Market
George Egel, Manager.
Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset street. 6 12

Hello?
Hello Partner!
How is it Fred Endress sells the BEST Broiler and Roasting CHICKEN for 20c. lb.
Because he gets them right from the farm.
131-135 W. Front St. Branch 203 Liberty St.

CITY MILLS.
P. M. FRENCH, OWNER.
24 Somerset St.
NEAR FRONT.
FEED, GRAIN AND HAY.
Not at cost, but very near it.
TELEPHONE NO. 24.

MONDAY MORNING
or any other morning when you come down town you will find our pharmacy a convenient place to purchase drug and toilet supplies.
We have many things in stock that are desirable and not commonly kept. Those things you may especially want if not already at hand, we will order for you.
POWERS' PHARMACY.
Somerset St. & Craig Pl.

Safe Deposit Vaults
THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
Of Plainfield, New Jersey.
Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits.....$ 90,000.
J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. DUNYON, Cashier.
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. DUNYON, Ass't
DIRECTORS:
Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Cortell.
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil.
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Bushmore.
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Coddington.
F. S. Dunyon.
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.
VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

MONEY TO LOAN—Bring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,500; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ½ mile from trolley, $3,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaRue, Plainfield, N. J., Real Estate and Insurance.

CYCLISTS' CALENDAR.
Sun Rises 5:25 a. m.
Sun Sets 6:44 p. m.
Bicycle lanterns must be lighted at 7:44 p. m.

THE DAILY PRESS.

THE WEATHER.
Fair Tonight, Threatening Weather Thursday; Stationary Temperature Thermometer, 96.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

NELSON RUNYON MAY BE NAMED FOR MAYOR

Republicans Think He Would Be a Strong Candidate.

CITIZENS' WILL BE ACTIVE.

WILL RUNYON WILL TRY TO SECURE THE CITY JUDGESHIP.

Fred C Lounsbury and Leonard M. Spangenberg Mentioned as Possibilities for the Mayoralty on the Citizens' Ticket—Two Factions Would Like to See Councilman Barrows Put Up.

It is rather early yet to be talking about the municipal election that takes place next December but still, it is a topic that is beginning to interest Plainfielders and promises to be an absorbing one before the campaign is over. Viewed from afar off, the coming campaign promises to rival those of many years past for liveliness and excitement. It was an interesting fight when Mayor Fisk defeated the "Farmer Orator," James E. Martine, in the mayorality contest, but the organized ranks of the G. O. P. was too strong for the boom of the Democratic candidate. Last fall saw one of the fiercest elections that Plainfield has witnessed for many a year. Despite their great advantage of orgnanization and regular workers, the Republican forces were practically beaten. The Citizens' ticket, the sudden outgrowth of a long felt, widespread discontent, made a showing that fairly dazed the members of the Republican combination.

The wonderful showing made by the Citizens' party in the last election has given those who headed that movement renewed energy. Although apparently they have been quiet, they have been steadily at work all the spring and summer preparing the way for their fall campaign. Even now the campaign is pretty well mapped out while the Republicans have done comparatively nothing.

It is pretty safe to predict a lively fight in the contest for the municipal candidates this December. Most important of all, a new Mayor will be chosen. Then there will be a city treasurer, a city collector and a city judge. There will also be four ward Councilmen to be elected.

First of all will come the struggle for the two nominations, that by the Republicans and that by the Citizens. There is likely to be an exciting time about the Republicans in the choice of their candidate. Mayor Fisk will not try for a re-nomination. That seems assured. Among those who have been spoken for the place are former Judge Nelson Runyon, former Assemblyman W. R. Codington, Councilman Elliott T. Barrows, Councilman Wm. N. Runyon and School Trustee F. C. Lounsbury.

In the minds of many, Judge Runyon would make a decidedly good candidate. He is a local business man and one who has had some experience in local government. He is also considered a conservative man of good judgment, who would follow the dictates of his own conscience rather than be at the beck and call of every politician. Former Assemblyman Codington has very slight chances for a Mayoralty nomination. The majority of the local workers consider that he has had his share of patronage and that the office should go to some one who has not already been so highly honored by his party.

There are two factions who would like to see Mr. Barrows at the head of the ticket, one that they might make him Mayor and the other that they might pay off the ancient grudge they bear him. It is a recognized fact that Mr. Barrows is not thoroughly in accord with all the Republicans of the city. The younger Runyon is usually understood to be running for the city judgeship rather than the office of chief executive and laughs at the suggestion of himself for Mayor.

Mr. Lounsbury came very near being the Republican candidate last time, but his identification with the Citizens' movement last year will probably kill his chances in the regular organization should he care to try.

The Citizens' nominee for Mayor is an unknown quantity at present. If the leaders of that movement have any idea who they are going to put forward, they have had little to say about it. Of course there are stories afloat about the probable man and both Leonard M. Spangenberg and F. C. Lounsbury have been mentioned. It is doubtful if either of these men have yet been selected as the probable candidate. Whether they will be chosen at a later date remains to be seen.

—Use Press want ads for returns.

ROAD RACE TOMORROW.

LAST OF H. K. LISTER'S RACES TO TAKE PLACE.

It Will Be Held On Park Avenue Tomorrow Starting at 4 p. m.—Sixteen Entries So Far—The Officials.

The last of a series of three road races, arranged by Harry K. Lister, will be held tomorrow afternoon on Park avenue. The two previous contests have been very exciting and each has formed the topic of many discussions in the wheeling circles of the city. With commendable energy, Lister has planned and conducted the two events which have greatly added to the general interest in cycle racing in this vicinity.

The last of the series is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, to begin at 4 o'clock promptly. The distance will be the same as the last, fifteen miles, and over the same course as the others.

The start will be made on Park avenue, near Randolph road, and the course will be out Park avenue to Pumptown, via Oak Tree, return to Avon Park, turning about Campbell's road house and back to Pumptown. Turning again at Pumptown the riders will come back over the same course, finishing at the starting point on Park avenue, near Randolph road.

While the other races have been held in the evening just before dark, it was decided this time to hold the race in the afternoon as the darkness at the finish of the last race interfered with the checking of the riders. The officials will be the same as those at the last race. Harry K. Lister will act as starter and clerk of the course. The judges will be Nathan Titsworth, Thomas A. Cuming, Chauncey F. Stout, Charles B. Morse and Raymond A McGee. The timers will be J. W. VanSickle, Charles E. Vail and H. C. VanEmburgh.

Sixteen entries have now been received. While the number is not as great as in the last race, most of the contestants are well known riders of ability from Plainfield and the surrounding towns. The handicaps have not yet been announced. The Plainfield entries are Yep Sorensen, Henry Angerbauer, Ed Duck, George Apgar, Harry Cuming, Morris Sorensen and Joe Burke. The other entries are W. Downs, of Newark; Charles G. Embleton, of Westfield; M. T. Fifer, of Elizabeth; W. J. Mooney, of Rahway; J. T. Conquest, of Perth Amboy; John Allgair, Jr., of Somerville; Charles Vandeveer, of Cranford; W. W. Robinson, and one unnamed rider from Elizabeth.

STATE FAIR.

Forty-fifth Exhibition to Open at Waverly Next Week.

The annual exhibition of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society will open at Waverly Park Monday of next week. The grounds will be in readiness for the reception of exhibits Saturday.

From promises received the officers are encouraged to claim that this year's exhibition will compass all former ones, both as regards largeness of display and quality of exhibits.

They have bent themselves to the work of prefecting the hundred and one details; the grounds have been carefully looked after and every building put in shape, so that when opening day arrives there will be place for everything and something for every place.

The accessible location of the grounds, added to the natural picturesque beauty of its park facilities, makes it a perfect place to thoroughly enjoy a day's outing. The whole enclosure of 60 acres, by reason of its terraced and rolling lands, forms a natural grandstand, from which the visitor can view with comfort the various attractions and races, and at the same time delight the eye in gazing upon the quiet beauty of the landscape.

Besides the excellent service of the Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley and Central Railroads of New Jersey, the electric cars from Newark, Elizabeth, Paterson and Jersey City deliver passengers at the main entrance to the fair grounds. These improved means of reaching the grounds will induce thousands to go there this year, giving exhibitors a much larger audience than they have had heretofore. The officers of the State society always make it their business to please visitors, so that when leaving the grounds they are satisfied that they have had full value for their time and expense.

Found a Purse.

Louis MacLaughlin, of Somerset street, who went to Asbury Park yesterday with the First Baptist excursion, picked up a purse containing $5.75 on the beach, and returned it to its owner.

FOUND GREER AT LAST.

He Was at Work in Jersey City When Told About His Son's Death.

Central Railroad Detective Dougherty's search for Alexander Greer, father of Joseph Greer, the seven-year-old lad who was killed by falling under the cars Monday, was kept up with a peristence that was finally rewarded by finding him working in the Erie Railroad roundhouse in Jersey City.

A brother of the dead lad, Robert by name, was found in Nyack, where he had gone to attend a conference of the Christian Alliance. Robert is a moulder by trade, and lives in Elizabeth. Both father and son came home last night and made arrangements for the funeral.

They were horror stricken when the news was conveyed to them, but made arrangements to come here at once.

The lad will be buried tomorrow at Elizabethport, where the mother lies. The father is at the 'Port today making arrangements for the funeral.

PRIZE OFFERED BY MR. RUNKLE.

He is One of the Leading Members of the Hotel Champlain Golf Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Runkle and Dan Runkle, of Plainfield, are among the leading members of the Hotel Champlain Golf Club. Tournaments here are of daily occurance and dates for exchange matches with other clubs cover all of September.

One of the most expensive prizes of the season was a handsome solid silver cup, made for the occasion by Theo. B. Starr, of New York, and offered by Harry Runkle. It represents the championship of the club, and will be played for each season until permanently claimed, the conditions being that it must be won twice by some player before ownership is granted. The fortunate winner this season is Charles E. Johnson.

Another valuable prize, given by Mr. Johnson, was won in open handicap by Wm. Runkle, of Orange, the finale having been played by him and Edward H. Graves last Saturday. It was a regulation size solid silver putter, with ebony shaft and lizard warping.

THE NEW GOLF COURSE.

Both the Links and Clubhouse Will be in Use Next Monday.

Arrangements are about completed for a gala day at the new golf club house of the Hillside Club on Monday next, Labor Day. A large gathering of club members and their friends will no doubt be present. The new golf course will be open for play, and it is in fine condition.

Luncheon is to be served to members from 12 until 2 o'clock, and the formal reception will commence at 3:30 o'clock.

An Attempted Burglary.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, N. J., Aug. 31.—Sometime Sunday night burglars tried to enter J. M. Chapot's house, on Church street, but were frightened away before they had secured an entrance. The family were not aware of any such attempt until Monday morning when they discovered that two panes of glass had been cut out of one of the bow windows in the parlor. The burglars must have been scared by some noise either inside or outside of the house, and left their job uncompleted.

The Westfield Avenue Widening.
[Special to The Daily Press.]

Elizabeth, August 31.—The Union County Board of Freeholders will meet in Elizabeth tomorrow, when the session will be occupied chiefly with the discussion of the proposed widening of Westfield avenue for the construction of a trolley line between Elizabeth and Planfield, the franchise for which was recently sold to John Kean's company. It is said that a number of protests from property-holders will be read. The canvass for consents is still going on.

The Next Council Meeting.

As the first Monday in September falls on a holiday, Labor Day, the regular meeting of the Common Council, usually held on the first Monday night of every month, will take place Tuesday evening, Sept. 6th, instead.

The Endeavor Convention.

Asbury Park is making preparations for the Christian Endeavor State Convention which meets there on September 28th, 29th and 30th.

Bills Against the City.

All bills against the city must be presented at the City Clerk's office today to ensure payment at the next Council meeting.

Regimental Reunion.

The survivors of the old Thirty-fifth Regiment will recall memories of the Civil War at a reunion in Elizabeth tomorrow.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council will be held Friday evening.

A COSTLY LEGAL FIGHT.

CHARLES KANE'S EXPENSES WILL EQUAL AMOUNT HE SUES FOR.

He Loaned $100 to His Sister and Now Seeks to Recover it From Her Estate—Will Carry Case to the County Court.

The complicated legal muddle into which Charles Kane, Michael Ettinger and Michael Coyne are involved does not seem to be any nearer unraveling than it was a week ago, for now Kane has taken an appeal from Justice Mosher's decision, and will wage his claim for a hundred-dollar loan before the court at Elizabeth.

The case has been fully noted in these columns. Kane's sister married Ettinger, and during her life Kane loaned the couple $100. Mrs. Ettinger is dead, and Kane, through his lawyers, Codington & Swackhamer, sought to recover that amount by bringing suit against Ettinger, the husband. Ettinger secured the services of Councilman Walter Hetfield, who secured a non-suit for his client on the grounds that Kane should have sued the two executors of Mrs. Ettinger's estate, the husband and Michael Coyne.

This Kane did, but included Ettinger in his personal capacity in the suit. Kane lost his suit against Ettinger, but secured judgment for the full amount of his claim against the estate. Kane claims that the estate isn't worth $100, so he has appealed the case. It is said that already Kane has expended for lawyers' fees, costs, etc., more than the whole sum sued for.

MANY RARE MINERALS.

John Dalziel Has Returned From Colorado With Valuable Collection.

Back from several weeks' vacation spent in the bracing air of Denver, Col., and vicinity, and with a mind broadened and enriched with lore picked up out of the vast mineral accumulations to be found there, John Dalziel, principal of the Plainfield Academy, is prepared to reopen his institution for preparing young folks for practical and college life September 12th.

During his sojourn in the mountains Mr. Dalziel has gathered together and brought home with him a collection of Colorado minerals, among them being several pieces of value and rarity.

There is a piece of rose quartz containing several rodenite crystals and bright pieces of nickel. Rodenites are very rare, but Mr. Dalziel also secured a wolferite crystal, the rarest of all. A garnet crystal, large and regularly cut and highly polished, was presented to him by the superintendent of the Bureau of Mines.

A spot of great interest to eastern people is the Garden of the Gods, at Manitou, four hours' ride from Denver. The garden contains rocks of all different sizes and shapes, and of elaborate and beautiful coloring. It is the delicate shades of the rocks which make a grand effect when the sun shines upon them that has given to the garden its notoriety.

The rocks seem to be a quartz conglomerate, and Mr. Dalziel brought home several pieces of them of several colors. He also has an agate, said by Professor Cannon, an approved authority on such subjects in that State, to be a part of the gizzard of an immense antedeluvian bird. It is a mixture of pebbles and hardened substances which the professor says was food.

While Mr. Dalziel was in Denver his fame as a teacher of drawing became known, and he was invited to address the pupils in the Normal School upon that subject. The address was so interesting and well liked that he was asked to teach the classes in drawing during his stay there. Mr. Dalziel also made several excursions to points of interest, and on one of them climbed to the top of Pike's Peak.

Dispute Over an Account.

A dispute over a book account resulted in a lawsuit that came to trial at Justice Nash's court this morning between Woolston & Buckle and Ambrose Male. Woolston & Buckle were represented by Counselor W. S. Angleman and brought suit against Mr. Male for a book account alleged to amount to $52.44. A jury of twelve men was called and listened to the evidence. C. L. Murphy, of Murphy & Blatz, spoke in court for the defendant. A verdict was then brought in for the plaintiff for the full amount.

Death of an Infant Son.

Maxwell S. Thompson, infant son of John P. and Jennie Thompson, of West Third street, died at the home of his parents this morning after a brief illness.

Oysters Said to be Poor.

The oyster season in the Delaware Bay and Maurice River Cove will open tomorrow. The oysters are said to be very poor.

WANTED TO CLEAN HOUSE.

As a Result of This Unseemly Wish, Peterson Has Taken a Vacation.

John Peterson was a colored man upon excitement bent. He found it in two ways last night. He drank and he drank and he drank once again. Then he forgot that there was a police force or a city court and went home to clean house. House cleaning is all right in its place, but last evening did not seem the most appropriate occasion for any such performances. The neighbors on East Third street say that he cruelly beat his wife. At any rate it grew so warm that she had to appeal to the police for protection from her husband.

This morning Peterson was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza on the charge of being drunk and raising a disturbance. After hearing the testimony of the wife and policeman the Judge proclaimed Peterson guilty. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or go to jail for sixty days.

Now Peterson is not in the best of circumstances and $25 bills do not hang on every tree so John has decided that a vacation will do him good. While Elizabeth is not exactly the place he might have chosen, yet it's a change. Peterson will probably be committed this afternoon.

HE CUTS THE RED TAPE.

Governor Voorhees Takes Steps to Secure Supplies for Troops.
(Special to the Daily Press.)

Trenton, Aug. 31.—Colonel Alexander C. Oliphant, who with General Meaney, went to Camp Alger some days ago at the request of Governer Voorhees to ascertain how many soldiers of the 1st New Jersey Regiment desired to remain in the service, and to inspect their camp, and especially their hospital accommodations, returned yesterday and made a verbal report to the Governor.

The latter spent the greater part of the day at the State House. Colonel Oliphant told him that the men of the First Regiment seemed weak and debilitated, and his impression was that if they were not soon moved away far more serious results might follow. An epidemic of typhoid fever among the troops had undoubtedly been averted by the strict discipline maintained and the watchful care of Colonel Campbell. The regimental hospital tent was overtaxed. Requisitions for certain medical supplies had been made, but they had not been forthcoming. This was true especially of tonics.

Governor Voorhees immediately wired to Major Allers, surgeon of the First Regiment, and subsequently talked with him over the telephone. In this way the Governor learned what was needed by the regiment, and Thursday he will go to Washington to see that the supplies are forwarded at once. The Governor also telegraphed to Quartermaster-General Luddington, calling his attention to the lack of supplies, and he received word before he left the State House that another hospital tent would be sent immediately to the regiment from Baltimore.

FLAG COMES FROM HONOLULU.

First One Hoisted Over the Custom House There is Now in Elizabeth.

The first American flag hoisted over the Custom House at Honolulu, Hawaii, August 12th, on the annexation of that country to the United States, has been presented to Company C, Phil Kearney Guard, of Elizabeth, Third New Jersey Regiment.

The giver is George C. Stratemeyer, surveyor of the port of Honolulu, who raised the flag, and who formerly lived in Elizabeth and belonged to the Phil Kearney Guard. He has been twenty-four years in Honolulu, and for a long time has been port surveyor.

The flag is fourteen feet long, and is a handsome one. An official certicate as to it being the genuine emblem hoisted August 12th, accompanies the gift. The certificate bears the signature of the Collector General of Hawaii, and has the Government seal attached.

SLID ON HIS FACE.

Unpleasant Results of Alighting From a Moving Train.

As one of the afternoon trains was just about to stop at the North Avenue station yesterday a stranger attempted to alight. The train was going faster than he realized, and when he reached the ground he was thrown with considerable force. He landed fairly on his face, which was badly cut and scraped on the rock ballast that forms the roadbed.

He went to the office of Dr. M. B. Long where his wounds were dressed. The man was a stranger in this city, but was about to visit relatives here. He did not give his name.

—Press want ads pay—try one.

—Press want ads bring results.

DUNELLEN'S FIRST CAR.

IT WENT BY HORSE POWER BUT WAS WELL RECEIVED.

Trolley Line In Dunellen Was Opened Last Night With the Assistance of a Band — Distinguished Visitors Rode.
(Special to The Daily Press.

Dunellen, August 31.—Out under the full moon they rode like a grand triumphal procession. The staid horses pranced at the unaccustomed sounds, and the little hand car bumped along over the rails with its load of distinguished guests. Such was the opening of the Dunellen trolley last night. The shrill notes of two fifes, the roll of the drum and the dull boom of the bass drum announced the approach of the first car for miles around.

As far as Dunellen is now concerned, the trolley line is completed. The tracks have been laid from the junction with the Plainfield Street Railway's line at the eastern boundary of the borough right through the town to the borough line on the west connecting with the line to Lincoln. Further, the streets have been graded and last night all was ready for action.

The arrangements for supplying power to the cars being still incomplete, the officials of the Brunswick Traction Company decided that horse power would do for the first ride. There was a little hand car there which has been used by the construction gang to carry tools and materials for the line. This was temporarily converted into an observation car. Several of the Councilmen, prominent merchant and business men of the borough were invited to lend their presence to add to the general effect.

They came and so did the drum and fife corps of four members. Several fish horns and the united voices of the guests more than equalled several brass bands. They crowded onto the car, stood up, sat down and tried hard to be comfortable. Then the music began and the two horses set forth amid the wild huzzas of guests and spectators.

It was a great ride while it lasted, and to the eyes of the passengers the town took on new beauties before their very eyes. The road was an even one and the little car ran along easily. There was great rejoicing throughout the borough. A few of the unprogressive ones viewed the whole proceeding with disfavor and commented on the noise and various troubles that they thought they saw. They were a very minute portion of the population, however, and the rest seemed glad to see something moving at last.

The excitement continued well into the night and it was past midnight before the band and its followers ended their selections and departed homeward.

DEATH OF M. L. SAULSBURY.

He Formerly Worked in This City as a Civil Engineer.

Word has been received in this city of the death of M. L. Saulsbury, a civil engineer, who, until last June, was in the employ of F. A. Dunham and other civil engineers in this city. Mr. Saulsbury was taken with typhoid fever at his home in Maryland and died after a week's illness.

Mr. Saulsbury was located in this city for about two years. He was about twenty-eight years old, robust, and apparently in good health. In June his brother died suddenly, so Mr. Saulsbury went to Maryland to take charge of the business.

He was a Methodist, and an earnest worker in all church work, and during his short stay in this city made many friends.

Recovering From a Severe Wound.

Ephraim Ackor, of Washingtonville, is just recovering from a serious accident he received two weeks ago. He was cutting wood for Mobus brothers on their wood tract near Washingtonville when his axe slipped and cut a deep gash in the fleshy part of his leg. He dressed the wound and was back at work next day. A log of wood fell against his leg and opened up the wound again. He went to Dr. Tomlinson who dressed it. Ackor has been confined to his home ever since the second accident but will now soon be able to go out again.

Lawyers Unfortunate Gesture.

Charles J. McNabb, the lawyer, met with an accident a few days ago which has deprived him of the use of his right hand ever since. He was visiting with a brother lawyer, and just before he left Mr. McNabb threw his hand around, and went directly through the glass in the door. The palm was cut, but Mr. McNabb had the wound dressed and apprehends no bad result.

In Memoriam.

A mass will be offered tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock for Marion Louise Anderson at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church.

GREAT DAY FOR THE SMITHS AT PEAPACK.

The Annual Picnic of the Multitudinous Family.

NO FAKIRS ARE ALLOWED.

DRESSED IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE THEY ARE HAVING A FINE TIME.

Patriarch Isaiah Exercising a General Supervision Over the Festivities—Picnic Ground is Sacred to the Name of Smith—Rev. Mr. Wells Tells the Smiths What Great People They Are.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Peapack, August 31.—You may journey from Maine to California and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico and you'll find Smiths in every hamlet and section of this broad country, but wherever you may travel you'll never find so many Smiths to the square foot of territory as this section of New Jersey can show. There are other commonwealths that show more population than New Jersey, but when it comes to Smiths the little State leads them all. It doesn't require a census to tell this; all that is necessary is for the doubting Thomases to visit Peapack, up in the hills of Somerset county, today, and then the Smith claim would have been cheerfully agreed to.

For today was the time set for the great and glorious Smith family of New Jersey to hold their picnic. A gracious and obliging weather prophet knew when he was well off and furnished a delightful day for the nearly 3,000 Smiths who gathered to enjoy the festivities of the great Smith picnic. The weather man has spoiled many a harvest day and many a crop, but never has he been able to spoil a crop of Smiths or their gathering on the last day of August for the past twenty-two years, and so he just acquiesced with pleasant weather.

The Smith family picnic is forty times a greater attraction to the people of that name then any county fair or circus ever possibly could be. All day yesterday the Smith wives were busy cooking great lunch baskets of goodies, the Smith husbands were hustling and the Smith children were waiting for the morrow when the great picnic would be held. Sunday-go-to-meeting attire and other holiday details were resurrected and brought out and donned at an early hour this morning.

The annual meeting place of the Smiths is on ground sacred to generations of Smiths. It has been in the Smith family since the times of King George's rule, and always will be if the Smiths have anything to say about it. The picnic grounds proper are in the orchard on the farm of Abner Smith, but the multitudinous family spread out all over the farm. All day yesterday Abner and the other officers of the Smith Family Association labored hard getting the picnic ground ready for their relatives today.

One of the first arrivals at the grounds this morning was Isaiah Smith, president of the association, and patriarch and caretaker of the morals of the tribe. Isaiah claims to be a lineal descendant of the celebrated John of Colonial times. Besides looking out in general for the pleasure of the picnicers, the patriarch's especial business is to see that no red lemonade, peanuts or other catch-penny devices find their way into the picnic grounds. Last year Isaiah got himself into a lot of trouble trying to eject an itinerant photographer from the grounds, but profiting by his past experience he was accompanied this morning by Constable Koch, who notified all the fakirs as fast as they arrived to "git out" on penalty of instant arrest and subsequent incarceration in the Somerset County Jail. In order to outwit the fakirs Isaiah had secured the privileges of the adjoining farms. A cornet band was on hand early and discoursed music as the Smiths came in constant streams by all sorts of conveyances from early morning till past the dinner hour.

A few politicians had come to the picnic, but they didn't have much chance to talk politics to the Smiths. The Smiths were too busy talking about the Smiths. The older folks gathered in groups to renew acquaintances and indulge in reminiscences. The Smith boys and girls divided into couples and played various games. The Smith babies just rolled around on the green grass and cooed to themselves. It was a happy lot of Smiths.

At noon the lunch baskets were brought forth and the Smiths set down to eat holiday nic-nacs. After the dinner hour there were exercises

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

THE ALARM SOUNDED

Dr. Senn Says that Camp Wikoff Will Soon Be Fever Infected.

MEN SHOULD BE REMOVED

Within Six Weeks, He Says, Camp Will Be Decimated. Major Brown, Executive Head of the Hospital Staff, Takes a Directly Opposite View of the Situation.

Montauk Point, Aug. 31.—Dr. Nicholas Senn, assistant surgeon general of the United States, who has been in Camp Wikoff for the past two weeks, gave an interview to the reporters yesterday in which he predicted that the camp would be a "pest hole" within five weeks. He said that the sanitary provisions throughout the camp in general and in the general hospital were inadequate to prevent the spread of the typhoid fever germs, and that the soil at Montauk Point was favorable to it. In three weeks, he continued, so lax were the sanitary precautions, the lowest wells would be contaminated by the germs that percolated through the soil. In his opinion the establishment of the camp in this place was a grave mistake that was already making itself known. He had advised against the selection of the Chickamauga camp location for similar reasons, and he maintained the soundness of his position had been proven by the event. He said he did not anticipate the spread of any disease the army might bring with it from Cuba, but he was firmly convinced that typhoid would have the camp tight in a few weeks and with fearful results.

Surgeon Major Brown disputed Dr. Senn's statement of the conditions and his conclusions. He said that the sanitary arrangements at the hospital were such that the water could not become infected with the fever germs. Guards were stationed so that every foot of the hospital neighborhood was under surveillance. The soiled clothes of the patients were disinfected before they were washed. Every possible precaution, in his opinion, had been taken. He did not agree with the opinion that Montauk Point was an unsuitable place for the camp.

Some of the regimental surgeons and thei rassistants are asking for relief or taking to their beds; they have had too much work to do. It is maintained at the general hospital that their places are supplied on application; but in two regiments at least the sick have been for a number of days without competent doctors. There are many regiments and many sick, and it is hardly to be expected, the surgeons say, that the work of the department should go along, even now, with never so much as an emergency or two to make new difficulties.

That the number of patients may be kept at the minimum, about 200 men are sent away from the hospitals each day. Many of them are still weak—unable, indeed, to make the journey to New York alone. But it appears that they are no less anxious to leave than the surgeons are to have them. They are well looked after at the station—fed by good women and helped aboard and off the train by good comrades—but, even so, when they reach Long Island City their condition is such as to make the people there, who do not understand the situation, rail at the hospital staff for "turning dying men out of doors." Comparatively, the men who totter to the ferries are well—discharged, in fact, as cured. And, no doubt, they think themselves happy to be on the road homeward rather than abused. As a great trouble for them is the getting of transportation at Montauk. They must see the quartermaster's clerk in person for their ticket, and must call at the commissary storehouse—to be reached only over railroad embankments and under freight cars—for their ration money. This is a toilsome journey for sick men, fatigued by the long walk from the hospitals, and some of them content themselves with a ticket only, and let the ration money go, for they are too tired to get it. If they have farther to go than New York, they must go to the Army building, on Whitehall street, for other tickets and papers. All in all, they have a length to go to tire a strong man.

The distribution of good food—eggs, soups, milk, butter, pickles, etc.—to the regular troops, has had an unexpected effect. The men have a great loathing for army rations; but they are very hungry and overload their stomachs with the new and strange dishes the company cooks make for them—all with unpleasant results.

General Wheeler is doing things here in his own way and he has unwound all the red tape that hindered the march of improvement. He has requested that $2,000 be placed to the credit of Major H. Kilburn, the chief surgeon of the Second division; $1,000 each to the credit of Surgeon Harris of the Cavalry division, Major Wood of the First division and Major Ives of the Provisional division. This request he forwarded to Surgeon General Sternberg and it has been complied with.

The delayed appearance of the paymaster continues to give the privates cause for growling. They were paid last in May, and thus have nearly three months' pay, or $45 due them. They want the money, not only to spend on the "good time" they have been looking forward to, but to take them to their homes. A private, who was sick, told the reporter yesterday, that he had relatives in New York—his parents, in fact—who had written urgently to him to come.

The transport Specialist has arrived from Santiago with some members of Troop K, First artillery; A, Second artillery; F, Fourth artillery; and F of Fifth artillery.

The transport Berlin also arrived with General Bates and staff. In all there were 886 men on board, including some of the First Illinois volunteers, some United States infantry and Second Massachusetts volunteers. There were two deaths from typhoid fever during the voyage.

GEN. GARCIA HAS RESIGNED

The Cuban Government Accepts Because of His Attitude Toward America.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 30.—General Lawton, the commander of the American troops in the province of Santiago, received advices from most reliable sources this morning that the Cuban government had relieved Major General Calixto Garcia from the command of the Cuban troops in the eastern part of the island. It is understood that he will be succeeded by General Lacret.

General Lawton understands that the release of General Garcia was due to his sulky conduct toward the Americans, caused by General Shafter's refusal to allow the Cuban troops to enter Santiago, which furnished a bad example for the Cuban soldiers, a majority of whom at this end of the island are not pleased by the exclusive occupation of Santiago and Guantanamo and the administration of the government by the Americans.

General Demetrio Castillo, the Cuban military governor of Santiago for two years, has been advanced to the grade of brigadier general.

General Lacret has gone to Santa Cruz, on the south coast of the island near Santiago, for the purpose of holding a conference with Generals Castillo and Pedro Perez, relative to a scheme for the disposition of the armed Cubans in the province of Santiago.

General Lawton continues to receive reports of lawless acts by armed bands of Cubans upon planters.

AGUINALDO TO THE POWERS

He Asks for Recognition of the Philippine Republic.

Manila, Aug. 31.—Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader, has issued a memorial addressed to all the foreign powers reciting the fact that the Filipinos have formed a goversment under the constitution adopted on June 23.

He adds that the Filipino forces have since carried on a campaign of liberty, taken forty provinces, and have reduced Manila. They have nine thousand prisoners.

Peace and tranquility prevail in the conquered provinces, and there is no resistance to Aguinaldo's authority. The campaign, the memorial says, was conducted with due regard to the rules of civilized warfare.

He asks for the recognition of the independence of the Philippine republic, or, failing in that, to grant the Filipinos belligerent rights. The United States are not mentioned in the memorial.

General Merritt and General Greene sailed on the transport China for Hong Kong to-day. General Merritt will leave Hong Kong on Saturday for Paris. He takes Majors Hale and Stromber and Captain Mott as his aides.

General Greene will go direct to Washington. General Babcock and Major Sturgis have also sailed for the United States with reports.

General Otis has assumed command of the department of the Pacific and the Eighth army corps.

London, Aug. 31.—The Daily News publishes a news agency dispatch from Manila which says that Apacibia, an insurgent leader, is going to Hong Kong to confer with the Filipino junta there. He will receive Aguinaldo's final instructions by telegraph.

The insurgent leader Agoncillo is going to Washington. The junta at Hong Kong will probably send a delegate to the peace commission in Paris.

Mr. Carnegie's Plan.

London, Aug. 31.—The Times publishes a letter from Andrew Carnegie, who advocates an exchange of the Philippines for the British West Indies, urging that England and the United States should retain coaling stations in each and that an open door should be preserved for both by treaty.

"Such a project," says Mr. Carnegie, "would naturally be dependent upon the assent of both populations, but this assent seems probable.

The Ruler of Samoa Dead.

Auckland, New Zealand, Aug. 30.—Advices received here from Apia say that King Malietoa of Samoa died on August 22. Pending the selection of his successor the government is conducted by the British, German and American consuls, with the chief justice acting as president.

FAITHFUL TO HIS OLD PARTNER.

Remembered His Pledge and His Friend is $27,500 the Richer Thereby.

The crowning act of a verbal pledge made between two men who were in business in California some years took place at the home of J. F. Taylor recently.

About eight years ago J. F. Taylor was in business in California, and being in need of a partner, took J. C. New. After two years business grew dull and after a hard struggle they were compelled to give up. Without dissolving the partnership the men decided to part, so made an agreement that should fortune ever smile upon them, they would hunt each other up and divide. Mr. Taylor drifted into Washington, engaging in business at Bakesdale for a time, and then bought a ranch on Cedar Creek, where he now resides. Mr. New went to Alaska, and when the riches of the Klondike were heralded to the world was one of the first in the country and succeeded in making a small fortune, besides securing three claims.

Faithful to the promise that was made in the shadow of a business failure, he hunted Mr. Talor up, and in company with an attorney, went to the home of Taylor to get his power of attorney for the disposal of his interest in some claims on the Klondike. Mr. Taylor also received $27,500 as his half of the earnings of one of the claims. They have been offered $100,000 for the other three claims.—Denver Republican.

MILES-ALGER TROUBLE

War Department Does Not Care To Enter Into Controversy.

WANTS NO PUBLIC INQUIRY

The Secretary of War Makes a Statement Which Places Matters in a New Light. He Thinks the Miles Interview Has Been Greatly Enlarged by the Press. Some Facts in Regard to the Workings of the War Department.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The Miles-Alger-Corbin controversy, arising from an alleged interview given to a correspondent of the Kansas City Star by the commanding general of the army, appears in a new light since Secretary Alger made a brief statement in the matter. The secretary refused to enter into an extended discussion of the subject, and he repeated what he has said so many times within the last few days, that he believed General Miles never made half of the statements which have been credited to him.

The secretary proceeded then to answer some questions which indicated strongly that the war department is not disposed to take up the gauntlet which General Miles seems to have thrown down.

General Miles, in the opinion of the secretary, evidently intended to draw the army administration into a discussion which would lead to an official inquiry which, in turn, as he confidently believed, would clear up some matters which he wished to have exposed in justice to himself.

Secretary Alger said yesterday that the correspondent of the Kansas City Star was evidently desirous of securing a denial of his publications from an official source.

"That is just what the correspondent won't get," added the secretary emphatically. "The fact that General Shafter was asked for an explanation of a report that he had given the proceedings of the round robin at Santiago to the press has no necessary application in this case.

"At any rate," he said, "if we do ask General Miles whether he gave that interview or not, we shall not publish the fact, and the newspapers won't know anything about it. There is an evident desire to have a controversy on this subject, but there can be none and the war department will take no part in one."

It is common report around the war office that both Secretary Alger and the adjutant general do not want a court of inquiry or a court martial growing out of the Miles interview would result in. An officer of the war department, whose authority is beyond question, declared yesterday that an important order recently prepared by the assistant secretary of war for promulgation through the adjutant general had never been issued.

It was suppressed, he said, in the adjutant general's office. The adjutant general, of course, has no discretion in such matters; his function is merely the transmission of orders prepared by others. The next day an order directly opposite in purport, and prepared by some authority in the war department, was issued by the adjutant general. General Corbin was sharply called to account, whereupon he declared that he had not received the first order, although it was personally delivered to his office from the office of the assistant secretary.

General Corbin said yesterday:

"I have issued no orders of any importance except upon the authority and by the direction of the secretary of war or the president of the United States. They are amply able, I take it, to protect themselves, and so far as I am concerned there are no explanations or apologies to make."

SERIOUS REBELLION IN CHINA

Attack on Canton Threatened.

Hong Kong, Aug. 31.—The Kwang Si rebellion, which has been quiescent for some time, shows signs of breaking out again. The rebels are in great force fifty miles northwest of Canton, and are preparing to attack the city.

The viceroy of Canton having failed to send troops to suppress the rebellion in Hainan and protect the American missionaries, United States Consul Bedloe at Canton has made strong representations to the acting viceroy, reiterating his demand for the prompt suppression of the disturbances. The uprisings appear to have been fomented by the Triad and White Lily Societies, which have combined for the purpose.

Tan, the viceroy of Liang-Kwang, has protested against the surrender of Kwang-Chow to the French, and when the Tsung-li-Yamen insisted upon the surrender, Tan telegraphed his resignation to Pekin and handed his seals of office to the governor of Kwang-Tung.

Refused a Landing.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Telegraphic advices have been received at the state department to the effect that Miss Clara Barton of the National Red Cross arrived at Havana yesterday on the steamer Clinton No. 2, with supplies for the starving inhabitants of that section, and that the Spanish authorities at Havana refused to allow the supplies to be landed and imposed a fine of $500 upon the master of the relief ship because he had no manifest.

The matter is now under consideration by the authorities here and steps will be taken to secure the landing of the supplies and the remission of the fine.

The absence of the manifest is not explained. The vessel cleared from Santiago for Havana.

Iron Steel and Prices.

Pittsburg, Aug. 31.—The Iron and Steel Sheet Manufacturers' Association of the United States have met here to fix prices for the ensuing year. Secretary Jarrett said that prices would be advanced probably $2 a ton on sheets in response to the advances already made in raw materials. The mills are booked with orders that will require day and night operation for a year, and the requirements for ship plates for home and export consumption will cause an advance to still higher figures later in the year.

HAHNE & CO. NEWARK

Seven Acres of Goods.

ALL THE NEW Ideas, Fancies, Styles, and Conceits In Women's Dress Wear, Men's and Boys' Clothing. Furniture, Carpets, upholsteries and all other fall and winter supplies for the home, are here in greater variety and at lower prices than elsewhere.

FREE deliveries at all New Jersey railroad stations. No extra charge for packing.

Hahne & Co., Newark, N.J.

NOTICE OF SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given that the accounts of the subscriber as executor of Eliza Mooney, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for final settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Somerset, on Friday, the 30th day of September next.

Dated July 20, 1898.

PHILIP M. HURST, Executor.

7 27 10-w

Shoes for Spring.

You'll be buying a new pair of shoes soon. Where are you going to buy them?

The shoe store you want to patronize is the store that gives you the most style, comfort, elegance and durability for the money.

If you'll "shop around" before you buy you'll find that this is the store you're looking for.

Flynn Bros., 222 West Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS AND DECORATORS 141 North Avenue.

Jones & Co., EXCAVATORS

Cesspools and sinks thoroughly cleaned. Attention given to sanitary condition. Buildings, cellars, etc., disinfected. All work done under experienced manager.

Cesspools Built

NOTICE to all interested in Up-to-date Laundry Work.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular.

We also have just completed arrangements for doing family washing in a satisfactory manner by the dozen or week. Please call at office for further information.

City Steam and Hand Laundry, Morey & LaRue, Proprietors, 19 Somerset St., Tel. No. 751. Plainfield, N. J.

J. C. Pope & Co., INSURANCE AGENTS, 110 East Front St., Plainfield, N. J

A. LUSARDI, 120 NORTH AVENUE. Wholesale and Retail. Dealer in choice fruit of all kinds, of Confectionery, Peanuts' Cigars, etc. Soda Water of all flavors and always ice cold. Branch store corner Front and Somerset streets.

COLLIER, SCIENTIFIC OPTICIAN. Established 1869. 103 Park Avenue

E. D. BARRETT, No. 148 E. Fifth St.

Sole Agent for the Richmond Heaters. STEAM and HOT WATER SANITARY PLUMBING.

TELEPHONE 212 A.

AT THE Golden Rule Bakery, 110 SOMERSET ST., COR. MANNING AVE., You will find a full line of Bread, Cakes, Pies and Confectionery. Telephone Call 220 F. ICE CREAM. Sunday orders delivered. J. J. STAHL, Proprietor.

F. A. LONG, No. 108 SOMERSET ST. Near Manning Avenue. Up-to-Date Cash Grocery Store. Orders called for and delivered in any part of City or Dunellen.

Your Valuables, will be safe in Doane's Safe Deposit Vault. Lock boxes from $3.50 to $10 a year.

HARRY S. POTTER, Dealer In LEHIGH VALLEY COAL. Office 209 North avenue. All orders will receive prompt attention. Yard, at Mt. Pleasant Lehigh Valley Railroad. 10 20 1y

MRS. L. ADAMS, MILLINERY and DRESSMAKING. Parlors. Imported and Domestic Millinery, styles the latest. Hats and Bonnets trimmed to order a specialty. Ladies' own material used. All work strictly first-class. 114 EAST FRONT STREET.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL. My new Barber Shop at 143 NORTH AVE. Is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line. EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

L. A. HUMMER'S VARIETY MARKET. Meats, Fruits, Vegetables, Poultry, Eggs, etc. Goods delivered to any part of the city free of charge. 220 Park Ave. Telephone Call, 29 A.

McCullough's STEAM MILL. 21 Steiner place, North Plainfield. R. H. McCullough, Prop. Sash, blinds, doors, mouldings, scroll sawing turning, &c. Estimates cheerfully furnished

Our 14th Annual Clothing Sale, for July and August has commenced, and for the next two months we will sell all of our summer stock at just ½ price. It will pay you to call and get our prices before purchasing elswhere.

Men's and Boys' Suits, Bicycle Suits, Extra Bicycle Pants, Hats and Gents' Furnishing Goods must be closed out, as we carry nothing over. We have about 100 pairs of those English Tweed pants left, which we still sell at the low figure of 98c the pair, so if you need pants, now is the time to catch on. All goods sold as advertised.

Werner's Clothing House, 206 West Front Street.

MANTELS $4.00 AND UP. AT THE Fire-Place Store, CURTIS M. THORPE, 310-312 Park Avenue.

STRAW HATS, Fine Summer Underwear. Also Scotch Cheviot and Madras Shirts, fast colors, at JAMES R. BLAIR'S, 126 Park Avenue.

$1.25 NOW REDUCED FROM $1.75. Misses' Chocolate Lace Shoes with Vesting Tops. Sizes 13 to 2 only. SHERWIN'S, 149 West Front St.

J. T. VAIL, Real Estate and Insurance. 177 NORTH AVENUE.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap. is the order to lay in a heap. is the atmosphere warmed by its glow. is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

ORDER YOUR BREAKFAST AT ROGER'S. 232 West Second St. First Delivery 5 a. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE. VanEMBURGH & SON OPEN A NEW DEPARTMENT.

16 qt. Galvanized Pail	15c	Round Globe Fancy Parlor Lamps	57
10 qt. Granite Dish Pan	25c	Japanese Dust Pans	5c
33 qt. Wash Boiler	25c	Galvanized Dust Pans	10c
10 qt. Dish Pan	10c	Crumb Trays	10c
Zinc Wash Boards	10c	Long Handle Fire Shovels	5c
Painted Chamber Pails	19c	Chopping Bowls	10c
3 Brass Hoop Cedar Pails	25c	Angel Cake Pans	5c
Large Combination Dinner Pails	20c	Perforated Pie Plates	3c-4c
Knife Boxes	10c	Glass Lamps Complete	19c
Large Enameled Tea Pots	25c	Sink Drainers	12c
1 lb. Roll Toilet Paper	10c	Feather Dusters	10c

IN OUR VERY LIGHT BASEMENT. Corner Store. Babcock Building. Plainfield, N. J.

We Insure Your Shirts. We are the first laundry in the U. S. to advertise in the daily papers, guaranteeing not to spoil colored shirts in laundering them, and backing that guarantee up with a promise to pay for all we spoil. This is the time of year when the second-class laundry ruins your Paris Percale or Glasgow Cheviot and tells you "It was the fault of the goods" Let us call for your work. Hillier & Co., 179 North Avenue. Telephone 30 M.

M. POWERS, Dealer in Superior Quality Lehigh and Wyoming Coal. MIXED COAL, $4.75. Yard 725 to 737 South Ave. Office 171 North Ave., opposite R. R. Station. Telephone 67 A.

CHARLES L. STANLEY, 142 North Ave., headquarters for Choice Cut Flowers and Palms and Ferns. FLORAL DESIGNS. Decorations for all occasions Greenhouses at Netherwood, near depot.

NEUMAN BROS., HIGH-GRADE GROCERS. Choice Teas and Coffees.

RUSHMORE & CO., WATCHUNG AVE. and FOURTH ST. Dealers in Lumber, Coal and Wood. Moulding & Planing Mill. Turning and Scroll Sawing.

Elston M. French & Co. 168 NORTH AVENUE. (Succeeding VanBuren Bros.) Real Estate and Insurance. Largest agency in the city. Loans negotiate

THE Metropolitan Boarding Stables. C. & D. CORLE, - - - - Proprietor. No. 138 East Second Street. Livery, Boarding and Sale Stables. Horses boarded by the day, week, month or year. Reasonable prices. TELEPHONE 214 F. 17

STORAGE OF FURS. Special attention is directed to our exceptional facilities for storing furs and fur lined garments, fur rugs, etc., in our new store, 308 West Front street, and the insuring of same against damage by moths, fire or burglary, at very low prices. Now is the time to have your furs repaired, altered and redyed. Summer prices prevail. Estimates cheerfully given. H. KOHN, 308 West Front Street.

HONEYMAN'S PRIVATE TOURS, 181 NORTH AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J. FALL VACATION TOUR to Saratoga, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Washington, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen. Eight days. Starting August 30. Write for particulars to above address.

2,000 Yards of Ribbon to be 17c a yard.

Beautiful ribbons moire taffetas in every color. Delicate shades, dainty combinations, plaids, checks, are here for 17c a yard; most of these ribbons ordinarily sell at 25c, a great many at 35c; displayed for easy selection in front part of the store.

Shirt Waists are Now 25c and 50c.

These are the clearing prices, not many here and a few days selling will clear the stock. Former prices 65c. to $1.00.

Silk Sale.

500 yards of figured silks at 42c. regular 65c value. 350 yards silk,s plaids, stripes, etc. at 69c, regular $1.00 value. 100 yards remnants of silk, at 20c. a yard.

Men's Negligee Shirts.

The men's furnishing dept. offers soft front negligee shirts, neat stripes, checks, plaids, white neck bands, some with detachable cuffs, some without cuffs, at 50c. This means your selection of shirts that have been 75c. to $1.00.

A Sale of Hosiery.

About 25 dozen ladies fine black hose, 16c. a pair, worth 25c. Nearly a hundred dozen ladies black hose to be 9c. a pair, regular 12½c. Children's fine ribbed hose at 10c. regularly sold at 15c.

I. LEDERER.

TRY

J. F. MACDONALD'S

TEA FROM 20C. TO 35C. per lb.

COFFEES.

Our 15c. is continuing to make friends, and our 20c. in the grain has no equal.

Guaranteed to equal 50c and 60c goods or money refunded.

Send or call for samples—we are pleased to give them.

Telephone 49 B. 186 East Front Street.

-:-COFFEE-:-

FRESHER than you and I.
Best that grows.
From 10 cents up.

GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW,
PARK AVENUE GROCER.

McDonough Bros.,
-COAL AND ICE-

222 MADISON AVE. Telephone 225 I.

PLAINFIELD COUNCIL.

No. 711, Royal Arcanum.

The regular meetings of this Council are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month in Exempt Firemen's Hall, Coward Building, Park avenue, at 8 p. m.

L. B. Bromfield, Regent.
Frederick C. Pope, Secretary.

ALEX. LUSARDI,

211 West Front Street,

Wholesale and retail dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, all kinds choice confectionery. Nuts, bananas and cigars. California fruit a specialty. No branch stores 9 9 1 Year

A. A. MARSH & SON,

PRACTICAL

Painters and Decorators.

—DON'T FORGET THE PLACE—

965 WEST FRONT ST.

All orders sent to us will receive prompt attention.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED.

Give us a call. Respectfully yours,
A. A. MARSH. E. MARSH.

MARSH & SON.

Advertised Letters

Plainfield, N. J., August 29, 1898.

Arden Mr E J	Nichols Mr De L F
Barrett Miss M	Reed Mr B
Boag Mrs W	Southand Mrs J
Dunn Mr J J	Sporborg Mr H
Gorden Mrs S	Stenge Panline
Howan Mrs E	Stewart Miss C E
Huff Mrs H	Tetterberg Mr C A
McClere Dr F W	Wall Mr James
Mental Mr A	Whimpenny Miss Maud

THE GRANDVIEW

Meat Market

George Egel, Manager.

Dealer in Fresh and Salted Meats. Game in season. Orders called for and delivered promptly. Cor. Grandview ave and Somerset treet. 6 12

CHAS. EDW. BICKNELL,

wholesale and retail dealer in

California and Domestic Fruits, Confectionary, Nuts, Ice Cream, Soda, etc.

47 Somerset St.

"On the Bridge."

William Hand & Son,

STAGES

For Parties, etc. 518 Park avenue.

Summer Stoves,

burning Gasoline and Oil, have been greatly improved—we have the latest productions.

Baldwin Refrigerators are the best made.

Pratts Deodorized Gasoline.

A. M. Griffen,
119 EAST FRONT ST.

L. L. Manning & Son,

STEAM GRANITE WORKS,

Corner Central avenue and West Front street, opp. First Baptist Church. Over 150 monuments and headstones to select from. Prices never so low.

A. H. ENANDER,

Sanitary Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Steam and Hot Water Heating.

Contractor for sewer connections.

210 PARK AVE.

HENRY LIEFKE,

201-203 West Front St.

BAKER AND CONFECTIONER

Try my New England and Home Made Bread. Vienna Bread a specialty. Goods delivered to all parts of the city.

TENEYCK & HARRIS,

Dealers in all the best kinds of cleaned and wel screened Lehigh Valley

COAL

Office 121 Watchung ave., near 2d st.

Telephone No. 15 F. South Plainfield, L. V. Station.

PEARSON & GAYLE,

Carpenters and Builders.

Residence—W. J. Pearson, No. 15 Vin st. H. E. Gayle, No. 18 Vines

All work promptly attended to.

BETTER GOODS FOR LESS MONEY THAN ANYWHERE ELSE.

Mullins

218-220 MARKET ST., NEWARK.

Homes Furnished for $1 a Week.

One Visit And you'll think same as thousands of others—The Greatest Furniture and Carpet House in the State. Come look at the goods and get our prices. That's all we ask.

$12.

Solid Oak Sideboards, French plate beveled mirror, handsomely carved, at $12.

If you don't like this there are 100 other styles to choose from—$7.50 to $75.00.

$2.50

LARGE REED ROCKERS

$2.50

$4.98.

Buys a Solid Oak Extension Table, well made, nicely carved and finely finished. A grand opportunity this week to refurnish your dining room.

100 Folding Beds at greatly reduced prices.
Folding Beds at....$10
Folding Beds at.... 16
Folding Beds at.... 22

$6.75.

This solid oak 5-drawer Chiffoniere, well made and finely finished, only $6.75. Other styles from $3.25 up.

SPECIAL—100 New Solid Oak CHAMBER SUITS from $10.00 to $250. A new designs.

Easy Terms of Credit if Desired.

Elevators to Every Floor.

MULLINS & SONS.

218-220 Market St., Newark.

Branch Houses 78-84 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. 121-125 Newark Ave., Jersey City, N. J., 136-138 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

Leech, Stiles & Co.

EYE SPECIALISTS,

14 and 16 South Fifteenth, street, Philadelphia. H. A. Stiles will be at

No. 107 East Front St.

Every Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4:50 p. m.

Persons who have headache, or whose eyes are causing discomfort, should call upon this specialist and they will receive intelligent and skillful attention. No charge to examine your eyes. Every pair of glasses ordered guaranteed to be satisfactory. 1 14 tf m-t-w-s

UNINTERRUPTED PASSENGER SERVICE

TO

FORT MONROE

OLD POINT COMFORT

AND

WASHINGTON

which are most attractive points at this time.

EXPRESS STEAMSHIPS

OF THE

OLD DOMINION LINE

Perform Daily Service.

Through tickets returning from Washington by rail or water.

For full information apply to

Old Dominion S. S. Co.,

Pier 26, North River, New York.

W. L. GUILAUDEU, Vice-Pres. & Traffic Mgr. 12 31 tf

E. E. BROWN'S MEAT MARKET

cor. PARK AVE. and SECOND ST.

Choice Meats of all kinds.

GAME

n seasons. Goods delivered in all parts of the city and borough.

J. W. VAN SICKLE,

122 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

FRESH & SALTED MEATS,

GAME IN SEASON. Philadelphia Scrapple.

Orders called for and delivered promptly.

TELEPHONE 148 b.

Who? Who? Who?

says the Owl.

Who sells the best Wall Paper?

Who sells the most Wall Paper?

Who has the largest stock of Wall Paper?

Says the Public:

MARSH, AYERS & CO.,

of course.

The Owl is the symbol of wisdom—a fit symbol is it, therefore, to head an advertisement that will convey to you the wisdom of buying your Wall Paper of us.

Marsh, Ayers & Co.,

WALL PAPERS, PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, etc. 201 Park avenue, cor. E. Second street.

M. E. STEPHENSON,

146 North Avenue,

Near the depot.

RESTAURANT

AND CATERING.

TELEPHONE 624.

Smalley Bros.

THE OLD ESTABLISHED RELIABLE

BUTCHERS,

144 NORTH AVE.

Would be pleased to serve readers of The Daily Press. A trial order will make you our customers.

THE CRESCENT HOTEL.,

corner Somerset and Chatham streets, North Plainfield. Regular and transient boarders.

RUDOLPH SPEIGEL, Proprietor

THE CZAR'S PEACE TALK

A Conference Generally Expeted to Result.

London, Aug. 31.—Ahe newspapers here continue to devote a large amount of their space to commenting upon and criticising the czar's peace note. While, natrally, differing in regard to the reasons actuating the appeal, they generally agree that the outcome will be a conference of the premiers, if not of the sovereigns themselves, probably at Copenhagen, which will be followed by an expression of concurrence in the humanitarian aims of the czar and a report of the resolutions to their respective governments, when the whole thing will be shelved indefinitely.

In other quarters it is alleged that the czar's pronouncement was directly inspired by Queen Victoria, whose greatest hope is that her reign may not again be disturbed by war. The queen, confessedly, has long sought to restrain Emperor William, and it is not unlikely that she used her great influence with the czarina to secure the czar's support.

The latest comments from Paris show there is intense irritation there on the subject. The cvzar's proposal is regarded as being unfriendly and inconsistent with the Franco-Russian alliance.

Curiously enough, in support of this view, yesterday's official Hamburg Correspondent published a telegram from St. Petersburg confirming the report that Emperor William of Germany and the czar exchanged views in regard to the establishment of a lasting state of peace, "which was fully demonstrated by the identity of the monarchs' wishes."

Bristol, Aug. 31.—The Trades-Union congress, which is now in session here, has unanimously passed a resolution expressing satisfaction at the czar's peace note, and calling on the British government to give effect thereto, "as militarism is the great foe of liberty and is a crushing burden to the toiling millions."

NAVY YARD NOTES

No Visitors Allowed on Warships When They Enter Dry Docks.

Broklyn, Aug. 31.—Admiral Sampson is still aboard the cruiser New York at the navy yard. He is superintending the preparations for getting the ship in condition to enter the dry dock, which will probably take place during the latter part of the week.

The Rainbow, which was undergoing repairs in dry dock No. 2, where the New York will be floated, came out yesterday, having undergone a complete overhauling. The auxiliary cruiser Resolute arrived in the yard and was tied up at the Cob dock, astern of the receiving ship Vermont. The Resolute has been selected to carry the Cuban military commissioners, of whom Admiral Sampson is one, to Havana. The cruiser will be coaled and fitted up for her new service and when ready to proceed Admiral Sampson will transfer his flag to her.

She will probably sail on next Saturday.

Caulkers are at work caulking the after deck of the Oregon and her ammunition is being taken out. She is also preparing to enter the dry dock. The Iowa has been lightened of everything possible and is ready to enter dry dock No. 3, which has been put into condition to receive her. She will probably go in to-day and will receive a general cleaning and all necessary repairs.

An addition has been made to the rule issued prohibiting visitors from going on board the ships in the yard. Yesterday morning a notice was posted that all visitors desiring to board ships would have to do so while they were lying off Tompkinsville, S. I., as when the vessels now there would put in at the yard visitors would be excluded.

Lieut. Hobson at Santiago.

Santiago, Aug. 30.—The steamer Seguranca has arrived at this place with Lieutenant Richmond P. Hobson, who will superintend the efforts to float the sunken Spanish cruisers Cristobal Colon and Infanta Maria Teresa. The Seguranca brought also Captain Leigh and forty men of the Signal Service corps, who will releive Colonel Greene.

General Lawton has issued an order releasing the largest dock in the harbor, which was lately wholly occupied by the United States government, and returning it to the use of the local merchants and shippers.

The beautiful Alameda boulevard, 200 feet wide, encircling Santiago bay, now occupied by the Second immune regiment, will be released to the city as soon as the immunes can be removed to the new camp two miles out. Residents of the city and province to the number of eight thousand, now in Costa Rica and Jamaica, are expected to return in the next three weeks.

The Advance on Omdurman.

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 31.—It is announced in a dispatch from Wad-El-Obeid, dated yesterday, that a brigade of friendly Arabs, commanded by Major Stuart Wortley, which has been pushing round Omdurman, the Dervish capital opposite Khartum, with the view of cutting off the retreat of the forces of the Khalifa, had its first brush with the enemy on the east bank of the Nile and captured five men and a grain laden boat.

The Dervish scouts are now frequently sighted, and the whole Anglo-Egyptian army has reached Umtarif, thirty miles from Omdurman. It will move into a new camp, ten miles further south, to-day.

The Steamer Cleopatra Sighted.

London, Aug. 31.—The German tank steamer Helius, Captain Jansen, from New York August 18, for Flushing, passed the Lizard yesterday and signalled that on August 25, in latitude 48 , longitude 36, she passed the Atlantic Transport line steamer Cleopatra. The Cleopatra was going at the rate of 170 knots daily. There was no signal from the Cleopatra to indicate what trouble she was in. The Cleopatra left New York on August 15, and should have reached London last Saturday.

Four Million in Gold Dust.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Word has been received by the North American Transportation Company of the arrival at Seattle of the Roanoke from the Yukon with four millions in gold dust from the Klondike.

SENECA SAILS TO-DAY

She Carries the Porto Rican Military Commission.

A VOYAGE OF EIVE DAYS

The Steamer Has Been Thoroughly Overhauled at Her Pier in Brooklyn Since She Came from Santiago With Tr ops. The Ship Will Cary About Sixty Passengers Besides Stores.

Brooklyn, Aug. 31.—The army transport steamer Seneca, carrying the Porto Rican military commission, will sail from this city this afternoon, and if nothing unforeseen happens, Admiral Schley, General W. W. Gordon and the other members of the party will arrive at Ponce early next Tuesday morning. The Seneca is now lying at the foot of Pacific street, where stores for the soldiers in Porto Rico are being taken on board.

Captain J. F. Decker, the commander of the Seneca, has made every possible arrangement for the comfort of the admiral and the other distinguished passengers. The hero of the Santiago naval fight will occupy Captain Decker's room during the voyage south and General Gordon has been assigned to a spacious state room on the upper deck. The Seneca recently came from Cuban waters, having brought the Fourth infantry from Santiago to Montauk Point, arriving at Camp Wikoff only a few days ago. From Montauk Point the Seneca hurried to the Pacific street pier, where she has been thoroughly overhauled. All the woodwork of the ship has been repainted and revarnished, and the steamer would hardly be recognized as one of the battered transports that sailed into New York harbor a few days ago.

"Yes, we are all ready to receive the admiral and his party," said Captain Decker this morning. We have provisions enough on board to last for sixty days, and as I have purchased the best food supplies to be found in the market, I am sure that all the members of the commission will be well satisfied with the ship's table. As the Seneca makes about 14 1-2 knots an hour, we ought to be off Porto Rico in about five and one-half days. I am unable to say how long the Seneca will be in southern waters this time, for I have not as yet received any direct orders from the government."

"In addition to Admiral Schley and General Gordon, Major General J. R. Brooke is also a member of the Porto Rican military commimssion. He is now in Porto Rico and will probably join Schley and Gordon at Ponce. There will be about thirty members of the Porto Rican party. Besides the commissioners there will be the aids of each commissioner, interpreters, stenographers and clerks. A special postal commission will also sail on the Seneca. Altogether the passengers will number sixty.

It is expected that the Cuban commission will sail from Brooklyn on the Resolute on Saturday afternoon of this week. The Cuban commmissioners are Generals Wade and Butler and Admiral Sampson. Lieutenant Colonel J. W. Clous of the judge advocate general's department goes as recorder and legal adviser of the commission.

Nine Warships Sail.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Although nine of the United States warships have sailed away from Norfolk, bound for Boston, it is said at the navy department that this is not to be taken as a sign that Hampton Roads is to be abandoned even temporarily as a naval station. Acting Secretary Allen said to-day that the department intended to use Hampton Roads and the Norfolk navy yard to the fullest extent for administrative purposes. It never had been intended to make the roads a concentration point for the North Atlantic fleet, but naval vessels would be continually entering the roads.

The vessels that sailed will be kept there only long enough to repair them, but meanwhile they will be opened to the inspection of the public, and consisting as they do of the best type of cruisers, they will be objects of great interest to the public.

No More Yellow Fever Cases.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Dr. Wyman, surgeon general of the Marine hospital service, has received encouraging news regarding the yellow fever situation from both Key West and Galveston.

At the former place no new cases have developed in the last three or four days and he is of the opinion that no fever exists there now. There are no new cases reported at Galveston and the quarantine established against the city has been raised, but it is continued against Fort Point, where the troops are quartered.

End of the Dutch Regency

The Hague, Aug. 31.—The queen regent of Holland, in a proclamation just issued, upon the occasion of the end of her regency, her daughter, Queen Wilhelmina, who will become of age to-day, expressed warm pleasure at seeing the whole nation "ranged joyously around the throne of the young queen," thanks God that her dearest wish has been heard, and after thanking the people for their loving and faithful support of herself, invokes God's blessing upon the youthful sovereign, and concludes:

"May our country become great in everything in which a small nation can be great."

The Peace Commission.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The absence of the president and the consequent omission of the customary cabinet meeting has given the White House and its neighborhood a sort of holiday air. It was hoped that the official announcement of the names of the peace commission would be made yesterday, but no such publication was forthcoming. It was said on excellent authority, that Messrs. Day, Davis, Frye, Reid and White will constitute the commission, and that no one of these gentlemen is at all likely to withdraw at this late hour.

GOV. BLACK AT CAMP THOMAS

Governor Says Stories of Suffering There Are Gross Exaggerations.

Chattanoga, Aug. 31.—Governor Black spent the entire day yesterday in Camp Thomas with the New York soldiers. He would not allow the officers to accompany him through the camp, and went alone, saying:

"If the men have anything to tell let them tell it."

Into almost every company street of every New York regiment the governor went. He shook hands with the men, chatted with them here and there, and visited every hospital where soldiers are confined.

Everywhere the governor was received with manifestations of approval and gladness. He came to see and he certainly saw. Nothing escaped his scrutiny.

At night he returned to the city, after messing with Colonel Green of the regiment. At his room in the Read house Governor Black gave out an interview for the press. He said:

"When I arrived here I was prepared for anything. I had been led to believe that the camp was a hell on earth, and that death and destruction lurked in the very atmosphere. These statements are gross exaggerations and misrepresentations of the conditions as I found them.

"I can only speak of to-day and have no knowledge of what has been.

"I came here to inspect and criticise and this is my criticism:

"In all my life I never saw a better conducted hospital than the Sternberg hospital built by General Breckinridge. It is admirable in construction and is conducted with the utmost care and system.

"The New York sick have not been treated as well as they should have been. They have had a harder time than the sick of any other regiments.

MERRITT LEAVES MANILA

Will Take Part in Peace Conference.

Manila, Aug. 30.—The United States transport China left here to-day, having on board Major General Merritt and his staff. The general is bound for Paris, where he will take part in the Spanish-American peace conference. General tis is acting governor of Manila.

General Greene and General Babcock, with their staffs, are bound for Washington.

Opacible, the insurgent leader, is going to Hong Kong in order to confer with the insurgent junta there. He will receive Aguinaldo's final instructions by cable. Agonoilio, another of the insurgent leaders is going to Washington. It is considered probable that the insurgent junta of Hong Kong will send a delegate to the Paris peace conference.

Aguinaldo remains at Bakoor. Hundreds of unarmed insurgents visited Manila yesterday. Rear Admiral Dewey has declined to permit the coastwise steamers to resume running, pending a settlement of the Philippine question.

General Rios, the Spanish governor of the Visayas islands, is reported to have proclaimed himself governor general of the Spanish dominions in the Philippine islands, and to have invited the adherents of Spain to rally at Iloilo.

The remains of F. H. Rawson-Walker, the former British consul here, who died before the surrender of Manila to the American forces, and which were temporarily lodged in the Catholic cemetery, were interred to-day in the Protestant burial place.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION

Return of the Walter Wellman Party.

Tromsoe, Norway, Aug. 31.—The steam whaler Fridtjof, having on board Walter Wellman and the members of his expedition to Greenland, has returned after landing an expedition at Cape Tegethoff, on the southern point of Hall's island. While the Wellman party were returning they met the expedition to Franz Josef Land, under Dr. A. G. Nothorst, at Koenigskar island, and were informed that all search for Herr Andree, the missing balloonist, has proved futile.

The Wellman expedition left Tromsoe on June 26 for the purpose of exploring the Arctic regions, and, after stopping at Solombola, near Archangel, the party sailed for Franz Josef Land.

On July 15 last the Fridtjof arrived at Vardoe, and after taking on coal, the expedition left for the north on the following day. In Br. Wellman's party are Professor James H. Gore of Columbia University, Lieutenant Evelyn B. Baldwin, Dr. Edward Hofina, Lurios Harland and several Norwegian scientists.

Professor Northorst's expedition is financed by King Oscar and a number of private persons, and sailed early in the year, with the hope of finding Herr Andree, who ascended in a balloon from Danes island on July 11, 1897.

HOME FROM CHICKAMAUGA

268 Invalids of the 8th Regiment Arrive Here.

New York, Aug. 31.—Two hundred and sixty-eight soldiers of the Eighth New York volunteer regiment arrived in this city at 3 o'clock yesterday over the New York Central railroad from Chickamauga Park.

A crowd of fully two thousand persons, composed chiefly of anxious relatives and friends of the soldiers, many of whom were known to be in a serious condition, had gathered at the Grand Central station to await the arrival of the train.

The hospital authorities in this city had made ample provision for the accommodation of the invalids upon their arrival, and ambulances were on hand at the station to receive them.

The train stopped at 138th street and let off thirty-one members of the regiment who came from Mount Vernon. The others came direct to this city and left the train at the Grand Central station.

The President's Plans.

Cleveland, Aug. 31.—President McKinley has announced that he will leave here for Canton on Thursday, staying there two hours. He will then proceed directly to New York, remaining there just long enough to get a train for Montauk Point.

Mrs. McKinley will remain in New York while the president is at Montauk Point.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

Published Daily, except Sunday, at 3:30 p. m.

108 North avenue. Telephone Call 61.

Two cents a copy. Ten cents a week
$5 a year—in advance
No extra charge for papers mailed to points in the U. S. and Canada
Delivered by carrier or by mail.
The Press has the most complete carrier and mail service of any paper in the metropolitan district.
Any subscriber failing o receive a single issue will confer a favor by notifying the business office.
Advertising rates mailed on request
Copy for change of advertisements must be in this office by 9 a m. to ensure change the same day.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., AUG. 31, 1898.

FEATURES OF TODAY'S PRESS.

PAGE 1.—Important local news.
PAGE 2.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 3.—Telegraphic news.
PAGE 4.—Editorial and gossip.
PAGE 5.—Vicinity news.
PAGE 6.—German news.
PAGE 6.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 6.—Woman's department.
PAGE 7.—Miscellaneous.
PAGE 8.—Sporting and local news.

Suffering in the Army.

There probably isn't a man in the country but what regrets the suffering and privations which the brave fellows who enlisted for the country's defense have undergone. But the criticism of the Administration for this condition of affairs is disgusting in a good many respects. Undoubtedly there have been abuses and negligence in official circles which have contributed to bring about a bad condition of the army, but the sickness of the soldiers and the lack of proper treatment is not due entirely to wilful purposes of officials in charge, as some of the sensational-mongers would have us believe. Governor Tanner, of Illinois, summed up the situation yesterday in an honest and creditable manner as follows:

"These charges come from people who forget what war means. They think that because soldiers come back after three months at the front, looking thin and weighing thirty or forty pounds less than when they marched away, there has been mismanagement. They seem to think the boys were away on a picnic. Sherman defined war correctly when he said, 'War is destruction, war is death, war is hell.'

"Our country has not seen war for over thirty years, and people have forgotten the experience of 1861. I remember that 25 per cent. of my company died of disease in the first three months we were out. In this war our soldiers went to a tropical climate at the worst time of the year.

"When the war broke out I told the Illinois troops that five men would succumb to disease where one fell before the Spanish bullets. It is not to be wondered at that the troops come home sick and worn. That is a part of war, notwithstanding that many persons who are complaining seem to think the invasion of Cuba a pleasure excursion.

"I have no sympathy with the senseless condemnation of the Government. Of course all the criticism reflects on the National Administration, and may do harm among the unthinking, but I do not believe any one who stops to consider will blame the President as the yellow newspapers demand."

Griggs May Preside.

Attorney-General Griggs has been requested to act as temporary chairman of the coming Republican Gubernatorial convention. The special committee, consisting of Franklin Murphy, John Kean and Major E. J. Anderson, has deputized Mr. Murphy to write the letter of invitation to the Attorney-General.

The sub-committee of the Democratic State committee will meet in Newark tomorrow to fix the date of their State convention.

Discussing the death of Prince Bismarck, the leading Socialist organ of Berlin, Vorwaerts, repudiates the notion that so called men of genius are ever of any use to the world. It says: "We Social Democrats no longer believe old wives' tales about great men sent by Jehovah or Providence or the police to guide poor humanity in the way it ought to go. These superhumans are just ordinary men who owe their adaption of the collective labor of nameless millions not to their personality, but to chance conditions arising in obedience to fixed laws." Nothing is truer than that it is the collective labor of nameless millions that makes great men possible. But great men are the conduits through which these forces are obliged to run, the trumpets through which their dumb, perhaps scarcely self recognized, aspirations blow ringing notes. Bismarck embodied in a colossal form the patriotic longing of millions of Germans for a united fatherland, and his genius realized it. The great poet gives back to the world its vague ideals and craving of beauty in exquisite forms. So on we may run through the whole gamut of examples, finding that the really great man is he who interprets to those who are without power the things which lie deepest in their own hearts.

SANFORD B. DOLE.

According to advices from Washington it is probable that Sanford B. Dole will be the first governor of our new territory of Hawaii. He has been president of the Hawaiian republic since its proclamation. Sanford Ballard Dole was born in Honolulu in 1844. His father and mother were missionaries to the island.

There is an unconfirmed statement that a Stuttgart publishing firm has bought the right of Bismarck's memoirs, written since his resignation as chancellor was demanded by the Emperor William II. We can fancy that the revelations in such a book, written when the Iron Chancellor's temper had been set on edge, might easily alarm one so sensitive to criticism as the emperor. It is intimated he will suppress the book, as he did his father's memoirs, then indeed by Bismarck's advice.

The Belgian nobleman, Prince de Lencoir, who commissioned an American agent to obtain for him an American millionaire wife, was willing to pay a commission of $100,000 down in cold cash on the day of the marriage, but the sagacious foreigner refused point blank to send earnest money for expense of negotiation. He had probably "been there" before.

Admiral Sampson, in allusion to the trifling sickness among the sailors of his fleet, is reported to have remarked: "We know how to take care of our men in the navy. You see, we are always on a war footing." The navy, however, has a supreme advantage. Its conditions permit healthful housing, regular medical attendance and a good commissariat under all conditions. The lack of these things is what even the best organized armies sometimes are forced to undergo.

A jolly anecdote apropos of the Prince of Wales was recently told by Sir Edwin Arnold. Sir Francis Knollys, the private secretary, announced to H. R. H. that some gentlemen of the press wished admission. "Oh, show them in," was the answer. "If they don't come in at the door, they will come in through the ventilator." The English fourth estate has taken valuable lessons from the Yankee brother.

The resolutions adopted by the Saratoga conference on our foreign policy were ingeniously constructed to occupy the golden mean between the conservatives and the expansionists. Chancellor McCracken, the chairman of the committee, proved that he could easily ride the two horses at once.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

It is an imperial title that Cole & Johnson flatter themselves with—the "Kings of Koon-dom"—but viewing their performance given in Music Hall last night in comparison with the other shows exploiting darkey talent, it does not require a very critical mind to allow the royal distinction with which they accorded themselves on flaring lithographs and theatre programmes. Cole as a tramp, and Johnson as a sport, displayed clever talent in their impersonations, while the company of colored performers with which they have surrounded themselves is filled with dusky actors who are better than any other similar organization on the road and quite as good as the average farce-comedy presented by those of Caucasian blood. Added to the average ability of the performers is the distinctive interest in the fact that they are colored, and if not entirely a new novelty on the stage certainly not so old that amusement-seekers have become tired of them. Negro performers are now riding on the top crest of popularity and in "A Trip to Coontown" there is plenty to keep that wave of success rolling on for some time yet. It is a hodge-podge of songs, dances, queer antics and other characteristics that find a place in the negro character, and is carried through with spirit. Beside the action and incidantal songs of the farce there are a number of specialties. Freeman Sisters as contortional dancers were better with their voices than with their acrobatic attempts, but their twists nevertheless won applause. Jim Wilson had a number of difficult feats of juggling and went through with them gracefully and dexterously. Tom Brown was down on the programme as a "versatile entertainer." He was all that, and for genuine talent he was easily the peer of the company. As a character actor he was especially good. The singing of Lloyd G. Gibbs was one of the treats of the evening. He has a magnificent tenor voice. Juvia Runyon, popularized as the "Caboan Nightingale," sang sweetly in a solo and in a trio from "Attila." The performance ended with a pleasant patriotic ensemble.

* * * * *

The management of Music Hall can feel justly proud in having secured the pretty and well-known soubrette, Miss Katherine Rober, supported by the Lillian Kennedy Company, one of the finest and best-equipped repertoire companies on the road. Thursday evening they will present Annie Pixley's greatest of all her successes, the laughable farce-comedy "The Deacon's Daughter." Friday evening the great sensational comedy drama, "She Couldn't Marry Three," with all its sensational scenes. For Saturday matinee and night the great military war drama, depicting all the scenes in real war that we have been reading so much about, the surrender of Santiago and the arrival of the United States troops headed by General Miles, etc.

* * * * *

It is the unexpected that happens in Hoyt's "Bunch of Keys" which is coming to Music Hall Thursday, September 8th. Possibly this is the reason why the play remains continually interesting. The manager who astonishes most is most successful, the author who amazes, the actor who astounds, the actress who startles, remains in prosperity until a newer wonder strikes the tour. The public is like a child still engrossed in fresh toys, still ready to discard them when the secret of their mechanism is discovered, still longing for new diversions. Manager Gus Bothner has excelled himself this season in the many new features and sensations he has introduced in "A Bunch of Keys." This is the secret of his success, always up to the times. Jot down the date in your memory.

* * * * *

The meritorious play by David Higgins entitled "At Piney Ridge" will be the attraction at Music Hall Tuesday, September 13th. Nothing too congratulatory can be said of this work of David Higgins. It is worthy of all the good words that have been and will be bestowed upon it. No stronger and better drama of the south has come to the theatre of late years and the public is benefitted and instructed as well as entertained by such capably written plays.

Boynton Beach

LAST WEEK.
Daily Orchestra Music.
DANCING
Free in the Afternoon.
Thursday and Saturday evening Hops. 25 cents.
Get ready for
LABOR DAY,
Monday, September 5.
Last and best day of the season.
EXTRA FINE MUSIC
FLOOR 25c.

THIS WEEK.

A large quantity of 36-inch PERCALES. Splendid cloth and choice styles, made to sell at 10c. Our price while they last, 6c. per yard. Very desirable for Wrappers, House Dresses, etc. They are a greater bargain, if possible, than the Organdies we sold in July. They are worthy the attention of all careful buyers. We are not selling them for profit, but rather to make business during the dull season.

SUNDRY NEW GOODS.

Our FALL DRESS GOODS are now arriving. We have some rare values in Brilliantines, Sicilians and Storm Serges in Navy and Black. We buy these goods direct from the mill. They are reliable and we recommend to the finest trade. Novelties will be worn but little, so we leave them out and devote our energies to securing the choicest things for tailor made suits. Venetian Cloths are the latest. We have them.

Some new BLACK CREPONS at 98c. are very rich. We have a new Black Henrietta, 46 inches wide, at 98c. that we believe are above the average $1.00 Henrietta. Ask to see it.

-:- Our Fall Line of Gents Neckwear -:-

now in stock. We pride ourselves on making choice selections of rich materials. If you are particular about Ties ours will interest you.

-:- Children's Hats and Caps for Fall. -:-

All new and the latest. More than that, they are clean. We handle no sweat shop goods.

Ladies Tailor-Made SKIRTS, Ready to Wear,

OR MADE TO ORDER.

Our own materials and workmanship the finest.

A Few Trade Winners.

Just for This Week.

A Solid Oak 5-drawer Chiffonier, brass handles, 12 of them, a bargain at - - $4.98
A Solid Oak Sideboard, large French bevel glass, full size, value $12, 6 of them at - $8.99
100 large full size Dining Chairs, open Cane Seat, the regular $1 value, this lot at - - 79c
Iron Beds, Mattresses, Pillows, Bolsters and Springs. Prices about ⅔ of what you usually pay.
New Furniture arriving every day. When in need of Furniture or Housefurnishings, visit Our Basement.

Mason's QUART JARS, 40c. Doz.
PINTS, 36c. Doz.

WOODHULL & MARTIN,
234-236-238 W. Front St.
Telephone No. 774.

PECK is not selling land in Cuba,
but he is selling good
Corsets
that will fit good and at fair prices.

SPECIAL.

A splendid line of Scotch Suits to order - $15.00
Reduced from $20.00.
Trousers to order - - - - 5.00

SEBRING'S,
202 West Front St.

The Model Town . . .
LINCOLN
OFFERS
Rare Opportunities for Home Seekers and Investors.

In has Sewers, Trolley Line, City Water, Telephones, School, Postoffice, Macadam Road, Depots of Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

HOUSES AND LOTS SOLD ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

SILAS D. DRAKE, President and Manager.

MAKES HAIR GROW. A lady in Maine writes:—"I had a bald place on the side of my head for 20 years. Have used almost everything, but found nothing like [illegible]

REYNOLD'S PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC.

I now have a soft, white down all over the place." It stimulates healthy action of the scalp, relieves from dandruff, prevents falling out of hair. No disagreeable odor. An elegant hair dressing. Made only by

T. S. ARMSTRONG, THE APOTHECARY.

BOEHM'S.

Nothing we can say will convince you like our goods and prices themselves. Come in and let us show you that beyond a shadow of a doubt it pays you every time to trade with us.

French Percales.
5,000 yards of new Fall patterns of yard wide French Percales, worth 10c., at 5c.

Serges.
40-inch all wool Camel hair Serges in navy, brown and garnet, a bargain at 45c., special 29c. a yard.

Pillow Cases.
Full size hemstitched Pillow Cases, extra heavy muslin, at 10c.

Boys' Knee Pants.
Good, strong, serviceable Knee Pants, in sizes from 4 to 14, at 25c.

Men's Laundried Percale Shirts.
A few odd sizes, to close them out at 25c., were 45c.

Torchon Laces.
50 pieces of Torchon Laces, 2 and 3 inches wide, worth 10c. a yard, at 4c. yard.

Ask to see our 25c. Men's Unlaundried Shirts, sizes 14 to 17½, worth 39c.

Men's Merino Underwear.
Suitable for Fall wear, in white and grey, the 50c. quality at 39c. each.

Hermsdorf's Fast Black Hose.
Silk finished, double heel and toes, elastic tops, the 25c grade at 20c a pair.

HOUSEFURNISHINGS.
Friendship Cups from 10c. upwards.
Glass Lamps, all complete, at 10c.
Jelly Tumblers at 19c. dozen.
Large size galvanized Water Pails, at 25c.
Preserving Kettles, 16 quarts, at 49c.
Mason's Pint and Quart Jars at lowest market prices.
A good, serviceable broom at 10c.
100 piece decorated Dinner Set, a decided bargain, at $5.75.
White China Cups and Saucers at 3c.

BOEHM'S.

SENSATION IN SHOES ! !

"OFF STYLES," BUT THE BEST OF STOCK.

They will go quick. 1 lot men's Calf Bals, Good Year welt, (all sizes) narrow toes, sold for $3 and $3.50, only 98c. 1 lot Burt & Packard's narrow widths, only broken sizes, were $5 and $6, only $1.48. 1 lot J. & M. patent leather button and lace odds and ends, were $5 and $6, only 98c. 1 lot odds and ends boy's and men's, sold from $2.50 to $4, your choice now 69c.

We are selling lots of TRUNKS, Dress Suit Cases and Hand Bags cheap. These are some samples of our great summer sale. Trunks from $1.98 up. BIGGEST BARGAINS IN TOWN.

Doane & Edsall.

THE WELSBACH BURNER.

THE GAS SAVER.

Three times the light, one half the gas.

Buy the genuine burner.

JOS. W. GAVETT,
301 West Front St.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused atthe Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 31.—Oscar A. Douglass, of The Dunellen Call, is back again at his accustomed duties after a short vacation. The vacation was spent amid the varied pleasures of Rockaway Beach, West Farm and Staten Island. Mr. Douglass is now filled with renewed energy as a result of his outing and is prepared to enter upon his journalistic duties in a fashion to do credit to himself and the newspaper on which he is employed.

Miss Smith, of North avenue, was taken seriously ill yesterday afternoon and was removed to the Plainfield hospital in the ambulance.

Professor VanSickle, the new principal of the public schools, has moved into the Whitney house, where the former principal lived.

John Huff and family, who have been visiting Mrs. Huff's parents at Oyster Bay for a month, have returned home.

Master Washington Irving Fenner, of Pluckamin, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Harry Swackhamer.

Mrs. C. B. Bowyer, of Church street, was visiting friends in New York and Brooklyn yesterday.

Miss Lizzie Hunt has returned from Brooklyn, where she has been visiting Mrs. M. I. Frescoln.

Rev. E. S. Jamison and family will return from their summer outing today or tomorrow.

Miss Brokaw, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting Miss Mamie Teel, has gone to Easton.

Miss Rhoda Brakeley, of Easton, is a guest at the home of her uncle, Dr. Brakeley.

T. C. Bodine and family have returned from a month's stay at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Paul Reusch has presented her husband with a baby boy.

Miss Bessie Frescoln, of Brooklyn, is visiting Miss Lizzie Hunt.

Fred Nelson, of Basking Ridge, was a visitor in town Monday.

Clarence Abrams, of New York, is visiting George Huff.

Miss Lillie May Warden has gone to Westfield for a week.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of the Daily Press.)

New Market, August 31.—Rev. Frank Fletcher and family have returned from Asbury Park where they have been for a week.

PLAINFIELD AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 31.—The many friends of Mrs. Henry Meyers will be glad to learn that she is recovering very nicely from the operation performed Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodbrough returned yesterday from a two months' outing along the coast of Massachusetts.

Robert Walpole, Edward Wright and George Lyons spent Monday fishing in the Passaic river.

Miss Mamie Miller led the Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church Sunday.

Henry Keuhn and Phillip Jahn enjoyed a day on board the Battleship Texas Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff is recovering very nicely from his recent illness.

Miss Lillian Gibbs is enjoying a short vacation.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 31.—A. C. George, a member of the Seventy-first New York Regiment has returned to his home on First street. He is looking very bad and his friends hardly knew him. He was laid up in Cuba and was also taken with the fever after he had arrived at Camp Wickoff. Mr. George said that for three days while his company were in the trenches at the battle of Santiago they had nothing to eat but hard tack which they took from the dead soldiers who fell near them.

The members of the Social Club are arranging to hold a picnic for the members and their friends at Glenside Park Monday. They will leave the clubhouse at 9:30 o'clock and return at 4 o'clock.

Upchurch Lodge, A. O. U. W., will go to Newark in a body Monday evening, Sept. 12, to attend an entertainment to be given by the members of Memorial Lodge of that city.

Central Council, No. 131, Jr. O. U. A. M., will celebrate its sixth anniversary Friday evening when a collation will be served to the members.

WASHINGTONVILLE

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Washingtonville, August 31.—Edward Martin, assistant traffic manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has been the guest of Robert Clark, Jr.

Miss Anna Blazier, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with Mrs. William Demler.

Hippolyte Texier has opened a French restaurant in his new house.

A New Department.

Woodhull & Martin, the enterprising dry goods merchants, have added an upholstery department to their store. This department is located in the rear of the building, is curtained off, and makes a cozy little parlor for lady purchasers to rest in when weary of looking at the bargains displayed on every side in this store. Poles on all sides of the department are used to display lace curtains, of which the store contains a great variety,

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholsale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

PEOPLE COME AND GO.

PERSONAL MENTION OF INTEREST TO PRESS READERS.

Some Come to Enjoy Pleasures of Plainfield, Others Journey to Either Mountain or Shore for Recreation.

Mrs. Wm. MacBeth, of 223 Prescott place, is improved in health after a long illness.

Miss May Smith, of West Fifth street, is visiting friends at Jamaica, Long Island.

E. R. Ackerman, of West Eighth street, left this morning on a trip to Minneapolis.

Marshal Campbell, of the borough, has moved from Summit avenue to Somerset place.

H. E. Titus and family, of Central avenue, have returned from their summer vacation.

Miss Daisy Williams, of Newark, is spending a week with her uncle, W. D Williams, of Duer street.

John Dalziel, principal of the Plainfield Academy, has returned from a trip to Denver and the west.

Irving L. Brady, of Madison avenue, has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent at Greenwood Lake.

Miss Ellen Kelly and Lizzie Rafferty have returned after spending two weeks at Sunset Hall, Asbury Park.

Thomas DeMeza, of West Second street, will return in a few days from Paterson, where he has been visiting.

Miss Ella Whital, of East Second street, returns today after a two weeks' stay at the Clifton House, Patchogue, L. I.

Miss Annie L. Blazier has returned home after spending four weeks with Miss Jeanette Simpson, of Craig place.

Miss Barbara McKenzie and Miss Anna Bella Thaw, of New York, are the guests of Mrs. John Wilson, of Craig place.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. A. Heywood, of West Front street, have returned from Duchess county, N. Y., where they have been spending a month.

Charles Suer, who has been employed in the gentlemen's furnishing department of Woodhull & Martin's, will leave Saturday night to go back to school.

Hon. Joseph R. Yates' family has returned home from spending their vacation at Lake Minnewaska. Mr. Yates has been called to New York on business and will spend a little more time at the Lake.

John Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, who has been enjoying life at Asbury Park for a short time, returned home yesterday, browned up and much invigorated from the combined effects of the sun and the pure and bracing air of that popular seaside resort.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way

Mrs. Joseph Yerkes, of Central avenue, has gone to Bethlehem, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Woodhull will return from the Catskills Saturday.

Miss Mullen, of Woodhull & Martin's dry goods store, is on her vacation.

Mrs. E. R. Pope, of Park avenue, is much improved after a week's illness.

Mrs. James Pope, of West Fourth street, is entertaining her sister from Newark.

Miss Charlotte Ayres, of LaGrande avenue, is spending a few days in New York.

Charles Dunlap, of East Fifth street, is home after spending his vacation at Asbury Park.

Miss Etta Krymer, of West Second street, is spending her vacation at High Bridge.

The Misses Davis, of Park avenue, are stopping with relatives at Wilmington, Del.

Miss Daisy Elsberg, of Prospect place, is spending her summer outing at Asbury Park.

Mr. Travis, of Somerset street, has returned after visiting his father in New York State.

William A. DeLong and family, of Sandford avenue, have returned from a trip to Europe.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter, of East Front street, have gone on their summer vacation.

Mrs. J. L. Denton, of New York, has been the guest of Dr. Keeney, of West Fourth street.

Dr. Thickstun, of Central avenue, has been home from his summer cottage at Belmar for a few days.

Miss Frances Thorn, of East Second street, has gone up in Central New York State for her health.

Miss Ethel Titsworth, of West Seventh street, has returned after a sojourn at Noyes Beach, R. I.

William Hagan and family, of Prospect avenue, have gone to Asbury Park to spend their vacation.

J. Evarts Tracy and family, of West Eighth street, have returned from their summer sojourn in Maine.

The engagement is announced of Miss Hattie Willis, of Washingtonville, to J. E. Staats, of New York.

Mrs. Ridley and Miss Gussie Fagan, of New York, are the guests of Mrs. Joseph Gavin, of Mountain avenue.

Miss Ernestine Smith, of Madison avenue, has gone to Ogdensburg, N. Y., to attend the wedding of a cousin.

Mrs. Morris Tremaine, of Buffalo, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Middledith, of Mercer avenue.

Willard M. Miner and family, of East Sixth street, have returned after a visit with relatives at Brewster, N. Y.

George T. Rogers and family, of Myrtle avenue, have returned from their summer outing at Chatham, Mass.

Mrs. J. A. Blatz and Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street, have returned after a sojourn at Asbury Park.

Mrs. A. A. Chandor and Miss Alys Marie Chandor, of East Fifth street, are spending several weeks at Mt. Pocono.

William J. Roome and family, of Sycamore avenue, have returned after spending several weeks at Pt. Breeze Camp, Wolfboro, N. H.

Mrs. James Petrie, of East Sixth street, the Misses Petrie and Miss Lucia Wood, are spending the week in Boston and Newport.

Dudley Miller and family, of Orchard place, have returned from their vacation spent at Seabright, Madison and Morristown.

Miss Ethel Williams and Orrin Williams, of Grandview avenue, have returned from New London, N. Y., where they spent a month.

Walter M. McGee and family, of Rockview avenue, have returned from Lake Minnewaska, where they spent the month of August.

Miss Bessie F. Randolph, of Park avenue, and Miss Etta Randolph, of Mt. Pleasant, have returned from a visit with relatives at Freehold.

Miss Lizzie Stafford, P. Stafford and Thomas Stafford, of Grandview avenue, have returned after spending their summer vacation near North Branch.

Mrs. Kate Marsh, Miss Ada Marsh and Miss Adams, of Franklin place, and Miss Marion Marsh, of First place, have returned after a sojourn at Mt. Pocono.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

IT'S THE KODAK —one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:40 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—Follow the footsteps of the wise and come to Peck's.

—Contractor Patsey Christmas has a gang of men repairing the street railroad track on West Front street.

—Tuesday, September 6th, there will be a sale of track, roadsters and truck horses at the Metropolitan stables.

—The regular business meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday, September 1st, at 3:30 p. m.

—Preparations have already begun at Boynton Beach for Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5th. Arrangements will be made to feed and entertain fully ten thousand people.

—J. B. Mills, the building contractor, will start work next week on two frame dwellings on Summit avenue, near Watchung avenue. They will be 26x35 feet, two story, with attic.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, K of P., will hold a meeting tonight. A large attendance is desired as the officers want to take action in regard to the field day exercises to be held at Jersey City Monday.

—The Sunday-school of the Congregational church will re-assemble next Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock after the summer vacation. The church service will be held in the morning at 10:30 o'clock.

—Rogers has completed arrangements for an oyster stock for the fall and winter and the finest will be found at Rogers' seafood market. Season will open Sept. 1st. They still deliver breakfast orders.

—The Bard Cycle Company's cut was upside down in the advertising columns last evening, and their store has been in a like condition for the past few days, owing to changes being made in the location of the office, which has been moved from the front to the rear. They are receiving their stock of fall goods, and have a great assortment of golf sticks and sporting goods.

Merchant's Association Excursion.

New York, Sept. 1st—4th. Reduced rates—15 days limit. Consult Lehigh Valley ticket agents for particulars.

c 9 1 p 8 31 9 1-2-3

Edward Pope, of Park avenue, has returned from a trip to Barnegat.

GROCERY STORE FOR SALE!

No competition, in a live town. A great opportunity to right party.

3 30 2 S. D. DRAKE, Lincoln.

THE MAPLES,

FANWOOD, N. J.

To my friends who have been unintentionally omitted in personal invitations, I desire through this method to extend to them a general invitation to the Clam Bake to be given at The Maples, Thursday, Sept. 1st.

GEORGE THATCHER.

Don't let your Grocer give you

Inferior Extracts;

Insist Upon Having That Put Up By

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's City Pharmacy.

143 WEST FRONT STREET. Business Established 1865.

Your Scalp may be kept free from itching and unsightly dandruff. The roots of your hair nourished by the use of RANDOLPH'S QUININE AND GLYCERINE HAIR TONIC. Ladies especially will appreciate its use in this summer weather. Delightfully perfumed, only 50 cents per bottle.

The handsomest Soda Fountain in the World is at our store. The Soda Water, famous for its Purity and delicious Fruit Flavors. When shopping have your meets at The Fountain.

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE, AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N.J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,

UNDERTAKERS,

No. 402 Park Ave. Tel. 40.

Office open night and day.

OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,

UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,

200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.

OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,

UNDERTAKER.

Residence and office 59 Somerset St.

TELEPHONE 248 B.

DIED.

HORAN—In this city, August 30, 1898, Thaddeus Horan, in his 79th year.
Funeral from his late residence, 420 West Seventh street, corner New street, Friday, September 2, at 9 a. m., and from St. Mary's church at 9:30 a. m. Friends and relatives are respectfully invited to attend. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery. 8 31 2

EBERT—In this city, Monday, August 29, 1898, Frank W., infant son of Frank and Elizabeth Ebert.
Funeral services at the residence of parents, 414 East Fourth street, Thursday, September 1, at 2 p. m.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—Blacksmith. Call B. G. Elliott, Scotch Plains, N. J. 8 31 tf

WANTED—Maid for general housework, good reference. Apply 64 Willow avenue. 8 31 2

TO LET—6 room house 57 Brook avenue. Apply on premises. 8 31 tf

FOUND—Two endorsed checks. Apply to John Ryan, Terrill road, Fanwood.

WANTED—Situation as cook or general housework; good references. Call 1003 Park avenue, corner Martine avenue.

FOR SALE—Two spring heifers; will be fresh in a few days; can be seen any time at the barn on the Plainfield city farm.

CHOICE fresh cow for sale. Address Geo. H. Neuman, Martinsville, N. J. 8 31 2

WANTED—Cook and laundress, must have good references. Mrs. Samuel Townsend, 40 Myrtle avenue. 8 31 2

FOUND—Four tintype pictures. Owner can have by applying at this office.

LOST—Pair of eyeglasses in black case, with ribbon attached. Reward. Return to this office.

TO LET—Whole or part of house; North Plainfield. Enquire Dr. Lowrie, Park avenue. 8 31 2

FOR SALE—Set double farm harness, one farm wagon; Adriane's mowing machine, hay rake, plough, harrow, hay rigging. Robert Clark Jr., Washingtonville. 8 25 6

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

FLAT all light rooms, also hall to let. Enquire Manning's City Marble Works. 8 26 tf

TO LET—Rooms furnished or unfurnished, at 235 East Sixth street. 8 30 2

MRS. DAY'S intellegence office removed to 216 West Second street, half block off Park avenue. 8 30 3

FOR SALE—A fine residence. House fourteen rooms, all improvements, steam heat. Large carriage house, four stalls, other necessary buildings. On three acre lot, fine shade and fruit trees. High ground, elegant view. For easy terms address owner, L. Hollingsworth, Scotch Plains, N. J. 8 13 8 w-s

FOR SALE—Cheap, freight elevator, almost new, can be seen at Woodhull & Martin's. 8 22 tf eod

TO LET—Large room, fourth floor, Babcock Block, suitable for Lodge room. 8 22 tf eod

FLAT and offices to let, in Babcock Block. 8 22 tf eod clover to the bars where Buttercup waited, placidly chewing her cud. How ready she was to rub her cool, black nose into their outstretched hands, as

Of Course Your Going! We Are!

EXCURSION TO BOYNTON BEACH

(Jersey's noted place)

LABOR DAY,

Sept. 5, 1898. Look at the price only—50c., children 40c. 8 27 9

WANTED!

Ten Thousand Amateur Photographers

to bring their plates or films to the Plainfield Art Gallery, Y. M. C. A. Building.

8 30 tf A. L. DRAKE, Mgr.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

3 NIGHTS, Commencing

THURSDAY, SEPT. 1, 1898.

The pretty and popular Soubrette.

Miss Katherine Rober,

Supported by the

LILLIAN KENNEDY CO.

in three great scenic productions.

The Great Military Comedy Drama.

"SPAIN'S SURRENDER,"

Annie Pixley's Great Farce Comedy.

"THE DEACON'S DAUGHTER"

and the Great Sensational Comedy Drama.

"SHE COULDN'T MARRY THREE."

PRICES 10-20-30c.

MATINEE SATURDAY—Prices 10 and 20c.

Reserved Seat Tickets now ready.

LABOR DAY OUTING!

—TO—

MAUCH CHUNK, GLEN OHOKO and the Switchback Gravity R. R. over the scenic line of the CENTRAL R. R. of NEW JERSEY.

Monday, Sept. 5.

A special express train, with lunch car attached, will leave Plainfield at 9:28 a. m.

Fare for the round trip:

Adults.....$1.50 | Children.....$1.00

Switchback tickets at half rates if purchased on the excursion train. 8 30 5

SUMMER RESORTS.

Delaware Water Gap.

Mount Minsi House & Cottages.

At Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

Coolest spot in the Gap. Beautiful scenery, boating, bathing, fishing, cycling. Excellent table. Finest spring water. Good R. R. facilities. $7.00 to $10.00. Special rates to parties. Booklet.

MOUNT MINSI HOUSE,

8 27 6 Slateford, Pa.

Secretary Wanted!

Salary position to a man of energy and push, who commands $1,000 to $2,000, position as director and secretary with good salary in an established and reliable construction company. Address Eckard, care Press.

8 30 2

HORSE SALE.

Public Sale at

Metropolitan Boarding Stables

Plainfield, N. J., on

Tuesday, Sept. 6, 1898,

at 2 o'clock. Consisting of 10 head of track horses and well bred roadsters. Also track harness, bike, boots, wagons and harness will be sold without reserve. 8 31 6

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

Bargains

In shirt waists, quality and low prices are essential to bargains of any kind. We don't think you ever bought such shirt waists at such prices as we name on this large lot, over two thousand, all 1898 styles and made to sell for one dollar. Our price 49c.

A Glove Bargain!

We place on sale today twelve hundred pairs of importers' sample kid gloves from the best makers in the world. Included in the lot are the celebrated Reynier glove, all sizes and shades, 79c. pair.

White

Domet flannel, it means a saving of forty per cent. to buy now, we place on sale two cases of a fine quality 4c. the yard.

A Towel

Tumble, many thrifty people replenish the towel stock just on the edge of the Fall season, such people will find these towel bargains very much to their liking,

Full size all linen huck.....10c
Extra large bath towels.....13c
Extra heavy huck towels.....19c
Turkish wash cloths, each.....2c
All linen brown crash, yard.....6c

All at the Bargain Centre.

New Fall

Outing flannels, the regular 10 cent quality, we place on sale a case of beautiful designs, at 7½c. yard.

A Brush Sale

At half regular prices. Solid back all bristle hair brushes, 29c., a 50c. brush. Solid back toilet hand brushes, 15c. each, value 25c. Fine tooth brushes 10c. each.

Belts!

We will close the balance of our stock of fine leather belts, 19c. each.

For Men's Use!

Our men folks will be on the alert to take advantage of these timely offerings.

Unlaundered white shirts 50c. article, 39c. Men's fine Madras shirts, 49c. Four-in-hand all silk ties, reversible, 25c. each. Fine black half hose, 10c. pair. A 25c. suspender, 15c. pair.

Store Specials.

Fresh arrivals and marked at quick step prices.

White and grey cotton blankets, 38c. pair.
A good umbrella,.....39c each
Side combs, 7c pair,.....value 12c
A lot of pretty embroideries, 5c yard.
Boy's cambric shirt waists.....15c
10-4 all wool blankets.....$2.40 pair.
6-4 Fancy linen table covers.....49c
6-4 Fancy table covers.....39c
36 inch Butchers linen.....15c
Full size Counterpanes, a dollar quilt, 69c.
Ten quarter, all linen, figured table covers with one dozen napkins, $2.10 set.
Portierre curtains.....98c each
6-4 Scotch mixture for skirting, 39c yard.
36 inch Denim.....10c yard
50 inch Furniture covering..23c yard
Ladies fine lisle hose, 50c quality, 29c pair.

Edward White.

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused atthe Supper Table atYour Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, August 31.—Oscar A. Douglass, of The Dunellen Call, is back again at his accustomed duties after a short vacation. The vacation was spent amid the varied pleasures of Rockaway Beach, West Farm and Staten Island. Mr. Douglass is now filled with renewed energy as a result of his outing and is prepared to enter upon his journalistic duties in a fashion to do credit to himself and the newspaper on which he is employed.

Miss Smith, of North avenue, was taken seriously ill yesterday afternoon and was removed to the Plainfield hospital in the ambulance.

Professor VanSickle, the new principal of the public schools, has moved into the Whitney house, where the former principal lived.

John Huff and family, who have been visiting Mrs. Huff's parents at Oyster Bay for a month, have returned home.

Master Washington Irving Fenner, of Pluckamin, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Harry Swackhamer.

Mrs. C. B. Bowyer, of Church street, was visiting friends in New York and Brooklyn yesterday.

Miss Lizzie Hunt has returned from Brooklyn, where she has been visiting Mrs. M. I. Frescoln.

Rev. E. S. Jamison and family will return from their summer outing today or tomorrow.

Miss Brokaw, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting Miss Mamie Teel, has gone to Easton.

Miss Rhoda Brakeley, of Easton, is a guest at the home of her uncle, Dr. Brakeley.

T. C. Bodine and family have returned from a month's stay at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Paul Reusch has presented her husband with a baby boy.

Miss Bessie Frescoln, of Brooklyn, is visiting Miss Lizzie Hunt.

Fred Nelson, of Basking Ridge, was a visitor in town Monday.

Clarence Abrams, of New York, is visiting George Huff.

Miss Lillie May Warden has gone to Westfield for a week.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of the Daily Press.)

New Market, August 31.—Rev. Frank Fletcher and family have returned from Asbury Park where they have been for a week.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 31.—The many friends of Mrs. Henry Meyers will be glad to learn that she is recovering very nicely from the operation performed Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodbrough returned yesterday from a two months' outing along the coast of Massachusetts.

Robert Walpole, Edward Wright and George Lyons spent Monday fishing in the Passaic river.

Miss Mamie Miller led the Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church Sunday.

Henry Keuhn and Phillip Jahn enjoyed a day on board the Battleship Texas Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff is recovering very nicely from his recent illness.

Miss Lillian Gibbs is enjoying a short vacation.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 31.—A. C. George, a member of the Seventy-first New York Regiment has returned to his home on First street. He is looking very bad and his friends hardly knew him. He was laid up in Cuba and was also taken with the fever after he had arrived at Camp Wickoff. Mr. George said that for three days while his company were in the trenches at the battle [illegible] Santiago they had nothing to eat [illegible] attack which they took from the dead soldiers who fell near them.

The members of the Social Club are arranging to hold a picnic for the members and their friends at Glenside Park Monday. They will leave the clubhouse at 9:30 o'clock and return at 4 o'clock.

Upchurch Lodge, A. O. U. W., will go to Newark in a body Monday evening, Sept. 12, to attend an entertainment to be given by the members of Memorial Lodge of that city.

Central Council, No. 131, Jr. O. U. A. M., will celebrate its sixth anniversary Friday evening when a collation will be served to the members.

WASHINGTONVILLE

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Washingtonville, August 31.—Edward Martin, assistant traffic manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has been the guest of Robert Clark, Jr.

Miss Anna Blazier, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with Mrs. William Demler.

Hippolyte Texier has opened a French restaurant in his new house.

A New Department.

Woodhull & Martin, the enterprising dry goods merchants, have added an upholstery department to their store. This department is located in the rear of the building, is curtained off, and makes a cozy little parlor for lady purchasers to rest in when weary of looking at the bargains displayed on every side in this store. Poles on all sides of the department are used to display lace curtains, of which the store contains a great variety,

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholsale Druggists, Toledo, O. Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

PEOPLE COME AND GO.

PERSONAL MENTION OF INTEREST TO PRESS READERS.

Some Come to Enjoy Pleasures of Plainfield, Others Journey to Either Mountain or Shore for Recreation.

Mrs. Wm. MacBeth, of 223 Prescott place, is improved in health after a long illness.

Miss May Smith, of West Fifth street, is visiting friends at Jamaica, Long Island.

E. R. Ackerman, of West Eighth street, left this morning on a trip to Minneapolis.

Marshal Campbell, of the borough, has moved from Summit avenue to Somerset place.

H. E. Titus and family, of Central avenue, have returned from their summer vacation.

Miss Daisy Williams, of Newark, is spending a week with her uncle, W. D Williams, of Duer street.

John Dalziel, principal of the Plainfield Academy, has returned from a trip to Denver and the west.

Irving L. Brady, of Madison avenue, has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent at Greenwood Lake.

Miss Ellen Kelly and Lizzie Rafferty have returned after spending two weeks at Sunset Hall, Asbury Park.

Thomas DeMeza, of West Second street, will return in a few days from Paterson, where he has been visiting.

Miss Ella Whital, of East Second street, returns today after a two weeks' stay at the Clifton House, Patchogue, L. I.

Miss Annie L. Blazier has returned home after spending four weeks with Miss Jeanette Simpson, of Craig place.

Miss Barbara McKenzie and Miss Anna Bella Thaw, of New York, are the guests of Mrs. John Wilson, of Craig place.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. A. Heywood, of West Front street, have returned from Duchess county, N. Y., where they have been spending a month.

Charles Suer, who has been employed in the gentlemen's furnishing department of Woodhull & Martin's, will leave Saturday night to go back to school.

Hon. Joseph R. Yates' family has returned home from spending their vacation at Lake Minnewaska. Mr. Yates has been called to New York on business and will spend a little more time at the Lake.

John Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, who has been enjoying life at Asbury Park for a short time, returned home yesterday, browned up and much invigorated from the combined effects of the sun and the pure and bracing air of that popular seaside resort.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way

Mrs. Joseph Yerkes, of Central avenue, has gone to Bethlehem, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Woodhull will return from the Catskills Saturday.

Miss Mullen, of Woodhull & Martin's dry goods store, is on her vacation.

Mrs. E. R. Pope, of Park avenue, is much improved after a week's illness.

Mrs. James Pope, of West Fourth street, is entertaining her sister from Newark.

Miss Charlotte Ayres, of LaGrande avenue, is spending a few days in New York.

Charles Dunlap, of East Fifth street, is home after spending his vacation at Asbury Park.

Miss Etta Krymer, of West Second street, is spending her vacation at High Bridge.

The Misses Davis, of Park avenue, are stopping with relatives at Wilmington, Del.

Miss Daisy Elsberg, of Prospect place, is spending her summer outing at Asbury Park.

Mr. Travis, of Somerset street, has returned after visiting his father in New York State.

William A. DeLong and family, of Sandford avenue, have returned from a trip to Europe.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter, of East Front street, have gone on their summer vacation.

Mrs. J. L. Denton, of New York, has been the guest of Dr. Keeney, of West Fourth street.

Dr. Thickstun, of Central avenue, has been home from his summer cottage at Belmar for a few days.

Miss Frances Thorn, of East Second street, has gone up in Central New York State for her health.

Miss Ethel Titsworth, of West Seventh street, has returned after a sojourn at Noyes Beach, R. I.

William Hagan and family, of Prospect avenue, have gone to Asbury Park to spend their vacation.

J. Evarts Tracy and family, of West Eighth street, have returned from their summer sojourn in Maine.

The engagement is announced of Miss Hattie Willis, of Washingtonville, to J. E. Staats, of New York.

Mrs. Ridley and Miss Gussie Fagan, of New York, are the guests of Mrs. Joseph Gavin, of Mountain avenue.

Miss Ernestine Smith, of Madison avenue, has gone to Ogdensburg, N. Y., to attend the wedding of a cousin.

Mrs. Morris Tremaine, of Buffalo, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Middledith, of Mercer avenue.

Willard M. Miner and family, of East Sixth street, have returned after a visit with relatives at Brewster, N. Y.

George T. Rogers and family, of Myrtle avenue, have returned from their summer outing at Chatham, Mass.

Mrs. J. A. Blatz and Miss Etta Blatz, of Somerset street, have returned after a sojourn at Asbury Park.

Mrs. A. A. Chandor and Miss Alys Marie Chandor, of East Fifth street, are spending several weeks at Mt. Pocono.

William J. Roome and family, of Sycamore avenue, have returned after spending several weeks at Pt. Breeze Camp, Wolfboro, N. H.

Mrs. James Petrie, of East Sixth street, the Misses Petrie and Miss Lucia Wood, are spending the week in Boston and Newport.

Dudley Miller and family, of Orchard place, have returned from their vacation spent at Seabright, Madison and Morristown.

Miss Ethel Williams and Orrin Williams, of Grandview avenue, have returned from New London, N. Y., where they spent a month.

Walter M. McGee and family, of Rockview avenue, have returned from Lake Minnewaska, where they spent the month of August.

Miss Bessie F. Randolph, of Park avenue, and Miss Etta Randolph, of Mt. Pleasant, have returned from a visit with relatives at Freehold.

Miss Lizzie Stafford, P. Stafford and Thomas Stafford, of Grandview avenue, have returned after spending their summer vacation near North Branch.

Mrs. Kate Marsh, Miss Ada Marsh and Miss Adams, of Franklin place, and Miss Marion Marsh, of First place, have returned after a sojourn at Mt. Pocono.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

IT'S THE KODAK —one of the very best cameras on the market. We carry it for that very reason. It's a favorite with most people, but if it is not yours we have others, and your choice among them. We carry a complete line of cameras, photo supplies, etc. Amateur photography is cheap and successful when your supplies are purchased from us.

BARD CYCLE CO.,

147-149 NORTH AVE. Opposite Depot.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:36 a. m., 3:00, 5, 5:30 p. m
Close—7:20, 9:15 a. m., 1:45, 5:00, 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3:00 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:20 a. m., 12:30 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 and 11:30 a. m., 1:00 and 3:00 p. m.
Close—7:20 and 9:15 a. m., 5:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 5:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

GATHERED ALL ABOUT THE TOWN BY ALERT PRESS REPORTERS.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—Follow the footsteps of the wise and come to Peck's.

—Contractor Patsey Christmas has a gang of men repairing the street railroad track on West Front street.

—Tuesday, September 6th, there will be a sale of track, roadsters and truck horses at the Metropolitan stables.

—The regular business meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday, September 1st, at 3:30 p. m.

—Preparations have already begun at Boynton Beach for Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5th. Arrangements will be made to feed and entertain fully ten thousand people.

—J. B. Mills, the building contractor, will start work next week on two frame dwellings on Summit avenue, near Watchung avenue. They will be 26x35 feet, two story, with attic.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, K of P., will hold a meeting tonight. A large attendance is desired as the officers want to take action in regard to the field day exercises to be held at Jersey City Monday.

—The Sunday-school of the Congregational church will re-assemble next Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock after the summer vacation. The church service will be held in the morning at 10:30 o'clock.

—Rogers has completed arrangements for an oyster stock for the fall and winter and the finest will be found at Rogers' seafood market. Season will open Sept. 1st. They still deliver breakfast orders.

—The Bard Cycle Company's cut was upside down in the advertising columns last evening, and their store has been in a like condition for the past few days, owing to changes being made in the location of the office, which has been moved from the front to the rear. They are receiving their stock of fall goods, and have a great assortment of golf sticks and sporting goods.

Merchant's Association Excursion.

New York, Sept. 1st—4th. Reduced rates—15 days limit. Consult Lehigh Valley ticket agents for particulars.

c 9 1 p 8 31 9 1-2-3

Edward Pope, of Park avenue, has returned from a trip to Barnegat.

GROCERY STORE FOR SALE!

No competition, in a live town. A great opportunity to right party.

3 30 2 S. D. DRAKE, Lincoln.

THE MAPLES,

FANWOOD, N. J.

To my friends who have been unintentionally omitted in personal invitations, I desire through this method to extend to them a general invitation to the Clam Bake to be given at The Maples, Thursday, Sept. 1st.

GEORGE THATCHER.

Don't let your Grocer give you Inferior Extracts;

Insist Upon Having That Put Up By

A. L. KAERTH & CO.

At Randolph's City Pharmacy.

143 WEST FRONT STREET. Business Established 1865.

Your Scalp may be kept free from itching and unsightly dandruff. The roots of your hair nourished by the use of RANDOLPH'S QUININE AND GLYCERINE HAIR TONIC. Ladies especially will appreciate its use in this summer weather. Delightfully perfumed, only 50 cents per bottle.

The handsomest Soda Fountain in the World is at our store. The Soda Water, famous for its Purity and delicious Fruit Flavors. When shopping have your meets at The Fountain.

L. W. RANDOLPH,

Prescription Druggist. 143 West Front St.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

The Delineator and Glass of Fashion

For September Now Ready. Ask for the September Fashion Sheet.

Subscriptions taken.

A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE, AGENTS.

144 PARK AVE. PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A. M. Runyon & Son,

UNDERTAKERS,

No. 402 Park Ave. Tel. 40.

Office open night and day.

OFFICE OF HILLSIDE CEMETERY.

GEO. W. COLE,

UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER,

200 W. SECOND ST. TELEPHONE 153.

OFFICE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

H. DeMOTT,

UNDERTAKER.

Residence and office 59 Somerset St.

TELEPHONE 248 B.

DIED.

HORAN—In this city, August 30, 1898, Thaddeus Horan, in his 79th year.
Funeral from his late residence, 420 West Seventh street, corner New street, Friday, September 2, at 9 a. m., and from St. Mary's church at 9:30 a. m. Friends and relatives are respectfully invited to attend. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery. 8 31 2

EBERT—In this city, Monday, August 29, 1898, Frank W., infant son of Frank and Elizabeth Ebert.
Funeral services at the residence of parents, 414 East Fourth street, Thursday, September 1, at 2 p. m.

WANTS AND OFFERS.

WANTED—Blacksmith. Call B. G. Elliott, Scotch Plains, N. J. 8 31 tf

WANTED—Maid for general housework, good reference. Apply 64 Willow avenue. 8 31 2

TO LET—6 room house 57 Brook avenue. Apply on premises. 8 31 tf

FOUND—Two endorsed checks. Apply to John Ryan, Terrill road, Fanwood.

WANTED—Situation as cook or general housework; good references. Call 1003 Park avenue, corner Martine avenue.

FOR SALE—Two spring heifers; will be fresh in a few days; can be seen any time at the barn on the Plainfield city farm.

CHOICE fresh cow for sale. Address Geo. H. Neuman, Martinsville, N. J. 8 31 2

WANTED—Cook and laundress, must have good references. Mrs. Samuel Townsend, 40 Myrtle avenue. 8 31 2

FOUND—Four tintype pictures. Owner can have by applying at this office.

LOST—Pair of eyeglasses in black case, with ribbon attached. Reward. Return to this office.

TO LET—Whole or part of house; North Plainfield. Enquire Dr. Lowrie, Park avenue. 8 31 2

FOR SALE—Set double farm harness, one farm wagon; Adriane's mowing machine, hay rake, plough, harrow, hay rigging. Robert Clark Jr., Washingtonville. 8 25 6

LOANS negotiated. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 18 tf

FIRST-CLASS help and first-class places at the Swedish intelligence office, 22 Somerset place. 8 23 tf

FIRST-class places furnished girls out of employment; and reliable help secured for those desiring girls, at St. Joseph's Home, (Non-Sectarian), 43 Manning avenue. Plain sewing and embroidery done and taught at the home. 11 23 tf

HUSTLING agents wanted, to sell accident insurance policies; something new; large commissions; easy sale. Elston M. French & Co., 163 North avenue. 8 5 tf

FLAT all light rooms, also hall to let. Enquire Manning's City Marble Works. 8 26 tf

TO LET—Rooms furnished or unfurnished, at 235 East Sixth street. 8 30 2

MRS. DAY'S intellegence office removed to 216 West Second street, half block off Park avenue. 8 30 3

FOR SALE—A fine residence. House fourteen rooms, all improvements, steam heat. Large carriage house, four stalls, other necessary buildings. On three acre lot, fine shade and fruit trees. High ground, elegant view. For easy terms address owner, L. Hollingsworth, Scotch Plains, N. J. 8 13 8 w-s

FOR SALE—Cheap, freight elevator, almost new, can be seen at Woodhull & Martin's. 8 22 tf eod

TO LET—Large room, fourth floor, Babcock Block, suitable for Lodge room. 8 22 tf eod

FLAT and offices to let, in Babcock Block. 8 22 tf eod

[redacted]

Of Course Your Going! We Are!

EXCURSION TO BOYNTON BEACH

(Jersey's noted place)

LABOR DAY.

Sept. 5, 1898. Look at the price only—50c., children 40c. 8 27 9

WANTED!

Ten Thousand Amateur Photographers

to bring their plates or films to the Plainfield Art Gallery, Y. M. C. A. Building.

8 30 tf A. L. DRAKE, Mgr.

STILLMAN MUSIC HALL!

MAZE EDWARDS, Lessee and Manager. Telephone 722.

3 NIGHTS, Commencing

THURSDAY, SEPT. 1, 1898.

The pretty and popular Soubrette,

Miss Katherine Rober,

Supported by the

LILLIAN KENNEDY CO.

in three great scenic productions.

The Great Military Comedy Drama,

"SPAIN'S SURRENDER,"

Annie Pixley's Great Farce Comedy,

"THE DEACON'S DAUGHTER"

and the Great Sensational Comedy Drama,

"SHE COULDN'T MARRY THREE."

PRICES 10-20-30c.

MATINEE SATURDAY—Prices 10 and 20c.

Reserved Seat Tickets now ready.

LABOR DAY OUTING!

—TO—

MAUCH CHUNK, GLEN ONOKO and the Switchback Gravity R. R. over the scenic line of the CENTRAL R. R. of NEW JERSEY.

Monday, Sept. 5.

A special express train, with lunch car attached, will leave Plainfield at 9:23 a. m.

Fare for the round trip:

Adults.....$1.50 | Children.....$1.00

Switchback tickets at half rates if purchased on the excursion train. 8 30 5

SUMMER RESORTS.

Delaware Water Gap.

Mount Minsi House & Cottages.

At Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

Coolest spot in the Gap. Beautiful scenery, boating, bathing, fishing, cycling. Excellent table. Finest spring water. Good R. R. facilities. $7.00 to $10.00. Special rates to parties. Booklet.

MOUNT MINSI HOUSE, Slateford, Pa.

8 27 6

Secretary Wanted!

Salary position to a man of energy and push, who commands $1,000 to $2,000, position as director and secretary with good salary in an established and reliable construction company. Address Eckard, care Press. 8 30 2

HORSE SALE.

Public Sale at

Metropolitan Boarding Stables

Plainfield, N. J., on

Tuesday, Sept. 6, 1898,

at 2 o'clock. Consisting of 10 head of track horses and well bred roadsters. Also track harness, bike, boots, wagons and harness will be sold without reserve. 8 31 6

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

Bargains

In shirt waists, quality and low prices are essential to bargains of any kind. We don't think you ever bought such shirt waists at such prices as we name on this large lot, over two thousand, all 1898 styles and made to sell for one dollar. Our price 49c.

A Glove Bargain!

We place on sale today twelve hundred pairs of importers' sample kid gloves from the best makers in the world. Included in the lot are the celebrated Reynier glove, all sizes and shades, 79c. pair.

White

Domet flannel, it means a saving of forty per cent. to buy now, we place on sale two cases of a fine quality 4c. the yard.

A Towel

Tumble, many thrifty people replenish the towel stock just on the edge of the Fall season, such people will find these towel bargains very much to their liking,

Full size all linen huck.....10c
Extra large bath towels.....13c
Extra heavy huck towels.....19c
Turkish wash cloths, each.....2c
All linen brown crash, yard.....6c

All at the Bargain Centre.

New Fall

Outing flannels, the regular 10 cent quality, we place on sale a case of beautiful designs, at 7½c. yard.

A Brush Sale

At half regular prices. Solid back all bristle hair brushes, 29c., a 50c. brush. Solid back toilet hand brushes, 15c. each, value 25c. Fine tooth brushes 10c. each.

Belts!

We will close the balance of our stock of fine leather belts, 19c. each.

For Men's Use!

Our men folks will be on the alert to take advantage of these timely offerings.

Unlaundered white shirts 50c. article, 39c. Men's fine Madras shirts, 49c. Four-in-hand all silk ties, reversible, 25c. each. Fine black half hose, 10c. pair. A 25c. suspender, 15c. pair.

Store Specials.

Fresh arrivals and marked at quick step prices.

White and grey cotton blankets, 38c. pair.
A good umbrella.....39c each
Side combs, 7c pair.....value 12c
A lot of pretty embroideries, 5c yard.
Boy's cambric shirt waists.....15c
10-4 all wool blankets.....$2.40 pair.
6-4 Fancy linen table covers.....49c
6-4 Fancy table covers.....39c
36 inch Butchers linen.....15c
Full size Counterpanes, a dollar quilt, 69c.
Ten quarter, all linen, figured table covers with one dozen napkins, $2.10 set.
Portierre curtains.....98c each
6-4 Scotch mixture for skirting, 39c yard.
36 inch Denim.....10c yard
50 inch Furniture covering..23c yard
Ladies fine lisle hose, 50c quality, 29c pair.

Edward White.

EXPENSIVE OBSTINACY.

Four Miles of Road Built with Stone Containing Gold Quartz.

Notwithstanding the fabulous wealth of the Klondike region it cannot boast of a road paved with gold, as can California. The Bear State has plenty of extravagant citizens, but it remained for a widow and widower of Sonoma County to commit the crowning act of folly, which furnished that locality with a public thoroughfare of the New Jerusalem style. It was a case of sheer obstinacy.

John Johnson, a widower, of Bloomfield, wished to improve the road from his home to the village of Valleyford. For this purpose he received permission from Widow Martha Jones to take rock from a hillside on her farm.

While carting the rock he noticed what seemed to be specks of gold shining in the sunlight. Scenting wealth, he sent samples to San Francisco to be assayed and learned that the stone he was building his road with was gold-bearing quartz worth from $8 to $10 a ton.

Then he sought the widow and, pointing out the fortune which seemed to be hidden in the hill, proposed to share the cost and profit of development. But the widow was coy financially as well as sentimentally. She did not believe in Johnson or his gold-mine yarn, and in the language of the Bowery "trun 'em down hard." Her permission had been given to put the rock on the road, and that was all she cared to have done with it.

Johnson was furious, but he saw his opportunity. The widow had given the rock for the road—on the road [illegible] should go even if it were worth $10[illegible] ton. So all summer long Johnso[illegible] wagons worked until four miles [illegible] road were built, but the widow did [illegible] weaken.—New York World.

THE ICELAND PONY.

Very Essential to the People is This Tough Little Beast.

While there are camels in the desert, llamas in Peru, reindeer in Lapland, dogs in Greenland, and caiques among the Eskimos, Iceland will have its ponies, who on those "Pampas of the North" will still perform the services done by the mustangs of the plains of Mexico, the horses of the Tartars, Gauchos, and even more than is performed by any animal throughout the world. Without the ponies, Iceland would be impossible to live in, and when the last expires, the Icelanders have two alternatives—either to emigrate en masse or to construct a system of highways for bicycles, an undertaking compared to which all undertaken by the Romans and the Incas of Peru in the same sphere would be as nothing.

No Icelander will walk a step if he can help it; when he dismounts he waddles like an alligator on land, a Texan cowboy or a Gaucho left "Afoot," or like the Medes whom Plutarch represents as tottering on their toes when they dismounted from their saddles and essayed to walk. Ponies are carts, are sledges, carriages, trains, in short are locomotion and the only means of transport; bales of salt fish, packages of goods, timber projecting yards above their heads and trailing on the ground behind, like Indian lodge poles, they convey across the rocky lava tracks. The farmer and his wife, his children, servants, the priest, the doctor, "Syselman," all ride, cross rivers on the ponies' backs, plunge through the snow, slide on the icy "Jokull" paths, and when the lonely dweller of some upland dale expires, his pony bears his body in its coffin tied to its back to the next consecrated ground.—Saturday Review.

Deadliest Sword in the World.

You will no longer wonder at the Turk's cleverness in severing a man's head at one blow when you read of how his sword is constructed. It is the most ingeniously made weapon in the world.

Lifting it from a bench you would be surprised at the great weight; but should you turn it point downwards, most likely it would drop out of your hand. The weight would appear to you to sink all to one end. This is caused by the sword having a hollow tube at the back.

This tube carries a charge of quicksilver, so that the weight is near the hand when the weapon is held up, but goes to the other end when a blow is struck, so as to add force to the blow.

By this ingenious device the weapon becomes as deadly as a guillotine, and the terrific force added to a blow makes head-severing comparatively easy.

A Diplomatic Reply.

A certain Prince was one day loitering on the banks of the Isar, in the English garden at Munich, by the side of a beautiful woman, the object of his admiring devotion. While speaking to her of his mother, for whom he had ever shown the strongest filial love, the lady suddenly said to him, 'Prince, if your mother and myself should both fall into this river, which one would you save first?' 'My mother,' he instantly replied. 'To save you first would be as if I were to save myself first!'

Her Reason.

"I am told," said Willie Wishington, "that you never repeat gossip."

"That is true," replied Miss Cayenne. "What is the use of wasting my time telling it when I might as well enjoy myself listening to it?"—Washington Star.

East Wind in the Bible.

There are twenty-two allusions in the Bible to the east wind, nineteen of them being of a disparaging character.

How to Make a Bed.

Everyone knows the famous tale of the princess who could not sleep because under her many mattresses a pea was lodged. In reality the ancient royalties were just as fussy, to judge from the strange rules of etiquette which surrounded the most trivial objects.

The following is a true account of the way His Majesty Henry VII. had his Royal bed made. It is taken from an old manuscript, and it is certainly amusing:

"The curtains must be drawn, and a gentleman usher must hold the curtains together; then must two squires of the body stand at the bed's head, and two yeomen of the Crown at the bed's feet, and all the stuff laid safe at the bed's feet on a carpet till the contents of the palliasse were remade.

"Then a yeoman to leap upon the bed, and roll him up and down, and array the litter; then to lay down the canvas again, then the feather bed, and beat it well, and make it even and smooth. Then take the fustian (under blanket), and cast it upon the bed without any wrinkles, and the sheet in the same wise."

The sheet is now stroked smooth, tucked under the feather bed, and over it is laid "t'other stuff," that is to say, the upper sheet, blankets, and fustian, and the covering of marten's fur and ermine.

A sheet of Rennes was laid on the spot destined for the pillows, and a large rug of ermine was placed over the bed, and the bedclothes were brought up to the edge of the pillow and neatly turned down.

Finally "a yeoman was required to beat the pillows and throw them up to [illegible] and, as the chronicler assures us, ha[illegible] a good drink.

For the Summer Luncheon.

Now that it is a little late for grapefruit in its perfection, early summer luncheons frequently start with a luscious orange served as the shaddock has been. If the orange is too sweet, a few drops of lemon juice and a bit of rum gives it a pleasant flavor, the lump of sugar usually put in the grapefruit being omitted. One would advise, however, in the service of the orange basket, omitting the oyster cocktail, which has been popular in the grape-fruit course at spring and early summer luncheons. This requires a seasoning of tomato catsup, lemon juice, and salt, and a few drops of tobasco sauce, and the combination with orange is not so satisfactory as with the less sweet shaddock. Cherries, however, served in oranges are both effective and appetizing. At a luncheon the other day half of a luscious orange rested on a few cherry leaves. Three or four large black cherries had been carefully stoned and a blanched almond inserted in place of the pit. A few drops of rum had been added to each orange, the cherries resting on the pulp of the fruit. The course was served ice-cold, a necessity with any of these combinations.

Light Furniture.

It is a testimony to our growing sanitary wisdom that bedrooms should now be so universally done in light effects. The heavy suits of furniture deemed indispensable to the bride setting up housekeeping a generation ago, and which took a considerable share of the outfit-purchase money, are today the most unsalable articles sent to an auction-room. A large and splendid black walnut bedstead that cost $60 thirty years ago, without even springs, brought a dollar and a half at an auction sale. With it was sent a small white iron bedstead with brass trimmings, the sort that costs eight and a half to ten dollars. This was sold the same day for $3, a good evidence of the proportionate demand for the two articles. No heavy draperies are put in the modern bedroom, only dainty and washable stuffs. The air is allowed to penetrate freely and the light as well, extra shades of green Holland being provided to darken the room for the morning nap. The heavy mahogany or walnut dresser has gone with the big bedstead, the chiffonier and a little dressing-table with a cheval-glass taking its place.

Creamed Corned Beef.

A variation of the familiar and, when well made, popular corned-beef hash is given by a cooking-school teacher as creamed corned beef. The left-over cold cooked corned beef is cut into dice and stirred to a sauce before it is put into a buttered pudding-dish, the mixture covered with half a cup of cracker crumbs or grated bread crumbs, stirred into a little melted butter. The dish is then set in the oven and baked until the crumbs are brown. The sauce is made by creaming two tablespoonfuls of flour and two of butter with two cups of hot milk, into which a slice of onion has been put during the heating process. The onion should be taken out when the sauce is cooked thick, and a flavoring of celery salt added.

Gorgeous Skirts.

Double and triple skirts, skirts flounced, frilled, ruched, slashed, slightly draped, tucked, accordion-pleated, kilted, and skirts severely plain, all find place and favor in the brilliant summer procession of fashion. Ribbon in faille, satin, gauze, grenadine, moire, and velvet, in rows, points, waves, choux, loops, shoulder-knots, and streamers is used with lavish prodigality.

She: "Are you sure I am the first woman you ever loved?"

He: "I swear it."

She: "Then you may go. After you have obtained some experience, come to me again."

HEALING THE CELESTIALS.

Nearly Every Chinese Store Has a Doctor Attached to It.

It is a fact not generally known that nearly every Chinese mercantile store in this country has attached to it a Chinese doctor and a pharmaceutical department. In China every one chooses his own occupation and any person may assume the title of physician without having given previous evidence of his professional competency. There are no medical colleges and no examination tests exist to worry the minds of the would-be practitioner. And neither are diplomas asked for or granted.

This unlimited liberty of selecting an occupation has resulted in making the Chinese medical profession enormous, and when the Chinese start a business a Chinese doctor is always included as one of the partners, and he acts as physician and apothecary for the firm.

When a physician has been unsuccessful he retires with the common Chinese adage "There is medicine for sickness, but none for fate." Sometimes an invalid will go to a doctor and ask for how much he will cure him and how soon the cure can be performed. He states the diagnosis of his case the pulse is examined and every other symptom investigated, when a bargain is struck and a portion of the price paid. The patient then receives the suitable medicines, in quantity and variety better fitted for a horse than a man, for the doctor reasons out that out of a great number it is more likely that some will prove efficacious, and the more he gets paid for the more he ought to administer. A decoction of a kettleful of simples is drank down by the sick man, and he gives up both working and eating; if, however, at the expiration of the time specified he is not cured he scolds the physician for an ignorant charlatan who cheats him out of his money and seeks another with whom he makes a similar bargain and with probably similar results. The visits and examinations are very reasonable in price and vary in amount from 15 cents to $1. The fee is wrapped up in red paper and is called "golden thanks."—Washington Post.

SPLIT LOGS FOR A LIVING.

Two Young Women Who Find the Work Agreeable and Remunerative.

Splitting logs is the vocation followed by two women in the woods back of Wall's station, on the Pennsylvania railroad. Annie and Mary Wilson are the names of these two women. They are sisters. They split rails and make pit posts and caps for the Spring Hill Coal Company, whose works are between Wilmerding and Wall's. They do all the work of felling the trees, sawing them into proper lengths and finally with their axes splitting them into pit posts. They are assisted to some extent by their younger brother. The girls work together always and can swing an eight-foot cross-cut saw through an oak tree with apparently as much ease as some women run a typewriter.

When the tree is sawed through and ready to split one of the girls sets an iron wedge into one end of the log and with a large maul weighing about twenty pounds drives it in, splitting the log from end to end. The operation is repeated until the log is split into sizes for posts. Then the axes are brought into play and the posts trimmed up and shaped. The girls came from Indiana.

"The work is not hard when you get used to it," said one, "and then we can make more money splitting rails and making pit posts in one day than we could in a week working in a kitchen. What's the difference, so long as the work is honest, how one earns a living? Although I work hard every day, rain or shine, I never get sick. I was never sick in my life. The people around here all talk about us, but we don't care for that. We are earning a good living and don't owe any one a cent."—Omaha Bee.

Each Man His Brother's Keeper.

The anomalous spectacle of a large gang of penitentiary convicts working in the open air is presented every day near Yuma, Arizona. They are camped on the Colorado River, a short distance above Yuma, and they are engaged in cutting wood for the territorial government. None of them escape, and none try to escape. Why do they stay? Because each man guards the others. Each man is a "short termer," none of them having more than a year to serve. All are allowed a rebate for the work they do. When a convict has cut two cords of wood he has earned a day's rebate on his term; but should one of the gang escape then every man in the gang loses all rebates. Thus each man becomes his brother's keeper.

A Vast Indian Burial Ground.

One of the most interesting spots in America is an island in the Columbia River near The Dalles which has been used for ages by the Indians as a burial-ground. It is supposed that thousands upon thousands of Indians have been buried within its small circumference. There is nothing more sacred to the Oregon and Washington Indians than this burial island. They guard it with jealous care, and it is said that more than one white man has lost his life through visiting the island and attempting to carry away some such memento as a skull.—Kansas City Journal.

"How did you manage to walk so fine?" inquired Miss Miami Brown. "Yoh never won de cake befo'."

"I fooled mers'f inter walkin' good," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "I half-shet my eyes an' made b'lieve dat cake was er chicken."—Washington Star.

PROTEGE OF GEORGE GOULD.

His Sympathy Aroused for a Georgia Girl by the Sad Story of Her Mother.

When Mr and Mrs. George Gould were returning North from a visit to Jacksonville, Fla., several years ago, the train upon which they were passengers was struck by another train near Waycross, Ga., and Mrs. Gould was hurt—quite seriously it was then feared. She was taken to a hotel in Waycross.

No trained nurse could be obtained, but the housekeeper of the hotel proved an excellent substitute, and soon won the confidence and friendship of Mr. and Mrs. Gould. Impressed by her evident refinement and gentle ways, Mr. Gould questioned the housekeeper, and learned that she had been the only daughter of a railroad magnate, reared amid luxurious surroundings. Her father spared no expense in her education.

A young man named Graham, her equal in every respect except wealth, won her love, and they plighted their troth. Her father, having the most ambitious hopes for his only daughter, repulsed young Graham's suit and threatened to disown the girl if she failed to do likewise. She answered by leaving her home and marrying Mr. Graham.

Mrs. Graham was very happy for two years in the home her husband made for her. Then illness seized upon her husband, and in a few months he died, leaving her alone with her baby girl.

With death came dread poverty to add its blight to the saddened home. Friends of the widow interceded with the father in her behalf, but were sternly repulsed, and she was left to face absolute want. Hearing of the vacant position of housekeeper to be filled in the hotel in Waycross Mrs. Graham applied for it and was accepted.

Mr. Gould was much interested in the story, and soon he and his wife were again settled in their New York home. He wrote to Mrs. Graham that if she would send her daughter to him he would have her well educated. This offer was gratefully accepted, and in due time messages from little Miss Graham to her friends in the South told that she had become a pupil of one of the best known schools in this city.—New York Herald.

A GIFT THAT FEW POSSESS.

The Power of Charming Animals—Fish Caught by Diving for Them.

It is a strange power possessed by "Hun" Conway, a young man who lives near Guionsville, Ind. He is twenty-three years old, with ordinary intelligence, but he has a gift that few other men have. He is able to call snakes, birds and fish to him by the sound of his voice. He can handle venemous reptiles with absolute safety. He has had this power since childhood, and has spent a great deal of his time in the woods and fields among the animals that he calls his friends.

Stories of Conway's power have been told many times, but they were often doubted by people of intelligence. A short time ago members of the Board of County Commissioners had business near Conway's home, and after they had concluded their work they called on the young man and asked him to give an exhibition of his peculiar power.

He accompanied them to a hill in a pasture, where he soon collected a score of snakes that coiled around him in apparent pleasure or remained motionless and rigid at his command. When members of the party touched one of the snakes the apparently lifeless reptile came to life and angrily hissed.

Then Conway went to a pond in the pasture, where he removed his clothes and plunged into the water. Diving below the surface, he came up with a fish in either hand. He continued diving and catching fish until he had given each of the gentlemen a sufficient supply for a meal, when the party went into the woods. Conway whistled softly and made queer noises with his mouth. Scores of birds flew to him, alighting on his head, hands and arms, showing no fear of him.

Conway has possessed his strange power all his life. He is unable to account for it. He says that he "just does it," and that is all he knows about it.—New York World.

UPSIDE DOWN CHINESE.

Their Habits and Methods Seem to be Entirely the Reverse of Ours.

In the first place the Chinese live on the other side of the earth. Perhaps that acounts for their upside down method in everything.

The Chinese surname comes first instead of last. The Chinese begin dinner with dessert and end with soup and fish. The Chinese shake their own hands instead of the hands of those they greet. The spoken language of China is not written, and the written language is not spoken. The Chinese launch their vessels sidewise, and mount their horses from the off side.

Books are read backward, and what we call footnotes are inserted at the top of the page.

The Chinese dress in white at funerals and in mourning at weddings, while old women always serve as bridesmaids.

The Chinese compass points to the south instead of the north. The men carry on dressmaking, and the women carry burdens.

Patience—What is the cheapest-looking thing you ever saw about a bargain counter?

Patrice—A husband waiting for his wife.—Yonkers Statesman.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Preußen.

Provinz Brandenburg.

Berlin. Just 109 Postbeamte sind durch Verfügung des Reichs-Postamts für den ersten Kurs der Post- und Telegraphenschule im Jahre 1898—99 einberufen werden, während früher deren Zahl 60 betragen hatte. Neu aufgenommen in den Lehrplan ist die Erweiterung der Kenntnisse in der französischen und in der englischen Sprache. —An einem Fleischhaken hängen geblieben ist das 21 Jahre alte Dienstmädchen Franziska Kranzler, das im Rathskeller beschäftigt war. Das Mädchen putzte in einem dunklen Raum, der zum Aufbewahren von Fleisch dient, Fenster. Die Leiter, auf der es stand, fiel um, und die Bedauernswerthe blieb mit der Brust an einem Fleischhaken hängen. Sie hatte eine tiefe Rißwunde davongetragen und wurde nach einem Krankenhause gebracht.

Charlottenburg. Ein Akt unglaublicher Rohheit hat sich in der Privatheilanstalt von Dr. Achtziger zugetragen. Dort hat der Oberwärter Schneider den tobsüchtigen Invaliden Glauert zuerst in der brutalsten Weise mißhandelt und dann mit Chloralhydrat vergiftet. Nachträglich hat sich Schneider als ein entmündeter Geisteskranker entpuppt, der sich durch gefälschte Atteste eine Anstellung in der Anstalt zu verschaffen gewußt hatte.

Frankfurt. Das Dorf Mulknitz ist durch eine Feuersbrunst fast vollständig in Asche gelegt worden.

Provinz Hannover.

Hannover. Das von der Alters- und Invaliditäts-Versicherungs-Anstalt der Provinz Hannover in der Nähe von Clausthal-Zellerfeld errichtete Genesungshaus für weibliche Lungenkranke wurde feierlich eröffnet. Es befindet sich in prächtiger geschützter Lage und ist für 50 Genesende bestimmt.

Wennigsen. Der hiesige Kriegerverein, der unter seinen 137 Mitgliedern nicht weniger als 103 Sozialdemokraten zählte, hat sich auf Veranlassung des Landrathsamts auflösen müssen.

Provinz Hessen-Nassau.

Frankfurt. Unsere Stadt beherbergte während der letzten Tage einen indischen Fürsten, den Sultan von Siak, dessen Reich auf der Insel Sumatra liegt. Er war der Gast des Großkaufmanns Katz, dessen Handelsverbindungen mit Ostindien auch den inzwischen verstorbenen Sultan von Jahre zu längeren Besuchen in Frankfurt veranlaßt hatten. Der Sultan von Siak begibt sich zu den Krönungsfeierlichkeiten nach Holland.

Hanau. In einem Bergabhange bei Steinau, dem sogenannten „Teufelsloche," wurde eine prächtige Tropfsteinhöhle entdeckt, deren Ausbeutung Ingenieur Lüders von Steinau auf die Dauer von 20 Jahren ertheilt worden ist. Die Forschungsarbeiten in der Höhle werden zur Zeit eifrig betrieben. Bereits sind mehrere gewölbte Räume gefunden, die durch schmale Gänge mit einander verbunden sind.

Provinz Pommern.

Stettin. Auf einem Wege am Westendsee wurden drei lautschreiende Kinder in hilflosem Zustande aufgefunden. Es ergab sich, daß sie von ihrer Mutter, einer Frau Zandt aus Weißensee bei Berlin, ausgesetzt worden waren. Die Frau war zu diesem Zweck von Berlin nach Stettin gekommen. Sie wurde ermittelt und festgenommen. Sie gab an, die bitterste Noth habe sie zu dem Schritt getrieben. Die Kinder sind hier bis auf Weiteres untergebracht worden.

Kolberg. Bei dem Kasernenbau haben die „organisirten" Arbeiter die Arbeit niedergelegt, weil die Bauherren die Entlassung der nichtsozialistischen Arbeiter ablehnten. Die letzteren arbeiten weiter.

Provinz Posen.

Posen. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den früheren Redakteur der polnischen Wochenschrift „Praca," Rakowski, wegen Aufreizung und wegen Beleidigung der Deutschen zu vier Monaten Gefängniß, nachdem das Reichsgericht das erste Urtheil aufgehoben hatte.

Labischin. Nach dem Richten der evangelischen Schule in Murczyn kletterte der Zimmergeselle Wilinski auf einen Balken, um den Richtkranz auszuhängen. Der Arbeiter, welcher ihm die Latte mit dem Kranze reichte, war so ungeschickt, Wilinski an den Kopf zu stoßen. Wilinski griff nach seinem Kopfe, stürzte, blieb mit dem Kopfe zwischen zwei Balken hängen und trug so schwere Verletzungen davon, daß er bald darauf starb.

Provinz Ostpreußen.

Königsberg. Seitens des Ministers der öffentlichen Arbeiten ist kürzlich die Vornahme allgemeiner Vorarbeiten für das masurische Schifffahrts-Kanalprojekt in den Kreisen Wehlau, Gerdauen und Rastenburg angeordnet worden.

Wehlau. Die Auflösung des hiesigen königlichen Gymnasiums ist nach einer Verfügung des Unterrichtsministeriums beschlossen worden. Die Schülerzahl des Gymnasiums betrug im Durchschnitt 120, die der Lehrer 11.

F. A. DUNHAM,
—CIVIL ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR.—
109 Park Ave. Sewers, pavements, and road improvements. Publisher of city map and plans. Telephone 87 F

(A)
AMOS H. VAN HORN LIMITED
Note first name "AMOS" and No. "73" before entering store. Get off car at Plane St.

Don't "chance it"
—'tis costly work. Be on SAFE SIDE and get your furniture, carpets and the like FROM US, the house that's been going near 40 years—that owns and DESERVES a name for fair, square, yes, GENEROUS dealing— that's so SAFE to deal with, your child might trade with it and not be hoodwinked.

About a dozen suits left at $16.50—inlaid, mahogany finished frame—brocatelle covered—a $25 suit—and little priced at that! There must be 50 other suits will clear out before the fat.

"Odd" Dining Furniture--
—immense lines—even if they're odd sets they're '98 build and may be yours at and below maker's costs.

A dozen sets of 6 cane seat chairs each set—just half former costs. All china closets to go at cost.

Carpets—Ingrains, 39c. yd.—Body Brussels, 90c.
Moquettes and Velvets also at price marks that don't pay for their cartage! But Fall's styles can't mix with them—they must go before one week. Mattings, in 40 varied effects—10c. a yard up.

Enameled Beds
--now $1.95

—that were $2.50 and $3.50 —a whole floor given up to Brass and Enameled Beds —there's no such enameled bed sale in all Newark. Dressers and Chiffoniers are grouped in the sale.

30 to 40 Refrigerators left--prices cut in two!

Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stoves—a great, powerful flame—burns oil, but has no wick! All sizes—now on hand to go at wholesale rates.

"Monarch" and "Insurance" Vapor Stoves being cleared away at less than first cost to us! Hundreds use these labor-saving stoves all the year 'round!

$3.50 Baby Carriages—Far too many carriages on our hands—'tis $3.50 instead of $5.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

Amos H. Van Horn, Ltd, 73 Market St., Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.
LOW PRICES—EASY TERMS.
Note first name "Amos."
Telephone 580. Goods delivered Free to any part of State.

DEBELE'S CREAMERY.
127 B W. Front St.
I am ready to supply the public in general with
FRESH MILK AND CREAM.
Wholesale and retail.

POWLISON & JONES,
Dealers in
FURNITURE,
149-151 East Front St.

THE COLUMBIA BARLOCK TYPEWRITER,
Rapid. Simple. Durable,
IT'S THE MACHINE TO OWN.
The Barlock has been in constant service in the Daily Press office for three years. During that time it has been used every day to write from 2,000 to 4,000 words, has never received the best of care from the operator, but still does its work faithfully and well. It can be seen doing practical work in the city editor's office any day For descriptive circular address
THE COLUMBIA TYPEWRITER MANUFACTURING CO.,
5 20 4m 202 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
— DEALERS IN —
Lumber, Coal, Masons' Material &c
Our stock is under cover and we can always deliver dry stock. Agents for Adamant Wall Plaster. Orders solicited.
BOICE, RUNYON & CO.

E. C. MULFORD, BROKER.
ARMSTRONG MULFORD, MANAGER.
169 NORTH AVENUE.
Bargains in REAL ESTATE, for sale or to let. MONEY to loan on first mortgage. FIRE INSURANCE—North America, of Philadelphia, Phœnix, of London, London and Lancashire of Liverpool, Queen of America. LIFE INSURANCE—New York Life.

VANDERBEEK & SATTELS,
Dealers in first-class
PIANOS and ORGANS
We have five first-class factories making Pianos for us. We can give the best Piano for the money. PIANOS TO RENT. PIANOS TUNED AND EXCHANGED.
221 PARK AVENUE PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. D. SPICER, 125 W. 5th St. SPICER & HUBBARD. J. A. HUBBARD, 109 W. 5th St.
Madison Avenue and Third Street.
Over thirty years on the same corner. Work first-class. Orders promptly filled.
MOULDINGS. Large assortment in stock. Special styles made to order of any kind of wood.
SASH. All sizes and styles furnished. Large stock of glazed work, including Hot-Bed Sash.
DOORS. A full assortment of stock doors on hand, and Special Kinds Made to order
BLINDS. All the ordinary sizes in stock. Old Blinds Repaired. Painted if desired.
FRAMES. Window and Door Frames Made to Order. Jambs, Casings and Stops in stock for sale.
GLASS. Full Stock and Large Assortment. Plain and Colored. Broken Lights Replaced.
Hardwood Flooring, kiln dried and first-class. Tie-Posts. Line-Posts and Line-Props
[Turningand Scr l- wing.]

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 26th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 6 29, 6 59, 7 26, 7 50, 7 55, 8 00, 8 13, 8 30, 8 37, 8 48, 9 35, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 2 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 9 55, 11 28 p. m. Sunday, 2 14, 3 37, 5 59, 8 01, 8 52, 10 08, 11 10, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 17, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 12, 8 32, 9 15, 22 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St. at 4 00, 4 30, 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 8 40, 9 10 10 00 a. m.; 12 00 m., 12 45 Saturday only) 1 00, (1 20 Saturdays only) 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 40, 5 00, (5 15 except Saturdays) 5 30, 5 45, (6 00 except Saturdays) 6 15, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 15, 10 30, 11 45 p. m.; 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday, 4 30, 7 00, 9 00, 9 15 a. m.; 12 m.; 1 00, 1 30, 2 30, 4 00, 5 30, 7 00, 7 30, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night; 1 00 a. m.

Leave New York South Ferry from Whitehall St. at 7 10, 7 55, 8 40, 9 08, 10 00, 11 55 a. m., 1 00, 1 25, 3 25, 3 30, 3 40, 3 55, 4 40, 4 55, 5 25, (5 55 except Saturdays) 6 10, 6 25, 6 55, 7 30, 7 50, 8 25, 9 10, 9 55, 11 40 p. m., 12 15 night. Sundays—At 7 00, 8 55 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 55, 2 30, 3 55, 5 25, 7 25, 8 25, 55 p. m., 12 15 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 29, 6 59, 7 47, 8 00, 37, 8 38, 9 58, 10 37, 11 10 a. m.; 12 09, 1 15, 07, 2 29, 3 12, 3 46, 4 54, 5 32, 6 21, 6 45, 7 03, 8 45, 17, 11 28 p. m. Sunday 8 52, 10 08, 11 16 a. m.; 12 58, 1 45, 3 30, 5 41, 7 01, 8 13, 10 22 p. m.

Leave Newark at 6 15, 7 30, 8 05 8 38, 9 03, 10 05 a. m.; 12 10, 1 05, 1 35, 2 40, 3 35, 4 02, 4 40, 5 04, 5 23, 5 45, 6 19, 7 35, 8 10, 9 35, 10 05, 11 25 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 9 05, 11 35 a. m.; 1 10, 2 45, 4 05, 5 35, 7 20, 9 05, 10 23 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 18, 7 12, 8 19, 9 40, 9 54, 11 00 a.m., 1 01, (2 11 except Saturdays) 2 27, 3 35, 4 36, 5 03, 5 25, 5 34, 6 04, 6 09, 6 19, 6 38, 7 12, 7 94, 8 21, 10 26, 11 29, p. m; 12 44 night. Sunday 5 45, 8 06, 9 55, a.m; 2 03, 3 39, 5 09, 6 35, 8 30, 10 15, 11 14 p.m

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7, 7 27, 7 33, 7 45, 8 20, 9 15, 9 35, 10 15, 11 45, a. m; 12 50, 1 48, 2 05 3 20, 4 30, 5 28, 6 05, 6 08, 6 40, 8 22, 8 45, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 8 25, 9 45, 10 45 a. m; 12 35, 1 20, 5 15, 6 35, 7 53, 8 08, 8 45, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 18, 8 19, 9 54 a. m., 1 01 2 27, 5 25, 6 38, 8 21 p. m. Sunday at 5 45, 8 06 a. m; 2 08 6 35 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 00, 8 15, a. m; 12 32, 4 10, 5 10, 7 15, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 22 a. m; 6 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 12, 9 54 a. m; 2 27, 5 25 p. m. Sundays, 8 06 a. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

5 18 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 12 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 19 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Nanticoke, and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre Scranton, & c. with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

1 01 p. m., way for Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

2 27 p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton with buffet parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

5 25 p. m., for Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

6 19 p. m.—For Flemington.

6 38 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

8 21 p. m.—For Easton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 06 a. m. Sundays High Bridge Branch for Easton.

2 06 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading, and Harrisburg.

5 09 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

6 35 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 3 37, 6 13, 9 58 a. m.; [1 15 Red Bank only] [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21 p. m. Sundays, except Ocean Grove, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 5 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m; 1 15, [2 07 through car] 3 46, 5 32, 6 21, 7 03, 8 45 p. m. Sundays, 8 52 a. m.; 12 58, 3 30 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 3 37 a. m.; 1 15 p m.

For Freehold, 3 37, 8 13, 9 58, a. m.; 1 15, 3 46, 5 32 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat 3 37, 8 13 a.m., 1 15, 3 46 p. m Sundays 8 52 a.m

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 17, 8 44, 9 46, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 09, 5 34*, 6 38*, 8 21, 9 37*, 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45 9 55, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p m.; 1 17 night.

For Trenton, 5 17, 7 12, 8 44, 9 46 a. m.; 2 31, 4 36, 5 34*, 6 38* 8 21, 9 37* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 5 45, 9 55 a. m.; 2 31, 4 55, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 17, 8 44, 10 44 a. m.; 2 31, 5 34*, 6 38* p. m.; 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 10 44 a. m; 2 31, 5 09*, 6 35* p. m.; 1 17 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m; 6 38 p m. Sundays, 6 35 p m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.
H.P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect May 29, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

a.m., 6 25 and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

6 25 p. m. Sunday local for Mauch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 52 a. m., 3 34, 5 20 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 52 p. m. daily except Sunday "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Easton and Wilkesarre.

4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for WilkesBarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 52 and 9 38 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 02 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves stations New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk daily except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 49, 7 40 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29 and 4 45 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., and 6 04 p. m. Express 10, 8 14, 10 02 a. m., 12 15, 2 50, 5 10, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 10, 8 14 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 38, 10 02, a. m. 12 16, 2 52, 5 20 and 7 13 p. m daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 06 a. m. and 6 52 p. m.

Trains leave Perth Amboy (State street) 7 00 45, 11 50 a. m., 1 40, 4 20 and 6 40 p. m., daily except Sunday. Sunday 8:45 a. m. and 5 42 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. BOLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
26 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Adjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Monday, Aug. 15, 1898, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll-call showed all members present—17.

The minutes of the previous meeting were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From W. F. Brower of New Providence alleging that on account of the closing up of a culvert on the County Road known as Springfield avenue, just above his premises, he was liable to sustain heavy damages—said culvert formed part of a natural water course for a large section of country, and by closing said culvert a large volume of water would be thrown on his land, creating a stagnant pond, detrimental to the value of his land, and also to health. He would hold the County liable for any such damage.

On motion of Freeholder Wahl, received and referred to County Road Committee.

From Theodore McGarrah of Westfield, a lengthy communication protesting against the granting of the franchise for widening etc., of Westfield or North Ave.,—after being read in full, it was received and placed on file.

Freeholder Farrell moved, that in view of the large number of citizens present, the Board adjourn to the Court Room, which was so ordered.

The Director stated that the Board was ready to listen to all persons who might desire to speak on the subject of the franchise now pending before the Board, relative to the widening of Westfield or North Ave, etc.

Addresses were made in favor of granting the franchise by Judge Gilhooly, Louis A. Graff, Hon. Amos Clark, Oliver Story, E. R. O'Reilly, M. D., A. D. Mulford, Charles H. Moore and others of Elizabeth.

Mr. Louis Quien stated that he would take the contract for constructing the boulevard, and do all the work required under the franchise for the $250,000 offered, and would give bonds for the faithful performance of the work.

Objections to granting the franchise were made by Messrs. McGutyer and Drysdale, of Cranford; Mr. Bronson, of Lorraine, and by Mr. Depue, on behalf of others, who said that petitions were being prepared against granting said franchise, which were not completed, but at this time represented ond-half of the lineal feet in Cranford along the line of the proposed boulevard.

Mr. Depue also thought that hearings on the franchise should be held in places other than Elizabeth.

Mr. Crowell, of Rahway, thought that county roads should be left intact and not used for trolley purposes.

Freeholder Roll moved that the Board go into executive session, which was so ordered, and the Board returned to the Freeholders' room.

Upon resuming open session the Board was called to order by the Director and roll-call showed all the members present.

The committee of the whole presented the following as its report, viz:

Resolved, That this committee of the whole rise from executive session and recommend the granting of the franchise to the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company in conformity with the proposition by said company to this board submitted.

Freeholder King moved that the report be received and placed on file, which was so ordered.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Roll:

Resolved, That the proposition of the Elizabeth City Horse Railroad Company to construct a street railroad on Westfield or North avenue, from Orchard street in the city of Elizabeth to Richmond street in Plainfield, also on Orchard street in Elizabeth from Westfield avenue to Morris avenue, and on Richmond street in Plainfield from North avenue to Third street and thence on Third street to Watchung avenue, which proposition was submitted to this Board on the 4th instant, be and the same is hereby accepted; and the committee on county roads and county attorney be requested to prepare a draft of bond conditioned for the faithful performance of said proposition and present the same to the Honorable Bennet Van Syckel, Justice of the Supreme Court, for approval as required by law.

Freeholder Roll moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll-call it was adopted by the following vote, viz.:

Ayes—Director Hubbard and Freeholders Brucklacher, Burnett, Ehrlich, Farrell, Hulskamper, King, McCandless, Miller, Roll, Tier—11.

Nays—Freeholder Adams, Higgins, Robison, Scudder, Swain, Wahl—6.

Freeholder King moved to adjourn, which was carried.

The Director declared the Board adjourned to Thursday, September 1, 1898, at 2:30 p. m.

S. RUSLING RYNO, Clerk.

REVERE HOUSE

PARK AVENUE, 7th and 8th sts. | PLAINFIELD New Jersey.

Families accomodated for the Spring and Summer months at greatly reduced prices.

The house contains all modern improvements lighted by Gas and Electricity. Sanitary arrangements perfect. Cuisene unsurpassed.

GEO. B. DE REVERE.

RUSHTON & HANSEN,

Painters and Paper Hangers,

Office and Shop Sycamore and Fourth Streets

Interior decorating a specialty. Our motto—first-class work. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders promptly attended to. 2 11 tf

E. S. F. RANDOLPH,

DRUGGIST,

Cor. Liberty and Fourth Sts. Telephone 781.

PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED DAY OR NIGHT.

A CHANGE OF MIND.

Miss Dubarle was five-and-forty years of age on the nineteenth of March, 18—, well, no matter what year. And she was stout, and short, with no visible waist; and hands that were red and fat, instead of white and slender; and features that belonged to no Grecian type or Roman mold, but seemed to be setting up, sui generis, each on its own special account, with no reference whatever to the others.

But we have not mentioned the most important fact of all. Miss Dubarle had forty thousand dollars of her own.

And that was, without doubt, the reason that her relatives sent her pressing invitations to "come and visit them," and dispatched cases of wine and hampers of game and boxes of new books down to Dubarle Farm; the little girls worked hideous pincushions and tidies to decorate her rooms; and young men wrote acrostics for her birthday and everybody listened politely to her speeches, however prolix they might be. For a rich old maid is worth cultivating, and it wasn't at all likely now that Miss Dubarle would ever marry.

It was a bleak afternoon, the red and brown leaves whirling round and round in the blast, and the great wood fire upon the hearth sending, every now and then, spiteful little gushes of smoke into the room where Miss Dubarle and her second cousin and companion, Janet Heath, sat together, working roses for a counterpane.

"Janet," said Miss Dubarle, politely, "you're a fool!"

Janet looked up with a flush of color on her pale, pretty cheek. She was not at all unaccustomed to these little complimentary remarks on the part of Miss Dubarle.

"Be a sensible girl," added the elder female. "Give him up, and I'll buy you a blue silk dress and a black lace shawl."

"But I love him, Miss Dubarle."

"Oh, psha-a-aw!" grimaced the spinster. "Love, indeed! I never was in love!"

"And," added Janet, growing more rosy than ever, as she stooped to pick up her ivory needle, "he says he would be miserable without me. Don't, please, be angry, Miss Dubarle; but indeed, indeed, I must marry him."

Miss Dubarle jumped up so suddenly that the dozing blackbird in its cage uttered a shrill note of consternation.

"Very well," she said—"very well, Janet Heath. Pack your trunk as soon as you please. I can dispense with your services at once. And pack mine first, if you please, Janet Heath."

"You are not going away, Miss Dubarle?" queried poor Janet, in consternation.

"I'm going to visit my relatives," said Miss Dubarle, with pursed-up lips. And then little Janet knew that her own fate as far as any worldly advantages to be derived from her kinship to the heiress, was sealed.

"Put in the black silk gown, Janet," said Miss Dubarle, in a tone as lugubrious as if she were giving orders for her own funeral. "Of all sins, I regard ingratitude as the basest—and the China crape scarf—to think that I have nursed a viper to turn and sting me at last! And don't forget my easy slippers—though I don't know either why my corns should be entitled to any more consideration than my poor bruised heart."

And then, as Janet Heath began to cry, Miss Dubarle marched out of the room.

"I never could endure the vapors," said Miss Dubarle. "I'll go to my niece Maria, or maybe I'll make Herbert Smythe a little bit of a visit; he's always saying how delighted he would be to entertain me in his bachelor quarters. They both love me, although I haven't done half for them that I have for this little serpent's tooth of a Janet. I dare say she expects to be my heiress, but she'll find out her mistake, I guess."

And Miss Dubarle, who allowed no suns to go down upon her wrath, took the first train for New York, and slept that night in the fifth story of a marble-fronted hotel.

"I didn't think I should miss that child Janet so much," she said rather dolefully to herself the next morning, as she tried to comb out her tangled "back-hair," and nearly strangled herself trying to button up her own boots—"but I don't care! I won't give up to her love-sick whims, and I will go to see Maria Brooks and Herbert Smythe. Maria's little girl wrote me a beautiful letter last month, and all out of her own head, her mother said. Let me see—Eudocia her name was. Perhaps I'll adopt Eudocia."

And Miss Dubarle ordered a carriage and drove to the mansion of Mr. Secor Brooks, on an aristocratic side street.

"They seem to live very nicely," thought the rich relation. "I didn't know Secor's income justified such style as this."

The servant showed Miss Dubarle into a reception-room, furnished after the style of Louis Quinze. His mistress was out, but would return presently, he explained.

"I'll wait," said Miss Dubarle.

A wizened little girl, with her hair braided in long Chinese plaits, and red, chill-looking elbows, was tinkling away at the piano. She looked round as the guest entered.

"You are Eudocia, I suppose," said Miss Dubarle, affably.

"Yes," said the child. "I'm Eudocia. And who are you?"

"I am Miss Dubarle," said the heiress, graciously. "You have heard your mamma tell about Miss Dubarle, haven't you?"

"Oh, yes!" said Eudocia, her small fishy eyes lighting up. "You're the old maid that mamma says is so out—out—"

"Out of health?"

"No; some very big word."

"Outrageous?" suggested Miss Dubarle, somewhat discomfitted.

"No — not that — outlandish! And you're going to die and leave me all your money and then we are to travel in Europe. But papa says he don't see but what you're going to hold on forever. What is it you are holding on to, Miss Dubarle?"

"Hem!" said Miss Dubarle. "So your mamma's kind enough to consider me outlandish, is she?"

"Mamma's going to invite you to visit us," went on the unwisely communicative Eudocia, "when the Fitz-Roy Fortesques are gone. She says she don't want them to be shocked with your Noah's-Ark ways. I had a Noah's Ark once," added the enfant terrible, "with a dog in it and Shem, Ham and Japhet."

"I dare say," said Miss Dubarle, checking a strong inclination to laugh, although she felt herself growing purple in the fact with indignation. "I think I won't wait any longer, Eudocia; good-by."

And Miss Dubarle shook the dust of the Secor Brooks mansion off her feet.

"A pretty hypocrite's nest I should have got into there!" she said, half aloud, as she entered the vehicle she had been wise enough to bid wait. "Janet Heath, with all her faults, was at least frank and truthful enough. Drive to twenty-seven Bachelor Square, coachman!"

Twenty-seven Bachelor Square was a tall, brown-stone building, full of studios, officers and sets of chambers, and Miss Dubarle was well-nigh out of breath before she reached a door at the very top, on which a card, neatly tacked, bore the inscription, "Herbert Smythe, Artist."

She beat a brisk tatoo on the panels with the handle of her sun umbrella, and a voice answered,—

"Come in."

But to her amazement, the occupant of the apartment, instead of a young artist in a black velvet painting-robe, was a grim female, sitting very upright on a gothic chair, with tattered gloves and a bonnet bent on the side.

"Is Mr. Smythe in?" asked Miss Dubarle.

"No," answered the stony female; "he ain't. But if you're wise you'll sit down, like me, and wait until he does come in. I s'pose you've come after your bill?"

"Have yo?" asked Miss Dubarle, taking the first part of the hint, by depositing herself on a sofa.

"Yes—for the seventh time. He owes everybody—Smythe does. I'm his laundress, but you can ask the landlord and the wine merchant, and the tailor and the hatter, and—"

"Then," curtly observed Miss Dubarle, "I should think you were all great fools for trusting him!"

"So we be," said the woman, grimly; "and I ain't a denyin' of that, but you see he's kept us on the string all along with stories of his rich cousin, Miss Dubarle, as has made her will in his favor, and is goin' to leave him no end of money."

"Oh!" said Miss Dubarle, rubbing her nose vehemently with the end of the sun-umbrella handle.

"He says," added the unconscious traitoress, "that she's as old as Methuselah, and can't live but a few days, anyhow; but I, for one, don't believe a word of it. But you ain't agoin' be you?"

"Yes," said Miss Dubarle, rising. "Please to give him this card when he comes in and tell him, if you like, the little conversation we have had."

And she was nearly down-stairs before the laundress, fitting on a pair of silver-bowed spectacles, had read the two words inscribed upon the card:—

"Miss Dubarle."

The heiress was very silent during her drive back to the hotel. Perhaps she was engaged in rendering the funeral rites on her dear departed delusion! All that she said to herself was contained in one sentence,—

"I don't like being made a fool of," she mentally enunciated, "and I believe I've come very near it."

Janet Heath sat by the fire in the next evening's twilight, musing, perchance, half in sadness, half in shy pleasure, when the door clicked on its latch and in walked Miss Dubarle.

Janet started to her feet with a slight cry.

"Don't be alarmed," said Miss Dubarle, stroking the soft, brown hair with a kindly, reassuring touch. "I've come back to you, Janet Heath; for I believe, in spite of everything, you are the truest friend I've got, and that you love me, after all!"

"Indeed, indeed, Miss Dubarle, I do!" sobbed Janet, with her old foolish trick of tears.

"And so," said Miss Dubarle, "you can marry that Harry Dart of yours, and he can come here to live, and we'll all be a happy family together. Untie my bonnet-strings, Janet—they've got somehow into a knot—and make me a cup of tea. These railroads are enough to shake one into a jelly!"

So Miss Dubarle settled back into the old groove again, and when the letters from New York came she sent them back unopened. And when Mr. Herbert Smythe and the Secor Brooks family arrived in propria personae she obstinately refused to see them.

"I won't be bothered!" said Miss Dubarle; "Janet's my heiress, and there's an end to the matter."

And the relatives discovered that they might as well attempt to move the Rock of Gibraltar as to alter Miss Dubarle's resolve!—New York News.

A Russian chemist has discovered a most powerful anaesthetic, several thousand times more powerful than chloroform. Experiments are being made at St. Petersburg to see if it cannot be enclosed in bombs, which would have the extraordinary effect of anaesthetising instead of wounding the enemy.

THE FIDDLER CRAB AND DRAGON FLY.

Why a Little Boy Made a Promise Never to Hurt Them Again.

The Fiddler Crab held up his one big claw like a shield and fed himself very fast with one of his little claws.

The tide was out and there was a good deal to eat on the narrow sand flat near the road where, down among the reeds and the marsh grass, the Fiddler Crab and his family made their home.

I don't know just what the Fiddler Crab eats—something the tide brings, perhaps—but whatever it was he was eating it as fast as a little boy eats his breakfast when he is going to a picnic. Just then the Dragon Fly came along, chasing a gnat or something, and stopped to rest on a spear of grass near by.

"What are you stuffing your breakfast down in such a hurry for?" he called to the Crab. "Don't you know it isn't good for you to eat so fast?"

"Oh, yes, I know all about that," answered the Fiddler, "but I'd rather have a little stomach ache than be killed, and I'm afraid for my life here every minute. I must eat fast and get back into the water out of sight."

As the Fiddler Crab said this his eyes stuck out at least a half an inch on two funny little sticks that were a good deal like a short two-tined fork with the eyes fastened on the points. He looked so droll that the Dragon Fly could hardly help laughing. He did not laugh, though, and looked very grave, as he said:

"Why, Mr. Fiddler, what has happened? What is the trouble?"

"A boy!" replied the Crab. "A naughty little boy who came along here yesterday. He threw stones at us and broke off my uncle's big claw and nearly killed a lot of my other folks. About three hundred and fifty of my relatives are breakfasting over there on the next flat, and I came over here to stand guard and give the warning if he comes again."

"Well, well," said the Dragon Fly, "I do believe it is the very same boy that almost killed me with the branch of a tree. He stood down there on the bridge, and just as I came flying along, not thinking of any harm, swish came a great busy brushy limb that grazed my wings and frightened me into a fit. The best hunting is along this road, too; right in the very place he can reach us. What are we going to do?"

"I don't know, I'm sure," began the Fiddler Crab, and then all at once he threw up his big claw and his eyes stuck out just as far as ever the two little sticks would let them.

"Sh!" he whispered. "Here he comes now!" Then he made a clicking sound with his claws and there was a hurry and scamper behind a bunch of marsh grass where his three hundred and fifty relatives were sliding into the water.

"Sh!" he whispered once more. "Better lie low, Mr. Dragon Fly, and maybe he won't see us."

So the Dragon Fly crept down the stalk of grass out of sight and the Fiddler Crab sidled into the reeds close to him. Then they kept still and listened.

They heard the little boy talking and knew that somebody must be with him. Pretty soon they could hear what he was saying.

"Oh, mamma," they heard his say, "right here yesterday I saw about a million Fiddler Crabs! I threw a stone at them and you ought to have seen them run—all going sideways—so funny! I knocked a claw off one of them, but I didn't quite kill any. I will next time!"

"Why, Eddie!" answered a soft voice, that the Dragon Fly and the Fiddler liked, because it sounded good and gentle.

"Yes, and right over there I saw a big blue Dragon Fly, and I broke a branch off a bush and when he came along I stood on the bridge and swung the branch around and just grazed him. I waited there a long time, but he didn't come back any more."

"Why do you want to kill the poor Crab and the Dragon Fly?" asked the soft voice.

"Oh, just because," said the little boy. "Let's sit down here on the bank and watch for them."

"Eddie," said the other voice, as they paused and sat down, "don't you know that the Fiddler Crab and the Dragon Fly love to live, just as we do? That they love the blue sky and the sea and the sunshine?"

Mr. Crab and Mr. Dragon Fly, peeking out through the grass, saw the little boy digging in the ground with a stick.

"Think, Eddie, how it would hurt you to be hit with a big stone that broke off your arm, or with a limb that scratched and tore you. And how sorry papa and all of us would be. The Fiddler Crab and the Dragon Fly have their families, too. You don't want to be cruel, do you?"

The little boy did not answer right away, and the other voice continued:

"Everything, Eddie, that lives loves its life. We kill only in self-defence and for food. If you think a moment I know you do not wish to hurt any defenceless creature or take just for fun a life you cannot give back again."

Then the little boy answered, but his voice was so weak that the Crab and the Dragon Fly had to listen very hard to hear what he said.

"I didn't think about that," he said, still digging away in the sand, it hurts and—and they have mammas and papas and—oh, mamma, do you suppose that one's claw will ever grow out again?"

"Perhaps. I've heard of such things."

"Will it, mamma? Do you suppose it will really? I'll never try to kill anything again—never! Oh, there they are now!"

Sure enough! The Dragon Fly and the Fiddler Crab had felt so happy to hear him say those words that they had popped right out of their hiding place. The Fiddler Crab was sidling back and forth across the sand and the Dragon Fly dancing up and down in the air just above him. Then suddenly from behind the clump of marsh grass sidled the three hundred and fifty relatives, wavering, while across the marsh came the Dragon Fly family under the blue sky.

The little boy laughed and shouted and clapped his hands. The sun shone brightly upon the fields and sea.—Albert Bigelow Paine, in New York Herald.

When the Cows Came Home.

Going after the cows was an errand regularly assigned Dolly and Dick during the summer months. At first they were impatient for the hour to come when the big red ball of the sun would drop behind the tops of the orchard trees that they might start for the pasture where Buttercup and her pretty fawn-colored calf, Dairy Maid, cropped the juicy clover all day long.

What great fun it was to chase each other down the lane through the deep clover to the bars where Buttercup waited, placidly chewing her cud. How ready she was to rub her cool, black nose into their outstretched hands, as if to say:

"Good evening, Dolly and Dick, have you a nice tidbit of salt with you? I'm ready to be taken home to the milking-stable."

After Dick lowered the pasture bars Dairy Maid would always politely stand aside to allow Buttercup to pass out first. Then as soon as Dick had put up the bars he would give a low whistle, at which Dairy Maid would prick up her pretty ears and start on a run down the lane, with Dick following close beside her. Most times Dairy Maid would win in the race to see who could get to the road first. Then she would turn around and come back to meet Dolly, holding out her head to be stroked.

This all seemed the very best part of the whole day until the long, long days of midsummer came, when Dick became absorbed in fishing down by the brook. It always seemed that the fish began to bite just as the sun went down, and he must scamper away to help Dolly bring in the cows. And Dolly sometimes thought it just too bad to have to leave the cunning playhouse she was building for her dolls down under the old quince-tree.

One hot July afternoon the playtime hour seemed shorter than ever. The cool shade at the brook and under the old quince-tree was so pleasant and hard to leave that Dolly and Dick did not set out until the red light was dying out of the sky. Away they ran at full speed, with hardly time to go and come while it was light.

But some perverse thought came to both to try a short cut through Neighbor Shank's fresh mown meadow, that they might have a slide down the newly made hay-cocks, though something whispered to them that this was directly against their father's command.

Soon Buttercup and the on-coming dark were entirely forgotten in the good times they were having trying to see who could climb up first after a quick slide down the haycock and a tumble into the masses of fragrant hay beneath. But one time when Dolly failed to climb back up after Dick, she noticed it was so dark that she could hardly see her brother on top of the hay—and over where the pasture bars should be it was all dark night.

Thoroughly frightened, she ran with all her might in the direction of the pasture, with Dick following her at full speed, while away off somewhere they heard Buttercup mooing dolefully. The stubble cut Dolly's bare feet, and she thought with a lump in her throat what would mother say when they got home. And maybe they might not get back home. Then her throat hurt dreadfully, far worse than her feet, and she could not keep the tears back.

All of a sudden Dick gave a howl of pain and danced around frantically. Dolly ran back to find out what was the matter, and she, too, began to scream with pain. They had stumbled upon a nest of bumblebees. After that all else was forgotten but to escape their tormentors. Away they ran with all their might, with the bees buzzing angrily about their ears, and did not stop until the last bee had given up the chase. They sank down beside a haycock so exhausted that they hardy realized where they were.

It had grown very dark and a chilling mist was settling down. Dolly felt around to where Dick was and crept closer to him. Oh, how their feet hurt, and Dick's head felt as big as a bushel right over the temple where a bee had stung him. Dolly did not feel the pain of her torn feet and stung hands so much as the hurt in her throat when she thought how they were lost in the dark night.

"Oh, Dick," she sobbed, "if we had only gone as we were told, we'd been home by this time eating custard for supper, but now we'll never"— and she could not finish for the choking sobs, in which Dick joined.

Poor, tired, naughty children; some way, they never remembered how, they fell fast asleep—and the first thing Dolly knew was a bright light flashing into her eyes and blinding her. Papa was bending over them with a lantern in his hand and calling to somebody, "Here they are!"

It was a week before Dolly could put on her shoes and play out under the quince-tree, and Dick wore a bandage over his eye even longer. The first time they went again to bring Buttercup from the pasture she would not lick Dolly's pink palm when she held out her hand.

I wonder why.

A HAPPY TELEGRAM.

Jane was going to be married. The contract was all ready to be signed that very evening, and the notary with her fiancee were to come down from town by the same train in time for dinner (Jane's father lived in the country); but as the happy groom-elect was never known to be on time in any of his appointments, Jane's papa had privately sent off a telegraphic dispatch half an hour ago, saying to the young man: "Do not come too late," so now all was in readiness.

The eventful night had come, the guests for the ceremony of signing the contract had arrived, and all was prepared. The little bride-to-be began to feel nervous as the hour drew near for Jean's arrival. Wheels on the drive! She flew to the door. The notary alone had come by the six o'clock train—no Jean. Twenty times at least she had gone to the end of the long terrace to catch a glimpse of his approach, but nothing met her view.

"Bah," said her father, "do not fidget, so, my child, he will come by the eight train; he is very charming, this lover of yours, but he is always late."

"Oh, papa."

"Yes, yes, always behind time."

At eight o'clock they sent again to the station, but no Jean was there. Dinner was served without him, Jane trying bravely to be cheerful with her guests, but as the hours passed and no lover appeared, she could bear it no longer. She left the room and ran to the end of the terrace, where she could weep in solitude, but a young cousin—a fine-looking fellow—had followed her and said gently,—

"You weep, Jane."

Jane sobbed out,—

"Oh, think what an affront—how can I face all these people?"

"Do you love him so much?"

"No, not so much now; but I was happy in being married; all my schoolmates at the convent are married already."

Jacques smiled.

"Never mind," said he, "we'll find another husband for you."

"You think that so easy? Papa was a long time selecting Jean."

"But suppose I know of another; eh, little cousin?"

Jane answered joyously,—

"Ah, then I should quickly give Jean his dismissal; but, oh dear, when I think that all the arrangements are made, that to-morrow the wedding guests will be here—I feel as if I should die with shame, I wish I could——"

"Foolish girl, there is no need for that; If you take my advice there will be no excuses to make to the guests; the bridegroom of whom I speak will ask nothing better than to marry you at once, for he loves you; he has loved you for years, but he did not dare to tell you his love, because he believed you loved the other, and if you marry him to-morrow, he will be the happiest of men." Struggling with emotion, he ceased for a moment, then said softly,—

"Little cousin."

"Jacques."

"Well?"

"Well, I do not regret this Jean. I will not give him another thought. Bring your friend here."

Jacques took her hand.

"Have you not divined that it is I who love, who adore you, who has loved you for years; I know I am not a sentimental fellow like the other, but my heart is yours alone."

Jane thought for a moment, then said quietly,—

"Jacques, I believe it is you I have loved, after all, without knowing it, for as you spoke just now my heart beat with joy. But come, let us go to papa—the notary is here; there is nothing to do but change the name in the contract, and to-morrow we will be married. We will leave directly after the wedding breakfast, and when the other comes he will find me gone."

They laughed together like children, and ran to explain matters to her father, who was not quite so ready to catch the situation.

"Why, you stupid fellow, did you never speak before?"

"Because Jane was rich and I poor."

"But now—"

"Now, I, too am rich. A distant relative has left me all his fortune of two hundred thousand francs, which enables me to ask the hand of Jane without being regarded as a fortune hunter."

The father speedily became reconciled to the change of bridegrooms, saying.—

"All is prepared; the priest will be here to-morrow, and the marriage will take place after all—and when the other comes, how furious he will be! But he will be as he always is—too late."

* * * * * *

The happy couple had just driven away from the house next morning, when a note was brought to the old gentleman, with which was inclosed a telegraphic blank. It was his own dispatch.

He read the letter accompanying it and rubbed his hands.

"No wonder he is furious, poor fellow! I sent him a message thus: 'Do not come too late,' and the operator made it read thus: 'Do not come; too late.'"—Argonaut.

Mrs. Petter—Did you see that? Dixon seized that rocking chair and was into it before his wife had a

Have You Seen

The Fancy Timothy Hay that we are now receiving? It is all last year's crop and far superior to most that we have seen.

BALED BY OURSELVES—which means large bales, free from dirt

Don't Risk New Hay.

STORES: Elizabeth. Elizabethport. Red Bank. Plainfield. Somerville.

The PAUL T. NORTON CO.

Everything for Horses, Cattle and Poultry.

SPORTING.

GOSSIP OF THE DIAMOND.

CURRENT BASEBALL NEWS IN AND AROUND PLAINFIELD.

Bits of Information and Comment Gleaned From the Great National Game —Latest Scores of the League Teams

The Cuban Giants, who are coming here on the afternoon of Labor Day to meet the Riverdale Field Club of this city, played in Orange Saturday and defeated the Orange A. C. by a good score.

Easton, the left fielder of the Riverdales, did not play with the Plainfield team last Saturday. Buckbee, of Nutley, took his place. Instead Easton took part in the game between teams representing the New York Central and the Philadelphia and Reading Railroads. He played on the Central team as left field where he distinguished himself by catching several difficult flies. He also did some timely batting, scoring two runs of the four made by his team. The P. and R. boys won, 7 to 4.

The Riverdale Field Club, of this city, will play at the Orange Oval this afternoon against the Watsessing baseball nine. The Watsessing team is a strong one and was counted to give the Orange team a hard rub. The Orange A. C. goes to Montclair this afternoon, however, to play the Montclair A. C. Orange wanted a game on their home grounds and so invited the Riverdales out to meet the other team. The management of the Orange A. C. is so pleased with the showing that the Riverdale team has made that that team was selected to play today in preference to all the others.

Games Played Yesterday

At Chicago:

New York..	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—0
Chicago.....	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	—1

Base hits, New York 3, Chicago 5. Errors, New York 0, Chicago 2. Batteries, Grady and Meekin, Donohue and Griffith.

At Louisville:

Baltimore...	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	—2
Louisville...	0	0	2	0	1	0	1	0	0	—4

Batteries, Maul and Robinson; Dowling and Kittridge. Base hits, Baltimore 7, Louisville 8. Errors, Baltimore 1, Louisville 1.

At Cincinnati:

Philadelphia	2	0	0	2	1	2	0	0	1	—8
Cincinnati..	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	—1

Batteries, Pith and Murphy; Dwyer and Peitz. Base hits Philadelphia 13, Cincinnati 6. Errors, Philadelphia 2, Cincinnati 4.

At Pittsburg:

Boston.....	0	1	1	2	3	0	0	1	0	—8
Pittsburg...	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—0

Batteries, Nichols and Bergen; Hart and Schriver. Base hits, Boston 14, Pittsburg 4. Errors, Boston 0, Pittsburg 3.

How The Clubs Stand.

Clubs.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Boston	70	40	.638
Baltimore	67	39	.632
Cincinnati	72	42	.632
Cleveland	65	46	.586
New York	62	48	.564
Chicago	63	50	.558
Pittsburg	56	58	.491
Philadelphia	51	56	.477
Louisville	45	68	.398
Brooklyn	42	65	.393
Washington	40	71	.360
St. Louis	32	82	.281

CYCLING COMMENT.

A bicycle rider, scorching down South avenue yesterday afternoon toward this city with head down and the rim of his cap pulled down over his eyes, crashed into the rear end of a market wagon near Netherwood and wrecked his wheel. The cyclist struck one of the rear wheels of the wagon, or else he would probably have injured his head seriously.

GOLF.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Park Golf Club will be held shortly, at which definite arrangements will be made for the opening of the new links and at which the names for the different holes in the course will be given. A committee has already selected the names which will be approved by the board.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Some of the pedestrians who happened to be on East Front street Saturday evening were treated to a little comedy that was not on the bill. It was all very funny to the lookers on, but the participant didn't find it quite so enjoyable. It was what might be termed a monologue in pantomine. A young woman, who was visiting in a Plainfield home, was offered a watermelon if she could carry it back to the home where she was staying. The offer was made as a joke by a friend, but she determined to have the laugh on him and accepted. Not having had many similar experiences with the striped melons she did not realize what she had undertaken. Now there is nothing quite so awkward to handle as a large melon. She first tried carrying it under her arm, but somehow it wouldn't stay and threatened to summarily end its existence with a suicidal leap on the sidewalk. Then she enfolded it with both arms, but the melon was a slippery creature and suddenly bobbed up against her chin. Her attempts to maintain her dignity and the melon at the same time were truly exciting, and every moment threatened to see the last of both. Finally, after many trials, the melon was safely landed at its destination, and was hugely enjoyed by the victorious young woman and her friends.

* * * * *

There is hardly a person in Plainfield who is not greatly interested in the American fleet that has just returned from Cuban waters to be overhauled at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and put in order before going to sea again. Already there have been a goodly number of Plainfielders who have visited the Navy Yard and gone on board the different men-of-war there. There are many more who expect to go later or would go if they only knew how to do so. Of course, there is nothing difficult about getting to the Navy Yard, but the trouble is in getting in. It is necessary to have a permit and if you don't know how to get it, then trouble awaits you. All that is necessary to secure the permit is to have the one desirious of going write to Captain Summers, Brooklyn Navy Yard, asking for permission for writer and friends to visit the ships now in the Navy Yard. No permit is issued but the letter is sent back bearing the official stamp and signed by the commandant, Captain Summers, and all that is necessary to do is to present the letter which makes a very satisfactory "open sesame" to the mysteries of the Government Navy Yard. Those who prefer to visit the ships as they lay at anchor off Tompkinsville can easily reach them by one of the fleet of launches that now line the shore in the neighborhood. No permit is required to go on board them between the hours of 10 o'clock in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Sadie B. Rockafellow is very ill at her home on West Front street. Dr. Tomlinson is in attendance.

GAIL BORDEN EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK

HAS NO EQUAL AS AN INFANT FOOD.

"INFANT HEALTH" SENT FREE. N.Y. CONDENSED MILK CO. NEW YORK

THE SMITHS PICNIC.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

appropriate to the occasion. The Smiths gathered under the trees while an old Dutch banner, which is always swung to the breeze on the occasion of the Smith picnic, was an evidence of how the first Smiths came to this country. Isaiah Smith presided over the exercises.

Rev. J. A. Wells, who gained considerable notoriety two years ago by running for Congress in the Third district on the Free Silver ticket, but who is now editor of the Bernardsville News, which is read by many Smiths, delivered the principal address of the occasion. The political parson eschewed politics and dwelt on the noble record of the Smith family. He referred in glowing terms to how the Smiths were renowned in all the walks of life, from the bloody fields of battle to the peaceful pursuit of tilling the soil. No matter, he said, where the Smiths were found, they were always up with the procession. No Smith had yet occupied the White House, but that didn't show that they wouldn't some time, but anyhow they had done their share in making other men occupants of the White House. Rev. Mr. Wells ended with a fine peroration about the Smiths, and when he sat down the Smiths yelled with delight.

Other remarks were made by Rev. Dr. J. E. Smith, pastor of the Methodist church at New Germantown; Rev. Dr. J. E. Appley, of Basking Ridge, and Abner Smith, secretary of the Smith Family Association.

After the band had played several patriotic tunes and the Smiths were filled with good words about themselves the exercises were concluded. Then came the time of separating the Smiths into family groups, which was no easy job. A few of the younger Smiths couldn't be found by their Pa and Ma Smiths, and many a distracted Smith was to be seen skurrying here and there looking for the lost children. After two hours, however, the Smiths got together and went home to wait for the twenty-third gathering next year.

THE COURTS

JUSTICE MOSHER.

Case settled—Adair against Reed, out of court.

Summons issued—In the case of McCann against Shaffer, on contract, returnable September 7th.

Death of Thaddeus Horan.

The death of Thaddeus Horan, aged seventy-nine years, occurred yesterday. The funeral services will be held from his late home, 420 West Seventh street, corner of New street, Friday morning, at 9 o'clock from the house and 9:30 from St. Mary's church.

Death of an Infant.

The death of Frank W., infant son of Frank and Elizabeth Ebert, occurred yesterday at the residence of his parents, 414 East Fourth street. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

A Dime Sociable.

A dime sociable was held at the home of Mrs. William H. Thompson, of Liberty street, last evening. A very pleasant time was enjoyed. About forty were present.

HE DECLINED WITHOUT THANKS.

The Diner Didn't Want Mustard Regardless of the Opinion of the Actor.

Charles Matthews, the celebrated English comedian, was the unhappy possessor of a morbid sensibility to things which most people would consider too insignificant to notice, says the Detroit Free ress. Having an appointment with a friend, Matthews arrived at the inn where they were to meet some time in advance. Upon entering the dining-room he found its sole occupant, a commercial gentleman, earnestly enjoying a round of boiled beef. Matthews sat down by the fire and took up a newspaper, meaning to while away the time until his friend should appear. Occasionally he glanced from the paper to the beef and from the beef to the man until he began to fidget. Pretending to stop reading, he addressed the gentleman in a tone of indignation, illdisguised, and with a forced smile, he said: "I beg your pardon, sir, but I don't think you are aware that you have no mustard."

The pardon addressed looked up in surprise, mentally resenting this gratuitous interference with his tastes, and bowed coldly. Matthews again resumed his paper, but curious to see if his well-meant hint had been acted upon, furtively looked over his paper, and finding the plate still void of mustard concluded that the man was deaf. So raising his voice to a tone of sarcastic ascerbity, he said, with syllabic precision, "Are—you—aware—sir—that you— are— eating—boiled—beef—without—mustard?"

Again a stiff bow and no reply. Once more Matthews affected to read, though in reality he was nursing his wrath. At last, seeing the man's obstinate violation of conventionality and good taste, he jumped up and in a most arbitrary and defiant manner snatched the mustard pot, banged it down under the defauter's eyes and and shouted:

"Confound it, sir, you shall take mustard!" after which shot he abruptly left the room.

DR. LYMAN BEECHER'S HABITS.

His Peculiar Way of Making Notes for His Sermons.

Dr. Lyman Beecher's peculiar habits, shown by his method of preparing sermons, are illustrated in Annie Field's latest book, "The Life and Letters of Harriet Beecher Stowe." In her words:

"If he was to preach in the evening he was to be seen all day talking with whoever would talk, accessible to all, full of everybody's affairs, business, and burdens, till an hour or two before the time, when he would rush up into his study (which he always preferred should be the topmost room of the house), and throwing off his coat, after a swing or two with the dumbbells to settle the balance of his muscles, he would sit down and dash ahead, making quantities of hieroglyphic notes on small stubbed bits of paper, about as big as the palm of his hand. The bells would begin to ring and still he would write. They would tell loud and long, and his wife would say, 'He will certainly be late,' and then would be running up and down stairs of messengers to see that he was finished, till, just as the last stroke of the bell was dying away, he would emerge from the study with his coat very much awry, and come down the stairs like a hurricane, stand impatiently, protesting while female hands that ever lay in wait adjusted his cravat and settled his coat collar, calling loudly the while for a pin to fasten together the stubbed little bits of paper aforesaid, which being duly dropped into the crown of his hat, and hooking wife or daughter like a satchel on his arm, away he would start on such a race through the streets as left neither brain nor breath till the church was gained. Then came the process of getting in through crowded aisles wedged up with heads, as, with a matter-of-fact, business-like push, he elbowed his way through them and up to the pulpit stairs."

HOW HE MADE HIS FORTUNE.

The Gold Country Has Opportunities Outside of the Yellow Metal.

A young man lately went West, as so many do, to seek his fortune in the gold and silver districts. Thousands were dreaming of the gold and silver veins and of the wealth of Monte Cristo or Croesus. But this fellow, after looking about him, took a cool survey of the food possibilities of this country for one year. And he discovered that the market would be short on that homely vegetable, onions. So he set to work and bought up onions. In fact, he cornered onions. And in less than two years he made a fortune of over $2,000,000. Yet there are people who persist in talking about "luck," and who like to see the new moon over the right shoulder. It is not the opportunity which counts, but the man or the woman.

A fin-de-siecle wit recently called life a "sucked orange." So it is for those who wait for something to turn up. The thing is to go out and turn something up; not to think that life owes us a living, but to think that we owe life a living, the best living we are capable of. How unresponsive unsuggestive, dead, a mind must be which could call life a "sucked orange"—life, the greatest of gifts, the one thing which is itself one vast opportunity.—Ellen Duvall, in Lippincott's.

Couldn't Tell the Politics.

Here is a story characteristic of the late Charles A. Dana: John R. McLean, candidate for President, for the Senate, for Governor of Ohio and any old thing, owner and editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer and millionaire resident of Washington, one-time owner of the New York Journal, which cost him $200,000 in three or four weeks, telegraphed to his New York correspondent (at that time Charles S. Scanlan) instructions to get an interview with Mr. Dana, on his attitude in politics. Mr. Scanlan put the question briefly and directly, and Mr. Dana's reply was, "Read the editorials in the Sun." "But, Mr. Dana," Scanlan protested, "I do read the editorials in the Sun every day, and to save my soul I can't tell anything about your politics." Looking over the rim of his spectacles the great editor said: Mr. Scanlan, damned if you aren't right. I don't believe I know where we stand."

Old "Auntie" Wasn't Impressed.

"When I was first married," says the Rev. Dr. Lorimer, pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston, "I had my strict ideas about Sunday observance. Mrs. Lorimer had a colored 'aunty' for cook, and on the first Saturday after she came I went into the kitchen and told her I did not want any Sunday work, so she could prepare all meals for that day beforehand. She didn't say one word while I was talking; then she looked up, and, pointing to the door, exclaimed: 'Now, look hyar, Marse George, you jest go in dar and 'tend to your Christianity and leave me tend to mah kitchen!' I went, and as near as I can remember she had hot dinners Sundays as long as she stayed with us."

His Explanation.

A countryman wandering about a churchyard came upon a stone having the inscription: "Sic transit gloria mundi." "What does it mean?" he asked of the sexton, who had been explaining the inscriptions to him. The sexton peered toward it, and not wishing to show any ignorance, replied: "Well, it means that he was sick transiently, and went to glory Monday morning."—Harper's Bazar.

"Bridget, does your mistress assist you in cooking?"

"Yis, very much."

"How does she do it?"

"By kaping out of the kitchen."—What to Eat.

A Compliment for the Bishop.

"The natives of Mount Desert Island," says the Syracuse Standard, "have acquired the habit of naming children after some of the notable summer visitors who pass the season in their beautiful villages. Bishop Doane, of Albany, is the most notable figure in Northeast Harbor in summer, and one day last year the venerable Bishop met a group of romping boys, whose faces were strange to him, and he stopped them with a kindly greeting and asked each his name. They had all answered but one bright-eyed little lad, who stood with his curly head thrown proudly back and his hands down deep in his knickerbockers.

"'And what might your name be, my little fellow?' said the Bishop, with a gracious smile.

"'My name,' replied the little fellow, with an air of great importance, 'is Bishop Doane.' And laughingly patting the boy's head, the Bishop of Albany passed on, smiling to himself."

The Last and Deepest Price Cut in our Summer Clothing.

The season is well advanced. There is no denying of it, and it is high time for summer suits and trousers, and in fact all summer goods, to be sold. We depend upon the power of price to do the work. Just read these prices. Have you known their equal anywhere?

Men's suits at $3 50, formerly $7 and $8. Men's pants in clay diagonal and fancy stripes, some extra sizes in the lot, at $1.50, formerly from $2.50 to $3.50. Men's odd coats and vests at $3, formerly $6 to $7.50. Men's odd coats 50c to $1, formerly from $1 to $3. Men's odd vests, all wool, at 50c, formerly from $1 to $1.50. Men's fur felt derby and alpine hats, 50c, real values $1 to $2. Boys' long pants, all wool, $1, worth $2 Boys' long pants suits, sizes from 13 to 18, at $2.50, worth $6. Men's clay diagonal suits, 18 ounce, worth $15, at $6.90. Men's fancy worsted suits, all wool, worth $16, at $5.75. Men's fine cheviot suits, brown or gray, fine finish, worth $14, at $4.25. An elegant business suit, all wool, at $3.75, worth $10. Working pants at 59c, worth $1.25 Men's dress shirts at 35c, with extra cuffs.

Hundreds of other bargains. Remember, we guarantee our goods as represented or your money back.

This sale will begin August 13th, for one week only.

Don't miss it, it will pay you to come.

New York Clothing Co.,

M. WEINBERGER, MANAGER,

214 West Front St. Next door to Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J.

The Only Place to buy Keyler's is Leggett's Pharmacy, Y. M. C. A. Building.

Telephone No. 4.

LAIRE'S SPECIAL THIS WEEK.

High grade Clothes Wringer, very low.
Wash Benches.
Wash Boards.
Wash Tubs.
Clothes Baskets.
Clothes Pins.
Tomato Cans, 45c. dozen.
Preserving Kettles.
Mason's Jar Rubbers.
Lightning Jar Rubbers.
The famous "Black Jack" Stove Polish, 10c.

TELEPHONE CALL 682.

The J. P. Laire Hardware Co.

Ladies desiring KNIFE-PLEATING or PINKING done, will please leave orders with Mrs. Force, 201 Watchung avenue, and it will receive prompt attention. 10 26tf

Mid-Summer Clearance.

The enemy of the shoe trade is the carrying over of stock from year to year until it gets clear off style. It deceives customers. It disgusts clerks. It turns profit into loss. Hence goods of summer fashion are to go before August 31st. We'd rather have the cash than to carry over the goods, besides we want the room for fall stock.

Every man, woman and child can be interested in this sale, as shoes for everybody is our business.

M. C. VanARSDALE,

REPAIRING PROPERLY DONE. 127 EAST FRONT ST.

HANAN & SON'S TAN GOODS - $3.89

A. WILLETT & SON,

No. 107 Park Ave.

E. E. Marshall & Co.

167 North Ave.

Slash, Slice, Carve!

These are not the days to get or even ask fancy prices for wall paper, no matter how fancy the wall paper. But we go ourselves one better and annihilate our former extremely low prices on all of our popular wall papers. It is a story in a very few words—the figures on the wall paper, and for it tell their own tale. Now is the time to save money by calling on the above firm to do your painting and paper hanging.

-:PUTNAM & DEGRAW:-

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS.

8-oz. Bottle Florida Water	10c	4-oz. Bottle Violet Saltz -	10c
8-oz. " Bay Rum -	10c	White Rose Soap 10c, 3 for	25c
6-oz. " Vaseline - -	5c	Tar Soap, large cake -	5c

EDUCATIONAL.

The Plainfield Academy,

309 EAST FRONT ST.

Primary, Intermediate, Collegiate, Manual and Art Departments.

Such a combination is offered by no other private school in Plainfield. "A word to the wise is sufficient." J. DALZIEL, Principal.

MISS C. S. HELLWIG, Professor of Languages, will return to Plainfield beginning of September from Europe. All letters addressed care Plainfield School of Languages will be forwarded to her. 6 22 3m

Piano, Clavier and Theory,

Taught by Miss Sarah A. Palmer,

Harmony, musical form, sight reading, ear training and correct technic, to every pupil. Special harmony course includes work from both given basses and given melodies. Studio —123 EAST SIXTH ST., Plainfield, N. J

LESSONS RESUMED SEPTEMBER 12th.

Miss Scribner & Miss Green's SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND KINDERGARTEN.

Primary, Intermediate and Academic Departments. Pupils admitted to Wellesley on certificate.

303 LAGRANDE AVE. 5 31 6m

RE-OPENS SEPT. 15, 1898.

PLAINFIELD BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Four courses—Commercial, Shorthand, English and Art Ten per cent discount on scholarship if purchased now. Address A. A. Phelps, A. M., President, Plainfield, N. J.

NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL (35 Nassau St., New York City) "Dwight Method" of Instruction. Students may take Day School (Nassau St.) or Evening School (9 West 13th St.) LL.B. in two years; LL.M. in three years. Special lectures in New Jersey practice. Send for catalogue.

8 1 2m-eod GEORGE CHASE, Dean.

MISS HELEN L. HALE

receives pupils for private instruction in the ENGLISH BRANCHES, FRENCH AND LATIN.

Delicate children and such as require special coaching will be given particular attention. Also classes in English literature will be formed. Applications may be made to MISS HALE, 120 Crescent avenue. 8 22 5w eod

PLAINFIELD SEMINARY,

123 West Seventh St.

Will Re-open Thursday, SEPTEMBER 15, 1898.

Thirty-first year.

Principals: MISS KENYON, MISS ARNOLD.

MISS FAWCETT'S School and Kindergarten,

29 Washington Avenue, North Plainfield.

WILL RE-OPEN THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15. 8 22 2m

80 000 CIGARS of our own manufacture to select from. Why go out of city to purchase. Retail dealers will find it to their advantage to examine stock and prices.

M. C. DOBBINS, 206 Park Avenue, Plainfield.

8 15 tf

H. Eggerding,

121 Park Ave., Manufacturer of the Celebrated

C. O. D. CIGAR,

The best 5c cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana. Clear Havana cigars a specialty. A large assortment of the choicest brands of domestic cigars

WM. D. THICKSTUN

Real Estate and Insurance, 197 North avenue

Hello?

Hello Partner!

How is it Fred Endress sells the BEST Broiler and Roasting CHICKEN for 20c. lb. Because he gets them right from the farm.

131-135 W. Front St. Branch 208 Liberty St.

CITY MILLS.

P. M. FRENCH, OWNER.

24 Somerset St.

NEAR FRONT.

FEED, GRAIN AND HAY.

Not at cost, but very near it.

TELEPHONE No. 24.

MONDAY MORNING

or any other morning when you come down town you will find our pharmacy a convenient place to purchase drug and toilet supplies.

We have many things in stock that are desirable and not commonly kept. Those things you may especially want, if not already at hand, we will order for you.

POWERS' PHARMACY.

Somerset St. & Craig Pl.

Safe Deposit Vaults

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Capital.....$200,000.
Surplus and Profits.....$ 90,000.

J. W. JOHNSON, Pres. F. S. DUNYON, Cashier.
H. M. ESTIL, Vice " D. M. DUNYON, Ass't

DIRECTORS:

Charles Potter, Wm. McD. Coriell.
P. M. French, H. Mulford Estil.
Wm. M. Stillman, Isaac W. Bushmore.
J. W. Johnson, Wm. R. Coddington.
F. S. Dunyon.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

Boxes to Rent from $5 and Upwards per annum.

VALUABLES TAKEN on STORAGE.

MONEY TO LOAN—Bring deed or send full particulars of property. Farms to sell on payments or exchange for good town property. 140 acres $4,500; 62 acres, first-class buildings, ½ mile from trolley, $3,500; 7 acres elegant buildings, 1 mile from Plainfield, $2,500. Send 2c stamp for The Review. I. L. LaRue, Plainfield, N. J., Real Estate and Insurance.